

BOSTON
MEDICAL LIBRARY
8 THE FENWAY

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2010 with funding from Open Knowledge Commons and Harvard Medical School

<http://www.archive.org/details/handbookofmateri00alle>

A

HANDBOOK

OF

MATERIA MEDICA

AND

HOMŒOPATHIC THERAPEUTICS

BY

TIMOTHY FIELD ALLEN, A.M., M.D., LL.D.

PROFESSOR OF MATERIA MEDICA AND THERAPEUTICS IN THE NEW YORK HOMŒOPATHIC MEDICAL COLLEGE AND HOSPITAL;
FELLOW OF THE NEW YORK ACADEMY OF SCIENCES; HONORARY MEMBER OF THE HOMŒOPATHIC MEDICAL SOCIETY OF FRANCE; CORRESPONDING MEMBER OF THE BRITISH HOMŒOPATHIC MEDICAL SOCIETY, ETC.

PHILADELPHIA
F. E. BOERICKE
HAHNEMANN PUBLISHING HOUSE
1889

6
7
309
1889

Copyright by F. E. BOERICKE, 1889.

ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.

PREFACE.

THE preparation of this Handbook was commenced immediately after the completion of the Encyclopedia, and in accordance with a desire, strongly and unanimously expressed by a number of prominent physicians at a dinner given by the publishers to the Author of that work, to possess a condensed volume for ready reference. The first labor undertaken was to correct the errors and supply the omissions which to some extent marred the Encyclopedia; this work proved to be gigantic, involving, as it did, a review of nearly every symptom in comparison with the originals; the whole Encyclopedia could, almost as well, have been re-cast.

To this revised material have been added most of the provings and many cases of poisoning which have accumulated during the past ten years, omitting only such as seemed to rest upon a doubtful basis or which would not be of any practical value. A number of drugs included in the Encyclopedia have been omitted in the Handbook by reason of their inutility or unreliability (for example, the provings of Mure and Houatt), since scarcely any of them have been found valuable; all of Houatt's contributions have been thrown aside on account of their inherent improbability: the "Lacs" have been left to Dr. Swan's announced Materia Medica of the Nosodes, to which also Hydrophobinum, Syphilinum, et cetera, have been referred. This procedure has been forced upon the Author by the necessity to provide the profession with a working handbook; but should the work find so much favor that a new edition be called for, the wishes of the profession generally would be considered in adding some of the drugs that have been omitted, especially if these shall have proved themselves reliable. The material thus selected has been condensed in accordance with a system uniformly adhered to, omitting nothing important and avoiding repetition.

The following example will serve to illustrate the method employed.

Under Agaricus, as condensed:

Vertex.—Stitches; itching. Tearing; lancinating, to l. ear. Aching; morning; morning, > after rising; at night; > open air; pulsating, with despair bordering on rage. Same not condensed:

Stitches in vertex. Itching stitches in vertex. Tearing in vertex. Lancinating tearing in vertex, extending to left ear. Aching in vertex. Aching in vertex in morning. Aching in vertex in morning, relieved after rising. Aching in vertex at night. Aching in vertex, relieved in open air. Pulsating pain in vertex, with despair bordering on rage.

In the above paragraph all symptoms belong to the Vertex. In the first period only Stitches. In the second period, Tearings. In the third period all are Achings; but each semicolon closes a symptom; thus Aching in the vertex at night is not said to be $>$ in the open air; but the Aching in the vertex $>$ open air is a separate semicolon and a separate symptom. In the last semicolon the "pulsating" still refers to the aching, which dominates the whole period; the last period might read as follows:

Vertex, Aching.

" " in morning.
 " " " $>$ after rising.
 " " at night.
 " " $>$ open air.
 " " —pulsating, with despair, etc.

This plan of making a dominating sensation cover a whole period, and dividing that period into semicolons for each symptom, affords a good method of condensation. It is confidently believed that no confusion will arise from following this plan.

In some places very long paragraphs have been divided even when the whole refer to one locality.

The sensations have been arranged in accordance with the general idea of the Encyclopedia of giving first in a paragraph the objective symptoms, namely, those to be apprehended by the observer alone, including the appearance, the motions or lack of motion, et cetera; second, the sensations arranged in the order of acuteness: sharp pains first, followed by dull pains or sensations.

Very few signs or abbreviations have been used:

$<$, means getting worse from, aggravated by, or sometimes simply worse.

" $<$ r. side" means "worse on the right side."

$>$, means getting better, et cetera.

r. means right.

l. means left.

The initial letter of a dominating word is sometimes repeated to avoid the possibility of confusion.

Comparisons of each drug have been made with a few of its allies, but it has been deemed advisable to limit these to a very few. Comparison is often confounded with contrast, and to attempt both would greatly swell the size of the book, without any increase of its usefulness; the limited number of comparisons admitted will be found reliable and a real help to those not quite satisfied with the remedy under inspection and looking for one generally similar to it and to the case in hand.

The clinical sections have given the author a great amount of tribulation. To sift the enormous mass of reported cures is no light task; much has been rejected, some modified and admitted after comparison with the observations of the most careful prescribers. There is no doubt that much fault can be found, with admissions as well as with rejections; doubtless some reliable clinical indications have escaped notice, but it is believed that what is here gathered fairly represents the therapeutic range of our drugs as at present known.

Much might be said concerning the reliability of our symptomatology; the errors that have been perpetuated from year to year in old material, and in new material obtained by faulty methods, are well known. There is no doubt that some of even Hahnemann's symptoms were observed in the sick, both as apparent results of drug action and as probable cures; it is also true that most provers have allowed themselves to record, as effects of drugs taken for experiment, symptoms which would have arisen spontaneously or which were "suggestions" of a mind watching for such effects. There is no doubt that many if not most symptoms have been observed in only one or two persons as the effect of a drug, and that many of these would fail of confirmation by repeated experiment, but after all these allowances have been made there remains a good and true pathogenesis sufficient for a working materia medica and capable of justifying itself by unfailling results when put to the test of homœopathic therapeutics. Numerous provings, each consisting of but a single observation, even the result of but a single dose, appeal to our knowledge of the effects of analogous drugs as genuine; they must be utilized, their symptoms guide us unerringly to the saving of life, and they cannot be discarded. We acknowledge the lack of accuracy in observation, the failure of confirmation required for scientific accuracy; we are cognizant of the absolute necessity of rebuilding the whole symptomatology from the very foundation, but during the years, or rather, generations which will elapse till this be done, we must cure the sick as best we may, and use sometimes doubtful material to accomplish our results. During this interim we must endeavor to keep separate the probably pure pathogenesis and the merely clinical history of each drug, for by doing this our pathogenesis will undergo a slow regeneration, good observations will replace the bad and our therapeutics will rest upon an ever-increasingly strong foundation.

The arrangement of a symptomatology for daily work in therapeutics is a matter of the utmost importance. Attempts have been made to construct working materia medicas for homœopaths on the plan of grouping the symptoms of each prover by themselves, but they fail of ready usefulness and we find ourselves obliged to work on the lines of our great master, Hahnemann. The actual need is a grouping of symptoms under the regions of the body, and under rubrics so that the symptoms of our patients may readily be compared with those of a drug thought to be applicable. We are compelled to prescribe for symptoms, and drug-symptoms must constantly be compared with those of the patient. It is rarely possible to find identity of expression between patient and prover; even the designation of similar pains varies; frequently the peculiar pain of the sick person has never been experienced by any prover in exactly the same locality, but drug-analogies may be followed and a remedy successfully selected. The necessity of looking through the symptoms referred to any locality constantly forces itself upon us. The "Schema" of Hahnemann must then be followed for all ordinary work. For extraordinary symptoms repertories of various sorts are needed; usually Bœminghausen's method can be followed, namely, get the drugs affecting the part, get the drugs causing the particular sensation noted, get the conditions; then turn to the "Schema" and see which of the selected drugs applies best to the patient. Sometimes also we feel the need of some sort of a concordance to hunt up remarkable symptoms.

Systematic study of a drug requires a very different sort of an arrangement; for this the student needs to consult impartially all provings which have been made in good faith, to note the evolution of drug-effects, to compare the day books of the different provers, and to determine, if possible, the true characters of the drug-disease. A full collection of all provings would be most valuable.

In the study of provings or of the "Schema" it should be kept constantly in mind that just as groups of symptoms vary in individuals sick with any definite "disease," pathologically considered, so the groupings of symptoms in the provings vary, and it is extremely rare, if indeed it has ever happened, to find the total symptoms of any patient paralleled by those of any prover. While it is even infrequent to get the total of any patient out of all the provers, it is constantly necessary to make up the nearest possible to the total from several provers, and it really matters not where the individual symptoms come from, so they be reliable; even parts of symptoms may be pieced together, a pain here, a locality there, a condition from another or from several (the "condition" should dominate the whole), to complete the picture and the cure. Hence it follows that in condensing our symptomatology great liberties may be taken, if only the exact meaning be preserved. Liberties have not been taken, after this fashion, in the preparation of this book, but smaller books could readily and safely be made from this by condensing after the above method.

The Selection of the Remedy.

The first duty of the therapist is to note carefully and completely the various complaints of his patient and add thereto his own observations concerning his condition, that is to say, he must get all of the subjective and objective symptoms. This duty is frequently quite apart from that performed in making a diagnosis and requires quite a different line of investigation; this duty may, indeed, be performed without making a diagnosis, though it is not wise to attempt it. Having "taken the case," one sets about finding the remedy which corresponds most closely to the symptoms. Three things must be done before this Handbook is consulted: (1) get a list of the drugs which affect the localities complained of by the patient; (2) get a list of the drugs which correspond to the sensations, and (3) get the drugs which have the same aggravations and ameliorations. The importance of these groups is inverse to the order above mentioned; the last is most important. These lists are to be obtained from the "Pocket-book of Therapeutics," based on Bœnninghausen's work.

Select from these lists those drugs which occur most frequently, compare their symptoms in the Handbook with those of the patient, and select the drug which best covers the case. These directions are simple, easily followed by any one, whether educated or not, and will frequently lead to success. It must, however, be remembered that there are great and important differences in the symptoms of the sick, not only as regards their influence over a diagnosis, but also as regards their importance in influencing the choice of a remedy. It must also be recognized that a thorough knowledge of the peculiarities of a drug may lead to its selection, even if it may have but few of the symptoms of the patient. The above sort of knowledge distinguishes the "professional" from the un-professional therapist, the leader from the imitator.

In the case of the patient, it may be said that there are comparatively few simple diseases to prescribe for. Most symptom-lists are extremely complicated; in chronic complaints the observation that one organ after another has become involved furnishes series of symptoms from new foci, as it were, the lately developed symptoms often overpower and obscure previous affections; in acute diseases the immediate symptoms are complicated by a series of old chronic troubles which, likely as not, have so affected the vitality of the individual that the acute disease has become possible. In the latter case (frequently in scarlatina and the other so-called zymotic diseases), we find our patient unresponsive to the remedy selected for the most numerous and apparently important symptoms, and are compelled to fall back upon a careful analysis of a few chronic troubles.

It seems to be true that an individual, free from inherited and acquired disease, will not be affected by any zymosis whatever, and that a person sick with a zymotic disease will, if freed from the incubus of his chronic complaint, speedily recover. In such a case, then, we may safely say that the totality of the symptoms is not to be regarded.

Still we must prescribe very frequently for a few severe and distressing symptoms, and postpone for a time the investigation of the past history and present complications of the malady. This symptom-palliation is usually followed by most practitioners to the exclusion of thorough work in therapeutics, but he who practices it exclusively or even habitually is liable to administer as many different medicines as there are urgent symptoms, and finally to resort to physiological palliation and become almost wholly empirical in his practice.

In these acute diseases a knowledge of the nature of the morbid process enables the expert to separate the symptoms due to the recent malady from those which are contingent and individual and which must be considered most seriously. In the vast majority of cases the most brilliant cures are made and life actually saved by the selection of a remedy which corresponds to the fewer individual rather than to the more numerous generic symptoms. Herein lies the secret of getting at what is characteristic in the patient.

In chronic diseases the conditions are somewhat different, and as a rule the symptoms are less complicated, but it frequently becomes necessary to exercise great partiality toward a few symptoms to the exclusion of the many. In most of the chronic maladies which show no tendency to recover, but rather to involve one organ after another, the original symptoms become obscured. For example, in cancer, the tumor, with its destructive metamorphoses, has developed from the underlying cachexia which has determined its manifestations. This secondary development gives rise to new and obtrusive symptoms which may entirely mask the real disease. Consumption develops from the scrofulous habit. The Lithæmic diathesis gives rise to a host of degenerative changes in various organs and tissues which develop new sets of symptoms. In all of these and other similar diseases it becomes our duty to investigate thoroughly the nature of the morbid processes, to study the evolution of the malady and separate the symptoms into groups. While it may be true that the absolute totality of all the symptoms would include the original, determining and essential symptoms of the case, yet he who fails to grasp the full significance of all the symptoms will fail to appreciate the overpowering value of the few. It is then necessary to get at what is characteristic in the patient in all forms of sickness.

Drugs must be studied in much the same way; provings are to be followed step by step as they develop in the day books of the provers. Unfortunately the earlier provers have given us no day books, and too many of the later disciples have followed their example; but when possible study the originals and note the peculiarities of each drug, observe the predominating sensations, study the conditions under which these sensations appear or are modified, note the organs affected; this study is to be pursued during quiet hours, and need not be associated with the selection of a remedy for a patient.

In the selection of the remedy it must always be remembered that there is no specific for a "disease," that the symptoms only of the sick are to be treated, and that these symptoms vary in each individual. It may also be recognized that these groups of symptoms, varying so constantly in individuals, are to be met by varying groups of drug symptoms, and that these groups must be made up from different provers. The recognition of this fact determines the arrangement of our symptomatology for practical work in therapeutics; it seems clear that in no other way can homœopathy be practiced successfully.

Nothing need be said concerning the size of the dose further than it bears upon the relative value of symptoms. It is contended by some that the order of evolution of symptoms in provers varies with the amount of drug taken, and that this has a bearing upon the size of dose of the drug to be administered to the sick who suffer from symptoms which appear in a similar way.

It may be said in reply that the practical experience of the best prescribers negatives such a hypothesis, and it may further be asserted that there is no fixed order of evolution either in prover or patient. Provers vary greatly in their susceptibility to drugs, and any given amount of a drug may be large relatively to the sensitiveness of one prover and small as regards the sensitiveness of another, so that the order of evolution of effects is constantly changing. The same is true of the sick; a dose large for one individual is small for another, and the only guide to the size of dose for any patient is his individual susceptibility to drugs in general or to any particular drug at any particular time. It has been fully established by experience that it matters not (for therapeutics) by what sort of dose an effect has been produced; only let a symptom be reliable, it will be cured by different doses for different people. The amount of drug necessary to produce it varies with the susceptibility of the prover, the amount needed for its removal varies with the susceptibility of the patient.

It is confidently hoped that this Handbook will contribute to the more certain application of homoeopathic therapeutics to the symptoms of the sick, by the critical examination of which the best results are to be attained.

NEW YORK, April, 1889.

REMEDIES.

PAGE.	PAGE.	PAGE.	PAGE.
Abies canadensis, 1	Arsenicum met., 133	Capsicum, 274	Cucurbita, 438
“ nigra, 1	“ sul. flav. 134	Carbo an., 277	Cundurango, 438
Abrotanum, 1	Arum dracunc., 134	“ veg., 282	Cuprum, 439
Absinthium, 2	“ dracont. 134	Carbolic acid, 289	Curare, 443
Acalypha indica, 3	“ ital., 135	Carbon sulph., 294	Cyclamen, 446
Acetic acid, 3	“ mac., 135	Carduus mar., 300	Datura ferox, 450
Aconitum, 3	“ triphyllum, 135	Caulophyllum, 301	Digitalis, 450
“ ferox, 14	Asafoetida, 136	Causticum, 302	Dioscorea, 456
Aconitinum, 14	Asarum, 140	Ceanothus, 312	Dirca, 462
Actæa spicata, 15	Asclepias corn., 143	Cedron, 312	Dolichos, 464
Æsculus hipp., 16	“ tuber., 143	Cereum ox., 314	Drosera, 464
Æthusa, 18	Asimina, 145	Chamomilla, 314	Duboisia, 466
Agaricus mus., 19	Asparagus, 145	Chelidonium, 321	Dulcamara, 467
Agnus castus, 30	Asterias, 146	Chenopodium, 332	Elaps, 470
Ailanthus, 32	Astragalus menz., 147	Chimaphila, 332	Elaterium, 471
Aletris, 33	Atropinum, 148	China, 332	Epiphegus, 472
Allium cepa, 34	Aurum, 152	Chininum ars., 340	Equisetum, 472
Alnus, 37	“ mur., 156	“ sulf., 340	Erigeron, 474
Aloe, 37	“ nat., 157	Chloralum, 347	Eryngium, 474
Alstonia scholaris, 42	Badiaga, 159	Chlorum, 349	Eucalyptus, 475
Alum, 42	Baptisia, 160	Chromic acid, 350	Euonymus, 476
Alumina, 44	Baryta acet., 162	Cicuta vir., 351	Eupatorium arom., 477
Ambra, 51	“ carb., 164	Cimicifuga, 355	“ perf., 477
Ammoniacum, 55	“ mur., 169	Cina, 358	“ purp., 478
Ammonium brom., 56	Belladonna, 169	Cinnabaris, 360	Euphorbium, 479
“ carb., 57	Benzoic acid, 180	Cinnamomum, 363	Euphrasia, 481
“ cauts., 63	Berberis, 182	Cistus, 363	Ferrum, 484
“ mur., 65	Bismuth, 193	Citric acid, 364	“ iod., 489
“ phos., 69	Boracic acid, 195	Clematis, 364	“ phos., 490
“ pic., 69	Borax, 195	Cobaltum, 370	Fluoric acid, 491
Amyl nit., 69	Bovista, 199	Coca, 371	Formica, 496
Anacardium, 71	Brachyglottis, 204	Cocaine, 375	Gambogia, 498
Anagallis, 77	Bromium, 205	Coccinella, 377	Gaultheria, 500
Angustura, 77	Bryonia, 210	Cocculus, 377	Gelsemium, 500
Anthemis nob., 77	Bufo, 223	Coccus cacti, 381	Gentiana cruce., 505
Antimonium arsen. 78	Caftus, 225	Codeinum, 388	“ lutea, 506
“ crud., 78	Cadmium sul., 227	Coffea cruda, 389	Ginseng, 507
“ sulp. aur., 81	Cainca, 228	“ tosta, 391	Glonoine, 509
“ et pot. tart., 83	Cajuputum, 229	Coffeinum, 392	Gnaphalium, 514
Antipyrine, 87	Caladium, 230	Colebicum, 392	Gossypium, 515
Apis, 87	Calcareo acet., 233	Collinsonia, 399	Granatum, 515
Apium grav., 93	“ carb., 235	Colocynthis, 400	Graphites, 517
Apocynum andros., 93	“ fluor., 245	Comocladia, 407	Gratiola, 524
“ cannab., 94	“ iod., 245	Conium, 411	Grindelia, 528
Apomorphinum, 95	“ phos., 246	Convallaria, 419	Guaicum, 529
Aralia racem., 96	Calendula, 250	Copaiva, 421	Hamamelis, 530
Aranea, 96	Calotropis, 250	Corallium rub., 423	Helleborus niger, 532
Argentum met., 97	Camphor, 251	Cornus circin., 424	Helonias, 536
“ nit., 101	“ brom., 256	“ florida, 425	Hepar, 538
Arnica, 108	Canchalagua, 256	Crocus, 426	Homarus, 543
Arsenicum alb., 114	Cannabis ind., 257	Crotalus, 428	Hydrangea, 544
“ hyd., 131	“ sat., 261	Croton tig., 433	Hydrastis, 544
“ iod., 132	Cantharis, 266	Cubeba, 437	Hydrocotyle, 547

	PAGE.		PAGE.		PAGE.		PAGE.
Hydrocyanic acid,	548	Mercurius,	698	Phytolacca,	880	Staphisagria,	1041
Hyoscyaminum,	550	“	corros.,	712	Picric acid,	884	Sticta,	1047
Hyoscyamus,	551	“	cyan.,	717	Piper methyst.,	887	Stillingia,	1047
Hypericum,	556	“	dulc.,	717	Plantago,	889	Stramonium,	1049
Ignatia,	559	“	iod. fl.,	718	Platinum,	893	Strophanthus,	1056
Iodoform,	565	“	iod. rub.,	721	“	mur.,	898	Sulfur,	1056
Iodum,	566	“	nit.,	723	Plumbum,	898	Sulphuric acid,	1080
Ipecacuanha,	571	Mezereum,	723	Podophyllum,	916	Sumbul,	1087
Iris vers.,	574	Millefolium,	733	Polyporus off.,	918	Tabacum,	1090
Jaborandi,	576	Morphinum,	734	Populus candicans,	919	Tanacetum,	1098
Jalapa,	577	Moschus,	737	Populus tremuloides	920	Taraxacum,	1099
Jatropha,	578	Murex,	740	Prunus spinosa,	920	Tarentula,	1100
Juglans cinerea,	580	Muriatic acid,	740	Psorinum,	922	“	cubensis,	1102
Juglans regia,	581	Myrica,	745	Pulsatilla,	925	Tartaric acid,	1102
Kali bichrom.,	582	Naja,	747	Ranunculus bulb.,	935	Tellurium,	1102
“	brom.,	Naphthaline,	750	“	sceI.,	938	Terebinthina,	1104
“	carb.,	Natrum ars.,	750	Raphanus,	940	Thallium,	1106
“	chlor.,	“	carb.,	755	Ratanhia,	944	Thea,	1107
“	iod.,	“	mur.,	764	Rheum,	946	Theridion,	1109
“	mur.,	“	phos.,	779	Rhododendron,	947	Thlaspi,	1110
“	nit.,	“	sulf.,	782	Rhus aromatica,	951	Thuja,	1110
Kalmia,	618	Nitric acid,	787	“	toxicodendron,	951	Trillium,	1123
Kreosotum,	620	Nux moschata,	796	Robinia,	963	Trombidium,	1124
Lachesis,	626	Nux vomica,	802	Rumex crispus,	964	Uranium,	1125
Lactuca,	637	Ocimum,	813	Ruta,	967	Urtica urens,	1125
Lappa,	637	Enanthe,	813	Sabadilla,	970	Usnea,	1126
Laurocerasus,	638	Enothera,	813	Sabina,	974	Ustilago,	1126
Ledum,	643	Oleander,	813	Salicylic acid,	977	Uva ursi,	1127
Leptandra,	649	Onosmodium,	816	Sambucus,	979	Valeriana,	1128
Lilium tig.,	649	Opium,	817	Sanguinaria,	980	Veratrum album,	1130
Lithium,	654	Osmium,	825	“	nitrate,	983	“	viride,	1136
Lobelia infl.,	656	Oxalic acid,	827	Santonine,	984	Verbascom,	1139
Lycopodium,	657	Oxytropis,	831	Sarsaparilla,	986	Vespa,	1141
Lycopus,	674	Pæonia,	832	Secale cornutum,	990	Viburnum opulus,	1142
Magnesia carb.,	674	Palladium,	833	Selenium,	995	Viburnum prunifo.,	1143
“	mur.,	Papaya,	835	Senecio,	997	Vinca,	1143
“	phos.,	Pareira,	836	Senega,	998	Viola tricolor,	1144
Magnolia grand.,	687	Paris quad.,	836	Sepia,	1001	Vipera,	1145
Manganum,	688	Petroleum,	838	Silica,	1014	Viscum,	1149
Marum verum,	692	Petroselinum,	844	Sinapis nigra,	1024	Wyethia,	1149
Melilotus,	694	Phellandrium,	844	Spigelia,	1025	Xanthoxylum,	1149
Mentha pip.,	695	Phosphoric acid,	847	Spongia,	1031	Zincum,	1151
Menyanthes,	696	Phosphorus,	853	Squilla,	1034	Zingiber,	1162
Mephitis,	698	Phosystigma,	874	Stannum,	1036	Zizia,	1164

MATERIA MEDICA

AND

THERAPEUTICS.

Abies Canadensis.

Common name, hemlock or hemlock spruce. Natural order: Coniferae. The fresh bark and young buds are bruised and mixed with double their weight of alcohol.

General Effects.—Weakness, faintness; lies with legs drawn up. Mood irritable. Head light; vertex feels congested. Mouth dry. Hunger, with rumbling in the bowels after eating; craving for meat, pickles and coarse food, with gnawing in the epigastrium. Thirst. Belching of wind. Distention of stomach, with burning in it. Weakness in epigastrium. The region of the liver feels hard, with a pain behind the r. scapula. Sick feeling in bowels, with an irritable feeling in the region of the spleen. Constipation. Burning in the rectum. Frequent micturition. Uterus has a soft, weak feeling, with soreness of the fundus, relieved by pressure. Respiration labored. Action of heart increased and labored. In sacral region a weak feeling. Night restless, with tossing about. During the day yawning and drowsiness. Cold shiverings as if the blood were ice-water. Chills run down the back. Feeling of cold water between the shoulders. Hands cold, shrunken. Skin clammy.

Compare with Abies nigra.

Abies Nigra.

A tree growing in northern United States and Canada, belonging to the Coniferae. A tincture is prepared by dissolving the gum in alcohol.

General Action.—As far as we are now able to judge from the provings, and from our clinical experience with this drug, its most marked effect is upon the digestion; and in disorders of the stomach its only laurels have been won. Most, if not all, of the symptoms hitherto observed are intimately associated with gastric disturbances.

Generalities.—Weariness. Bone pains (Eupat. perf.).

Mind.—Melancholy; nervous; unable to think; dull during the day, but wakeful at night.

Head.—Vertigo. Dull headache. Head and face hot (Bry.). Pain in l. ear.

Choking sensation in throat.

Hunger at noon and night; loss of appetite in morning (Nux v.); sensation of a hard-boiled egg in stomach; pain after eating (Bry., Nux v.); P. extending to l. side. Constipation.

Menstruation suppressed (Bry.).

Dyspnoea; worse on lying down; sense of suffocation as if one could not expand the lungs; sharp cutting pain in the heart; heart's action heavy and slow.

Pain in the small of the back.

Night restless, with bad dreams.

Coldness, alternating with heat.

Clinical.—The most characteristic indication for Abies in indigestion is the distress as if something were knotted up in the stomach. It has often proved curative in the dyspepsia resulting from the use of tea and tobacco.

Abrotanum.

The Southernwood (Artemisia Abrotanum, L.) is still cultivated in old gardens; a low shrub about three feet in height, with finely divided leaves of an intensely bitter taste. A tincture is prepared from the chopped and bruised leaves.

General Action.—The indications of a central disturbance (hyperemia) of the nervous system, producing anaesthesia and paralysis, are very marked; this is accompanied by neuralgic pains, which cause restlessness and are relieved by motion.

Group for Study.—Absinth., Rhus tox., Con., Gels., Caust., Argent. n., Phos., Cimicif., Zinc.

Generalities.—Trembling all over. (Argent. n., Cimicif., Gels.) Often unconsciously dropped the reins while driving. (Compare Con.) Pains in afternoon, with necessity to lie down, great sleepiness, but inability to sleep. P. in back, hips and knees, in afternoon. P. all day in side and back of neck and shoulders, limbs, back and hips, with numbness of arms and hands.

Darting pain in various parts of body and limbs; in various parts, in forenoon, most severe above and near r. elbow. Itching, then darting pains in different parts, most in lower lobes of lungs and below knees. Lameness, morning on waking, especially in back, muscular soreness on motion, with pain in back of neck, shoulders, r. side of chest and limbs, with lameness of r. hip, so as to cause limping.

Weakness, in forenoon, with lameness; weak, sickly feeling, with internal trembling when excited. Disposed to lie prone.

Mind.—Nervous, excited, loquacious, felt like shouting, good humored, happy. Taciturn, irritable, violent. Peevish, feels as if she would like to do something cruel. Desponding. Thinks her brain is softening. No capacity for thinking. Feebleness and dulness.

Head.—Aching; and fulness. Creeping chills along convolutions of brain, with prickling. L. brain seems especially weak, easily fatigued by conversation or mental effort. Head weak, could not hold it up. Squeezed feeling in temporal region. Pain in l. temple, morning on waking, continuing all forenoon. Scalp sore, < l. side. Itching of scalp.

Eyes.—Smarting in evening, with pain in l., and inability to open it.

Ears.—Wind rushes out of right. Humming like a bee, but when in bed a sound like distant talking, > listening intently, but returning as he turned his mind from it.

Nose.—Watery discharge.

Mouth.—Tongue sore. Mouth hot and dry, morpning on waking. Mouth dry and sore; sore, < night, with salivation; soreness mostly confined to gums near l., upper molars.

Throat.—Scraping.

Stomach.—Appetite poor. Gnawing hunger. Eructations of air tasting of the plant; of air tasting of salt mackerel in evening. Nausea; with sour eructations, in evening, with burning and soreness of stomach; felt sick all forenoon, > open air. Stomach sour. Burning like acidity. Heat; in epigastrium at night, with pain.

Abdomen.—Bloated and painful at 10 P.M.; bloated at midnight, so that it was difficult to walk or bend, and feeling as if bowels could be kept from passing out at anus only by keeping legs close together. Pain; all night, with several stools. P. and heat. Weak, sinking feeling (Gels., Phos.). P. in l. hypochondriac region, with empty eructations. P. in region of liver and kidneys, sick, sore, faint, almost amounting to faintness, with inability to walk in the street.

Anus and Stool.—Piles, becoming worse as the rheumatic pains abated, with frequent inclination to stool, hardly anything but blood being passed. Urgent desire for stool; with loose stools at 6 and 7 A.M. Frequent loose stools. Stool, with straining, and feeling as if large and indurated, though quite the reverse. Constipation.

Urinary Organs.—Bladder full, urging to urinate.

Sexual Organs.—Pain in testicles and back. Twitching in ovarian regions, extending to back. Darting pain in region of l. ovary.

Respiratory Organs.—Sudden hoarseness (Gels., Seneg.). Voice weak (Cauts., Gels.). Raw feeling caused by cold air. Sensation as if breathing hot air. Breathing difficult.

Chest.—Prickling pain in r. Pain just below heart, then crawling and eructations. P. in l. lung; P. in base of both lungs through the day, with darting pains in limbs and ankles. Sore P. in lungs; in lower part of l. lung, morning on waking. Burning through r. chest.

Pulse.—Quick.

Neck and Back.—Pulling in muscles of neck beneath r. angle of jaw. Back lame, and painful. Heavy pain in lumbar region at 5 P.M.; extending to testicles. Weakness of back, with ovarian pains.

Extremities.—Pain all day in shoulders, arms and hips; in arms, legs and feet on waking, > after motion, with lameness (Rhus t.). Sore feeling in all, morning on waking, mostly in joints. Joints sore and lame (Rhus t.). Joints stiff, with prickling (Rhus t.). Prickling and burning in joints. Weakness of extremities; of arms and limbs, with numb feeling (Rhus t.); of legs, in evening, and painfulness and lameness of hands.

Upper Extremities.—Pain in axillæ as if a sore were forming. Shoulders pain. P. from joint to elbows; sharp pain in l. on waking; fugitive P. all night, preventing sleep; lameness and soreness, morning on waking.

Arms.—Pain above elbows; above r. elbow in afternoon; above l. elbow at 1 A.M. when rising. Sore pain above l. elbow at 11 P.M. Arms feel as if tied to body. Lameness and aching on outer and under side, above l. elbow, when riding; then lameness of arm all day. Lameness and weakness of r. arm. Weakness.

Pain in l. elbow and r. hand; in r. elbow all forenoon. Hands sore and painful all day, with difficulty in handling everything. Lameness of r. hand; l. hand at 10 A.M., so that he could not sit still. Aching in first r. finger, then in other fingers of r. and l. hand. Numb sensation in fingers (Con., Phos., Sec. corn.).

Lower Extremities.—Aching pain all day across hips. P. in hips, severe in r. hip and thigh. Lameness of hips and legs. Thighs lame and painful, with sore feeling, but they are not sore to touch.

Knees.—Pain; l.; sore P. in evening, r. then l. Lameness and painfulness of r. knee in morning. Lame, aching p. on inside of r. knee, then on outside of l. Lameness of knees at 11 A.M. Weakness of r. knee and ankle.

Legs.—Sudden pain. P. in middle of l.; then r. tibia. Legs and feet lame and painful. Sore lameness in head of l. fibula in evening. Ankles and legs so painful that he could not sit still at 11.30 A.M. (Rhus t.). Pain in ankles and knees, with lame and painful feet. Aching P. in ankles and feet, especially outside of l. ankle.

Skin.—A large sore forms from a small scratch. The old eruption feels sore, with violent pricking itching extending to head and arms. Itching of limbs; of a corn on second left toe.

Sleep.—Yawning and eructations all day. Sleepiness all day. Sleep unrefreshing. Sleep restless; with springing up and constant jumping and thrashing of arms. Night restless, with heat and pain at epigastrium. Dreams frightful, and waking frightened and trembling.

Fever.—Chilliness.

Absinthium.

Artemisia absinthium. Common wormwood. A shrub of the natural order Composite, wild in Europe, naturalized in the United States. A tincture is prepared by bruising the young leaves and blossoms and adding two parts of alcohol.

General Action.—The most marked general effect of Absinthium is epilepsy. The convulsions attack suddenly one who has been in the habit of drinking absinth for a long time, especially if at any time he indulges in excess. A large number of these convulsions are apt to occur in rapid succession for a few hours, coming on with screaming. The convulsions begin in the face and extend to the body and limbs, which are at first rigid, and then affected by clonic spasms; with cyanotic face, irregular and stertorous respiration. The convulsions are followed by stupidity, lack of sensibility and loss of memory. The general or associated symptoms are as follows:

Generalities.—Faintness. Symptoms of general paralysis. General anesthesia or general hyperesthesia. Trembling, especially of the lips, tongue and limbs, worse in the morning. Frequent hysterical spasms, not amounting to epilepsy, the convulsions consisting of rigidity of the limbs and some irregular motions. Tendency to lie with head low.

Mind.—Crying and wishing to die. Delirium. Dread of assassination. Various hallucinations. Idioey. Irritable mood. Kleptomania. Loquacity. Complete loss of memory. Sudden attacks of stupor and unconsciousness. Frightful visions. Expression foolish.

Head.—General confusion, with headache. Constriction of the temples. Pain above the eyes. Vertigo on rising, or with tendency to fall backward.

Eyes brilliant. Conjunctiva injected. Sclerotic yellow. Pupils dilated unequally. Lids heavy.

Loss of appetite and loathing of food. Thirst. Eructations. Nausea; retching; vomiting of bitter mucus. Coldness and oppression in stomach. Food lies heavy. Flatulent distention of the abdomen, which is hard. Wind colic. Liver becomes enlarged. Constipation.

Micturition frequent. Urine deep orange, of a strong odor; red; in some cases albuminous.

Darting pain in r. ovary.

Voice feeble, speech hesitating; voice trembling and hoarse. Cough, with expectoration. Crepitant râles. Heart's action irregular, tumultuous; trembling of the heart felt through to the back. Oppression of chest.

Unsteady, tottering gait. Sciatica.

Clinical.—This drug has been used as a remedy for prolonged spasms of children, and in a few cases of epileptiform convulsions of older persons. Its clinical history is, however, very imperfect.

Acalypha Indica.

A weed found in India, belonging to the Euphorbiaceæ. A tincture is prepared from the fresh plant.

Severe fit of dry cough, followed by spitting of blood.

Note.—This symptom, doubtless a clinical observation, enabled Dr. Holoomb, of New Orleans, to cure a most obstinate case of hæmoptysis, after other means had failed.

Acetic Acid.

For use, prepare dilutions with distilled water.

General Action.—This acid produces directly gastroenteritis, and also (in one case, at least) membranous laryngo-tracheitis. Its remote effects are a profound anæmia, with diarrhœa, night-sweats, feeble pulse, emaciation and cough.

Generalities.—Emaciation. Attacks of faintness. General oppression and heaviness. Weakness. General trembling. (Convulsions, with insensibility.)

Mind.—Irritability. Nervousness. Anxiety. Alarm. Excitement. Delirium. Confusion. Inertia. Unconsciousness.

Head.—Vertigô. Heaviness. Dull pain in forehead and vertex. Dull aching in r. frontal eminence, then in l. In the temples distention of bloodvessels. Shooting P. through temples.

Eyes.—Sunken, surrounded by dark circles. Pupils dilated. Lachrymation.

Face.—Red, hot and perspiring, with flushed cheeks. Pale, waxy. Expression wild.

Mouth and Stomach.—Salivation. Tongue pale and flabby; dry and cold. Thirst. Eructations, hot. Loss of appetite; aversion to cold food; to salt food. Nausea; vomiting; vomiting after eating. In the stomach, pain, burning, gnawing, ulcerative. Heat. Soreness. Fermentation, with distress. Cold drinks cause distress. Soreness in one spot as from an ulcer, with gnawing; with agony and vomiting of thick, yellow matter, like yeast. Epigastrium painful to pressure.

Abdomen.—Burning pain. Distention. Gripping. Rumbling. Feeling as if it would sink in, which caused dyspnoea. Relief by lying on abdomen.

Stools.—Watery, with colic. Bloody.

Urine increased and light-colored.

Mother's Milk impoverished, bluish, deficient in casein and butter; the child drooped, had diarrhœa, and died of marasmus; the mother was pale, emaciated, and had chronic hemorrhages.

Respiratory Organs.—Voice lost. Croup, with hissing respiration, rattling, formation of false membrane in windpipe. Cough dry, then moist, with fever; dyspnoea, emaciation, œdema and diarrhœa. Respiration difficult, feeble, hurried.

Chest.—Burning pain. (Chronic inflammation.)

Pulse.—Rapid, small, weak.

Extremities.—Weak. Wrist and hand feel paralyzed. Hands cold, pricking, dry. œdema of lower extremities. Diminished sensibility of feet.

Skin.—Pale and waxy. Red and burning. Desquamation.

Fever.—Temperature diminished, with cold feet. Flushes of heat, with perspiration. Hectic, emaciation, diarrhœa, night-sweats, dyspnoea, and swelling of lower extremities. Low fever, with delirium, diarrhœa, tympanitis, constipation; also with stupor. Sweats profuse, cold, nocturnal.

Clinical.—General anæmia, with a waxy skin, anasarca, emaciation and sweats. Delirium in low fever, with profuse sweats and diarrhœa. Membranous croup, with bright-red face and perspiration. It should be given in anæmia of nursing women. (See above.)

Aconitum.

Aconitum napellus, or A. sterckianum. Natural order: Ranunculaceæ. The monkshood, though cultivated in America, is a native of Europe. A tincture is made from the whole plant, gathered at the time of flowering

General Action.—Aconite in small doses accelerates the heart's action, and causes a rise of temperature; then follow alternate chill and fever, tumultuous action of the heart, sweat and great weakness. From larger doses, paralysis of the heart, feeble pulse, cold sweat, paralysis of sensory and motor nerves, vomiting and purging, convulsions and death. Mental distress is exceedingly characteristic; it is produced by all doses, in all cases of poisoning, in all provings, and even in experiments on animals; this peculiar anxiety distinguishes Aconite from all other drugs. The tingling and numbness, which are experienced even from small doses, and the neuralgias, affecting particularly the upper portion of the body, are, likewise, characteristic. Aconite causes only functional disturbance; there is scarcely any evidence of power to produce tissue change; its action is brief, and shows no marked periodicity.

Groups for Study and Comparison.—Other species of Aconite, Veratrum (and liliaceous plants, such as Convallaria, Adonis, Colchicum), Digitalis, Camphor (Opium), Arsenicum, Iodine.

Antidotes.—Belladonna, Nux vom., Digitalis, Camphor (each in part only).

Generalities.—Lies on l. side (Spong.); on back, with l. hand flat under head during morning sleep. Cannot lie on r. side or back (Nux v.).

Jaundice. Swelling of whole body. Cracking of joints.

Convulsions; alternating with relaxation; tetanic (Sec. corn.); convulsions, with distortion of eyes, clenched jaws, body rigid and bent backward, limbs distorted (Jasmin). Convulsions, with eyes drawn upward, fists clenched across the throat, grating of the teeth, ropy saliva and involuntary discharges. Convulsions of face and upper extremities, relieved by vomiting. Convulsions at intervals of 20 minutes, ushered in with a shuddering noise; arms became rigid and raised above head, which was thrown back, and lower limbs extended rigidly, features distorted to one side or other, eyes closed, no general convulsions, face pale, consciousness unimpaired, could not speak owing to spasms of respiratory muscles, during intervals spoke well. Falls down insensible, icy cold, imperceptible pulse, hands and arms fixed in front of chest, face pale, lips blue, eyes sunken, twitching of eyeballs (Sec. c.). Limbs strongly flexed, with cold, clammy sweat, eyes turned upward, followed by general relaxation, aphonia and vomiting. Tetanus, with clenched fists, arms drawn backward and flexed, with opisthotonos. Convulsions of lower extremities, with clenched, cold, numb hands and slow pulse. Limbs drawn inward, thumbs clenched into palms (Hyosc.). Legs in constant motion, with cold sweat on face; cracking of joints.

Prickling and electric shocks through whole body. Hysterical condition (Ign., Plat.). Twitching; of tendons (Bell., Hyos., Op., Stram.); of muscles of face, fingers and toes; attempting by jerks to change her position in bed. Threw himself about violently, and attempted to bite attendants.

Trembling (Lach.); anxious. Trembling like a boiling and seething, with coldness. Nervousness; on falling asleep, and fear; and agitation (Arg. nit., Tarent., Thea.).

Stitches here and there (Bry.); electric, in forehead, back, sides of chest, back of hands and in other parts; flying, here and there in evening, in ribs, abdominal parietes and joints (Puls.). Stinging or stinging-burning pain in many parts, as if in skin (Nux v.), sometimes with heaviness, numbness or swelling; tearing stitches in nearly all joints alternately. Lancing pain P., especially in joints (Kali carb.).

Drawing, wandering, tearing, mostly alternating with heart symptoms. Pain, in joints; P. around waist. Drawing P., here and there; throbbing, here and there; wandering, sometimes in nape, loins, intestines, or right groin, or one or another joint (Puls.). Drawing, here and there in joints. Rheumatic P. Bruised sensations: Constriction. General oppression. Malaise.

Swollen feeling over almost whole body, especially l. side, changing to a numb feeling, with bruised feeling in muscles and pressing or bruised feeling in bones, also with the swollen feeling changing to numbness there is a bruised feeling in ribs, upper part of chest and arms, and a crampy feeling about heart. Swollen feeling in many parts (Rhus, Spig.), generally with shuddering-cold or rigor.

Soreness and stiffness of all muscles (Rhus). General sore, tired feeling (Arn., Baptis., Rhus).

Sensitive to fresh air (Dule., Kali c.). Sensitiveness of whole body to touch (Bell., Chin., Nux v., Spig.).

Restlessness and tossing about (Ars.).

Weakness (Gelsem.) morning on waking, > on rising; from walking and talking; walking, < ascending stairs; with sleepiness; in joints, with unsteadiness; of muscles and ligaments, so that he could not sit nor stand unsupported; intermittent, with insensibility. Depression, with faintness, livid face and feeble pulse (Dig.). Nervous prostration. Laziness. Collapse (Sec. c.). Faintness, on attempting to sit up (Carbo v., Gelsem.), evening when urinating, with rush of blood to head; after urinating, with whirling around of everything and with cold sweat on hands, with shivering.

Numbness; with tingling (Plat., Rhus, Sec. c.).

Crawling, like a mixture of fornication, prickling and tickling, first on tip of tongue, then over upper surface of tongue and lips, extending to posterior part of mouth, then beginning in tips of fingers, then in face, above all in suprahyoid region and on chin, then in cheeks and tip of toes, on perineum, chest, abdomen, and lastly on back, more violent in former regions, < change of temperature.

Heaviness (Nux v., Rhus). Leaden of body, from shoulders downward, with pressure from all sides and from above, seeming to make the body, except head and neck, smaller. Feeling as if the bedclothes were a dreadful weight.

Paralytic condition; in l., then r. side. Loss of equilibrium.

Clinical.—The convulsions arrested or prevented by Aconite are not dependent upon a chronic constitutional taint, but result from a sudden nervous shock, such as fright, or are of recent origin, as in the puerperal state; the face is red, hot and sweaty, with other symptoms as above. In hysterical spasms, neuralgias, congestions, hemorrhages, and effects of shock from injury or fright, the terrible mental distress characteristic of the drug must be the guide to its successful use; also after exposure to sun or great heat, with a plethoric appearance, some anesthesia or great sensitiveness to touch, Acon. may be used always with mental anxiety and acute sensitiveness to pain. The pains are usually acute, sticking, and often associated with or followed by numbness. Restlessness and agonized tossing about are essential in a case requiring Aconite.

General Conditions.—Aggravation, in evening; in close room (Iod.); on rising from lying down (Bry., Op., Dig.).

Anelioration, in open air (Bry., Plat.); in cool air (Bry., Op., Puls.); after eating (Puls.); after watery stool; after sweat (Rhus); after vomiting (Dig., Sec. c.); after drinking (Cedron); after wine or coffee (transient).

Mind.—Raving, with jumping out of bed (Bell.); intermittent. Delirium; chattered childish nonsense (Hyosc.); said he was dying, with restless jerking and jumping about (Ars.). Mixture of dulness and excitement.

Activity of mind. Clearness. (Clairvoyance.) Buried in thought. Occupied with one subject Disinclined to think; to read. Distraction. Inability to think; stupid, also in evening, or with fretfulness, from tobacco smoke. Unsteadiness of thought. Confusion. Coma, eyes half closed, pupils insensible (Op.). Memory active (during excitement); impaired (reaction). Hallucinations, that his head was three times its natural size, that his mental operations transpired in the pit of his stomach. Anxiety; with the shivering; inconsolable; as of an impending misfortune. Agony. Fear. Apprehension. Dread, of misfortune; of approaching death (Ars., Op., Plat.); of staggering and falling. Solicitude. Despair (Arsen.); plaintive cries. Sadness. (Ign.); from music, which is unendurable and goes through every limb (Tarent.); weeping. Whining. Piteous howlings (Verat.). Vexation about trifles (Nux v.). Complaints and reproaches, often about trifles. Misanthropic. Quarrelsome (Nux v.). Fretful. Restless, variable mood (Ign., Plat.). Impatience. Hurry in all actions, in speech (Arg. n., Lil. tig.). Gayety; happiness, inclined to sing and dance. Apathy; disinclined to talk; indifferent; desire to be alone (Plat.). Anthropophobia (Aur.). Obstnacy.

Clinical.—In delirium, with ravings about death, hot face and head; effects of fright; fear of crowds or of death, with anguish, etc.

Head.—Sticking pain (Caps. < rest); jerking sticking, especially in forehead; sticking on coughing (Arn., Carbo v.). Shooting pulsating. Aching; on stooping < mental effort; < speaking. A., as from a band (Gels., Merc. sol.); as from a hot iron band; as if eyes would fall out; as if brain were pressing out; as if brain were raised here and there; bruised, < motion, drinking and speaking. A., burning, as if brain were agitated by boiling water. A., constrictive and pressing, especially in upper part of forehead, < light and noise, > sleep, with obscured vision; as if skull were compressed from all sides (Anac.), especially in l. orbit; constrictive pain over whole skull, especially l. side and over l. eye, > cool hand. A. in head and face, extending over body. Neuralgic pain, then in lower extremities.

Compression, as if aponeurosis were too tight; as from a vise; in evening, at times worse in l. orbit; recurring at same hour. Fulness (Glo.), with erratic pain in r. supraorbital, temporal and frontal regions. Congestion; sudden and frequent, with anxiety, then rigor over back. Apoplectic. Heaviness; in morning, with vertigo; with ringing in ears, < yawning, dizzy, especially in frontal region, with nausea and sinking in pit of stomach, also on stooping. Drawing, especially in temporal muscles and behind ears; feeling as if something were drawn out of head, causing lids to be drawn up. Confusion; morning on waking; after every effort; while eating; in evening with pressure in forehead; forenoon, with flushes of heat and vertigo; < motion; as after intoxicating drinks. Emptiness; morning, as after intoxication. Lightness. Head feels smaller to hand, with warmth of head. Pulsation (Bell., Fer., Glo.); fine, here and there. Waving and shaking of brain. Roaring in head and ears, < reading. Tingling, benumbed. Feeling as if head were forcibly turned around.

Vertigo; morning on waking (Lach.); forenoon, with confusion of head; forenoon, when walking, changing in house to stupefaction; driving or walking; on rising up (Bry., Phos.); on rising, with heavy headache in temporal muscles above ears, nausea and gush of cold sweat; on rising, with flickering before eyes, roaring in ears, pain in head and face, nausea and weakness; when standing; on stooping (Sulph.); stooping, with vision of sparks and fog; after walking, with reeling; vertigo aggravated, open air, after dinner, shaking head, when there is blackness before eyes, stooping with nausea, rising from a seat (Bry.); > walking and sitting, by deep breathing. Vertigo, with distraction of mind; with headache; obscuration of vision; feeling as if about to fall; staggering, especially to r.; vertigo, with feeling that his legs were going away from him. Everything goes around in a circle. Vertigo, to falling.

Forehead.—Stitches in r.; after eating, extending to temple; alternating with same in occiput; nauseating over orbits, extending to upper jaw; stitches at times pulsating or pressive-aching, on walking, > sitting. Drawing; drawing pressive feeling in nerve trigeminus; tense drawing in trigeminus, then shooting, wandering, intermittent, then constant pain, sometimes pressure. Crepitation (as of gold tinsel bent back and forth), and in temples and nose. Aching; morning, on waking; night; < evening; over eye; r. half; especially over r. superciliary ridge, with dread of jar by riding; in spot above l. superciliary ridge, morning after waking, > after a nap; l. eminence; in sinciput; forehead and occiput, < towards evening. Contractive. In r. protuberance, extending towards orbit, with flushes of heat, especially in face and ears; involving r. eyebrow. Outpressing. Stupefying, < towards 6 p.m. Wedge-like pressing asunder, near l. brow, < in room.

Feeling as of a board before forehead. Corrugated between brows. Squeezing; in bones, with sick feeling as if madness would ensue; over nose, with feeling as if she would lose her reason, < walking in open air. Nailed-up feeling in a warm room. Swelling; swollen feeling, < l. Tension; squeezing, tense pain behind orbits. Fulness (Glon.); in sinuses, with heaviness and feeling as if something would come out, the latter also on stooping. Heaviness; in sinciput, with numbness. Pulsation towards both eyes; l. side, with attacks of blows in r. side. Confusion; r.; dizzy, in r., when walking in open air.

Temples.—Stitches in r. muscles; stitches in l. temple, < entering house, with drawing pain; stitches from temple into head; twitching stitches in l. Tearing in l. Drawing from muscles into external meatus, causing tense feeling there. Aching; l.; r. (Sang.); behind r. mastoid process; bursting (Glon.); as if compressed with screws; as from pressure of a thumb behind r. ear; pressing-out, evenings, with fulness in forehead, pricking and biting in lips, as in beginning of coryza, with flushes of heat; stupefying, drawing, pressing-inward in l.; shooting pulsating; neuralgic in r. Tingling; with sense of enlargement of forehead and disturbance of vision. Pulsation of arteries during chill. Contraction of muscles. Swelling. Swollen feeling, < l.

Vertex.—Stitches (Bry.); aching; forenoon, evenings; nightly; > washing with cold water; light, < stooping and moving head; < motion; then extending to forehead, where it caused heaviness and fulness; aching on both sides; aching, with tension, aching, as from a cap, also > motion in open air; A., extending towards temporal region, < stooping; A., from a weight. Heaviness, compression extending to whole head.

Parietals.—Jerking, shooting, drawing, tearing pain in r. side of head superiorly. Aching; in l. side of head; evening and night; > cold water; in l. side, as if compressed. Heaviness in bones; heaviness in r. side of head, with pressing out. Semi-lateral drawing in head.

Occiput.—Stitches; in bone; alternating with same in root of nose. Twitching, tearing. Aching; < stooping, and in forehead; acute about base of brain and in back of neck, with spasms in arms; distending; by fits and starts; twitching. Injected feeling in brain. Drawing numbness in l. Weight.

Scalp.—Bristling of hair on vertex; scalp feels as if the hair stood on end, also in spots. Stitches under scalp. Sensation as if swollen and numb. Sensitiveness to touch; in spots, and to cold air, < strong wind. Sensation as if some one drew him up by the hair. Fornication; > heat. Creeping in l. side as from a brush. Tickling on touching hair, especially on vertex. Itching.

Clinical.—The headache associated with fever is a hot, full, pulsating, bursting pain, with flushed face, etc., reminding one of Bell.; the neuralgia of scalp and skull varies, usually sharp, shooting along nerves (Spig.), drawing, tense, numb (Verbase.), or pulsating (Glon.). The anterior portion of head is usually involved. The peculiar mental distress accompanies all the headaches (clinically).

Eyes.—Bloodshot. Yellowish. Protruding. Dull, with blue rings. Expressionless. Wandering look. Glaring. Staring. Glassy. Sparkling. Distorted. Turned upward. Twitching—pain; < looking down or around, with heat in them; pain as if crushed; P. anteriorly as if it would be pushed out when lids are opened (Sang.), extending to supraorbital region and interior of brain. Sharp P. through r., leaving an ache. Feeling as if they would drop from their sockets. Painful inflammation. Swollen feeling. Constriction. Tightness across eyes and nose. Burning; burning alternately in each; burning and pressure in l., and over brow. Warmth and undulation, with half-closing of lids and feeling as if it were too dark to read in a well-lighted room. (Cold feeling in open air.) Sensitiveness to air. Itching.

Lachrymation; when coughing; < evening and night.

Balls.—Fine sticking in r. Enlarged feeling, as if coming out of orbits and stretching lids (Nat. m., Par.). Pressure; in l. ball and r. orbital region; as if pressed into orbit; upper part feels as if pressed out of orbit on moving it, > stooping, changing to dull pain on bending head backward; pressure in front, not quite superficial, part, sometimes stinging or burning.

Pupil.—Contraction; then dilatation; alternating with dilatation. Mobility, then dilatation, with dim vision, and blinking on looking at bright objects. Dilatation; r. nearly oval; l. irregularly polygonal. Insensible to light.

Lids.—Swollen. Twitching. Blinking on looking at strongly lighted objects. Closed convulsively. Will not keep closed, so that there is sleeplessness. Burning. Itching. Heaviness. Hard red swelling of r. upper, with tension, < morning. Pressure alternately in each upper. L. upper feels as if long, heavy and hanging down paralyzed. Dryness of upper. Pain deep-seated in r. inner canthus. Sensation of sand in l. inner canthus. Margins sore, red and inflamed (Apis). Irritation of margins. Itching on margins, with smarting.

Conjunctiva, injected; especially towards inner canthus; of lids and balls red.

Orbits.—Sudden compressive pain in upper margin of r. Shooting in supraorbital ridge, branching across forehead to scalp, to r. temple, cheek, and into some teeth, < pressure and towards evening, when there was drawing constant cough, followed by swelling of ridge. Tearing in l. margin; tearing in l., with constriction as if ball would be pressed outward. Pain. Tension.

Vision.—Acute. Confused. Dazzled. Dim; with vertigo. Lost. Weak. Amblyopia. Diplopia. Photophobia. Flickering; in evening on going from half-dark room into street, worse at short than long distances. Black floating spots. Sparks. White bright spot, changing to straw color, then the whole field of vision became lilac-hued, followed by a bright azure spot. All sorts of hallucinations.

Clinical.—In the first stage of acute inflammations of various tissues of the eye and its appendages, with heat, dryness and sharp pain, before any exudation has taken place. Acute inflammation from foreign bodies, etc. In acute aggravations of chronic disease (catarrh, trachoma, etc.). In recent paralysis from cold. In ciliary and orbital neuralgia. Acute symptoms from overstrain of muscles.

Ears.—Stitches in l. in forenoon, with twinges and stoppage; acute stoppage in r. meatus externus; drawing stitches in l. Tearing in l. Pain; in r.; l.; below r.; burning P. shooting into l.; drawing P. Burning, itching and darting when yawning, < in evening and in open air, > after eating. Feeling as if a drop of hot water were in l. Stoppage; of r.; stopped feeling in l. Tickling in r. as from a worm in it. Swollen sensation in bone around external ear. Prickling burning in palate, throat, and Eustachian tube, < swallowing. Stiffening sensation in r. Eustachian tube, compelling swallowing.

Hearing impaired. Sensitiveness to every noise (Bell., Mur. ac., etc.). Buzzing before ears, then faintness. Humming, Humming hissing. Ringing; with yawning. Roaring; l.; < reading. Seething. Singing. Loud noises.

Clinical.—Inflammation of external parts, even involving the tympanum, with fever, excruciating pain, caused by a draught of cold air. Neuralgia, involving ear and parts about it.

Nose.—Stitches at root alternating with same in occiput. Pain at base between orbits (Ign., Kali bi.). Stupefying compression at root. Constriction. Obstruction in r. nostril. Tightness across nose and eyes. Raw feeling in posterior nares. Dry feeling in posterior nares. Sneezing frequently; with pain in abdomen; with shootings in chest; sneezing interrupted by pain in l. chest. Desired to sneeze, but could not. Clear fluid flows from nose; hot fluid drops out; frothy mucus from nose and mouth; profuse discharge with stuffing in head; discharge of thick yellow mucus. Coryza; fluent, beginning with violent chill about midnight, then copious sweat; severe coryza, with lachrymation; Epistaxis (Cact. mil.); blows out bright blood mornings (Bry.). Great sensibility of olfactory nerves (Bell.); bad smells have a powerful effect.

Clinical.—Incipient coryza, nares hot and dry, or with hot fluid discharge, with chills and fever. Hemorrhage of bright, hot blood, with anxiety (Ham., Scacle, Phos., Croc., blood dark).

Face.—Dusky. Pale; and anxious. Red; with tension; flushed over cheek bones, otherwise pallid. Livid. Livid purple, with white blotches. Sunken. Expressionless. Expression of agony; of astonishment; of anxiety; of fright, and imbecility; heavy, depressed; hippocratic; restless; pinched. Swelling. Distortion; < change of temperature. Twitching. Pain; creeping, on cheeks; P. in zygomatic process as from an internal ulcer; pressive and digging pain in chin. Lower and anterior part feels compressed from both sides. Contracted feeling in muscles and numb, heavy, paralytic feeling in whole face. Drawing in cheeks, upper jaw and forehead. Distorted feeling; as if a muscle bulged out, then as if whole jaw were thrust to one side, or as if the lower jaw were pushed up or raised into the cavity of the mouth. Swollen feeling; < l. side; of cheeks. Tingling; numbness. Rigidity. Numbness; of cheeks and tongue, extending over shoulder and back and down the arms, then hyperæsthesia.

Lips.—Black. Blue. Pale. Swollen. Pain. Feeling as if swollen. Inflammation. Burning; extending to stomach. Heat. Feeling as if drawn up. Dryness; then in mouth, with heat rising from chest to head. Tickling. Tingling. Numbness; extending to stomach. Swollen feeling.

Jaws dropping. Involuntary closure with salivation. Trismus; in paroxysms. Shooting jerks in lower. Rigidity. Aching of lower; in joint on chewing; burning aching in upper; piercing as if they would fall off; pressing on lower. Drawing in lower with stinging. Creeping, and in tongue, with burning, so that the teeth seemed to wobble. Tingling in angles and down side of neck. Leaden heaviness of upper. Numbness. Dead feeling in lower. Paralysis of lower.

Clinical.—The expression in fever is flushed and anxious, in neuralgia pinched and suffering, in tetanus drawn and rigid. The neuralgia commonly cured results from cold, is of recent origin, and usually associated with tingling and numbness (Verbascum). Several cases of tetanus have been cured.

Mouth.—Teeth. Stitches; in r. molars, also with drawing. Aching; r.; l. upper; drawing burning pain on r. lower margin of a socket. Feeling as if they would fall out. Sore feeling. Peculiar feeling in roots. Cold feeling in incisors. Sensitiveness to open air. Numbness extending over cheek bone to inner canthus, then over almost whole body, with feeling in head as if brain were larger and pressed forcibly against the skull, with chilliness over back and paleness and coldness of face. Greens hot.

Tongue.—Hanging out of mouth. Moved constantly, at times thrust beyond lips and moved from side to side. Swollen. Burning vesicles on tip. (Nat. Sul.) Coated; in morning; white; yellow. Stitches in r. under surface; at back; through it fine, in tip; flying. Cramp at root. Feeling as if getting longer. Biting, < towards tip. Burning; after eating; of sides; tip; under tongue. Cold (Camph. Verat. a.); feeling as of cold air passing over it; biting cooling, with salivation, then crawling. Drawn-up feeling; feeling in root as if drawn spasmodically to both sides. Dry and rough feeling in middle. Leathery feeling. Crawling, and on lips, then on face, spreading over body, with itching in skin and drawing up of face, dry skin, afterwards crawling increased and caused such restlessness that he walked the room almost all night as if crazy; crawling, as from peppermint, extending to lips and lower part of palate. Prickling; spreading over lips and to fauces, then to tips of fingers and toes, to face and then over whole body, with fornication and tickling. Tingling; of tip; extending to lips. Numbness. Paralysis. Articulation difficult. Thick speech. Unintelligible sounds.

Mouth in general.—Twitching. Drawn to one side.

Redness. Burning biting. Burning; with congestion, and in lips, with roughness in throat, especially in posterior nares, which compels hawking, and feeling as if tough mucus were drawn through choana, with dryness, < tobacco smoke. Inflammation and pain. Soreness of salivary ducts. Dryness; at night; dry feeling in front part; with coolness. Feeling as if the breath were fetid, in morning on waking. Fuzziness in spots. Tingling; numbness. Discharge of frothy mucus and from nose. Salivation; frothy; saliva streaked with red; hawked up thin, sour saliva; watery. Breath hot; breath fetid.

Taste.—Astringent. Bitter. Diminished. Fishy. Flat, nauseous, sweet, compelling hawking of tough mucus, then swallowing it. Lost for things that formerly tasted strong and well. Nauseous at root of tongue, > while eating. Pasty in morning. Peppery; especially on tip of tongue; at root of tongue, extending forward over whole tongue, with increased saliva; in pharynx. Of rotten eggs. Sour. Sweet. Offensive.

Clinical.—Neuralgia toothache. Teething with hot inflamed gums, great distress, etc. The tongue often feels swollen with the fever: acute glossitis, with dry hot mouth (Mercur. with salivation).

Throat.—Frequent pulling at. Bruised feeling from l. side of throat to shoulder-joint and a portion of dorsal muscles, < lying, > moving and open air, with stiffness, alternating with a similar feeling in upper and lower limbs. Drawing from side of to ears; D. in muscles. Redness. Mucus. Cramp. Stitches; at back part; causing frequent swallowing. Pain; < deglutition; l. side, with profuse swallowing of saliva; in fauces and soft palate, with tension. Soreness. Raw feeling with mucus in larynx. Roughness. Raw scraping feeling in back part, with desire to hawk. Scraping; > clearing throat; in throat and soft palate, with burning as from peppermint. Constriction in pharynx.

Peppery feeling. Burning (Canth.); at back part, also causing hawking; cooling, then on tongue. Heat; alternately with heat in face. Coldness, as after peppermint. Dryness (Bell. Dubois); at night; < tobacco smoke; with irritation to cough; as if something stuck in it. Throat seemed to swell. Constriction; at back part. Sensation of mucus; feeling as if mucus hung at palate, with nausea. Creeping. Tickling. Burning-tingling. Numbness; with prickling. Paralytic attack. Sticking choking in a spot, < swallowing and speaking, l. then r. Strangling sensation.

Redness of soft palate; arch of palate; tonsils; uvula; r. tonsil. Burning in soft palate. Coldness as from peppermint in soft palate in evening, soon extending to pharynx. Dryness of soft palate; palate and posterior nares. Scraping in soft palate, extending to hard palate and tip of tongue, with burning in same, and with redness of soft palate. Constriction in soft palate and uvula, with scratching, causing hawking, spitting and nausea.

Swelling of tonsils; feeling as if uvula rested on tongue (Alumina); swelling and elongation of uvula, with arborescently injected dark red fauces and pharynx, feeling as if an angular many-pointed body were sticking in throat, with sticking burning in palate, throat and along Eustachian tube, < swallowing, with dull pain behind sternum, headache and salivation, the throat symptoms < walking in open air, > after eating.

Œsophagus.—Pressive and burning pain extending into stomach. Constriction. Burning. Coldness as from peppermint. Crawling during passage of food. Dryness and scraping.

Clinical.—Acute inflammation of various portions of the throat, with swelling, dryness, stinging pain (rarely, if ever, indicated after infiltration, exudation or ulceration has taken place).

Stomach.—Hunger. Appetite diminished; lost. Loathing of food; of bread. Thirst; at night; after vomiting; for beer during heat; for beer, which lies heavy on the stomach; for cold water. (Hiccough after eating and drinking); spasmodic action of stomach and diaphragm like hiccough and retching at the same time.

Eruptions; empty, also after eating; empty, > after breakfast, with nausea; ineffectual attempts at; frequent, loud; with mineral taste; offensive; sour; of sweetish water, with roaring in ears; sweetish water with nausea; risings from pit of stomach, amounting to nausea when fasting. Waterbrash.

Nausea; from flesh broth; from food; at sight of food; when walking in open air; > eating; in pit, then under sternum and lastly in throat; on rising, with vertigo, heavy headache above ears and gush of cold sweat; with sinking in pit, < sitting, > walking; with sinking in pit and scraping from pit to throat; with sinking in pit and heaviness in head; with weight in stomach; with sweet taste; as after disagreeably sweet or fat substances. Retching; violent, with confusion of head.

Vomiting; after each drink; with purging; with stools, cardialgia and colic; bilious, also fetid and black (with relief); blood-streaked; dark grumous liquid; all food; food, then frothy mucus; gray-like, with stringy mucus; greenish-gray, watery; green (Verat.); green masses, with diarrhoea of same appearance; mucus; olive-yellow fluid; violent.

Sticking in epigastrium after a full meal, with tension. Sharp pain, and in bowels, then discharge of flatus. Aching; while eating; after dinner; in epigastric region; in pit; in pit while sitting, walking and standing; in pit, changing to constriction of chest; burning, also with tenderness on pressure; burning in epigastrium; burning, extending to mouth, with dryness; as from something indigestible at noon, then sensitiveness and warmth till evening; as from a stone in pit, extending through to back, with squeezing like a stiffness; spasmodic; in pit as if swollen internally. Feeling of a ball rising from pit and spreading cool air over vertex and occiput. Epigastric region tender to touch. Burning; after dinner; heartburn morning on waking, almost taking away the breath, > rising; warmth in epigastric region; heat in pit (Ars.); warmth in pit while eating, with tenderness.

Anxiety in pit, < warm room, with vertigo. Distress after eating. Discomfort in pit and upper abdomen after eating, with pressure. Contractive feeling as from an astringent. Spasmodic constriction. Swelling. Fulness. Feeling of a lump. Repletion at pit. Tension in pit, > offensive eructations. Empty feeling; at noon, with eructations. Collapse alternating with distention. Sensitiveness to touch; at pit. Uneasiness in epigastrium. Anxious pulsation in pit, with shooting. Numbness.

Clinical.—Acon. is indicated in distress at the stomach, retching and vomiting (especially of green substances), associated with fever (at the outset of an eruptive disease), or without fever following a severe shock, such as fright, or with sudden suppression of menstruation or perspiration, with anxiety and restlessness; occasionally also in infants during dentition when the general state corresponds. Hæmatemesis.

Abdomen.—Flatus; emission of; hot. Gurgling, > emission of flatus; G., with itching in rectum and call to stool. Splashing. Rumbling; after eating; > discharge of flatus; all night, with grumbling; with shooting and contractive pain here and there; with tension; as after a purge, during soft stools. Fermentation. Swelling.

Stitches (Sulph.). Gripping; with swelling, > emission of flatus. Pain; from sneezing; during stool; > emission of flatus, with distention; burning P., also with tenderness or pressure; drawing P. here and there; flatulent P., also in different parts. Cutting; morning in bed; during stool; extending towards r. shoulder, during stool. Feeling as if diarrhoea would occur. Burning (Ars.). Chilliness (Camph.). Colicky stretching. Sensitiveness (Bell.). Raw feeling. Seemed full of water. Weakness as from abuse of purgatives. Paralyzed feeling; especially in transverse colon. Amelioration of many symptoms after warm soup.

Hypochondria.—Stitches in l. (Dig.); in spleen when walking; in liver; in hepatic region, hindering deep breathing (Bry. lod.); in hepatic region, with soreness; inward in region of spleen, < pressure and deep inspiration. Gripping in upper abdomen, with distention of abdomen. Pain in upper abdomen, with ineffectual straining at stool; in hepatic region, obstructing breathing. Constriction, < r., preventing deep breathing; in region of gall-bladder on sitting, preventing breathing. Anxiety. Fulness. Weight. Coldness in upper abdomen. Feeling as if something cold pressed outward, above and to l. of umbilicus.

Umbilicus.—Retraction, < morning before eating. Gripping about. Clawing in region, with scraping. Pinching in region, also before diarrhoea; above umbilicus. Drawing pain in both sides of umbilicus; on bending abdomen together. Jerk-like pressure. Compression. Feeling as if a ball rose from region and spread cool air over vertex and occiput. Burning; spreading towards pit of stomach.

Hypogastrium.—Gurgling. Stitches in l. Pinching, especially in r. flank, affecting inspiration. Pain as from a flatulent purgative. Drawing from l. towards back, with pain in sides of abdomen on pressure. Sensitiveness to touch (Op.). Faintness.

Flatulent pain in parietes and r. side of abdomen. Pressing pain in parietes, r. then l., recurring for days. Flying stitches here and there in parietes, ribs and joints, in evening.

Muscles.—Drawing pain in recti abdomina, which were stretched as hard as a board. Tension; in r. groin. Contraction (Sulph.). Twitchings in hepatic region, taking away breath. Spasmodic action of muscles of abdomen, chest and limbs (Verat.).

Clinical.—In various inflammatory processes, peritonitis, enteritis, in the early stage with severe, agonizing pain, tossing about, high fever, etc.; violent colic from cold; early inflammatory symptoms in the hepatic region; severe inflammation or engorgement of the pelvic viscera when the other conditions correspond, Aconite has been promptly efficacious.

Rectum.—Pain. Tenesmus (Caps.). Urging to stool; with colic, also during stool. Itching, with gurgling in abdomen and call to stool.

Anus.—Shootings. Sore feeling. Cramplike constriction. Painful contractions (Sil.). Pressure. Burn- ing at night, with scraping. Sensation of a warm fluid escaping. Bleeding hæmorrhoids (Ham., Nit. ac.); burning and heat in hæmorrhoidal vessels (Esc. hip., Sulph.), itching and pressure in hæmorrhoidal vessels. Paralysis.

Stool.—Diarrhœa; with grumbling in abdomen; with pain in abdomen; with faint feeling; urgent, offensive. Pasty. Watery; and copious, urgent, also with colic. Gushing of yellow water mixed with white foam, preceded by gurgling. Constipation. Hard, with effort; hard and earlier than usual. Green (Dule.). Black and fetid. Clay-colored. White; with red urine. Whitish-yellow. Copious; after urging, followed by painful pinching. Scanty; and soft and frequent, with straining. Frequent. Involuntary; during a faint; with a feeling as if passing only flatus.

Clinical.—Violent pain in rectum, with chill and fever, inflammation, tenesmus and bloody discharges (dysentery), in early stage. Bleeding piles, with heat and sharp stitches, blood bright. Diarrhœa, stools green, watery, after a chill or fright. Choleraic discharges with collapse, deadly anxiety and restlessness.

Urinary Organs.—Bladder. Pain on walking. Splashing feeling on urinating. Tenesmus at neck. Burning in neck when not urinating (Canth.). Paralysis of neck. Micturition at night. Desire to urinate on touching abdomen; desire, with scanty discharge, also with difficult discharge; anxious desire. Anxiety abeys on beginning to urinate. Difficult. Frequent. Involuntary.

Urethra.—Stitches; on walking. Burning when urinating. Stitches in meatus; morning on urinating. Stitches in fossa navicularis always on urinating. Burning in fossa navicularis (Petrosel.).

Urine. Copious; and watery. Scanty; and saturated; scanty and loaded with albumen and casts; afterwards copious. Suppressed. Pale. Red; with white fœces. Brown; with dirty brown sediment; with brick-dust sediment. Dark and hot; dark and scanty. Hot (Borax). Clouded. Deposits blood. Salts diminished. Acid, precipitating phosphates.

Clinical.—Acute inflammation of various parts, with fever, hot urine, great agony at the thought of micturition, etc. Retention of urine (especially in infants). In fever the urine is dark, hot and scanty, but with no evidence of nephritis. Rare cases of congestion of the kidney, with bloody urine, pain in kidneys, fever, etc. Acute prostratitis, from cold especially, supervening on chronic disease.

Sexual Organs.—Crawling, stinging in glans. Stitches in glans and prepuce; l. side of prepuce; in glans when urinating; in glans, as from a galvanic current. Pinching in glans on urinating. Frequent erections. Retraction of serotum (Petrol.). Swollen and hard feeling in testicles (Rhol., Spong.). Drawing pain in testicles; r. Bruised pain in testicles (Rhol.); r.: l. (Nit. ac., Thuja.). Desire diminished; increased, also in evening; (alternating with relaxation). Emissions; only in morning; frequent, also at night.

Menstrues which had ceased the day before reappeared. Metrorrhagia. Milk increased.

Clinical.—Suppressed or painful menstruation from violent emotions (fright), sudden chill, with anguish, fever, etc. Metrorrhagia, bright and hot, with general Aconite symptoms, Acute orchitis, with general fever.

Respiratory Organs.—Larynx. Pain on coughing (Osm.). Sensitiveness to inspired air (Osm.). Irritation, < going from warm room into open air, with dry cough. Tickling, provoking cough (Sang.); tickling from smoking. Drink and food get into larynx, causing cough. Compression on both sides. Burning pain, with choking. Burning in glottis. Aphonia from debility. Weak voice. Hoarseness (Bell. Iod.).

Trachea.—Rattling and vibration. Pres-sive and burning pain, extending to pit of stomach, caused by cough. Raw feeling, causing short cough. Wide feeling in air-passages during respiration. Dry feeling. Numbness and asleep sensation under sternum.

Cough in morning, with blood-streaked expectoration (Sulph.); towards evening; after drinking; (during heat of body); when exercising; from irritation in larynx; from tobacco smoke, also with hemming; < towards evening, with pain and oppression in chest; with shooting in chest (Bry. Kali carb.). Disturbing night's rest. Distressing. Violent; with shootings in different parts of chest, compelling him to lie on the back. Dull-toned, straining chest. Hacking, from tickling at epiglottis (Wyeth.). Short; every half-hour after midnight, from tickling in larynx, < attempts to repress it. Dry; from irritation in larynx (Puls.); from change of temperature, with raw pain in chest; < warm room; < deep breathing and change of temperature, with snarling and soreness behind sternum; with raw pain in chest and snarling in larynx; and harsh; and hoarse ringing (Bro. Iod. Spo.); and short, from scratching in throat. Constant irritation to. Frequent, with expectoration of bright blood (Cact. Ip. Led. Phos.).

Expectoration.—Of blood; of blood and mucus, with raw feeling behind sternum. Rusty (Phos.). Thin, frothy, white mucus, with streaks of bright blood (Sulph.). Gelatinous mucus. Tenacious, slimy. Cough brings up a sweetish salt fluid into mouth, tasted only at root of tongue.

Respiration.—Asthmatic. Fear of suffocation (Phos.). Choking; easy; easy while swallowing; in paroxysms. Difficult; > cough; impeded by anxiety, with sweat on forehead; with necessity to breathe deeply; with pressure under sternum and transient heat; and rapid; and slow. Inspiration through nose impeded, < in sleep. Short; in sleep after midnight; in shoeks and weak; scarcely perceptible. Gasping. Groaning at each respiration. Sighing; on account of slow circulation and congested feeling in lungs; deep. Loud, with open mouth. Mucous râles; posteriorly. Irregular. (Inspiration with a double jerk, like the bleating of a goat, in sleep.) Superficial. Short; in sleep. Frequent, deep. Stertorous. No respiration or circulation, yet kept moving some part of body.

Clinical.—The Aconite cough is dry, either short hacking or hard ringing and croupy, it hurts the larynx in laryngitis) or the chest (in pleurisy or pneumonia). In the first stage of membranous croup, with high fever, great anxiety and restlessness, it will often abate the attack. Iodine is also applicable at this stage of high fever, but the patient is quiet and the exudation has already become plastic; after the fever abates neither Acon. nor Iodine is indicated.) The cough is aggravated by warmth (on expiration) usually. In congestion of the lungs, with great oppression, distress and anxiety, expectoration of bright, hot blood. In the hyperemic stage of inflammations of the thoracic viscera (with the general indications), prior to exudation, Acon. will be found invaluable. After Acon. either Iodine or Bryonia follows well; both these have high fever without anguish, both seem to be associated with an exudative process. Acute symptoms occurring during the progress of chronic diseases occasionally require Acon.

Chest.—Spasmodic action of muscles of chest, abdomen and limbs. Stitches; on inspiration (Borax, Ran. bulb.); when sneezing; in r. side of sternum; in centre of sternum towards evening; beneath sternum and between scapulae; near l. axilla; in l. pectoralis major and intercostals; towards false ribs; side (Squill.); under l. ribs on inspiration (Sulph.); under r. ribs on laughing aloud (Borax); sides and between scapulae, on deep breathing; in l. lower, > lying; in various parts, also < bending sideways; with cough (Borax); in r., with suspension of breathing (Borax); with anxiety and peevishness, a sticking, then throbbing in the side, then headache; burning stitches in l. half; fine burning; constrictive, in r. side; drawing, also in l.; in region of eighth, ninth, tenth and eleventh ribs, l., then r., often extending to loins; in side, extending towards back; stitches about last r. rib, through to small of back; from lowest r. rib to apex of shoulder-blade; at every inspiration; extending inward in l.; as from flatus; in l. upper; flying along sternum and between ribs; interrupting respiration; now here, now there; periodical stitches, with dry cough; now superficial, now deep, and in cardiac region.

Pain at night; > bending backward; r.; r., then l.; l. on sneezing; in sternum; from sternum to spine; beneath sternum, compelling frequent deep breathing; in region of second l. rib, near sternum, < deep inspiration; l. side superiorly, with sensitiveness to touch; < towards evening, with oppression, in the evening associated with drawing stiffness in nape and pain in scapulae, wine relieved the chest symptoms, but aggravated the head symptoms; on chest, especially on posterior r. side and lower part, with tightness; creeping; drawing, in various parts; externally in spots, < r. side.

Squeezing pain; under sternum. Constriction; to r. of sternum; as if ribs of both sides were drawn towards each other. Compression from all sides; compression in middle of sternum and anterior part of chest, affecting inspiration; in central anterior part, or constriction, especially in r. ribs, hindering deep breathing. Tightness; in side; with strong, loud respiration. Anxiety (Spig.). Oppression (Phos., Ferr., Chin. Sul.); in r. side, then in whole chest; at night, with frequent deep breathing; of lungs after drinking; between shoulders on deep breathing, with anxiety and stitches; > deep inspiration; compelling frequent inspiration. Heaviness; under sternum, preventing deep inspiration. Fullness; forenoons on walking, with heaviness, internal uneasiness, anxiety and palpitation, > motion in open air.

Painful shocks in l. side superiorly, < breathing. Raw pain under sternum on inspiration. Soreness on posterior surface of sternum, as if bruised, evenings. Bruised feeling in ribs and upper part of chest; in last rib, < touch; in middle of sternum, < touch. Pinching digging in r. side between third and fourth ribs. Gnawing pain in r. clavicle. Shooting, boring, burrowing in l. side between fourth and sixth ribs. Crawling as from beetles.

Heat (Bry.); with weakness; burning under sternum, with pressure (Phos.); in lungs, also with a feeling as if hot fluid would come into the mouth. Feeling as if hot water were poured into chest, then icy coldness, almost with faintness, with frequent shivering and headache in r. temple. Chilliness evenings. Weakness. Aggravation of symptoms in evening. It is characteristic that wine relieves the chest symptoms, namely, the venous congestion, while it aggravates the active trouble in the fibrous structures of the skull and meninges.

Heart.—Stitches; forenoons, < walking; in præcordial region; in region as if in pleura costalis, morning on rising, preventing upright posture and deep breathing, with inclination to cough, > rubbing, then soreness on touch. Cramp about. Aching; in region. Anxiety about (Amyl, Camph.); with quicker, stronger beat; when sitting after much motion, with contracted pulse and constricted chest. Compression in præcordial region. Oppression of præcordial region (Chin.). Pressure inward in region. Weight about. Heat, and disagreeable feeling. Congealed feeling in bloodvessels. Feeling as if circulation were impeded in all vessels. Slow twitchings in region, towards surface of chest.

Palpitation; after eating; on walking; > quiet (Chin.); and anxiety, with increased heat, especially in face; and anxiety, with restlessness and pressive pain in region of heart; with anxiety, difficult breathing, weariness in limbs, sensation of something rushing into head, confusion and flying heat in face. Tumultuous beating, systole and diastole inseparable to ear. Trembling. Fluttering feebly. Impulse weak. Beating but once to every three beats of pulse. Intermittent beating. Irregular beating. Beating quickly while pulse is slow, apparently intermittent. Movement of r. auricle rapid, irregular, not related to beats of ventricle.

Symptoms alternate with wandering, drawing tearing pains.

Clinical.—Exceedingly valuable in acute inflammations, with fever, stitches at heart, violent beating and anguish. The febrile pulse of Acon. is full, hard and rapid. In cardiac inflammations requiring Acon., the patient must lie on the back with the head raised.

Pulse.—Contracted, full, strong, febrile, rapid. Rapid at one time, at another slow. Slow; and full, strong. Small and soft. Tendency to dicrotism. Weak. Imperceptible. Intermittent. Thready. Tremulous. Twitching. Beat of temporal and carotid arteries felt when sitting.

Neck.—Twitching of muscles. Stitches externally. Neuralgic pain in l. side and shoulder. Pain in r. cervical muscles and shoulder-joint, so that he could bend the arm backward only with great pain. Drawing pain; in muscles of r. side of throat and neck; from r. side of neck into ear and shoulder; to l. of nape and in scapula, on moving neck. Pain extending down neck towards r. shoulder. Drawing in muscles (Baptis.); drawing in side. Constriction. Pressure inward as with a finger-tip. Tension in muscles, especially in sterno-cleido-mastoid, and in its attachment to mastoid process, on turning head. Stiffness of r. side, with tenderness on pressure.

Nape.—Stitches; in l. side, with drawing, also < entering house, > open air. Pain in l. side of cervical vertebrae; in nape and about base of brain, with spasms in arms; rheumatic, on moving neck (Cimicif.). Sensation as if the flesh were separated, with a feeling as if the neck would not support the head, and with shootings on moving head. Bruised pain in single muscles, < evenings and nights on lying down. Stiffness (Agar. Rhus t. Sil.); in evening; with jerking pain.

Back.—Stitches. Cutting, extending over l. hip round to abdomen, in a circle. Shooting digging in whole l. side, < inspiration. Pain; < stooping (Æsc. h.); in lower part; rheumatic, in muscles of back and shoulders, in places where the chilly or numb sensations had been most marked. Stiffness (Berb.). Feeling of heartburn all down. Numb feeling.

Spine, crawling pain, as from beetles. Pain extending down spine.

Scapulae.—Stitches between; on deep breathing. Digging boring from r. to front of chest, < deep inspiration. Bruised pain between scapulae. Drawings in r. Drawing pain in lower angle of l. Drawing tearing. Burning gnawing near r. side of dorsal vertebrae.

Lumbar region.—Stitches, with creeping; with drawing. Tearing, < pressure. Boring in l. side. Pain; (Æsc. h., Berb.); r.; l. regions of kidneys; region of l. kidney. Drawing P., < motion of trunk, standing up, stretching, stooping or sitting down, with pain on pressure; while walking, > bending in small of back; drawing pain in sacro-lumbalis and longissimus dorsi, < pressure and motion. Labor-like pain when walking. Tensive pain (Berb.); < stepping, and in sacral region; tensive pain in vertebrae, or bruised feeling, and with gripes as from flatulence. Paralytic pain, > movement and bending inward. Bruised pain extending to nape; bruised pain at union of last lumbar vertebrae with sacrum, with feeling as if small of back were beaten to pieces (Arn.). Tension (Berb.); > bending backward; with drawing, compelling bending backward, sensitiveness; in renal region. Uneasiness in region of r. kidney. Numb feeling, extending into legs.

Sacral region.—Pain; burning P.; sticking crawling in sacroiliac region, which gradually changed to a paralytic pressive pain, lasting nearly all day. Sensitiveness. Stiffness in sacral and hip-joints. Sticking burning in region of coccyx, with a feeling of heat.

Extremities.—Twitching of fingers and toes. Trembling when walking; with tingling and shooting; convulsive distortions; distorted sensation. Stretched involuntarily. Moved incessantly; motions as if muscular sense failed. Paralysis of l. arm and leg, also l., then r. arm and leg; paralyzed feeling in arm and thigh, alternately r. and l., also in arms and feet, with trembling in whole body, especially limbs.

Stitches in feet and arms; backs of hands and feet; drawing gnawing, especially in forearms. Tearing in r. upper arm and upper third of thigh; in r. upper arm towards elbow and in thigh towards knee; alternately in both thighs, r. knee and r. forearm; drawing. Sharp pain in l. knee, then in l. ulnar nerve. Pain in elbows, knees and hip-joint after walking, > pressure; like bone-pain in metacarpal and long bones; drawing, also in joints; stretching. Shattered feeling. Bruised pain; in shoulder and hip-joints after sleep.

Drawing alternately in elbow, knee and calf. Tingling, prickling; in tips of fingers and toes at night. Asleep sensation. Feeling as if circulation stopped. Heaviness; when walking and in open air, with sensitiveness. Motion difficult. Stiffness. Numbness; > walking; in tips of fingers and toes. Weakness; even in bed; after walking; arms and legs; r. knee and l. elbow; especially feet, with sleepiness and ill humor; of joints, especially knee and joints of foot, with twitching in tendons.

Clinical.—Neuralgia, especially of the upper extremities, with numbness of the limb as if the blood did not circulate freely, resulting from a sudden check of perspiration, finds a prompt remedy in Acon. (Aconitum uncinatum, from Virginia, has made some brilliant cures of this sort.) Neuralgic pains in the lower limbs point to its use in sciatica. Acute muscular rheumatism of the back and limbs occasionally demands Acon., but it is rarely useful in true arthritic inflammations. It will be noticed that the pains are usually drawing, tense and numb and relieved by open air.

Upper Extremities.—Shoulder. Stitches in l.; joint and elbow. Tearing in l. joint; to fingers, almost only on motion, with blueness of hand; drawing, in joint. Pain; joints; l. joint; with feeling as if it would sink down; drawing pain, also in l. shoulder and arm, on which he lies, with soreness. Drawing in r., then drawing and tearing in same, with lameness in head of left humerus. Numbness. Weakness of r. joint.

Arm.—Tossed about; backward, above head. Trembling. Stitches. Tearing in r., with prickling-like formication. Pinching in spots near bend of l. elbow. Pain; drawing; drawing and paralytic; drawing and tearing extending along r. forearm, in wrist and fingers. Bruised pain; with sinking down. Boring in l. Contracted sensation from shoulders to finger-tips, with numb, heavy and paralytic feeling. Prickling. Tingling. Numbness; l.; and of hands, with tingling as from a galvanic current. Weariness.

Upper Arm.—Stitches anteriorly in middle of r. at rest; sudden and drawing posteriorly in r. Pressure in r. Drawing pain in r. Drawing on outside, with paralytic stiffness. Drawing numbness on posterior anterior side of l. Weariness of l.

Elbow.—Stitches; extending to wrists, on outside of arms, on flexing fingers to wrists. Tearing in bend; drawing tearing. Pain; after walking; drawing; rheumatic, l., r. Bruised pain in r.

Forearm.—Twitching of muscles. Sticking in inner surface of lower and of l.; drawing, in bones on motion. Tearing drawing, also on outside of r.; undulating, on upper end of l.; in l. forearm, hand and fingers. Pain, cramplike, in l.; in r., as if in bone, with aching in wrist; jerking drawing pain along lower and internal surface of l. to palm; drawing and tearing pain along r. forearm, in wrist and fingers; pain in r. extending along flexor tendon of little finger, < motion. Bruised pain. Weight. Paralytic feeling in r. forearm and hand when writing, > violent motion.

Wrist.—Trembling on moving hand. Stitches. Tearing. Drawing, paralytic pain in r. Drawing. Numbness; painful.

Hand.—Trembling. Wild movements. Pulseless. Stitches in l.; l. metacarpal bones; in dorsum of l.; pulsating stitches in r. palm. Pain in metacarpal bones like bone-pains; constrictive pain in l. palm; cramplike P. in r., also > motion, with shooting; flying growing P. in metacarpi, also in forenoon, and in the finger-joints; lame pain in metacarpi. Sprained feeling in r. metacarpus; in joints of r. Drawn-up feeling. Numbness (Phos.); of palms; and tingling, as from a galvanic current. Paralytic tinglings in l., later in ulnar region of r. Weight.

Fingers.—Clenched. Blueness of nails (Nux v., Op.). Twitching. Cutting in inner side of r. index. Pain in r. thumb-joint; creeping; as from dislocation, in r. thumb-joint on motion. Drawing P. in r., also l. thumb; in r. index; in l. middle finger after getting into bed; drawing lame P. in r. index. Flying growing P. in joints; intermittent lame growing P. in distant joint of l. index. Paralytic P. in thumbs. Twitching P. in r. thumb. Drawn-up feeling; with tingling. Feeling as if asleep on grasping anything. Prickling and tingling; hot prickling in tips, nights.

Numbness; of tips (Sec. c., Phos.). Stiffness of r. index. Weight.

Lower Extremities.—Tottering. Reeling as if drunk, as after a blow on the head. Giving out. Moved perpetually. Paralysis. Drawing pain here and there in l. Drawing along, with discomfort in knees, < l. knee, as after long squatting; drawing in tendinous expansions. Leaden heaviness, < ascending stairs. Numbness, with heaviness and inability to raise them from the ground (Con.); numbness even when walking, so that he has frequently to stop to move the feet back and forth to get rid of the sensation (Ars.). Loses the sensation of standing firmly, as if the feet would rise up.

Thigh.—Paralysis of l. Stitches in muscles. Drawing tearing. Pain in hips; r. hip; hips after walking; hip-joint when walking; r. hip, > walking in open air; as from a bandage, while walking, with fatigue; bruised pain, also in middle of thigh; almost crushing pain in head of femur after lying, with weakness. Drawing pain in r. when walking; in head of l. femur when standing and sitting, < walking; in l. hip-joint on motion; in border of l. hip-bone, extending towards hip-joint; alternately in each, while moving, then in both. Short feeling in tendons of ham. Soreness on touch. Numbness (Ars.). Weakness; after sitting; in head of femur, with pain.

Knee.—Cracking. Unsteadiness; especially of one. Contraction of cords under knee, with bruised pain in l. patella. Stitches in l.; l. patella; deep, slow, over r.; drawing in l.; flying, in evening, with icy coldness; tearing, in r. Tearing in r. knee and leg; drawing tearing; jerking, in inside; sudden, in l. Pressing gnawing in patella. Pain (Benz. ac.); after walking (Bry.); r.; in patella, also on walking; bruised, also in patella; drawing, to heel and back again; rheumatic (Benz. ac.); tense, in r. patella; intermittent, in l. patella on walking in open air. Tension of cap; in l. then r. patella, < descending stairs. Weakness; in evening, extending over r. thigh and leg; in tendons, with twitching.

Leg.—Failure; on attempting to ascend stairs. Cramp; in calves; r. calf. Pricking. Pain; in r.; in r. calf, with tension. Drawing pain in r.; on inside of l. Paralytic and bruised pain. Drawing at inside of both legs, < walking, with sensitiveness of leg to touch and pain as if sore; drawing in tibiae, with stretching; paralytic drawing in r. leg and tendo-achillis to heel. Feeling as if going away from him, with vertigo. Heaviness; of r.; with swollen feeling; in calves, < r., with tension; feeling of a weight of the size of a palm on the outside of each. Asleep sensation in lower part. Tingling (Calc. ph.). Numbness; of lower part; of calves. Weakness; after sitting; on beginning to walk.

Ankle.—Tearing going upward in l. outer. Pain; > compression; drawing pain in l.; rheumatic pain in anterior part of l. Sensation as if tied in morning.

Foot.—Cramp in sole. Stitches on dorsum of l.; on r.; from heel to popliteal space. Pain in r. instep; in r. heel, < treading; drawing, in r. heel after getting into bed; burning, in r. foot; in tendo-achillis; drawing, in r. tendo-achillis; intermittent, in r. tendo-achillis on walking in open air, and in dorsum of l. foot. Shortened feeling in tendo-achillis; with bent feeling. Contracted feeling in both tendons achillis, so that, especially in evening after sitting or in morning on rising, it was difficult to stand erect without bending the knees. Paralytic drawing. Heaviness; leaden, also while sitting and standing. Tingling. Prickling. Asleep sensation; r. while sitting. Numbness; spreading upward, with tingling; sudden. Weakness; < ascending steps; < during rest; in tendons of joints, with twitching.

Toes.—Twitching. Stitches in r. fourth; in third and fourth r., when sitting; flying, in third and fourth r., after getting into bed; hot stitches at night. Lancing pain in r. great, < on inside of ball, after getting into bed, and in third and fourth r. toes and in l. metatarsal bones. Asleep when walking, r. Numbness gradually spreading over whole body. Numbness of tips.

Skin.—Gooseflesh. Duskiness. Horripilation. Blackness of all parts. Pallor; of fingers. Yellow. Redness of cheeks; of face, with heat; red spots. Discolorations on limbs. Elasticity and smoothness. Shrivelling. Dryness; with rustling and coldness; like parchment. Tightness, with dry heat. Desquamation; of face. Vesicles; on temples; humid on l. side of scrotum; itching; painful on lower limbs, also on l. lower limb. Heat-rash on forehead. Nettle-rash on backs of hands. Spots like flea-bites on hands, face, etc. Pimples on forehead; like flea-bites on backs of hands; itching and biting, here and there, and filled with yellow lymph; itching on upper lip; red, on flexor side of thumb, index and middle fingers, and painful to pressure. Painful funnele at tip of nose. Tremor in muscles of shoulder. with bruised pain on touch.

Burning and scratching stitches. Dartings here and there, with a raw feeling, ending with pain as if wounded. Sensation as if epidermis were separated from cutis by an intervening layer, < r. leg. Sensation as when in a vapor bath. Prickling on face. Tickling on face; tickling, causing uneasiness, < change of temperature. Feeling as from electric sparks; especially on wings of nose.

Formication; extending through whole body, < arms and legs; with burning; in temporal region; face; face, with burning in skin; r. cheek; back, arms and thighs; limbs; arms; r. forearm; hands; fingers; finger-tips; fingers while writing; fingers, on getting into a warm bath, with tingling; in l. middle and index fingers, with warmth; especially of hairy parts, except head, with biting; here and there with shuddering, < upper arm and lower leg. Fuzziness where the formication had been. Insensibility.

Irritation of cheeks. Itching; in muscular parts, < forearms; face; back; legs; < about nose; scrotum; prepuce, > rubbing, but returning; voluptuous, on glans penis; tickling, on inside of l. upper arm; on inside of leg; burning, < inside lower limbs and about knees.

Clinical.—While Acon. is not applicable to the cure of diseases of the skin dependent on a constitutional dyscrasia, yet its power to produce vesicles associated with the neuralgic pains naturally leads to its use in the prodromal stage of Herpes zoster (Ran. b.). The nervous sensations, especially formication and the asleep-sensation, point to its use in certain neuroses.

Sleep.—Yawning; morning on rising, with shivering; interrupted; spasmodic; without sleepiness; desire to yawn and stretch. Sleepiness; towards noon; afternoon; after eating; falls asleep standing. Feels as if sleeping in the air with no firm bed under him. Feels herself sleeping while still awake. Stupid sleep. Waking difficult. Sleeplessness; till 4 A.M. Restless night; leaves the bed frequently. Starting up, moaning and talking in sleep; starts up in sleep and says some one is holding her. Twitchings on falling asleep; in limbs. Waking frequently.

Dreams. Anxious (Rhus t.); before midnight; and waking with a start. Fearful. Nightmare. That she was falling from a height. Vivid; about the events of the day. Half the night, of a subject which occupies his attention long after waking. Towards morning, containing an explanation of what was a riddle to him while awake. Confused; and long. Of subjects that have been foreign to his thoughts. Extravagant, in a half-sleep. Strange, found himself laughing on waking. Delightful. Of thieves. Vexatious, quarrelsome. In which he talked. Lascivious (Phos. ac.). Waking dreaminess, imagining that he is far from home.

Chilliness; morning on rising, with yawning; afternoon; evenings; evenings with headache; towards evening, with thirst, hot head and face, red cheeks and out-pressing headache (Bry.); towards evening, with white cold hands; at night, with heat, thirst and restlessness; at night, then copious sweat; at night on lying down, then sweat in latter part of night; after siesta general feeling of rigor and coldness in r. upper arm, then in evening warm feeling, like a catarrhal fever; on slightest motion; after eating; after eating, with weakness and sleepiness, at night heat and tossing about and sleep interrupted by dreams; in open air; when walking. : by wine, with distended abdomen, salivation and general sick feeling; with anxiety, also during most of the symptoms; with anxiety as if blood would overflow vessels, especially coldness in face, > by open air and motion; with pain in r. temple; cold body, with hot forehead, hot lobules of ears and inward dry heat; especially in soles and knees, with confused head, heat of face, then full, hard, rapid pulse, flushes of pleasant warmth over body, anxiety and warmth about heart, inclined to sweat on forehead and temples, sweat over whole body, especially on head, nape, chest and abdomen. while soles always seem blown upon by a cool wind; with paleness and sunken features; with stiffness of whole body; one cheek being red and hot, the other pale and cold; with blueness of face and hands; with desire to be covered with many clothes; with yawning and stretching; with faintness; with sweat.

Shuddering at night on lying down. Shaking chill at night, then hot dry skin, then sweat. Sensitiveness to cold draught. Feeling as if he would take cold. Symptoms of having caught cold, violent coryza, shivering over back, < towards evening, difficult breathing, pressure beneath sternum, at times flushes of heat, pulse full, accelerated. Chilliness alternating with heat; at night, also with spots of gooseflesh, which disappear on breaking out of sweat; after coldness; with tingling and nervousness, then dry heat, soreness on touch and anxiety. Sudden chilliness, > by eating. External, with pallor and internal heat; with dryness, and with rustling of skin; with sweat. Long-lasting, then transient heat and copious sweat, with waving and swaying of head.

Scalp sensitive to cold air; cold sensation in scalp; forehead cold; rigor from vertex down to coccyx, then agreeable warmth in skin; feeling as if a cool air were spreading over vertex and occiput from a ball which seemed to rise from umbilical region. In face, internally, with external heat. Shivers upward towards chest.

Chills over back; shivering over back; chilliness in back and limbs; and arms; and upper arms; down back, < evening; in afternoon and towards evening, and in feet, with heaviness in forehead and vertex; along spine, also with gooseflesh creeping along galca apocynotica; with a feeling of numbness in small of back, extending into lower limbs, and while sitting or standing it seems as if the lower limbs went to sleep, > walking; when in open air after breakfast, and in chest, then heat (with frontal headache), which motion renewed; creeping over back and thighs; extending over legs, with cold sweat and cold feeling in face, then heat and rapid pulse and symptoms of coryza; from middle of spine to lumbar muscles of both sides, with flushes of heat in head; between shoulders and down back, with formation, < motion, with cold tips of fingers and toes; internal, extending from back over lower limbs, while upper limbs are warm, with cold sweat and face icy-cold to touch.

From precordia to limbs after midnight, then dry heat, with febrile pulse, which he could hear in his head, then sweat in morning. In limbs; creeping; in lower, then upper, as often as he moved, extending to whole body, between skin and muscle, with gooseflesh, > violent exercise in open air, returning when standing or lying; especially in limbs, with blueness of nails of fingers and toes; in limbs, with blueness of hands, fingers, chin and jaw.

Coldness of arms; < l.; shuddering, < upper arms and thighs; and legs, with shivering, even in face. Hands; of one, with insensibility; and feet, while face is hot; and feet, evenings, also with flushing of face, < evening; and feet, with shuddering over back, while head and body are warm; at noon, and in feet, with heat of head, cheeks and hands in afternoon, and with frequent alternations of temperature; towards evening, and in feet, then nausea about middle of sternum, nausea > eating, then heat of face. Fingers with blue nails; tips of fingers and toes.

Spreads over all lower limbs, fingers are deathly pale; down inside of lower limb from middle of thigh, < on knee and sole. Down fore part of thighs, as from trickling of water. Legs, < warm room and walking; creeping, on inside of leg. Knee, in evening, with flying shootings. Feet (China). - toes; feet, with sweat of toes and soles; soles. Under skin; shivering as if between skin and flesh. < back and abdomen, even during sweat.

Heat: in afternoon; afternoon, with weakness, < limbs; evening, with rapid pulse and symptoms of coryza; towards evening, continuing next day and for a week, with difficult breathing, distress in region of heart and intermittent pulse, five beats were full, hard and rapid and the sixth intermittent, with pallor, emaciation and sickly look (at night, with dyspnoea, restlessness and pain); waking at night, with dryness of mouth and throat and confusion of head and vertex. Aggravation in evening, with swollen veins; after getting into bed; on going to bed, < lower limbs; indoors. Amelioration in morning. With thirst. Drinks but little during the heat, yet has dry lips. Feeling all day of impending fever, with nausea, want of appetite, and aching pains in whole body, especially in limbs. With throwing off of clothes. (China. Op. Verat.)

Hot sensation over whole body, with red cheeks, childish mirth, and headache on turning eyes upward and sideways, or with red cheeks and heat of head, shuddering over whole body, or with red cheeks, rigor, weeping and headache. Internal heat; at night; with thirst; with moderate thirst for beer; with chilliness and nausea, fever, > going into open air and walking; with prostration. Flushing heat; in evening; < entering house. Dry heat; with tightness of skin, also with numbness and tingling spreading from feet. Heat extending over whole body, especially stomach and abdomen, with sweat.

Hot feeling in upper part of body, especially face, as if sweat would break out. In head; with forehead hot to touch, and with rigor over rest of body on motion; externally on vertex; suddenly in head and face. Face; < evening; cheeks; cheeks, with redness and feeling as if face were growing larger; heat in cheeks and palms in evening; l. cheek seemed swollen and hot, but was cool to touch; heat alternately in face and throat; dry, in face towards evening, with anxiety; flushing, especially of face and ears, with pressing pain in region of l. frontal eminence, extending towards upper orbital margin. In region of coccyx, with sticking burning. Pleasant, from back over whole body, especially in back, with sweat; creeping, over back; flushing in back. Hot sensation in hands, then over whole body, even in chest, without external heat; heat in palms evenings; burning along dorsum of index. Heat of skin; then coldness. Burning through all mucous membranes.

Sweat; at night; after midnight, relieving all symptoms; < after stool. Profuse; in morning (after nightly delirium); after convulsions. Exhausting. Sour. Steaming. Cold; on head; forehead; on brow, with almost imperceptible pulse and sparkling eyes; back; hands; palms; feet. Cold and clammy; on face; forehead; hands and feet. Gushing cold sweat, with nausea, vertigo and headache. On forehead and precordia. Under nose; on face; abdomen after stool; around waist and lower limbs; chest; hands; on whichever cheek he lies on; l. wrist; inside of thighs and on scrotum, in bed, with itching, > cold water.

Clinical.—The Aconite fever is sthenic in type and for the most part not remittent, though the aggravation towards evening is decided. It is not useful in fever as a symptom of any form of malarial or septic poisoning, nor of a localized inflammatory process, but is adapted to a general febrile state without a pathological lesion (in this respect differing from Iodine, Bryonia, Gelsemium, etc.). The never-failing characteristic is the mental anguish, without which Aconite is useless; if the patient be quiet and apathetic Acon. is not the remedy, no matter how high the temperature; thirst and restlessness are present. Frequently there are alternations of chill and fever, but the sweat is usually critical and terminates the attack. It is valuable in the chill as well as the febrile stage preceding the development of many eruptions and lesions, but when the preliminary storm has passed and the lesion has become established, the picture changes from Aconite to some other remedy.

Aconitum Ferox.

A plant allied to A. Napellus, L., but more deadly in its effects. In India it is called Bish or Bikh. It contains both Aconitine and pseudoaconitine, but more of the latter (differing thus from A. Napellus, which contains more of the former) and a third alkaloid.

General Action.—Its action is quite similar in a general way to that of A. Napellus, more violent; it seems not to cause neuralgia of the trigeminus.

Weakness; on waking; muscular. Sensibility diminished. Touch blunted, feeling as if he had on gloves, and as if he walked on woolen carpets, no pain on pinching cheek. Amelioration in afternoon; A. after coffee. Mental activity increased; then diminished so that he could do no mental work. Anxiety. Constant talking. Confusion of mind; of head. Dulness of head on waking. Vertigo; on attempting to sit by the stove, with flickering, trembling of limbs, oppression and nausea. Pupils dilated, sluggish. Lachrymation (from local application), > by cold applications, with burning, swelling and burning of upper lid, photophobia, next day lids and ball red. Cheeks felt fuzzy. Burning of lips; < by hot drinks. Boring in nose. Sneezing.

Tongue coated yellowish-white; formication on tongue involving whole mouth; T. insensible, like leather. Salivation. Taste flat, pasty; T. sharp, burning. Burning in mouth; and throat; < by food, > by cold water; in pharynx; in tongue. Constriction of throat. Little appetite. Eructations. Nausea; after breakfast. Vomiting. Pain in stomach; after eating; on pressure; drawing in region of S. and sacrum, spreading over abdomen, < by pressure. Heat in stomach. Rumbling in abdomen. Gurgling. Stools dark, semi-liquid. Diarrhoea, with pain. Micturition frequent and copious. Urine light, then dark.

Inclination to cough. Dyspnoea; must sit up with head leaning on hands. Respiration rapid. Anxiety, with suffocation from feeling of paralysis in respiratory muscles. Pulse slow; P. small and weak. Limbs weak and trembling. Walking uncertain, difficult and fatiguing. Formication < over face; over whole body, changing from one nerve to another, causing painful uneasiness, constant change of position, weakness on attempting to rise, vertigo, blackness before eyes, trembling and nausea, all > by lying. Sleeplessness. Desire for warmth. Icy coldness of body, especially of limbs. Skin cold; and dry, rustling; must be covered. Temperature increased. Sensation as if glowing hot wires were stuck into him, > by sweat. Sweat, with calor mordax.

Clinical.—It has proved palliative in cardiac dyspnoea (Curare, Phos.) (with "Cheyne-Stokes" respiration).

Aconitum.

An alkaloid obtained from Aconitum Napellus, L.; composition $C_{33}H_{43}NO_{12}$. (Commercial aconitine is mixed with pseudoaconitine, both obtained from the above species.)

General Action.—Paralysis, first peripheral then central. Loss of sensation, then also of motion. Depression of heart's action, of blood pressure, of respiration and temperature. Intense hyperæmia of nerve centers, brain and spine; heat from head extending over body; neuralgia, especially of trigeminus.

Antidotes.—Strychnine, Atropia. In poisoning, stimulants, ammonia, heat, digitalis, etc., according to indications.

Generalities.—Throws himself about the bed continually. Sudden change, limbs turned colder, heart's sounds and pulse disappeared, skin turned of a marble color, face turgescens, pupils dilated, conjunctiva injected, cold, clammy sweat over whole body, breathing more laborious and superficial, tracheal rattling, peculiar, clear, short moaning, tonic spasms beginning in fingers, then in face, trismus, after a while general clonic convulsions, unconsciousness, this paroxysm lasted about five or six minutes, on return of consciousness he thought he had had bad dreams, in fifteen minutes return of convulsions, during which respiration almost stopped. Convulsive movements excited by touching him. Glowing tingling over whole body. Oppression. Malaise. Restlessness. Weakness; from least effort. Sensibility diminished, < on hands and cheeks. Numbness, < in face and throat, with tingling.

Mind.—Irritable and quick in his replies. Distraction. Power of attention impaired. Ideas sluggish. Memory weak.

Head.—Aching; < by mental or physical exertion, with faceache; with heat and tightness. Fulness. Heaviness; and dullness. Vertigo. Temples, constriction; aching, and along infraorbital nerve; fulness; throbbing; painful tension and pricking, involving face. In forehead, cheeks, upper jaws (over whole tract of trigeminal) drawing pressing stretching, alternating with pain, becoming steady and severe, < by motion and mental effort. Pain in supraorbital nerve.

Eyes and Ears.—Strained feeling in eyes. Lachrymation (from local application), with swelling of lids and redness. Pupils very mobile, finally dilated; dilated, sluggish; contracted, sluggish. Lids numb. Vision dim. The lamplight was disagreeable. Blind and deaf. Ringing in ears; and pressure. Roaring.

Face.—Distorted, < about mouth (facies hippocratica). Darting pain, sometimes with vomiting. Tense and swollen feeling. Fulness in cheeks. Sensitive and swollen. Tingling, and in mouth. Lips burning; with numbness, extending over tongue, mouth and throat.

Mouth and Throat.—Burning on tip of tongue; inside mouth after supper; in mouth, spreading to throat and stomach, with acridity, then burning and numbness of lips, tongue and pharynx, with salivation. Salivation. Taste disgustingly bitter. Throat dry. Every attempt to swallow was followed by spasmodic contractions, as in hydrophobia. Swallowing difficult, with pains in nape and behind jaws in parotid region, so that in eating he had to press the nape with his hands. Burning in throat; and over larynx; in gullet.

Stomach, Etc.—Appetite lost. Eructations. Nausea; when erect; on rising from a recumbent position, with inability to see. Vomiting; violent, from sudden jerking of abdominal muscles, accompanied by a loud shout. Gastric and cardiac anguish, with sensation as if all parts except head were filled with lead. Heat in stomach. Rumbling in abdomen. Micturition difficult. Dysuria and occasionally retention, with hypogastric pains. Urine increased; and dark; micturition delayed. Nocturnal emissions.

Respiratory Organs, Etc.—Cough, with easy expectoration. Respiration difficult; and short, irregular, superficial, sometimes 40 per minute, a few minutes later much slower; oppressed and sighing; slow and deep, with slow pulse. Moaning. Chest oppressed; anxious pressure. Heart's action feeble; and irregular, quick, sounds heard only at apex and scarcely distinguishable. Pulse rises; at first more frequent, during the heat, then slow, small, weak, and at times dicrotic; small, irregular, dicrotous, sometimes scarcely to be felt.

Extremities.—Bruised feeling, with difficulty in grasping objects. Relaxation. Numbness; of forearms and hands, with heaviness. Tingling in fingers. Gait heavy. Legs tremble.

Skin.—Red spots as from punctures. Pallor, coldness and sweat; pallor and coldness, < limbs, which were bedewed with cold, clammy sweat. Prickling, < on face and limbs; face and forearms; P. following a nerve; in forearms and hands, with numbness and heaviness of them; tingling, in legs, running to spine and head. Formication, < by quiet; F. on forearms; on face, with feeling as if epidermis were scaling off.

Sleep.—Yawning. Sleepiness. Sleep disturbed; and dreamy. Frequent waking.

Fever.—Coldness. Heat; with pricking and smarting; numbing glow; of skin (from external application), with lacerations and pricklings, then heaviness and numbness of the part affected, skin seemed raised up and contracted by muscles beneath, anaesthesia; sudden, in head and face, extending over body, < in region of stomach, with sweat. Sweat.

Actæa Spicata.

Actæa spicata, L. A tincture is prepared from the fresh root.

Relations.—Cnicifuga, Clematis, Aconite.

The pains are generally tearing, drawing. Fermentation in blood. Pulsations. Weakness after eating; from talking; walking in open air; sudden. Delirium, during fever; furious. Unconsciousness. Headache persisting after the fever; headache in skull and periosteum. Boring in head. Vertigo, with nausea. Head symptoms < at night and by walking; mostly periodical. Pressure in forehead from the broad daylight. Twitching pains in temples. Pain in vertex; hammering, in occiput. Sensation of horripilation on scalp. Pimples on scalp. Ophthalmia like catarrhal inflammation. Suggillations in conjunctiva. Burning lachrymation. Vision blue; vision of spots when looking steadily.

Twitching pain in ears, when sneezing or blowing nose. Ear sore to touch. Murmuring in ears after sleep, < by anxiety. Nostril red. Bruised pain in nose. Nasal mucus tinged with blood. Nosebleed during oppression of chest. Yellow around mouth. Rheumatic pain in face (Acon.). Lips chapped. Salivation. Fetid breath. Pain in submaxillary glands when chewing. Tearing in throat, < by cold morning or evening air. Throat sore when speaking.

Appetite sharp in morning. Hunger, with aversion to food. Nausea. Vomiting; sour (Calc. c.). Sticking in epigastrium on deep inspiration. Pain at stomach pit; in stomach, with difficult breathing. Cramp in stomach; drawing in epigastric region. Uneasiness in stomach after eating. Emission of flatus. Spasmodic contractions of bowels. Compression in abdomen. Pain in r. hypochondrium on pressure; P. as before diarrhea; as before or during menses. Painful shock in abdomen at each inspiration. Uneasiness in A. Pulsations in r. hypochondrium. Left hypochondrium almost insensible. Stool pappy; omitted. Frequent urging to urinate; with painful micturition. White sediment in urine.

Respiration difficult, with pain in stomach; with pain in hip; inspiration; on account of weakness, especially expiration. Bruised pain in sacral region when lying on side. Pulsation in kidney region. Swelling of joints after slight fatigue. Pain in hands as from paralytic weakness. Lower limbs swollen; boring, > by stretching; weakness after changes of temperature. Thighs tremble when lifted. Knees weary. Horripilation after drinking; H., then heat with vomiting. Cold, numb and discolored fingers. Sweat on head (Calc. c.); cheek on which he lies; viscid; cold, with malaise (Calc. c.).

Clinical.—Almost the only use of this drug has been for subacute rheumatic gout of the small joints, associated with sour stomach.

Æsculus Hippocastanum.

Æsculus hippocastanum, L. (Horse-chestnut.) Natural order Sapindaceæ.

A tincture is prepared from the frësh, ripe, hulled nuts.

General Action.—Most marked on lower bowel (engorged hæmorrhoidal veins). Excessive pains in back and hips. Irritation of mucous membrane of throat.

Allies.—Aloe, Bap., Bell., Berb., Diosc., Nit. ac., Phyto., Pod., Sulph.

Generalities.—Tearing in back, r. side and shoulders. Pain on walking; walking erect. Soreness; on motion; on waking; of arm, back, lower limbs, < small of back; morning on waking, < calves, thighs, back, shoulders, neck, upper limbs and chest. Fulness; of dependent parts. Heart, lungs, stomach and brain feel as if too full of blood. Malaise; with dull stupefying feeling in head. Disinclined to rise after waking. Weakness; from walking; in joints; as from walking far. Faintness. Joints stiff. Amelioration from eructation.

Mind.—Inability to fix attention. Cheerfulness. Clearness, with light feeling in anterior lobes, but heaviness and dullness in occiput. Confusion. Feeling as if death were impending during the darting pain in trachea, followed by exalted condition of brain and nervous system. Disinclination to work. Gloomy forebodings. Irritability. Memory lost. Sadness. Stupidity. Thoughts rapid. Unconsciousness on waking.

Clinical.—The patients, as a rule, are despondent and irritable.

Head.—Aching; dull here and there, especially in r. temple and occiput, then dull stitches in forehead and temple. Feeling of a board upon it. Confusion; with vertigo. Heaviness; dull, especially in region of r. ear. Intoxicated feeling. Vertigo; afternoon; with balancing in head. Forehead. Aching; with fluent coryza; with constrictive feeling in skin of forehead; as during cold in head; flying, and in temples; neuralgic. Pressure; with nausea. Throbbing in eminence. Aching over l. eye; over r. eye. Region of causality, neuralgic pain, r. darting towards l., with constriction in skin of forehead; uneasiness l. Sinus, fulness. Temples. Aching l., acute, r.; with soreness; flying. Dullness. Stitches, l., with nausea. Vertex. Fulness; and pressure. Parietal, aching above r. temple. Occiput. Aching, with flushes of heat in integument of occiput, nape and shoulders; extending to ears. Bruised feeling, with lameness in nape. Heaviness. Pressure on cerebellum. Scalp. Hyperæsthesia. Soreness of r. side from lying on it.

Eyes.—Heat. Pain, light and giddy in r. when near light; shooting pain in l. Smarting. Twitching r. Weight. Deep-seated burning and stinging in l. orbit, as if pain surrounded ball, with coldness in eye. Twitching of lids. Tries to keep from winking. Burning in inner canthi. Lachrymation. Eye-balls sore. Pupils dilated, contracting slowly. Vision. Flickering. Illusions.

Ears.—Burning. Fulness. Pressure about r.

Nose.—Coryza; with cool feeling on inspiration; with fulness in nose and forehead; with pressure in forehead, especially at root of nose; fluent, with frontal headache; fluent, with twisting in front part of nose. Drawing in right nostril as in coryza. Mucus more watery; l. nostril full of thick mucus. Pain, shooting. Sensitiveness to inspired air. Sneezing. Feeling as after snuff. Soreness and fulness. Pain in r. bone; pressure in l. bone. Mucous membrane, sensitiveness, causing a cold feeling; swollen sensation. Pressure at root. Posterior nares dry; also palate; stinging and burning, and in soft palate.

Face.—Flushed after rubbing. Pale, miserable appearance. Twitching of muscles under l. eye. Lips feel hot.

Mouth.—Teeth. Oily feeling. Pain in sound. Tongue. Coat thick yellow; dirty white. Pain sharp, biting. Scalded feeling; with constriction of fauces. Swollen feeling. Uncontrollable, causing inability to speak long words distinctly. Tip, biting and stinging; soreness. Mouth. Burning; and in œsophagus. Dryness; and in pharynx, with soreness. Scraping, irritation or burning, extending to stomach. Salivation; with oily taste; with coppery taste. Taste bitter; flat; like licorice; metallic; slimy; sweet. Sub-maxillary glands, increased secretion. Parotid glands sore when exposed to wind.

Throat.—Acrid feeling. Biting. Congestion. Inspired air feels cooler. Constriction (Bap.); with dull pain on each side of tonsils. Burning; when swallowing. Dryness (Bell.); after eating; increase of dry feeling, then secretion of mucus; with contraction. Excoriation (Phyto.). Formication. Feeling as if something had lodged in it. Mucus, causing cough. Pain > eating a grape; sharp, biting pain; pain as if burnt. Pricking and pressing, with fulness in epigastrium and eructations. Raw feeling. Shooting. Soreness in forenoon, > in afternoon. Stinging. Swallowing difficult; inclined to swallow, with dryness and stiffness in throat (Bell.), with pain in tonsils, with neuralgic pain in fauces. Ticking causing cough. Upper part, fulness. Pharynx, dryness; irritated feeling, and in mouth. Tonsils and soft palate congested; with aching. œsophagus, burning; constricted, scraped feeling; and in throat, causing disposition to hawk; dryness.

Clinical.—Is a valuable remedy for follicular inflammation of the posterior wall of the pharynx, with the symptoms above emphasized; it is to be compared especially with Phytolacca.

Stomach.—Appetite little. Increased; with sick feeling in stomach. Eructations; of air; of air with waterbrash; of mucus; periodical, of viscid mucus. Nausea; with burning and salivation; with eructations; with ineffectual urging to stool. Retching. Violent vomiting. Stomach aching and rumbling; aching extending downward. Burning; as if it contained water. Cutting. Distress; with pain in bowels; in epigastrium; distress, with nausea; burning, in epigastric region, and in umbilical region, with aching in lumbar region, < walking; burning, in cardiac portion. Dyspepsia. Faintness in pit. Fulness; after eating; in epigastrium. Fluttering in pit. Fulness; at epigastrium. Gnawing and emptiness in morning. Gripping in epigastrium. Flatulent gripping from stomach to umbilical region. Heat; in epigastrium. Pain; after eating; in epigastrium; about and below pyloric extremity; acute; burning; in pyloric portion; dull, in cardiac portion; extending to r. lobe of liver; below pit, causing faint feeling; neuralgic in region. Pressure as from a stone at pit. Soreness; of epigastrium. Periodical tightness at pit, with labored breathing. Twisting at pit.

Abdomen.—Distention; > by general sweat. Rumbling. Emission of flatus; fetid; with gripping. Cramp-like contraction before stool. Cramp. Constriction. Gripping at each inspiration. Pinching before stool. Pain alternating with pain in chest; P. extending to small of back; flying. Soreness on touch. Distress. Feeling as after severe diarrhoea. Burning.

Stitches in r. hypochondrium; in l.; deep-seated above r. hip. Pinching in r. hypochondrium. Aching in hypochondria; through to back, < by inspiration; in r., < by walking; in r. lower lobe of liver; r. lobe of liver; in region of gall-bladder (Diosc.); shifting, in l. hypochondrium. Soreness in r. hypochondrium (Bry.). Fulness in r. hypochondrium (Pod.). Distress in liver. Umbilical region, fine stitches; cutting; pinching below umbilicus; pain; pain after stool; pain after difficult stool; and in hypogastric region; soreness; distress; distress, and in hypogastric region, with urging to stool and rumbling; burning distress. Rumbling in hypogastrum. Cutting in l. groin. Pain in hypogastric region. Neuralgic pain in r. groin.

Clinical.—The action of this drug on the liver associated with engorged portal circulation, especially in large hemorrhoids, is extremely marked; see symptoms above and compare with Pod.

Rectum.—Burning after stool (Aloë, Nit. ac., Sulph.). Constriction; after stool. Dryness; with heat (Aloë); followed by moisture. Fulness. Itching and dryness (Sul.), with stiffness of skin and adjacent cellular tissue. Feeling as if mucous membrane were thick and obstructed stool, and as if rectum would protrude if the effort were continued. Pressure; with inclination to stool and eructations. Soreness; with sensation as if something would pass off all the time. Feeling as if full of small sticks (Nit. ac.). Anus. Extreme flow of blood to, from rubbing. Burning (Sul. Nit. ac., Aloë). Sphincter unable to contract. Cutting after stool (Aloë). Fulness (Aloë); after walking, with itching. Heat (Sul.). Itching (Sul.). Pain. Pressure (Sul.). Prolapsus; prolapsed feeling after stool; prolapsed feeling, with backache. Raw feeling. Soreness (Berb.). Urging to stool with every eructation; with stool; after stool; with distress in umbilical and hypogastric regions, and rumbling; with desire to remain long at stool; with shivering; constant; constant, with pain in r. hypochondrium and stomach. Ineffectual.

Clinical.—For protruding, purple piles with the symptoms noted this drug has been found extremely valuable, and for these troubles it has won its greatest laurels; especially associated with them and almost characteristic of the drug are the severe pains in the sacrum and small of back and the fulness in the region of the liver.

Stool.—Black and soft; first part black and hard, last part almost as white as milk, then tearing in anus. Copious and soft, followed by burning and feeling of swelling and constriction in rectum. First half dark, rest light. Diarrhoea; of ingesta. Difficult; then soreness, aching and fulness in rectum; difficult and dry; and scanty; and large, hard, then pain and feeling as if anus protruded. Frequent. Hard, with soreness of anus. Knotty. Light-colored. Liquid; preceded by gripping. Mixed in character. Mushy, with pain in lumbar region. Omitted. Rope-like. Scanty. Small. Thin.

Mituriation.—Frequent. Urging to. Urine dark, scanty, scalding. Hot. Increased in amount. Retained.

Genital Organs.—Pain. Penis, dull and heavy shooting pain through or near belt. Testicles; drawing l.; soreness. Lentorrhoea.

Respiratory Organs.—Glottis and pharyngo-laryngeal mucous membrane dry and stiff. Larynx dry (Bell.); and tickling; tickling, scraping, and in pharynx; tickling, causing cough, with mucous expectoration. Trachea, throbbing, darting pain, causing tickling. Cough; dry; dry hacking, from constriction of fauces, with irritation of epiglottis. Expectoration frequent; thick, then watery mucus;ropy mucus; sweetish mucus. Respiration labored.

Chest.—Constriction; in lower part. Burning distress. Heat in; with coldness rising up. Pain in r. lung on motion upward and downward when breathing; pain, alternating with pain in abdomen; pain as if stone lay on pit of stomach. Raw feeling. Shooting pain in sternum. Soreness in and over lungs, with rush of blood, on full inspiration. Stitches l.; then r.; in l. side; in lower lobe of l. lung. — passing urine. Pain in sternum as if a piece were torn out. Tightness. Twitching, to l. shoulder. Warmth.

Heart.—Burning in region. Pain in apex; acute pain in apex; burning in apex; darting in region, with fulness and palpitation; neuralgic, in apex; neuralgic, in region, arresting breath. Palpitation; periodical; periodical, with anxiety. Stitches in region. Twitching over region. Pulse accelerated; soft and weak.

Neck and Back.—Neck.—Glands enlarged and sore to touch. Lameness and weariness in nape. Pain; in nape; dull, heavy in nape. Soreness, with pricking. Back.—Aching; morning; between shoulders; in small of back (Berb., Phyto.). — motion (Phyto.); in sacrum and hips (Berb.). — walking and stooping; making it difficult to get up after sitting. Distress in dorsal region. Lameness and weariness in small of back; lameness and strained feeling in r. lumbar region, extending to gluteal muscle. Pain; between shoulders; lumbar region; small of back and hips when getting up. — motion; sacrum; in lumbosacral region, and on stooping; sacral and lower lumbar region, after difficult stool. Stiffness. Stitches. Tension in small of back and hips when walking (Berb.). Weariness.

Clinical.—These pronounced symptoms of the back are usually associated with hemorrhoids, but the drug has also been used for lumbago not associated with any hepatic or hæmorrhoidal disease; even dysmenorrhœa with the peculiar sacro-iliac pains has been relieved.

Limbs.—Heaviness. Spasms. Nails blue. Stretching. Shoulders, pain. Arms, aching; neuralgic pain; paralysis of r.; tearing and jerking of r. Forearms, numbness with pricking; darting pain in l. Cannot control muscles to write well. Hands, pricking after washing; stinging. Tottering. Limbs ache when weight of body rests on them. Knees ache. Legs ache; weak. Calves sore. Tendo-achillis sore. Feet swell; after walking. Corns sore.

Skin.—Fornication in front of temple; on nose. Fulness, as from too much blood in body. Gooseskin. Itching all over, especially around waist; itching of testicles. Redness and flying heat of l. side of face, red spot on forehead from pressure of hat; large red spots on face on rubbing after washing.

Sleep.—Yawning; constant. Sleepiness; stupefying. Frequent waking. Dreams distressing; dreams that he is fighting in a battle; that he saw a man in his room.

Fever.—Chilliness; from riding in cool air; of skin, when cold air strikes it, with chattering of teeth. Rigors. Heat; general; of head; integuments of occiput, extending to ears; burning of l. cheek; hands hot and dry; burning of palms and soles; skin hot and dry; in flashes over body; flying, before eruptions. General sweat, with decline of abdominal distension.

Æthusa.

Æthusa cynapium, L. Natural order of plants, Umbelliferae. A tincture is prepared from the whole plant when in flower.

General Action.—This plant, formerly supposed to be poisonous, is now proved to be harmless; large quantities can be taken with impunity; it seems, however, to possess a disagreeable essential oil which provokes nausea and vomiting and causes other symptoms. It is particularly useful in gastro-intestinal disorders of children (vomiting, diarrhoea, and even convulsions).

Allied Drugs.—Sulph., Sul. ac., Tart. emet., Kali b., Ox. ac., Ip., Grat., Gam.

Generalities.—Hands, head and face seem swollen after walking in open air, > in the house. Clothes seem loose. Secretions diminished. Stabbing pain. Seething in blood in morning on waking. Uneasiness. Weakness, with sleepiness in afternoon. Amelioration in open air; after entering house; after broth.

Clinical.—A case of infantile paralysis, with the characteristic indications for Æthusa, is reported cured.

Mind.—Anxiety. Dulness like intoxication. Ear-nestness. Excited, lively in forenoon, apprehensive, sad in afternoon. Fixed idea of a garment which she had made the previous day, and of which she dreamed. Fretfulness; in afternoon; in open air, > in house; > towards noon. Does not talk willingly.

Head.—Aching; seeming to come from teeth; pulsating on entering house. Brain seems bound up. Constriction. Drawing upward in. Dulness. Pulsation, especially r. side and backward, with heaviness; pulsation and sticking in afternoon. Raging here and there on entering house. Painful screwing together from both sides. Shattered feeling in afternoon. Vertigo; in open air; during and after rising from a seat; > open air; sudden while sitting, > rising.

Forehead.—Aching; crampy, with disposition to contract eyebrows; intermittent, in lines vertically over each eye; pulsating l. In forepart of head, pain as if compressed posteriorly and superiorly. Constriction from points vertically over each eye, > pressure; constriction and yet pressure outward; constriction of brows. Heaviness which seems to press head downward, when sitting; heaviness which presses down eyelids, during dinner. Pressure in sinuses. Pulsation. Shooting up over eyes. Sticking, in afternoon on turning head to r. Jerking tearing, in l. sinus while sitting. Tension as from a band fastened at each zygoma. Sensation as if something were turning around in it.

Temple.—Aching as if a bloodvessel had been torn out of l. Pulsation, l. Sticking shooting in l. Sticking, l.; and pulsation, > pressure. Sudden tearing in r., in afternoon. Aching in l. mastoid process.

Vertex.—Aching. Painful sticking and beating, in afternoon, > rubbing.

Parietals.—Sticking in l. half of head; inward in upper part of l. bone; sticking and pulsating in upper part of r. bone. Tearing and pulsation in r.; sticking tearing in l. Twitching in r., in afternoon.

Occiput.—Aching in r.; occasional. Heaviness. Sticking and pulsation in upper part of r.; tearing stitches extending forward from, in afternoon. Tearing in r. side, shooting through whole head and extending to r. side, in afternoon.

Eye.—Burning as from smoke, in house. Watery. Ear.—Sticking shooting in l. Sticking in l.; into r.; in r.; > boring, > rubbing; in r.; preceded by stitches in r. hypochondrium, in afternoon; in l., with sensation of heat coming out of it, alternating with stitches in l. costal region. Stopped sensation, with hardness of hearing, which lasted longer in l. ear. Stuffiness in r. Tearing, > rubbing; sticking, in afternoon, in r.; about l., extending to top of head. Twitching.

Clinical.—It is reported to have cured a discharge from the r. ear associated with spasms, stupor and vomiting of milk.

Nose.—Much thick mucus. Ulcerative pain, as if there were an open spot in left fossa. Pressure in upper passages. Sneezing; inclination to, in l. nostril. Stitches externally, l. side. Stoppage; sudden, morning, after waking.

Face.—Sensation of fulness and heat. Hollow-cheeked. Stitch like the tapping of a finger in middle of l. cheek, with tearing. Malar bones; crampy aching, < l.; sticking and tearing, in r.; tearing in l. in cold air. Lips dry. Tearing in lower lip extending into neighboring teeth, in afternoon. Tearing in r. lower jaw.

Mouth.—Teeth; grumbling in a r. lower back tooth; a r. lower decayed molar, sensitive, < touch; tickling in l. upper teeth. Gums, stitches here and there; sticking and tearing, now r., now l. Tongue dry. Mouth, burning; dryness; salivation. Taste insipid; metallic; slimy, with dryness; sweetish; sweetish morning after waking; tastelessness to food.

Throat.—Burning. Dryness. Hawking, frequent; inclination for hawking and for spitting. Stitches when not swallowing. Desire to swallow, as if to keep something down; sensation as if she could not swallow, with spasmodic contraction in r. side of throat and ear, in afternoon while sitting. Œsophagus, burning; warmth and uneasiness.

Stomach.—Indisposed to eat, with fair appetite. Thirst. Eructations, tasting of broth; eructations burning œsophagus and throat; empty in afternoon; of food; rancid; hot, sour waterbrash. Nausea; at sight of food; in mouth and pharynx; extending down œsophagus to stomach, with rumbling and gurgling in stomach and upper abdomen and fluttering in stomach. Hiccough in afternoon. Retching and throwing up phlegm. Burning. Feeling as before diarrhoea, and in bowels. Gripping. Heaviness. Feeling of indigestion; and in upper abdomen. Feeling as after a spree. Sticking in side near stomach, extending deeply in ward on sitting bent, > becoming erect. Feeling as if something turned about, then heat rising into chest. Uneasiness, as before gastric catarrh; uneasiness and warmth.

Clinical.—For vomiting of milk (in young children), especially of curdled milk, this remedy is unrivalled; associated with this condition or consequent upon the gastric derangement there may be diarrhoea of a thin yellow or greenish character (Gratiola, Gamboge). Some very obstinate cases of gastrointestinal catarrh have been cured by Æthusa, and it has even arrested convulsions and paralytic symptoms, which doubtless had their origin in indigestion. The vomiting or evacuation by the bowels of curds of milk is quite a characteristic indication.

Abdomen.—Coldness; in region of transverse colon; in upper. Cramps in small intestines quickly shifting from place to place. Cutting above umbilicus; cutting in lower, with urging to stool. Gripping in umbilicus, then two soft stools. Gurgling and rumbling in upper, and in stomach, with nausea and fluttering in stomach. Sensation of a load in upper. Sensation in upper, as after a dose of medicine. Movements, then a stool, which is first hard, then soft; painful movements below navel, with desire for stool, after morning broth. Pain as before diarrhoea; pain in upper, and in stomach, as from something indigestible. Pressure in l. hypochondrium and burning, with stitches. Rush as of boiling water in umbilical region. Stitch in r. hypochondrium, then in r. ear, in afternoon; in l. hypochondrium; in l. hypochondrium, with burning, > rubbing; burning stitches at one time in r. hypochondrium, at another in l. loin; sticking in hypochondriac region, extending backward, in afternoon. Warmth in upper.

Anus.—Clawing, with straining, during hard stool. Tenesmus after soft stool. Urging to stool, with cutting in abdomen; urging after morning broth, with painful movements below navel. Stool hard; first part hard, then soft; loose, yellow and sour; two soft.

Urine.—Diminished. Increased; pale, of sweet odor.

Sexual desire diminished; strong, on waking.

Cough.—Dry, in paroxysms, after dinner. Frequent short, hacking.

Chest.—Burning, as from a glowing iron, in a spot below l. breast. Crampy constriction r. Digging and tension in front of r. axilla. Stitch in region of r. ribs, in afternoon; beneath l. mamma in afternoon, < inspiration; in middle of chest, 6.30 p.m., during inspiration on rising after sitting bent, < deep breathing; acute in middle of sternum, then burning in same spot, > pressure, but returning; in l. costal region, alternating with sticking in and sensation of heat coming out of l. ear; deep internally beneath l. female breast, in afternoon. Tension in front of r. axilla, evening when knitting.

Heart.—Crampy constriction, with a feeling as if he could not take a long breath. Pulse rapid; slow and soft.

Neck and Back.—Neck.—Drawing pain as if a tendon or bloodvessel would be torn out, in r. side, > rubbing. Stitch inward in l. muscles. Tearing in a spot on r. side; in tendons of r. side; pulsating in spot on tendons of l. side. Sticking twitching in nape. Back.—Aching in small of; heavy aching across kidneys, morning on waking. Drawing in r. lumbar region while walking, > sitting. Pain between scapulae, morning on waking. Screwed-together feeling in small of. Stitch between scapulae; in r. lumbar region, then pressure; burning at one time in l. loin, then in r. hypochondriac region.

Superior Extremities.—Shoulder, paralyzed feeling in l., then in r. forearm; painful tension in l., then r. forearm, paralytic pain in l. while sitting; sticking in tendons of r. while using hand; sticking tearing in middle of l., along upper surface, to wrist; tearing in spot on inner surface of l.; tension in tendons of l. while knitting, > moving fingers; sudden weakness while knitting; weakness near r. wrist extending to little finger. Stitch in l. external styloid process. Hand; tearing on back of r., in tendons of thumb; tearing in metacarpal bone of index, l. and r. Thumb, sticking in ball of l., on flexing, > extending thumb; stiff feeling l.; twitching tearing as in marrow, between first and second joints of l.; twitching of l. Fingers, fine sticking on l. side of tip of r. index, > pressure; tearing on lower surface of third joint of r. little; tearing between little and ring, < stretching them.

Inferior Extremities.—Weakness. Hip, pinching externally, in r.; sticking and drawing into l. thigh; tension in r. in afternoon. Thigh, paralytic pain in middle of r. while sitting, > motion; sticking in upper part of l. Sticking in r. knee in evening when standing. Tearing deep in r. instep in afternoon. Tearing sticking in r. heel, extending into sole as far as ball of foot. Sticking in r. sole below heel.

Skin.—Dry, white, leathery, pinched look. Face red. Skin of hands dry and shrunken, especially palmar surface. Painful boil on sacral region.

Sleepiness; in afternoon; > open air.

Fever.—Chilliness, internal and external; internal and external, with sleepiness, in forenoon; coldness in, around and behind r. ear, seeming to be in bone; of feet and limbs, nearly to knees. Shivering on entering house. Heat general; glowing feeling over whole body; morning on waking; heat of head; and burning in face; rushing to head; in forehead, with pressure; in face; with full sensation; burning on r. side of nose, then as with a glowing needle externally in pit of stomach; heat extending up back in afternoon; burning externally in small of back, > rubbing; general peripheral warmth. Sweat; on forehead.

Agaricus.

This poisonous mushroom, Agaricus muscarius, is not uncommon in dry forests. It is usually distinguished by its scarlet, mottled top. A tincture is made from the younger fresh plants.

General Action.—Agaricus acts energetically upon the circulation, respiration, peristalsis and secretion. It irritates and excites the cardiac filaments of the pneumogastric, causes tonic contractions of arterioles and smooth muscle fibre (intestines, bladder, iris), increases secretions from the salivary glands, liver, pancreas, mucous membrane of intestinal canal, etc., and causes contraction of the pupil and spasm of accommodation. Paralysis results as a reaction from prolonged spasm or as the primary effect of large doses. Numerous effects (motor and sensory) may be referred to an anaemia of nerve centres (brain and spine), caused by persistent spasm of bloodvessels.

Allies.—Secale corn, Physostigma, Pilocarpine, Nicotine.

Antagonist.—Belladonna.

Generalities.—Emaciation. Cracking in joints on motion. Convulsions; > vomiting, with anxiety and pain at epigastric region; alternating with stupor; frequent convulsions in posterior part of chest, passing obliquely through, then in epigastrum, then in hypogastrum, especially r. side in evening, when standing, with a feeling as if the whole body were shaken. Spasm more like a trembling than a convulsion, with delirium. Convulsive motions of head and upper part of trunk, with startings in limbs. Frequent twitching of different muscles (Zinc.); twitching and jumping of single fingers. Twitching when lying, sometimes in one group of muscles, sometimes in another; sometimes with electric stitches here and there in the skin. Restlessness; of every voluntary muscle at 3 A.M., then quivering of whole body, especially of lower jaw, then action of muscles as in St. Vitus's dance. Trembling; internal. Sudden shaking of body and pulling of r. arm from under his head down to the trunk when lying, then fine stitches in condyles of elbows. Commotion of nervous system. Tumbling about in a grotesque way. Awkwardness in evening.

Stitches in various parts of the body, especially between skin and flesh, no part of the body seems free from them, sometimes with electric shivering and restless sleep. Tearing now and then in tendinous expansions, especially on l. outer thigh. Pain simultaneously in several parts, especially on both sides above small of back; pain of various kinds simultaneously in all parts when sitting; intermitting, in bones in morning, <noon,> afternoon and evening, especially located in l. tibia, sometimes appearing in condyle of l. elbow, resembling syphilitic bone-pains, except that they are > warmth of bed. Cramplike pain in various muscles and parts of body, even within l. ear, or of all muscles when sitting. Bruised feeling, < sitting; bruised feeling in joints. Boring in head, thighs, tibiae and bones of tarsus, when sitting, with somnolence and general relaxation. General malaise, discomfort in whole body; all forenoon; in evening; with tired feeling in legs, preventing sleep, though very sleepy. Sensitiveness of all parts to pressure. Pulsations in all parts, especially in epigastrum. It seems as if the whole body were diminishing. Constant inclination to bend backward and forward and to stretch. Impulse to fall backward. Rising in morning difficult.

Weakness; morning on waking, with confusion; weakness after afternoon nap, with painfulness and lameness of limbs; in bed; after an embrace; on least motion, with palpitation; on waking; when walking; after walking; after short but quick walking; < sitting; > walking in open air; with delirium, much like that in a dynamic fever; with cold and viscid sweat; with vertigo; alternating with itching on face, nose, ears and scalp. Fainting; faint feeling on ascending a hill, with sweat. Supernatural strength. Light feeling, as if she could run as never before. Blunting of senses; heaviness of whole body; morning on waking, with heat; at night; especially of calves. The whole body seems paralyzed. Much affected from walking; much affected by being in the air, which is not hot. Aggravation in morning, fasting and after eating; aggravation of symptoms of muscles when sitting, seldom when walking. Amelioration from vomiting and stool. He feels best when walking very slowly.

Clinical.—Chorea and chorea-like twitchings, neuralgia and various troubles due to weak irritable nerves, with an irritable, anemic spine, frequently find their remedy in Agaricus. General aggravation from walking in the open air and relief from being warm in bed predominate. There is no evidence of any chronic constitutional dyscrasia, such as underlies epilepsy. Tremor and tremulous tongue in low fever, with delirium and attempts to get out of bed.

Mind.—Delirium; imagines himself a military officer; imagines himself at the gate of hell and that the mushroom tells him to fall on his knees and confess his sins, which he does. Phantasy that he saw his dead sister in heaven. Calling for his hatchet, alternately with religious excitement. Fury; desires to rip up his bowels, which he imagines the mushroom has ordered. Fearless, menacing, mischievous frenzy, also frenzy, so that he injures himself, with great strength. Talking incoherently, passing rapidly from one subject to another. Merry, incoherent loquacity, with convulsions of facial and cervical muscles, < r., drawing head towards r. shoulder, and with movement of flexion and extension alternately in lower limbs while walking, followed by quiet, then nausea and malaise. Telling secrets. Singing; and talking, but does not answer questions. Alternately sings and is vexed, embraces his companions and kisses their hands. Timid craziness. Delirium, with increase of strength. Running and walking involuntarily in dangerous places. Intoxicated, they carry heavy loads, take long steps and jump over small objects as if over trunks of trees. A small hole seems like a frightful chasm and a spoonful of water an immense lake. (Cannab. ind.) Leaping. Dancing. Romping with children. Wild cries. Ecstasy, prophecies and making verses. Courage. Bold, revengeful projects.

Gayety; with increase of strength, then sleep, then prostration on waking. Now gay, now melancholy. Laughter, owing to a mixed sensation of happiness and misery; involuntary laughter after each yawning; laughter about their not standing and walking straight. Disinclination to speak; or work, also with uneasiness and weakness. Ill humor; morning on waking; ill humor, with disinclination to answer questions. Loathing of life. Quarrelsome. Vexed with herself and pities herself. Anxiety; with tremors and lassitude; with sweat; about his present and future condition; as if something unpleasant were going to happen to her. Depression of spirits; from slight causes; so that he shut himself up in his room, lest he should be obliged to talk. Weeping; with anguish. Uneasiness of mind and body. Indifference. Indolence. Aversion to mental work; with thoughtless staring.

Imbecility. Coma. Unconsciousness; with closed eyes; with red, puffy face. Attack as if he would lose consciousness in evening after lying down. Understands with difficulty what he reads, and even if it is easy to understand he reads with difficulty because the type seems to move, with itching and burning in eyes. Attention not fixed by reading. Stupefaction; morning on waking; > open air, with droiveness; with spasmodic agitation; alternating with convulsions. Confusion in morning on waking. Cannot find the words he wishes to use. Memory weak; lost, also thought he had made a journey. Nervous activity indescribably deranged.

Head.—Falling backward, as if a weight were attached to occiput. Swaying back and forth. Convulsions of muscles of head and neck. Involuntary motions. Shooting. Tearing in different places in skull; in tendinous expansions of skull; as if brain would be torn to pieces; jerking tearing, especially behind r. ear. Aching; morning in bed; on waking at 3 A.M.; after dinner, especially in occiput; deep-seated, dull, especially in forehead, obliging constant motion of head and closure of eyes; > copious stool, with flushes of heat; dull, stunning, with thirst and heat, especially in face; extending over skull, < touch, with constricted feeling in brain and inability to keep his mind on any subject. Externally in forenoon, especially in posterior half. Drawing aching; > sleep at night; morning on waking, with pressure in eyeballs. Intermittent aching before sleep. Sudden aching extending into l. ear, as if something would stop it, when lying down on account of vertigo. Grinding. Stupefying aching. Leaden pressure of brain on skull, extending to nose. Sensation as if pain would appear; > thinking about it.

Burrowing in brain. Drawing in all directions, with sensation as if he would lose his senses. Intoxicated feeling; pleasant intoxication. Stupefaction; forenoon; dizzy sensation on putting head out of window, with roaring in l. ear. Confusion towards noon, with cool creeping in scalp of vertex and tension in scalp. Dulness, < walking in open air; with fulness in head and drawing towards temples; dizzy, also in afternoon, < reading or looking into the light. Enlarged feeling. Fulness. Heaviness; as after intoxication; as if pressed in, especially in forehead. Congestion; rush of blood on mental effort, with throbbing in arteries, heat in face and disturbance of thought.

Vertigo; morning; morning, with stupefaction; morning, from strong sunlight; forenoon, with stupefying headache; from afternoon, till late in evening, with impulse to fall backward; from heat of sun; while walking; from walking in open air and meditating; in room on turning around; on entering dark room from open air, with nausea; < open air; > open air; > room; > turning quickly or moving head; > thinking of something else, with indistinct vision; with stupefaction; with burning in vertex; with drawing pain in forehead; intermittent vertigo; sudden as if turning around.

Forehead.—Twitching of l. muscles; in r. superciliary ridge, with dragging. Stitches in r. and l.; over eyes; stitches in r. eminence from a noise at breakfast; in a spot in l. eminence; over l. brow, > scratching; in l. superciliary ridge, towards outside, morning on waking; in l. superciliary ridge, with twisting; alternately in each eminence; in front, always after rising, gradually extending to occiput; jerking deep in cerebrum; piercing cerebrum like lightning when walking in open air, with feeling as if he would lose consciousness. Tearing in bones; above nose; intermittent drawing. Drawing cutting when standing, becoming pressive stunning when sitting. Aching; in morning, with contraction of muscles of forehead and lids; on waking; when sitting, with vertigo; < open air; > towards evening; in cavities; in l. side; l. eminence; over l. eye; above eyes, with stitches; in middle, > pressure upon temples; in superciliary ridges, also l., then r.; in r. superciliary ridge, in morning; in r. superciliary ridge, > washing body with cold water, then worse again; in r. supraorbital region on walking in open air; above r. side, with burning; in r., with morning dulness of head; alternately in each eminence; in frontal and sagittal sutures. Deep-seated aching at margin of hair of forehead; deep-seated in r. eminence in morning on waking. Aching extending inward; extending to eyes, with twitching; pressing upon upper half of eyeballs. Sensation during the day as if headache were coming on, which appeared towards evening in spots upon F. and temples. Aching in sinciput as if sides of head were pressed together. Piercing r. superciliary ridge; itching piercing over l. brow, > scratching. Grinding in l. eminence.

Burning pain above r. eye, with lachrymation; burning pain in l. eyebrow and occiput, with sensitiveness to touch and pressure. Drawing pain; between superciliary ridges; in middle; in l.; r. side in morning on waking; from l. towards r. side while sitting; in l. eminence, oppressing eye; in forehead, eye and occiput, with pressure; intermittent, extending to eyes, also during the day. Drawing in bone from both sides, as far as root of nose. Boring; > pressure; in l. superciliary ridge. Burrowing in l. eminence and over l. eye; in l. forehead and occiput; in l. eminence, along sagittal suture, through whole hemisphere to occiput, when walking in open air in forenoon; in l. eminence as if everything in brain were stirred up; as if the brain were an ant-hill, with fulness of head. Sore feeling above l. brow. Enlarged feeling and sensation as if the brain were promiscuously mixed up, with aching in temples. Fulness. Confusion. Heaviness; painful.

Temples.—Twitching in l.; about temples and ears; in temples and cheeks; in l. temple and zygoma; in r. temple and along zygoma, with shooting; rhythmical in l. temporal and frontal regions. Stitches; l.; over r. eye; r. after talking, then l., then pressure in l.; < l. region; l. mastoid process. Tearing in r. Aching in temples; l.; r.; r. bone, l., then r., then in l. lower jaw, like a decayed tooth beginning to ache; aching at noon; in spot in l. region after breakfast; above l. concha, reaching deep into the brain, < touching hair, with depressed spirits; cranplike, in l.; drawing; in r., more stupefying than throbbing; boring throbbing in squamous portion of bones. Burrowing in l. at midnight, > pressure; dull burrowing in l. after dinner. Dragging downward, extending as far as half of the ears, < during the day and by touch.

Vertex.—Stitches; itching. Tearing; lancinating, to l. ear. Aching; morning; morning, > after rising; at night; > open air; pulsating, with despair bordering on rage. Deep-seated boring.

Sides.—Twitching in r. Flashlike stroke externally in l. Shooting; r.; l.; from l. parietal bone into r. temple; in l. half from 10 A.M. till 2 P.M., then periodical stitches. Tearing in r. upper; in r. parietal bone, over ear, < touch, with sensation as of a festering spot; in l. circumference of brain, with pressing, especially in orbit and zygoma, and with confusion of head; fine, behind and over l. ear. Aching in r.; l.; l. on waking, > after rising; l., with urging to urinate; in l. side of skull, with tearing; in l. half, becoming a burrowing; in r. as from a nail; boring in l. skull and in ascending ramus of lower jaw.

Occiput.—Stitches across; flying stitches in forenoon; periodical; tearing from one side to the other in morning. Tearing in r.; r. half of bone; behind head and over l. ear; intermittent tearing in l. Aching; in l. half of bone when seated; < lying and becoming burning and extending between superciliary ridges when lying on back; throbbing. Drawing pain; in afternoon; morning in bed, < stretching and holding breath. Drawing. Boring. Burrowing between occipital region and nape in forenoon, with weariness in lower limbs and sleepiness; in r. half of occiput in morning in bed, with stitches in middle of r. cheek. Bruised feeling in occiput and nape; in r. side of occiput. Creaking towards l., < pressure, with pain on touch. Tension; especially in spots; extending towards occiput, there developing into aching, with heaviness. Heaviness; towards neck-joint, with tension. Dull fulness after waking. Atlas-joint. Stitches. Jarring, extending into head.

Scalp.—Elevations on occiput and along sagittal sutures, with biting burning after scratching. Scurf in spots. Pimples; painful on vertex at roots of hair, bleeding easily and leaving red pimples. Vesicles on forehead. Twitching over l. ear; above r. eye. Stitches on top of l. side, changing to pressive pain in vertex; biting, in l. side of scalp, in parietal bone and splinter stitches in r. temporal region near ear. Tearing and drawing pain in scalp and skull at night, < pressure, especially a spot on vertex, which pains as from an internal festering. Tearing tensive sensation in occiput. Tension. Sensitiveness of l. to touch; sensitiveness in spots; of eyebrows; as if ulcerated. Fornication on scalp. Itching; < getting up; here and there, with sensitiveness to touch; like the healing of wounds; on vertex, with pimples; on occiput towards nape; on occiput, with pimples; burrowing, on occiput; biting, on forehead and on various parts; biting corroding, on l. side.

Clinical.—Vertigo from the sun. Severe neuralgic headaches mostly in small spots, sharp piercing pain as from a nail (Ign.). Dull headache from prolonged desk-work.

Eyes.—Yellow. Red. Fierce expression. Rolling; upward. Staring wildly. Sticking, with tension; scraping sticking under r. upper lid. Pain; on moving them or exerting by candle light; after dinner with inclination to close them without sleepiness; towards inside; above upper lids, < when closed, with fatigue of eyes after great exertion in too strong a light; P. as from a grain of sand in l., also under r. upper lid at noon, with lachrymation; drawing P.; twitching pain in l.; P. as from something inward in eyes and upon forehead; burning pain. Burning; always after closing lids; burning after opening and closing; burning after yawning; burning with itching; burning, with weariness. Hot to touch. Dryness. Contracted feeling in evening; contracted feeling in r., with clearer vision, then biting pain in eyeball and lachrymation, then twitchings in l. eye (which had existed in r.), > wine. Painful stretching in morning on waking. Sensation as if they had to be wiped constantly. Itching in morning; in r., > rubbing, with pressure; in r., with pricking; in l., with tickling. Sensitiveness. Weak feeling. Insensibility to light. Lachrymation; r.; while reading.

Ball.—Pulled upward towards angles of orbits and fixed. Twitched here and there; also with lachrymation of l.; twitched in l. while reading, with pressing; painful twitching in r. Sudden tearing in r. Pain; when moved; on touch; in l.; in l. in morning; in l., with spasms; in upper and outer part of r.; drawing P.; pain as from pressure of a hand; piercing in r.; intermittent pain towards top and outward in r. Drawing in ball after dinner, < l., extending into forehead, with pressing. Painful worrying under l. lid, as if on ball, or itching. Burning, < moving them, with pressing. Motion of ball difficult. Enlarged feeling; in l. after vomiting.

Pupils.—Contracted, then dilated. Dilated, then contracted.

Lids.—Half-opened; without swelling and often with twitching and winking of lids. Agglutination as by slimy threads. Mucus. Twitching; in a small spot and extending towards one canthus. Winking. Pressure, < r., with sleepiness. Biting and contracted feeling. Contraction. Burning; after being closed. Difficult opening. Upper lid, trembling; r.; l., morning and noon; twitching l.; stitches in l. Lower lid, twitching of l.; winking of r., with throbbing in an artery on l. side, at back of nose, and twitches in skin of l. side of nose; winking of l., with itching. Margins of lids, redness, and of the conjunctiva palpebrarum, with sticking and tension in eyes. Stitches; biting stitches in r. upper; itching stitches in l. upper at roots of ciliæ; biting in morning on waking; itching.

Canthi.—Agglutination, with yellow humor, < morning and evening; of inner. Mucus; in inner. Swelling towards l. inner. Left caruncle enlarged. Scraping stitches in l.; in inner, also in morning on waking, with mucus; smarting stitches in l. inner. Pressure in l. as from a foreign body. Jerking worrying in l. Burning in l. outer; in inner, < touch; in inner when lids are closed firmly. Contraction of l. inner. Itching of l., with twitching.

Brow.—Falling out of hairs. Soreness on touch. Cramplike pain under r., making it difficult to open eyes.

Orbits.—Coarse stitches at exit of l. infraorbital nerve. Burning and pressure.

Vision.—Lost; while reading. Decreasing gradually when walking in open air. Weak. Dim; if she looks long at any object; while reading; also with flickering; with burning in l. outer canthus and pressure as from sand under l. upper lid; as from cobwebs; as from a mist. Short-sighted. Photophobia. Sensitiveness to candle light. Double; in evening. Dizzy in evening. Motion of type while reading, with itching and burning. Flickering; while writing (Seneg.). Black spot hovering before l. eye. Yellow spots when looking at light objects. Brown spot before l. eye towards inner canthus in gloomy weather; brown oblong spot hovering obliquely towards l. inner canthus on closing r. eye.

Clinical.—An exceedingly valuable remedy in asthenopia from prolonged strain, spasm of accommodation (Physostig.), twitching of eyes and lids; weakness of the muscles, with "swimming" of the type; myopia, with chronic chorioiditis.

Ears.—Redness, burning and itching, as if they had been frozen. Twitching of muscles close to l. ear; in cartilage; of tensor tympani, also with sound as if a leather-covered metal valve were set in motion; in r. tympanic cavity, with rattling or fluttering; rolling inside r. tympanum.

Stitches in l. auditory canal; twitching stitches inside l. ear. Tearing in r.; in l., with itching and desire to bore deep, the tearing < lying on same side; in r. meatus, extending to upper jaw, caused and < by cold air. Cramplike pain inside l. itching in ear, with burning; itching behind; in l. external auditory tube, with cold stitches in middle ear; tickling itching in r. Eustachian tube alternating with ringing in l. ear. Feeling as if wax flowed out. Wax increased.

Hearing.—Acute. Dull. Deaf in l., as if something were before it; deafness, with headache. Stoppage of l. ear. *Ring*ing in l.; r. when walking in open air. Rushing and ringing; or noise like a distant tea-kettle beginning to boil, with heat in head; rushing in r., like the sound of a locomotive, when lying, > rising. Roaring; l.; r., then l.; bubbling, roaring in l.; constant roaring in l., with creaking in both on empty swallowing. Sound in l. ear, as of a clock striking at a great distance. Whirring. Humming at night like a spinning-wheel. Sound as if a nail were being driven into a board at a distance. Creaking, as of a wooden screw, when swallowing. Intermittent clicking in r.

Clinical.—The subjective symptoms are extremely interesting, but there are very few clinical verifications; the frost-bitten sensation is, however, characteristic here as elsewhere. Spasm of the muscles of the pinna of the ear, especially of the atollens, persistent spasms, so that they attracted attention.

Nose.—Blueness; of tip, with paleness. Inflammation and soreness of inner wall. Creaking in bones. Stinging in l. side of root. Pressure in bones; at root, with a feeling as if nose were stopped, without stoppage; throbbing in bone, with feeling as if a swollen body in upper passage would force itself down; sudden, on superior part of dorsum. Burning pain. Cutting boring from l. nostril into frontal bone, as from an electric shock. Cutting soreness in upper part of l. nostril on inspiration. Sensitiveness high up in l. nostril in afternoon when breathing; S. of inner walls. Dryness, with sensation of a cold in the head; with bleeding when cleaned. Stopped feeling at night; feeling, < stooping. Fulness in upper passage, with a feeling as if a ball were forcing itself down the nasal canal. Biting in mucous membrane of l. nostril; in mucous membrane, with sneezing and with jumping of muscles of l. loin. Prickling in r. nostril and eye, as before sneezing. Itching in nose, and pungent smell, as if about to sneeze; tickling itching in l. nostril. Sneezing; morning on waking; from sunlight; from nausea; always twice in succession; frequent in morning; frequent during sleep; frequent, without coryza. Violent sneezing in morning in bed; violent after every attack of cough.

Coryza; every morning, with sneezing; with confusion of head; with discharge causing eruption on nose and upper lip. Fluent coryza; towards evening; attacking l. half of nose and l. eye, then r. half and r. eye, which discharged acid, burning moisture, then nose swelled, was bluish-red, sore to touch, then desquamated. Discharge of copious mucus; with burning of upper lip; of scanty white, dry mucus, with sensation as if there were much mucus; much viscid mucus after snuff. Clear water drops, without a cold in head; clear water drops on stooping. Watery discharge, with a feeling of stopped coryza (Nux v.). Bleeding; in morning after blowing; (passive bleeding in old people). Smell sensitive; in r. nostril, but lost in l.

Clinical.—The symptoms of irritation in the nose, and the spasmodic sneezing as well as the discharge of pure water from nostrils without inflammatory symptoms, all point to its use in nervous complaints, with these peculiarities (whooping cough, chorea, etc.).

Face.—Pale; and sunken; with bluish appearance around eyes, nose and mouth. Red; after eating, with heat; with itching and burning, as after freezing. Red cheeks, < l. Yellow, especially about nostrils and corners of mouth. Puffiness; with a ghastly, leaden appearance; pale, with blue circles around eyes, and blueness of nose and lips; red. Twitching; of upper half of l. side; near r. malar-bone; pulsating twitching in r. cheek. Stitches in l. cheek; middle of r. cheek, in l. cheek, near exit of infraorbital nerve; in r. cheek, where infraorbital nerve forms plexus; in r. malar-bone; in chin; biting, on point of chin; sudden, in l. cheek near eye; electric, in l. malar-bone, with frequent twitches, especially in l. cheek; in r. cheek, close to lower edge of orbit, changing to a coarse pain, as if in bone; fine, in r. side. Pain in l. zygoma; on r. side of chin; in facial bones, especially socket of eye, in morning; lancinating and drawing, in r. cheek. Pulsation in l. cheek, with shooting stitches from l. eye into upper jaw.

Lips.—Blue, and pale. Upper chapped, with burning smarting. Middle of lower cracked, burning and painful. Peeling of epithelium of upper when smoking; of inner surface of upper. Herpetic eruption on upper. Painful pimples on upper; burning, changing to blisters. Vesicles on upper; around r. corner of mouth; burning, on lower; burning, on red part; changing into ulcers, with swelling. Twitching of upper. Trembling. Stitches in r. upper; in middle of upper, near nose. Tearing. Burning. Dryness; with burning pimples, changing to vesicles filled with yellow serum.

Jaws.—Convulsions of lower. Twitching of r. muscle of mastication. Trembling of muscles of lower, and in chin. Clenched. Rigid. Spasmodic drawing in lower; tensive drawing in r., extending towards ear. Stitches in joint; in l. lower jaw, extending into cheek; fine, on margin of lower; in r. lower, as if splinters were forced between skin and flesh. Tearing in r. lower; l. lower; sticking, in horizontal ramus of lower. Pain in l. joint on waking; opening mouth; in joint, with soreness on touch; tearing drawing, in r. upper jaw and r. cheek.

Clinical.—The neuralgic prosopalgia of Agaricus is electric-like, as of splinters between skin and flesh, mostly in the infra-orbital nerve, and along the jaws. The symptoms of the lips are very marked, and have been nearly all verified. These eruptions about the mouth have been repeatedly cured in growing children given to jerks, licking the lips, and with more or less chorea-like symptoms.

Mouth.—Teeth. Gnashing in sleep. Twitching in a loose tooth after drinking water. Lancinations in lower incisors, with drawing, the lancinations continued towards l. angle of lower jaw. Tearing in l.; in lower, < cold; in all upper, waking at 1 A.M. Gnawing in upper molars in afternoon, then itching in l. ear, then toothache. Pulsation in l. upper molars in afternoon, with tearing. Grumbling in l. upper. Drawing in lower incisors. Elongated feeling in incisors, < evening. Toothache in l. molars; in roots of l. upper teeth, involving upper incisors; in upper incisors after looking out of window in cool air, with drawing; drawing aching in lower incisors; drawing cutting in hollow molar, while abdominal symptoms disappear, and vice versa; drawing and tearing pains in teeth and side of head, disturbing sleep, with stupefying vertigo and palpitation, > rising from bed, but returning violently, with frequent chilliness.

Gums.—Bleeding. Swelling. Pain, with acrid taste to saliva. Sensitiveness.

Tongue.—Pale. Painful ulcer at side of frænum. Coat in morning; white; white, with dirty yellow apthæ at tip, with feeling as if the skin would peel off after a meal; yellow; yellow at back; dirty yellow; slimy; tough, in morning; tough mucus, < morning; thick, tough mucus, especially in morning, with fuziness and prominence of papillæ, especially towards the back, and with a dry, astringent feeling. Stitches at tip. Biting in back part of l. edge, with an acrid sensation behind tongue on same side. Soreness; at tip, < touch and lasting all the evening; at tip, where there seemed to be a blister. Burning at tip; at r. lower side, with sore spots, which seemed furred; burning as from sharp tobacco. Dryness; with contraction. Itching, prickling in l. half.

Foam at mouth; at corners. Black blood-blisters. Splinter-like stitches in l. sublingual salivary glands, then salivation. Soreness, especially of roof; of roof as if skin were off; of hard palate, with blisters. Dryness; and in fauces, with sensitiveness to air in those parts; of palate, especially uncomfortable when swallowing, with stitches towards r. ear and r. salivary gland. Saliva acrid. Salivation; in forenoon, with nausea; after stitches in l. sublingual salivary gland; with pain in abdomen; with dryness of throat; sudden, on moving mouth; flowing from mouth. Constant spitting. Breath bad; in morning, with foul taste; nauseous and sour; small as from horse-radish.

Taste.—Foul in morning; on smoking; < after breakfast. Bad at root of tongue, with nausea. Clayey. Insipid; when stomach is empty. Pappy. Astringent. Metallic. Rancid. Biting in l. half of tongue. Slimy, glutinous. Bitter; morning; before dinner; sharp bitter at root of tongue; sweetish bitter when smoking, especially at root of tongue. Sweet; < afternoon; sweetish acid; sweet, gummy, offensive, after breakfast, with distention of abdomen. Salt; to a cigar, especially at root of tongue.

Clinical.—Neuralgic toothache < in open air. Neuralgic, splinter-like pains in tongue, with salivation.

Throat.—Tension externally in region of thyroid gland, < evening. Distention, with feeling as if the cravat were too tight (Lach.). Hawking of masses of mucus from fauces and posterior nares. Stitches internally on external touch; towards parotid and submaxillary glands; extending along Eustachian tube towards r. ear (Gels.). Tearing; as if something were torn on swallowing saliva. Aching in r. side; as from a foreign body, also < while vomiting. Sensation as if a particle of food stuck there. Scratching; behind root of tongue. Roughness; mornings. Burning; extending into l. side of chest, with scratching; scratching burning, and in posterior fauces; cool burning, and in stomach. Coldness as from a pungent cress, from pharynx to stomach. Dryness; palate to pharynx in morning on waking; of pharynx, with stitches towards parotid and submaxillary glands; contractive dry feeling in fauces and palate mornings on waking, extending to pharynx, causing contraction there as after an astringent drink. Contraction.

Paralysis of muscles of pharynx and gullet. Swallowing impaired. Esophagus. Choking after eating. Burning along after breakfast; cool burning.

Stomach.—Appetite. Excessive; morning; towards evening, with sweat and with weakness and trembling of limbs; soon after eating. Much hunger but no relish; in morning. Sudden hunger; towards evening. Hurred eating. Lost; for breakfast; for dinner; lost, with thirst. Quick repletion at dinner, even before hunger is satisfied. Little appetite; for dinner; mostly for bread and butter. He does not eat bread with pleasure. Aversion when eating; to taste of food and drink; to roast meat; to food, with pressive pain in stomach and nausea; to tobacco.

Thirst in forenoon; while walking in forenoon; for beer in forenoon; in afternoon. Unquenchable. No thirst.

Eructions after dinner, with nausea; with nausea. Frequent; in afternoon. Violent. Imperfect; dying away in lower part of œsophagus; rising to region of larynx. Empty; alternating with hiccough, also while smoking. Watery, with nausea. Salt fluid. Tasting of rotten eggs. Tasting like apples; in forenoon. Rancid. Sour; in forenoon. Tasting of food; in morning. Hiccough; afternoon; frequent.

Nausea; at 1 A.M., with difficult vomiting of undigested food; in forenoon; towards noon; after breakfast; after dinner; after eating, also > eruptions; after drinking cold water; when coughing; > open air; < morning, with emptiness in stomach; with pain in stomach; with crawling in pit of stomach; with vertigo, as if about to lose consciousness; with anxiety rising from abdomen; with cutting in abdomen; with faintness and anxiety; as far as mouth; sudden from smoking a cigar, with vomiting of food.

Ineffectual retching. Vomiting. Frequent, with frequent stools. Violent. Food. Breakfast, with the odor of alcohol. Watery, with shock to the whole body. Mucus. Spongy matter, with stools, which relieve. Bitter; fluid; bitter, with shuddering creeping over body.

Gurgling in stomach. Rumbling in epigastrium. Painful retraction during diarrhœa, and of abdomen. Trembling, then of whole body. Stitches in pit. Tearing in pit. Pinching; in epigastrium towards evening, with cutting; in pit, as with tongs. Pain; in region mornings on waking; after breakfast; after eating a little, not < by continued eating; with inclination to sigh; in epigastric region; in pit; in pit and along sternum. Pain causing patient to roll on the ground and utter sharp cries; at midnight, as if flatus were pressing it out, > emission of offensive flatus; tensive pains from pit to left clavicle, towards evening during deep breathing. Painful tension in epigastrium. Cramplike constrictive pain in pit, extending far into abdomen. Cramplike compression in pit, with shooting. Cramp at noon. Boring. Boring in epigastrium in afternoon, > evening by emission of flatus. Gnawing in pit.

Sensation as if a stone lay in it. Sensation as if it were sinking like a heavy weight towards abdomen. Oppression after eating; with sharp pains; with inclination for stool; at pyloric orifice; in pit, extending to sternum; in pit after breakfast; in pit after dinner, with drawing and pressure in eyeballs and indolence; in upper and lower border when standing and walking. Heaviness; in pit; in pit, with tightness. Fulness, with a flat feeling and feeling as if fastened to pharynx; fullness, with inclination to vomit rising into throat; feeling of fullness and flatus after dinner; after dinner, with pressure and flatulence. Feeling as if he would eructate, resembling distending pressure in orifice of stomach. Drawing and pressing, < pressure of hand; drawing downward after breakfast, > passage of flatus, with pressive pain; spasmodic drawing in region of pit towards evening, extending as far as chest. Burning; after meat; after breakfast, with twisting sensation; with aversion; in pit; cool burning. Coolness. Shuddering, extending over whole body. Crawling at pit, with nausea. Discomfort; after breakfast. Digestion bad. Empty feeling; in pit; with repletion. Painfulness; with an empty feeling that sometimes alternated with pressure as of a heavy body. Feeling of flabbiness; in forenoon.

Abdomen.—Painful retraction during diarrhoea, and of stomach. Twitching; of walls. Meteorismus. Distention; after breakfast; after food; after light food; after supper, with fullness and with oppression of chest; after scanty stool; making sitting and breathing difficult. Feels distended, but is not. Fermentation; feeling of fermentation. Rattling; as if peas rolled about. Rumbling; morning; after stool; with pain deep in umbilical region, < pressure; like distant thunder in evening, with inclination for stool. Gurgling; after breakfast, with rattling; after a pappy stool, with rattling.

Flatus troubled him at night. Urging of flatus towards anus. Sensation of flatus after breakfast, with searching. Emission of flatus; before hard stool; during stool, with pinching in abdomen, with warmth in abdomen; with feeling as in diarrhoea; much inodorous; fetid; smelling of garlic; cadaverous during stool; painful, or preceded by colic.

Stitches; outward in walls, also forenoon, when walking. Cutting; late in evening; during stool; before stool; before soft, crumbling stool; gripping in forenoon and afternoon, with accumulation of flatus; as from a purgative, > liquid stools. Pinching; during liquid stools; before and during stools, with cutting. Gripping; morning, on waking, then two liquid stools; forenoon and afternoon; at noon, with emission of flatus; after breakfast; after walking in open air, with burning pain in lower abdomen; with dragging and with cutting in anus and dry stools; here and there, more against walls than in intestines; with diarrhoea; with clawing in upper abdomen, stitches and then cutting; cutting gripping; that urged to stool, > by stool, accompanied by cutting in abdomen; beginning with a stitch. Writhing. Pain; morning, after stool; after light food. Searching. Burrowing at 9 A.M., with gripping and ineffectual urging of flatus towards anus. Feeling as before diarrhoea. Dragging in intestines, in inguinal canal and in pelvis. Oppression from flatus. Heaviness; after dinner, with gripping and ineffectual urging of flatus towards anus. Urging. Soreness. Tension. Nausea; with pressure. Burning; after breakfast. Sensation of a cold. Discomfort. Restlessness; sinking into abdomen. Faintness. Empty feeling. Flabby feeling. Crawling and coursing, extending through all nerves. Symptoms disappear during drawing cutting pain in a hollow back tooth, and vice versa.

Upper abdomen.—Twitching; undulating. Cutting, colicky spasms just below diaphragm, when sitting, extending towards spine. Clawing stitches, then cutting. Discomfort, with nausea.

Umbilical region.—Distention. Flatus accumulates. Pressure of flatus under umbilicus. Stitches; morning, on waking; biting. Tearing above umbilicus, in a fine line. Cutting. Pinching; below umbilicus, with bloated abdomen; clucking pinching; crawling pinching. Gripping; after breakfast; till dinner-time; between umbilicus and right hypochondrium. Pain; in morning, when half awake; sometimes rising into right chest; deep-seated. Fulness. Heaviness; after a scanty stool; under umbilicus, also after breakfast; below umbilicus, with feeling of a ball of the size of a small fist. Urging under umbilicus. Discomfort.

Sides.—Twitching in l.; writhing jumping of recti muscles in evening in bed. Gripping in left; in l., with rumbling in abdomen. Pain in l., causing nauseated ill feeling in same spot; spasmodic in l., urging to stool and arousing him at midnight; sprained pain in muscles on stooping. Nausea in l. with pain.

Hypochondria.—Stitches in liver; when breathing; in r. lobe of liver, radiating from surface towards centre; in liver and pit of stomach, with nausea; sudden stitches in liver towards noon; occasional stitches in r. hypochondrium, < pressure; deep-seated stitches in r., mornings; extending from r. and from umbilicus to behind sternum; under l. short ribs on inspiration; < sitting with a stooped chest; in region of spleen in afternoon. Pain in liver mornings; in r. hypochondrium, more towards the back, also with occasional stitches, < bending to the l.; in r. extending upward; at l. last true rib, with pain as from a gunshot wound in corresponding place on r. side; in region of spleen, also > walking; in region of spleen in evening, when lying on l. side, > turning to r. side; deep contractive pain in region of spleen; cramplike pain in region of spleen; pulsative pain below l. hypochondrium, rising as far as third and fourth ribs. Soreness in hypochondria and in region of pit of stomach as if contents of thorax were compressed, < after eating. Pressive tension below ribs after an emission. Heaviness in r. hypochondrium, with drawing as if liver had increased and would be torn from its ligaments.

Hypogastrium.—Distention after a copious pappy stool, with sensitiveness; with cutting and movements of flatus. Rumbling. Gurgling; in l., with rattling. Twitching in l. flank; of pyramidal muscles. Stitches in r. flank; extending from pelvis to r. side, along r. flank to r. ribs, growing weaker in their course; in region of cecum from sneezing; sudden stitches in l. Drawing tearing from l. inguinal region to middle of fore side of thigh. Cutting; in evening, as before diarrhoea. Gripping after a pappy stool, and in forenoon while walking in open air; with burning pressive pain; in l., with rattling in intestines; in l. ilium, between umbilicus and symphysis pubis, extending to r. ilium, > pressure; cutting gripping in forenoon and afternoon, with accumulation of flatus. Pinching above l. hip, > passage of flatus. Pain in groin; sprained pain in l. groin when walking; tensive pain in r. inguinal region. Drawing pain in hypogastrium, extending towards lumbar muscles; pain in pelvis towards umbilicus and r. flank; rheumatic drawing externally in r.

ilium under gluteals, in l. in afternoon, < sitting, > walking. Spasmodic drawing in l. groin when urinating. Dragging in l. groin. Heaviness; after breakfast, also after a copious pappy stool; in pelvis, with dragging. Urging in hypogastrium. Tension; in pelvis; in r. inguinal region, < drawing up and stretching out thigh, afterwards > walking, but recurred while sitting or lying. Burning.

Clinical.—The gastro-enteric symptoms are due to an acute catarrhal inflammation with severe sharp pains, often with purging or only with great flatulence. The profuse inodorous flatus is often found in the nervous affections requiring Agaricus. The pains in the region of the liver may indicate the drug in hepatic disease, but probably not in an acute inflammation.

Rectum.—Discharge of light-red blood after stool, with great straining; of much mucus, with wind. Stitches; as of flatus forcing to anus, but which there caused a recurrent motion into pelvis. Tenesmus after stools. Urging to stool; mornings; with painful straining towards the front of rectum; with a kind of tenesmus and with burning sticking deep in spine; ineffectual, also with emission of much wind; sudden. Feeling as if diarrhœa would set in. Acrid pain during and after stool; when passing wind. Distending pain, then emission of flatus. Prickling; as from worms. Cutting itching just above anus in evening, as after acrid diarrhœa, > pressing out anus.

Anus.—Hæmorrhoids, burning, also painful; inflamed; swollen. Stitches. Pressure at noon. Disagreeable sensation, like heaviness and fulness, at noon, > while sitting. Burning; heat at noon, with itching; and itching mornings, as with tenesmus during stool; after stool; after hard stool; after soft stool. Dry feeling, with inclination to retract it. Moist feeling. Smarting after easy stool, with inclination to retract anus. Itching; after a copious pappy stool, then burning; with tickling. Prickling. Closed feeling, with urging to stool. Paralytic weakness of sphincter.

Stool.—At noon and evening, which is unusual. Dysenteric flux. Liquid; with burning in anus; semi-liquid, also scanty. Watery early in morning, with colic and tenesmus; at night, with pain in region of spleen. Dark-green, liquid, afternoons. Diarrhœa early in morning, with violent pinching; frequent, with griping and emission of much flatus; frequent, with swelling of hæmorrhoids and bearing down of intestines into inguinal canal and pelvic cavity. Pasty; with much wind; then heaviness. Slimy, with much wind; with tenesmus and pain. Soft and crumbling. Crumbling preceded by a moist feeling in anus.

Hard; every other day; after dinner, with scraping; then pappy stools, then diarrhœa. Knotty at night; easy in morning, preceded by colic, then liquid, with colic, fermentation and nausea, after a quarter of an hour watery. Delayed, hard and scanty. Dark. Leek-green. Yellow. Offensive. Tough, sticky, copious, after sudden urging. Causing burning. Copious. Scanty. Difficult. Frequent; at night. Omitted; every other day. Stoppage of excretions.

Urinary Organs.—Twitching pain in bladder. Tensive pain in region of bladder in forenoon while driving. Paralytic weakness of sphincter vesicæ. Retention of urine. Frequent urging to urinate; and violent, and copious urine, with stitches in meatus urinarius; violent urging at night and much urine; with scanty urine. Micturition frequent; and profuse; rare; rare and scanty; intermittent; after several attempts; followed by dripping, also with cold, shrunken penis.

Urethra.—Effusion of viscid mucus. Stitches; when urinating. Burning while urinating; at orifice at night. Feeling as if a drop of cold urine passed. Sensation as if he had not done urinating. Disagreeable sensation at end, along glans, inducing pressure. Crawling itching in glans, seemingly in urethra. Prickling and itching at orifice. Tickling as from a small foreign body in fossa navicularis.

Urine.—Copious; at night; with stool; with relaxed penis; and pale. Scanty; and dark; and reddish. Clear, lemon-colored. Hot and dark. Watery. Milky after standing.

Clinical.—The nervous invalid who requires Agaricus usually passes little urine (unlike Ignatia), though the bladder may be irritable.

Sexual Organs.—Irritation. No pleasurable sensation in an embrace in spite of strong excitement. Erections in morning; frequent, also at night; continual at night; no erection in evening when he desired an embrace, in the ensuing night several emissions. Testicles retracted. Drawing in testicles in evening, with uneasiness, awkwardness and sleepiness; spasmodic, in l. testicle and spermatic cord. Desire excessive; in morning; after a nap after dinner; with relaxed penis. Aversion to sexual intercourse. Desire diminished. Emission; copious during an embrace; at night; at night without lascivious dreams; tardy emission during embrace; insufficient. Menses increased; and earlier, with violent tearing pressive pain in back and abdomen and itching of external genitals.

Clinical.—Violent spasmodic dysmenorrhœa, with terrible bearing-down pains. Itching of genitals, neuralgic pains in pudenda.

Respiratory Organs.—Larynx, constriction; with oppression; aching in r. side, with irritation to cough; tickling, causing cough. Saliva runs into trachea, < raising head, and causes hawking. Scratching irritation in windpipe, causing dry cough. Voice husky, with piercing pains in chest; rough, with sticking in larynx on deep breathing.

Cough; in morning; in morning, then sneezing; in forenoon, with sneezing; in afternoon, with vomiting; at night; at night, with sweat; on waking, with expectoration; after dinner, with sneezing; < towards evening; with sneezing; with gagging; with lachrymation and nausea. Frequent; after eating. Fatiguing, frequent at night on waking, with thick expectoration. Labored, frequent, mostly dry, during the day. Labored, on waking, mostly dry, with expectoration of thick, white mucus. Convulsive cough; during the day; in morning, with expectoration of mucus; in forenoon; waking from sleep, with tickling in upper part of larynx and extending down throat. Deep, almost wheezing inspiration, then short, clear-sounding shocks of cough, often with doubling up of body, nausea and lachrymation. Paroxysmal, with a kind of confusion of whole body and thick mucous expectoration, the cough so sudden and violent that he was obliged to double up, contract his legs and move his arms, but the later attacks were not so violent, brought no expectoration, and associated with soreness of chest. Shaking the whole body, at night, from tickling in trachea, seldom with expectoration. At night obliging him to sit up in bed. Sudden, violent attacks during the day. Violent and isolated attacks, ending with repeated sneezing. Violent during the day; in morning, also on waking; at noon, with repeated sneezing; violent cough in afternoon; at night; night and morning, with expectoration of mucus. Inclination to violent cough during the day, < when smoking tobacco. Constant irritation to cough, which can be mostly suppressed, but if not there are painful shocks, mostly of dry cough. Dry; forenoon; after eating; after dinner, disturbing his nap while sitting; with wheezing under sternum, causing burning; mostly dry, sometimes with rattling of mucus in afternoon and evening, with blowing of much mucus from nose, and in morning coughing up of mucus. Hacking in forenoon; after dinner; convulsive, with oppressive sweat. Loose, labored, from irritation in windpipe. Coughing up mucus in morning; in morning on waking; forenoon; lumpy mucus during the day; large brown flakes of mucus, < morning.

Expectoration.—Mucous; of ball of mucus, almost without cough; small gelatinous, transparent, moulded lumps of mucus, with great relief to lungs, by forcible expiration, without cough. Like coagulated starch-paste.

Respiration.—Suffocative attack. Short; when walking slowly, and asthmatic. Difficult; towards 11 A.M.; noisy; is obliged to stand still several times when walking to take breath; as if chest were too full, he is obliged to breathe deeper, which causes sticking in pit of stomach. Deep; frequent sighing; with rapid pulse. Superficial. Noisy at night, with wheezing in chest. Accelerated; on rising from a seat; and catarrhal, with oppressed chest, not > by deep breathing and involuntary bursts of cough. As if chest were filled with blood.

Clinical.—Spasmodic, convulsive, nervous cough, which may provoke a secondary hæmorrhage.

Chest.—Twitching of pectoral muscles; r. pectoral; l. intercostals. Catarrh. Rattling of mucus; in morning, then cough; when lying on back.

Stitches; towards noon, with tension; in l. axilla; in muscles of anterior wall of r. axilla; in l. side from dry cough; in region of lungs; in one or other lung, < bending forward or backward; in r. lung; in r. lung on walking; in middle of r. lung, < every respiration; in r. lung while sitting, arresting breathing, > pressure of hand; in l. lung; in l. lung, between fifth and sixth ribs, < breathing; in l. muscles; in r. muscles; in muscles near l. nipple; in intercostals below r. nipple; in r. muscles, then r. ribs; below nipples; between l. nipple and sternum, < every respiration; in ribs; l. ribs: near lower ribs; where l. ribs end, during inspiration; where l. ribs end, when sitting with chest bent forward; behind sternum, also < at end of expiration; behind sternum, impeding respiration; in centre of chest, also with pressure and fulness; through upper part of l.; in upper chest, with pressure, like a burning pain; in chest and back, especially under scapulae and corresponding parts in front, inducing deep breathing. Sudden stitches in l. lung; sudden in l. chest; sudden in region of borders of dorsal vertebrae, evenings when sitting. Jerking stitches in r. lung. Heavy stitches in chest; stitches extending from behind forward; extending outward in lower half in forenoon when walking; outward from l. nipple, seemingly more in muscles. Feeling of motion in muscles of chest and neck on deep breathing, almost a sticking.

Tearing; in region of l. clavicle; in anterior wall of l. lower rib region; in l. lower wall; in l. side, extending over surface of nearly whole body; piercing tearing in small spots. Pinching from l. mamma to umbilicus. Sprained feeling internally in evening, < deep inspiration; burning piercing under r. nipple, arresting breathing, caused by a leap. Bruised pain in l. side; in front wall, with difficult breathing. Aching; at night; after breakfast, also with tension; after convulsive cough; after rising; here and there in afternoon; aching in some parts of chest and abdomen, on deep breathing, with feeling as if something dislocated itself; in r. chest, also after rising; aching near r. nipple in evening; near r. nipple when walking, with sensation as if deep breathing would remove the cause; intercostals of upper part of l. breast; l. intercostals, with drawing; in centre, with burning; along sternum; behind sternum, also . . . at end of expiration; under sternum when coughing; on upper half of sternum; in middle of sternum, < inspiration; to l. of lower third of sternum; in l. lower rib region. Drawing pain; behind r. margin of sternum; burning drawing pain from without inward in r., with oppression. Tensive pain. Burning pain in l. half; below sternum after breakfast. Burning; after dinner; under sternum; in sternal region, with roughness; fine burning in different places, especially upon sternum, with prickling.

Horrible shuddering within chest and throat, waking him, with crying out: this shuddering seemed to begin in diaphragm and extended along œsophagus or trachea, in posterior mediasternum, and pushed forcibly against larynx, which produced a shrill cry.

Anxiety; < rising from a seat; causing unsteadiness of hand when writing; with rapid and audible breathing; suffocative, under sternum at night, with stopped sensation in nose. Anxious restlessness, as when expecting something unusual.

Constriction obliging frequent and deep inspiration, < walking. Contracted feeling of sternum. Tension across; after breakfast: anterior walls, also with short breath; both sides, from behind forward, after dinner, with backache; lower part taking away breath, when moving and sitting. Pain in lower part, especially in region of pit of stomach, as if contents of thorax were compressed, < after dinner. Oppression; forenoon sitting, with stitches; after supper, with distention of abdomen; with throbbing of arteries; with burning inside; behind sternum at rest, with palpitation; in upper part, with deep inspirations on walking and sitting, with pressure behind sternum and at sides of it, coming and going, with sensation of a load on chest; in region of diaphragm, with drawing pain; especially behind borders of sternum, with visible beating of heart; compelling deep breathing; preventing slow and deep inspiration; in cardiac region, as if chest were narrowed. Anxious feeling of oppression, which in reality did not exist. Heaviness; on chest. Rawness, with indications of cough in morning. Sore pain on anterior surface, < r. near sternum, seemingly under ribs, > stool; below sternum, also after breakfast; pulsative; in places, < r. half.

Clinical.—Most of the sensations are of a neuralgic character, but many seem to be dependent on the abnormal circulation in the lungs, caused by Agaricus. (Dyspœna caused by contracted blood-vessels and unoxygenized blood.) The pains are mostly aggravated by exercise and after eating. Spasmodic cough at night after falling asleep. (Night-sweats in phthisis. Laryngeal catarrh, with expectoration of small hard lumps (Stan.) and soreness in larynx.)

Heart.—Stitches in region; with intermittent pulse, the stitches obstructing breathing; in region, with rapid pulse; burning, from region of heart to l. scapula, on deep inspiration, < coughing, sneezing and hicough. Aching near; 4 P.M. till evening. Burning aching, with palpitation; intermittent burning, in region at noon. Anxiety. Compressed feeling. Oppression and violent beating on stooping; anxious, with irregular violent action, also < sitting. Blows at night on lying down and morning on waking, at slightest noise, with trembling in pit of stomach and anxiety. Painful shocks at night, with anxiety; twitching shocks. Palpitation; morning on waking; 3 to 5 P.M.; evening; in evening, with anxiousness, that ended in restless drowsiness; on least motion; when standing; when vexed. Increased pulsation, with red face. Violent pulsation, perceptible even in coccyx. Irregular strong beats, on sitting down, with oppression. Visible strong beats. Trembling of heart on waking; trembling, with anxiety.

Clinical.—A valuable remedy for irregular tumultuous palpitation, especially for the irritable heart of tea and coffee drinkers and of tobacco-smokers (compare Arsenic and Spigelia).

Pulse.—Double. Full and rapid. Rapid and hard; rapid, also with sighing. Intermittent; > morning; > drinking coffee. Irregular. Imperceptible. Small; and hard; and quick, in morning. Tremulous. Slow; > drinking coffee; and weak.

Neck.—Twitching of muscles from l. side to l. side of throat. Chirping in occipital region, as if a cricket were in cervical canal, mornings in bed. Stitches in cervical vertebrae; when stooping. Sudden aching between neck and shoulders. Tensive aching in occipital region and on both sides of atlas. Bruised feeling in l. neck and shoulder region; feeling in region of posterior cervical muscles in morning in bed and afterwards when sitting, with a feeling on bending forward as if too short. Sprained feeling in muscles; on turning backwards towards the l. Tension of nape. Tensive drawing in sterno-cleido mastoid muscles, causing stiffness in nape. Stiffness of nape (Ignatia). With heat and pain, < moving head to side, especially to r. side.

Back.—Coarse stitches between skin and flesh. Tearing when walking, extending now to r., now to l. side of lumbar vertebrae. Aching; in evening; at night, and across chest, loins and r. thigh; after dinner; after garden work, and in small of back; < motion; after dinner, especially in a spot in middle, with sensitiveness on touch and motion. Spasmodic and drawing pain, extending to middle of chest, and into oesophagus, in afternoon. Pain as after continual stooping. Twitching pain in l. side. Bruised feeling in muscles; with a feeling as if too short on bending forward; with sprained pain, and disposition to stretch the back. Drawing towards evening, and in loins. Stiffness; on rising from a seat and righting body, > sitting, with violent pain in l. loin. Weakness; of muscles; convulsive shock, extending to entire r. side of body.

Spine.—Stitches; deep-seated burning. Aching along spine and limbs; along spine in bed; in several places on increased motion; along spinal cord when stooping; < turning body; on turning, especially in region of last dorsal and first and second lumbar vertebrae, which become pulsative on increased motion; drawing tensive along, with occasional flying pain in cord. Pain when stooping as if too weak to support the body. Dragging, crackling and creaking along spine during increased motion of body, especially at or near atlas-joint on more rapid motion of body. Soreness, on touch; in spots; mornings, so that leaning against a chair is painful; when washing with a sponge. Sensitiveness, then pain all along spine, especially dorsal vertebrae, and it seems as if the cough had its origin in the spine. Pulsation in spinal canal. Prickling along spine and occiput.

Scapulae.—Twitching between; rhythmical in l. and in l. deltoid. Stitches between; coarse on surface below r.; sudden below l.; gnawing stitches under. Tearing between. Drawing between. Sore pain at lower angle of l. as if chapped. Weakness between, extending into neck, with stiffness.

Dorsal region.—Stitches in vertebrae; at night on waking; in dorsal and lumbar vertebrae; between dorsal and lumbar vertebrae, then the well-known feeling as if the spinal marrow were touched with an icy object, then sticking in cervical vertebrae. Aching in muscles on sitting; between eighth and ninth vertebrae on turning trunk; in twelfth dorsal and first and second lumbar vertebrae, with coldness in gluteal muscles and formation of feet. Drawing pain between eighth and ninth dorsal vertebrae, extending periodically to hyoid bone. Boring in middle of back. Soreness between eighth and ninth dorsal vertebrae on touch, and pulsation pushing downward, synchronous with pulse, > pressure.

Lumbar region.—Crackling in vertebrae on stooping, and in neck. Electric shock in an upper vertebra, extending to lower part of body. Shivering shock in vertebra, extending to whole body. Twitching; l.; r. in evening; in muscles and tendons extending from an upper vertebra, with convulsive shuddering in lower part of body. Stitches in region of r. kidney; in small of back on raising thigh when sitting; in r. loin, also during day; in superior anterior process of iliac bones; darting from spinal marrow of sacro-lumbar region towards r. gluteal muscle; sudden in small of back at noon while walking in open air, with dizzy nausea, the knees gave way and he leaned against a wall to prevent falling. Tearing in lumbar muscles on walking or sitting. Lumbago, extending along spine to nape. Aching in loins; with weakness of feet when walking out of doors; on rising from a seat, preventing righting body and moving thighs; when sitting or lying, > motion. Aching in l., < standing, walking and touch; in region of r. kidney, disturbing sleep; after exertion at stool, soon extending to lower limbs; as from hemorrhoids; tensive drawing aching; tensive in sacro-lumbar vertebrae, mornings when lying on l. side, moving into region of l. hip, and > lying on r. side. Painful tension in tendons and ligaments of r. sacro-lumbar region, extending to great trochanter. > lying on l. side. Cramplike pain from ilium down towards muscles of anterior surface of r. thigh. Pain in pelvic bones as if separated from sacrum, < morning in bed. Bruised feeling in loins; < standing; < lying and sitting. Sprained feeling in l. loin. Drawing in loins; internal from pelvic muscles into legs, becoming an external trembling. Dragging. Ful-ness in loins, with heaviness. Tension in vertebrae, < stooping; across always on stooping, extending into sides of abdomen, where it resembled a sprained pain in abdominal muscles. Urging in l. loin. Weakness in loins on descending stairs and walking in open air, extending to feet; in loins, with pressive tensile pain. Heaviness. Paralytic pain in back part of loins, < walking and standing. Paralyzed feeling near vertebrae, above border of r. ilium.

Sacrum.—Twitching, and in lower limbs. Stitches. Crick in l. Tearing like growing pain in sacrum and hip, increasing and decreasing. Aching; when leaning against seat while at stool; in both sides; < evenings and walking; with weakness when walking; aching as if it would burst; bruised feeling when sitting.

Clinical.—Symptoms of spinal irritation, with pains, often dull but usually sharp, sticking, with excessive sensitiveness of the spine to touch, most severe in upper dorsal region, have been repeatedly verified. Lumbago, with a host of severe muscular pains, all worse on walking in the open air.

Extremities.—Stretching. Trembling. Shocks; sometimes in l. hip, sometimes in r. hand, originating in corresponding joints; electric, and in different fingers. Twitching of muscles; with jerking up of one thumb, then another, and of separate fingers; electric. Restlessness and quivering trembling of l. upper arm and thigh muscles, with shocks in those limbs and jumping of muscles in different positions of body. Pain, in every part, here, there and everywhere; mostly sharp stitches, tearing, also aching, drawing, piercing, bruised; < walking or after motion; > after continued motion; with crawling, as after freezing. Soreness of muscles; weakness, with sensitiveness, trembling, restlessness. Extremities fall asleep.

Clinical.—Neuralgic pains, sharp, shooting, as if under the skin, often shifting from place to place, worse on motion. Sensations as if a part (especially of feet) had been frozen and was burning on being restored. Neuralgia in locomotor ataxia.

Upper Extremities.—Convulsive shocks in various muscles from shoulder to fingers. Twitchings everywhere. Tearings. Pain; bruised, drawing, tensile, sprained, as from splinters, as if burnt on surface. Tremblings. Weakness. Lameness. Numbness and sensitiveness to cold, especially in fingers. Asleep feeling. General aggravation to touch.

Lower Limbs.—The symptoms fall into the following groups, not characterized by locality, and they affect every part, from hip to toes. Twitchings and convulsive shocks. Tearings. Stitches. Tremblings, with unsteady muscles and weakness, heaviness and giving way. Pains, cramplike, burning, bruised, boring and piercing. Tension and stiffness. Pains usually < when walking and ascending, > sitting. In the heel soreness and feeling of splinters. Joints feel dislocated. Corns become sore. Feet feel frost-bitten.

Skin.—Smooth and oily, especially on face. Pallor. Redness of face, with itching and burning, as after freezing; redness of face without heat; of l. side of scrotum, with swelling, itching and twinging; of fingers, with burning itching as if frozen. Icterus, especially of neck, face and chest, after the convulsions. Twitching above r. eye. Itching eruption, spreading to abdomen and thighs. Desquamation. Pimples; on forehead; painful on vertex; itching and sore to touch, in and between brows; inflamed pimples on r. cheek; itching, on side of mouth; whitish, itching and burning, on lower abdomen, about umbilicus, pubis and inner thighs, the itching and burning scratching; inflamed, on back, discharging bloody matter; on arms, with burning itching; inflamed, on dorsum of l. hand; biting, above l. knee, with burning after scratching. Pustule in beard; itching and burning in breast, with red areola; between l. index and thumb and on r. side of neck, with itching. Boil on r. natis; painful, on front side of l. thigh and on the natis, the one on natis discharging blood without matter. Suppurating, painful abscess in middle of r. deltoid. Vesicles on forehead; in r. wing of nose; on chin; white vesicles on chin.

Stitches here and there; near umbilicus; r. side of neck; r. calf; electric stitches on anterior surface of r. thigh; itching stitches in various parts. Soreness of r. hand from wrist to thumb and forefinger, with burning. Fornication on various parts of body and extremities; with burning; with itching; with pricking. Biting inducing scratching, on legs during the day when walking; corrosive biting and burning on various parts during the day. Itching of every part of the body, of large and small areas, mostly shifting from place to place; voluptuous; corrosive; burning, especially after scratching; often coming on in evening, growing worse in the night and relieved towards morning, with sweat; with burning redness and swelling as after a frost-bite (fingers, toes, ears).

Clinical.—The sensations in the skin are due apparently to a pure neurosis and not to any tissue change in the skin itself. The burning itching and redness as after a frost-bite are the chief characteristic indications.

Sleep.—Sleepiness at any and all times. Yawning. Violent, convulsive, < walking in open air. Sleeplessness from 1.30 to 2.30 A.M. Sleep light, with many dreams. Restless drowsiness in evening. Restlessness at intervals during a bad dream. Restless sleep; at night; at night, with constant tossing about, owing to shuddering in whole body, in head as well as chest, abdomen and feet; restlessness at night from itching on abdomen, thighs, arms and scalp. Electric shocks on falling asleep, with twitchings through legs, < l. and complete waking. Sleep unrefreshing. Sleep bad, with headache and depression bordering on melancholy.

Dreams, anxious; frightful, with outcries as if some one were murdering him; bad; disconnected; unremembered; vivid; vivid, partly agreeable, partly disagreeable.

Fever.—Chilliness; forenoon, with disagreeable sensation over back, especially spine; forenoon, with flushes of heat; evening, also with flushes of heat; evening alternating with heat; night on raising cover; going into open air; on slight motion, and in cooler air and if a cool finger touched a warm part; < morning. Sensitiveness to cool air; especially in hands and feet, with pale, wan face. Chill, with hot head, confusion and loss of ideas; with dull headache, stupefying vertigo and palpitation; chill, with thirst or subsequent heat, also every evening; with warm face, hands and feet; with yawning, also with frequent desire to urinate, weakness and disinclination to move, < internal. Shaking, in evening, also on undressing; on lifting bed-covers; over whole body, also afternoon and evening; over whole body, with gooseflesh, then heat of head, with painful beating in forehead and sweat on forehead; with doubling up on sofa, teeth chattered, pain in face, hands blue, no thirst, headache, groaned much in sleep, then towards morning general sweat, which relieved. Chilliness over whole body, especially in feet, then heat over whole body, especially lower limbs, which he must uncover, the blood seemed to stream glowing hot through veins, circulation excited, febrile, pulse hard and tense, and thirst at night. In region of coronal suture after scratching, spreading to forehead; internal chilliness in scalp on r. frontal bone, with external warmth; in head, especially occiput; creeping chill in scalp of vertex, with sensation as if scalp were drawn tightly over skull.

Chill through back and limbs, now and then; in spots on ribs, before l. scapula; close to coccyx; feeling in lumbar region as if spinal marrow or its membranes were touched by ice; feeling as if cold air were spreading over body from spine; when leaning against a chair, as if water were running down back; in spine and upper limbs, then shaking chill, with blue face and hands, which are icy cold, small, hard pulse and heavy head. Shivering in back; along spine and upper limbs. Coldness in r. axilla and inner condyle of foot, mornings in warmth of bed (familiar), in limbs, with blueness; of tip of r. elbow; over metacarpal joint of r. middle finger; hands; hands, with blue nails; lower limbs; l. natis; r. natis at every beat of pulse; in spots on nates and coldness extending to ankles, especially great toe (familiar); l. natis and region of trochanter (familiar); r. natis and below r. scapula, also between skin and muscles. Quicksilver sensation in r. gluteal, also in a lengthwise spot; in l. gluteal (familiar) after dinner; quicksilver sensation in r. popliteal space (familiar). Coldness in track of a nerve on posterior surface of thigh; on posterior side of l. thigh; in whole l. leg, rousing from sleep; thrill of C. down l. leg to foot; C. of ankles and toes; feet; of skin, with swollen veins. Goosesein from slightest contact of cool air.

Heat; morning on waking, with heaviness; all afternoon in attacks, with sweat and dull headache without thirst, heat and sweat, < evening on putting on hat, with rapid breathing and weakness; in evening, with thirst and cold hands; H. at night, but chill if she turns or raises covers; at night, then sweat; at night, with glowing face, sweat towards morning. Radiating warmth from whole body. General orgasms of blood. Burning in different places. Heat of head; to touch; especially on vertex, partly also in eyes; burning in vertex; burning in l. superciliary ridge, near temple, < pressure and pain on pressure. Heat in ears; with itching; in face in morning on waking, with bloated feeling, especially in cheeks, and with heat of head; in face at 4 P.M., and redness, with tension of cheeks; in face in evening, especially near malar-bone; in face on waking from deep sleep, especially in cheeks; in face after eating, with redness; in face, with anxiety, > sweat; burning of cheeks; in cheeks in flushes; in face in flushes, with sweat on forehead; in attacks in face and upper part of body. Burning of lips. Heat creeping through back on slow walking in open air, with twitching in l. side of face. Warmth in dorsal region, with a rough feeling. Biting burning in dorsal portion of spinal column. Burning above l. elbow; in r. thumb in afternoon; in gluteals; in r. tibia; legs in morning, > rising; in l. leg; r. leg; r. leg in morning; r. leg in evening; r. leg after dinner; in skin of r. leg; in r. calf; skin about r. malleolus, as in incipient erysipelas; in feet as if blood were glowing in veins, in warm bed; warmth as from a hand at top of tibia and fibula; burning in a corn on r. little toe. Warm skin, with distended veins.

Sweat; after a quiet night; in forenoon; towards evening; evening in bed, especially on legs, with sensation as if they were fanned by a cool breeze; at night; at night after an embrace, with weakness; at night, especially about legs; on waking; on walking; on ascending a hill, with faintness; from anxiety. Cold and viscid sweat, with weakness; cold sweat on face, neck and chest. Sweat on hairy scalp; on chest at night; on upper part of chest and shoulder after an embrace, then on abdomen and at anus; on palms; about lower limbs at night; inner surfaces of legs evenings in bed; about legs, also in morning, with lassitude; on r. leg; on legs in morning; on legs at night.

Agnus Castus.

The chaste tree, Vitex Agnus-Castus, L., is a shrub four or five feet in height, indigenous in Southern Europe. A tincture is prepared from the bruised berries.

General Action.—The most prominent effect seems to be the loss of sexual power (followed in probers by an increased desire). Our meagre provings show a corresponding loss of nervous energy. (See Mind especially.)

Group for Study.—Gelsem., Phosph., Picric, ac.

Generalities.—Bruised feeling all over. Weakness; when standing, as from anguish, with sensation as before diarrhoea.

Mind.—Absence of mind, with loss of memory (Anac.). Inability to fix his attention when reading (Gels., Phos., Cimicif.). Sadness, saying that she shall die soon (Aurum). Melancholy, feeling as if nothing existed around him, dissatisfied with himself, incapable of attending to business, indifference to things about him. Feeling as if he were nobody, and would rather be dead than have that feeling, with no courage, when free from it he feels exalted, would like to read like an orator, etc. (Compare Plat.)

Clinical.—The symptom of sadness, with the impression of speedy death, has led to the successful use of this drug in puerperal mania, in which the patient even hinted that she intended to commit suicide.

Head.—Contractive aching when reading. Confusion; like a drawing. Heaviness, with pressure in nape, and sensation as if head would fall forward. Intoxication. Vertigo, as if everything turned in a circle. Tensive tearing in forehead; tearing in l. frontal eminence, with pressure.

Temples.—Tearing in l.; r., < motion; with pressure. Tearing, especially above r. eye, < motion, and in other parts of the brain, with sticking; tearing in temples and forehead, in brain, < motion, with pressure. Contractive pain above temples.

Pressure in region of l. parietal bones. Pain in upper part of r. side, more a smarting and sticking, as if in bone, ending in a corner of the forehead, < in evening, felt even in sleep. Fine stitches in scalp, then sticking itching, > scratching. Biting itching spots on scalp.

Eyes.—Pain towards temple, as from a blow, < touch. Burning in evening when reading. Lachrymation in the house. Smarting stitches in r. ball, > rubbing. Pupils dilated. Corrosive itching in upper lids.

Ears.—Ringing, or rather roaring. Hardness of hearing.

Nose.—Aching as from pressure of a stone, on dorsum, on r. nasal bone and between r. brow and root of nose, > pressure. Much sneezing, with dry nose. Illusion of smell, of herring, and sometimes of musk.

Face.—Paralytic tearing in r. malar-bone. Tearing deep in r. ramus of lower jaw, below the sockets; tearing in r. ramus of lower jaw, with pressure.

Mouth and Throat.—Teeth pain when touched by warm food or drink. Acute drawing in region of l. parotid gland. Taste coppery, as if mouth had been galvanized. Mouth dry, with saliva so tough that it can be drawn out in threads, velum perdulum palati and uvula red, scratching in throat, obliging him to cough, and while coughing the mucus feels viscid, like a piece of cloth hanging in the throat. Corrosive itching in pit of throat. Sensation of tenacious mucus in throat.

Stomach.—Great appetite. Thirst; want of thirst; aversion to drink. Frequent hiccough. Eructations; both the eructations and the flatus emitted by rectum smell like old urine in clothes. Nausea in pit; when standing, afterwards in abdomen, as if the bowels sank down. Pinching in pit when sitting bent. Food made him feel uneasy and replete.

Abdomen.—Rumbling; in sleep. Feeling as before diarrhoea. Pressure in upper, after dinner; shifting pressure in upper, with cutting. Stitches in r. inguinal region; in superior and anterior spinous process of l. os ilium. Cutting above l. os ilium.

Anus and Stool.—Pain as from subcutaneous supuration in flesh near anus when walking. Twitching in sphincters. Loose stools; with pain in abdomen. Constipation. Stool inclined to re-enter rectum.

Urinary Organs.—Discharge of prostatic fluid when straining at stool (Phos. ac.) Urine copious, passes in a strong stream. Frequent micturition, with copious, dark urine. Disagreeable feeling in back part of urethra after micturition. Yellow discharge from urethra.

Sexual Organs.—Itching; corrosive in membranes of penis. Drawing along spermatic cords. Penis relaxed, not excited by voluptuous fancies. Erections feeble, without desire; frequent erections; painful in morning; violent, in morning after rising. Crawling in testes. Testicles cold. Desire increased; diminished. Emission at night after an embrace (Phos.); semen discharged in a stream, without ejaculation (Gelsem.), scanty and has but little smell.

Clinical.—Agnus castus is an extremely valuable remedy for loss of sexual power in men, amounting even to complete impotency. The indication for the use of this drug is coldness of the genital organs, with complete loss of sexual instinct; it has also been used for loss of sexual power following gonorrhoea, or associated with a chronic gleet discharge. It may be used for great relaxation of the genital organs of women, with leucorrhoea, or with these symptoms, scanty and diminishing secretion of milk, perfect abhorrence of sexual intercourse.

Respiratory Organs and Chest.—Voice sounds as if passing through wool. Cough, evening in bed. Pressure in chest; above r. nipple, < expiration and touch; in region of last true and the first rib of r. side, < touch; in xiphoid cartilage, directly above pit of stomach; externally in region of sternum, < during deep inspiration.

Pulse, slow and weak.

Back.—Cracking in dorsal vertebrae like rubbing a thumb along a board. Stitches above crest of r. ilium, near spine; deep, sharp S. in coccyx; intermittent, deep S. on l. side, near os sacrum and coccyx.

Upper Extremities.—Pressure in r. axilla, < touch. Tearing stitches on top of l. shoulder. Tearing in r. shoulder-joint, < motion and inspiration, with pressure. Pressure in upper arm, superiorly, externally, < touch. Prickings on external surface, just above l. elbow. Pressure on r. elbow, < motion. Twitching in region of r. elbow, > moving arm. Dull stitch in outer side of r. ulna, a few inches above wrist. Paralytic pain in l. wrist, on turning hand. Drawing pain in metacarpal bones. Paralytic twitching drawing in metacarpal bone of l. index, < touch. Swelling of a finger-joint, with arthritic tearing. Sticking in r. fingers in evening; in eminence of lower joint of index; in upper joint of r. thumb. Pressure in muscles of l. thumb. Buzzing and humming of r. index.

Lower Extremities.—Tearing. Pricking high up in r. side of r. thigh. Lancing pain in r. hip-joint, sometimes extending above and below joint, < motion, > rest, when it is more a tearing with pressure, accompanied by weakness. Crampy pain externally, near l. hip when walking. Shooting in bend of r. knee when standing. Sticking drawing pain in bends of knees, extending into thighs and legs, < motion, in rest changing to drawing, with pressure. Sticking in external side of l. fibula, a little above foot, > pressure. Tearing in inner side of l. leg, from knee to foot. Aching in r. tibia when standing. Paralytic twitching drawing in muscles of l. leg, from knee to foot, when walking and on touch. Sharp intermittent stitches in region where the fibula and tibia join the tarsus anteriorly. Ankles turn easily when walking on pavement; in morning. Heaviness of foot as from a load attached to r. tarsal bones. Sticking in one part of outer side of foot when standing still. Dull intermittent sticking in sole near heel. Fine lacerations in soles. Stitches in l. big toe; causing whole limb to jerk. Tearing in anterior joints of l. toes, < walking.

Skin.—Red itching spots on inner surface of l. forearm. Fornication of r. cheek; under skin of hands. Sensation in upper part of l. calf as if pulled at with a string. Itching stinging in different parts; in inguinal region. Itching around an ulcer in evening. Stinging itching in places on face, beginning with a long stitch on each side. I. as from fleas, especially up back. Corrosive I., > scratching, but returns.

Sleep.—Drowsiness. Long sleep. Restless S. Starting in S. Dreams anxious; constant, unremembered; voluptuous.

Fever.—Chilliness; without thirst, or subsequent heat; C. in scalp, with tension, however it feels warm. Testes cold at night, objectively, not subjectively. Internal coldness, with external warmth, except of hands; internal, with trembling and external warmth. Shuddering, alternating with heat, without thirst. Heat in l. external ear; face, with dry mouth, then thirst when the H. is over. Pleasant warmth of l. hand and forearm. Creeping H. in whole body, evening in bed, with cold knees. Sweat of l. hand, especially interior sides of fingers, in open air, previous to heat.

Ailanthus.

The Chinese Sumach (Ailanthus glandulosa, Desf.) is a medium-sized tree which is commonly cultivated in the United States. A tincture is prepared from the fresh young shoots, leaves and flowers.

General Action.—It causes nausea and vomiting, diarrhoea and even dysentery; a low type of fever, with muttering delirium and restlessness; a rash resembling scarlatina; general malaise and great weakness.

Alied Drugs.—Rhus tox. (Quasia, Cedron), Anacardium, Baptisia.

Generalities.—Malaise. Restlessness (Rhus tox.). Dulness over whole body. Electric thrill extending to finger-tips. Tingling and prickling in whole body (Rhus tox.). Heavy feeling. Faint feeling, with nausea. Incapable of standing long. Weakness; on exertion. Aggravation from sight of food.

Mind.—Unconsciousness. Muttering delirium (Hysoc.). Confusion of intellect. Mental alienation. Inability to concentrate mind. Memory lost (Anacard.). Recklessness. Stoical indifference. Anxiety. Fright (Stram.). Low spirits.

Clinical.—With the low fever general stupor or indifference, with sighing.

Head.—Aching; with burning in eyes; A., with nausea and vertigo; with chills, then flushes of heat. Confusion. Dull compressed feeling, with confusion and pain in forehead. Fulness; after wine; with sleepiness; F., with intoxicated feeling; F., with burning on brain; apoplectic F. Heaviness, > pressure, with pain over eyes. Thick, heavy feeling. Electric thrill extending from brain to limbs. Vertigo; < stooping; with nausea; with vomiting; staggering, when rising or moving.

Aching in forehead; in centre of F., more to l.; heavy A. between 1 and 2 P.M., with drowsiness; peculiar heavy, dull A., incapacitating for mental labor. Aching in temples; on waking; in r., with nausea; darting A. in temples and occiput, with confusion of ideas; lancinating in both, and fine prickling pain in l.; acute prickling. Tightness in temples. Tender bruised feeling over parieto-frontal sutures. Sensation of an electric current through l. side of head. Pain behind ears; P. in occiput, with dizziness and ringing pain in forehead and swelling below l. eye and upon cheek; darting aching in occiput. Beating in occipital arteries.

Clinical.—Constant frontal headache of a neuralgic character. Headache paroxysmal, with drowsiness during the day, confused mind, mental depression.

Eyes.—Smarting and aching as from astringents. Rough and irritated feeling, as from sand and dust. Burning; with headache. Lachrymation in open air or by bright light. Lids agglutinated in morning, with purulent discharge. Conjunctivitis, with redness and inflammation extending around outer canthus. Brows fall out. Photophobia. Dim vision. Blurring of figures and letters.

Ears.—Feeling in r. as from a blow. Ringing in r.; ringing in ears like music.

Nose.—Swelling. Soreness on l. side, with pain. Dryness. Catarrhal obstruction. Difficult breathing through nose. Sneezing, with sensation of cold about the eyes and gnawing in chest. Chronic catarrh. Bleeding; of bright blood. Smell lost.

Face.—Pale. Sallow and inactive complexion. Dusky, bilious complexion. Dark circles around eyes. Capillary congestion in irregular spots. Neuralgic pain, forcing him to walk. Hot, red. Feeling about articulations of jaws like mumps.

Mouth.—Teeth feel as after an acid. Gums swollen and bleeding. Tongue coated; with a pasty taste in morning; thick white coat, brown in centre. Oozing of blood from denuded surface of mouth. Dryness of M., with bleeding from roof and sides. Pain in M. Soreness of M., with rawness and burning. Discharge of blood and stringy saliva. Flat taste to everything. Brackish and flat taste to water.

Throat.—Parotid and thyroid glands enlarged and sore. Redness. Spreading ulcers, feeling as after application of nitrate of silver. Inflammation of fauces and tonsils, with spots of incipient ulceration. Thick oedematous, and dry, choky feeling. Irritability. Dry, rough and scrapy, < morning. Feeling as after an astringent. Constriction; with sensation of a foreign body. Full feeling; just above sternum, with desire to hawk up something. Hawking up mucus; hawks up greenish purulent matter. Soreness on swallowing or on admission of air; S. on swallowing, extending to ears.

Clinical.—Diphtheritic scarlatina, with ichorous discharge from the nose, throat dusky red, with grayish exudation, great swelling both internal and external.

Stomach.—Appetite capricious. Appetite lost; for breakfast; for dinner; no hunger, but eats his usual quantity. Disgust at food. No thirst except when eating. Nausea; every morning; in morning, with diarrhoea, sometimes with vomiting; with anguish, and also with tightness in temples; with sharp pain in r. temple; with vertigo, and also with headache; with sour eructations; with faint feeling; as from fat meat; intermittent; in women, similar to that of pregnancy. Retching. Vomiting; in sleep without waking; all food soon; sour; with diarrhoea. Pain; sharp prickling, and in temples; as from pins. Burning; with darting pain through it. Emptiness; in pit. Faintness after dinner. Inactive condition, as if its contractive power were impaired.

Abdomen.—Rumbling. Tympanitis. Gripping. Pain; before soft stool; with soft stool. Feeling as before diarrhoea; feeling as of "insecurity," as if he would be attacked by diarrhoea any minute. Looseness, more in large intestine. Nausea. Burning. Stricture below short ribs, with the nausea. Tenderness over hepatic region. Oppression below hypochondria, with pain and with the nausea. Pain in hypogastrium and hips.

Stool.—Dysentery, frequent, painful stool, little faecal matter, much bloody mucus, with little fever. Watery, expelled with great force. Frequent diarrhoea, with pain in abomen. Easy, frequent. Constipation.

Urine difficult to pass.

Respiratory Organs.—Cough in violent fits before retiring and on rising; painful C.; deep; and exhausting, with asthmatic expansion of lungs. Oppressed, with muco-purulent expectoration, free in morning, sticky and scanty during the day. Expectoration difficult, in small flakes. Hawking up mucus. Whitish expectoration. Yellow mucus from throat. Asthmatic oppression of larger bronchi. Asthmatic wheezing. Croupy choking. Crepitant rchus. Oppressed breathing. Sighing. Rapid breathing.

Chest.—Stitches, with aching; S. in lungs; l. lung. Cutting to l. of lower part of sternum. Gnawing. Soreness internally; S. of lungs. Aching under clavicle, extending sometimes to sternum; A. through lungs; in lungs, < a long breath; l. lung; in anterior part of l. lung, extending to posterior part; especially through centre of l. lung, sternal edge, with a contracted feeling; A. in chest, with constriction. Burning pain under l. shoulder. Burning, as from breathing hot steam or air; B. in r. lung. Heaviness in sternal region. Oppression as if strapped; O. of bronchi. Sensation as if air-cells stuck together, can hear air-cells open (?) as lungs expand. Tired feeling in lungs.

Pulse.—Rapid; then slow. Slow; then rapid; and full. Small, rapid.

Neck.—Pain; in nape and upper part of back. Soreness of glands, with pain under l. scapula. Swollen feeling in muscles.

Back.—Aching, pressed feeling in dorsal vertebrae. Pain; between shoulders; deep-seated in r. scapula, also preventing motion; P. close on either side of dorsal vertebrae; P. in small of back; pain in back, head, neck, with numbness under l. scapula, extending as a band down to l. hip.

Extremities.—Aching restlessness. Heaviness. Asleep. Shooting pain in shoulders. Numbness of l. arm, with sensation in fingers as if asleep. Tingling of l. arm and hand; morning on waking. Bruised feeling on r. forearm. Numbness of l. hand. Tingling and pricking in fingers.

Tottering gait. Lancingating pain in lower limbs. Lower limbs tired. Pain in r. hip-joint; hips and hypogastrium; shooting P. in hips. Trembling of legs. Numbness of l. leg, with tingling, pricking pain in foot and toes. Pain in r. foot, preventing walking; P. in l. foot when walking, a kind of tension.

Skin.—Jaundice. Erysipelatous swelling of face. Sore on prepuce like incipient chancre. Eruption; livid; E. like measles, but without the concomitants of that exanthem. Miliary rash, almost livid, more profuse on forehead and face, especially on forehead, with dingy patches between the spots of eruption, with muttering delirium, small, rapid pulse, cold dry surface, the livid color of the skin when pressed out returned very slowly, the whole a complete picture of torpor. Elevations filled with turbid liquid looking like pus, with inflamed areola. Vesicular inflammation, resembling the eruption caused by Rhus, on uncovered parts. Dryness. Itching and an uneasy feeling around nose.

Sleep.—Sleepiness; all day; morning or forenoon; after wine, with fulness of head; S., with restlessness. Sleep in afternoon. S. heavy at night; S. disturbed and unrefreshing.

Fever.—Chilliness; with sweat; preceded by miliary eruption, most profuse on forehead and face, during the chill hunger, with a distressing sense of general emptiness, speedy vomiting of food, pain in back of neck, upper part of back and in r. hip-joint, during the hot stage thirst, delirium and desire for brandy. C. over whole body, as from water.

Heat, then coldness; H. during the day, with nausea; head burning hot; burning on brain. Heat in face, with redness. Heat in skin, < morning, lasting till noon, with dryness. Cold sweat; with the nausea and vertigo.

Clinical.—Scarlet fever, with symptoms of depression, eruption slow in appearing, of a livid hue, or with petechiae; patient stupid, with diphtheritic infiltration and much swelling of the throat; scarlet fever, deep coma, tip of nose and extremities cold, rash pale violet, involuntary discharges.

Alettris Farinosa.

Alettris farinosa, Linn. (natural order Hemodoraceae), colic root. A tincture is prepared from the root.

General Action.—It seems to be an irritant to mucous membranes (see nose, mouth and gastro-intestinal canal), and to produce an engorgement of the lower abdomen, with symptoms in women of a heavy uterus.

Allies.—Coleh., Arum tri., Aloes, Lil. tig., Kali c., Iris, Crocus, Dioscorea.

Generalities and Mind.—Uneasiness. Faint feeling in evening, with nausea. Tired; all the afternoon, with dull, heavy, confused feeling in head and inability to concentrate the mind or study. Mind confused and wandering. Mind tends to run on pleasant thoughts, but it does not continue on one object long. Rapidity of thought not lessened, but the power and energy of mind weakened.

Head.—Aching; in morning on waking; every morning, with nauseous, faint, all-gone feeling in stomach, > eating; in different parts. Strange feeling, gradually settling down, with aching in occiput. Feeling as if in a vise. Pressure over eyes, with a queer sensation behind ears. Pain over r. eye, running down into eyeball, > closing lids, at same time nausea and pain in lower abdomen. Forepart felt as if in a vise; feeling in forehead as if in a vise, with dull pain running from r. temple over eye down into eyeball. Aching in r. temple. Temples feel as if in a vise; T. feel as if pressed together, with an occasional twinge in r. temple. Pain in vertex, < bending it forward and by straining at stool; P. in vertex, with weight in occiput. Heaviness in vertex and over eyes.

Occiput. Pain; and in neck; then weight; on l. side, just behind ear; and heaviness, with sharp pain running down r. trapezius, which was < bending head forward, > bending it backward. Queer feeling. Weight, with aching over eyes and through head from temple to temple. Heaviness, as if a weight would draw it backward, and the neck had not the strength to prevent it, > during breakfast, with a feeling as if the scalp were contracting across the back, drawing the sides of the occiput together.

Eyes, Ears, Nose and Face.—Lancingating pain in r. eyeball. Eyelids feel as if pressed down. Pain back of ear, running down sterno-mastoid muscle, leaving soreness to touch; P. back of r. ear, extending down anterior surface of sterno-mastoid muscle. Ears feel as if open through from one to another. Deaf in l. E., stuffed feeling. Nose sore inside of tip; inside, on l. of tip; inside, < r. side (a crack just inside r. nostril). Watery discharge from nose. Lips dry and cracked (Arum tr.).

Throat.—Pain; in r. side all the afternoon, and at 5 p.m. in l. side close up under jaw, with thirst and hyperemia of mucous membrane of pharynx and larynx; in r. side (in r. anterior pillar), intermittent, like shocks of an electro-magnetic machine run slowly but strong, < any movement of head that stretched the muscles. Soreness in morning on waking.

Stomach.—Appetite lost. Thirst; during fever. Eructations of air after eating; of food in evening, with burning in throat. Nausea, with giddiness, then vomiting and purging; N. < by coffee; with pressure in forehead, the nausea > dinner, but returning with gagging at the sight or thought of grease. All-gone feeling in morning on rising, causing faintness, > eating.

Abdomen.—Cramps. Gripping (Diosc.). Pain all through, settling into lower part, > passing flatus and scanty diarrhoeic stool (Colch.); P. all through, < bending forward, > bending backward, then the pain increased and it seemed as if all the insides had sunken to lower abdomen and were cut with knives (Verat.); > scanty diarrhoeic stool (Colch.); intermittently, mostly in lower part, > scanty diarrhoeic stool, tenesmus during and after stool, with feeling as if lower part of rectum were closed. Aching in hypogastrium; and across back of hips.

Stool.—Frequent ineffectual urgings. Loose, painful, offensive, frequent. Thin, with hard lumps in it. Hard; and delayed, small, scanty, difficult; and delayed, scanty, difficult, than constant desire to urinate for half an hour; frequent, the first small, urgent, dark, offensive, excoriating. Bad odor to S. and flatus.

Urinary Organs.—Micturition rare. Incontinence, < walking fast or sneezing. Amount and specific gravity of urine diminished at first. Phosphates slightly increased.

Sexual Organs.—Pain in uterine region; in morning on waking, menses almost black, scanty and sour, with malaise. Menses too soon, light-colored, with colic and bearing-down pains (Alocs), lasted 52 hours (always six days), then leucorrhœa, white, stringy; too soon and profuse, with labor-like pains.

Clinical.—It has been found useful for prolapsus uteri associated with general anæmia and scanty menstruation; the pains are gripping clutching in the right inguinal region extending down the thigh; it has also been used for leucorrhœa and endometritis. It cured hæmorrhoids in one of the provers.

Cough.—Tickling, short, dry, hard, on waking, becoming spasmodic, < by talking, discharge of urine during C., later C. incessant, and like whooping C., lose my breath and become cyanotic C., > suddenly on occurrence of menstruation (eight days too soon).

Chest.—Pain in l. breast as if a knife ran into it; sharp P. in l. breast, then extending through into back, to left of lower part of r. scapula.

Pulse.—Irregular and intermittent.

Neck and Back.—Pain in centre of nape, running off into l. shoulder, then the pain in nape moved up to occiput, where it lasted all the evening. Sharp pain from lower point of l. scapula through to l. breast. Pain in dorsal region. Sensation as if the back would break just above waist, afterwards the same pain higher up. Backache, with dragging in sacral region and stringy, colorless leucorrhœa, beginning when walking.

Extremities.—Sharp pain in r. shoulder-joint, streaked down arm, then into l. chest, where it located just above nipple. Pain running down tops of thighs, all night. Knees painless in forenoon during motion, painful in afternoon while sitting. R. leg feels paralyzed below knee and numb, could not bear weight on it.

Skin.—Itching, papillary eruption across chest and upper part of back, with hyperæmia and hyperæsthesia of surrounding integument, the itching < scratching with the nails, but > rubbing with the palms.

Sleep.—Restlessness at night, < fore part, preventing sleep; R. every night, late falling asleep, then immediately terrible dreams, which wakened, till late in morning, then resting well; with many dreams. Unrefreshing. Sleeplessness till 12 or 1 o'clock, then restless sleep till late in morning, then undisturbed sleep; S. < fore part of night, with physical and mental restlessness, the mind continually wandering on occurrences of his past life, no tendency to brood over sorrow, thoughts very pleasant.

Fever.—Chills, face flushed. Limbs cold, head and face hot and flushed. Feverish.

Allium Cepa.

Natural order, Liliaceæ. A tincture is prepared from the common red onion.

General Action.—The first and most marked effects are catarrhal, nose, eyes and larynx; less marked on intestinal tract. Neuralgic pains in various parts like a fine thread. General aggravation from warm air.

Allies.—Iod., Brom., Arsenicum, Squilla., Arum., Puls.

Generalities.—Shock, with eructations of wind. Indescribable revolution in whole body. Feeling as after taking cold, feverish, < evenings, with heat in face, tongue and mouth feel burnt and dry, without thirst, drinks only a small quantity, restlessness in limbs (Ars.), next day tongue coated. Troubles as after taking cold, pains in all bones, with aching in throat, prostration, etc. Restlessness, with pain in abdomen. Deathly faintness after profuse micturition. Weakness (Ars.). Amelioration afternoon and evenings; after dinner; after supper; by diarrhœa.

Mind.—Confusion and absent-mindedness from much business in afternoon, after wine and coffee. Indefinable anxiety and apprehension with the abdominal pain (Ars.).

Head.—Electric shocks through. Aching; morning, also especially in temples; evenings in room, with coryza (Iod.); < evening, with coryza; > open air, also with nasal discharge; deep within, extending forward and outward to ears; moving from deep within to ears like threads, remaining in spots; oppressive. Confusion. Dulness; with coryza and lachrymation. Fullness; with heaviness as if bound up and with flickering before eyes; F., with pressure in stomach. Heaviness. Sensation as if wrapped up in warm water during the headache.

Forehead.—Stitches externally over l., in evening, drawing into ear, upper jaw and teeth of same side. Aching in region of organ of "concentration;" over r. eye; over r. eye, extending to root of nose; neuralgic, over r. eye, extending into root of nose; deep-seated aching over l. brow; oppressive, over eyes, frequently going through head like an electric shock. Confusion. Dulness as after chloroform, and in whole head. Heaviness; over both eyes.

Aching in temples, < r., < winking, afterwards extending over forehead, < l. side. Tingling pain behind l. mastoid process. Aching in vertex; l. side of vertex. Swollen and heavy feeling on crown. Aching from both sides of head, downward and inward towards middle.

Occiput.—Aching; both sides, > in evening after beer, with dull confusion from crown backward and downward. A. on both sides of occiput, then in two round places in upper posterior part of head, then a general and humming sensation of the part being asleep. Pressure in upper part of O. in evening, becoming about 11 o'clock a sensation as if asleep in bone. Confusion on both sides of and towards upper part, pressing down sideways, then behind ears around whole occiput.

Clinical.—The headache of Allium cepa is mostly in the forehead, extending to temples and downward to eyes and into the face, associated with coryza.

Eyes.—Redness, < l. Stitches in l. in morning. Biting sensation as if there were smoke under upper lids, < night. Pain; as if they hung loose posteriorly on a string, could be bored into with the fingers and torn out. Lachrymation of l. with redness of ball; L. < l.; L. in morning; L. < in evening, in warm room; L., with coryza. Burning of lids; in outside of r. upper lid. Irritation of l. upper lid; after drinking coffee, < warm room, > open air. Dim vision by candle light. Dazzling vision in the distance and dim near by. Flickering and blindness. Sensitiveness to light, < l.

Clinical.—Eyes. The inflammation of the eyes and nose is characterized by the symptoms as emphasized. The lachrymation is generally very profuse, with burning and smarting, but, as a rule, does not excoriate the lids, while the discharge from the nose is watery and extremely acid. With these symptoms there are generally associated the violent laryngeal symptoms noted farther on. For acute fluent coryza of this character the drug stands unrivalled.

Ears.—Affection. Stitches through r., in morning. Peeking behind r. Humming on lying down. Ringing; distant, < r. Roaring in l. in afternoon.

Nose.—Pain like a thread in a nerve, extending outward and downward from nose in morning. Soreness; in morning. Dryness of nostrils. Irritation in r. nostril in morning. Crawling in right nostril as before sneezing. Sneezing; morning; frequent, also in evening on entering warm room. Catarrhal troubles > in cool room; (violent C. after rain and northeast wind); C. evenings in room, with headache; C., with headache, also < evenings; C., with lachrymation; C., with heat, lachrymation, headache, and acid burning discharge making lip red and sensitive. Discharge, > open air, with headache; copious watery D.; dropping, in evening, in the street, without sensation of coryza; watery; blowing thin mucus from nose.

Face.—Swelling of cheeks, with toothache. Drawing pains in l. cheek, extending into l. eye; < cold air. Pain like a thread in a nerve in r. upper jaw, downward from the medium line to the side, deep within the bone, in evening.

Mouth.—Teeth. Smutty-yellow. Pressure in r. back on entering warm room. Aching in back, at breakfast, from bread; from warm cocoa, > cold water; in back, in sleep, with feeling as if too long, > rising; in r. back, after traveling against northwest wind, with desire to bore into and suck them, which relieves, also < warm soup, > cold water; aching in l. eye-tooth, in root, disturbing sleep, with swollen feeling and heat in cheeks; A. root of l. eye-tooth, with inflammation of gum, the pain ceasing suddenly and beginning in a r. back tooth, in the eye-tooth it is pressive growling, the toothache < cold water and cold generally; A., with swelling of cheeks; A. raging, in a broken tooth. Drawing in first upper, from root to crown, r. then l. Pecking in two last back.

Coated tongue; morning; back part, > morning; slimy. Dryness on r. side of root of T. Pain under T., with a half-circle of sore elevations at lower insertion of frænum. Burnt and dry feeling in mouth and tongue, without thirst. Dryness of mouth, without thirst. Scalded feeling in mouth and tongue. Offensive breath. Burning taste, more on gums and upper part. Nauseous taste; on waking. Sweet taste; sickly-sweet.

Throat.—Redness of back part of r. side of palate. Constrictive pain in region of os hyoides, then low down posteriorly on r. side. Drawing pain in l. side, > cold air. Pain; extending to ear. Pain as from a sore lump, morning on swallowing and elevating tongue. Pain below larynx as after swallowing too large a mouthful, or as if swollen, in afternoon, extending every little while into r. ear. Feeling in pharynx as if food stuck behind the breast-bone.

Raw feeling in morning, with tickling in region of epiglottis, r., then l. side, with sensation of weakness in stomach, hiccough, uprising of frothy salivary mucous fluid, eructations of wind and passage of offensive flatus, constant inclination to hacking to relieve the tickling in larynx. Dryness; of soft palate after breakfast; D. in morning, with tickling and hacking cough. Heat low down, extending into stomach. In throat and orifice of Eustachian tube, chilling or burning twitching and gnawing, not painful; chilling or burning twitching in region of r. Eustachian tube, then above it a kind of gnawing, neither painful. Numbness in back part. Mucus; behind choanae towards evening; in posterior fauces, choanae, and on posterior surface of soft palate, bland mucus constantly in evening, which must be swallowed or hawked up.

Stomach.—Appetite, which disappears as soon as he begins to eat, food is disgusting. Thirst; in evening, after beer and herring; evenings, with heat; evening after flushes of heat; T. after chilliness. Eructations; in morning; of air in morning and in evening. Hiccough; morning. Nausea; > eructations; deathly, after eating, > eructations; in posterior part of throat, forced up as with a thrust. Vomiting; frothy slimy fluid. Rumbling in epigastrium after breakfast. Pain; with fulness in head, < after coffee; in region of pylorus; on l. side; deep within epigastrium, as if at orifice, and posteriorly, at 10 P.M. Heat extending into S. Empty feeling and drawing back and forth, with pain. Weak feeling; in morning.

Abdomen.—Rumbling in morning; after breakfast. Flatulency. Emission of flatus in morning; E. during ineffectual urging to stool; difficult, also in evening; frequent, also at night; loud; offensive, also in morning; offensive and moist, also in morning (Sulph.). Gurgling and rumbling; < l. side. Distention; before dinner; with pain, > emission of flatus. Swollen feeling before and after diarrhoea, with sharp pain and oppression of breathing. Pain; morning; < after eating; < sitting, > emission of flatus, while moving about; > emission of flatus; more pressing than burning, especially in l. inguinal region, < afternoon after coffee, with heat in A. Heat, with nausea; H. afternoon after coffee, with pain. Nausea, extending into throat, then confusion of head. Feeling of diarrhoea, and soft stool without diarrhoea.

Rumbling in transverse colon in evening, with urging to stool. Pain about umbilicus; after dinner. Aching in hepatic region, extending through abdomen. Pain in liver in evening; in r. hypochondrium at 9 P.M., with cold shudders down back; contractive in l. hypochondrium, with sensation of wind moving about; drawing P. from region of liver through whole abdomen.

Burning glow or chilling sensation as if scattered, in r. side, with confused feeling, then emission of offensive flatus; warm or chilling sensation in r. side, as if a glow within beat against it and over external and upper part of thighs, in evening. Stitches in l. side evening and morning; l. side < lying; l. side, with ineffectual urging to stool. Pain in l. side; l. side, especially in middle and lower part, and in region of bladder, with troubles in urinating, no stool, violent thirst, expression on face of anxiety and doubt, skin hot, especially in painful and sensitive places, pulse rapid, full, hardish, indefinable anxiety, apprehension and restlessness (Ars.). Pain in l. side as if punched. Pain in l. flank.

Rumbling in l. side of lower abdomen. Stitches in inguinal ring posteriorly and in spermatic cord, with pressive pain. Sudden burning or chilling cutting, as thin as a thread, from sides of hypogastrium inward towards middle and upward. Cutting, with a twisting motion, the pain moving in a small space, deep-seated above l. groin, midway on a line between symphysis pubis and anterior superior spinous process of ilium. Pain deep in pelvis (in prostate?); extending from inguinal region along spermatic cord; painful spot deep in r. pelvis in evening. Pressure on a spot on inside of pelvic cavity, above and inside r. groin, in evening. Periodic pain in pubic region, < sitting. Heaviness in lower abdomen as if pressed upon before and after standing, > after bathing.

Clinical.—The abdominal symptoms seem to be of a catarrhal character, and are in many respects similar to those of Sulphur, with which it should be compared.

Rectum and Anus.—Stitches down into lower part of rectum afternoons. Urging to stool; ineffectual, also with emission of flatus; ineffectual, with stitch in l. side of abdomen; strong urging to a soft stool; sudden urging, also with rumbling. Biting in anus. Feeling of cracks inside anus during stool. Creeping as of a cool worm in anus and in some protruding hæmorrhoids, < l. side.

Stool.—Diarrhoea; night or towards morning; after midnight and towards morning. Bloody. Difficult, but not hard. Long and thick. Absent; with severe pain in abdomen.

Urinary Organs.—Aching in bladder; and in prostate, deep in pelvis, morning and forenoon after coitus. Burning pressure in region of bladder at 10 P.M. Full feeling in bladder. Irritability of B. and pain over kidney region. Sensitiveness of B. Urging to micturition; frequent; frequent, excessive, with burning dribbling. Difficult micturition. Frequent micturition, with burning in urethra; and red urine; < evenings; with shuddering and chilliness. Burning in urethra. Urinæ copious in afternoon. Frothy U. Iridescent film. Red U., with reddish-yellow, sandy sediment.

Sexual Organs.—Drawings in r. spermatic cord. Sticking and pressive pain in spermatic cord and posteriorly in inguinal ring. Burning pain in forepart of glans. Erections morning on waking, with painful tension, without sexual desire. Virility increased. Violent pain in uterine region and in region of bladder.

Respiratory Organs.—Tickling in epiglottis; T., with constant inclination to hack, also in morning; T. in larynx, with mucus in fauces. Throbbing and contracted sensation in larynx (Brom.). Hoarseness (Brom.).

Hacking cough on inspiring cold air (Brom.). Hacking cough in morning. Constant inclination to hack to relieve the tickling in larynx (Brom.). Free expectoration of mucus in evening; hawks up sweetish nauseous mucus; thick, white, frothy mucus expectorated from fauces, without cough. Asthmatic breathing, as often before, at 11 P.M., after smoking tobacco. Oppressed breathing, with ascites. Obstruction to breathing in middle of upper chest, evenings.

Clinical.—The cough of this drug is sometimes associated with extreme hoarseness, and in addition to the symptoms given there has been clinically noted a feeling as if the larynx would split, or as if the mucous membrane would be torn out on coughing, with excessive watering of the eyes.

Chest.—Stitches in l., on deep inspiration; in l., with burning pain in various parts, especially in region of cartilages of fifth and sixth ribs. Pain below sternum, especially to the r. side, at 10 P.M., on moving in bed; below sternum, morning, on stooping; as if food lodged behind sternum.

Heart.—Circulation aroused. Pulse accelerated, full, hardish; excited after 2 A.M. Harder pulse in evening.

Back.—Stitches in r. scapula, running to elbow, with burning pain. Pain below r. shoulder, more towards spine, after long sitting. Stitches in lumbar region. Burning pressure in small of back; at 10 P.M. Pain in kidney region; in l.; l., then less severe in r.; r., with fulness in bladder and frequent urging to urinate. Pain in loins, as from retention of stool.

Extremities.—Restlessness. Rheumatic pain in joints. Soreness, especially on arms, as if it were all scratched off, with tired feeling therein. Weak feeling, with flatulent troubles. Stitches in arms. Weak feeling in arms. Pain in r. elbow as from a blow, at noon. Numb sensation in l. elbow; forenoons, < motion. Painful affection of l. forearm, especially of radius, evening, when resting on arm in writing. Pain in middle of l. radius, > taking hold of it and rubbing it. Pain on back and extensor side of r. wrist in evening. Dryness and redness of hands, as if he had been in the cold. Lameness of joints of l. hand. Trembling of r. hand; in evening. Pain in l. middle finger; pain in r. fourth and fifth finger.

Clinical.—This drug has been used for neuralgias following amputations or injuries of nerves, characterized by fine, threadlike pains, shooting, but not burning like those of Arsenic.

Lower Extremities.—Thigh. Bruised feeling on side of l. near knee. Pain on outer side near knee; l., also r.; almost burning pressure in upper part of l. thigh, towards outer side. Weakness of hips nights; in region of hips late in evening on rising from a seat and on walking, < ascending steps; of hips; preventing him from finishing coition.

Stitches outward in front of r. knee, as if coming from the bone. Paralytic pain in knee. Shooting in

l. leg and r. foot. Burning pressure on a spot externally in middle of l. leg in evening, then low down on r. Pain in r. ankle mornings; P. l.; burning P. around l. outer ankle, then lower down, and a burning pressure externally, then internally. Pain in r. foot evenings; ticking pain in metatarsal bone of l. great toe evenings. Painful twitching in inner side of l. heel. Pain in external soft parts of r. great toe, and in l. middle finger.

Skin.—A wart between l. shoulder and side of neck begins to pain, is red and is scratched off. Hard swelling under l. ear, with pain extending into ear, < pressure. Stitches, especially on head, forehead, brows, in throat and on r. arm. Itching in supraorbital region, < l.; burning, in brows, supraorbital region and upper lids, in evening; corrosive, voluptuous, especially on palmar side of l. thumb, from first to second phalanx, not on ball, in evening; corrosive, with redness, and points which cannot be well described or seen, and desire to be rubbed or washed, evenings, < after going out.

Sleep.—Yawning; with headache and pressure in stomach; frequent internal Y., in evening. Sleepiness; mornings; mornings after rising, with disinclination to work; S., evening. Sleeplessness after 2 A.M. Dreams of battles, fight, precipices, storms at sea, difficulty in reaching the coast, and efforts to get out of wells. Dreams of being near the water two nights in succession.

Fever.—Chilliness; alternating with heat, evenings during coriza. Internal C., then heat and thirst. Shivering in back; cold shiverings down back, evenings, with liver-pains, also at 9 P.M., with pain in r. hypochondrium; shivering down back, < nights in bed, with feverishness in all veins and sweat, especially in axilla and palms; cold shivering creeping along back; cold creeping along back.

Heat at 2 A.M., without thirst, > morning, < after breakfast; H., with thirst; after coldness. Heat from much walking, without thirst. Heat of head. In l. eyebrow. Of face; warm spots on r. cheek. Glowing sensation on outer side and upper part of thighs. Warmth of skin; hot skin, especially on the painful and sensitive parts of abdomen and region of bladder. Flashes, in evening, with thirst. Fitting H., now and then; evenings, with thirst. Internal H., with rumbling in abdomen. Sweat; towards morning; while working; in axilla; on palms.

Alnus.

Clinical.—This drug has been used for strumous disorders, enlarged submaxillary glands, leucorrhœas, with erosions of cervix, which bleed easily, amenorrhœa, burning pain from back to pubis.

Aloe.

This Liliaceous plant inhabits Africa; the leaves afford a juice which, when inspissated, forms the Aloes of commerce, from this a tincture is prepared.

General Action.—The most pronounced action of Aloes is the engorgement of the pelvic viscera (Uterus, Rectum), increasing hæmorrhoidal congestion and uterine hæmorrhage. The diarrhœa is very characteristic, and with the portal congestion are associated the frontal pains, flatulence and various secondary phenomena. The arthritic pains are significant, but have been neglected clinically.

Allies.—Esculus hipp., (Bell.), (Bry.), Lycopod., Podophyllum, Sulphur, Berberis, Iris, (Phos.), (Puls.).

Generalities.—Anxious starting-up. Sticking in joints. Bruised or sprained pain in various places. Drawing in various places, as if it involved the bones; paralytic D. in various muscles. Ebullition of blood. Sensitiveness of whole body. Restlessness; anxious. Disinclination to move. Disinclination to go into the open air, though there is relief from it. Indolence; at noon. Weakness; evening; on motion; after vomiting; alternating with activity. Aggravation in afternoon, especially of symptoms of mucous membranes (Lyc.); symptoms appear in evening particularly. Amelioration in open air (Lyc.); from exercise in open air; emission of offensive flatus in evening; emission of hot flatus upward and downward; smelling camphor.

Mind.—Disinclination to mental labor (Phos.). Speedy fatigue from mental labor. Incapacity for labor, with peevish restlessness. Anguish. Anxiety; from vertigo. Apprehension and oppression. Sadness. Peevish about himself (Sulph.); so that he insults and blasphemes, < afternoons. Anthropobia. Quarrelsome. Wilful. Hard to please and crying at least provocation (Puls.). Disgust at everything during pain. Phlegmatic. Indifferent in evening. Excitement. Contentment. Happy mood in evening.

Head.—Tearing here and there. Shaking in, as if brain were loose, when walking at 11 A.M., < fresh, cold air and on laying head down, then and awhile after rising up pulsating pain, especially in occiput, > after eating. Aching; in morning, until after breakfast, with languor; in morning, after incomplete stool. > by a second stool; after gripping in bowels and after stool; (from heat of sun); on touch; < in dark, > in light; < motion, especially stooping; < in warm, > cool air; > eating; with nausea; alternating with lumbago; alternating with pain in loins, also periodically; pulsating A.; sluggish drawing A., more externally.

Congestion. Attack, with nausea, as from indigestion. Heaviness. Tension. Confusion; painful, every morning. Murky feeling, compelling him to make the eyes small. Widened feeling, as if pressed out on all sides. Shock from arm into head, thereupon sensation of a wind extending from head into abdomen. Vertigo; while standing and walking, making him anxious; > by nasal catarrh. l., then r., with copious mucus, which soon became thick; paroxysmal; as if everything whirled about with her, > ascending stairs and turning quickly; as if he sat on a high chair, while sitting after eating.

Forehead.—Stitches over brows, and also in frontal prominences; in l. brow outward to eye, afternoon and evening; in r. side between forehead and vertex, from the top inward. Aching; afternoon; r. side; in sinciput; in supraorbital region; in middle of F., downward and inward towards nose; with abdominal symptoms; above forehead, with heaviness in eyes and nausea; extending to half of face (Bry.); involving orbits; pressing A., down into forehead; A. pressing outward towards temples; A. in forehead and on vertex, as from a weight. Drawings to bottom of r. side from above r. brow, every evening; D. over r. side, with sticking; darting, over l. eye and outward through eye. Confusion in sinciput, especially with chilliness.

Temples.—Stitches in l., < every step; in l. towards ear; through l. into brain; drawing, over r. (Aching in r.); intermittent, < l. Pressing outward to T., with periodic heat in face and flickering vision. Pressive boring in l., in afternoon.

Vertex.—Aching; as from subcutaneous ulceration, on r. side, < touching hair; as from subcutaneous ulceration behind vertex, with standing up of hair on that spot. Weight on.

Parietals.—Sudden shootings upward in r. side of head, evening and morning. Aching on l. side of head; on l. side of top of bone; in middle of r. half of brain; leaping pain in r. bone, towards vertex. Pulsation in l. wall of head, at first painless.

Occiput.—Stitches after stooping. Aching in r. angle, in evening. Dull drawing in l. Pulsation at night when lying down. External soreness.

Scalp.—Dryness of hair. Aching on occiput like a pressure. Sensitive spot on l. upper occiput in morning when combing hair, and towards evening on r. side of vertex. Beaten feeling near l. vertex, so that pressure is painful, yet feels good. Numbness moving over scalp, with warmth.

Clinical.—Frontal headache is most characteristic of this drug; it is generally associated with abdominal symptoms; it is rarely useful for neuralgic headaches.

Eyes.—Compelled to make small, during the pain in forehead. Heaviness, with aching above forehead and nausea. Tearing at bottom of r. Pain as from a hot current in r., along axis of vision; outward drawing pain in and over l. Pressure in r. ball, evenings from light. Pustules surrounded by red vessels at external angle of r. Pain deep in orbits, as if in muscles, < r. Outward drawing pain in brow, extending to l. eye. Vision dim at night; when writing. Flickering; with scotoma; with the pressing outward to temples and periodic heat of face. Yellow rings move before the eyes. Shining bodies shoot across eyes.

Ears.—Drawing sticking in middle ear, l. then r. Drawing from, into a lower back tooth. Twinging in r.; in evening. Aching during menses; in, and externally behind and below l., during menses; in l. external meatus, < pressing teeth together; towards midday drawing pain from before backward, below r. external meatus, behind the lobules, in mastoid process and in ear passage itself. Heat in middle and outer. On pressing teeth together a numbness behind ear, drawing down through a lower back tooth. Sudden explosion in l., after getting into bed, as from the breaking of glass, the clink of the glass was heard at bottom of head and extended towards r. ear. Rustlings in r., on moving jaw.

Nose.—Redness in cold open air. Scurfiness on inner surface of r. wing, with sensitiveness. Pain on motion, < morning. Burning in l. nostril. Dryness, morning in bed. Sneezing; till evening, with watery mucus; ineffectual attempts at, also in morning. Coryza; < afternoon; with burning in nose; with pain in nose; with soreness in r. nostril; dry; fluent; sensation of C., with husky voice and chilliness. Discharge of copious mucus, which soon becomes thick, from l., then r. nostril, after the anxious vertigo; thin mucus. Bleeding in morning; from r. nostril, morning in bed; flowing of blood in afternoon; feeling as if it would bleed.

Face.—Redness, with heat, wide-awake and excited; red round spot on l. border of lower jaw, between lower border, angle of jaw and chin. In l. half, confusion and pain coming from an inflamed spot in mouth and from forehead. Fine crackings in r. maxillary joint at 9 P.M., when reading aloud.

Lips.—Red; in evening. Swelling, pain, dryness, and scurf; swelling of lower, with a vesicle covered with a yellowish hard skin. Moist spongy scurf. Cracking; inner side of upper, when laughing; painful C. of lower, near angle. Dryness; after dinner, > evening, with whiteness; D., with white scaly epidermis, licked continually with the tongue.

Mouth.—Teeth. Yellow. Stitches in a third hollow back tooth. Concave edges seem sharp and hurt the tongue. Sensitiveness in a hollow back tooth, < eating, afterwards pain when not touched, and then a pustule appears in front of its gum. Gnawing in a l. lower hollow tooth in evening and periodically through night, < eating. Drawing in lower incisors. Tongue coated yellowish-white. Trembling and shock in larynx and tongue. Dry tongue; evenings; D. and stiff; and red. Pain in back part of r. side of tongue, < touching teeth. Coldness of l. side of tongue.

Inflamed spots in mouth; inflammation and sore pain in l. cavity. Dry mucus; thick mucus on waking at 3 o'clock and in fauces. Dryness; evenings; after dinner, > evening. Dry heat. Burnt and inflamed feeling in hard palate and about last teeth, > swallowing food. Sore feeling in inner side of l. cheek, afternoons. Salivation; after breakfast, with hunger. Sickening smell to the breath. Taste metallic, with dry irritative hacking; of ink or iron, with irritation to cough; bitter; bitter, nauseous; like senna, between root of tongue and soft palate; sour; clayey.

Throat.—Pain; with sense of rawness and swelling, < swallowing, with hawking of thick mucus on waking at 3 A.M.; with expectoration of thick lumpy mucus from fauces and choane; in arches of velum palati when chewing hard food; in back part on swallowing; in arches of palate on empty swallowing and on yawning, afterwards when not swallowing, > swallowing food; in soft palate when yawning; in soft palate as if sore or burnt, on chewing, < evening. Soreness of l. arch of palate on opening mouth wide.

Swollen feeling in morning, < afternoon; at 8 or 9 A.M., or pressure; in palate at 3 A.M.; in soft palate and uvula in evening, < morning, > noon. Fulness, sometimes with eructations. Constriction. Rawness, especially in upper part, in soft palate and uvula, > after breakfast, returning in open and cold air in afternoon, with raw voice. Scraping, provoking cough; in morning. Tickling irritation to cough, evening and morning, with taste in mouth of ink or iron. Dryness; with inflammation, cough and expectoration. Affection after skating, and again in evening in middle of soft palate posteriorly. Hawking up thick mucus; thick, tough, lumpy mucus, easily loosened, in morning after rising.

Stomach.—Appetite increased; at 6 A.M.; 7 A.M. on waking; afternoon; evenings; evenings, with yawning; after breakfast, so that water accumulates in mouth; for bread; for fruit; for juicy food; for stimulating food, with fulness of stomach; canine hunger in forenoon; canine, after morning stool. Frequent appetite, but not great. Diminished appetite; in morning; at noon. Appetite good at noon, but went away on working. Appetite lost, with dyspepsia and constipation; lost, with febrile sensation; no appetite for meat.

Thirst; evenings; at night; after dinner and supper; for water in afternoon; especially for beer. Aversion to drinks, especially cold drinks. Eructations; of air; bitter; bitter, after drinking water; sour; tasting of food; acrid, after dinner; bilious. Nausea; (after sour things, with lassitude); must sit still in order not to vomit; with inability to vomit; with headache; with aching above forehead and heaviness in eyes; with empty feeling in stomach; with diarrhœa and pain in umbilical region, < pressure; with weakness. Hæmatemesis.

Distention; after drinking water, with bilious eructations; in epigastrium, also with appetite for stimulants; in region of stomach (Lyc.). Flatus rising towards throat, with nausea. Pain; in r. side; in pit after breakfast, > eructations; in pit when making a false step on stone pavement; in r. epigastrium, with tension; from epigastric region into both sides of chest; from epigastric region into pharynx; extending into pharynx; from pit through to back, like a weight, with sore pain, sometimes this pain rises into chest and then sinks down again with eructations. Pain drawing up into sides of chest, < motion, with nausea. Snatching under pit (in a mesmerized person). Oppression; < eructations; with eructations. Twitchings in epigastrium; cutting, tearing, sticking, in epigastric region. Crawlings. Torpidity, so that he did not know when his appetite was satisfied. Warmth, with hunger. Weakness in pit like a weight and burning.

Abdomen.—Distention (Lyc.); with motion of flatus (Puls.); D., with periodic movement, < after eating; after a meal, also during menses, also mornings, especially in hypochondrium. Rumbling. Gurgling, before a thin stool; with constipation; moving about, also after supper. Rattling, mostly in hypogastrium, as from movement of uterus. Motions, especially in lower part; M., with urging to stool; M., with writhing.

Emission of flatus after every meal; in noon repose; on attempting to go to stool; burning and offensive (Sulph.); offensive in evening; O., with stool; O. after eating; hot; loud, with stool; frequent and loud, also morning and evening; easy, with inclination as for soft stool; vigorous, evenings; copious in evening, also at night, also with stool, also with little fœces; copious, long, lazy, offensive, after stool; copious, offensive, after noon nap and towards evening; the more copious the harder and more delayed the stool, and offensive, < in morning.

Stitches before stool! Cutting; morning after rising; when eating; after vinegar; with diarrhœa; drawing across through abdomen, with ill humor, anthropophobia, not disposed to go into open air, though it is better thereby. Gripping; before stool, also during and after stool; after midnight, with diarrhœa; with small stools; as from taking cold, also from 10 to 12 A.M., after a thin stool. Pain; at night before and after diarrhœa; in muscles when rising from lying, with pressing to stool, as from taking cold, also morning and evening; compelling one to bend body. Anxious feeling. Inflammation; on intestinal mucous membrane, with ulceration. Sensation of a stone in abdomen if she lies on it, but the stone seems to be in the side if she lies on the side; with sweat, next day dry coryza and diarrhœa. Dragging down. Drawing, crawling; pleasant, with diarrhœa.

Soreness on pressure. Chilliness. Feeling as if he had taken cold, after morning stool. Heat. Determination of blood; ebullition of blood in organs. Pulsation; at night when lying down; (during rest, < lying at night). Indolent feeling with the stool. Weak feeling, as if diarrhœa would occur.

Upper abdomen.—Distention (Lyc.). Aching in upper and middle part of abdomen, going downward. Gripping in upper, after dinner and supper, with twisting; G. in upper and around umbilicus, > sitting bent and emission of offensive burning flatus, with twisting and ineffectual urging to stool. Cutting; in afternoon, < motion, especially stretching body outward, > sitting bent; in small intestines, also with gurgling.

Sides.—Stitches now in l., now in r. Aching in r. Soreness, especially in sides and down sides of umbilicus, on touch, with pain.

Hypochondria.—Distention, > passage of flatus, with pain in l. hypochondrium. Stitches in hepatic region; from liver into chest, interrupting respiration; periodic, in hepatic region, sometimes moving into chest, interrupting respiration; in spleen; drawing, from splenic region into loins, waking at night; extending from splenic region through l. breast; in l. hypochondrium, as if in l. ligaments of womb and in ovaries; now in r., now in l. hypochondrium; from hypochondria, around umbilicus, and then into rectum. Cutting; in afternoon, < by motion, especially stretching body outward, > by sitting bent. Cramplike pain in region of spleen. Pain; < by standing, so that he stoops; in hepatic region (Lyc., Sul., Pod.); > by emission of flatus; towards morning, with distention, pain in forehead and diarrhœa, with painful weakness of leg, diarrhœa and chilliness; in r., with tension; jerking in l., extending downward and inward in morning when waking; hard, alternating with the same under upper part of sternum. Inner pressure. Pinching in both. Bile increased and irritation of liver. Uneasiness in region of liver, with heat, pressure and tension (Pod.). Strained feeling in liver by the last ribs.

Umbilicus.—Motions in region, at 6 A. M., with urging to stool and hunger. Retraction. Stitches; on sneezing; throbbing boring S. in region. Pinching around. Cutting about, after stool. Raking in a circle about, as from a blow, morning on rising, < pressure, with yellowish diarrhœa and nausea. Pain in region; < pressure, with diarrhœa and nausea; P. especially in region, > touch, especially in deeper tissues, < morning; P. in a spot in middle abdomen, in morning, > lying bent and pressing upon it, passing into cutting after rising, then two pappy stools. Gripping in umbilical region, with shivering through whole body. Digging around. Boring in region. Twisting about.

Lower Abdomen.—Distention; flatulent, along colon, < motion, > passage of hot flatus, with a pressing outward pain; moving along colon in evening, then copious discharge of flatus. Rumbling, with pinching. Gurgling at night, with sudden urging to stool. Shocks over hips, with distention. Stitches over arch of pubis. Pain as if another stool would follow after a stool; P. as before menses (in a nursing woman); in groins. Sensation of a plug between symphysis pubis and os coccygis (compare Bell.), with urging to stool. Pressure and drawing, with drawing in spermatic cord, then gripping in transverse colon, > by passing flatus. Heaviness. Determination of blood to large intestines; to pelvic region. Cramps, and in r. groin.

passing beyond r. knee. Soreness, with tension. Inflammation of lower part of intestinal canal. Irritation at end of intestine. Periodic drawing in r. inguinal region. Affection of lower end of intestinal canal and of pelvic organs.

Clinical.—The abdominal symptoms are apt to be associated with pressure and fulness in the region of the liver. There is always great accumulation of flatus, which presses downward and causes distress in the lower bowel.

Rectum.—Stinging. Cutting during solid stool. Heat (Æsc. h.), with diarrhœa; when fœces pass. Soreness. Annoying sensation, caused by pain in loins. Loose sensation. Heaviness. Dragging down, during menses, with full sensation in pelvis; D. near anus. Feeling as if the stool were solid during a natural, also during a pappy one. Fear lest stool should escape with flatus; feeling as if thin stool would escape on passing urine; with the stool always a feeling as if more were at hand. Tenesmus, as if more stool would follow, which must be held back on account of soreness of anus, yet on account of this pain he does not dare to draw the anus together. Urging to stool, with passage of urine (Merc. c.). Urging to stool; in morning; morning on waking; at 3 A. M.; in evening; at night, also during micturition; after eating; when rising from lying; or standing; during stool, when he thought he had finished more came; after stool; after thin stool; continual; also at night; frequent, with heaviness in pelvis; sudden in morning on rising; sudden, with liquid stool; ineffectual, also with emission of flatus, also with a feeling of softness, also with debility; as for a solid stool, which was soft; near anus, more towards perineum. Tenesmus, with diarrhœa.

Anus.—Drawing stitches on walking after morning stool, more on l. side and forward to region of prostate gland and vesiculæ seminales. Stitches, extending into loins; S. during stool, as if it would be torn forward, then after stool pain which compels him to draw it together frequently, whereby it becomes tense and aches. Sticking, cutting after stool. Pain, > drinking beer. Burning (Berb., Sulph.); after stool; after emission of hot flatus. Fulness and pressing out; fulness and pressure after a small thin stool. Pulsation while sitting after dinner. Sore feeling (Berb. Æsc. h., Iris); during stool, with chapped feeling. Crawling after stool. Itching; in afternoon. Ulcers on edge. Hæmorrhoids sore on wiping after stool. H. swollen and sore (Æsc. h., Sulph.), < through day; sore during stool; sticking in H. in evening on rising from a seat and later when sitting; smarting when sitting and lying; painful during diarrhœa; protrude during stool; protrude, with a full feeling; itching in afternoon; itching, with sticking; itching of soft H. evening and morning. Discharge of blood from anus; during stool, also with pain in loins; after stool; of membranous looking mucus. Weakness of sphincter, so that cleanliness was difficult. Soreness of perineum after walking; soft, painless varicose tumors on perineum.

Stool.—Liquid; with sudden urging. Watery, with tenesmus. Thin mornings. Diarrhœa; morning on rising, with raking about umbilicus as from a blow, and with nausea; in evening, with tenesmus; yellowish green after midnight, with gripping in abdomen; with pain in hypochondria and chilliness; yellow; yellow, towards morning, also with distention and dull pain under ribs; pappy, after constipation; pappy, towards the end, at 2 A.M.; yellow pappy, with pain in umbilical region, which is < pressure. Pasty.

Constipation; after diarrhœa; C., with growling in abdomen. Omitted; with unendurable condition of mind. Hard; first part, latter part thin, pappy, also at 2 A.M.; H. and indolent; small and tough. Crumbling; and scanty, with feeling as if more ought to come (Sulph.). Lumpy. Dark, pappy and scanty. Yellow; grayish-yellow. Green (in an infant). Bloody; with pain in loins. Undigested; with traces of blood. Brownish, small, slimy, half-fluid. Evacuation of mucus in large conglomerate pieces; yellow mucus. Small, yellowish, shining stool at 9 A.M., with sputtering flatus, with dread lest fœces and urine escape together, while he would force out, yet he held back. Bilious; partly of bilious-streaked mucus mixed with fœces, partly of thin yellow fœces, after grumbings and motions in abdomen, then crawling in anus.

Copious; late in evening; and difficult; and thin, after waking at 3 o'clock; and forcible, with noisy flatus, then drawing in bowels and limbs. Small; and soft, after much straining; and thin. Sputtering. Involuntary, with passage of flatus (Sulph.). Falling out without exertion; almost unnoticed. Indolent. Difficult; distending rectum at first. Frequent; with flatulence and tenesmus. Stool at an unusual time; S. during micturition (Mur. ac.), also at 5 A.M., with micturition; morning after rising; after breakfast.

Clinical.—Engorgement of the hæmorrhoidal veins is one of the most constant effects of Aloe, and it is one of the best remedies for hæmorrhoids as above characterized. The diarrhœa is particularly treacherous; that is, the patient does not have a proper sense of the accumulation of fecal matter in the rectum, and there is loss of power in the sphincter, so that the stool escapes easily, and when the desire for stool comes the patient is scarcely able to attend to it. Aloe has been prescribed with success in constipation with heavy pressure in the lower part of the abdomen, particularly with a feeling of a plug in the pelvis, as above mentioned; in chronic dysentery, with the abdominal symptoms of flatulence and the burning in anus and rectum, the discharge sometimes of jelly-like lumps, intense pain and soreness in rectum after the stool.

Urinary Organs.—Urging to urinate; frequently at night. Difficult micturition. Interrupted micturition. Frequent M. in afternoon, with copious and light-colored urine. Burning on urinating. Blood from urethra. Urine scanty; and hot; copious; C. and pale, after stool; dark; D. and scanty, with slimy sediment; bloody; fine granular cloudiness, with whitish sediment and putrid ammoniacal smell; yellow sediment, like bran.

Sexual Organs.—Tickling of prepuce, with crawling and spotty redness. Pollution in midday nap. Increase of leucorrhœa. Pain in female genitals as if torn. Cramps in uterus, with loss of white mucus. Detachment of blood to uterus (Bell.). Heaviness in uterus, with pain in back; with pain in loins, and groins. Menses appeared in a woman nursing a child two months old. Menses too early; and too copious (Bell.); increased, with colic; long-lashing. Menstrual blood dark and clotted (Bell.).

Clinical.—Valuable for uterine hæmorrhage, with feeling of great heaviness of uterus and the sensation of a plug above noted. The uterus always feels too heavy and engorged, as if hæmorrhage would take place at any time.

Respiratory Organs.—Stitching in r. side of larynx with each paroxysm of cough. Scraping in larynx, with tickling in fold of neck. Raw pain in larynx when spitting. Trembling and shocks in larynx and tongue.

Hoarseness; in back of fauces; deep in fauces, after a dream that he was in danger, but could not scream on account of hoarseness, > after breakfast. Raw voice in morning. Cough; from scraping in throat, also in morning; dry, < towards evening; dry, sometimes from determination of blood to chest; hoarse, eripitant, deep-sounding cough, as if trachea were raw, dry and full of mucus.

Expectoration constantly, from scraping and tickling in larynx; lumpy; yellow tenacious, after cough; thick, also in morning, also at 3 A.M.; jelly-like in morning after rising. Hæmoptysis. Asthma and wheezing. Dyspnoea. Inspiration wheezing, panting, evenings after smoking. Whistling in throat. Whistling and labored respiration.

Chest.—Cutting, tearing, sticking jerks, which suddenly stop the breath, < recovering himself from a stooping or twisted posture. Stitches; through l., also when crouching on account of pain in abdomen; in lower, with dyspnoea; in l. breast, < bending body; under r. mamma; anteriorly in region of l. sixth rib, at 9 P.M., < deep respiration; moving about; obstructing respiration; pinching at back of l. side and under l. nipple, on bending to the left, sometimes impeding respiration; twitching, also when lying, impeding respiration, with palpitation.

Pain in ribs under r. axilla, extending in region of shoulder towards back; behind sternum; under sternum; in anterior part on deep inspiration; at costal attachments of muscles that go to arms, on motion of arms; as if she would choke; hard, under upper part of sternum, alternating with some pain in region of r. lower ribs. Sprained pain behind middle of sternum on rising, only on moving arms, on stooping and crouching together, > stretching chest and throwing it forward. Bruised feeling between bones and flesh in anterior part and sides up into axillæ. Sticking drawing in region of l. sixth and seventh ribs in morning on stretching, superficial but preventing respiration. Constriction, with periodic pressure and squeezing, < l. Determination of blood. Weakness; on bodily exertion.

Heart and Pulse.—Stitches in præcordium on deep inspiration. Pain in præcordial region, extending to l. scapula, also extending under l. scapula. Palpitation, with stitches in chest. Heart's action strong. Action quicker, in bed, < after 2 A.M., with frequently a strong beat. Pulse rapid; slow; intermittent; irregular in force and frequency; sunken; sunken after vomiting; weak and changeable; weak and suppressed.

Neck.—Cracking of cervical vertebrae at 8 A.M., on motion. Drawing pain in r. side, only on moving neck after rising from midday rest, afterwards the same pain on motion, but tensive, almost burning. Drawing; tensive, burning in r. side, as if in muscles, forenoon when sitting, > motion, and on sitting in afternoon the same tensive drawing, and on stooping in morning and afternoon, burning. Tension in nape behind ears, with compression. Soreness on r. side, on motion, as if a muscle were stretched.

Back.—Pain at nights; P., with heaviness in uterus. Bruised pain in whole back, on and between scapulae, as after long stooping. Stitches under the scapulae, with outward-pressing pain; S. between scapulae, < r. side, with squeezing. Pain in region of last dorsal vertebrae, as if in spinal cord, at night after eating much, < lying on back, > rising.

Sacral Region.—Stitches in r., shooting towards anus, hips and lower abdomen. Lumbago alternating with headache. Pain; morning on rising, also < evening; at appearance of menses; involving pelvis; drawing about in sacrum during the day, sitting, with heaviness; drawing, in sacrum, spreading over pelvis, < evenings, with ill humor; acute drawing through flank into middle of thigh. Drawing with burning; D. in r. kidney region, with pressure. Heaviness, < sitting, > motion, with pressure; H. involving pelvis and rectum. Weight on rising from a seat, and in pelvis. Stiff feeling after sitting. Biting, burning and sticking as from a mustard plaster, between skin and flesh, in afternoon.

Coccyx.—Bruised feeling. Periodic clucking in region.

Extremities.—Jerking, drawing, dull sticking in the finger, knee and elbow-joints. Asleep on lying down after eating. Cracking in l. shoulder-joint, morning on moving it. Sticking in shoulder, extending into ulna. Outward pressing pain in S.; in l. S. Shock extending from arm into head. Passive or paralytic drawing in r. arm near shoulder. Heaviness of r. arm. Arms weak. Pain in elbow.

Forearm.—Pain ending in wrist; beginning in middle of r., ending in wrist, where it seemed as if it would press the bones asunder, at night in bed. Paralytic drawing in anterior parts; jerking drawing in l., as if in flesh, extending into palm, 3 to 4 P.M., when sitting still and writing.

Stitches in metacarpal joint. Pressing-asunder pain in bones of wrist. Weakness of wrists. Swelling of hand, 8 to 10 P.M., especially balls of thumb, with heat and tickling-itching, feeling as if frozen. On stretching out l. hand it feels as if the nerves were too short and were dragged like an electric shock. Drawing in metacarpal bones and joints of r. middle finger at 3 P.M. Drawing into palm. L. hand asleep, forenoon, sitting in a wagon. In l. hand and forearm sensation as if internally asleep, and now and then an internal jerking. Symptom of chilblains on hands.

Fingers.—Stitches; in joints; tearing S. in second joint of l. fourth; twitching drawing S. in joints. Sprained feeling or as after taking cold, in last joint of l. fourth. Pain in lower condyles of first phalanges of r. hand, evenings; under nail of l. index; in r. fourth, with stiffness; drawing, in l. middle, especially in metacarpal joint, with stiffness; drawing, in metacarpal joint of fourth, with sticking; jerking drawing, in metacarpal joint of l. fourth. Drawing in joint of l. thumb, also in forenoon and in midday rest.

Lower Extremities.—Weariness and heaviness.

Thigh.—Cracking in r. hip-joint morning on rising and on walking. Shoeks from hips towards inguinal regions, preceded by chilliness. Stitches in middle of buttock when stooping. Tearing in r. thigh; above r. knee. Pain in inside of l.; outward-pressing P. Drawing in l. buttock. Heaviness in thigh; in r. upper, with pain from prostration.

Stitches in r. knee; while walking. Pain in knee. Drawing in knee; r. on sitting still; in r. tibia. Heaviness of legs. Painful weakness of legs, with pain in hypochondrium. Whole l. leg asleep. Sprained feeling in outer bone of l. ankle when walking; sprained feeling in ankle, evening in bed and in morning, or in l. great toe, or in a finger or thumb that had been sprained a few months before. Weak ankles.

Cramp in r. foot. Pain in foot; in sole during rest; in soles as after a long journey, when walking on pavement; P. on inner margin of metatarsal bone of l. great toe, beginning as a pressure, then becoming a drawing. Painful pullings in r. foot. Sprained and bruised feeling in tendo-achillis, < l. in evening. Sprained pain in great toe, sometimes r., sometimes l., in joint, at night on every motion, with chilliness. Pain in r. little toe as from chilblains; pain in r. third toe as if frozen, afternoon on walking.

Skin.—Golden-colored. Redness, especially of face. Eruption around mouth. Swelling in various places, with pain. Blotches on abdomen. Painful nodules; under chin behind r. jaw. Pimples on various places; under lower jaw; small elevated, raw, itching P. with circumscribed redness, on abdomen. Cracks and discharge of thick matter. Inflammation of a comedone on l. side of upper lip, becoming a yellow pustule. Furuncle on upper arm. Suppuration where hard skin had been torn from foot. Red, inflamed ulcerous spot on r. third finger, with tearing. Ill-looking vesicles on genitals.

Pain after being scratched sore. Feeling of a hair on back of hand and backs of fingers. Feeling as if the hairs on last phalanges of l. fingers rose slowly. Crawling, itching, biting on various places; on kneecaps, calves and inner surface of thigh. Itching at umbilicus; around anus; of arms; of hands, with heat and swelling, as if frozen; of inner side of l. thigh; inner side of l. thigh above knee; on popliteal space, also l., then < r.; behind knee and on scalp; in various parts; biting, at umbilicus in evening.

Sleep.—Yawning in evening, with hunger; much at 8 P.M.; frequently and violently after midday sleep, also in evening in open air without sleepiness; violently in forenoon, with stretching. Sleepiness at midday; evenings, also with indifference; after eating; half senseless after eating; dozy sleep long in morning, also only at noon, also after dinner; dozy lying after waking. Midday sleep with chasing visions. Sleeplessness; before midnight; from midnight to 5 A.M.; in evening. Sleep restless. Waking early. Sleep interrupted by hæmorrhoidal irritation and sexual excitement; during sleep emission without dream. Dreams confused; D. that he was in danger but could not cry on account of hoarseness; towards morning, that he had defecated in his breeches; heavy; indistinct.

Fever.—Chilliness; at night; at appearance of menses; during stool; during soft stool; on moving; with diarrhoea and pain in hypochondria; with confusion of sinciput. Cold feeling in occiput, with throbbing of arteries; tip of nose externally, in evening; legs and feet; hands, to touch; feet, afterwards heat of them. Shivering; through whole body, with gripping in umbilical region. Heat. Internal fever, with rapid pulse and loss of appetite. Warm sensation on scalp. Heat in inner and outer ear. Burning in nose, with coryza. Warmth and redness of face; periodic heat of face, with pressure in temples and flickering vision; in r. foot. Sweat at night; at night after drinking; at night after drinking cold water; in axilla; under axilla; offensive, < night.

Alstonia Scholaris.

A tincture is prepared from the bark of this tree (natural order Apocynaceæ).

Violent purging and cramp in the bowels, vertigo and general weakness; sharp purging, with pain, uneasiness in bowels and heat and irritation in the lower bowel.

Clinical.—Camp diarrhoea of undigested food; bloody; especially of malarial origin, from drinking bad water, or even dysenteric symptoms, with great prostration. Has been used in India for the malarial fevers of that country, and it has also been found valuable as a tonic in the debility following exhausting fevers.

Alum.

Alumen, the common potash alum, a double sulphate of Aluminium and Potassium, $K_2 Al_2 (SO_4)_4$, $24 H_2O$, is triturated with sugar of milk for use.

General Action.—It has a strong chemical affinity for albumen, so that it causes contraction, paleness and dryness of tissues; it contracts capillaries. In large doses it is an emetic, and produces a general gastro-enteritis.

Relationship.—Alumina, Tannin.

Generalities.—Convulsive movements (Gallic acid). Trembling of muscles. Nervous tremor and excitability, as from unpleasant news. Wandering cramps. Bruised pain in whole body. Rheumatic pain in whole body. Ebullition of blood going upward. Pulsation through whole body when standing long on one spot, with palpitation. Restlessness; with fever. Faintness; with dim vision; F., as from hunger. Weakness; morning after rising; W. from short walk, then pain in lumbar region. Amelioration when walking.

Mind.—Excitement; morning after rising. Agitation. Anguish. Anxiety. Sadness from 9 A.M. till noon.

Head.—Rush of blood to. Aching; at night on waking, > cold water, with nausea; heavy, especially in occiput; intermittent wandering aching in forenoon; < morning on waking, at one time shooting from one temple to the other, at another heavy on vertex, as from a weight, with intermittent nausea, with chilliness and feeling as if cold water were poured down back, at another time great heat through body, in fact feeling exactly as when attacked by smallpox.

Vertigo; in evening, > lying, with headache; as if he would fall forwards, when looking down; sensation as if vertigo were coming on in evening when lying on back, > opening eyes and turning on r. side, with weakness in pit of stomach. Aching in r. side of forehead; over eyes in morning; over l. eye; over eyes on waking, till 10 A.M., > cold water, reappeared next morning and at 9.30 P.M., > after lying down, with vertigo; jerking in l. side of forehead at 8 A.M. Stinging in vertex, when shooting, afternoon till evening. Aching on vertex. Aching in occiput.

Eyes.—Burning, itching on r. lower lid. Itching, burning on border of lower lid, r. then l. Bruised feeling on inferior edge of l. orbit on pressure and on moving lids. Watery discharge, afterwards glutinous and watery. Burning in r. external canthus, with itching.

Ears.—Heat in both and in l. side of face at midnight, > going to bed. Hears everything in sleep. Ringing in r.

Nose.—Dryness; D. in choana, from throat. Sneezing; when out of doors.

Face.—Expression animated, with fever. Pain in

l. articulation of jaw close to ear. Twitching of lower lip.

Mouth.—Tongue, stitches, < tip; rough and as if scraped, in morning; burning also on r. side; dry feeling in morning, < fore part, with sufficient saliva; burning on tongue. Roof coated with phlegm. Pain in mouth, burning pain. Burning. Contraction. Dryness. Salivation, with a dry feeling on tongue. Taste metallic; T. sourish; sourish on r. side of tongue; disgusting, sweetish.

Throat.—Thick mucus, and on palate. Scraping with the cough. Pain. Soreness; in both sides, when talking, and when swallowing, with dryness. Prickling in both sides, with dryness, which extended to posterior nares and rose into throat, with constant desire to drink. Dryness. Heat; and in larynx. Burning pain down the œsophagus. Tickling, causing cough. Swallowing impossible. Acute pain in gullet.

Stomach.—Appetite increased; lost; none for breakfast; loathing of food. Thirst, with fever. Eructations; tasteless. Nausea; at night on waking and in morning; in morning, with faintness; in morning, with weakness; with headache; with chilliness; with cold sweat; in morning, with pain and convulsive bearing in stomach like the deathly sickness of pregnancy; sudden. Retching. Easy vomiting; without previous nausea. Vomiting of blood only.

Distention after breakfast; D., with good appetite; of epigastrium; of epigastrium and stomach after eating; of pit, also after eating; of pit, urging him to take a deep breath, which he cannot do. Gas. Inflammation, and of bowels. Gripping. Pain in epigastrium; in pit in evening when lying on back, then pulsation; pain to left of pit, at 8 P.M., when walking in open air, > standing still and pressing, disappearing by bending double, when continuing to walk the pain returned a little lower, < by every step. Burning pain. Sudden pain at noon, with pallor, blue lips, knees drawn up against breast, then vertigo, nausea, coldness, weakness and headache, which last all the afternoon. Sudden jerking pain up into swallow at 3 P.M. when sitting, > walking, with twitching of lower lip and weak feeling in pit of stomach. Sharp pain at 4 P.M., while sitting in church, with deathlike faintness, sickness, weakness, cold sweat, rush of blood to head, then sensation as if blood left the head and extremities, cold limbs, dim vision, feeling as if pain in stomach would draw her double, then heat, rush of blood to head, so that she could hardly hold it up or keep her eyes open, then weakness, especially in back, in evening when taking a long breath it seemed to come from a spot on each side of spine, on a line with inferior angles of scapulae. Cramplike drawing in epigastric region.

Burning. Heat in morning, > cold water; H. in pit, with full feeling. Warm creeps from pit down over abdomen. Dry and burning sensation. Contracted feeling. Heaviness; with throbbing as in an ulcer, also after eating. Throbbing at 11 A.M., after eating; after eating; at pit, in evening when lying on back; in epigastrium, extending to heart, with palpitation. Sinking, > eating; 11 A.M., > eating. Weakness in pit; in pit when sitting, has to rise; in pit, as during pregnancy. Uneasiness in pit, with rapid short breathing.

Abdomen.—Distention. Flatulence; shifting. Stitching down median line, into penis, as if it followed a thread. Gripping. Pain; burning P. in small intestines. Burning in lower part, and in small of back, can scarcely get up, with feeling as if back would break. Inflammation of intestinal canal. Contractions of muscles from sides towards linea alba; in evening; jerking C. of muscles. Weakness.

Rectum and Anus.—Urging to stool, with much borborygmus. Smarting and burning in rectum after a solid stool. Hemorrhoids after a hard stool; H., with aching within anus; hemorrhoidal irritation. Beating in anus; after a stool. Itching in anus all the evening.

Stool.—Diarrhœa; yellow, like an infant's; afterwards constipation. Constipation. Hard, bloody. Copious, solid. Frequent. Rare, scanty. Difficult. Blood with stool.

Urinary Organs.—Urging to urinate. Frequent micturition. Metallic sensation about orifice of urethra, with feeling in clitoris as if urethra lay there, and as if urine could not be retained on account of pressure on clitoris. Itching in orifice of urethra; in evening, and on scrotum. Urine, brown, muddy; bluish, iridescent film; looks as if cheesy milk had been stirred into it; increased; acid; free and watery, afterwards scanty and dark.

Sexual Organs.—Cutting in l. side of penis. Erections during dinner. Emission of thick semen at night. Menses watery.

Respiratory Organs.—Larynx, tickling from talking, causing cough; heat. Voice hoarse, < talking; hoarse and shrill, cannot talk loud, varying, sometimes high, sometimes low; lost, with sore throat; partially lost; feeling as if she had lost her voice. Windpipe contracted. Cough when exercising; from tickling in throat; slight irritative, dry, in evening after lying down (Nux v.); tickling, morning after rising; irritation to C. in morning after rising. Expectoration; of coagulated blood in morning, after rising. Respiration rapid.

Chest.—Stitching down middle, later in r. side. Pain; in clavicle, when inhaling; under r. clavicle and r. shoulder, when inhaling; on sides; l., in morning; l., when sitting, < bending forward; in l., near middle of sternum, when washing and dressing, lasting till 9 A.M.; in breast, < r., or a binding sensation, > lying; as if distended, in afternoon, < after supper; rheumatic, in r. side; sore, under r. nipple in morning, < bending double. Rawness. Scraping, scratching to middle of sternum. Anxiety, heaviness like a stone, with inclination to take a long breath. Fulness. Tightness; across upper part, with heat. Warmth inside, opposite l. shoulder. Weakness in lower part, and in abdomen.

Heart.—Pain shooting to lower part of r. lung. Palpitation; when standing long on one spot, with pulsation through whole body; rapid and violent, < lying on r. side, and lying long in one position. Throbbing; like the heavy blows of a hammer, with long intervals. Intermittent beating. Pulse rapid; intermittent; small and rapid, afterwards intermittent and thready.

Neck.—Pain on side; r. side. Cramplike drawing, and stiffness.

Back.—Stinging between scapulae. Tearing at lower angles of scapulae from 2 P.M. till evening, when sitting still. > moving. Pain at edge of r. scapula, near spine; on a line with inferior angles of scapula all the evening, on every deep inspiration; rheumatic, under l. scapula; on both sides, near middle, on deep inspiration. Breaking sensation. Cramp in back, just below hips, in morning, extending up l. side, with warm ebullitions. Weakness; in region of scapulae, > stooping.

Extremities.—Twitching in morning, after rising, especially in arms, with excitement; T. in forenoon. Bruised pain in joints of arms, hands and feet.

Upper Extremities.—Shoulder, pain in l.; l., > motion; rheumatic pain in l., < motion; drawing tearing, especially in l. shoulder. Pain in arms; as if distended in afternoon, < after supper; rheumatic pain in bones of arms, < r.; pain as from a cord around r. arm; pain as from a cord around r., just below shoulder, causing fullness of bloodvessels and weakness, the pain sudden, intermittent and extending in lines in different directions. Unpleasant sensation in arms in morning, then heat, more in l. hand. Weakness; a kind of numbness in l. arm, and particularly in l. shoulder.

Elbow.—Pain; extending into arm; rheumatic, in bend, morning on waking, when extending arm, > rising and walking. Sprained pain in r. wrist at 12 M., thence it goes into first phalangeal joint of r. forefinger, where it is a tearing, with weakness of hands during menses. Trembling of hands. Rheumatic pain in l. hand, and in all finger joints.

Lower Extremities.—Bruised pain when standing, as after a severe cold. Weakness; l.; on ascending stairs. Pain in knee when walking, < r. Uneasiness in knees, with pains just above them. Sensation as if a cord were tied under r. knee, the pain extending upward and downward in lower leg. Numb feeling in r. leg from knee into foot, when lying on it. Pain in l. ankle in morning when walking, < ascending steps. Pain in l. foot and ball of foot. Pain in sole, between ball of little toe and heel. Cramplike drawing in plantar surface of r. foot. Sensitiveness of feet to pressure and when walking, especially soles. Stitches in r. great toe; in under part, in evening when walking in street and when pressing on it.

Skin.—Bleeding of chin from a slight scratch in morning when shaving. Itching on scrotum in evening; l. on r. shoulder; burning l. on l. hip.

Sleep.—Drowsiness. Sleep delayed by warm ebullitions. Restless S., when he does sleep it is so light that he hears his birds move in their cage. Sleeplessness, with fever. In the night, half waking, half dreaming, she hears what happens around her, but dreams on, of dead bodies, that her father had died, together with fear, but feeling that the dream would pass over if she could turn on her side, which she could not do on account of heaviness in her bones.

Fever.—Chilliness; at noon; C. with nausea; then heat; alternating with heat. Sensitiveness to cold. Cold head and hands; skin; limbs. Cold hands; < motion; afternoon and evening, with cold legs. Cold legs; cold feet. Chill, with metallic taste, nausea, palpitation, pain striking from heart across to lower extremity of r. lung, sensation of cold water poured down back, numbing coldness of feet, afterwards a general chill, with deathlike faintness.

Heat; with thirst, nausea and vomiting; inward, all forenoon. Warm ebullitions in morning. Ebullitions like spasms spreading over trunk, especially in back.

Flushes to head. Warm creeps run over abdomen. Burning on r. side of neck. Heat in arm; in hands; in l. hand. Heat and tingling after creeping and coldness. Fever, with thirst, nausea, vomiting, sleeplessness, agitation, animated expression of face, pain and distention of epigastric region, frequent pulse and burning pain in mouth, pharynx and stomach. Cold sweat during cramp in stomach.

Alumina.

Pure clay, a tri-hydrate of Aluminum, is triturated with sugar of milk for use.

General Action.—On mucous membranes, causing a form of dry catarrh, on the spinal system of nerves and on tissues.

Relations.—The alkaline earths, especially Kali c., Mag. c., Bar. c., Nat. m., Caust.; also Graph., Silicea, Rhus t., Niccol. and Zinc.

Generalities.—Twitching; > rising. His arm and head are jerked backward several times, with apprehension. When he attempts to sleep while sitting after dinner, a jerk through head and limbs, like an electric shock, with stupefaction. Tremor after supper; during leucorrhœa, with lassitude. Involuntary motions. Tremulous excitement of nervous system. Lightning-like shooting to and fro in r. shoulder, small of back and abdomen, then bruised feeling. Pain all over at night; (aching in bones, especially of legs, chest and back). Takes cold easily (Kali c.). Orgasm of blood, with increased pulse, and trembling of hands when writing, also after a meal, with heat of whole body and sweat of face. Shaking pulsations through whole body. Restlessness at night, with pain all over body; R. when sitting or lying; anxious R.

Unconquerable disposition to lie down. Faintness and weariness; feverish faintness, with internal heat. Weakness (Kali c.); morning on rising; morning on waking; after a short conversation or walk; during menses; of mind and body after menses; < talking; < after walking in open air, and by lying down, with yawning, stretching, drowsiness and inclination to lie down, the weakness < lying; > sleep in forenoon; with chilliness and headache; tremulous. Paralyzed feeling in all muscles. Most symptoms appear in morning; most S. come on when sitting. Aggravation towards evening; after an emission; after dinner. Amelioration every other day; at night; evening in open air; after eating; from walking.

Clinical.—Benninghausen cured four cases of locomotor ataxia.

Mind.—Excitement of intellectual and physical powers. Absence of mind; alternating with animation. Inattention when reading. Dulness. Stupor; with dread of falling forward. Various objects occupy his mind, but not one is distinctly impressed upon his recollection. Memory weak; want of memory. Inability for connected thought. Indisposition for mental labor, with inability for it. Weakness of mind and body after menses. Chooses different expressions from what he intended. Reflective.

Horrible thoughts on seeing blood or knives, she feels, for instance, as if she would commit suicide, though she has the greatest aversion to it. Sad, disagreeable images. Despair. Anxiety; at night on waking, with dyspnoea and sweat; in morning, as if threatened with epilepsy; with external heat and uneasiness as if she had done something bad; with palpitation and pulsations in some parts of breast and abdomen. Anguish, with restlessness; A. on waking towards morning, caused by pains imagined in sleep.

Apprehension; of losing his thoughts and understanding. Dread when talking on entering house after a walk, with nausea. Fright; when he wishes to urinate; and starting on hearing least thing fall. Uneasiness in evening as if evil impended.

Peevishness. Whining. Weeping against his will; W. and howling. Depression of spirits on account of his disease; believes that he cannot recover; depressed, as with grief, morning on waking, without perfect consciousness. Dissatisfaction with everything. Ennui. Desire to be alone in forenoon. Obscurity. Opposition to the wishes of others. Quarrelsome in afternoon. Indifference. Irrsolution. Laziness; in forenoon, with ennui. Exacting. Seriousness. Changing mood; assurance alternating with timidity. Did not answer, then anxious groaning, then laughter alternating with weeping. Contemptuous laughter at everything; convulsive L., also evening in bed. Cheerfulness; after walking in open air, with staring.

Head.—Stitches through, at every step; in brain, with nausea; going around brain; outward in afternoon. Tearing; in forenoon; evening, with pressure from both sides of head and with chills. Thrusts shooting through H. as from knives now and then. Pinching and gripping externally in evening, < stooping, with a sensation of ague towards occiput.

Aching at night in bed; > morning on rising, with pain in nape; on waking, before menses; and in forehead, during menses, < blowing nose, with a cold; A. < walking; < walking in open air; > appearance of menses; > laying head down quietly in bed, with chilliness and lassitude; as if bruised, with red cheeks; as if brain were dashed to pieces, as in putrid fever; in afternoon, obliging one to lie down, with dry heat and cough during sleep; pulsative, on ascending stairs after dinner; as if screwed together at 2 P.M. when standing, with stitches in forehead and such heaviness in vertex that the head threatens to fall on stooping; as if a worm were crawling under skull, the pain is also cutting and corrosive.

Intoxication from smoking; from weakest spirituous drinks; intoxicated feeling alternating with pain in kidneys. Confusion; morning, ~ rising; afternoon; 4 P.M.; with dread of losing consciousness; with heat of face, as if consciousness were outside of his body, when he says anything it seems as if some one else said it, or when he sees anything as if some one else had seen it, or as if he could only see through some one else's eyes. Paroxysmal stupefaction in morning; dizzy paroxysmal S. when at bodily labor. Heaviness; morning, with heat; heaviness in forenoon; afternoon; 4 P.M., with confusion of forehead and sensitiveness of vertex to touch; H., with pale face and lassitude; H. as if it would fall forward at 1 P.M. when sitting erect, < stooping. Weakness; from dreams.

Blood rushes to, with blackness before eyes, vertigo, ringing in ears and drowsiness. Rhythmical pulsation in afternoon when walking and morning in bed. Surging synchronous with pulse after dinner, on stooping, > becoming erect. Feeling as if brain would fall forward, after dinner on stooping, > raising head, with heat. Vertigo in morning; evening before urging to stool; as soon as she opens her eyes; when sitting; on walking; < stooping; > wiping eyes; with nausea; everything turns around him, also at 4 P.M.; as if she would turn around, in morning, with fainting nausea, the nausea > wheat bread, then sour taste.

Forehead.—Stitches in afternoon; in evening; S. on going to sleep; S. after eating, < towards evening, and in occiput. Tearing in forenoon; afternoon; evening, > open air; T. pressing back over vertex at 10.30 P.M. Aching; above eyes; in a spot on upper part when touched, in morning; burning and pressive, when standing or sitting after dinner, with warmth, the pain > by open air; pressing in; pressing out after dinner; as from a tight hat, and on occiput. Constriction. Beating and stitches in forehead and r. side of head in afternoon.

Temples.—Stitches in r. as with a large blunt instrument, leaving soreness; stitches in r. when singing. Tearing, shooting in r. and on vertex, with the cough. Tearing externally in r., then internal boring and beating; in r., then burning after rubbing; upward in l., then stitches in r. Compressive aching, extending above eyes; in evening. Pressing-in pain in r. after dinner. Boring in r. in evening; in l. in evening, with drawing pain; in forenoon, with tearing. Pulsation in r. in afternoon, with weight on vertex. Stupefying tension in a spot in r. in forenoon, > pressure. Crawling between skin and flesh, going to forehead and pressing outward there.

Vertex.—Pulsative aching over r. temple, early on waking. Aching in l. as if raised by a lock of hair. Pulsation and raging in forenoon.

Sides.—Stitches in r. in morning; S. as with an awl, on outside close to vertex, on l. side; S. in r. when stooping during labor. Tearing in r. in forenoon, with stitches, and in the evening in l. frontal eminence. Sensation as if r. were screwed towards the other at 8.30 A.M., and as if vertex were oppressed by a heavy load. Painful drawing in r. Pulsation in r. in afternoon, with stitches; P. in upper part of r. at 1 P.M., with tearing.

Occiput.—Aching; during cough. Bruised feeling, > lying. Drawing and pulsative tension in r. side in forenoon.

Scalp.—Sore pain on touching hair. Hair dry; H. fell out. Pimples in a cluster behind r. ear, with painful tension. Itching here and there, with fornication.

Eyes.—Squinting. Staring after walking in open air, with cheerfulness. Twitching. Trembling of l. as if it would leap out, < towards evening and on looking down, > closing eye, or looking up or holding eye with hand, with sensitiveness to light. Dimness morning on waking, > washing, with biting. Mucus in r.; dry M. morning on waking; much M. at night. Pressure; in r. in evening when reading or writing; below l. upper lid as from a foreign body. Tension around l. Biting in morning, with burning pain; in l. as from soap, in evening; tearing. Burning (Nicc.); morning on waking; < by looking up; at night and in morning, with itching and increased secretion of mucus; burning and pressure in eyes and nose as if she would be attacked by a cold. Dryness in evening, with dullness. Excoriated feeling in interior in evening, after which they are continually closed. Itching. Lachrymation; morning after waking; in open air. Pressure on l. ball.

Lids.—Agglutination in morning on waking, with burn- ing when opened and with dread of light. Falling out of lashes. Tearing in r. upper on looking down, and on looking up feeling as if upper lid were longer and hanging down, in morning, then stitches in r. side of head. Feeling as if l. upper were hanging down. Upper lid feels paralyzed, hangs down and covers only half of eye. Weakness in afternoon as if they would close. Pressure so that she could not open them; alternating pressure.

Canthi.—Stitches. Itching, and in lids. Burning. Biting, with stinging and burning, as from an acrid humor.

Inflammation of r. conjunctiva in evening. Tearing in upper border of orbit. Trembling sensation in brows.

Vision.—Photophobia in morning; l. sensitive to light. Dim; evening; in open air; obliging her to wipe her eyes constantly, with sensation as if lids would adhere in the corners, as if a feather or hair were before r. eye. Weak after long looking. Black, with rush of blood to head, vertigo, ringing in ears and drowsiness. Flickering and spots, with a kind of vertigo. Bright on closing eyes. White sparkling stars after blowing nose. Yellow.

Clinical.—Squinting in children during teething. Subacute and catarrhal inflammation of conjunctiva, particularly with dryness and smarting, great loss of power of the eyelids so that it is difficult to open the lids. The most important indications for this drug are the burning and dryness without much discharge and without destruction of tissue. It is useful in asthenopia from irritated conjunctiva, also in granular lids and chronic blepharitis.

Ears.—Redness and heat evenings. Sticking; l.; into hollow; deep in r. at night; into ear; outward through. Tearing in, behind and below; T. evenings, > pressure, with stitches. Boring in morning and in hollow of ear in afternoon, and on pressure. Tension. Pulsation. Feeling as if something were lying before r. externally. Itching; in meatus, with tingling. Obstruction on blowing nose, opening again on swallowing. Crackling on swallowing; C. in tympanum, < chewing. It seems in r. ear as if he had a different voice. Ringing, with rush of blood to head, blackness before eyes, vertigo and drowsiness. Roaring in morning and at same time stools are more solid than usual; R. in evening; before ears, as of large bells, morning after rising. Whistling. Whizzing.

Nose.—Swelling of l. wing, with hardness and pain on touch; S. of septum (Cautst.), with redness and pain on touch, the pain < in evening. Ulcerated nostrils. Soreness in r. nostril, with scabs and thick yellowish discharge (Graph.). Tearing in and near r. fossa, > pressure. Intermittent burning pain in r. wing in evening. Sneezing; morning on waking. Cold comes on during menses, with pain in nose, head and forehead, < blowing nose, then diarrhoea and colic; sensation in nose evenings as if a cold would come on; unwell as from a cold which cannot develop. Coryza, with sneezing and obstruction of nose; dry C., also < night, with dryness of mouth; fluent C., also afternoon and morning; fluent, with frequent sneezing and lachrymation; sudden fluent in l. nostril, with obstruction of r.; fluent then dry. Discharge of water from r. nostril without catarrh. Thick mucus runs from posterior nares into mouth, also thick viscid mucus. Obstruction; of l. nostril. Rattling and piping in afternoon, with rough voice. Bleeding. Blood only is blown out. Smell acute; weak; sour smell in nose in morning.

Clinical.—Chronic nasal catarrh, with scurfy nostrils or discharge of indurated masses of mucus, nose is sore internally, and sometimes ulcerated; the tip of the nose is somewhat swollen and red, associated with internal soreness. In post-nasal catarrh, with loss of smell and pain in root of nose (Nat. m.).

Face.—Redness of cheeks; coppery. Pallor; alternating quickly with redness. Expression sullen, low-spirited. Tearing in sides, < r., in zygoma, > rubbing, sometimes with tearing in r. teeth. Painful red spots on r. cheek. Drawing and tearing in l. cheek and gums in afternoon. Tension and heat in l. side in evening. Swollen feeling; after dinner, with feeling as if eyes were smaller, so that vision is impaired. Chin feels as if covered with a cobweb (Graph.).

Jaws.—Firmly set. Lower J. shortened. Swelling, so that he cannot open mouth without pain, with stitches into malar-bone and temple. Tension and drawing in jaw and cheeks, with salivation; painful tension in articulation when chewing or opening mouth.

Lips.—Chapped. Desquamation. Blueness of vermilion border during and after the fever. Swelling of lower; swelling and vesicles; swollen feeling. Bright vesicle on internal surface. Crusty eruption on lower. Dryness.

Mouth.—Teeth. Thick, badly smelling mucus on. Catching of two rotten molars (one above, the other below) into each other on opening mouth. Ulceration of all roots. Tearing in r.; in molars, sometimes as high as temples. Cutting in open air and in evening on lying down in bed. Gnawing in a lower front molar, < 9 P.M. > sitting up in bed, with tearing behind ear, as if the ear would be torn out, after midnight there is only the gnawing in the tooth. Drawing and tearing in lower incisors, extending to zygoma and temples. Aching on chewing; A. > rising; in incisor; in upper molar on touch: in hollow, when food gets into them; extending to ear; extending to larynx, with irritation of nerves as after catching cold or using too much chamomile; drawing, in r. in evening, > lying down; as if loose on setting them together; in a stump as if pushed into socket, on biting on it; jerking, in one of the first l. upper molars; jerking and tearing wake him after midnight, > after rising; ulcerative, in roots on chewing. Boring in hollow. Tearing, grinding, boring in evening. Bruised feeling in a r. upper molar, > pressure, which makes it feel loose. Elongated feeling. Pulsations in roots at night in bed. Cold feeling, with sensitiveness. Ticking after dinner, and in their roots.

Gums.—Swelling. Ulcer on l. lower, discharging saltish blood. Drawing pain as if sore.

Tongue.—Coated white; yellowish-white, with bitter taste. Sticking to palate on waking, with dryness of mouth. Crawling (stinging). Rough feeling. Itching of tip.

Mouth in general.—Ulcers. Much mucus; in morning; while throat is dry. Painfulness of inner mouth, palate, tongue and gums, with soreness so that he can scarcely eat. Scraping after stool and during digestion, and in stomach. Burnt feeling after dinner. Heat. Crawling on inner surfaces of cheeks. Dryness; on waking; although saliva is not wanting, causing frequent painful swallowing. Musty smell. Salivation; with sense of contraction in mouth or crawling upon surface of cheeks; evening in bed; < afternoon, > night; sweetish or sourish S. Spitting much saliva and mucus in morning.

Taste.—Astringent, acrid. Bitter; evening after apples; B. and slimy in morning on rising; B. and nauseous to beer, causing retchings. Bloody. Sour after wheat bread. Sourish, saltish. Flat, to everything; flat, metallic in morning. Meat, especially, has no taste. Food seems tasteless and unsalted, < evenings.

Throat.—Inflammatory redness in back part (Arg. m.). Inflammation terminated by a livid border around buccal cavity. Mucus choking him till he swallows it; deep-seated mucus; saltish mucus after dinner; thick, viscid M., < evening and morning on waking, increasing the soreness of throat, expectorated in little lumps with difficulty (Arg. m.). Stitches on empty swallowing; shooting here and there, in evening, and sometimes on swallowing something pointed seems to stick in the throat (Nit. ac.). Pressure in, with internal heat, of hands; P. as from a lump, with soreness, rough voice and dry throat. Constrictive pain in evening, with much mucus in mouth. Spasmodically drawing pain in one side and in ear, nights, < deglutition. Pressive and tensive pain in r. inner side, as far as ear. Drawing and tensive pain in r. side, < moving tongue. Soreness after difficult clearing; S. on swallowing; aching, during empty swallowing in evening (caused by a swelling); burning, in evening when swallowing and afterwards.

Scraping high up; gripping; as if he had swallowed pepper. Raveness and roughness in evening, causing cough. Roughness in morning on waking, with oppression of chest and sneezing; R., with scraping, obliging cough; causing hawking, evening and night, with accumulation of mucus. Burning in evening; like heartburn, with roughness. Dryness; at night; in evening, inducing frequent clearing (Bar. c., Zinc.), with scraping; D., with much mucus in mouth. Tickling causing cough. Taste sour after milk-soup in evening, then bitter eructations; sudden sourish in forenoon; sweet in morning, with vertigo, then expectoration of mucus mixed with blood. Amelioration of symptoms from warm food and drink.

Tonsils.—Swelling. Stitches in r. in morning. Aching in l. when swallowing and afterwards. Swallowing impeded at night, as from spasmodic constriction.

Esophagus.—Pain as if a part were contracted or compressed, in middle of chest, < during deglutition (Zinc.), with oppression of chest alternating with palpitation, < after eating. Constricted feeling every time he swallows food. Contraction in morning on waking, with want of action.

Clinical.—The characteristic sore throat, especially in speakers, with great dryness of the mucous membrane, which is inflamed, not pale; with the sore throat the uvula may be relaxed and cause a persistent tickling cough, with constant inclination to clear the throat, but almost always with dryness, sometimes with a sharp splintery feeling in the throat; dryness, irritability and relaxation seem to be the characteristic indications for this drug.

Stomach.—Appetite. He is almost always hungry. Rabid. Strong for vegetables, fruit and soft food. Hungry, but eats nothing with relish. Diminished A.; with fulness in abdomen. No appetite and no taste to food. Aversion to meat; even to vomiting. Aversion to smoking. Smoking does not agree with him. Thirst; all day; at dinner.

Eructations; after supper; E. while eating, with pressive pain in chest. Acrid, corroding. Bitter in evening after potatoes, with loathing, which makes him shiver; in evening after milk-soup. Tasting of milk-soup from supper till he lay down. Rancid after breakfast soup; R. < after dinner; leaving a burning. Sweetish, and sweetish mucous expectoration mornings. Sour; forenoon; evening in bed; of liquid; of mucus, < after soup for breakfast, then burning in throat like heartburn: acidity rises into mouth in forenoon, with heat in mouth. Waterbrash. Hiccough; after eating, at noon and in evening; H. after dinner.

Nausea; morning; morning on waking, with stickings over eyes, pain in kidneys during motion, and lassitude; in morning on waking, with physical depression as if sleep had not recruited her, and with quick feverish pulse and internal heat; at 4 P.M.; at 4 P.M. with vertigo; from evening till next forenoon, with vertigo, palpitation and anxiety; when standing; after supper, with tremor; after supper, with weariness; when talking or entering room after a walk in open air, with dread; with good appetite; with stitches in brain; with chilliness; after eructation of air, with chilliness which rises from feet into abdomen; arresting the breath at night; faint-like in morning, > wheat bread, together with vertigo; fainting in morning, > after breakfast.

Retching; in throat in morning. Vomiting, with the dry hacking cough; V. of phlegm and water.

Stitches in pit and chest, extending upward; S. in stomach and chest coming out at shoulder, after dinner till evening, with short breath and anguish. Tearing from pit down into abdomen, a sore pain as if everything would be torn out. Cutting in region in afternoon, with pain on touch. Gripping in pit in evening in bed. Pinching in afternoon. Pain; in evening, with sensitiveness to pressure; after dinner, with bloated feeling, pain on external touch, empty eructations and fermentations or loud rumbling and rollings in abdomen; after potatoes, with nausea, then colic; drawing; drawing, extending into pharynx, with difficult breathing. Pressure in pit, < walking; in pit, with crawling as from a worm; at pit and from thence oppression of chest, preventing walking; in stomach and upper abdomen in afternoon, with soreness transversely across them; as from a stone, in evening, after milk-soup, > eructations.

Oppression towards noon or evening; upon eating; after potatoes in morning, extending to throat, > eructations. Soreness in pit during cough; ulcerative S. in pit morning on turning in bed. Twisting and constriction extending into chest and throat, with difficult breathing. Gnawing in region after dinner. Empty feeling without much appetite. Fulness; in evening, > emission of flatus. Drawing after dinner, causing tension in whole body and weakness. Contractions; > eructations. Burning; after supper; after drinking water; heat in forenoon, rising into head. Coldness as after cold water in evening, and in forenoon, > afternoon.

Abdomen.—Distention; after dinner, > stool; during menses; after supper; after eating, with orgasm towards chest; with rumbling, empty eructations and soft stools; painful, at night, with retention of stool. Rumbling; after dinner, with rolling. Grumbling; after eating. Moving to and fro, with painless clutching. Loud emission of flatus; copious emission upon walking; bad smelling in night and after dinner; frequent desire to emit F.

Stitches.—Tearing mornings after rising. Cutting; as if she would have diarrhoea during stool before menses, with pinching, writhing and pressing, like labor-pains; transversely across when sitting bent; rising to abdomen like a twisting, with rumbling, then aching in chest from 4 to 11 p. m., arresting breath. Pinching; after every meal, at noon and in evening; evening in bed; ending in salivation; towards evening, with tearing and with chilliness in body, > warm cloths; at midnight, > towards morning, with rumbling; on waking, with tenesmus and faintness; after every cold that she takes or as soon as she goes into cold air; during menses, with weakness; with writhing; with heat in stomach; sudden, here and there in afternoon, passing to small of back, where it causes gnawing.

Pain; before menses; during menses; before or with diarrhoea; before a scanty, sometimes solid, sometimes soft stool; drawing; flatulent; as after a copious stool, which leaves behind a desire for stool. Bruised feeling; after diarrhoea, especially at the place where she had had an internal ulcer, > rubbing and laying the hand on it while the body was bent. Heaviness. Seems to hang down heavily in afternoon when walking. Tension of muscles from reaching high. Pulsation. Burning; with chills; sudden B. in afternoon. Cold feeling internally in afternoon. Seems inactive for want of peristaltic motion. Hernia protrudes; towards evening, becoming constricted in lumbar region, > sitting quietly, with pain obliging her to bend double and preventing walking.

Upper Abdomen.—Pain as before diarrhoea, then soft stools. After stool, ineffectual desire, and in sides, without tenesmus.

Hypochondria.—Stitches; in r. when standing, > by sitting; in l. in evening, extending to pit of stomach; alternately under l. lower ribs and in r. side of abdomen; as if in liver, on rising from stooping, with arrest of breath. Tearing in liver; from r. into hip in forenoon. Pain in liver when stooping, with sensitiveness; drawing in r. when sitting or walking. Feel pressed or screwed towards each other in forenoon; seemed pressed towards each other, with pain on touch. Burning in r. in afternoon, with stitches, as if cut into by a band.

Umbilicus.—Pinching around in evening; below, during breakfast, with distention of abdomen. Pressure inward in region in afternoon when standing, with stitches. Worrying around, as after a cold, in afternoon.

Sides.—Stitches in l; in region of ring, with tension as far as side of abdomen, and at same time a tumor like a strangulated hernia may be felt; from l. to middle of chest with every inspiration, when stooping and afterwards when standing erect. Tearing on exertion, extending to thighs. Pinching in l, afternoon and night, extending to hypochondriac region and sternum, with tearing stitches. Aching in l. after eating. Pulsative pain near l. ring when sitting. Ulcerative pain in l, with nausea. Aching in l. after eating.

Hypogastrum.—Stitches in r. iliac region. Pinching in groins and lumbar region on ascending stairs, with stitches. Pressure in groins, towards sexual organs in evening; in r. ilium as if both sides were pressed together in a vise. Drawing pain in muscles over l. groin when dancing or walking fast. Cutting from forenoon till evening, with burning. An inguinal hernia protrudes violently.

Rectum.—Seems paralyzed. Dried and constricted feeling during stool. Pressure and sense of exoriation after a small hard stool. Tenesmus during diarrhoea; T. of both rectum and bladder after urinating; of rectum and bladder, better after an evacuation; ineffectual, also after dinner, also on waking. Much urging before stool. Bearing down during knotty and scanty stool. Itching, burning and stinging. Crawling as from worms.

Anus.—Varix decreases during night's rest; enlarges in evening and becomes moist and burning; moist and stinging; protruding, < walking, > night's rest. Stitches after a difficult stool. Excoriated feeling after a stool attended with contraction of rectum and constriction of anus (Sil). Pressure; during stool, with pain. Burning during soft stools; after liquid stools; with sticking, and with stiffness in back. Itching, < scratching; burning; as if it would pulsate. Weak feeling of sphincter, with emission of flatus. Discharge of dark blood when walking.

Perineum.—Stitches. Bruised pain on touch. Pressure; during coition; at beginning of coition and during erections; on blowing nose. Inflamed feeling between scrotum and anus.

Stool.—Diarrhoea in evening; D. during menses; with colic; with tenesmus; frequent, after constipation. Liquid; with colic; first part liquid and expelled with a jerk, the last part appearing burned. Soft, at night. Hard, in balls (Mag. c.). In shape of laurel berries, difficult, with cutting in anus as if too narrow, then a stream of blood, followed by soreness in anus and along rectum. Bloody; dropping of blood during stool. Bloody mucus during and between stools. Bright-colored. Scanty. Difficult. Early. Frequent. Retained.

Clinical.—Constipation is the rule in cases requiring Alumina; the rectum is inactive, the stools are hard, often associated with soreness of the rectum and anus, which bleed readily, so that the hard stool is frequently followed by blood. It is particularly useful in the constipation of children, with dry and inflamed rectum and bleeding. Has to strain at stool in order to pass urine.

Urinary Organs.—Bladder. Spasmodic pain extending to chest, > breakfast. Pressure and drawing in region of, especially at neck. Tenesmus; after urinating, with tenesmus of rectum. Weak feeling in B. and in genitals in evening, so that he fears he shall wet the bed. Urging to urinate, with increased urine; U. in morning on waking, with difficult and tardy emission in a thin stream from the female urethra. Frequent micturition; at night; in evening, in small quantities; during menses, corroding genitals. Involuntary U. when pressing at stool. Seldom but copious U. (U. in a twisted stream). No urine.

Urethra.—Tearings and shootings, ascending through hypogastrum, when walking in open air. Drawing in morning on waking, with biting. Heat, > lying still. Burning before micturition; during micturition, < evening; B. after micturition. (No inconvenience in urinating after sitting a long time, but as soon as he moves about he feels a burning.) Itching, burning. Voluptuous itching, and between testicles. (Dry feeling in anterior portion, as if skin were insensible, < morning.)

Urine.—Decreased in morning, with cutting in ante-

rior part of urethra, none in forenoon, but in afternoon frequent emissions of copious reddish urine, which becomes turbid during the night and deposits a sediment; little urine, with a sediment of red sand. Increased; L., pale, hot; pale, with a turbid sediment. White and turbid, as if chalk had been stirred into it. Deep yellow, soon depositing a large, loose cloud. Turbid at night.

Sexual Organs.—Pressure. Tickling, and on thighs. Smegma behind glans. Drawing pinching in penis as far as glans, when moving hand along penis. Drawing from glans through urethra. Compressed feeling in glans. Itching of glans. Fornication of glans. Soreness of inner surface of prepuce. Violent erections; numerous E. in evening, during night in bed, and in afternoon when sitting; (priapisms during night). Contractive pain in r. spermatic cord, at the same time the r. testicle is drawn up, sore and painful. Itching of scrotum. Hardness of l. testicle, with pain on touch. Desire increased at first, then decreased; want of D.; indifference; lessened at first, with increased erections, then D. increased although erection is wanting. Emissions; at night; at night, with voluptuous dreams; during afternoon nap; jelly-like E. during coition.

Twitching stitches in l. side of pudendum, extending into chest. Itching in pudendum during leucorrhœa. Pain in l. side of vagina, like the tickling of a watch, with ulcerative throbbing. Leucorrhœa; after menses; acid (Graph.); acid after menses (Mag. c.), with burning in genitals and more in rectum, these parts seemed inflamed and corroded, so that walking was difficult, > washing with cold water, L. flowed almost over her feet, at same time discharge of blood resembling meat washings (N. ac.); like meat washings in afternoon and night; profuse transparent L. only in daytime; like water or transparent mucus, stiffening the linen; yellow; copious before menses, with tremor, lassitude and sensation as if everything would fall out of abdomen. Menses too profuse, with bloated abdomen; M. scanty; scanty and short; scanty and pale; too early, preceded by headache, which returned on the second day, and continued during the period, menses less copious than usual; too early, preceded by pain in abdomen, and accompanied by diarrhœa.

Clinical.—Involuntary emissions, particularly when straining at stool, have been found to be a valuable indication for the use of this drug in sexual weakness, especially in elderly people.

Gonorrhœal bubo, with a yellowish gonorrhœal discharge, with burning and itching along urethra, particularly at meatus.

Respiratory Organs.—Irritation in larynx inducing cough. Hoarseness; in morning; in afternoon, with rancidity of throat; > walking in open air. Voice lost suddenly, > afternoon and evening.

Cough; < in morning, with much expectoration; in afternoon sleep; in evening, from rawness and roughness in throat; from scraping and roughness in throat; from tickling in throat; irritation to C., with frequent spitting. Dry at night; continual dry hacking, with vomiting and arrest of breathing and sticking extending from l. side of abdomen to hypochondrium and pit of stomach; before midnight, with chilliness, then with dry heat; violent during the day; violent morning after rising, later expectoration; short; frequent short, forenoon and evening; suddenly coming and passing off quickly in morning. In short fits, with tearing shooting in r. temple and at vertex.

Sudden violent, but short, in afternoon, by making an effort he expectorates a piece of phlegm mixed with blood. Fatiguing C., with much expectoration, < morning (Calc. e.).

Respiration difficult in forenoon. Dyspnoea at night on waking, with anxiety and sweat. Short R. in afternoon, with pressure on chest; S. at night when lying on back, > lying on side, with pressure on chest. (Groaning; anxious; unconscious groaning and sighing. Sighing. Whistling and smothering in chest.

Chest.—Rattling, caused by mucus. Stitches in l. mamma at 9 A.M.; under sternum, < talking, with compression of chest; in upper part; high up in sides during exercise, > sitting or walking, with pressure and arrest of breath; here and there, sometimes, < by breathing, sometimes burning. Pinching in upper part in evening, when sitting. Cramp and oppression at night, having walked much the day before. Cutting and pressure internally when walking fast, > sitting.

Pain in forenoon, sometimes extending to back, < walking, then empty eructations; while eating; during and after cough, with paralytic pain extending through arms; here and there; high up on sides when sitting or walking; high up on sides during exercise, > sitting and lying; on sternum, < evening when walking; externally at lower part, > friction; intermittent, with shortness of breath and irritation to cough; spasmodic, in middle on swallowing food and drink; as if cut or sore, after dinner, till 10 P.M., > lying down, returning next morning during cough, with a weak feeling on chest, empty eructations and short breath. Oppression; when stooping, while writing; oppressive pain, also at night, < bending head forward; oppressive pain in middle, alternating with constriction and violent palpitation of heart, < after a meal. Contracted feeling, with apprehension. Constriction in afternoon when stooping, while sitting. > becoming erect; when stooping at work, > walking in open air; in a spot below r. side.

Soreness; in forenoon, caused by cough; in chest and pit of stomach, with fatiguing cough, lachrymation and tenacious expectoration; S. internally when moving or turning body. Excoriated feeling in lower part of sternum, extending to stomach, then hoarseness. Boring, sometimes in middle, sometimes in sides, < breathing, sometimes in evening, > becoming erect and walking. Heat in middle; in fore part when breathing. Burning in r. side in afternoon, with twinges and sticking in a r. false rib. Chilliness in interior of sternum. Dryness in both sides; oppressive, under sternum. Pulsations: in breast.

Heart and Pulse.—Anxiety about heart, > after rising; A. as if sweat would break out at 4 or 5 A.M., < rising. Constriction and violent palpitation alternating with oppressive pain in middle of chest, < after a meal. Palpitation: on waking; on waking before menses; with irregular beats, large and small ones being intermixed; anxious, with sudden heat and sweat. Pulse feverish morning on waking. Pulse increased.

Neck.—Swelling of glands of l. side. Stitches in glands of r. side, with drawing pressure in those of l. Stitches in nape: > friction; in r. side, > friction; externally on l. side, < pressure, with tearing in head and stitches in ears. Tearing, shooting and pinching, in nape as far as r. shoulder, with cough, and sneezing. Pain in nape and head at night in bed. > morning on rising; in nape on moving head. Drawing and pressure in glands of l. side. Painful drawing in muscles in forenoon. Tension in nape in afternoon. Stiffness, > motion; in neck and upper part of back, in morning, > motion, with drawing pain; so that she cannot turn the head to the left; in nape extending towards head. Feeling of swelling in sides, with stinging.

Back.—Stitches extending to ribs. Pressure before protrusion of a varix from rectum. Bruised feeling; and in limbs, as in fever and ague. Grumbling in back and sacrum after itching, crawling (stinging). Stiffness.

Scapulae.—Stitches between and on, also arresting breathing; with cutting and with chilliness; gnawing. Tearing in l., also in arms, hands and legs, < evening. Painful tension between, in forenoon. Painful stiffness between, extending afterwards towards ribs and kidneys.

Intermittent stitches in middle.

Loins.—Tearing stitches in evening in bed; tearing stitches in r. extending to l. side of chest, through pit of stomach, when inspiring. Tearing over hips and on upper brim of pelvis. Tearing twitchings, < during motion. Gnawing, rising to between shoulders. Pain in evening, with vertigo, then urging to stool, during which pure blood was passed, with a paralyzed feeling in small of back; during motion, and in legs; when walking and in legs; P. after walking; < walking and stooping; in kidneys in morning, > afternoon; in kidneys, alternating with intoxicated feeling in head; in lower vertebrae as if a hot iron were thrust through. Bruised feeling; when walking, and in hips and muscles of calf; and in morning in coccyx on touch; over hips when walking; in kidney region, < stooping and turning, as if "a hook were plunged into her. Pulsation after a stool.

Coccyx.—Painful twitches at point, in afternoon. Gnawing in evening, > stretching. Tearing in os inominatum.

Extremities.—Twitching; before falling asleep; in lower, especially in legs and feet, then disposition to turn arms and stretch them upward. Tearing in arms, hands, legs and l. scapula, < evening. Pain as if squeezed narrower, with pressure in joints. Sense of contraction in r. index and foot, as if tendons were too short, when he touches something with his finger he feels as if electrified. Drawings. Burning tension in dorsa of feet and hands, as from a swelling. Rigidity of hands and feet as if asleep on waking. The fourth and fifth fingers, the r. knee, and at last the heel, go to sleep after sitting. Cramplike sensation, like numbness, ascending the whole l. leg, during bodily labor, also in l. arm, with dizzy stupefaction of head, in interrupted paroxysms. Uneasiness at night. Paralytic weakness in morning, in paroxysms, with stupefaction of head.

Upper Extremities.—Axilla, tearing; intermittent tearing in afternoon. Shoulder, sudden twitching or concussion in r.; stitches, and in axilla and arms, also at night; tearing in; sprained pain in joint, < raising arm.

Arm.—Tearing. Paralytic pain, as from a bruise, sometimes across small of back, coming to r. upper and l. lower and vice versa. Tight feeling, as from a cold. Weariness; of one. Heaviness.

Upper arm.—Stitches in muscles of l. Tearing extending from back part of upper to scapula, when sneezing and coughing; extending to fingers, and from fingers and wrists to shoulders; (sticking) as if in bone, in forenoon, and in elbow. Pain in l. as if dislocated; drawing, in l. humerus. Burning (and tension), as from a glowing iron, and in fingers and l. elbow.

Elbow.—Sticking as if sprained, and in wrist. Tearing. Pain above point, < leaning on it, as from a pressure on upper arm. Boring in point.

Forearm.—Twitching of r. forearm and in lower joint of l. thumb. Tearing; apparently upon bone; T. as far as fingers. Drawing and tearing pain morning on waking. Painful drawing when at rest. Heaviness in forearm and hands, and her arms seem shorter. Asleep and pricking sensation in l.

Trembling of hands when writing. Veins of hands distended in afternoon and evening. R. hand is asleep on waking. Fingers. Swelling. Brittleness of nails. Tearing in and between fingers. Pain in middle, on motion; insufferable P. in bones, after itching around lowest joints; drawing P. in thumb and index; as if dislocated in r. index. Gnawing beneath nails, with crawling along arm as far as clavicle. Falling asleep of l. thumb in afternoon, then crawling.

Lower Extremities.—Heaviness and staggering in evening. Slow tottering. Staggering; > walking.

Thigh.—Stitches from l. hip to loins, repeated when breathing; when breathing. Tearing in thighs and legs when sitting and lying, < night; T. and sticking in hip-joint and just above knee, in paroxysms. Cutting transversely across r. natis in forenoon. Pain in r. hip-joint. Bruised feeling in l. hip in morning, < pressure. Tension almost like a cramp in thighs and legs, (Nat. m.), intermittent, extending downward. Nates fall asleep when sitting.

Knee.—Trembling. Cracking in r. when walking. Stitches in l. only when walking, > walking in open air; in r. in evening, with tearing. Tearing (Rhus t.); coming out at toes, in afternoon, > walking, with sensation of swelling; in r.; in patella; on inside of l. in evening; sticking, in evening before sleep. Pain in patella on pressure or on bending knee; in bend of l., < stepping; in bend of l. when walking after rising from a seat; in bend at night, extending to heel; drawing in bend on ascending stairs; twitching inward at patella. Boring in r. Appeared to be longer during the pain. Falling asleep of r. after sitting.

Leg.—Stitches in r. tibia in evening in bed; cramp-like, in r. in afternoon nap when sitting, and after waking, with numbness. Tearing; in calves. Pain during motion, and in loins; after a walk, and in loins; tense, at inside of calves when walking. Bruised feeling in r. tibia, < during motion. Gnawing. Cramp in calves on crossing feet or on stepping on toes; frequent in calves; in calves as if tendons were too short, after rising from a seat, > walking. Gastrocnemii muscles appear too short and tense when walking (Sil.). Tension and burning on external surface of r. calf in evening. Drawing; painless down calves. Pulsation in l. calf in morning. Uneasiness several evenings at 7 P.M. Weariness; when sitting; especially in middle of tibia, with bruised feeling when standing and feeling as if she would sink down, < evening. Heaviness.

Malleolus.—Tearing, and in feet. Tearing drawings from externus up leg.

Foot.—Stitches in soles, with tickling; burning S. in

r. sole, evening and morning, > rubbing; smarting, in corns. Tearing in each tendo-achillis in evening. Pains in corns; drawing, in tendo-achillis when at rest; in sole as if soft and swollen when stepping on it (Zinc.). Sensitiveness of r. sole. Compression in l. heel from both sides. Tension on sole in forenoon. Weakness in afternoon. Heaviness, with lassitude of legs; heaviness, with tearing. Numbness of heel on stepping. Falling asleep of r., with crawling in it.

Toe.—Cutting in r. great, in morning when walking.

Skin.—Swelling (soft, red) of arm and violent stitches in it. Fine eruption on inside of r. thigh, with itching. Itching rash without redness, on arms and legs, exuding watery blood when scratched. Roughness of face, especially of forehead. Herpes between toes. Boil on nose; one after another on l. cheek; suppurating on r. hip. Small red elevations, with a pointed vesicle in middle, across shoulders, burning only in the evening. Vesicles on r. ear; on r. half of chest and on throat, with burning pain, and with heat in face and chills in rest of body; V. on r. side of neck.

Pimples on forehead; l. cheek; chin; neck; back; itching, on forehead, r. side of nose and l. angle of mouth, running together on pressure; hard, itching, under skin of neck and chest; red, rough on r. cheek; painful to touch on r. cheek; on l. lower eyelid, with stinging; on r. side of nose, with burning and stinging.

Stinging here and there, < evenings; in almost cured ulcer in sole when stepping upon it in the room after walking in open air. Soreness and inflammation of small injuries. Aching pain in hard skin of feet, with sensitiveness. Tension of face, even around eyes, as if the white of an egg had dried on it (Graph.), after dinner when walking in open air. Tickling of soles; of sexual organs and thighs.

Fornication in r. side of face, with stinging in hollow of ear and tearing in r. knee; on glans; l. thumb; calves after supper; in big toe as if frozen; on r. fingers in evening, with burning stinging; itching, on r. side of lower jaw; on l. clavicle (and over r. half of chest, with biting itching), the spot burns on scratching, and burning vesicles appear.

Itching in various parts, < evenings, on being heated, generally > scratching. Itching, with gnawing; with burning after scratching. Burning itching. Crawling (and stinging) itching in whole back and in sacrum. Stinging itching in back and side of abdomen.

Clinical.—General dryness of the skin is marked in patients requiring this drug. Intolerable itching, forcing scratching until the skin bleeds, on getting warm in bed, has been found associated with the characteristic constipation.

Sleep.—Yawning; morning on rising; before dinner, without drowsiness. Sleepiness; in morning; in evening, even when standing; > open air; irresistible S. in forenoon. Falls asleep early. Too sound. Deep towards morning, with dreams which fatigue the head.

Sleeplessness before midnight, also on account of heaviness of arms. Falls asleep late on account of images crowding on his fancy; falls asleep late and sleeps longer next morning. Restless sleep before midnight, with weeping and grief; restless sleep before menses, with many dreams, and on waking she has orgasm, heat in face, headache and palpitation; with anxiety and heat and with twitchings in limbs and startings before sleep. Starting in sleep before midnight. Snoring in afternoon nap. Rising from bed without being aware of it and going anxiously from one room to another, rubbing his firmly-closed eyes. Speaking loud, laughing and weeping in sleep. Sobbing and groaning in sleep. Frequent waking. Anxious waking; from dreams.

Dreams.—Anxious; towards morning; after midnight. Confused. Nightmare.

Fever.—Chilliness; in forenoon, with lassitude, and in afternoon shaking chilliness in back; from 4 A.M. till evening, with contraction of stomach, > empty eructations, then four liquid stools, with constant chilliness; from 7 to 8 P.M.; evening during stool; every other day towards evening, with want of appetite, sleeplessness and tossing about the bed; in evening, with headache; in evening, < motion, with flushes of heat in face; at 5 P.M., especially in back and feet, then sweat; C. before midnight, with dry cough, then dry heat with the cough; all night, with uneasy sleep; in open air; during stool; with headache and weariness; with eructations, bitter taste, salivation, weakness and headache as if it would burst, especially in vertex, and vertigo.

Cold shiverings and sweat on every motion after walking in open air, with chilliness of head, afterwards when going to sleep heat of head, hands and feet. Chilliness followed by heat of body and sweat of face. Frequent C. during the day, with feeling in limbs as if he had caught cold, then heat of face in evening. C. alternating with warmth, in evening, face hot, with chills and shivering in rest of body. Creeping C., 4 to 6 P.M., with pulsating pain in forehead and occiput, > pressure.

Internal C., with external heat, especially of cheeks; internal C., with hot hands and hot lobules of ears; internal C., with hot cheeks and cold hands; internal, with stretching and bending of limbs, < after warm drinks. Chilliness in hands; with hot cheeks; in feet rising into abdomen, with nausea; in feet, with heat in head, and chilliness in whole body. Sensitive to cold air, especially in feet.

Heat; towards evening, especially in feet, then shivering, all without thirst; H. before midnight; H. at night, with anxiety and sweat; H. in bed; at night in bed, then sweat; H. of whole body after eating, with sweat on face. Sensation when sitting as after violent heat.

Dry heat in afternoon sleep. External heat. Flushing H.; with weakness, obtuseness and anxiety; of face. Internal; morning on waking; in forehead, with dulness of mind; I. in hands. Running over whole body during bodily effort, then chills, with burning in abdomen. Sudden, with sweat and anxious palpitation. Itching burning of anterior border of r. ear.

Heat in head in morning; beginning in head, in evening; in head after dinner. Pleasant warmth in r. side of face in afternoon. Burning in superior angle of l. scapula. > friction. Heat of r. arm, internally and externally.

Sweat after 6 A.M. in bed; at night on waking, with anxiety and dyspnoea; on every motion, then cold shivers.

Amбра.

Ambergris seems to be a morbid product of whales; it floats on the sea and is tossed occasionally upon the shore. A trituration is prepared for use. (It dissolves in alcohol.)

General Action.—Nervous phenomena predominate, convulsive cough, eructations, etc. It has been used for hysterical complaints for a long time.

Relations.—Mosch., Phos., Zinc., Camph., Agar., Chin. s.

Generalities.—Pulsation like the ticking of a watch. Uneasiness; by day; in blood when walking in open air, with rapid circulation and weakness. Inclination to stretch. Weakness; morning in bed, also especially in upper part of body, with confusion in head, sensation as if eyes had been tightly closed, nausea in pit of stomach and disinclination to rise; at midnight on waking, with nausea, pressure in pit of stomach and in abdomen, violent erections without voluptuous sensation, dryness in mouth and insensibility of surface of body; on waking, with dryness of mouth and pressure in upper abdomen, which is > lying on abdomen, then tearing in small of back, which is > by lying on back; > walking; sudden in morning in a hot room, with cold sweat on hands and forehead; with giving way of knees; with pain in all limbs; with heaviness. Amelioration while walking in open air, but symptoms return while sitting.

Clinical.—Useful for persons who are debilitated either by age or overwork, who are anemic, sleepless, have twitching of the muscles.

Mind.—Memory bad, with weakness of thought, so that he has to read everything three or four times and then does not seize the meaning. Stupid feeling. Distorted images, grimaces, diabolical faces crowd upon his fancy and he cannot get rid of them. Lewd fancies, even when dreaming, the mind and sexual organs, however, are but little excited by them. Excitement; and loquacity, with fatigue from talking, inability to sleep at night, headache as from a load, oppression, necessity to sit up in bed, anguish and general sweat. Hurry in mental occupations. Uneasiness; with oppression of chest. Despair. Anguish in evening; A., with tremor. Anxiety; after eating. Sadness; with sinking about heart. Easily aroused to indignation. Impatience. Irritation from talking, with general trembling, especially in lower limbs, and necessity to be alone to rest. Whining, then peevish and quarrelsome. Indifference to joy or grief, but more depressed than composed. Dreamy condition. Constant alternation of depression of spirits with vehemence of temper.

Head.—Lancinations on exertion and at every step, > lying, with cutting. Tearing through. Aching; at night on waking, > rising; when blowing nose; > walking in open air; especially over and on top of head, with tearing; with stitches; as if a cold would come on; external, and in neck and nape, as from a strain in lifting, with pain on touch. Aching confusion after eating, < during motion; compressing confusion. Drawings and tearings to and fro. Empty feeling every morning, as if she had revelled all night. Stupefying tension. (Twitching in.) Congestion of blood; rush of blood caused by music. Vertigo; afternoon; forenoon and afternoon on walking in open air; in afternoon, with feeling of weakness in stomach. Weakness, with vertigo; W., with chilliness of head.

Forehead.—Tearing, as far as upper part of face. Aching; in l. eminence; over eyes, always after midnight till 7 or 8 o'clock, with nausea; A., with apprehension of becoming insane; paroxysmal, over nose, becoming a tearing and leaving behind confusion of occiput. Pressure downward, and in vertex, every other day, beginning in morning, < afternoon, with heat in head, burning in eyes and paleness of face. Feeling as when a cold is about to break out, and in eyes.

Temples.—Stitch over l. Tearing in l. as high as vertex, and in r. frontal eminence and behind l. ear. Compressing headache starting from T. Roaring around T.

Vertex.—Tearing and apparently in whole upper part of brain, with paleness of face and coldness of l. hand. Aching. Painless pressure on, in evening, with heaviness of head.

Occiput.—Stitches ascending towards, in evening. Tearing, ascending to vertex and forehead; to forehead in evening in bed, after having fallen asleep; in l. towards nape and behind ear. Aching, and in nape; in a spot. Confusion. Uneasiness after midnight.

Scalp.—Hair falls out. Sore pain on r. side on touching hair.

Eyes.—Distended veins in white. Tearing around l. after eating, then around r.; T. in short jerks in and around r. Pain as if they had been too firmly closed, < morning. Pressure in, with difficult opening; P. upon as if they were deep in orbits, with tearing headache, extending downward from forehead or from ear through occiput. Burning pain in r. Biting; with pressure as from dust; B., with lachrymation. Burning in lids. Itching of lids as if a sty would form. Pressure on l. brow. Vision dim.

Ears.—Tearing in r.; T. in lobule and behind it. Itching and tickling in. Crawling in. Crepitation and creaking in l. as when winding a watch. Roaring and whistling in afternoon. Deafness in one. Hearing decreases every day.

Nose.—Spasm of r. wing, towards malar bone. Tingling as if one would sneeze. Dryness; with irritation as if one would sneeze. Obstruction, with internal sore feeling. Sneezing; with dry nose. Coryza, with cough and expectoration of white mucus; dry C. Bleeding, < in morning; dried blood in nose.

Face.—Pale. Red spot on cheek. Jaundice-colored. Trembling of muscles. Twitchings in evening in bed. Painful swelling of cheek on upper jaw, with throbbing in gums. Tearing in upper part, especially near r. wing of nose. Tension in cheek as from swelling. Stitches in jaws. Pain as if jaws were screwed together or asunder. Spasm of lower lip, with sensation as if pressed against gums and torn away. Pain in corners of lips as if cracked.

Mouth.—Teeth. Aching in hollow T. in evening; more lancinating than tearing, in a hollow T. after dinner; in a hollow T. as if a nerve were touched, < in open air; drawing, sometimes in r., sometimes in l.; drawing, in one or another, < warmth, > cold and after eating, with swelling of inner side of gums; burrowing, under l. lower molars, in evening in bed. Drawing in an incisor as if air rushed in, causing a stitch; pinching, in r. upper molars. Gums bleed; r. lower; G. painful and swollen.

Tongue.—Coated gray-yellow. Lumps under T., which feel excoriated. Rheumatic pain posteriorly when not swallowing, and in pharynx. Numb and dry feeling in morning on waking, and in mouth and lips.

Vesicles in mouth, paining as if burnt. Tearing in palate as far as into l. ear. Scraping on palate. Smarting in month, with excoriated feeling and pain which prevented swallowing anything solid. Dry mouth in morning on waking, without thirst. Contracted feeling in salivary glands when eating, especially the first mouthfuls. Salivation. Petor; early after waking. Sourish taste after milk. (Bitter taste early when waking.)

Throat.—Pain in a submaxillary gland, which seemed swollen. Secretion of mucus, with roughness and scraping; grayish M. which is difficult to hawk up, with scraping; hawking up mucus in morning. Tearing; upper back part; in back part during dinner, and on l. side of palate. (Soreness after a draft, stitches shooting from neck into r. ear, pain < moving tongue); (S. not when swallowing food but during empty swallowing and on external pressure, with tension of cervical glands as if swollen); in a spot when coughing; as if something impeded swallowing. Sensation as if something lodged; as if food lodged in pit, after eating. Raw sensation in region of velum pendulum palati. Scraping; after cough; S. as in a cold. Biting in back part; between acts of swallowing. Tickling causing cough. Itching when coughing, and in thyroid gland. Dryness in morning.

Stomach.—Eructation at night; frequent E., with violent convulsive cough; empty; sour; bitter; insipid, in afternoon; violent, after dinner. Hiccough from smoking tobacco. Nausea; always after midnight till 7 or 8 o'clock, with pain over eyes; (after breakfast); (clawing). Retching and vomiting can hardly be avoided when hawking up phlegm. Spasm. Spoiled sensation every evening and eructations of acrid substances as high as larynx, like heartburn. Stitches in region, with pressure. Pressure in epigastrium; > walking in open air, returning when sitting; in epigastrium, with cold hands and feet; in region of stomach, with tension. Burning; when walking in open air, with suppressed eructations; in region and higher up. (Weakness about pit after every evacuation.)

Abdomen.—Distention; after midnight; after eating or drinking, with tension. Fermentation at night; F., with rumbling. Flatus emitted at night. Spasms. Twitchings of muscles evening. Cutting mornings, with soft stools; C. in evening; in bed after midnight, with sweat; with soft stool. Pinching, then cutting in epigastrium, > eructations. Pain; then emission of flatus; changing to pinching; from incarcerated flatus, < l. side. Compressed feeling; morning. Excitement as if menses would come on. Cold internally (Cumph., Phos.). (Burning.) Tenesmus after stool.

Aching in side below pit of stomach when coughing. Pressure below pit of stomach, > eructation, with burning; P. below pit of stomach and in hypogastrium, from time to time and at night. Stitches around umbilicus when moving abdomen. < retracting abdomen. Pressure in umbilical region when coughing; P. in umbilical region, > eructations, with heartburn. Coldness of one side. Aching in region of liver; > touch.

Hypogastrium.—Flatulent distention after midnight, with pressure downward. Stitches when retracting abdomen and on pressure; S. over hips. Pinching in r.; P. morning in bed, > rising, renewed by lying down, especially lying on back, with fermentation and gurgling, especially in epigastrium; P., < r. side, after ineffectual urging. Pressure; deep in after stool; over r. hip; sharp, over r. hip, or a dull stitch.

Rectum.—Tenesmus. Frequent ineffectual urging to stool, with anxiety and intolerance of the presence of people. Tickling. (Drawing.) Itching and biting, > rubbing. Stitches in anus. Itching in anus.

Stool.—Soft, copious, light-brown. Much blood, with a soft stool. Constipation. Frequent. Scanty.

Urinary Organs.—Pain in bladder and rectum at the same time. Urging to urinate early after rising, so that often he cannot retain the urine. Feeling in urethra as if a few drops passed out. Burning in orifice of U. and in anus. (Twitchings in U.)

Urine copious; at night; < morning, then dull pain in kidney region. Scanty; with reddish sediment. Brown; dark B. and turbid during emission. Turbid even during emission, yellow-brown, forming a brown sediment, while the clear urine above it was yellow. Bloody. Reddish cloud, Wheyey. Of penetrating odor after standing.

Sexual Organs.—Tearing in glans. Pain in glans as from ulceration. Violent erections early on waking, without desire, the parts being externally numb, after the erection subsides tingling-tearing in fore part of urethra. Twitching in testicles. Burning internally in region of vesiculæ seminales. Voluptuously delightful feeling internally without external irritation.

Female.—Burning, < after a walk and after a hard stool, with discharge of a little blood. Itching of pudendum; with soreness and swelling. Burning, biting, tickling and itching on vulva when urinating, and in urethra. (Profuse leucorrhœa at night); (of thick mucus, increasing from day to day, with a stitch in vagina before each discharge). (Mucus in bluish-white clots from vagina.) Hemorrhage from uterus. Menses too early.

Respiratory Organs.—Burning and itching titillation from larynx down to abdomen. Hoarse, rough voice, with tenacious mucus in throat; rough, deep voice alternating with thick mucus in larynx, which he easily throws up when clearing throat or by a slight cough. Cough; every evening with pain under l. ribs as if something were torn loose; only at night, from irritation in throat; from tickling in throat; violent, convulsive, with frequent eructations and hoarseness; a kind of whooping; deep, dry, with salivation, then scraping in throat. Salt expectoration when coughing.

Clinical.—Nervous spasmodic cough, with frequent eructations, distress about the heart, etc. These coughs are of a nervous kind, paroxysmal, cough especially on waking in the morning, ending with violent eructations; the chest becomes very sore to external touch; the cough is aggravated by the presence of people; it may be hollow and barking, but the eructations are particularly characteristic.

Chest.—Wheezing. Stitch extending to back; dull S. in r., interrupting respiration. Tearing in l. Pressure on upper part; below (in ?) l. half; deep in r. half during strong expiration; paroxysmal, in upper part. Bruised pain over pit of stomach, > eructations; B. pain in last true r. rib, more towards back. Rheumatic pain below r. arm. Burning pain near one r. rib, < pressure, then in l. chest. Burning; in external parts. Raw feeling. Oppression (Phos.); in chest and back, between scapulae, > after eating; with uneasiness. Tension. Tightness so that she cannot breathe deeply nor yawn fully.

Heart.—Pressure in precordial region. Anxiety.

even to arrest of breathing, with heat. Palpitation; when walking in open air, with pale face; with pressure in chest as from a lump lodged there, or as if chest were obstructed (Phos.).

Neck.—Drawing ache in nape. Pressive drawing ascending from nape and extending through head towards forehead, considerable pressure remaining, especially in occiput.

Back.—Pain as if intestines were compressed, with heaviness in back as if not able to right himself. Oppression extending to chest. Weight extending from spinal marrow to abdomen, with sprained sensation. Stitches in l. scapula. Rheumatic pain on r. scapula; in r. side of back. Stitches in loins when sitting; in loins, < motion. Pressure in lower part of loins. Painful tension in muscles of loins.

Extremities.—Twitching; at night, with coldness of body. Uneasiness like a fornication, only by day, with anguish.

Upper Extremities.—Shoulder, dull stitch on r.; tearing; tearing in l. joint; drawing in evening, with a sprained and paralyzed feeling. Arms, twitching; tearing in r. in morning; sense of clucking. Falling asleep of arms when lying on them; l. at rest during the day; r. at night, with a numb feeling. (Paralysis of r. upper arm.) Tearing in r. elbow; on r.; r. elbow and forearm. Drawing aching in r. forearm as far as elbow.

Hands.—Cramp. Stinging as from fleas, and in fingers. Tearing in interior of middle of r. asleep at night. Paralysis.

Fingers.—Drawn inward in evening. Paroxysmal trembling of thumb in evening. Stitches at times in r. index, at times in r. thumb. Tearing in r. index; in lowest joint of l. index; under nail of r. middle; in tip of r. little; in two last, in evening before sleep; in muscles of thumb. Lacerating pain in tip of l. thumb, and when touched lightly feeling as of a splinter under nail, > hard pressure. Rheumatic pain in lowest joint of thumb, through metacarpal bone to wrist. Drawing in P. and thumb. Weakness at night. (Stiffness in lowest joints in evening, < after not exercising them, with swelling of lowest joint of thumb and pain on bending it.)

Lower Extremities.—Stretching and relaxation. Cramp, and almost every night cramp in calves. Tearing in l. in morning; rheumatic in r. Heaviness. Sensation as if asleep, step not firm. Tearing in r. natis; l. hip, then r.; T. in front of thigh, just below l. hip; clucking T. under l. natis. Sprained pain above knee, < after sitting. Tension in thigh as if tendons were too short, < when walking.

Tearing on r. knee. Drawing in knees and ankles. Soreness of bend of knee, < evening. Stiffness in bend of knee in morning. Paralysis of knee. Swelling of legs, especially feet. Tearing in upper part of l. tibia; in lower part of l. leg; intermittent, on l. calf. Painful spots on shins. Sense of grumbling in calves and feet. Weakness of legs in morning. Swelling of l. inner malleolus, with pain only on walking, > continued walking. Tearing in ankles.

Foot.—Stitches in l.; in heel. Tearing in external border of l.; in l., with stitches. Pain in joint of l. when walking; in heel when walking; in corns, with a sore feeling; arthritic in joints. Weakness, with insensibility. Tingling, with numbness, after rising he felt faint, it became dark before his eyes, had to vomit bile and lie down again. Tension in l. at noon. Stiffness.

Toes.—Stitch in ball of big. Tearing in l. middle. Arthritic pain in ball of big.

Skin.—Blueness of leg from distended veins during menses, with aching. Wrinkling on finger-tips in morning. Tetter reproduced; itching T. between thumb and index. Itch eruption reproduced, with much itching. Pimples on face; in whiskers, with itching; red P. on forehead close to hair, with soreness on touch; painful P. on forehead; itching P. above male parts of generation.

Soreness of a wart on finger. Itching nearly all over, even on abdomen; of glans; in palms; finger-tips; knees; ankles; inside of sole; toes; l. above malleolus in evening when lying down, and after rubbing a sore and bruised feeling; gnawing and tingling, on face. Tickling in tip of great toe; itching T. around eyes. Fornication in tip of finger as if asleep, > pressure. Insensibility as far as knee early on waking, the hands have an indistinct sensation, the skin seems asleep.

Sleep.—Sleepiness by day. Sleeplessness; before midnight; at night, without knowing the cause; S. nights with slumber early in morning full of fantasies.

Falls asleep late, afterwards uneasy sleep, owing to pressure in epigastrium, < r. side; falls asleep late, afterwards has anxious dreams as if he were abused and too weak to defend himself, on waking he is weak in upper part of body, with pinching pressure under pit of stomach and nausea, then symptoms reappear when lying down and falling asleep again and are then accompanied by pressure in l. side of abdomen, the symptoms > when wide awake, sitting up and moving about, ending with emission of flatus, fermentation in abdomen and eructation. Starts in fright when falling asleep in evening, imagines the room is too light and jumps out of bed with anguish. Uneasy sleep at night; on account of coldness of body and twitchings in limbs; anxious dreams, with talking and desire to drink. Sleeps at night on his back with bent knees, the occiput being supported by both hands, and has vivid dreams.

Waking early, then frequently interrupted but deep sleep. Waking frequently, and about 2 A. M. uneasiness in whole body, especially in occiput. Many dreams. Veering, anxious D., with talking. Vivid uneasy D. as soon as he falls asleep. D. full of work.

Fever.—Chilliness in forenoon, > dinner, with weariness and sleepiness; C. in evening; C. after diarrhoea, with weariness and headache; C. before dinner. Internal C. at night. (Coldness of skin over whole body, except face, neck and genital organs.) Cold hands; in evening. Cold feet. Coldness of r. leg, especially knee; of legs, more internally than externally. Heat; every quarter of an hour; two evenings from 7 to 8. Burning places in skin. Heat in head; in face in flashes; hot lips. Burning in l. scapula; B. of soles. Sweat all day; every morning, especially on affected side; S. at night; in bed after midnight, with cutting colic; copious at night; copious when walking, especially on abdomen and thighs; strong-smelling, after midnight many nights.

Ammoniacum.

Gum Ammoniac is obtained from Dorema Ammoniacum, Don, natural order Umbelliferae. For use the gum (inspissated juice) is first triturated.

In general Ammoniac acts on all the mucous membranes, at first causing diminished then increased secretions (see eye, throat, bowels and bronchi). The pains developed by the provings are noteworthy, especially violent in the lower extremities; notice the pains referred to the caecal region; the disturbance of vision, etc. It was formerly used largely as an expectorant in chronic bronchitis and asthma.

Albies.—Asap., Senega, Ammon mur., Ferrum.

Generalities.—Stitches in various parts in evening, on l. great toe, l. knee and in chest. Fermentation here and there. Pulsation in whole body, with restlessness, delaying sleep, though he had drunk less beer than usual. Sluggishness on rising, with drowsiness, depression of spirits, physical heaviness and weariness. Weariness on least motion; weariness, with bruised feeling in limbs.

Mind.—Melancholy; and discomfort. Ill humor; with uneasiness. Disinclination for anything. Incapacity for mental exertion.

Head.—Stitches through. Aching; at night, preventing sleep; in whole head at noon, especially in supraorbital region and occiput. Confusion in afternoon; in evening; with heaviness and aching, and with drowsiness; with sleepiness, weariness of limbs and pain in crural nerve. Heaviness. Vertigo while reading, passing into headache, which lasted into the night.

Forehead, aching; < all day till evening; r. half; and over eyes; and over eyes, stronger in temporal region, > after dinner; with confusion of head and drowsiness. Confusion in sinuiput, with weakness of sight and heaviness in loins. Stitching in l. temple. Tearing in l. side of head. Fuzzy sensation at occiput. Pustules where hair ceased. Itching vesicles on l. occiput where the hair ceased and a vesicle in beard in r. side of face. Stitches as from a knife in middle of scalp. Itching; more in vertex and below; on l. side of occiput where hair ceased; on occiput where hair ceased, with pustules under the hair. Prickling when scratched.

Eyes.—Drawing stitching. Tension and dull stitching, < stooping. Dry feeling, with sensation of a foreign body between l. upper lid and ball. Weariness after reading. Aching in upper part of ball. Prickling in upper half of ball. Purulent matter in inner canthi, < r., morning on waking. Stitches in r. lower lid, < moving lids, touching them or stooping; throbbing prickling in l. upper, followed by pressure. Pains in lower had disappeared and only a hard pellicle could be felt in r. Feeling as if a gland were swollen under lid.

Vision.—Beams of light and sparks proceeding from eyes and a burning light surrounded by brilliant colored rings. Dim, almost lost, in evening, with stars and fiery points moving before eyes; dim in evening, < morning after rising, with warmth in eyes; as through a thick mist or cloud of dust in evening. Of a waving cloud of dust. Of floating dust before eyes (which were heavy from sleep), with pressure upon orbital region. Daylight hurts eyes. Cannot read without straining eyes.

Ears.—Stitches in r.; at noon. Deep-seated tearings in r. external auditory passage. Humming. Clicking in l. at 10 p.m. when scratching occiput.

Nose.—Mouth and throat dry on waking. Profuse mucous discharge from nose. Frequent sneezing.

Face.—Countenance changed and she became pale. Drawing in l. zygoma late in evening, extending to temples. Lips dry and burning.

Mouth.—Short rheumatic stitches in l. eye-tooth. Dull stitching jerking pains in two l. lower incisors at 7 o'clock. Yellowish coat on tongue; with bitter taste. Dry roughness in tip of tongue and in hard palate; in posterior part of hard palate, with pressure in pit of stomach. Dryness of mouth and oppression of chest, < morning. Taste clayey; flat, somewhat sweetish, in morning; bitter; no taste in fore part of tongue, but nauseating, bitter in pharynx, > after eating.

Throat.—Sticking from region of r. submaxillary glands into mouth. Feeling of something sticking deep in throat, necessitating swallowing. Scraping and burning in throat and oesophagus. Roughness; and dryness. Fulness extending up into throat at 10 A.M.; fulness in throat and gullet, almost inducing nausea. Peculiar sensation, causing cough, > after eating. Sensation after swallowing as from a dry cough. Scraping in oesophagus.

Stomach.—Eructations; of resinous odor; of resinous bitter taste; violent. Nausea. Pressure; after supper; in pit, with tension; in pit, alternating with pressure and heaviness in pubic region. Burning in pit; with pressure.

Abdomen.—Rumbling after 1 p.m.; rumbling, with confusion in sinuiput; rumbling, then soft stool, with much flatus. Flatus copious at night; copious sour in morning; strong smelling. Cutting. Gripping. Pain; in afternoon; with borborygmus.

Stitches under ribs and navel, < l. side; under l. short ribs and between superior and anterior spinous processes of ilium and l. side of navel; under r. short ribs, in caecal region, and after rising, in r. ear; under r. short ribs at 9 o'clock, also at 8 A.M., noon and evening; fleeting, under short ribs in morning on waking, and in caecum. Pain about navel, with tension as if pressed together. Stitches in caecum at 7 o'clock; the stitches in caecum alternated with similar pains in corresponding part of l. side; jerking, in caecum, returning on change of posture, < reclining towards l., when lying. Pain in caecum, then in corresponding point on l. side.

Hypogastrium.—Stitches between crest of l. ilium and navel, then in caecal region; in r. pubic region, almost in spermatic cord, returning in the evening. Cutting below navel after dinner. Pain and tension below l. side of navel, from which there was developed a stitching (apparently superficial). Pain in pubic region; with heaviness, also the same alternating with pain in pit of stomach; drawing pains about lower abdomen; rheumatic pain in l. side of pelvis. Jerking, drawing in l. groin.

Rectum.—Pressure on while sitting.

Stools.—Fluid. Copious; and mucous. Pappy, in morning; in afternoon, with rumbling in abdomen; frequently after 1 p.m. Soft; and dark brown; and unsatisfactory. Insufficient in morning, then a pappy one at 1.30, after dinner; stools diminished while urine was increased, with increase of the pain in pubic region. Delayed till evening; delayed and firm. Hard, sluggish. Difficult, even when there was slight urging the rectum was so inactive that the stool was affected only by effort and with interruptions.

Urinary Organs.—Stitches through fossa navicularis. Burning at orifice of urethra, diminishing interiorly. Some drops of urine were discharged after urinating. Urine and sweat increased, with diminished stools. Urine had a peculiar smell; contained much mucus. Uric acid increased.

Sexual Organs.—Stitches at root of penis; in spermatic cord and in l. pubic region; r. spermatic cord in evening; r. spermatic cord while walking; drawing, in l. spermatic cord at 11 o'clock. Aching drawing in testicles. Drawing pain along spermatic cord; in evening. Drawing in r. spermatic cord; intermittent, in region of l. spermatic cord.

Respiratory Organs.—Tickling in trachea. Voice hoarse. Coughing up mornings thickish mucus from larynx. Mucous expectoration. Dyspnoea and oppression of chest. Respiration accelerated. Respiration short and more in upper part of lungs, with anxiety and discomfort.

Clinical.—Ammoniacum has obtained some repute for the relief of humid asthma, and catarrhal affections of the air passages, as an expectorant. It has relieved severe bronchitis with free mucus, expectoration, stitches in chest, frontal headache, dim vision, etc. Violent bronchial cough at night, with very free expectoration of stringy mucus. Often used for chronic bronchorrhœa with very tenacious expectoration, sometimes with a feeling as if something would be torn loose, and the patient clutches at the sternum, generally worse at night.

Chest.—Jerking stitches about l. short ribs, more upward towards chest. Oppression when inspiring, with stitches in l. half. Constriction, with pain. Pressure in. Affection of lower half of l., then deep-seated pain there.

Heart and Pulse.—Palpitation in evening, with restless sleep; in chest and carotids in evening after lying down, making it difficult to get to sleep. Throbbing of heart and arteries at night when lying down; strong throbbing of heart extending below pit of stomach, at night on going to bed, < lying on back or l. side, preventing sleep. Pulse tense; and small. Rapid; and hard.

Back.—Stitches in l. lumbar region, < expiration. Heaviness and pressure at end of lumbar vertebrae.

Extremities.—Tearing in wrists and ankles; in r. shoulder-joint, knee and tarsus, and l. tarsal bone. Stitches in r. knee and l. elbow. Rheumatic pains in l. shoulder, knee and r. ankle. Weariness. Heaviness in evening.

Upper Extremities.—Shoulder. Stitches in r.; in l. joint; in l., with tearing; in l. joint, extending over deltoid, > pressure; in shoulder and axilla, extending to elbow; in glands of r. axilla in evening; drawing S. in r. deltoid at 9 A.M. Rheumatic pain in r. shoulder.

Arm.—Bruised pain, especially about elbow. Rheumatic pain in r. about 12 o'clock; in r., now at one point, now at another. Paralyzed feeling in l. Tensive itching aching on fleshy parts of extensors of r. forearm and elbow. Drawing and tearing in r. wrist. Bruised feeling in l. wrist, then r. Rheumatic pain in r. metacarpal bones, in elbow and shoulder. Rheumatic pain in l. index. Drawing in r. middle finger.

Lower Extremities.—Thigh. Stitches in r. trochanter

major from 3.50 to 5.30 P.M., with weariness of leg; in r. hip-joint, at 10 A.M., when sitting; above r. hip-joint, < sitting bent up. Pain above r. knee, < walking; in crural nerve, extending towards inguinal ring and spermatic cord; jerking, in l. crural nerve in evening; drawing, in r. trochanter at 4 A.M.; drawing, in r. trochanter and l. knee in evening, extending to spermatic cord. Weariness of r.; in r. trochanter major; in hip-joints in evening.

Knee.—Stitches in l. side of r. towards morning. Indefinable pain in l. Tension in r. when walking. Swollen feeling in l. at 9 P.M. while sitting, with heat in knee and pricking in bend of knee.

Leg.—Stitches and pressure on l., at side of l. knee, at protuberance of tibia. Tearing in r. shin. Pain above r. ankle; below knee when walking. Ankles, tearing; cracking in l. ankle in evening when moving.

Foot.—Stitches in r. metatarsus; below r. metatarsus; on outer dorsum of l. foot; in l. metatarsus, with burning. Tearing and drawing in l. sole. Pain in middle of l. sole. Painful drawing in l. foot. Heaviness in r. sole, so that he trips when ascending stairs.

Toes.—Stitches in r. great toe, after a burning in it; S. in l. little toe, at left of joint, where skin was thickened. Gouty pain in l. great toe, < walking. Drawing in l. middle, at 10 A.M.

Skin.—Itching returns in evening; itching in r. groin.

Sleep.—Yawning frequently bringing tears into eyes; Y. because the stomach felt empty, after soft stool. Sleepiness; all day, with late falling asleep in evening, then frightful dreams always as soon as he fell asleep, which woke him, then difficult falling asleep again. Falls asleep late. Interrupted sleep from 12 to 3 o'clock, then sleeplessness. Restless sleep; interrupted and unrefreshing. Waking frequently. Dreams distressing; confused; continued; remembered; many, also after 4 A.M.

Fever.—Chills running from feet up over back at 10 o'clock; the same after dinner, at 1 o'clock. Burning in l. metatarsus; in r. great toe, then stitches. Disposed to sweat.

Ammonium Bromatum.

The Bromide of Ammonia (NH₄Br) is triturated with sugar of milk for homeopathic use.

General Action.—Large doses of Bromide of Ammonia produce mental dulness and physical depression; locally applied, anesthesia results, in short the general symptoms common to all the bromides. Special attention should be directed to the symptoms of the throat and the cough, so clearly developed by Dr. Cushing's proving.

Allied Drugs.—Bromine, Ammon., Caust., Kali c.

Generalities.—Circulation excited; with nervous excitement as after wine; vascular excitement, with exhilaration as after morphine, then drowsiness. Feeling as after a dose of opium, though less excited.

Head.—Indescribable pain. Pain in side near l. eye; back of eyes, < l.; near r. eye as if a nail were driven in. Feeling of a band above ears, pressing hardest just above ears. Tightness in temples.

Eyes.—Redness; with soreness; in morning, < l., with soreness and with white mucus in corners.

R. full of white stringy mucus. Pain around eyes, extending into head. Soreness; r.; sore feeling, with sensation as if sand were in them. Smarting in evening. R. feels as if bathed in hot water. At 3 P.M. bad feeling. Enlarged feeling in evening, with blurred vision; r. feels large and smart, and he has to wear a shade in the evening to read and write. Balls feel large and sore in evening. Lids, swollen; mucus on lashes; agglutinated; agglutinated in morning; drooping of lids evenings, with pain on raising them. Pain around orbits. Redness between orbit and inner canthus, and appearance as if a membrane were growing over it.

Ears.—Sharp pain in lower part of l. at 8 P.M., extending to cheek and neck.

Nose.—Stoppage; then discharge of clear fluid. Watery discharge from l. nostril.

Face.—Flushing.

Mouth.—Tongue. Soreness; of top, sides and tip. Smarting as if burnt in morning. Burnt feeling, < talking or reading; B. feeling, especially near tip. Biting in l. side of tip. Dryness in morning, with soreness and stiffness. Stiffness. Mouth and throat full of white sticky mucus in morning; white frothy mucus in mouth; stringy tasteless mucus in mouth. Mouth feels burnt; in morning. Mouth dry in morning. Salivation. Taste of food eaten several hours before.

Throat.—Redness. Mucus; in posterior fauces; sticky M.; white, sticky, blood-streaked; white, thick. Stinging, > sneezing, with inclination to cough. Pain in tonsils. Smarting; when hawking up white sticky mucus. Scalded feeling in fauces and top of tongue for half its length. Soreness; < l. side; with mottled look, as if diphtheritic deposit were beginning; with white sticky mucus from nose and throat; at 8 P.M., preparing to swallow is painful, but the act of swallowing is not. Irritation; with inclination to cough. Tickling; in morning and at 11 A.M., with inclination to cough; in evening; with cough. Heat at midnight when walking, and in lungs. Feeling as if hot air passed up r. side, though the stomach feels cold. Distress in oesophagus and stomach on swallowing anything cold.

Stomach.—Eructations of sour gas. Indigestion. Rising of something from pit, impeding breathing and causing faint and disagreeable feeling, > eructations; feeling as if something, not wind, were rising from stomach, causing faint feeling. Cutting. Distress; > afternoon; in upper part of epigastrium, extending to back and hypochondria, with inability to sit still, empty eructations, impeded breathing and general sweat. Sore lame feeling. Faintness in epigastrium or suffocation, in afternoon and evening, rising on sides of sternum to throat, causing sighing, walking about and fear that he might die.

Abdomen.—Uneasiness towards evening, next day diarrhoea and feeling as if distended by flatus. Twisting pain above crest of r. ilium.

Rectum.—Old hæmorrhoid returned with hardness and soreness, but speedily disappeared. Sudden urging to stool and loose stool.

Sexual Organs.—Clinical.—It has cured neuralgia of the l. ovary.

Respiratory Organs.—Cough, with tickling in throat. Deep C.; deeper in afternoon and evening from tickling below tonsils and causing pain in tonsils; deep from tickling on both sides of throat. Sudden C.; in evening from tickling in throat, < sides; from tickling below tonsils; with white mucous expectoration; sudden deep; sudden hacking, in evening, with watery nasal discharge; short sudden, in morning on rising, from sensation of mucus in throat; spasmodic sudden from tickling in throat. Frequent C. Inclination to cough from deep in throat; sudden, from tickling in throat, also causing strangling; sudden, from tickling just below both tonsils; almost constant. Expectoration of white sticky mucus; and occasionally of blood; of gelatinous mucus. Suffocating sensation from lungs, causing him to move around. Inclination to draw a long breath.

Clinical.—Valuable in the chronic laryngeal catarrh of speakers, or with dry spasmodic cough, which becomes almost continuous, especially at night, with tickling, heat and burning.

Chest.—Pain under middle of l. clavicle; in lungs: r. lung; in lungs in forenoon, especially in pleura; worse in upper part of r. lung; constrictive, across chest. Tightness; with pain in lungs. Coldness inside lung.

Pulse.—Rapid.

Back.—Pressure over r. kidney, > pressure, but leaving a pulling. Sore spot over r. kidney.

Extremities.—Weight on r. shoulder at 9 P.M. Pain posteriorly in middle of thigh, l. then r. Pain as from a cord around middle of r. thigh in forenoon, causing limping, the same pain below l. knee in afternoon, in ankle in evening, then in l. foot. Legs ache; from coldness of feet. L. ankle and foot lame.

Skin.—Villous and papillated rash in flexures of neck. Prickling.

Sleep.—Nodding. Slept but two hours at night. Dreamed of trying to pass urine into a bottle, but could not do so on account of being in a crowd of men and women.

Fever.—Coldness; with flashes of heat; cold back; cold feet, also in evening. Heat in flashes, as if sweat would break out.

Ammonium Carbonicum.

Carbonate of Ammonium (volatile salts) is prepared for use by dissolving one part in nine parts of pure water.

General Action.—(Compare Ammon. caust.).

Allies.—Kali c., Ammon mur.

Generalities.—Emaciation. Marasmus. Spasms. Tetanus. A jerk in upper part of body and in arms at 3 A.M., with tearing, then faintness. Trembling of whole body when walking. Blackness before eyes, motion of letters and arrest of breathing, with previous lassitude, and upon rising quickly from a seat rigidity of whole body, arms and legs being stretched out, while the fingers were so clenched that he had to use force to stretch them, which made them again movable. Tearing in whole body, especially in thighs. Bruised feeling in whole body early after rising, with weakness and weeping mood. Pain on motion in bed. Pain in occiput, in chest and from scapulae down along ribs. Rheumatic drawing pain through limbs, hands, feet, nape, head, etc. Indisposition in morning; sudden, towards evening, with faintness, > walking in open air, but still she felt stitches in r. side.

Restlessness everywhere and success in nothing; R., which becomes a convulsive trembling; in a child every day from 7 till 10 P.M., with waking, tossing about, screaming, bloated and burning feeling in head, then sound sleep till morning, when the face is covered with spots as if scarlatina would break out. Weakness all day; in morning; morning and forenoon, > walking in open air; morning and evening; in forenoon, with sleepiness; evening; after stool; W. on leaving her bed; when walking in open air, with trembling and discouragement; during menses, especially in thighs, with yawning, toothache, pain in small of back, and chilliness; during menses, with pain in thighs as if they would fall off, or as if tendons would tear off, alternating with pain in small of back; with lying down for several hours as if senseless and weary. Numbness of r. side when lying on it.

Clinical.—Generally useful in great prostration with falling temperature. Hemorrhages, especially under the skin, with general anemia. Sometimes useful after hemorrhage from the bowels, with very low temperature.

It is of use in poisoning by charcoal fumes; (Arnica is sometimes used in these cases, also Bovista.)

Sensitiveness to open air; in evening. Lying on l. side easier than on r.

Aggravation on r. side of body; in open air. Cannot bear evening air, with heaviness of feet and soreness of whole body; affected by talking much and hearing people talk, her hands and feet becoming cold in consequence of it; talking difficult after dinner; affected by walking in open air; all symptoms relieved after a good meal.

Mind.—Does not seem to be in his senses. Dreams at night while awake. Thoughtless in his head. Arrangement of ideas difficult. Absence of mind, with anxiety, and when speaking he is at loss to finish his speech. Loss of train of thought when telling a story, and hitting upon wrong thoughts and expressions. Incorrect speech, using one word for another. Uses wrong letters and figures in writing and ciphering. Memory lost; with headache when reflecting. Tormented by disagreeable memories.

Anguish as if she had committed a crime, every afternoon between 5 and 6 o'clock, > towards evening. Anxiety at 7 P.M.; in evening in bed; afterwards, > towards evening, with weakness; at night, as if she had to die, with cold sweat, audible palpitation, lachrymation, inability to move her eyes or speak, audible heavy breathing and trembling of hands; on account of her illness. Apprehension in forenoon, with chilliness. Easily frightened.

Anger; in evening, with scolding. Ill humor; in morning; in forenoon, sometimes with headache. Intolerance of contradiction; of noise. Irritability after the fever, > glass of "bishop;" during menses; with reluctance to answer. Obstinacy in a child. Dissatisfaction. Finding fault with everything.

Grief. Weeping mood, with thoughts of death. Sadness; the whole morning; towards evening; with the abdominal complaints that occurred every evening; at night, and sometimes excitement; during cloudy weather; during menses; with no inclination to go out; with restlessness. Excessive mirth. Laughing immoderately at trifles. Excitement. Exaltation. Earnestness. Fear of work. Mood better after supper. Stupor and insensibility.

Clinical.—Patients requiring this drug are generally listless and lethargic.

Head.—Stitches; here and there deep in brain, < r. side, > in open air. Aching; morning, with heaviness of forehead, < in afternoon; morning in bed, with nausea rising to throat; morning, with nausea, > as soon as he took his pipe into his mouth; in afternoon; evening; after dinner; after walking in open air, and lasting through evening; on waking, with cold in head; > after supper; with pale face, pain at stomach and ill humor; over whole head after getting heated; now here, now there in brain, with sticking over one brow. Clawing aching. Aching as before, especially a sensation as after drunkenness; A. like a knocking or hacking with a sharp instrument, < motion; A. as if water or something else were in his head; ulceration A., on moving head and on pressure, especially at a gland in occiput. Boring at night, with lancinations. Drawing and tearing.

Distended feeling in brain, < r. side. Stupefaction. Confusion; caused by stopped coryza; with emptiness. Light feeling. Heaviness; with confusion; with fulness. Rush of blood, < towards evening; at night, with heat in face on waking. Congestion in afternoon after coffee, with inability to stand upright well. Loose feeling of brain. Feeling as if brain fell towards the side where he stoops, sometimes with stinging, giving no rest, even nights. Vertigo; in morning; morning, with flickering before eyes, so that she must sit down; morning, > walking, with nausea; at night; on turning body; with nausea and want of appetite; with trembling of feet; with cold sweat, as usually in a fainting fit; after sitting still, as from intoxication; at night, as if everything turned with her, so that she had to sit up in bed; morning after rising, as if things turned with him in a circle, < towards evening, felt at night on moving head.

Forehead.—Stitches over r. eye; over l. eye after dinner, causing eyes to contract; boring, deep in brain behind r. eminence, during dinner. Aching; throbbing, as if it would burst; throbbing, in l.; burning, in sinciput; drawing, in periosteum, waking her mornings, > rising. Fulness, and in vertex, as if head would burst; F. as from vapor of coal. Heaviness after dinner, with throbbing; H. in sinciput, with confusion. Throbbing. Up-roar behind r. eminence, as if everything would come out.

Temples.—Stitches in l., < chewing; in l., as with a blunt instrument. Tearing morning and evening; in r. during dinner; behind l. ear as far as vertex, with sensation as if head were cleft. Painful beating in temple, l. side of head and l. side of occiput, sometimes with yawning.

Vertex painful. Heaviness in l. side of head, < in bed; r. side seems heavier than l., with sensation as if it would fall to that side.

Scalp.—Aching on touching hair; causing shuddering. Sensation as if hair stood on end, on entering house, with crawling over head and cold feeling there. Itching, especially of occiput; L., with sensitiveness when scratched.

Clinical.—Vertigo or feeling of looseness in the brain as if it fell from side to side, whichever way the head was turned. Sometimes in the beginning of cerebro-spinal meningitis the patient falls into a stupid non-reactive state; he is cold, the surface is cyanotic; pulse weak; in such cases this drug will bring about a reaction; then you may select some more specific remedy which will cure the trouble.

Eyes.—Inflammation and dimness; r. Pressure; with cutting; with fine stitches. Sore sensation in afternoon if he does not sleep. Burning, < morning on waking, with photophobia, and in evening on lying down. Biting, with itching of borders of lids. Itching and biting in morning, > rubbing. Weakness, with continual winking. Lachrymation, < r.; l., when reading; while the white of the eye is full of red veins, also in r. Pupils alternately contracted and dilated. Twitching in r. outer canthus, with veiled vision. Agglutination in morning; with running in daytime. Stye on r. upper lid becomes inflamed, with tension. Inflammation of r. inner canthus, without pain. Pressure in lids on waking and when falling asleep, with inability to open them, although he is internally awake. * Vision double on looking at a distance and on accommodating for near vision. Flickering. Indistinct V. Sparks at night on waking. White sparkling stars, when sneezing. A black spot hovers before eyes after sewing.

Clinical.—Muscular asthenopia from prolonged use of the eyes, with appearance of yellow spots on looking at white objects.

Ears.—Hard swelling of parotid glands. Twitches in middle, with pinching; twitches and tension around l., and in cheek-bone and temples, with swelling of cervical glands. Tearing below and behind (< moving head), sometimes as far as vertex, occiput, nape of neck and shoulder. Stitches in r.; l. Pinching in r. in evening, as before. Crawling and burrowing in l., afterwards extending to lower jaw. Pulsation in l. at night when lying on it. Tension behind r. Hearing diminished. Sensitiveness of a deaf ear to a loud sound, causing trembling. Ringing; in r. Roaring before l.; in l. at night. Rushing in r. every night after midnight, when lying on it. Buzzing before, as if hearing were dull and as if something were lying before ears. Sound like a distant shot.

Nose.—Vesicle on fore part of septum. Swelling and tenderness internally in wing; swelling in r. nostril, with soreness and itching, with crawling in nose, as from incipient catarrh, and with discharge. Twitching in l. side, seeming to draw up wing. Tearing in l. nostril and at same time in bone of l. elbow, extending towards hand. Pain when breathing strongly through it. Sensation in tip when stooping as if blood accumulated there. Dryness of nose and lips. Obstruction; at night; without any cold; at 1 A.M., with anxiety as if choking, and pain in chest on account of difficult breathing. Sneezing; frequently morning in bed; violent.

Coryza; during menses; C., with burning in region of stomach and deafness; with obstruction of l. nostril; with obstruction and rattling in nose and roughness of voice; dry, < night, without slightest air passing nose; dry in bed in evening and night, with obstruction of nose; fluent, also with cough, also with tearing in l. cheek. Catarrhal irritation, with scraping and scratching in throat, with pain as from excoriation and difficult hawking of phlegm. Acrid fluid running from nose; during menses. Blowing out bloody mucus. Water runs from nose when stooping; dropping of water without coryza. Pus drops from one nostril on blowing nose in morning. Bleeding; after dinner; from l. nostril on blowing nose. Smell like a profuse sour sweat.

Clinical.—In children, catarrh, stoppage and acrid burning discharge, inability to sleep on account of the stoppage, starts up; also nosebleed on washing the face or hands or after eating.

Face.—Redness of l. cheek. Pallor; before and during menses; with nausea and mental and physical weakness; with bloating. Wretched look. Tearing in r. side, with painful tension. Pain in zygoma; in r. side; in glands beneath chin, and when moving mouth tension; drawing, in cheek bones. Sensation of stretching, with necessity to rub eyes and face, as if sleepy.

Lips.—Pimple on lower, with burning pain. Burning vesicles on vermilion borders. Cracked and corners of mouth sore; crack in middle of lower, with bleeding and burning pain. Dry; and stuck together; D., cracked, burning and feeling as if covered with blisters. Pain in upper as if cracked. Itching. Pain in jaws caused by coughing.

Mouth.—Teeth. Falling out of sound ones. The decay progresses rapidly. Blood comes from a molar on sucking. Stitches; in teeth and lower jaw of one side when a warm liquid gets into mouth; in molars on pressing them together; in healthy molar in open air; in upper hollow tooth on touch of tongue. Tearing in upper; in teeth and jaws as far as ears, before midnight; during menses, with pain when biting on them, and with restlessness; in l. upper molars, with salivation and gnawing in l. shoulder; in roots of l. upper, as if an ulcer would form. Tearing twitching, extending into ears, also at night in a hollow molar, > smelling Hepar sulph. Toothache in evening as soon as she gets into bed, lasting all night; at night, with swelling of cheek next day, afterwards nose enlarged and red spots on face and neck; on biting together; when chewing, < air rushing into mouth; during menses, also < during and after eating, > warm cloths and pressure; in anterior inferior incisor on biting during menses; with heat of same side of face; throbbing; darting, in a decayed molar after dinner, > picking; drawing, during menses, also > eating; drawing, which seems to be in the jaws and extends to ear and cheek, only when eating and biting upon tooth; as if squeezed, in evening; in two molars, as when sweets get into a hollow tooth. Drawing; at night and on waking; in a molar after a journey in damp weather, with tearing. Elongated feeling. Soreness of hollow molar. Dulness; in molars, with a loose sensation when biting. Feeling as if there were no power to bite. Feeling of an abscess at roots which threatens to burst on access of air on biting.

Gums.—Abscess discharging pus. Inclination to bleed. Redness and sensitiveness. Swelling, and of cheek; swelling and sensitiveness, especially of lower teeth, with a yellow painful vesicle between lip and lower canine tooth; sensation of swelling, and swelling and inflammation. Stitches in r. inner and upper. Sensitiveness to touch of tongue. Itching, with bleeding when scratched.

Tongue.—Flabby, white, with creamy coating. Redness, and of whole inside of mouth, especially the excoriated spot on palate. Vesicles, especially at border: at tip, with burning pain. Ulcer on tip, with a sore feeling when tongue is moved. Pustules, especially on border and under tongue, with burning and stinging pain. Painful erosion on middle. Burning at tip, < touch. Coldness on taking medicine, then warmth. Pithy feeling in anterior half.

Mouth in general.—Redness, especially beneath tongue; < towards evening, with tenderness; and inflammation of mouth and throat, with pain as if excoriated. Burning vesicles on inner side of lower lip; painful white, on inner side of lower lip; inside of cheeks full of vesicles. Excoriated spot on palate caused by a hard crust. Swelling on jaw beneath gum, painful on chewing; hard swellings on inner side of lower lip. Swollen sensation. Much mucus in afternoon and evening, and in nose; mucus, with scraping; loose mucus.

Pain in palate as if ulcerated on touch of tongue, then exfoliation. Scraping soreness in mouth, especially in inside of upper gums, with softness of one spot. Roughness, with bloody taste, then cough and expectoration of light-colored blood, with burning and heaviness in chest, heat and redness in face and trembling of whole body. Narrow feeling, so that she fears to open her mouth or move her tongue lest she should hurt some part by touch of tongue. Dry feeling in morning; dryness in evening, not > by drinking; at night, with heat. Itching. Salivation; with scraping; salt; watery. Much spitting. Smell bad; in morning, and taste. Taste bitter in morning and on waking; bitter at root of tongue; pungent, cool, then burning; salt; nasty and sourish; sourish and metallic to food; sour after drinking milk; sweet, with bloody saliva; bloody.

Throat.—R. submaxillary gland tender to touch. Swelling of tonsils, < morning and evening, with difficult swallowing. Stinging and drawing or tearing, < speaking. Sensation of something sticking in it, morning and evening, with choking pressure; sensation as if something were sticking in r. side, making swallowing difficult. Pain during deglutition as if r. tonsil were swollen. Pressure in, with external swelling on sides. Aching and shooting in afternoon and towards evening in a thyroid gland, which had been swollen and numb for years. Full and obstructed feeling. Soreness; towards evening. Roughness, < speaking; R., with scraping. Scraping; causing cough. Burning, and in œsophagus; in pharynx; down œsophagus, as from alcohol. Dryness; and in mouth, morning on waking, and afternoons and evenings, with thirst. Hawking frequently on account of mucus in throat; hawking of salt mucus at night.

Stomach.—Appetite violent; great at dinner; increased at dinner, but satiety after eating a little; great hunger with but little appetite. Appetite lost; in morning; with continual thirst; for meat or boiled things during menses, with desire only for bread and cold things. Milk is distasteful. Little appetite and hunger, though he relishes his meal. Thirst; in afternoon; for beer. She cannot eat dinner without drinking. No thirst.

Empty eructations; evening and after dinner. Eructations tasting of food; during and after supper. Frequent but suppressed E. Sour E., after milk. Hiccough. Nausea; in morning, with coated tongue; after rising in morning, till afternoon (during menses), with chilliness and vomiting of sour water; in attacks at night; every day after dinner; after eating; during and after dinner (during menses), with weakness; with flatulent disturbance. Vomiting when walking.

Distention after eating. Rumbling. A stitch at pit at every attack of cough. Pinching; with rumbling and gurgling. Gnawing at r. side. Boring, extending to first lumbar vertebra, with tearing. Pain; at night; on pressure; after dinner; > after supper; with loathing of supper; with disposition to watery risings; with nausea and sensitiveness at pit; at pit after eating, then nausea and vomiting of ingesta, then sour taste; extending in a vibratory motion towards l. nipple. Clothes press upon. Tenderness at epigastrium. Overloaded feeling until three hours after eating. Oppression after eating; after supper; with sense of contraction (also in chest), with loathing and nausea; in morning, passing into nausea. Full feeling during menses, with trembling. Discomfort after eating, with pressure in stomach and forehead. Heaviness in pit; in epigastrium. Emptiness. Burning; in pit; then in bowels; extending into intestines, as from strong wine. Coldness in region.

Abdomen.—Distention; with retention of stool; painful D. Accumulation of flatus, with griping; much flatus in evening; emitted in afternoon, evening and night; fetid. Rumbling in afternoon, with discharge of flatus; R., with movings; with pain; as from spasms, or when fasting, every time when she swallows something.

Stitches, < walking. Tearing during menses, which appeared too soon. Pinching in forenoon when walking in open air, > lying on abdomen and applying warm cloths, with contraction and rumbling, appearing again in evening and in the cold next morning, afterwards > in room; P., with obstruction. Griping with flatus. Cutting and biting as from worms, with contractive pain at stomach, chilliness, sweat and sleeplessness till morning, with return of pain on waking; cutting before and after a loose stool. Pain at 7 A.M.; waking at 3 A.M., two days before menses; afternoons from wet and cold; nights, > emission of strong flatus; after breakfast; before menses, and in small of back; during menses, with griping, pressure, and with tension between scapulae; resulting in diarrhœa; as before diarrhœa; disposition to flatulent P. Sudden painful contraction, as far as stomach, > by compression and passing off after lying down. Heaviness. Symptoms recur regularly every evening.

Contractive and pinching pain in upper, then in lower part, in morning before menses, causing nausea, salivation, faintness and chilliness. Pressure over umbilicus as from a button. Sore pain in liver. Aching under r. ribs, in region of liver; in small intestines.

Sides.—Stitches in l. in evening when stooping; below l. ribs in evening. Pain in l. in morning; in l. during dinner, > emission of flatus. Compression on both, when sitting, > motion and stretching. Burning deep in l.

Elastic swelling in l. groin in evening after lying down, with bruised pain, pain < by lying on that side. Aching swelling of l. inguinal glands, > towards noon, replaced by headache and ill feeling, which lasted till evening and recurred next day. Transverse stitches deep in hypogastrium when standing. (Pinching in r. groin when stretching, with stitches); P. moving transversely across towards sacrum and rectum, during stool, > bending body, ceasing after stool. Contractive cramp deep in hypogastrium on stooping, also in small of back. Cutting in lower A., during which the abdomen is very small. Pressure in groin and bend of thigh; in hypogastrium, also during dinner. Sense of fulness and distention in l. groin. Hernia protrudes in l. groin.

Rectum.—Varices form, moist and painful, as from excoriation; protrude, > lying; protrude during stool and are painful afterwards, so that she cannot walk. Cutting, with good stools. Burning pain at night, with urging to stool. Tenesmus with the stools; urging before usual hour. Discharge of blood during and after stool. Bleeding from intestines.

Anus.—Itching. Scratching after stool, then burning.

Stool.—Diarrhea; twice a day; in morning, with colic; preceded and followed by cutting in abdomen; very early, then headache and much rigor; of feces and mucus, with cutting in abdomen before and during stools. Liquid. Hard, retarded and difficult; H., surrounded by streaks of blood; and painful, with prickings in anus. Retained, then loose. Constipation. Mixed with mucus. Surrounded by watery mucus, at 7 A.M.

Urinary Organs.—Tenesmus of bladder, even at night, with diminished urine accompanied by burning; frequent urging to urinate, also at night, also < in afternoon, with increased urine; T., with cutting. Discharge of a milky prostatic fluid after a hard stool. Involuntary micturition in a boy while asleep towards morning. Frequent micturition; at night, sometimes copious; frequent and copious, < evening. Blood from urethra. Traction in fore part of urethra in evening after urinating. Urine copious; and turbid; in afternoon, with loose stool. Red. Urine reddish, like water mixed with blood, after dinner; pale at noon, for the first time since last evening; white, sandy; turbid U. of peculiar smell and with copious sediment; turbid, high-colored and fetid; alkaline (it had been acid).

Clinical.—Indicated in uremia with the characteristic symptoms of the drug.

Sexual Organs.—Itching; of glans penis; of menses veners. Erections; continual in morning. Choking pain in scrotum and spermatic cords, with pain of scrotum on touch, and involuntary erections. Drawing pain in scrotum. Drawings in scrotum, > by raising it. Weight of scrotum. Relaxation of scrotum. Itching of scrotum. Desire vehement, without remarkably voluptuous thoughts and almost without erection; voluptuous, with trembling of body almost without erection; dormant. Aversion to the other sex. Emissions almost every night.

Itching of pudendum; with swelling and burning. Soreness of pudendum and anus, < urinating. Leucorrhœa; watery, burning. Menses too early; too early after a cold drive and very copious, < at night and when sitting and driving, previously gripping colic, with want of appetite; delayed, with one complete interruption; pale; copious; copious, blackish, often in clots, passing off with spasmodic pain in abdomen, and hard stools; with tenesmus; acrid, causing soreness and burning pain in thighs.

Clinical.—Catarrhal leucorrhœa, acrid, burning. Tendency to hemorrhage; menses too frequent and too profuse.

Respiratory Organs.—Accumulation of mucus in larynx, then rough voice. Drawing and stinging itching in larynx. Constriction in larynx from both sides of neck. Hoarseness; with roughness in throat. Difficulty in talking after eating; D. as from weakness of organs of speech, or on account of pains resembling pains at stomach. Mucus in trachea increased. Rattling in trachea as from mucus.

Cough; all day and in morning, with mucous expectoration; morning in bed, with mucous expectoration, affecting chest and head; in evening in bed; evening in bed, with asthma; at night; from 12 to 1 o'clock at night, with stuffed cold and sleeplessness; with mucous expectoration and soreness in air-passages; C. < ascending a hill, with expectoration of bloody mucus, heaviness on chest and short breathing with asthma; from deep in chest. Violent, every day at 3 to 4 A.M., in a child. Dry C., from scratching in throat; dry, < night, as from dust in throat; violent dry in middle of night. Irritative cough. Short and suppressed hacking, from irritation in larynx, with sensation of spasmodic asthma. Expectoration; bloody, when clearing throat.

Asthma after every effort, with palpitation; < ascending steps, > in open air, with pallor and inability to do anything when in a warm room, except to sit still. Oppressed breathing; at night; making him hack. Sighing. Short breathing, < ascending steps; S., with stitches in chest. Wheezing.

Clinical.—Chronic cough of old people, with tickling in larynx or under the sternum, dyspnoea, great shortness of breath; the cough is apt to be worse in the early morning hours; sometimes with bloody expectoration. Chronic bronchitis of old people, with emphysema.

Chest.—Cracking of sternum when bending chest backward, with pressure in middle of chest. Stitches after supper; S. when stooping, > straightening up; in r. breast when stooping; in l. breast at night, < lying on l. side; at side of l. nipple when breathing, < when sitting; S. under r. breast, close by lowest ribs; at last true rib when breathing and singing; in sternum, caused by cough; in r. side when walking; upon sternum, in r. side of chest and under l. breast, with bruised pain in the parts on touch; in l. side, beginning in præcordial region and moving downward towards side and afterwards towards back.

Pain; at lower part of sternum, caused by cough; at r. breast on touch; as after sitting bent, < r. side; intermittent, < l. side. Bruised pain in middle, in morning. Oppression, < lying; O., with desire to cough in order to be relieved; with difficulty in speaking, coryza and mucous expectoration, < morning; compressive. Contraction from cough; contraction of middle, with bruised pain on pressure. Soreness under sternum, as from excoriation, caused by cough. Rough feeling, with hoarseness when calling aloud. Distress. Drawing downward sensation during expiration and preventing it. Lungs feel drawn down when standing. Heaviness when walking in open air, with tightness; H. at sternum at night, with oppression; as from accumulation of blood. Rush of blood after writing. Heat internally. Coldness internally. Weakness; with coryza.

Clinical.—This drug is indicated in pneumonia when there is great debility, with symptoms pointing to the formation of heart clot.

Heart.—Stitches. Oppression. Palpitation; after every effort, with asthma; (after coition, with excited circulation); with blood rising to neck and difficult breathing when hand is pressed on heart; with retraction of epigastrium and weakness in præcordial region. Pulse quick; strong.

Neck.—Drawing pain in nape, with stitches over temples and bloated face. Drawing down from neck. Stiffness when turning head. Tension in nape on stooping, with pain in forehead as if it would burst.

Back.—Twitching at night when asleep. Pain; during motion.

Loins.—Sudden stitches in r. Shooting. Pain; during menses; when walking; < motion and walking; when stooping, with feeling as if muscles were too weak to support the body, which threatens to fall forward; drawing, extending to legs; drawing and pressive pain at rest, > walking; gnawing, and in hips, extending to abdomen and moving again backward; throbbing, when at rest. Bruised pain. Sudden darting when walking out into open air, < rising after long sitting.

Stinging in coccyx, preceded by itching.

Extremities.—Stretching; morning. Prickings in tips of fingers and toes. Pain at night, with gnawing pain in small of back; P. in forenoon and night, with gnawing pain in small of back, > rest. Sticking drawing, sometimes in r. arm, sometimes in legs. Bruised feeling; in evening. Weakness, < evening, in knees and legs; with disinclination to work; in morning, as if he had not slept enough; as after a fever. Hands and feet go to sleep when sitting, > moving about. Heaviness.

Upper Extremities.—Tearing in joints. Pain in glands of axilla, with swelling. Paralytic drawing from l. axilla to wrist.

Shoulder.—Tearing; in l. towards chest. Shooting and tearing in r. joint. Pressure upon l. Drawing pain in r. joint. Bruised pain in l.; in l. shoulder and elbow in evening.

Arm.—Spasm of r., drawing it backward, then heat of body and turbid white urine. Pain at 3 or 4 A.M., with coldness and stiffness of arm, heaviness in elbow, and on motion of arm or when it is in bed tearing in shoulder, elbow and wrist. Drawing pain, and in hands. R. appeared to weigh a hundred-weight and to be without strength. Weakness of r., with coldness, numbness and lifelessness, then tingling. Paralyzed feeling in r.; in r., with heaviness, weakness and necessity to let it hang down, with swelling and coldness of hand.

Upper Arm.—Twitches in r. Insensibility, where he had been pricked.

Elbow.—Cracking during motion. Stitches. Tearing in bone, as far as little finger; in bone of l., extending towards hand, and at same time in l. nostril. Boring in fossa that receives olecranon process. Creaking pain on stretching arm out straight before him. Stiffness.

Pain in middle of l. forearm, evening in bed, with feeling as if bone would curve inward forcibly and break. Tearing in wrist, as far as fingers, > warmth of bed; tearing in l. W., as if in marrow, towards l. finger. Tension in wrist, < motion.

Hand.—Trembling. Distention of veins after washing in cold water, with blueness. Stitches when breathing, and in fingers. Pain on dorsum, waking her at night. R. goes to sleep at night when lying on it.

Fingers.—Swelling of middle joint of r. middle, with pain when touched or bent. Twitching in l. thumb. Cramp in posterior phalanx of a finger, morning till night, when in the cold, < stretching, with stitches. Tearing in fingers, and in articulations of thumb. Pinching on stretching them apart. Jerking gripping in l. thumb, as if in bone. Drawing pain from tips as far as hand, as from mesmerizing. Bruised feeling in l. thumb in cold air.

Lower Extremities.—Staggering when rising. Cracking in joints when walking. Sudden weakness after dinner.

Thigh.—Tearing. Pain in hip-joint when walking; in hip-joint, as if beaten asunder, every morning in bed, < turning, > rising and walking; over bend of l. knee, as if tendons were too short, on pressure and when sitting upon them. Drawing pain descending from l. hip. Pain in r. thigh as if inmost marrow were shaken, < lying and sitting. Bruised feeling; when taking much exercise; in middle of both, during menses; over r. knee, > rubbing. Sprained feeling in l., with weakness and sudden bending of legs when walking. Jerklike scraping upon bones of thighs and legs in evening, obliging her to twitch up the leg and walk about. Sudden pulsation about r. hip in evening. Stiffness when walking. Weakness, and of legs.

Knee.—Cracking on motion. Twitches, and in legs; T. in patella in evening. Tearing. Sprained feeling on sitting down and turning leg. Boring in and upon patella; boring and drawing in knee, causing uneasiness in legs.

Leg.—Twitches towards evening. Stitches deep in calves. Tearing below knee and at l. tibia. Sprained feeling in l. when walking. Straining in calf (from a cold?). Sore and bruised feeling in muscles. Seem contracted. Shortened feeling in tendons of muscles. Cramp when lying, < rising; C., especially in muscles of tibiae and feet; C. in calf when walking in open air. Heaviness in evening. Restlessness. Pain as from paralysis, as if they were going to sleep, > walking. Asleep when sitting and standing, and at night when lying on the limb.

Malleolus.—Tearing, and in joints of feet, extending to toes, > warmth of bed. Drawing pain in external.

Foot.—Swelling as far as calves; of ball of r. in morning on rising, and tenderness as from frost. Trembling. Tearing twitches in r. heel. Stitches in ball of r.; (over r. heel). Tearing in soles. Pain in ball of l. in evening; in heel on waking, as if the bone were perforated by ulceration. Sensitiveness to wet and cold. Burning in the swollen ball of l., with pain. Crawling in dorsum of l. as if asleep. Tingling in l. heel, with ulcerated feeling when touched; in sole when lying in evening, with itching and with burning after scratching. Weakness.

Toes.—Redness of big toe, < evening in bed, with swelling and pain, and with swelling of whole foot; tender red swelling of r. toes, like chilblains, in evening. Painful twitches in ball of big toe (which had been frozen when a child). Stitches in balls of big toes, with drawing as if frozen, < evening on going to sleep; tearing S. in big toe, with twitches. Piercing pain in ball of big toe, evening in bed. Pain in ball of big toe as from subcutaneous ulceration, when walking.

Skin.—Redness, like scarlatina, of whole upper part of body; R. of a dormant herpetic eruption, with itching and burning, then disappearance in a few days. Blue spot over knee, with burning. Hard swelling of cheek, as well as glands of ear and neck. Deep-seated induration over r. knee, with pain on pressure. Hardness, with chaps. Desquamation of palm. Scaling of chin, with itching. Eruption at mouth; miliary, around chin. Herpes-like, scaly eruption around mouth. White herpes-like spots on cheek, continually exfoliating. Rash on r. side of neck and on l. forearm; red rash on chest. Inflammation of warts.

Pimples on forehead and tip of nose; increased in number on face; on forehead, with vesicles; on l.

check near ear, with pain on pressure; on legs, with inflammation; burning, on nape and forearms; itching, on thighs and hands; itching, on podex; on podex, painful at night on lying down. Small tubercles on elbow and large ones on neck, with cutting, only a few ulcerating.

Boils on forehead; tip of nose; on cheek and around ear; on cheek, at corners of mouth, and on chin boils and indurations, discharging blood and water; above r. breast, with redness and pain on touch; on l. shoulder; on l. nates in evening, with pain; on r. thigh, discharging much pus and blood when cut open; deep-seated burning, on knee, preceded by itching; on l. instep, with pain on touch. Pustules over whole body; on forehead, temple, cheek and chin; side of nose; tip of nose; cheeks during menses; r. commissure of mouth, with boring, preceded by several pustules on l. cheek and on thighs. Vesicles on r. corner of mouth and on upper lip; V. on l. scapula, with stinging as from fleas. Soreness between a child's legs. Offensiveness of the fluid in an ulcer.

Sensitiveness to cold. Burning in accidental scratches on fingers, then subcutaneous pustules. Contraction on forehead and face. Tension of face (nose and lips), as if face were swollen, morning on waking. Itching here and there, usually > after scratching, or painfully burning; l. here and there, then after scratching burning vesicles, or pimples or hard nodes.

Sleep.—Yawning; with salivation, weakness, discomfort or chilliness; spasmodic, in evening. Sleepiness by day; in afternoon; in evening, but uneasy sleep at night; when not busy; unconquerable S. after supper, but he does not sleep well at night.

Sleeplessness from 11 till 1 o'clock; till 12.30, with straining and pressure on abdomen and discharge of flatus; for two hours after 1 or 2 o'clock; from midnight till 4 A.M., with pain in stomach; till 4 A.M., then oppressive sleep, during which he sweats till 7 o'clock; from itching and stinging of skin. Falls asleep late; on account of uneasiness, dry heat and sometimes burning at stomach. Sleeps better the sooner she goes to bed. Light sleep. Restless S.; and unrefreshing; < during menses, with frequent waking. Startings in sleep at night, then fear; startings after midnight, then sleeplessness for a long time. Waking frequently; with groaning and sobbing; with chilliness. Waking every half hour, then weariness in morning.

Dreams.—Terrifying. (Nightmare on falling asleep.) Anxious; with anxiety at the end, waking him at 3 A.M. Lewd, of coition, and on waking sensation as after an emission. Vivid. Confused; about things that happened many years ago.

Fever.—Chilliness; during the day; in morning, then hiccough; in evening; towards evening, > after going to bed; in evening, with bristling of hair, blue hands and nails, chattering of teeth and shaking, sometimes followed by nightly heat and sweat in morning; at night in sleep, > on waking; at night, especially in feet; in open air or on entering room; when undressing; C. on going out, fresh air causes sneezing and slight sore throat. Chilliness, with sweat, afterwards heat with thirst; alternating with heat, in bed from 9 to 12 P.M., together with uneasiness; alternating with heat during menses, with sensitiveness to cold, nausea, thirst, pressure at chest, stitches in l. side of chest, tearing in forehead, confusion of head, alternate redness and paleness of cheeks, pressure at stomach, disposition to eructations, violent coryza and sleeplessness.

Shivering; before sleep. Rigor when walking across the street. Rigor, with weakness, then heat in face. Rigor alternating with heat, especially heat in face. Chills and heat for several days, mostly shaking chills, then dry heat, with sweat only in morning. Head gets cold easily. Cold feeling in longitudinal sinus of head. Cold hands and feet. Cold feet; in evening, < when going to bed; cold feet, with heat in head.

Heat; at 9 A.M.; in forenoon, before menses, with anxiety; evenings, with headache; at night; from walking in open air. Hectic fever. Orgasms of blood at night. Heat in head when coughing; in sinuiput, with pressure; in head and face, with red cheeks; especially in head and face, with burning in lobe of l. ear and around nostrils; in face during and after dinner; in face during mental exertion; especially in abdomen during forenoon. Burning in nape in morning. Burning in back, especially in small of back; on a small spot of upper and lower arm; in hands and feet about noon; in bend of r. knee and along leg, with redness and increase of the pain on touch of cold hand. Heat of l. big toe, with pain as if burnt, < damp weather and on pressure of boot, > resting foot firmly on floor and by walking.

Sweat; in morning; towards morning; night; early every night, and heat in morning; < night; profuse, fetid; as from weakness, on forehead; on joints in morning; on legs at night; on scrotum.

Clinical.—It is a useful remedy in scarlatina, low type, with somnolence and other characteristic symptoms.

Ammonium Causticum.

Hydrate of Ammonium, Aqua Ammonia, a transparent colorless liquid, holding in solution ten per cent. of Ammonia gas, specific grav. 0.959, may be taken as the first decimal dilution.

General Action.—A powerful cardiac stimulant; it lowers blood pressure. Applied to mucous membranes, inhaled or swallowed it is an irritant and causes oedema and ulceration. The symptoms here given are from cases of poisoning.

Relatives.—Alcohol, Kali caust.

Generalities.—Beating the bed-clothes. Trembling; at least effort, with inability to stand on getting out of bed. Cramps. Bleedings from mouth, nose, eyes and ears, causing faintness. Emaciation, with constant vomiting, weak, frequent pulse, hectic flush on cheeks, eyes sunken, tongue foul, headache, constipation and weakness.

Semi-conscious, pupils dilated, breathing noisy and hurried, pulse rapid, sweat, pain in abdomen, vomiting of blood, mucus and shreds of mucous membrane, afterwards hoarseness, heavy, drowsy condition, face dusky, skin dry, heat, later lips swollen, tongue dry, mucous membrane of mouth eroded, mucous membrane of fauces looking oedematous, softened and inflamed, pain and tenderness of abdomen on touch, tympanitis, burning pain in throat and pit of stomach, coma and incessant retching.

Face pale, anxious and covered with clammy sweat, extremities cold, pulse rapid and feeble, mouth and throat red and inflamed, burning pain in throat, difficult swallowing, feeling of impending suffocation, voice reduced to a whisper, breathing noisy, frequent and laborious, vomiting of mucus tinged with blood, tenacious mucus in throat inducing fits of cough and sickness.

White patches on tongue and inner side of cheeks, congestion of mucous membrane of tonsils and pharynx, swallowing difficult, frequent vomiting, respiration rapid and shallow, with râles, cyanosis, afterwards unconscious with half-open eyes, pupils moderately contracted, convulsions.

Muscular pains, especially in thighs. Weakness. Amelioration from drinking vinegar and water.

Mind.—Anguish; with suffocation and constriction of throat. Anxiety. Despondency. Despair. Excitement in evening, with small, quick pulse and increased oppression. Timidity. Fell back, insensible, as if choked. Coma.

Head.—Confusion, with pressure in temple; confusion, with rumbling in abdomen. Sensation in brain as if pressed asunder in the middle, towards the front and to both sides. Pressure in frontal region, with feeling as if the head would split. Forehead, where the vessels are full of blood, hot to touch. Pressure in occiput.

Eyes.—Red and shining. Spasmodically turned upward and lids closed. Haggard, injected, and lids swollen. Sunken and pupil dilated. Lachrymation. Pupils contracted; dilated and eyes inverted. Yellowish chemosis. Conjunctiva yellow.

Ears.—Deafness.

Nose.—Coryza. Watery fluid running from, and air is completely excluded. Much serous liquid. Flow of bloody fluid, and from mouth.

Face.—Pale; with suffering expression. Red; during exacerbations of fever; upper part violet red, lower part blanched. Distorted, with red spots. Expression of anxiety; of anguish. Lips swollen; lower swollen; cyanotic; livid; black coating on middle of lower; lips and tongue red and denuded; mucous membrane of lips and nose destroyed; inside of upper lip, tongue, roof of mouth and fauces white and other parts excoriated.

Mouth.—Tongue white; and palate and œsophagus as far as visible, with blisters; tongue coated white, painful and tender, with patches of its membrane pulled off. Black coat at tip. Tongue, mouth and fauces red and raw, and when asked where the pain was he pointed to ponum adami, under l. ear. Curled pieces of white skin detached from tongue and throat, and those parts are red. Dry tongue. Burning and scraping at root of tongue and at posterior wall of fauces. Teeth clenched. Mouth and throat dark red, swollen, tender, with epithelium detached in places. Burning, and in œsophagus and stomach. Burning pain from mouth to stomach. Foaming. Salivation; bloody. Much mucus; much limpid mucus from salivary glands and mucous membrane of pharynx. Albuminous, viscid, bloody secretion pouring from mouth and nares.

Throat.—Redness externally and swelling of soft parts; deep redness of velum, its pillars, tonsils and posterior wall of pharynx; deep redness of posterior wall of pharynx, of epiglottis and mouth, with pain in throat. Uvula contracted and covered with white mucus. Pain, and especially in epigastric region. Heat. Burning pain; with feeling of suffocation; burning pain down throat and in epigastrium and l. hypochondrium, with tenderness to pressure on these parts. Scraping; and lancination. Hawking of frothy mucus; constant hawking, causing pain, with expectoration. Swallowing difficult; painful; impossible. Dryness of œsophagus. Burning pain in œsophagus, with tenderness of stomach on pressure.

Stomach.—Thirst; with difficulty in swallowing; with inability to swallow. Eructations. Ineffectual retching. Vomiting; blood; matter like soap-suds; mucus, constantly; stringy mucus, light, then dark; throws up by mouth and nostrils a burning whitish fluid, smelling like sal volatile liniment. Pain; from a hearty meal; in epigastric region, also < pressure; pain in epigastrium and l. hypochondrium, with tenderness. Epigastrium tender and swollen; epigastric region sensitive at 4 P.M., with small pulse and shivering. Heartburn. Heat, and in chest; feeling as if on fire from stomach to mouth. Burning pain, and in throat.

Abdomen.—Rumbling; with confusion of head. Soft. Pain; in lower A. and in back and sacral region; inexpressible, in upper part of intestinal tube.

Rectum and Stool.—Spasmodic contraction of rectum, an injection spouted forcibly from it as soon as thrown up. Much blood from anus; with tenesmus. Stools frequent, bloody. Profuse, liquid, fetid, of much disorganized blood. Solid, with cessation of confusion of head. Involuntary. Several, after vomiting, causing burning at anus. None.

Urine.—Incontinence of. Suppressed. Scanty, red. Alkaline and dark. High-colored, thick, with abundant heavy lateritious elimination. Smelling of ammonia. Albuminuria. Much sediment, consisting of urates.

Menses.—Too early and profuse.

Respiratory Organs.—Voice lost; weak and indistinct; hoarse; hoarse and weak; deep and weak; speech fatiguing, interrupted, also with low weak voice. Glottis, œdema; spasm, with asphyxia. Tickling in larynx, with pain in epigastrium. Coarse mucous râles in larynx and trachea. Trachea spasmodically rising and falling. Bronchitis, with profuse expectoration.

Cough and much expectoration, < after drinking; with much mucous expectoration; when he tries to drink, with expectoration, also with mucous expectoration; obstinate; sonorous, moist, like suffocative catarrh, with tracheal râles; spasmodic, with expectoration of much membrane. Bloody expectoration. Profuse mucous expectoration.

Suffocation; rousing from sleep. Choking sensation on swallowing. Respiration difficult; and stertorous, quick; stridulous; hoarse, croaking; heavy and rattling; rapid. Inclination to draw a long breath, which is prevented by pain in back of chest, in œsophageal region. Gasping for breath.

Clinical.—Loss of voice, with great debility or with burning rawness in throat. Spasm of the glottis (or paralysis), with suffocation, the patient gasps for breath.

Chest.—Mucous rattling. Cutting opposite fifth and sixth cervical vertebrae, at bottom of pharynx. Pain, with suffocative anguish; pain on speaking. Oppression; with increased rattling and threatened suffocation. Catarrh of lungs. Heat, and in stomach.

Heart.—Anguish in præcordia, with oppression of chest. Præcordial region distended and painful. Tumultuous action. Carotids beat violently. Pulse, rapid; rapid and hard; rapid, small and weak; slow and irregular; pulse and heart's action slow and intermittent; pulse small; small and hard; small, depressed; weak; weak and irregular.

Extremities.—Nails violet. Twitches of r. arm.

Clinical.—Muscular rheumatism of the shoulders.

Skin.—Pale, cold and inelastic. Dry. Redness over nose and frontal sinuses. Rosaceous spots on inner and anterior surface of forearms, then on whole inner surface of arm, generally following the lymphatics. Red erythematous spots with yellow borders, especially along lymphatics. Erysipelas. Skin is taken off by a blister plaster, but no serum is secreted.

Sleep.—Restless night. Sleeplessness.

Fever.—Coldness; of limbs; of skin; of skin, especially of limbs. Hot skin; hot, dry skin. Sweat; cold.

Ammonium Muriaticum.

Sal Ammoniac, NH_4Cl , is dissolved in water for use.

General Action.—It causes profuse secretions from mucous membranes, especially of the air passages, and when decomposed in the blood acts as a heart-stimulant (see Caustic Ammonia).

Relations.—Ammon. caust., Kali, Alumina, Mur. ac.

Generalities.—Loss of fat. Stitches in l. side of abdomen, then in r. side of chest, then in r. scapula, then in small of back, with chilliness and sleepiness during the day. Pressive burning and stinging now here, now there, in forenoon. Painful twitching, or jerking tearing now here, now there, the pain most severely beats, as if it would suppurate, 6 to 10 P.M., on sitting, > lying in bed. Pain and bruised feeling in all bones, when slumbering or sitting still. Bruised pain in morning after rising, < during motion, especially in back, with tearing in shoulders and nape. Contracted feeling in whole body, in morning, so that walking was difficult, > long walking. Orgasm of blood; with anxiety. Sudden faintness after dinner, when taking exercise in open air, with weakness. Weakness mornings. Weakness, inactivity, general depression (in fever). Weakness, with constriction of throat and difficult respiration. Amelioration in open air. Coffee restricts the action of the drug.

Clinical.—The mucous secretions are generally increased; free in the air passages; cover the stool; profuse leucorrhæas; free discharge from nose, etc.

Mind.—Excitement when talking on an important subject. Anxiety, sometimes with weeping; anxiety, with melancholy. Irritable, peevish and easily frightened; irritable and peevish in forenoon, > after dinner; peevish in morning, and confused, as if she had not slept enough. Ill-humored in evening, absorbed in her thoughts and can scarcely be induced to speak. Antipathy to certain persons. Timidity. Seriousness.

Head.—Stitches, in the house, especially in l. side, with pressure. Aching. Confusion as after intoxication. Heaviness; after rising. Vertigo, with fullness and heaviness; V. in morning, > open air, with confusion; V. as if she would fall to one side, < motion, > open air (Kali c.).

Forehead.—Sudden fine stitches in l. in afternoon. Tearing when sitting. Boring. Aching; throbbing aching in evening, < touch, with weakness, so that he can scarcely walk, and chills on going to bed. Pressure in morning, after an uneasy night, with heat there; pressure downward towards root of nose, morning after rising, with sensation as if the brain were torn. Heaviness in front of; H., with internal heat and sweat.

Temples.—Stitches in l. in forenoon. Tearing in r., extending into side of face; fine tearing upward in r. bone during menses; sudden tearing upward in r. in forenoon. Burning pain in l., and sometimes stitches. Painful twitches upward in l.

Vertex.—Stitches on stooping from 3 to 6 P.M.; stitches in morning, with sensation as if head were bursting. Pain as if head were broken in two.

Side.—Fine stitches in l., in forenoon. Tearing in upper part of r., while sitting.

Occiput.—Compression as from a vise, then in sides of head, with ill humor. Pinching in a spot on l. side in forenoon.

Scalp.—Itching. Itching pimples on r. side of occiput in evening, > at night.

Eyes.—Pain. Sensation as if a body were rising in l., forenoons, preventing vision. Burning in morning after rising, if she looks at the light; in evening, and closing as from sleep, > by light; at night, with lachrymation; of r., continuing long in open air. Twitching of l., > long rubbing. Lachrymation morning after rising. Tearing in balls. Twitching in l. ball, > rubbing.

Lids.—Agglutination in morning on waking, with burning in canthi after washing. Twitching of lower, < l. Tearing in external canthus. Burning in canthi; morning, < looking at the light, > washing.

Vesicle in white. Redness of white, with itching of eyes. Tearing in upper border of r. in afternoon, while sitting, first <, then > by pressure. Hammering over margin of r. orbit in morning, or sensation as if a large body were pushing there. Vision misty in morning, > washing; she distinguishes nothing in the open air, even in the sunlight, sees better in the house. Yellow spots when sewing and when looking out the window into the garden. Eyes weak, glassy, watery.

Ears.—Fine stitches in l. in afternoon in open air; S. inward in r. when walking in open air, then burning extending outward from l.; outward from r., also as with an awl; fine, outward in l. when walking in open air. Boring and stitching outward from r. Boring twitching in r. Clawing and tearing in r. Twisting in l. and behind it, where there is a moist herpes. Burrowing and turmoil in r. on which he lay at night, as if something would come out. Tickling in r. Itching in both, with discharge of liquid wax. Grumbling and thundering noise in r. when sitting and at night, with pulsations.

Nose.—External swelling of l. side, then discharge of bloody crusts. Mucous membrane of nose and lips destroyed. Sore on the inside and around margins of nostrils. Ulcerative pain in l. nostril, < touch. Obstruction at night, with pain at r. nasal fossa; l. nostril stopped by mucus, > blowing. Itching in nose, with desire to blow it, sensation as if a large, rough body were sticking high up, and obstruction. Sensation in upper part as before a cold. Sneezing frequently; without a cold, rousing from sleep, with crawling in throat, causing cough and salivation.

Clear water running from nose and corroding lips.

Coryza, with eruptions in nostrils; C., with obstruction of nose and loss of smell; with obstructed feeling and difficult discharge of much mucus; dry, but clear water runs out of nose; at one nostril, out of which runs thick, yellow matter, with tearing in cheek-bone and teeth of l. side. Brown blood with the mucus on blowing. Bleeding, morning on washing face; B. from l. nostril, with relief of the itching. Bloody froth from nose and mouth.

Clinical.—Coryza, with acrid, watery discharge, ulcerative pain in nostril, nose very sore to touch. Discharge scalding hot, also with cold feeling between shoulders. Loss of smell.

Face.—Pallor. Distortion, expression of anxiety. Swelling of cheek, with enlargement of a gland below r. angle of jaw, with throbbing and lancinating pain. Tearing in bones of r. side, evening while sitting; in l. malar-bone; in r. malar-bone in forenoon, extending into temples; in cheeks in evening, alternating with tearing in sides of neck. Twitching pains in a spot in r. upper part, in forenoon, > during touch. Tearing stitches in r. side of chin. Tearing in l. lower jaw, then in upper incisors. Drawing in lower jaw. Lips chapped; dry, wrinkled and chapped, she had to moisten them constantly with the tongue; itching, pimples around upper; blisters on upper, becoming inflamed and ulcerated; excoriated spot on r. side of upper, with burning soreness; contracted, with greasy feeling; burning; burning stinging of upper.

Mouth.—Teeth, tearing; in all at 8 P.M., > in bed; in upper, evening in bed, r., then l.; in a decayed root of l. upper, in afternoon when sitting, > pressure. Stinging in upper incisors. Swelling of gums of lower back teeth, with stitches extending to l. temple. Tongue white; coated more than usual on rising; coated white; white mucous coat in spots on tongue and mouth, like a false membrane; vesicles at tip, with burning pain; burning vesicles at tip. Could scarcely speak and complained of burning pain in throat and chest. Taste bitter, also in morning, > after eating, with frequent bitter eructations; bitter, during the anxiety, with nauseating bitter eructations; sourish, also morning on waking; pappy, morning after rising; disagreeable, with salivation.

Throat.—Swelling, external and internal, with pressive pain when swallowing, and drawing and stinging pain in the swollen submaxillary glands. Stinging; when yawning. Stinging raw sensation. Soreness, with rawness. Burning pain in throat and chest; with difficulty in speaking. Constriction, with difficult respiration. Roughness, > after dinner. Dryness. Itching, then expectoration of blood. Throbbing in tonsils, as if in an artery, with uneasiness and anxiety. Constant hawking from tickling in throat, without much expectoration. Hawking up mucus in morning. Hawking with expectoration of small pieces of mucus. Mucus difficult to hawk up. Mucus which he can neither swallow nor hawk up. Swallowing almost impossible.

Clinical.—Swelling of tonsils so that he can scarcely swallow, after taking cold.

Stomach.—Appetite capricious, sometimes lost, sometimes ravenous, with constipation or diarrhœa; want of; want of, in evening, with frequent yawning; none, yet he takes his usual food. Thirst; evening; before the chill, before 5 P.M.; satisfied only with lemonade; unquenchable, afternoons; absence of.

Eructations of air; of food; oppressive, tasting of ingesta; bitter; bitter in forenoon, with taste of food; of bitter, sour water in afternoon, the taste of which remained till she ate again. Hiccough; after dinner; frequent H. or bitter eructations, with the hiccough stitches in l. breast.

Nausea in attacks; N. in forenoon on walking in open air; after dinner, > eructations and in open air; after every dinner and supper, with waterbrash and horripilation; with oppression at stomach, yet inclination to eat.

Stinging at pit at 8 A.M., extending into r. axilla and muscles of r. upper arm, with burning. Heat in morning. Burning in afternoon, with pressure, becoming a stinging; burning towards pharynx, like heartburn. Gnawing; or grinding, as from worms. Grinding in morning, > after breakfast, with writhing. Pressure, with nausea. Sensation as if everything would turn around in forenoon on walking in open air, > by eructations, renewed while sitting, with necessity to go into the open air, where it disappeared, with disposition to waterbrash, nausea and vomiting. Emptiness or hunger; E. without desire for food; E., yet he can hardly persuade himself to eat. Sensation of fasting, yet it feels full, < after breakfast. Fulness in afternoon, with oppression. Drawing.

Abdomen.—Inflation in morning during and after a purge; in evening before menses, > emission of flatus; in evening, > by two stools, with tension of stomach. Rumbling; in afternoon; morning on waking, from fermentation in sides, extending to chest. Growling and noises, with emission of much flatus. Frequent emissions of flatus; loud emission; emission of offensive flatus, without sensation of flatus.

Cutting from 2 to 4 A.M.; at 7 P.M., extending to groins and small of back, > stool. Gripings, with motions; G. here and there in afternoon, without sensation of flatus. Pinching at every inspiration; P. before a loose stool; P. in abdomen and groins morning after rising, as before menses. Colic. Pain after diarrhœa; P. > stools. Soreness internally after morning diarrhœa, with pain as if beaten; sensation as if the intestines were turning around at 10.45 P.M. Painful pressure as with a hand in l. side. Weight, > sleep, with anxiety. Oppression. Fulness. Pressive tension in l. side near ring, as if something were pressing out. Drawing in side.

Burning pain in a spot in upper. Splenic stitches even when sitting. Stitches in l. hypochondriac region when spinning. Stitches in region of r. ribs in afternoon when walking, with burning. Pinching in hypochondria.

Umbilicus.—Rumbling around; then soft stool, with urging. Cutting around, in evening, with shooting. Gripping below, at 6 P.M. Grinding near, after dinner. Pinching to left of, while standing, < stooping; around, at 7 P.M., then two stools. Pain around, in afternoon, with five half-liquid stools; pain below, at 4 P.M., then usual stool, with stinging in anus. Discomfort below and to left of navel.

Pinching in lower, with gripping and dyspnoea. Intermittent gripping in lower, in forenoon. Pain in lower, with soft stool. Stitches over l. hip when sitting, and when stooping while standing.

Groin.—Sense of distention of l., becoming painful on sitting; D. of r., with a tensive sensation and grinding. Stitches in r. when sitting, coming out behind hip.

Tearing when walking, with tensive pain. Ulcerative pain in r. when walking. Cutting after 8 p.m., as far as small of back, with stitches and urging to urinate. Gripings in evening, afterwards extending to navel, > by a purge. Pain in r., often extending to hip and small of back. Sprained pain in l. obliging him to walk crooked. Burning in r. flank in afternoon when sitting.

Clinical.—Chronic congestion of the liver, with depression of spirits, stools coated with mucus.

Rectum and Anus.—Itching soreness of rectum with pustules by the side of it. Burning in rectum during and after soft stools (Mur. ac.). Burning in anus during soft stool (Mur. ac.). Itching in anus, > after nosebleed, with pressure. Hæmorrhoidal flux produced or increased. Tearing in perineum when walking. Stinging tearing in perineum in evening.

Stool.—Contained glassy, tough mucus. Covered with mucus. Green slimy diarrhœa mornings. Diarrhœa in morning; after every meal, with pain in abdomen, back, small of back and in limbs. Soft; at an unusual time; and frequent, also with much micturition; and profuse; yellow, with urging, then tenesmus and burning in rectum; next day none. Frequent, almost fluid, with mucus. Hard, crumbling, scanty, but after dinner the usual stool, then burning in anus (Mur. ac.). Hard, covered with mucus. Hard; first part, last part soft, also during menses, with straining, then burning in anus, then usual stool in afternoon. Of two small pieces, passed with pressure, then soft stool. No stool; for two days, with colic and sensation as if diarrhœa would come on.

Clinical.—Constipation, with hard, crumbly stool, or the fæces are covered with glairy mucus. Chronic diarrhœa during menstruation, green mucous stools; sometimes diarrhœa alternates with constipation.

Urinary Organs.—Pinching in bladder when lying, as far as urethra, with stitching. Tenesmus of bladder after 4 a.m. Urging to urinate at 10 a.m. Desire to urinate, with emission of only a few drops, then micturition with the stool. Micturition frequent and copious at night; frequent in morning; M. slow. Urine copious; at night, before menses; C., strongly ammoniacal; with a stale smell. Urine diminished in amount; and in frequency. Urine hot and copious. Urine bright yellow, saturated, with a loose cloudy sediment. Turbid, with urates on cooling. Clayey sediment.

Sexual Organs.—Erection at 8 a.m.; morning in bed; frequent, with little desire. Stitches in l. spermatic cord, with beating. In female genital organs sensation in morning as after an embrace. Leucorrhœa, with distention of abdomen; L. like the white of an egg after pinching around navel; brown, slimy L. after micturition. Menses too soon; with pain in abdomen and small of back, flow more profuse at night. Discharge of a quantity of blood with the stool during menses.

Clinical.—Many abdominal symptoms during menstruation and pregnancy, constipation as above, liver swollen and sensitive, with jaundice, flatulent distention of abdomen. Menstruation too early and free, flows more at night. During pregnancy pain in l. side of abdomen as if sprained.

Respiratory Organs.—Irritation in morning, causing hawking, with expectoration of a piece of mucus and a raw sensation, then soreness behind uvula. Hoarse- ness in afternoon, with burning in region of larynx. Aphonia.

Cough when breathing deeply, < lying on r. side. Dry; in morning, also with sticking in fore part of chest; from 6 to 9 p.m., from tickling in throat, > after lying down; at night, preventing sleep; dry mornings, loosens in afternoon, most frequently with sticking in l. hypochondrium; dry hacking, also from tickling in throat, which continues when not coughing, in forenoon. Violent cough at 10 p.m. in bed, during which water comes into her mouth. Cough, with expectoration; in morning; C. during the day, with hawking and expectoration of mucus; C. at night when lying on back, loose, with sticking in l. middle false ribs, extending to last false ribs and preventing "coughing out," < turning on to side. Expectoration of tough mucus in afternoon.

Desire to breathe deeply and to cough long, with slight expectoration. Short breath. Suffocation threatened. Breath lost when walking, obliged to breathe deeply but slowly.

Clinical.—Pulmonary catarrh, with hacking, scraping cough; cough < by lying on back or r. side. The dry cough, with stitches in chest, may become loose in the afternoon or at night. Profuse expectoration, with rattling of mucus in old people, with coldness between the shoulders.

Chest.—Rattling. Stitches in middle of l. rib region; behind r. ribs on motion; below r. breast during menses; below r. female breast in afternoon when sitting bent; below l. female breast while standing; in fore part in afternoon, > sitting; in fore part in afternoon and next morning, with pressure; sudden fine, come out of l. in forenoon; rhythmical, in l. in evening while sitting; upward, as with an awl, in l., afternoons with every inspiration; tearing, in a spot in l. clavicle, with bruised pain on touch. Tearing in a spot in l. clavicle, with bruised pain on pressure. Bruised pain beneath r. breast, frequently intermittent, also often with short breath. Pressure in fore part in evening; upon l. mamma when taking exercise in open air, and in l. side of chest on going from warm room into open air; in middle, in afternoon, with stitches, as if a morsel stuck there.

Heaviness when walking in open air; at night, waking him, with restlessness, which prevents sleep, this heaviness awoke him again at 3 a.m., he was kept in a half-sleep, in which he was partly conscious and dreamed that he had been hanged and the chest had been hard pressed. Oppression in morning after rising, > eructations, which came on in open air; when moving arms forcibly and when stooping; like a dry catarrh. Tightness on respiration. Painful tension under r. mamma, frequently intermittent, after dinner. Tension or compression as with a vise in front at lower part, when standing.

Rawness at 8 p.m. Sticking crawling in l. when sitting. Burning spot when walking in open air; burning spot on r. side. Beating after dinner, extending to pharynx, with heat in face and uneasy mood; B. like a pulse in a spot in l. cavity, morning when standing.

Clinical.—In catarrhal pneumonia of children, with ropy, tenacious expectoration.

Heart and Pulse.—Tearing in præcordial region, extending suddenly into l. forearm. Pulse intermittent; weak, irregular, rapid; small, soft, rapid.

Neck.—Swelling of cervical glands. Tearing stitches in neck and l. clavicle on moving head. Tearing in cords of l. side; intermittent, in cords of r. side, during menses; in sides in evening, alternating with tearing in cheeks. Throbbing in glands, with flushes of heat and want of air in throat. Stiffness, with pain on turning it, from nape to between shoulders. Tension in nape at 10 P.M., > after lying down, with stiffness. Drawing in tendons of nape.

Back.—Aching at 10 A.M., during menses, then weakness of thighs. Pain when sitting, > motion, with compression as from a vise. Bruised pain, < lying upon it; bruised pain at night, < lying upon it. Sprained and bruised pain in r. side, extending to middle ribs and axilla, waking at night, on turning the body, stretching arms, sneezing, yawning and breathing. Tension, preceded by itching of l. scapula.

Stitches in l. scapula during rest; S. in l. scapula, < lowering shoulder and turning the trunk to the left. Pinching in flesh of r. scapula. Pain between scapulae as from a wrench or bruise, or as if muscles were stretched asunder. Drawing, and pressing inward in middle lumbar vertebrae, forcing him to stretch the abdomen forward.

Small of Back.—Pain when rising after stooping; waking at night; when walking, so that she could not walk straight; with incarceration of flatus; from 1 till 4 A.M., with paralytic pain in hips and in external surface above knee, and the parts were still painful to touch the next forenoon. Pain as if shattered; as if beaten and shattered, waking between 11 and 12 P.M., with necessity to turn constantly, the pain lasting till 1 P.M. next day. Bruised pain at night; at night, so that she can hardly lie; in afternoon while spinning, > after motion. Painful stiffness, even when sitting, > raising the body erect. Sensation as if something elastic like air were pressing out, in forenoon, after yawning.

Bruised pain in coccyx when sitting, < when slumbering.

Extremities.—Shooting and tearing in tips of fingers and toes, then in r. upper arm, now here, now there, 6 to 10 P.M., > after lying down, with anxiety. Tearing in l. arm and foot; in fingers and toes at 8 P.M. on spinning, > by lying; now here, now there, evening when sitting, > after lying down. Stinging in tips of fingers and toes in afternoon when walking in open air. Stinging, jerking and crawling in tips of fingers and toes from 1 to 2 P.M. Burning crawling when standing, now in tips of fingers, now in tips of toes, as if they would go to sleep. Weakness. R. more affected than l.

Clinical.—This drug has been used in the treatment of chronic sprains. It is one of the remedies when there is contraction of the hamstring tendons, which seem tight when walking, > by continued motion. Cures sciatica; the pains < by sitting, somewhat > by walking, entirely > by lying. It has been used for the neuralgic pains in stumps of amputated limbs. It is useful for tearing, stitching pains from ulceration in heels, < at night in bed, > by rubbing.

Upper Extremities.—Shoulder. Tearing on waking before midnight. Rheumatic pain in joint on motion, r., then l. Burning in r., with pressure. Throbbing in r., as with a finger, morning in bed, and during the day. Drawing in joint, as after a cold, in afternoon at rest.

Axilla.—Swollen gland, resembling a hard, red ulcer, which separated constantly into parts, like a large pimple. Rapid intermittent throbbing in l., while sitting.

Arm.—Tearing in l., as if in tendons, extending into fingers, > motion. Heaviness and rigid feeling in r. in evening when spinning.

Upper Arm.—Tearing in middle, in afternoon, with sensitiveness of arm to pressure; T., below shoulder-joint, as if in the marrow, as far as wrist, in afternoon. Compression in l. when leaning it against the table, > motion of arm. R. seems paralyzed and rigid in morning.

Forearm.—Pressure in l., in bed, > motion, renewed by leaning arm upon the table when writing. Drawing from r. elbow to little finger, in afternoon, becoming a tearing, > motion. Heaviness and feeling as if asleep in r., in afternoon.

Wrist.—Tearing in tendons of internal surface of l., in afternoon; in tendons of internal surface of l., with twitching.

Hand.—Stitches in l., < motion, with beating. Lincination through hollow of r., while walking in open air. Twitching, tearing behind l. thumb, with swelling. Sprained pain in dorsa, at lower ends of metacarpal bones, especially on last thumb-joint, when seizing something, afternoons, > extending hand, when pressing on the thumb-joint the pain passes off with a cracking sound. Beating in r. palm, as with a little hammer, > motion. Feeling of paralysis in r., and in first phalanx of r. middle finger, when sitting and knitting.

Fingers.—Twitching. Tearing and stitches in various places, here and there, > pressure and rubbing. Cramplike pain in middle phalanx of r. middle finger, as if in tendons, on bending fingers inward. Painful throbbing under l. thumb-nail from 1 to 5 P.M. Aching in first joint of l. index on stretching it out while knitting, > bending it. Crawling in tip of r. thumb and index, as if going to sleep, in evening when sitting.

Lower Extremities.—Boring. Thigh. Twitching in l. popliteal region, on walking the cords seem too short, > long walking. Tearing in front of thigh when sitting; in external surface of r. in evening when sitting down; intermittent in l. hip, extending down thigh in afternoon when sitting, at first > by rising. Sticking on external surface of l. hip, at night from 12.30 till 2, > pressure, with copious passage of flatus, and it seems as if the pain were caused by flatus. Pain in l. hip as if tendons were too short, in forenoon, so that she limps, when sitting there is gnawing pain in bone. Hamstrings painful, as if too short when walking. Contraction about popliteal region, as if dried up or too short, morning on rising, so that she could not descend stairs, > by long and violent exercise.

Knee.—Stitches at 9 P.M. when sitting. Stinging in l. when walking in forenoon, then tearing.

Leg.—Trembling of l., with sensitiveness to touch. Slow fine stitches in inner surface below l. knee while sitting; stitches in l. calf when sitting; stinging in l. calf during rest after walking. Drawing tension when sitting or lying, obliging him to walk crooked, after which the symptoms pass off. Tension in tendons, with traction so that walking was difficult, with lassitude in legs. Spasmodic contraction around lower part of l. in forenoon. Weakness, > night. Insensibility of l. in afternoon when sitting (dead feeling).

Malleolus.—Spasmodic contraction or tearing below and around r. inner, when sitting. Throbbing as from an ulcer in l. outer; on walking, and in r. foot.

Foot.—Tearing in external border when standing, > motion. Heel, ulcerative pain in r., > vigorous rubbing; tearing in r. heel at 3 A.M., in bed, with ulcerative pain; sticking tearing in l. heel, and ulcerative pain; pain in bones of heels as if bruised and contracted when walking; spasmodic, painful contraction in r. heel evening in bed. Asleep sensation in r. foot at night, in l. next forenoon.

Toes.—Sticking in l. great, afternoons, slowly increasing and decreasing; fine S. in r. little on standing and walking. Tearing in l. great, while standing; in r. great, in afternoon while sitting; in external surface of r. great, while sitting.

Skin.—Red spots on l. side of chest, with burning itching, turning pale on pressure. Desquamation between thumbs and index fingers. Eruptions on face. Dry and tetery herpes on face. Rash over whole body. Miliary eruption (sudamina) after profuse sweat. Psoric eruption over greater part of back and lower limbs.

Deep-seated nodes around and below r. wrist, with itching, after scratching they burn, become inflamed and seem about to suppurate, but do not, with swelling, a reddish brown scurf on those which are much scratched. Pimples after itching and scratching, on fore part of forehead; on inner side of l. forearm. Itching pimple on external concha of r. ear; on r. forearm; on r. side of neck and on l. hand, in evening; on dorsa of hands in evening and at night, with desquamation of the itching places the next morning. Painful pimple on antihelix of r. ear. Sensitive and inflamed pimple on top of r. scapula.

Boil on r. side of abdomen; on l. shoulder, with tensive pain. Vesicle on l. side of face. Vesicles, with itching, then burning, on r. wrist; on front of chest and on l. leg. Tensive burning vesicles on r. shoulder, forming scurf. Vesicles on a hard base, on and about r. wrist, mostly on its upper surface, with itching, then burning, some becoming scurfy from scratching, inflamed for a long time, new ones appearing daily.

Crawling in tips of fingers and toes. Subcutaneous formation over whole body. Itching, now here, now there, over whole body, evenings before lying down; over whole body, > evening after lying down. Sensation as from flea-bites at spots on l. mamma in evening, > scratching.

Sleep.—Constant yawning in morning, without sleepiness. Sudden sleepiness at 6 P.M., > when light is brought into the room. Starting up in evening on falling asleep. Sleep restless; after midnight, with frequent waking and turning, amidst dreams. Sleepless after midnight; sleepless till towards morning; till 3 A.M., without cause; till 3 A.M., then sweat in morning on waking; sleepless night, with chilliness from 3 to 4 A.M., then heat, then sweat, all without thirst. Sleep full of dreams. Frightful dreams all night. Lewd dreams.

Fever.—Chilliness evenings after lying down and as often as she wakes, without thirst; evenings after lying down and all night. Cold feet evening in bed; coldness of feet prevents sleep till midnight. Coldness from 7 till 9 P.M., with thirst; chilliness at 6 P.M., > lying down, with thirst; < evening and night, with shivering; in evening, coldness running down back; creeping between skin and flesh. Shivering creeping over her at 5 P.M. Coldness in back and between shoulders, at the spot of a previous pain, only internal, the coldness ending in itching. Chilliness at 5.30 P.M., then sweat before midnight. C. and shivering at 6 P.M., and next morning at 7, then sweat in bed, all without thirst. C. alternating with heat, then sweat in evening. Intermitent fever, paroxysm of cold, heat and profuse sweat. Fever paroxysms begin with chill and heat and end with sweat.

More heat than coldness. Heat in face, > open air. Heat on r. side of head every evening; in head before midnight, preventing sleep; in head in morning after rising, with fulness; creeping over head; flushing, in head in afternoon; dry, in head on entering room, then thirst in evening. Heat in evening, without thirst; in forenoon, thirst in morning after rising; H. in afternoon, with sweat, then thirst. Attacks of fever, then chills and heat, with bloated red face, and thirst during the chills and heat. Heat in palms, soles and face in evening after lying down, with thirst, then sweat. H. over whole body when exercising in open air, with redness of face and sweat; over whole body in a warm room and after quick motion, with redness of face and stinging heat, especially externally over chest; in whole body as if sweat would break out; at night in bed, then sweat in morning. Frequent flashes of heat, then sweat. Hot sensation after rising, with sweat of hands and odorous sweat of feet. Hot hands.

Sweat after midnight; S. on every exertion; general, nights; profuse; profuse morning in bed, without previous heat or chill.

Clinical.—Cold feeling between shoulders.

Ammonium Phosphoricum.

Clinical.—It has been used successfully in some cases of nodosities of the joints of the fingers and backs of the hands, and also for chronic bronchitis in patients suffering from chronic rheumatic gout. It has also been used with success in facial paralysis.

Ammonium Picrate.

Clinical.—Periodical neuralgia in r. side of occiput, boring extending to the ear, orbit and jaw, vertigo on rising, especially in irregular menstruation.

Amyl Nitrosam.

A yellow ethereal liquid ($C_5H_{11}NO_2$). It is dissolved in alcohol for internal use.

General Action.—A direct and powerful dilator of arterioles and capillaries, causing flushing of upper part of body, with rapid tumultuous action of heart. Action rapid, evanescent.

Relatives.—Glon., Cactus, Mellilotus, etc.

Generalities.—Stiffness as after taking cold. Restlessness. Uncertain trembling sensation over whole body. Tingling in different parts. Numb feeling along the arteries after the weakness had passed off. Weakness; with tendency to perspire on slight exertion. Muscles generally seemed relaxed and heavy, causing sensation of unsteadiness while walking. All symptoms ameliorated by exercise in open air (Glon.).

Clinical.—Temporarily relieved epileptiform convulsions. Hysterical symptoms, with flushes, profuse menstruation, etc.

Mind.—Anxiety as if something might happen (Mosch.), must have fresh air. Oblivious of recent conversation.

Stupefaction, with flushing of face and scalp, sudden smarting of conjunctivæ, injection of ocular conjunctivæ, dim vision as through a film, smartings in præcordial region, then r. renal region, then r. axilla, then mid-sternum, then lumbar region, then lower lobe of r. lung, at apex of heart, and in lower lobe of l. lung, with tenderness on pressure, increasing dyspnœa, sneezings, nasal catarrh and sighing, pulse 68, small and feeble, smartings changing position rapidly, being most persistent in eyes, bases of lungs and spine, then gaspings.

Head.—Aching; morning on rising, with nausea; from violent exercise, afterwards heat of room caused the headache to extend from temple to occiput, < l. side and remained long in occiput. Heavy aching. Crushing pain upon head, that gathered into a feeling of confusion, threatening to make him unconscious, with throbbing in head, glowing of face, general sweat, < palms, and sensation as if scalp were jerked from occiput towards forehead, ceasing just before it reached that point, then dull headache.

Feeling of a band about (Acon., Gels.). Heaviness. Intoxicated feeling. Surging of blood to head and face (Bell., Glon., Mellilot.). Fulness; with flushing of face, increasing to agony (Acon.), with palpitation, which shook the whole body, then sinking to the floor, then unconsciousness, with livid red color of face and eyes, followed by anaesthesia of second phalanges of l. middle and ring fingers.

Confusion; full confused feeling, mostly frontal, then throbbing and bursting sensation. Throbbing; and heat (Bell.). Throbbing, with bursting-out feeling in ears and constriction of throat and heart. Throbbing and fulness, then a confused weak feeling and a weight in top of head as if it would be crushed in. Vertigo; morning on rising; with heaviness of head; with nausea, also < when eyes are closed.

Forehead.—Aching. Fronto-orbital pain. Aching over eyes; as if a weight were within. Bursting pain. Heavy pain across in morning. Heaviness over eyebrows. Heaviness in forehead, head would fall to one side, then the other. Heaviness and pressure outward in forehead and temples, with a stupid, drowsy sensation and burning in stomach extending up to throat. Oppression in fronto-parietal suture, then proceeding to frontal bone. Dull feeling. Humming.

Temples.—Aching; r. Throbbing (Glon., Chin.). Pressure outward while walking, < l., with heavy pain in occipital region, extending to nape.

Vertex.—Sensation of something rushing upward and throbbing in. Throbbing, and in carotids, with redness and heat in face, head and neck. Humming.

Parietals.—Aching in l. Constriction as if pressed in. Dull throbbing in sides and back of head.

Occiput.—Boring. Aching; r.; < r.; < heat of room and writing, > when forehead was painful; sub-occipital aching, < fatigue and evenings. Throbbing.

Clinical.—Valuable for violent neuralgic headaches, with great flushing of the face, gasping for breath, tremulousness, dyspnœa, or alternating paleness and coldness of the face, especially of one side. Sometimes useful in the results of sunstroke with the characteristic surging of the blood to the head and face, oppressed respiration, staring eyes, choking in throat.

Eyes.—Glassy and rolling vacantly. Arteries of optic disk small, while veins were dilated, varicose and tortuous. Pain in sunlight, with lachrymation, then sneezing, weakness. Sudden sharp pain under l.

Smarting of balls in evening, with injection of conjunctivæ. Pupils dilated. Twitching under l. outer canthus. Conjunctivæ bloodshot. Pain back of eye on looking at near objects. Vision dim; blurred when reading; wavering; yellow; primrose halo, even with eyes closed and shaded.

Clinical.—Exophthalmic goitre, the result of grief, with the characteristic flushings of the drug, enlarged thyroid gland, irregular, tumultuous action of heart, dyspnœa.

Ears.—Throbbing; behind ear. Sensation of a piston working up and down in. Sensation as if membrana tympani would be forced out with each beat of heart.

Nose.—Pressure over root. Numb feeling in bones. Sneezing; after rising; constant desire for. Bleeding from l. nostril.

Face.—Flushed; then turgidity of facial veins; then pale. Grayish white. Sensation as if blood would start through skin, with heat and redness, and with lachrymation. Creeping in l. cheek; r. cheek below malar-bone, then twitching and creeping under l. eye. Venosion of lips, nostrils, etc.

Mouth.—Wide open.

Throat.—Swelling and inflammation of l. tonsil. Collar seemed too tight. Constriction; > motion; on each side of trachea, along carotids; extended to chest and caused dyspnœa and asthmatic feeling in larynx and trachea, with desire to eructate. Sensation as from fumes of a match, with desire to cough. Tickling. Dry sensation in throat and mouth at 5 A.M., on waking, with stiffness and dryness of lips.

Stomach.—Appetite lost. Eructations. Nausea. Crampy pain in epigastric region. Burning; with empty eructations. Fulness and pressure, with belching of gas. Discomfort.

Abdomen.—Rumbling. Stool, with rumbling, then empty feeling. Distention, with pain. Gripping. Pain, < when lying down. Oppression near liver. Gripping in umbilical region. Crampy pain in umbilical region. Contraction of muscles of lower A. as if drawn together over region of uterus, with hard feeling on pressure in region of uterus, fallopian tubes and ovaries.

Urine.—Acid, contained a cloud of an oxalate (probably lime), with traces of sugar, specific gravity increased.

Menstrual flow begins at once, but ceases when no longer under influence of drug.

Clinical.—Effects of suppression of the menses, or after the cessation of menses, flushing headache or general flushes over the face and upper part of the body. Said to be valuable in hour-glass contraction of the uterus and hæmorrhages from the uterus. Valuable for after-pains which are associated with flushing of the face.

Respiratory Organs.—Cough; inclination to, with indescribable feeling of fulness about chest; hacking. Respiration accelerated. Peculiar sensation of choking. Suffocated feeling from palpitation. Dyspnœa with inclination to cough. Respiration difficult and rapid, with feeling of weight on sternum. Respiration spasmodic and irregular, a few breaths very rapid, then slow and long-drawn, finally they became barely perceptible. Sighing; desire to sigh convulsively. Easier and deeper, apparently from dilatation of bronchi.

Clinical.—Cough, spasmodic, suffocative, with great oppression of chest. Dyspnœa of Bright's disease.

Chest.—Aching in r. Drawing pain in l., between seventh and ninth ribs. Peculiar sensation in r. lung or chest, not exactly a pain. Oppression on walking; especially at lower part of sternum; at end of sternum on descending stairs. Contraction at left of heart. Warmth in.

Heart.—Præcordial anxiety (Acon., Cact.). Stitching and constriction in cardiac region. Pain in region of heart, > eructations; pain in region of, extending round to back; pain and constriction around (Cact.). Constriction and pressure over præcordial region as if he wanted to rub it. Cardiac oppression and tumultuous heart action. Marked beating of heart and carotids. Palpitation; after exercise, action accelerated. Blood pressure diminished. Pulse rapid; and small, then full; and irregular; irregular and jerking, then so slow and feeble that it could not be detected at the wrist; slow and strong, then quicker and jerking; pulse distinctly felt in fingers (Glon.).

Clinical.—Heart. Cardiac oppression, tumultuous action of the heart, violent pulsation in carotids. A valuable palliative in hypertrophy of the heart, with insufficiency of the aortic valves.

Neck.—Stiffness and pain, neuralgic or rheumatic, in r. side, and in r. shoulder, extending to chest. Aching in morning, moving to suboccipital region.

Back.—Twinges near dorsal vertebrae. Aching across loins; on waking and lying down at night; < fatigue and evening. Aching in r. renal region. Pain and weariness in lower lumbar region in morning.

Extremities.—Trembling, with feeling of weakness. Shifting pains caused by movement, on dorsal surface of r. hand, on l. patella and from l. thumb to axilla. Rheumatic pain in l. leg and knee, then soreness of r. arm and shoulder, then lameness of r. scapula. Soreness of extensor muscles. Uneasy feeling. Tired.

Discomfort in r. shoulder. Arms trembling; pain and stiffness of r. arm, especially near wrist, < motion; lameness of flexor muscles of r. arm. Tremulousness of hands, with stiffness and numbness of fingers. Hand tired when writing, with crampy feeling in wrist and thumb, and the thumb grasps the pen so tightly that it is difficult to guide it. Drawing tensive pain in l. wrist and fingers.

Lower extremities stiff. Sharp pain in l. calf.

Sleep.—Drowsiness; and confusion; overpowering. Sleep restless, full of anxious dreams, frequent waking, with aching in temples, stomach and abdomen.

Fever.—Chill creeping over back and sides. Cold and clammy skin, suffused with adhesive perspiration supersaturated with Amyl. Heat. Heat about head; with throbbing; and along œsophagus to stomach. Heat of face; with redness. Burning of r. cheek, extending into eye and around r. ear. Heat in l. ear. Warmth of neck. Sweat; profuse, with cold chills running down back; on forehead; on hands, with warm feeling of head and body, especially abdomen.

Anacardium.

The marking nut, Semecarpus Anacardium, a native of the East Indies, is a small tree belonging to the Anacardiaceæ. A tincture is prepared from the crushed seeds.

General Action.—Essentially similar to Rhus tox. The mental symptoms are very pronounced and characteristic: the characteristic sensation is that of a "plug."

Allies.—Anacardium occidentale (the cashew nut), Rhus, Ailanthus, Comocladia, Nit. acid, Merc.

Generalities.—Emaciation. Startings when awake in evening in bed. Trembling from weakness at every motion. Motions more energetic and persevering, muscles contract more vigorously, but on motion the fibres seem stretched too much or as if there were not sufficient fluid in the joints. Indolence; after siesta, so that he can scarcely move his limbs, and loathes speaking.

Stitches externally at several places, pectoral muscles, forehead, wrist, etc. Aching internally in whole body; in all tendons, so that he cannot walk and sinks down; like a boil in affected parts, so that he dare not touch them; burning in affected parts. Bruised sensation in all bones, morning in bed, with stiffness of nape of neck and small of back, and headache in forehead and temples, all > rising (Rhus t.). Drawing and pressive pain in almost all parts. Drawing in abdomen and thighs, with subsequent burning, then pain in bones on touch, so that she cannot fall asleep.

Uneasiness every other night, so that he could scarcely sleep; feverish, in afternoon, as during a cold, with faintness and tremor of limbs. Weakness after eating; W. during a short walk; after a short walk; so that he wants to sit or lie all the time. Firidness on ascending stairs; when walking, > continued walking, with heaviness of feet. Dulness of senses, with confusion of head and prostration. Heaviness in morning, with disinclination to rise; H. and fullness of body from playing on piano. (Any part which he does not move immediately goes to sleep). Paralysis of some parts. Panting, languishing condition, like paralysis, in afternoon after a short walk. Disappearance of most symptoms during dinner, but reappearance of them two hours afterwards. Periodicity in appearance of symptoms, the attacks ceasing for one or two days and then continuing again for a couple of days. Open air is unpleasant to him and feels too rough.

Clinical.—Alcoholism, restlessness, sleeplessness, twitching of muscles, he hears voices saying that he is going to die. It has been found useful in injuries of tendons and in chronic rheumatic troubles.

Mind.—Labor is difficult, like absentmindedness. Stupidity; after waking. Vanishing of thought. Deficiency of ideas and loss of his subject without knowing it. Weakness of understanding. Loss of comprehension in morning, with confusion and emptiness of head. Confusion of the present with the future; C. as if a cold were coming on. Dreamy state day and night, without sleeping, with anxiety about his business. Memory weak (Merc., Nit. ac., Rhus t.); in morning, especially as regards single names; < forenoon; in afternoon, with diminution of imagination; confused; lost, with impaired speech; vivid. Animation and liking for acute analysis, but every effort of this kind causes tearing pressive headache in forehead, temples and occiput.

He constantly thinks of some new object to which the mind forcibly clings. Excitement of fancy from 9 to 10 p.m., with many projects, but without ability to control his attention, and the mind gradually becomes dull, so that he is without ideas. Illusions of fancy, with apprehension; melancholy I. that he or his friend is lying on a bier in the side room.

He is separated from the whole world and despises of being able to do what is required of him. Dread of labor. Disinclination to read in the morning. Despondency.

Anxiety (Rhus t.); in evening; about every trifle; with dulness of senses; as if pursued, with suspicion of everything around him (Merc.), when standing and walking; A. driving him out of bed. Anxious actions and imagination that he is surrounded by enemies, then warmth and boiling of blood. Apprehension; in evening; A. when meditating upon his destiny, with thoughtfulness. Lack of confidence in his own strength. Sadness; after eating; S. in forenoon, with awkwardness and indolence.

Excessive anger at a slight offense, breaking out in personal violence. Irritability; with desire to go into the open air; irritable and contradicting. Takes everything in bad part and becomes violent. Great susceptibility to insults. Impatience and activity; I. with the play of his children, which usually pleased him. Indifference. Listlessness in morning. Irresolution, awkwardness and querulousness. Laughing when he should be serious. Great cheerfulness; and more disposed to work in afternoon, as soon as the sleepiness after dinner is past.

Clinical.—Loss of memory, with melancholia, great difficulty in collecting the thoughts; the weakness of memory and mental depression have been relieved in syphilitic patients, but without marked relief of the general syphilitic symptoms. Melancholia, with fixed ideas of demons. At times inclination to swear; or the idea that he is possessed of two persons or wills. Fears that he is pursued or suspected. In general it cures a great variety of troubles associated with profound melancholy and hypochondriasis, associated with complete loss of memory, or with tendency to use violent language. Extremely valuable for brain fag.

Head.—Swelling. Twitchings from behind forward, reaching across l. side of vertex and forehead. Tearing during hard labor; T., returning every third day, with chills in whole body, low spirits and restlessness. Aching; < motion; with stitches in l. temple; occasionally; grinding in evening; stupefying, especially in forehead, exciting vertigo, so that he threatened to fall to the left when sitting; throbbing. Pressure inward in small places. Bruised feeling on waking from vivid dreams; in brain from mental effort. Confusion; in morning after rising, with heaviness; painful, when he lies in an uncomfortable position. Heaviness. Vertigo; afternoon after a walk; with blackness before eyes; as if turning in a circle, on stooping; as if all objects were too distant, when walking; as after spirituous drinks.

Forehead.—Stitches when coughing, or in side of head; tearing S. over r. eye. Pinching in fore part of head, with tearings towards forehead. Grinding in r. half of fore part of head, especially along the border of the orbit, > strong pressure and when eating, with pain as if a heavy load were forced in, the pain being > in evening when lying with the painful spot on the arm. Compression and dull pressure below l. eminence. Aching in morning; A. in angle between frontal and nasal bones; in centre of forehead, gradually extending deeper and over whole front of head, in evening; drawing, and in occiput and l. vertex; constrictive, from 5 P.M. till morning, with peevishness and a grinding pain, which is > by strong pressure, afterwards extending to whole head, with painful feeling of a band reaching from nape to ears; constrictive A. in r. side, especially at external border of orbit. Pressure from without over l. brow; outward at r. side; coming out at r. eminence; as if brain were shaken, every morning on waking, < walking. Painful confusion, extending to root of nose. Soreness.

Temples.—Twitchings in head in front of l. ear. Stitches in l., with jerking tearings; S., drawing from temple into forehead, when breathing. Tearing in l.; in brain, just above r.; piercing and biting, extending into brain. Neuralgia in r. Pressure in r.; inward in l.; inward, > towards evening, with squeezing in temples and constriction in vertex; tearing, in l. Compression in both.

Vertex.—Pressure as from a plug on l. side. Aching when coughing or inspiring deeply.

Sides.—Stitches through l., extending deep into brain; incipient tremulous S. in upper part of l. Tearing in r. side of head, face and neck, then humming before l. ear. Pressure in r., changing to stitches; P. in r., interrupted by stitches. Drawing pain in l. Confusion in l., then r.

Occiput.—Twitching shoots and tearing, < bending head backward, and in temples. Tearing in successive attacks, reaching to temple; T. in lower part of r., extending to forehead. Aching in r.; during cough.

Scalp.—Boils, feeling sore when touched or scratched. Soreness at 4 P.M., or of dura mater. Itching.

Clinical.—The headaches are digging, throbbing in character, > by eating, but < by any attempt to use the mind or by overwork.

Eyes.—Rheumatic tearing in l. (more in lids), extending to temples. Pain. Pressure upon, < l., and in l. external canthus when looking long at one object. Tearing in balls and orbits, mornings when walking. Pressure in balls from before backward or from above downward. Sensation as of something between ball and upper lid, which caused rubbing, something seems to rub between ball and lower lid. Pupils dilated. Pupil contracted; r. contracted.

Lids.—Twitching. Swelling; l.; swollen feeling. Pressure below l. external canthus; as from a styte in r. inner canthus and neighboring tarsal cartilages. Pressure as with a plug on upper border of r. orbit, extending into brain, with stupefaction of whole side of head. Sensation as if a plug pressed in under upper border of orbits and touched the balls. Vision dim in evening, as if eyes were full of water, obliging winking. Flickering; of a flame, > looking steadily. Halo around light in evening. Sensitiveness to light. Short-sighted. Every object appeared a long way off on waking from a nap.

Ears.—Twitches in external. Stitches in l.; tearing S. in tip of l. antitragus. Tearing in l., extending down cheek; T. along upper border of r. cartilage; sticking T. in l. external; suppurative tearing and beating in cartilage and inner ear, < boring in with finger, and there arises a stopped feeling in meatus. Twinging in r. meatus. Painful twitchings in l. meatus as if a nerve were put on the stretch, or like electric shocks. Painful drawing in l. meatus internus. Cramplike pain in meatus externus. Cramplike contraction in l. meatus, with pressure against tympanum; cramplike contraction in l. concha.

Ulcerative pain when biting teeth together; when swallowing. Obstructed feeling, as from cotton, in l., with impaired hearing (verified clinically, < during storms). Itching in, with discharge of brownish matter. Tingling in r. Pressure upon external. Drawing pain behind l. Sensation behind ears as if the part would become sore, obliging rubbing. Roaring before. Humming. Hearing sometimes acute, sometimes feeble.

Clinical.—Deafness, with loss of memory.

Nose.—Red sore pustules in r. nostril, on septum. Pain as from too great cold, causing lachrymation, also in fore part. Bruised feeling in l. bone. Obstruction of posterior nares. Sneezing. Coryza; in evening; with inability to get warm, heat in head, coldness of hands and feet, afterwards dry heat, tension in tendons of legs, cramp of calves and uneasiness about heart; dry; fluent, with frequent sneezing and lachrymation. Bleeding after violent blowing. Illusory smell, as from burning tinder, morning on rising; like pigeon or chicken dung, < smelling his clothes or his own body; almost lost.

Face.—Pale. Swelling, beginning at the eyes. Look sickly, hollow-eyed, with blue rings around eyes. Squeezing in middle of cheeks. Pressure upon l. cheek-bone; P. extending upward upon l. side of chin, with external burning of chin. Drawing pain in r. cheek-bone. Twitching of mouth and fingers in sleep. Dryness of lips and their corners; burning dryness of external borders of lips. Drawing pain in lower jaw, < evening. Tearing in joints of jaws; T. in r. joint.

Mouth.—Teeth. Tearing in l.; intermittent T. Aching in a lower incisor as from stirring a tooth-pick in it, < contact of tongue and open air; jerking A., more pressive than drawing, on taking something warm into mouth; drawing, in roots and gums of l. lower molars; cramplike drawing, in r. lower, reaching to ear; tense and drawing, in a hollow molar, extending to ear, several days at 10 p.m. Elongated feeling at night in bed, with aching. Gums bleed on slight rubbing. Gums swell.

Tongue.—White and rough; heavy and swollen feeling. Difficulty in speaking certain words, as if tongue were too heavy. Speech firmer and surer in afternoon than in forenoon. Painful vesicles in mouth. Liquid comes into mouth and throat, causing nausea in chest. Bitter dryness. Taste bitter to bread; B. after smoking. Tobacco does not relish, it only causes biting. Everything tastes like herring-brine. Insipid taste; to beer; insipid, foul taste to food.

Throat.—Firm and tough mucus, at same time obstructing posterior nares. Stitches here and there externally. Slow thrusts coming from both sides of the ears and in their cavities, as if two blunt plugs were penetrating to meet in centre. Scraping. Roughness; after eating, with a deep tone to the voice. Rawness and soreness. Pressure in pit; on both sides of larynx, sometimes interfering with deglutition; sudden, in l. side. Dryness in forenoon, > eating; bitter D. Itching.

Stomach.—Appetite great, pressure at stomach and nausea unto vomiting, after eating; lost; lost for dinner, yet he relishes it; violent at times, none at all at other times. Thirst; after eating; constant T. Eructations in morning; after drinks and liquid food; after stool; with spasmodic pain at stomach; burning the throat, after eating; of fluid, choking him. Hiccough.

Nausea in morning; in morning, with a fasting sensation; towards evening, with salivation, then vomiting followed by great acidity in mouth; from food of which he is generally very fond; with retching, returning after drinking cold water, then vomiting of this water, with a sensation as if the œsophagus were pressed asunder by a large ball. Qualmishness at pit between meals, with anxiety as from a sprain, but without real nausea, and with good taste and good appetite.

Rumbling and fermenting in pit. Compressive stitches in pit, on inspiration and expiration. Contractive pain, > stooping, < lifting arm and turning body. Drawing and pressive pain below pit, when walking. Pressure after eating; from mental effort; in pit when walking in open air, > after eating, with drawing; after eating, with weakness and thirst; in pit after every meal, with tension; intermittent, over and near pit, when eating; slowly coming and going in pit; in region towards abdomen after a slight breakfast, as if he had eaten too much. Fasting sensation in pit, then pressure in stomach and feeling as of obstructed emission of flatus both above and below, with want of appetite. Burning rising into throat. Heartburn after soup, like sour air in œsophagus, with a constricted sensation. Shaking in pit at every step after eating. Tickling beneath pit, obliging laughing when occupied with serious things, but when occupied with ludicrous things he can refrain from laughing.

Clinical.—Morning sickness of pregnancy, relieved while eating, but the symptoms soon return.

Abdomen.—Inflation after dinner. Rumbling, with pinching. Flatus moving about, as from a purgative, after eating. Wavelike shooting, like lightning. Cutting and pinching, as from flatulence or cold, with tenesmus. Pinching. Griping; in morning. Pain more cutting than pinching, when flatus is incarcerated; P. as if intestines were spasmodically shortened, in forenoon on bending backward; as if something would twist together, then pressure; P. twisting and turning transversely across, with the tenesmus.

Hypochondriac dejection after a meal, there is pressure upward in abdomen, with weakness of body and mind. Stitches in region of spleen, seeming to be partly in chest and partly in abdominal cavity; S. in l. hypochondrium; S. sometimes in r., sometimes in l. hypochondrium, when inspiring; pulsating burning S. externally below r. short ribs; short stitches in muscles below l. short ribs. Pressure in liver region after eating.

Cutting suddenly once in r. side. Intermittent pressure outward over ring.

Umbilical region.—Rumbling. Stitches in cavity; S. on r. side over umbilicus; S. l. side; intermittent S. at umbilicus. Thrusts as from a blunt tool in r. Pressure in a small spot above and below U., and in l. side of abdomen; below U. after eating, < pressure and breathing; in muscles below umbilicus during stool, and especially after it, < inspiration; as if something hard had formed, with a sensation when breathing, speaking, and especially when coughing, as if the abdomen would burst, and when touched pain like a pressure and tension; around umbilicus as if a blunt plug were squeezed into intestines. Pinching contraction in l. when breathing.

Hypogastrium.—Stitches; deeply penetrating, at spinous processes of l. iliac bones. Pinching during stool. Griping.

Rectum and Anus.—Tenesmus, but he cannot expel anything, and the rectum seems plugged up; frequent T. during the day, without ability to expel anything. Urging to stool after eating, more in upper part of intestines; frequent urging, with scanty, first soft, then hard stools. Straining at stool, even when soft. Itching at anus; after an embrace.

Stool.—Diarrhœa at night, then constipation; frequent D., watery, but difficult. Pale. Frequent but difficult S. Constipation.

Clinical.—Stools very sluggish, the rectum seems plugged up; the attempt to have a stool causes distress in abdomen.

Urinary Organs.—Discharge of prostatic fluid after micturition; D. during stool. Constant desire to urinate; frequent desire, but little passes. Irritability of bladder. Micturition at night. Itching in urethra. Frequent, clear, watery urine, before breakfast; frequent, clear, watery urine, in small quantities. Dark green urine. Urine turbid when emitted, depositing a dirty sediment.

Sexual Organs.—Tearing in mons veneris. Cutting along penis. Desire; morning after waking; D. from voluptuous itching on scrotum; lack of D. Emission at night without amorous dreams.

Respiratory Organs.—Cough in morning; evening in bed, causing blood to rush to head; nightly, with rawness of throat; after dinner, with vomiting of food; < night; with vain desire to sneeze; resembling whooping-cough, whenever he talks; shaking, at night, preventing sleep; in severe attacks, with shivering; beginning with tickling in larynx and suffocation; periodical, only by day, with arrest of breathing; hacking, after eating, affecting throat as if it were raw; short, with purulent expectoration; short, < afternoon, with tenacious, gray-yellow expectoration. Expectoration of blood when coughing. Asthma. Short respiration, < after eating and when sitting; S., with oppression in region of sternum. Interrupted respiration when drinking.

Chest.—Twitching of pectoral muscle, when raising arm. Stitches; a hand's breadth below l. axilla; in upper part of l. mamma, preventing rising from her seat, afterwards a weight at that place; pulsating above heart; intermittent pulsating, close to l. side of throat; constrictive, externally at l. false ribs; corrosively itching, at last false rib. Tearing in l., reaching to heart, with pressure as if the whole were being crushed, < sitting bent.

Pressure upon part of r. border of sternum; P. on chest, < sitting, with fullness and desire to get rid of this symptom by vomiting; dull P., as from a plug, in r.; sudden P. close to r. axilla, and at the same time on opposite side of back; P. upon sternum, as from a blow, when falling asleep during the day; inward P. over r. nipple. Oppression; during expiration, with pressure upon sternum; with internal anxiety and heat; with weeping, which relieves it; extending towards axillæ, with difficulty of breathing. Oppressive anxiety in region of sternum, as if he must go into the open air and be busy. Drawing pain in muscles. Wavelike drawing in l. chest. Soreness in a spot behind sternum; S. in chest, < inspiration, with rawness.

Heart and Pulse.—Stitches in præcordial region when breathing; at night when breathing; in l. præcordial region, < breathing and walking; in præcordial region, extending to small of back; short, through and through heart, succeeding each other two by two. Cutting in præcordial region. Uneasiness apparently about heart;

< forenoon. Weak feeling, as if working too slowly. Pulse weak and accelerated. Slow P.

Clinical.—Palpitation, especially in old people, when complicated with such slight difficulties as an ordinary coryza, rheumatic affections of the pericardium. Rheumatic pericarditis, with double stitches through the cardiac region, one stitch is quickly followed by another, then there is a long interval.

Neck.—Cracking in cervical vertebrae when stooping. Intermittent pressure at angle formed by neck and top of l. shoulder; intermittent, as from a heavy burden, on r. side of neck and on top of l. shoulder, apparently in bone. Rheumatic drawing downward along nape.

Stiffness of nape; painful, in r. side of neck, mornings on waking after lying on that side, < turning head toward painful side; with tensive pain, < turning head quickly after keeping it still, less during constant motion; in nape, occiput and between scapulae on waking, with pressive tension; painful contractive, on l. side close to occiput, when at rest, not affected by motion.

Back.—Painful stiffness when raising oneself while sitting, > sitting bent.

Scapulae.—Cracking on raising arm. Stitches in external side of l.; in l., returning slowly and causing a tearing to extend to all sides; tearing, near r., extending outward. Tearing between scapulae. Intermittent thrusts externally in r. half of external surface of l. Pain in r., near spine, as from continually sitting bent. Neuralgic pain over r. Cramplike pressure inward, under and near scapulae; lancinating P. close under l. Bruised pain in r. scapula and upper arm, < lifting arm. Formication, or sensation as if asleep.

Small of Back.—Stitches.

Clinical.—Diseases of the spinal cord, sensation of a band around the body, feeling of a plug in the spine so that any motion of the body causes a pain as if the plug were sticking still further into the body, paralyzed feeling in knees, the patient is scarcely able to walk, feeling as if the knees were bandaged.

Extremities.—Paroxysmal tearings simultaneously through upper and lower. Neuralgia in region of outer metatarsal bone of l. foot and in fingers and knees. Heaviness in l. arm and leg when walking.

Upper Extremities.—Itching pricking below shoulders, > rubbing.

Arm.—Tearing in l., with drawing. Pressure in bones and muscles of r., with lassitude in them. Bruised feeling if he lies on them at night. Lancinating tension from joints down flexor muscles, on stretching and extending them, and on bending arms back there is a cracking in the joints, especially in shoulders, with pain as if dislocated. Rheumatic sensation in r. Pulsation when sitting quietly after they had been loosely crossed, and even in whole body (after exercise). Going to sleep of l.

Upper Arm.—Painful twitching above bend of l. elbow. Intermittent pressure, like a grumbling in l., apparently in marrow. Aching (spasmodically) in muscles in evening when walking in open air and when sitting. Rheumatic drawing pain from r. shoulder to bend of elbow, with stiff feeling in arm. Pulsation as with a heavy body in middle of l.

Elbow.—Pressure in bend of l., which draws the arm down and makes its motion difficult, when walking in the open air.

Forearm.—Cramplike twitches a hand's breadth above l. wrist. Cramplike pain in l. at night in bed, and in back of hand. Cramplike pressure in l., < pressure, becoming a tearing pressure on motion. Pressure inward here and there. Cramplike drawing in r., from wrist to elbow. Pressive drawing on upper surface of l. Aching in muscles when writing. Pressive scratchings on bone when at rest.

Wrist.—Twitches in flexor tendons.

Hand.—Stitches on back of l.; on external knuckle of r., with itching; burning S. in border of l. where little finger joins metacarpus; tearing S. in ball of r. Tearing on back. Cutting at metacarpal bone of r. index. Sprained feeling in metacarpal bone of r. little finger. Cramplike drawing in region of metacarpal bone of little finger. Cramplike contraction of l., so that she cannot straighten her finger.

Pain in palm on moving it; cramplike, where r. metacarpal bones join phalanges; cramplike, where l. index joins metacarpal bone; intermittent lancinating, cramplike, on l. border where little finger joins metacarpus; cramplike, twitching, in anterior extremities of metacarpal bones; pressive spasmodic, in muscles transversely across back of l.; grumbling, between metacarpal bones of l. index and middle fingers, just behind knuckles.

Fingers.—Cramplike twitches in lowest phalanges of l., synchronous with pulse. Tearings in little; in r. thumb, extending to elbow, as if a whitlow would form. Intermittent cramplike pain in lowest joints of r. thumb and index. Intermittent neuralgia in flexors of r. thumb, < pressure. Contractive lancinating pain in muscles of l. thumb, > motion and touch. Ticking itching in little, seemingly seated deeper than the flesh, evening after lying down. Numbness.

Lower Extremities.—Uneasiness when standing, as if they ought to be drawn up, with anxiety. Weariness, as from too much walking, with sleepiness.

Thigh.—Cracking in r. hip-joint on moving it while sitting. Twitchings and drawings, especially in and about knees, as after a long walk, with painful uneasiness when sitting, like a tremulous agitation. Boring stitch in muscles of lower part of r. in front; burning S. here and there in muscles, obliquing scratching; itching, in l., > rubbing. Sprained and bruised pain over r. hip when rising from a seat and when moving trunk while sitting, < then by rising, and compelling him to walk stooping.

Pressure at inner side of r. thigh, with twitching sensation; P. in thigh sometimes intermittent, rhythmical; as from a plug in l. gluteal muscles; in middle of external side of r. thigh, synchronous with pulse and always accompanied by a lancination; cramplike, anteriorly and posteriorly in l. Dull pain just above l. knee; above knee on lifting foot high, with soreness, and with painful weakness about knees and cramplike pinching between bend of knee and calf. Drawing pain down outer side of r.; drawing pain above knees when sitting, felt as mere weakness when walking. Tearing contraction in spot on external side of l., then pain as from subcutaneous ulceration. Painless weakness above knees when walking, with pain when sitting as after great fatigue.

Knee.—Stitches in r. Pain on long stooping, and in muscles above and below them; at inner side when walking, also with drawing; drawing, in l. when bending it (while sitting), > stretching; drawing, at internal surface of r. when sitting; drawing, apparently behind r. patella. Burning sore pain at outer side of l., as if scraped. Painful uneasiness when sitting, with stiff feeling as if bandaged or made tense. Weakness when standing after eating, with sleepiness and indisposition to work. Paralyzed feeling, with stiffness and lassitude.

Leg.—Tottering when standing. Pulsation and twitches in muscles. Painful twitches, like electric shocks, in l. tibia, over malleolus; wavelike twitches here and there in legs when sitting. Cramp in calves at night; cramp in calves when walking. Stitches on surface of tibia, over r. ankle; dull S. or thrusts just below r. knee when treading. Neuralgic twinges in l. calf; about r. calf and ankle. Aching upon l. tibia when sitting, with uneasiness of whole limb, which decreases when leg is drawn up. Cramplike pressure in calves, more towards outer side, towards tibia; rheumatic tensive P. transversely across tibia, on extending leg when walking; tearing, in tibia, just below ankle, at anterior surface. Pressive lancinating pain in tibia and muscles of legs, sometimes with boring. Burning pain in middle of leg, on anterior and rather on outer part. Drawing in legs; here and there after a walk; with pressure and heaviness, the heaviness > by extending foot; cramplike, intermittent, from heels into calves; painful, in tibia; downward in legs when sitting. Tightness in l. calf; in calf when walking and at night in bed, as if muscles were too short. Uneasiness extending up and down, when sitting. > walking and returning on sitting, causing pressure inward at places; U. when sitting, as if everything were alive in them and descended in a turning motion into feet, which felt heavy and almost as if they would go to sleep. Heaviness.

Ankle.—Sprained feeling in l. tarsal articulation when setting foot on ground. Neuralgic twinges, now and then. Drawing pain in tarsal articulation when he seats himself. Drawing downward over outer malleoli, when standing, with pain in soles.

Foot.—Cramplike drawing of r. sole into a curve. Painful twitchings internally on back of foot. Stitches on back of l. Tearing and grinding pain in heel in morning in bed. Cramplike pressure in l. heel; intermittent P. at inner border of sole. Burning sore pain above heel. Painful weakness of feet when sitting.

Toes.—Intermittent twitching in r. great. Tearings in great; T. transversely across roots, > moving them. Spasmodic drawing and tearing, extending into back of foot.

Skin.—Mulatto-like appearance of hands, white, with black spots. Redness of arm (affected part), with pimples, then swelling and redness of face, then redness of abdomen and thighs on which the arm had rested, swelling and redness of l. hand, forearm and lower half of upper arm, vesicles and pustules on forearm, especially at back of forearm, the redness > pressure, raised spots on back of r. hand, front of wrist and on lower abdomen, surmounted by white pustules, redness and swelling of eyes (l. closed), upper lip, chin and back of r. cheek, with red raised spots, the color being sharply defined, yellow crusts like eczema on chin, a red patch, with transparent vesicles on inner side of each thigh, the eruption causing itching.

Desquamation, excessive. Roughness around mouth, with exfoliation, herpes and crawling itching. Destruction: leaving an inflamed surface covered with military, itching pustules, the itching < at night and in warmth, especially when gloves were worn, the pustules discharging a yellow liquid forming crusts, with swelling and heat of whole back of hand.

Swelling of head; of face, beginning at eyes; of l. side of face, with pocklike blisters; passing gradually from eyes down to thighs; of neck after the head; of affected parts, so that the patient looked like a hog-head; with itching, so that the places were scratched sore. Hypertrophied appearance of skin, with swollen and indurated papillæ and wheals and formation of thick folds, which impede motion.

Inflammation of affected parts (hands), with pain and itching, then pustules discharging thin pus, coalescing, appearing like blisters, the blistering being confined to hands and lips, which had been rubbed, while the swelling and pustules extended to other parts, the penis and scrotum were enormously distended, but the eruption was confined to the scrotum, and there were some fever and thirst with the first appearance of the swelling.

Warts covering the hands, even the palms. Itching eruption around knees, as far as calves. Scarlet eruptions of whole body, especially of thigh in contact with the nut, and of abdomen. White, scaly herpes on r. cheek, close by upper lip. Pimple on side of l. index, after nightly itching in hollow of hand and between fingers which was >, not removed by violent friction; P., with red areola at top of l. temple and at angle of r. wing of nose.

Pustules, with red areola on lower part of upper arm, with itching during motion of arm; P. on index, with red areola and stinging, voluptuous itching, which spreads over whole palm, red and white lymph and afterwards a scurf appear, beneath which is a plug of pus, with a drawing sore pain in the ulcer in the evening. Hard, red, sore pustules on forehead and in angle of l. wing of nose. Suppuration and pain, under chin where there was a boil two years ago. Blisters on backs of hands; on chin, discharging liquid when broken; discharging a yellowish transparent liquid, which hardened to a crust in open air. Raised crusts on chest, neck, axillæ, upper arms, abdomen, scrotum, thighs, discharging a thick yellowish liquid, partly changing into wartlike excrescences, with thickened epidermis, the intermediate skin being of an erythematous redness and the itching fearful.

Itching; at night; < in evening and when he went to bed; burning, at affected parts, < scratching; burning, on thighs in evening; the burning changes to painful itching, with stitching, like stings of insects; stinging, here and there, especially on back and thighs, > for a short time by scratching; voluptuous, over whole body, < scratching; voluptuous, on scrotum, which excites sexual desire. Itching of the wound (on l. wrist), then vesicles, with heat, inflammation and redness, extending above elbow, covering anterior and under aspects of the limb, the itching < at night, followed by soreness, redness and inflammation of scrotum, then eyelids and upper part of r. cheek appeared as in erysipelas, with heat, stiffness and burning in skin, also red patches on bend of r. arm and on r. hand, afterwards swelling and tension of r. arm, with redness, which disappeared on pressure.

Irritation, with feverishness, loss of appetite and constipation. Desire to scratch in many places, without itching, > scratching. Tetter which had itched before now burn and sting. Dry feeling in hands and fingers. Insensibility to itching irritants.

Clinical.—Extremely valuable in eczema, especially with great irritability of mind, the eruptions itch excessively and burn. The symptoms of this drug are to be compared with Rhus, to which they are very similar.

Sleep.—Yawning after an attack of cough; Y. after stool. Sleepiness in afternoon when sitting or reading, with weariness; evening and morning in bed, with weakness; at 8 P.M., after dinner; after eating, with indisposition to work; as from weakness. Sound sleep till 9 A.M. Difficult waking in morning. Slumber day and night, with heat, thirst, heat of skin, and with grumbling and anxious sighing when asleep.

Sleeplessness; often for half hours at night; till 2 A.M., with uneasiness. Frequent waking, with general sweat. Anxious sleep, his head lay either too low or too high, which caused confusion. Anxious screams in sleep.

Dreams of fire. Anxious, full of danger; A. about fire. That he had to preach without having committed his sermon, causing anxious meditation, without ability to accomplish it. Of dead bodies, a near tomb or a steep precipice. Of loathsome diseases of others. That his face is covered with white, ugly pustules. Of the smell of tinder and sulphur, with continuance of the illusion after waking. Mixed with plans he had made. Vivid; about old events; with great mental exertion. Oppressive, that everything one did would end in vanity and vexation, and that nothing could extricate me from poverty.

Fever.—Chilliness; after midday nap; of limbs in morning, causing trembling; of hands and feet; of feet in morning; of feet when walking; of feet. < walking. Cold creepings. Shivering as if he had caught cold; S. in back, as from cold water thrown over him; over whole body, with heat in face, without thirst.

Heat; in head; face; face and brain in afternoon, with redness of cheeks; face after dinner, with accumulation of sweetish saliva and thirst; H. in face every day at 4 P.M., with nausea and heaviness in whole body, obliging lying down, > eating; in face after eating, with weakness; spreading quickly over face after supper, followed by thirst. Burning in chin; B. between chin and lower lip, as if scraped with a dull razor. Heat of palms; with coldness of backs of hands. Legs burn as from glowing sparks. Soles burn when sitting. Heat on upper part of body, with thirst, sweat and hot breath, complaints of chilliness, causing him to shake, and coldness of feet, which were formerly sweaty.

Dry heat, < night, with thirst; D. in face and over head, with confusion of head, pale look and heat of skin; of hands. External heat in evening in bed, with burning itching and irritation as from much scratching, the burning < by scratching; E., with thirst and dry burnt lips; after waking, with stupidity, red cheeks, cold forehead, heat in head, thirst, and sore, painful dryness in throat; over whole body, with complaints of chilliness. Itching burning here and there in skin, > scratching. Internal heat; in evening, with cold sweat over and over, especially in head, with short breath, thirst and weakness in abdomen and knees, even to falling; with heat in face and palms, without thirst.

Sweat in evening after walking; at night; general, by an open window, with thirst for milk; in abdomen, back and forehead in evening by an open window; in chest and abdomen at night; clamny, on palms, < l.

Anagallis.

The scarlet pimpernel (poor man's weather-glass) is a small weed belonging to the Primulaceae. A tincture is prepared from the fresh plant.

Trembling, like shivering, in evening; trembling of heart, evening in bed, before and during a dull pain in a hollow tooth, with trembling and shivering in whole body and anxiety in chest. Liveliness. Pleasure in everything. Inability to collect his thoughts during a sermon on account of joy, without thinking of anything in particular. Thinking about everything, and vigor of mind. Aching in sinaput after a draft of cold air. Spasmodic stitches in temples, extending to eyes, with pressure in middle of eyes. Twinges in r. ear.

Dry feeling and scraping in throat, in evening. Itching in rectum, with pressure in loins, as in hemorrhoidal troubles. Desire for stool. Burning pain on urinating, < morning, with agglutination of orifice, requiring violent pressure before urine passes, which it does in several streams; burning tensive pain, during the erection before coition, > coition. Tickling prickling, half painful, especially at orifice, inclining to coition. Desire for coition.

Sudden feeling internally in chest as if struck with a cushion full of pins. Anxiety in chest in evening. Tensive drawing from l. shoulder to nape, renewed on raising l. arm violently and extending it forcibly downward. Dull drawing pain in metacarpal bone of thumb, < r., sometimes like a tearing, returning at uncertain intervals. Cramp in ball of thumb on cutting with shears in evening, becoming a dull drawing, when it leaves this place it appears in l. thumb. Sleep bad, restless, falls asleep late, wakes early and has not slept enough in the morning. Heat rising to head, and sensation of sweat on forehead, then sticking in eyeballs and tickling prickling in urethra, which inclines to coition.

Angustura.

We omit the symptomatology of Angustura vera. Formerly Angustura spuria was confounded with it, and an almost hopeless mixture resulted. The spuria being obtained from a species of Strychnos gave rise probably to its vaunted power over tetanic and spasmodic affections. (Angustura vera has been found to be useful in caries, especially of the long bones?)

Anthemis Nobilis.

The Roman Chamomile is a small weed belonging to the Compositae. A tincture is prepared from the fresh flowering plant.

Allies.—Chamomilla.

Generalities.—Malaise. Laziness. Dislike to going out of doors.

Mind.—Wandering of thoughts, little command over mind, distaste for hard study. Peevishness. Nervous and afraid of being run over in the evening on going out. Low spirits; feeling as if something were about to happen, with desire to be alone to unburden himself by crying, < 3 to 5 p.m.

Head.—Aching in forehead during the fever; boring oppressive, in forehead at 6 p.m., > before morning, with general languor; A. in forehead as from congestion at 8.30 a.m., < bending head down after eating. Aching on top as from pressure from within and feeling as if the top of the head were blown off.

Eyes.—Lachrymation, < exposure to cold; after rising, < indoors, with running of clear water from l. nostril, < indoors and entering colder room. Pain as if something pressed against posterior part of ball, < bending head downward.

Nose and Mouth.—Sneezing when indoors. Lips dry. Face pale. Tongue coated white, with islands on it. Taste intensified; T. bitter.

Throat.—Constriction about junction with œsophagus, when drinking causing difficulty in swallowing liquids, but not solids. Contracted feeling on swallowing tea, especially in posterior part. Raw feeling in back part, increasing from morning till evening, < swallowing saliva and in open cold air; rawness, with disposition to swallow saliva.

Stomach.—Appetite increased, especially for meat; lost. Thirst; lost. Nausea < indoors. Warmth; pleasant, then desire for food.

Abdomen.—Aching in liver region, < walking; in r. hypochondrium, as from distention, with fœces, then urging to stool, which resulted in the passage of only hard mucus, the pain continued all day; corresponding to transverse colon, beginning on r. side and going to l., then diarrhœa, which was first white, then putty-like, then vomiting, with gripping and ineffectual urging to stool, gripping, and coldness and chilliness inside abdomen, passing into legs as far as knees.

Anus and Stool.—Itching in anus as from ascariæ. < in evening, when sitting. Stools freer, softer; omitted; hard, dark; yellow; pale yellow.

Urinary and Genital Organs.—Pain as from distention in and over bladder, extending along spermatic cords (as far as contained in inguinal canal), which felt as if varicose. Desire to urinate on waking at 2 a.m., and every time he woke afterwards; desire to urinate, with pain at neck of bladder, as from distention. Frequent micturition; at night, with a small quantity each time. Seminal emission about 4 a.m.

Cough, dry, paroxysmal, in afternoon, from tickling at back of larynx, which was relieved by the cough, with aggravation of the cough in warm room, but not at night in bed.

Pulse rapid, full and soft.

Neck and Back.—Carotid vessels in neck feel turgid, especially marked below, decreasing upward. Aching in loins; < l., as from exertion, at 9.30 a.m., < walking, > 3 p.m.

Skin and Sleep.—Itching of soles as from chilblains. Waking frequently and walking about the room.

Fever.—Cold feeling when dressing, beginning in legs, where it was most felt, then in neck, then in whole body, when it became general it was most felt in neck, at 10.45 a.m., with nausea at 11.30, nausea went off at 1 p.m. on going into open air, but coldness increased, with dull frontal headache, dull aching pains in limbs, especially in large joints and loins, great lassitude, especially in gluteal region, tenderness of eyeballs on pressure, skin dry, cutis asserina, veins of limbs reduced in size, cold creeping over whole body, especially in scalp where it began, < on leaving fire, no appetite, tongue with a moist white coating, especially in centre, no thirst, pulse rapid, small and weak. Coldness of limbs from wrists and ankles downward. Dislike to touch or drink anything cold from forenoon till evening. Heat after walking, with sweat, especially on head and face.

Antimonium Arsenitum.

Trituate with sugar of milk.

General sick feeling. Sense of weakness. Congestion of head. Pain in forehead; temples; orbits. Conjunctivitis. Edema of face. Loss of appetite. Nausea. Diarrhea slight, without pain in abdomen. Pulse 90. Wandering pains along sciatic nerves. Excessive dyspnea in cases of emphysema.

Clinical.—Useful in emphysema with excessive dyspnea and cough, < eating and lying down.

Antimonium Crudum.

The crude mineral, Stibnite, a crude ter-sulphuret of Antimony, is pulverized under water, and the black insoluble powder is triturated with sugar of milk for use.

General Action.—A general tissue remedy; its chief manifestations hitherto being on the mucous membranes and skin. Gastric catarrh, with very white tongue. The disposition generally determines its choice.

Allies.—Sulphur, Ars., Lyc., Nux v., Puls., Zinc., Ran. b.

Generalities.—Getting fat (Kali c.). Swelling of whole body. Emaciation and exhaustion. Lies on his back at night. Convulsions, with vomiting. Twitchings of muscles in many parts. Disposition to start at slight noises. Heavy, pressive pains, sometimes in chest, sometimes in back, sometimes in both these parts. Sensation of general vascular ebullition. Uneasiness. Weariness; in morning, with indisposition to rise; at 7 P.M., especially of feet, with peevishness. Indolence and disposition to lie down after dinner. Feels badly in heat of sun and in warm air, even on slight motion and work. Aggravation on l. side of body; A. from wine (Ars., Lyc., Nux v., Zinc.). Feels best in rest and cold air (Lyc., Puls.).

Clinical.—There is general aggravation from cold water, whether taken internally or applied externally. Is suited to the bad effects of Rhenish sour wines.

Mind.—Dementia, did not leave the bed, spoke nothing without being asked, desired neither to eat nor to drink, but ate with pleasure if anything was offered, and she felt hungry, constantly pulled her neckcloth, or folded and unfolded a handkerchief, or pulled feathers out of the bed and gathered them together, with such insensibility that she did not feel the sores formed by the evacuations on which she was lying.

Sulky (Sulph.), does not wish to speak. Does not speak. Peevish, vexed without cause. Disposition to shoot himself at night (Ars.), > leaving the bed. Anxiety from 3 to 5 A.M.; about himself during the day; in attacks. Discouragement, making the head feel warm in front. Dejection of spirits during the day. Sadness in evening. Grief in forenoon, the sound of bells and the sight of his surroundings move him to tears, with short and heavy breathing.

Clinical.—Extreme irritability and fretfulness is the keynote to its use in a great variety of gastric disorders, especially in children; the child cannot bear to be touched or looked at.

Head.—Apoplexy; with much watery foam from nose and mouth. Intoxication. Tearing, > walking in open air; here and there, from morning till night; at noon, with heat in it. Aching; after bathing in the river, with weakness of limbs and repugnance to food; then nosebleed; dull stupefying pain when smoking, with nausea in pharynx. Emptiness, as after continual working in a cold room. Vertigo; with nausea. Weakness.

Forehead.—Aching, < ascending stairs, and in vertex; A. as if it would burst, with intoxicated feeling, sitting alone and refusing to speak; within skull, at r. eyebrow, as if pressed asunder; stupefying, externally when walking in open air, with sweat from anxiety. Pressure inward in l. side, at times drawing. Boring outward, and in temples. Heaviness.

Drawing pain over l. temporal bone, > pressure, then returning more violent. Pulsation externally at l. temple, < when it is not especially noticed, with fine prickings extending towards eyebrows. Painful spot on l. parietal bone, when touched, as if the periosteum were swollen. Flat tubercles on scalp, painful to pressure, with crawling all around. Single sharp stiches on scalp.

Clinical.—The headaches are the result of disordered stomach, especially of eating candy. There is great disposition to take cold about the head, especially after getting wet or after a bath.

Eyes.—Inflammation; and redness, with itching and nightly agglutination (Nat. m.). Redness of l., with photophobia on rising in morning and mucus in inner canthus. Fine stiches in fore part of ball in forenoon, without pain. Redness of lid, with fine stiches in ball. Twitching of l. lids. Gum in canthi in forenoon; mucus in r. canthus in morning and dry gum in both lids. Moist place at outer canthus, painful on sweat coming in contact with it. Itching in outer canthus. Sharp stiches below l. brow. Blindness.

Clinical.—Valuable in chronic blepharitis, with soreness, the eyes red, agglutinated at night.

Ears.—Redness of l., with burning and swelling, as from a mosquito bite. Swelling of internal concha, with redness and periodical itching. Stiches; itching, at border of r. concha, above helix, > touch. Drawing pain through r. ear into Eustachian tube, almost to the mouth, after dinner. Sensation of burrowing or swarming (of animals), < lying still. Crawling in r. meatus auditorius. R. seems blocked up in evening. Deafness, as from a leaflet before tympanum. Ringing before. Roaring, < afternoon; < during stillness; [R. after violent vomiting, then loss of hearing]. D. in as if some one were beating against the door of the house. Swashing as of water, when moving jaws.

Nose.—Nostrils chapped and covered with crusts (Ran. b.); l. nostril chapped and painful. Pain when breathing, as from cold air or acrid vapor. Sore nostrils, with drawing pain; soreness in anterior angle of r. nostril, with pain as in a cold; sore feeling when inspiring, < r. nostril, which is obstructed. Obstruction in evening (Lyc.). Dryness when walking in open air, so that he can hardly speak (Lyc.). Coryza; with sore, crusty nostrils; dry; fluent, also in morning. Bleeding, every evening; flowing out of blood.

Clinical.—A kind of eczema about nostrils, which became sore, cracked and scurfy.

Face.—Twitches in l. side; at corners of mouth. Sensation on touch at and below the chin as if the hand moved over sore places, with honey-colored granules here and there. Burning, stinging, as from a spark, on chin and upper lip. Cracks in corners of lips, with pain like sores (Arum t., Zinc.). Dry lips. Fomication upon upper lip. Red pustules on upper lip and at r. corner, with dull pain.

Mouth.—Teeth. Grinding, waking from siesta. Stitches on inspiration. Aching in a hollow tooth, < at night, a fine stinging, pulling and grinding, as if in the nerve, moving downward, then upward into head, and on touching the tooth with the tongue, pain as if the nerve were scratched. Aching renewed after eating, < applying cold water, > in open air. A. nightly, with heat coming from chest; twinging, evening in bed and after eating. Bleeding. Gums stand off from teeth and bleed easily.

Tongue.—Coated white (Puls.) in forenoon. Blisters. Fine stitches in front, on l. border, after dinner. Intermitting sore feeling on r. border, with redness.

Rawness of palate when clearing throat, with expectoration of much mucus. Fine pinching in palate all night, < swallowing, > morning by hawking up the phlegm collected on sides of palate, leaving rawness. Dry mouth at night. Salivation; salt. Smell as in pytalism from mercury.

Clinical.—Valuable for toothache in hollow teeth extending into head, < cold water. On the face pustular eruption with yellow crusts, which are painful, small boils and pimples on the face, especially about the mouth and nose, associated with white tongue and disordered digestion. Tongue thickly coated white; this is a very marked symptom. Especially valuable in the indigestion of children from sweets, associated with very peevish disposition; with this tongue there are loathing of food, nausea and even vomiting, headache, after-taste of the food, great thirst, especially at night.

Throat.—Clearing, and hawking when walking in open air. Roughness in morning, with dryness. Soreness on l. side, as from a swelling or plug. A foreign body seems to hang in it, he tries in vain to swallow or expel it. Scraping on velum palati from phlegm, which often could not be expelled. Much viscid mucus. Thick yellowish mucus must be drawn from posterior nares into throat and expectorated. Swallowing impeded.

Clinical.—Diphtheria, the child was very cross, whining and crying because it was looked at; especially on waking, with the characteristic crusts around nostrils and in the corners of the mouth.

Stomach.—Appetite little; lost. Goat's milk refreshes him. Thirst; in evening; at night; with dryness of lips. Eructation of a fluid tasting of the ingesta, afternoons; E. of a raw taste; bitter, like bile; loud. Hiccough; when smoking tobacco. Nausea; after a glass of wine (Ars., Nux v., Zinc.); with vertigo, vomiting; with convulsions (Nux v., Zinc.); with diarrhoea; with diarrhoea and anguish.

Cramp. Burning in pit like heartburn, with good appetite. Burning spasmodic pain in pit, driving him to the resolution of drowning himself. Pinching in region, on r. side, over and by side of pit. Cutting in region. Pressure in morning, with thirst; P., which is more like a dull cutting, < drawing in abdomen. Pain on pressure. Pain as from fulness, without fulness and with appetite; as after too much eating, with distended but not hard abdomen (Lyc.). Fulness after eating, with inflation, often alternating with lightness.

vigor and activity of mind and body. Sense of hunger in morning on waking, without appetite, not > by eating, with emptiness in pit of stomach and want of animal heat.

Clinical.—Catarrhal inflammation of the stomach, with thickly coated white tongue, nausea, vomiting, after-taste of the food, etc. After nursing the child vomits its milk in little white curds and refuses to nurse afterwards.

Abdomen.—Distention (Lyc.); : after eating; causing pain as from internal pressure. Loud rumbling; in forenoon, as from emptiness; rumbling as when bubbles arise in water. Flatus after eating, moving about audibly, < r. side, some being expelled; rumbling F. bursts forth immediately after eating, some smells badly, some before passing off moves downward and meets other flatus, especially in r. side; inconsiderable flatus passes off, with a pressing-asunder sensation as if a copious stool would occur. Sensation after a moderate dinner as if the body were filled with moving flatus.

Cutting; with nausea in abdomen and accumulation of water on tongue; with oppression coming from stomach, indisposition to work, dry humor and pain at stomach on eructations. Pain. Sudden compressive colic, with gulping up of water. Sudden pinching in evening, especially on r. side towards back, < motion. Sensation as after violent diarrhoea, causing weakness. Empty sensation, > after eating.

Tight feeling below stomach, with empty eructations. Tension in hypochondria. Pinching on l. side of navel; like the beat of a pulse low down in l. side in afternoon; as from a swelling, in the cartilage or periosteum of upper part of crest of ilium. Hard gland in l. groin over Poupard's ligament, running parallel with it and painful on pressure. Hardness in groins as from swollen glands, with pain as from swelling felt on pressure.

Rectum and Anus.—Rectum, protrusion during stool; sore pain during stool, as if an ulcer had been torn apart; itching; discharge of mucus, with emission of flatus; continual discharge of blood and solid portions. Varices protrude more than usual. Crawling in hæmorrhoids, evening in bed till falling asleep, with burning. Itching in anus (Sulph.). Burning in anus at night, with itching and smarting. Drawing pain in anus.

Clinical.—Hæmorrhoids, with oozing of yellow mucus, constipated during hot weather.

Stool.—Urging after dinner and quick expulsion of ordinary feces, with straining (Trombid.). First natural, then several small, loose evacuations, then small hard evacuations, with violent straining in rectum and anus till all are passed. Liquid. Thin: after vinegar, with pain in rectum. Diarrhoea at night and in morning; disposition to diarrhoea, which does not take place. Pappy, frequent. Hard in morning; in evening, with pressing in rectum and cutting in abdomen. Difficult and hard; with previous pressing in rectum. Constipation.

Clinical.—Alternating diarrhoea and constipation in old people.

Urinary Organs.—Painful contracted feeling at neck of bladder. Tenesmus at night, rousing from sleep; constant urging, with dysuria; frequent tenesmus though little urine is passed; frequent and violent desire and much urine each time. Frequent micturition; with burning in urethra during emission; at night, with copious urine; with scanty watery urine; with scanty urine expelled in great haste; with dark urine. Urine expelled more rapidly. Burning in urethra. Urine copious; scanty at night, in an intermitting stream, with painful erections. Brown-red. Gold-yellow, thin, with scarcely perceptible cloud. Small red corpuscles after standing.

Sexual Organs.—Burning at penis. Itching at penis; at extremity. Erections. Biting-itching at l. side of scrotum, as from salt. Drawing pain in spermatic cord, > standing, > stooping, while there was a boil at perineum. Sexual desire, with uneasiness in whole body; desire diminished. Irritation as if a pollution would come on, even when leaning the back against something. Pollution at night, with many dreams; without voluptuous dreams. Discharge of water from vagina, causing biting down thighs. Pressure in womb as if something would come out.

Clinical.—Suppression of menses with the gastric and mental symptoms of the drug. Prolapsus uteri when there is constant bearing down as if something were pushing out of the vagina, and tenderness over the ovarian region, particularly when the menses have been suppressed by cold bathing. The leucorrhœa is watery and contains little lumps.

Respiratory Organs.—Spasm of larynx and pharynx as if the throat were filled with a plug, which became alternately thicker and thinner, with a sore feeling. Voice lost as often as he became hot, > by resting himself; weak; rough. Cough in morning after rising, coming from abdomen, in paroxysms, each becoming weaker, so that the last attack is only a hacking cough. Dry cough frequently; dry, in a sudden short attack, with scratching in trachea. C. in morning, with discharge of viscid thin phlegm from deep in chest. Asthma. Suffocative catarrh. Dyspœa. Difficult breathing during supper; after supper. Sighing as from fulness of chest afternoon and after eating.

Chest.—Stitches in middle, with constrictive pinching; S. when breathing deeply, on r. side under two first ribs, then under upper part of sternum; in l. when breathing, with cough and headache; sharp, in l. during expiration while standing. Pain half pressive, half sticking, under l. clavicle, apparently in air passages, when breathing. Pressive pain in interior of r. chest in evening when lying down. Pain in pectoralis major as from contusion or too great effort, in morning when extending and lifting arm or on pressure. Oppression; morning on waking. Burning, with dry cough and dyspœa; B. at every cough, with hot breath.

Heart and Pulse.—Palpitation. Pulse, sometimes a few quick, then three or four slow beats.

Neck.—Swelling of cervical glands. Spasmodic drawing pain in muscles of nape, as far as scapulae, in evening after lying down and in morning, caused and < by stooping, exerting arm and turning head to left. Spasmodic drawing downward in one of the r. cervical muscles in evening when sitting. Inward pressing drawing on l. lower part. Tightness when stooping, in nape and between scapulae.

Back.—Spasmodic stitches in r. scapula when sitting. Tearing in back from morning till night. Pain in small of B., > night; in small of B. when rising from a seat, > walking.

Extremities.—Discolored nails. Enlarged feeling. Tremulous fatigue and heaviness after dinner, as if coming out of abdomen, with trembling of hands when writing, then much offensive flatus, the abdomen being distended.

Upper Extremities.—Twitches in r. deltoid. A stitch under both arms when walking in open air. Upper arm, drawing jerk transversely through r.; quivering drawing in muscles, > warmth, renewed in a draft; paralytic pain in muscles when bending arms; as if contracted too much or weakened by the contraction. Cracking in elbow on turning it to and fro. Drawing in forearm; down r. forearm; paralytic drawing in r.; drawing on inside of lower part, with sensation of pressure from without. Cracking in metacarpal joint of thumb on motion. Finger-nails did not grow as fast as formerly, and the skin beneath the nails was sensitive. Drawing pains in fingers and their joints. Gouty pains in joints of r. fourth finger.

Clinical.—Acute rheumatism in fingers with the gastric disturbances, also the nails of the fingers became horny and split, or horny growths formed beneath the nails. Soles became very sensitive when walking, corns became inflamed, and new corns formed on the soles or toes.

Lower Extremities.—Painless drawing beginning at r. knee or os ischiuni, going down thigh and tibia to foot, so that he has to lift it and change its position several times. Twitches in l. natis in evening when sitting. Drawing in one natis, around hip-joint into thigh. Clucking in lower part of r. natis when standing.

Thigh.—Drawing pain at anterior and internal sides; in posterior muscles of l.; in hip-joints, towards os sacrum; in l. hip; in l. hip-joint in evening and when walking, < when bending thigh backward. Pain in r. hip-joint. Tension high up in r. thigh, like a spasm. Sensation of a spasm at external border of thigh in afternoon, as if muscles became slowly contracted and extended.

Knee.—Sudden stitch on outside; stitch in l., causing jerking in leg. Drawing pain in r. Stiffness; painful, obliquing limping.

Leg.—Deep stitches down tibia; sharp stitches outward in shaft of r. tibia when sitting. Drawing pain as high as knee; drawing pain at lower part of l. tibia; on inside of l. calf. Bruised feeling in a spot on outside of l. calf when touched. Pain just below knee as if tied tightly, in evening. Painless intermittent pinching low down on r. calf. Clucking posteriorly in r. leg, then stitches in ankle.

Malleolus.—Sprained pain in r. outer, when turning foot outward, with cracking of joint when bending or stretching it.

Foot.—Mortification after the violent vomiting had subsided, with burning, lancing and tearing pain, but insensibility to touch or prick of pin, followed after amputation by suffocative catarrh. Chilblains in summer, with pain and redness. Heaviness so that she cannot lift it. R. feels numbened when walking and goes to sleep. Heel, drawing pain in l.; cramp-like drawing at outer side of l. Soles, horny places close to where the toes begin, with pain as in corns; sensitiveness of soles when walking, < on a stone pavement; fine prickings in soles.

Toes.—Cracking of great toe, at every motion requiring effort. Tearing and drawing through r. great. Rhythmical cutting under l. great. Burning pain in ball of r. great. A corn on l. little toe became painful as if pressed upon.

Clinical.—Useful in soreness of the heels.

Skin.—Bluish spots on thighs; on tibia. Liver-colored spots and dots here and there, especially on arms. Red points on chest, with itching, not > by rubbing. Red points, with white dots in centre; on front of neck, with stinging on moving hand over beard; red points, with white tips, below l. corner of mouth. Rash; behind ears, as far as nape and over scapulae; on middle of upper arms. Nettle-rash in face, especially on cheeks; on face and limbs, as far as the swollen fingers, with thirst and nausea.

Pimples coming on at night; on styloid process of l. radius; on r. natis; as from mosquito bites on face, also on r. cheek, also on r. knee; that itch on getting warm in bed and prevent sleep; itching at bend of elbow, also in ball of hand, on muscle of thumb. Pimples and vesicles as from stings of insects, beginning with itching, in many parts, especially on face and joints of limbs. P. painful to touch, on neck and under chin; red, hard, painful to touch, on l. temple, where cartilage of ear begins. Red, on top of r. shoulder, passing off for a short time on pressure. Red, hard elevation on each side of forehead, with itching, coming and going. Hard pea-shaped body under skin on l. side of nape, felt on stretching skin when bending head. Flat pimples, itching when touched, on cheeks, with yellowish scurf. Red, itchlike P., stinging on touch, on carpal joint of r. thumb, with brown scurf.

Eruption on l. cheek towards chin, with yellow crust, painful to touch, and which may be knocked off easily. Red, burning, suppurating eruption on face. Pustules here and there, with brown scurf; painful to pressure, on both sides of nose; hard, long-continuing, like pocks, below neck; hard, on l. natis, with itching and tensive pain. Boil on perineum, with burning and pain far around. White tubercle, painful on touch, above eyebrows. White, hard tubercles, with red areola, on leg, after itching. Vesicle on styloid process of r. ulna; on outer border of l. hand; itching, on l. hand. Like varioloid, with stinging on pressure, in several places; on face and nose; on knee. Red heat V., with yellow dots over r. shoulder, afterwards they look like gooseflesh and scale off.

Stitches here and there on neck; in r. sole, evening in bed after a walk, > rubbing. Ticking and itching stitches from within outward here and there, especially in upper arm and under r. natis. Sensitiveness of neck, sore feeling when rubbed hard on account of itching, also upon chest. Crawling along l. calf. Itching, especially on neck and limbs; on back; on chest; here and there, waking him, with blisters; waking him, with pimples at several places; on chest, then sore feeling after rubbing, skin sensitive as after blisters; of arm, and after rubbing reddish blisters like mosquito bites; on inside of r. knee, and after rubbing a painful blister; on chest, as if blisters were healing. Stinging itching of r. thigh not > by scratching, then a flat, yellowish pimple.

Sleep.—Sleepiness during the day and in morning after waking; in forenoon; in afternoon when sitting; overwhelmed with sleep every day at 7 P.M., and she continues to sleep during the night; at 6 P.M., and peevish, at 8 he cannot refrain from sleeping, sleeps soundly all night and in the morning is so tired that he can scarcely open his eyes. Sleepless till midnight; every evening, with shiverings, especially over whole l. side, upon which he does not lie, or with sexual desire when getting warm, and erections making him more awake. Waking frequently at night, as from fright; waking frequently at night, and on falling asleep dreams about solemnities.

Fanciful delusions in sleep; she hears a knocking outside or is called. Horrible dreams about the mutilation of men. Anxious D., as if he were to be hurt, he starts up from sleep and struggles with his hands and feet. Sleep interrupted by disagreeable dreams about quarrels with his relatives. Pleasant D. of seeing an old schoolmate. Voluptuous, at night, with pollutions.

Fever.—Chilliness; internal. Cold feet; till 1 A.M. Shiverings over whole back, without thirst; S. over whole body in morning, with heat in forehead, without thirst. Chills towards noon, with thirst for beer, then sleep, then heat and thirst. Hot feeling from slightest exercise, especially from heat of sun, with heat in throat. Warmth all over body on waking at 2 A.M., with burning itching and excoriated feeling in anus. Heat at night in bed, with sweat. Sweat during sleep; general in morning on waking; general, making finger-tips soft and wrinkled; returning at the same hour on three days in succession.

Antimonium Sulf. Auratum.

The golden sulphuret of Antimony, a reddish-brown powder, is triturated for use.

General Action.—A tissue remedy similar to Antimony and Sulphur. Its clinical application has hitherto been confined mainly to diseases of the respiratory apparatus, coughs, etc., one case of chronic pleuro-pneumonia, with extensive pleuretic effusion, is reported cured.

Generalities.—Thick crusts, could only be removed with pain. Burning sticking in whole l. side, especially in lumbar muscles. Rheumatic symptoms in all parts. Weakness in morning; in morning, > afternoon, with tendency to tremor, etc., with disposition to stretch and yawn.

Clinical.—Of very great value in acute and chronic nasal and bronchial catarrh and in acne.

Mind.—Apprehensiveness.

Head.—Aching; with fulness and pain in r. ear; heavy; one-sided, especially in l. temporal region. Tightness, with restlessness. Confusion; on account of urging in abdomen; especially in cerebrum. Vertigo and stopped feeling as from fresh catarrh, mind sluggish, with singing in l. side of head, dull feeling in front of head. Forehead confused. Forehead heavy at 10 P.M., with singing, flushed face, ill humor and rather an independent, indifferent, reckless kind of feeling.

Vertex.—Lancinating pain in r. side in evening, extending to r. inner angle of eye. Aching in morning, with rush of blood to head on stooping, producing throbbing headache, with weakness; in r. side during rest, throbbing and severe during motion, extending to back of ear; during motion, < any jar while walking, when it seemed as if the skull would be raised to relieve the pressure on the brain; pulsative, and in frontal region, with feeling as if the skull would be raised with every pulsation of arteries.

Eyes, Nose and Lips.—Eyes weak, afterwards moist.

Increased secretion in nose and throat. Coryza in morning, with impeded respiration; C., with loss of smell; fluent, with confused head, impeded respiration and impaired appetite. Nosebleed on washing. Lips dry.

Mouth.—Boring tearing toothache. Tongue coated reddish-yellow; thick white coat, with dryness of mouth and much saliva. Salivation. Taste pasty in morning; P., with slimy-coated tongue; sweetish bitter and flat taste. Metallic styptic taste; extending into pharynx; extending to stomach; extending to lower part of pharynx, with nausea, fulness in head, heaviness about eyebrows and dull feeling in centre of forehead.

Throat.—Increased secretion of mucus in back part. Offensive-smelling mucus. Pressure as from a plug. Pressure and tensive feeling, < at larynx. Scraping pain, especially in larynx, with heat in fauces. Scraping slimy feeling. Scratching rough feeling in morning. Soreness, with hard cough; S. in morning after getting out of bed, with hacking cough and expectoration of much mucus.

Stomach.—Hunger. Appetite at dinner too much, then stupid feeling, with sleepiness, A. strong again at 6 p.m., with a good deal of thirst (fever?). Appetite lost; with almost loathing of food; with nausea. Nausea; > cup of tea; with tearing in the stomach, the latter > rest. Vomiting. Weakness, disordered digestion, with nausea. Pressure; in pit; in epigastric region. Fulness. Emptiness. Feeling as of an acid, with nausea; feeling as of an acid, which appeared to increase and boil up. Weight in lower part of epigastrium, with nausea, excitement and ill humor.

Abdomen.—Flatulency. Passage of much flatus, with sudden urging to stool, stool at first solid, then bright yellow, pasty, then colic and rumbling around navel. Tension and fulness; T. and sensitiveness, especially about navel. Colic as from a drastic purge. Twisting. Pressure in region of navel, with fulness. Sensitiveness of colon and especially at anus.

Rectum and Stool.—Constant urging to stool. Smarting and aching in rectum and anus. Pressing in R. after stool, with smarting; pressing in R. after stool, with burning smarting. Stools soft, reddish-brown; half solid, half soft; irregular, in hard balls, then pain and smarting in rectum, felt for several hours when walking; in hard balls; hard, difficult; hard and difficult, then smarting, pressing and throbbing in rectum; hard and delayed; hard and delayed, then heat and pressure in rectum. Stools increased, with nausea. No stool. Constipation, with tenesmus and burning pain in anus.

Urinary and Sexual Organs.—Heat in urethra during micturition, then smarting extending about an inch into urethra. Tickling in urethra, with twitching and increased urine. Urine increased, dark-red; increased, reddish-brown; increased, with tension and tickling in penis. Sensitiveness of genitals. Itching of genitals, anus and perineum. Itching of scrotum, < towards morning, then redness, next day dry pustulous eruption, with constipation, afterwards the itching and eruption extended more towards perineum. Desire excited.

Respiratory Organs.—Tickling in larynx as from mucus without ability to expectorate; in larynx and trachea as from mucus. Increased mucus, with fulness in bronchi and full, hard breathing; increased tough mucus during the restless night; tough mucus in bronchi and larynx. Pressure in bronchi, with constriction. Fulness in bronchi; with difficult respiration. Increased mucous expectoration mixed with blood, of a sweetish taste. Respiration difficult; difficult, full; hard, full of râles.

Heart and Pulse.—Heaviness in præcordium, with apprehension. Pulse soft; small, suppressed; slower in evening than in the morning.

Neck and Back.—Tensive pressing feeling in cervical vertebrae, nape of neck and thoracic ribs. Tensive drawing pain in loins.

Extremities.—Tensive feeling in muscles of shoulder and thigh. Tensive and tickling sensation. Weakness. Joints, drawing tearing; gouty, rheumatic, drawing tearing; rheumatic pains; stiff tensive pains, in morning; tension, with increased sensitiveness, especially in shoulders and knees. Tensive pain in l. shoulder-joint. Arm, boring tearing in joints and in wrist; rheumatic pains in joints; heavy in morning; painful immobility of l. Twitchings in ulnar nerves like electric shocks, especially in elbow. Pressure in forearm, with heaviness and pain. Fingers swollen; tensive swollen feeling in F. Lower limbs weary and heavy. Tensive rheumatic troubles in hip-joint and inguinal region. Swelling of ankles and especially knees.

Skin.—Reddish swelling behind r. ear, which leaves redness and scurfiness. Elevated, dry pustules on inner surface of thighs, which itch, feel tense, pain on walking and involve the whole leg in sympathy, after nearly three weeks they dry and desquamate. Itching, especially on scrotum and inner surface of thighs; in bend of r. arm in afternoon, with redness like scarlet rash; of one, then another finger.

Sleep.—Deep sleep, with sweat. Soporose S., not refreshing. Heavy S., from which he was several times partially aroused by headache, mostly in r. frontal eminence. Sleepy early, but after going to bed wakeful, restless, with aching in legs, from knees to feet, with paralyzed feeling, and tingling and itching over face, on thighs and hips. Restless night. Broken, soporose sleep. Disturbed and restless S. at night, with headache, > rising in morning. Sudden waking at midnight, with confused head and pressure above forehead towards vertex, fulness in stomach, pressure and tense feeling in throat, especially larynx, pasty taste, bronchi full, hard respiration, then slumber soporose, not refreshing; sudden W. after midnight, with excitement, restlessness, sexual desire, then light sleep; after three hours' sleep, with heavy, confused head, pressure in stomach, difficult breathing, fulness of bronchi, tossing about, warmth and sweat.

Dreamy sleep; and waking after midnight with dull headache; with sudden wakings after midnight, with gouty and rheumatic troubles in limbs; and frequent waking with confused head, tension and dulness in brain. Vivid dreams, with sudden waking after midnight, with restlessness, drawing, tensive, rheumatic pains over thorax and spine, difficult and rattling respiration, with profuse mucus.

Fever.—General chilliness, with shivering down over whole spine. Febrile symptoms, which started along spine, extended towards the whole abdomen and limbs, then heat, with sweat, pulse full and soft, lungs sensitive, < l. lung. Chill alternates with heat; towards evening. Heat. Sweat at night.

Antimon. et Potass. Tart.

Tartar emetic, a tartrate of Antimony and Potash, is dissolved in pure water for use.

General Action.—It increases the secretions generally, but produces nausea and vomiting and profound depressions of the heart, pulse and temperature. It promotes rapid waste of tissues.

Alies.—Ars., Phos., Kali bi., (Cad.), Camph., Verat., Sec. c.

Generalities.—Emaciation. Blood loses fibrin and becomes thinner. Convulsions; with tetanic spasms; with unconsciousness; epileptic, with vomiting; convulsive movements. Springing into the air as soon as he got warm in bed. Distortion from cramps and rigidity as if dead, with gangrene of one foot and violent pain. Contraction of all muscles, especially of abdomen and upper limbs. Trembling; internal; of head, with paralytic trembling of hands on every motion. Unsteadiness alternating with syncope.

Tearing in limbs, chest, abdomen, testicles and eyes; T. in abdomen and limbs, with drawing. Pain < violent and quick motions, especially when sitting down afterwards; rheumatic P. in whole l. side. Bruised feeling. Drawings here and there. The child wishes to be carried constantly. Malaise; after supper. General distress; alternating now with chills, now with heat. Pulsation in all vessels, perceptible externally. Restlessness; or nausea; morning on rising, with weariness; from pain in abdomen; < 5 P.M., especially in epigastric region. The touch of anything is disagreeable, with inclination to unbutton his collar. Indolence, with sleepiness. Punctiness; from vomiting. Relaxed condition of whole body. Weakness (Ars., Verat. a.); after vomiting (Ars.); on waking; from waist to toes, with coldness; as if death were close at hand (Verat. a.). Sensation lost. Aggravation while sitting. Amelioration after frequent emission of pale urine.

Mind.—Furious delirium (Verat. a.). Talking to himself. Unconnected wandering. Unconsciousness. Stupor interrupted by spasms. Restlessness. Excitement. (Suicidal mood, with raving.) Anxiety increasing with the nausea, with pressure and warmth in the abdomen, which moves about as from flatus. Apprehension, with fulness about heart and heat; A., with restlessness; about his recovery. Dreaded to be left alone lest he "should be dreadfully nervous and not know what to do with himself." Despondency towards evening, with pain in chest, sleepiness and chilliness. Fright at every trifle. Quarrelsome. Whining and crying if touched, with drawing inward of toes and fingers. Ill humor; on waking, with rubbing of his eyes as if in a stupid sleep, and howling if one looked at him; with intolerance of noise. Gayety, then towards evening peevishness and anxiety about the future.

Head.—Stitches from 11 A.M. till evening; S. on motion. Aching; in brain; with pressure and throbbing in forehead and temples; with sensitiveness in epigastric region; stupefying; tensive; in afternoon, with drawings and burrowings as far as root of nose; tensive, especially in forehead, mornings on waking, > cold water. Inflammation of meninges of brain. Congestion. Compression. Intoxicated condition, as from wine. Stupefaction as if confined. Confusion; morning; morning, > rising; with a feeling as if he ought to sleep; with warm forehead, depression of vigor and indifference; with nausea; with heaviness and pressure in sinicupit; like a pressure in temples. Heaviness; with confusion; in morning on waking, with confusion and discomfort; requiring a support behind. Vertigo; on closing eyes; on lifting head from pillow (Cact.); on walking; tottering from V. when walking; with flickering before eyes. Internal weakness; external, with inability to hold it erect.

Forehead.—Twitching and drawing, especially over l. eye, with tension. Sticking (or rather tearing) from 2 P.M. till 3 A.M. Boring below r. eminence. Bruised feeling. Aching; < motion; above nose; over nose and one eye; in sinicupit and occiput; in r. side in evening and in l. half in night, both with sensation as if brain were balled into lumps; in l., with pressure on eyes, as from a band; wavelike, on r. eminence; drawing about, in F. and vertex, with tension and pressure; more like a sticking, extending into l. eye, with inclination to close eyes; which sometimes becomes a sticking, which extends to temple, < cough. Throbbing in r. side.

Temples.—Sticking. Drawing pain in r.; extending to zygoma and upper jaw. Pressure inward in l. Compression. Tension as if squeezed, with stupefaction. Pulsation in bloodvessels.

Aching on vertex; on waking. Tension on vertex. Tearing drawing from behind forward in l. half of head; intermittent T. in r. side of head. Tensive pressing-in aching in l. half of skull. Stupefaction in l. half of head, with tension. Feeling in occiput as if something fell forward on stooping. Heaviness in occiput, with an anxious oppressive sensation. Hair falls out.

Eyes.—Fixed and turned upward. Squinting. Surrounded by blue rings and lying deep in their sockets. Swollen. Bloodshot. Yellow sclerotic. Pressure on. Burning in evening. Weak; and dim. Swimming and dim. Sudden tensive pain in upper part of r. ball. Bruised feeling in ball, < touch. Pupil dilated. Inclined to press lids together tightly. Lids difficult to move. Electric stitches in inner canthi, with pressure in eyes. Burning in r. inner canthus, with biting and with redness of conjunctiva. Conjunctiva congested. Flickering before eyes; < rising from a seat, with vision as through a veil and vertigo. Sparks. Vanishing of vision; and of hearing.

Clinical.—It has been found useful in herpes of the conjunctiva, photophobia, ill humor and weakness.

Ears.—Roaring.

Nose.—Pointed. Ulceration in anterior corner of nostril, with pain (Ant. c.). Stupefying tension across root, as from a band (Cad.). Sneezing; with fluent coryza, chilliness, loss of taste and smell (Camph.). Coryza towards evening; fluent C.; fluent, with tickling cough, eructations, retching and vomiting of tough watery mucus. Bleeding at 3 P.M., then fluent coryza, with sneezing.

Face.—Pale and sunken (Verat. a., Ars.). Red. Smutty-colored. Swollen. Livid. Blisth. Twitching. Distorted, with tetanic spasm of jaws as if endeavoring to bite every thing within reach. Expression anxious; of great suffering; lethargic. Pressure on l. malar-bone; preceded by drawing. Tensive feeling, and in neck. Drawing from chin along r. side of lower jaw. Lips dry, scurey; livid; cracked at night.

Mouth.—Toothache; in morning; rheumatic, in r. lower back teeth. Gums bleed. Gums appear like pink velvet with raised pile. Tongue white; T. coated; thick, white, pasty coat; thick yellow C. in morning, thicker in afternoon; pasty C.; slimy; gray. Dryness and redness of T. (Verat. a., Rhus t.); in centre (Verat. v.). Tearing posteriorly on l. side of roof of T. on swallowing. Motion of T. painful; motion difficult. Speech difficult.

Pustules in M. and on tongue. False membranes in M., < on tongue, in irregularly rounded patches, whitish or grayish, somewhat thick, consistent and firmly adherent, in the œsophagus they are small, delicate, pale and easily detached, beneath the pseudo-membrane, the lingual mucous structure is excoriated, ecchymosed, wrinkled, and forms an elevated margin around the plastic deposit, which is red, the œsophagus is ulcerated, the borders of this ulceration not elevated but enclosed by a gray circle, the base being soft and grayish, and, at some points ecchymosed. Dryness. Salivation (Verat. a.); with a qualmish filthy taste; tasteless water runs out, with retching and bringing up of a little clear mucus. Taste bitter; B. in morning; B. and pasty; clammy; C. in morning on rising; metallic; salt; too sweet, to drinks; > drinking cold water. No taste to food (Verat. a.). Tobacco is not relished.

Clinical.—Tongue red and dry in the middle or red in streaks, with great prostration, or sometimes brown and dry in pneumonia.

Throat.—Pustules, some leaving soft superficial ulcers. Redness of soft palate and pharynx, with vesicles, many of which are opened, swollen and covered with mucus. Swelling of tonsils and cervical glands. Mucus; with short breath. Pain. Choking sensation. Burning; and in œsophagus. Disagreeable feeling caused by nausea; disagreeable feeling on palate. Soreness and constriction. Rawness, with difficult and painful swallowing. Swallowing difficult; > drinking cold water. Burning pain in œsophagus (Ars.). Sensitiveness of œsophagus.

Stomach.—Appetite increased; great, for apples, with thirst for cool water (Verat. a.); canine (Verat. a.) on walking in open air; diminished; D., with much thirst; soon satisfied, almost nauseated; lost; lost in morning. Aversion to food. No desire for tobacco. Thirst increased; at night; increased, next day lost; with internal heat; for acids and for strong liquors; no thirst.

Erections; then rising of fluid (as of food), which she swallows, then sour taste and scraping down throat; empty; hiccough-like; of milk and acrid fluid; bitter; bitter and acid. Gagging. Nauseous. Salt, nauseous fluid. Sharp, salt, watery fluid. Sour. Waterbrash. Hiccough.

Nausea; at noon when his appetite is nearly satisfied; at night, with vomiting and frequent stools; after dinner; after eating; after drinking; at sight of food; from swallowing saliva; with pressure in pit of stomach, then aching in forehead; with swelling and pain in epigastric region; with vomiting of mucus and acceleration of pulse; with disagreeable taste and salivation; with aversion to food; with aversion to food and pinchings in abdomen; with discomfort and depression; followed by yawning, with lachrymation, then vomiting. Anxious nausea (Ars.); rising suddenly from umbilicus and epigastric region in repeated attacks.

Retching; at noon after soup; after vomiting; with sweat on forehead, weakness of limbs and flow of water from mouth, then weakness; ineffectual.

Vomiting after eating (Ars., Verat.); after pressure on stomach; > lying on r. side; with headache and trembling of hands; with frequent stools, also with weakness (Ars.); with anguish (Ars.); then constant involuntary watery stools (Ars.). Difficult V.; of bitter, bad-smelling, pasty fluid with an acid reaction. V. of food; from cough; food and drink. Of curdled milk. Whitish liquid. Green; in masses, with great effort. Dark. Of mucus; tenacious, with bile; painful, of mucus and bile mixed with blood. Of bile. Of blood, with colic and rolling about in agony.

Flatulent, audible motions in epigastric region. Sticking in epigastric region; below pit, < retracting abdomen; in stomach, extending downward into l. side of abdomen and again upward, with aching when touched; burning. Cutting in pit, extending upward. Cramp. Pain; > eructations; in pit; in epigastrium, also with tension; in epigastrium on pressure; in epigastrium, with retching and thirst; with heat; anxious, in pit, with distention and sensitiveness to touch; in pit as from incarcerated flatus, in evening, with forcible expulsions of flatus, which relieve; burning, after eating.

Enteritis. Anxiety in pit. Fulness; at night, with eructations like foul eggs and restless sleep; after dinner, with nausea, gripping in umbilical region and sticking in sinuipit and occiput. Heaviness; and in whole abdomen, > open air and eructations, < in house, causing malaise. Emptiness. Digestion diminished. Weakness. Warmth; causing restlessness. Feeling of cold water in pit, with faintness, then heat in head. Tension in epigastric and liver regions. Whirling in pit evenings on going to sleep, with violent rapid beating of heart. Pulsation in epigastric region. Soreness on touch; in epigastric region. Creeping. Malaise, and in abdomen, on touch the pain increases in stomach but diminishes in abdomen.

Clinical.—Continual nausea, with vomiting or efforts to vomit, with perspiration on forehead, great prostration and trembling, usually without thirst; or vomiting of tough, slimy matter, with great thirst and disgust for food.

Abdomen.—Distention; with gurgling. Meteorism. Offensive flatus. Gurgling. Rumbling; after eating; before diarrhœa; during stool, with pressure; as from water, > eructations and emissions of flatus. Commotion. Stitches; extending through rectum. Tearing, with drawing. Gripping; > emissions of flatus; after eating, with cutting; > passage of wind upward and downward, with cutting and nausea. Pinching, with tension.

Cutting; towards 9 P.M.; with heaviness across lower abdomen, ineffectual retchings, then ineffectual tendency to diarrhœa, difficult vomiting, vomiting of food with sour taste, trembling in abdomen and bending together, then scraping in throat, then chill, then two diarrhœic stools, the last like water; with twisting, and with tearing from hypogastrium through thighs to knees, like labor-pains, stitches at navel, nausea and waterbrash, then diarrhœa, preceded by rumbling.

Pain; in evening after eating, > bending backward and stooping; after eating; P. after vomiting; before diarrhœa; < movement; on rising and on going to bed, sometimes changing into flatus, the emissions of which relieve, also > standing, returning when sitting, < bending; extending towards rectum, > emission of hot flatus; drawing, with fluid stools; (spasmodic, with closure of eyes and necessity to sleep); as from stones, < sitting and stooping, at times changing to gripping about umbilicus. Sensation as if full of stones after long sitting at work, though it does not feel hard. Inflammation. Nausea, like approaching griping. Tension, especially over bladder; < towards 6 p.m. Pulsation. Crawling in afternoon, becoming griping and flatulence. Sensitiveness to touch. Uneasiness. Discomfort, starting from A., with groaning, moaning and restlessness. Relaxed.

Upper.—Distention, with pain. Spasmodic motion as the nausea paroxysmally increases and retching arises in throat. Stitches. Tearing in l. Pain; in a spot in l. on retracting abdomen. Painful tension below short ribs, < sitting, from incarcerated flatus, which is emitted at times. Struggle in upper and lower A. between nausea and tendency to diarrhoea, at times > empty eructations and emissions of flatus. Discomfort in upper and lower, with necessity to lie and stretch out.

Dulness over liver, especially at base. Liver sensitive to touch. Aching in mesogastric region, with horripilation and gooseflesh; A. in umbilicus in morning. Pinching below umbilicus. Stitches over pubis. Sticking tearing in a spot in l. lower. Pressure in hypogastrum, with aching and cold shivers, as before menses. Pain in lower part of l. side. Burning in lower. Rheumatic sensation in l. pelvic bones.

Clinical.—Violent colic, as if the bowels would be cut to pieces, tearing from above downward; accumulation of water in mouth, and perhaps diarrhoea. Shifting of flatus, with sharp cutting colic, with nausea.

Rectum.—Sticking. Burning irritation like a tickling, extending through urethra to glans, where the tickling is most severe. Irritability and soreness. Ineffectual desire for stool though bowels seemed full and pressing. (Hæmorrhoids.) Heat in anus during stool; burning in anus after a stool. Tension in perineum, < walking, with urging to urinate.

Stool.—Watery; at night; and greenish; like opaque rice-water, with vomiting, pulse feeble, features shrunken, skin cold and bluish, < on hands and feet, fingers and toes dark livid or purplish, fingers shrunken like a washerwoman's, cramps in extremities, pain in stomach and bowels (Verat.). Half fluid. Diarrhoea; with vomiting; offensive; bilious, mucous; involuntary; yellowish-brown; like yeast, with cadaverous smell. Pasty; after repeated desire, though it seemed almost fluid. Hard; sometimes hard, sometimes soft; hard at first, then pasty, with tenesmus. Constipation. Blood-streaked. Bilious. Containing dead round worms. Mucous. Copious. Difficult. Involuntary. Frequent, with vomiting, and with weakness. Stool after eating.

Clinical.—Stools grass-green, slimy, with vomiting, colic, etc.

Urinary Organs.—Sticking in lower part of bladder. Micturition frequent; difficult and painful; involuntary M.; urging at night; urging increased, with burning in urethra and scanty urine, the last drops of which are bloody and accompanied by pain in bladder. Sticking in posterior part of urethra in forenoon. Tearing in fore part of urethra. Burning in urethra when urinating; B. after urinating. Diuresis. Copious urine forenoon and evening; copious and watery; copious, dark and turbid. Urine retained, then fatal eclampsia. U. brownish-red, turbid and of strong odor; red inflammatory look and deposit of bloody red fibres. Turbid U. at first clear like water, deposits milky sediment. U. contained desquamated epithelium of uniferous tubes. U. albuminous (Arsen.).

Sexual Organs.—Swelling of external. Excited, then relaxed. Desire aroused.

Respiratory Organs.—Pain in larynx, with short cough on talking. Hoarseness in morning; H. < talking (K. bi.); H., with cough, hawking and expectoration. Voice small, changed, in evening. Weak, slow speech. Fulness and oppression in bronchi. Tickling in trachea, causing short cough. Tough mucus in bronchi and trachea (K. bi.).

Cough; in morning, with easy hawking of mucus; about 2 or 3 A.M., with expectoration; before midnight; when angry; after eating, with vomiting of food and mucus; with sneezing; painful; dry; dry and short; difficult, with expectoration. Irritation to C. from catarrh, though she has no power to cough; irritation to C., with tough mucus in throat, oppressed breathing and stitches in l. chest. Expectoration of sweet transparent mucus; white frothy sputa.

Asthma. Suffocation at 3 A.M., with necessity to sit up (K. iod.), > cough and expectoration; S. in evening in bed, with necessity to sit up all night. Breath arrested. Dyspnoea; with necessity to be supported in a sitting position in bed (Ars.). Short breath. Slow and labored B. Breathing hindered by swelling of pharynx and accumulation of tough mucus, with fever and delirium. Heavy, anxious B. Deep B. Sighing. Snoring expiration in sleep, with intermittent inspiration to two jerks. Rapid B. Snuffing for air before she got the strength to cough. Rough B. on auscultation.

Clinical.—Bronchitis in children, with rattling of mucus, which accumulates in the bronchial tubes and seems to fill up the air-passages so that there is great shortness of breath, cold sweat; the child coughs always on getting angry. Threatening suffocation, with wheezing and rattling and cyanosis, cannot clear the lungs, dyspnoea on falling asleep. In pneumonia of old people or those greatly debilitated, with rattling in the chest, cold perspiration, threatening paralysis of the lungs. The cough is usually short, without expectoration. Sometimes valuable in œdema of the lungs, with great dyspnoea and cyanosis, with dilated heart.

Chest.—Rattling of mucus, with oppression (Phos.). Pain behind and at base, < deep breathing; deep in C. and pharynx after violent sneezing. Pressure on, in sleep. Oppression (Phos.). Constriction; with cough. Fulness; in lungs. Anxiety, and around heart; A., with oppression of chest (Phos.) and rising of warmth from heart. Rawness. Almost sore twitching feeling towards evening, especially in l. side, with despair. Burning in (before each of his epileptic attacks), which rises into throat.

Heart.—Pressure or heaviness in præcordium. Oppression (Phos.). Anxiety in præcordium. Apprehension and warmth about heart, with sensation as if he felt the beat of the heart in the head. Warmth about. Heavy feeling in præcordium. Palpitation; with purging. Whirling every night, with beating, > sweat. Action rapid; and irregular; small and irregular; intermittent and feeble; weak, afterwards forcible.

Pulse.—Rapid, weak and trembling (Ars.); R. during nausea, rising till he vomits, then slow and weak; and almost audible, with general pulsation, which she believes must be audible. Excited. Full; irregular and rapid; F. and slow. Slow and weak. Contracted. Imperceptible. Intermittent.

Neck.—Cramp in muscles. Sudden aching over l. then over r. scapula on turning head and on touch. Weakness of muscles close to occiput, < r. side.

Back.—Stitching tearing, especially near r. hip. Pain as from weakness, < after eating and while sitting. Stitches in kidney region on moving arm. Pain in loins; as if he had carried a weight there, before and on rising from bed, > after rising; rheumatic P. above sacrum in morning.

Clinical.—Lumbago and sciatica, the vertebrae feel as if rubbed against each other.

Extremities.—Inclination to stretch. Tearing; and drawing; T. and D. in joints. Rheumatic drawings through r. hand, then drawings through legs from above downward, especially in region of knee and noticed on walking. Rheumatic and bruised feeling before and on rising. Weariness. Heaviness; of feet and arms. Insensibility, with coldness (Sec. c.).

Upper Extremities.—Cracking in shoulder-joint, with tearing to hands. Pain in r. shoulder-joint as if dislocated. Short rheumatic pain in and around shoulder-joint and l. breast. Twitching in r. arm; of tendons of arms and hands; tearing, in arm and l. side. Paroxysmal drawing along outer surface of l. upper arm, almost as if in bone. Rheumatic pain in l. elbow. Tearing in muscles of l. forearm. Trembling of hands (Agar.). Stitches on back of l. hand on touching hairs. Fingers contracted upon shoulders, with rigidity of every muscle. Deadness of tips of fingers, with dryness, hardness and insensibility.

Lower Extremities.—Cramp. Sticking upward in varices. Drawing, tensile pain. Tension and tearing. Heaviness and stiffness.

Thigh—Spasmodic twitching of muscles. Sticking in hip and knee in evening in bed. Rheumatic pain in and over l. hip; below l. hip. Rheumatic drawing in upper part of r., (spasmodic drawing in T., extending to abdomen). Tension in hamstrings in evening on walking (Rhus t.). Burning pricking in knees. Aching in knee as if the limb had no power and as if tendons were stretched, in morning in bed and on rising. Weakness of knees.

Leg.—Tetanic spasms, > straightening. Twitching in l. calf. Cramp in leg, > forcible extension; C. in calves; in calves afternoons, > walking; in calves, waking him. Slow rhythmical picking below l. knee. Upward sticking in varices. Rheumatic pain on l.; side of l. calf; rheumatic between l. calf and malleolus. Spasmodic drawing in calves. Weariness in legs. Numbness and coldness.

Swelling of r. malleolus, with stiffness. Sudden pricking as from a blow in l. instep; near inner malleolus. Tension on dorsum of foot during the day while walking. Weariness of feet. Feet go to sleep on sitting down (Sec. c.). Sudden painful rhythmical picking in l. great toe.

Skin.—Pallor of whole body; bluish. Yellow spots on fingers. Sallowness increasing to jaundice. Eruption; itching. Spots like flea bites on hands. Rash; on arms, breast and occiput; reddish; itching, suppurating. Pimples on genitals; itching, from waist to knees; like the itch, on arm near wrist and on upper arm, the itching > by scratching; small red, conical, hard, with inflamed base like lichen simplex, on breast, anterior surfaces of upper arms, wrists, hypogastrum and inner surfaces of thighs.

Pocklike eruption, often pustular; pimples like pocks on side of chin, with tickling. Pustules; on genitals; on scrotum and penis; as in small-pox on inner surface of forearm, then on back, painful, then forming crusts; on chest and neck, like cow-pox, with red areola, then a crust leaving a deep scar; itching; painful. Vesicles over whole body. Suppurating places become confluent and discharge blood and matter.

Itching; on scrotum; around an ulcer; crawling, in the sores in evening on lying down in bed; painful burning, in leg, where there are varices, as if a suppurating inflammatory swelling would ensue; biting; in r. sole evenings in bed, with biting.

Clinical.—Pustular eruptions with red areola. Said to be useful in adynamic types of small-pox.

Sleep.—Yawning; and stretching, also forenoons. Sleepiness; at 10 A.M., also with weak and gone-to-sleep limbs; 11 A.M., with sleep if he sits still and vivid dreams of a continuation of his previous thoughts; early in evening; in evening, then wide awake till late at night; after dinner; on horseback in strong air; when riding in open air, with vertigo; with inactivity. Sleep as soon as he sat down in the daytime; S. after dinner. Sleeps with head erect; on back, with l. hand under his head. Stupid sleep. Heavy sleep; and on waking knows nothing about it.

Sleeplessness; till midnight; till 1 A.M., then dream that he is wading in deep water and cannot get out. Late falling asleep, with frequent waking and tossing about. Difficult falling asleep. Shocks and jerks coming from abdomen in first sleep, throwing of one or other arm from the body, now of a foot, now throwing of the whole body into the air. Stating in sleep in forenoon. Screaming in sleep, with staring eyes and trembling and drawing up of arms and feet. Talking in sleep. Restless sleep; with confused heavy dreams. Short sleep. Light sleep, full of historic dreams. Waking often from anxious dreams.

Dreams anxious; vivid, heavy, anxious; heavy. Historic. Of fire, from which he must fly. That he preaches without having memorized and "gets stuck." Fatiguing. Nightmare.

Fever.—Chilliness; forenoons; at night and on rising in morning. Rigor at 5 A.M., then heat, with rapid and full and strong pulse, hot skin, red face, heat in head, palpitation, burning at stomach, fulness and nausea, impeded respiration, pressure and constriction of chest, cough, rough respiration and pain under l. nipple on deep inspiration. Chill at 3 P.M., with trembling. C. at 6 P.M., then after eating heat with drawing in occiput; at 8 P.M., with flushes of heat.

Cold limbs; hands; l. hand; hands, with moisture; cold hands and finger-tips; feet; skin; skin of r. arm, hand and both great toes; cold shivering through skin during stool. Chill, with gooseflesh and cold skin, which remained longest on hands; C., with drowsiness and weakness; with heat of certain parts, especially of face. Rigor, with burning in head and beating of heart. C. alternating with heat; till 8 P.M.; on motion; with heat in head.

Shivering. Trembling chill on going into open air. Chill, as if cold water were dashed over him, with gooseflesh on arms and yawning. Creeping chill, with heat, nausea and faintness. Chill from within outward, with trembling and general sick feeling; C. from within outward, spreading from spine over abdomen and limbs; extending from spine to limbs and especially to abdomen, with feverishness. C. running through all vessels.

Heat; afternoon, < motion, especially in head; H. in evening, especially in face; at 6 o'clock, with want of appetite, then increased pain in abdomen; in head, also < motion; on forehead in morning; of face; in middle of spine; of skin; with full hard pulse; with weak pulse; with restlessness, thirst and headache, followed at night by sweat. Heat and moisture of hands on coughing, with sweat of head. Heat and sweat of forehead on coughing, so that she became dizzy. Burning in joints, with tearing. Heat rising to head in flushes. Dry H., driving him out of bed. Fatiguing H. at night, interrupting sleep. H. of same kind at the same hour two days.

Sweat in morning on waking; at night; in sleep; when vomiting; S. on head and chest; forehead and neck; forehead, with coldness of head; especially of affected parts. General. Cold; and clammy; cold on forehead; cold on face; clammy on face; clammy on forehead during nausea. Anxious, when vomiting.

Antipyrine.

An alkaloid synthetically prepared, Dimethyl-oxy-chinicine. Solutions in distilled water or triturations.

Properties.—It reduces the temperature of the body, allays pain, promotes sleep and causes perspiration.

Swollen body, great pains in limbs. Numbness. Anxiety. "I don't know what is the matter with me, I remember nothing, I am becoming like an idiot, I am going mad." Loss of consciousness. Headache. Dizziness. Snapping in head so that she ran up and down the room screaming, partially losing control of herself and apprehending insanity. Singing in ears, with congestion. Sneezing violently, about twenty times without pause, face and eyes suffused, tears flowed, mucus flowed from nose, breathing labored, with feeling of suffocation, inability to lie down, violent cough, with expectoration of much mucus, with profuse sweat. Itching and burning in mouth and throat, < in roof of mouth, the feeling soon extended to eyes, nose and ears, violent sneezing at least fifty times, with copious watery fluid running from nose and eyes, such turgescence of mucous membrane that she could not breathe through nose, afterwards stupid, tormenting feeling, with swelling of nose and eyes till exhausted she fell asleep, sleep disturbed and tiresome. Coppery taste in violent bouts, with intermittent coppery smell.

No appetite. Vomiting. Epigastric pain causing her to bend forward and cry out. Gastro-enteritis. Expanding sensation rising from stomach, instead of the nausea which she had had. Pain in abdomen. Incontinence of urine. Urine diminished. Hoarseness. Dyspnoea, breathing hard, with feeling of suffocation. Pain in chest. Tightness of chest. Depressing effect upon heart from large doses, causing disturbed circulation and respiration, cyanosis and vomiting, the final result is paralysis, these are the secondary action. Pulse rapid and full. Pulse increases, temperature decreases.

Edema of arms and hands. Skin covered with red spots. Eruptions appear and disappear suddenly.

Erythematous eruption appearing first in arms, passing down, appearing last on legs. Erythematous patches on arms, eyes felt uncomfortable, she slept scarcely at all, feet cold, next morning face was red and swollen, eyes almost closed, the rash was general and of the color of pomegranate, the intervals between the patches scarcely noticeable at first sight, appetite poor, sensation as if inside of body were filled with ice, little itching, next day catarrhal conjunctivitis, irritation of nasal fossæ and hoarseness, pulse twice as fast as usual, 78 to the minute, buzzing in ears, for sometime afterwards prostration and intermittent sensations of cold. Itching on inside of thighs, with urticaria, which soon extended to abdomen. Urticaria, especially in women; general U., with intense itching, she tears herself with her nails. Sleepiness. Intermittent coldness. Heat. Cold sweat, then quick rise in temperature, with chill and fall, rapid pulse.

Clinical.—High fever in morning on rising, wanting water, head aches, pain in frontal sinuses. Erythema.

Apis.

Live bees (Apis mellifica) are shaken in a bottle, and then digested in dilute alcohol for several days.

General Action.—Erysipelatous inflammation and destruction of tissue (of dermal tissue), acute inflammation of kidneys and some other parenchymatous tissues.

Allies.—Canth., Rhus t., Gelsem, Ledum, Scelae corn., Lyc., Phos., Mag. m., Merc., Sulph.

Generalities.—Swelling of whole body; with pallid, deathlike look of face; of whole side of body, first in joints; of face, neck, chest and limbs. Blood colorless and only red in the centre of the vessel. (No blood when venesection is attempted.) Failed to respond when spoken to. Falling to the ground. Twitching; burning, like a prickling contraction from without inward, in r. thumb and other places. Convulsions; from the offer of water, which was desired, with expression of fear in face as in hydrophobia, also C. when touched on r. index (the place of the sting); generally tonic, but in a measure clonic, with knees drawn up to breast and hands and arms moved convulsively, partially conscious and continually moaning. Electric shocks, thrilling ends of fingers and toes. Trembling.

Burning stitches here and there, especially on back, which itched. Neuralgic rheumatism. General bruised sensation. Prickling over whole body (Sec. corn.), externally and internally. General sensation of fullness and weakness of co-ordinating power, especially in hands. Malaise. Strange, indefinable feeling; with stinging feeling and white and red spots in palms, on arms and feet. Sensation in whole body as if everything were too large. Restlessness; in afternoon, with weakness; alternating with depression approaching syncope; nervous, the latter half of the night. Necessity to lie down; sudden, without weakness or faintness. Sensation as if dying. Faintness; with nausea; F., with weakness, anxiety and distress at stomach, oppression of chest, dyspnoea, short, rapid breathing and rapid pulse. Weakness; evening, with vertigo; during diarrhoea; with trembling; with desire to be let alone; as if bruised in every limb, especially in back, < rising from a seat, with necessity to stretch.

Sudden weakness; with coldness; with vomiting, profuse diarrhoea, cold limbs, pale face, griping in abdomen, pulse weak, after abatement of these symptoms redness of part stung. General sensation diminished. Numbness over whole body. Amelioration from sleep.

Clinical.—There is general aggravation of all symptoms about 5 P.M. The pains are always sudden, stinging. As a rule, the patients are not restless, but in some cases of hydrocephalus there is great restlessness, with rolling of the head from side to side. The effects generally travel from r. to l., pain, erysipelas, inflammations. In paralysis following diphtheria or typhoid fever it is sometimes indicated; sometimes, but rarely, in rheumatic affections. Cases are reported in which there was diminished sensibility with paralysis, could not tell when the foot touched the ground, with soreness of the spine and pains. General inclination to dropsical effusions and anasarca, with stinging pains. General intolerance of the heat of the bed.

Mind.—Excitement; approaching delirium. Violent affection of whole nervous system. Fear; of death, or sensation as if he could not breathe again. Anxiety; with excitement and restlessness. Sadness; in forenoon, with longing for death. Irritability; allowed no one but his mother to come near him. Dissatisfaction with everything. Restlessness, with dulness of head. Listless. Concentration impossible. Inability to fix attention on a book requiring thought (Gelsem.). Inability to think clearly and to express himself. Confusion; when reading. Unconsciousness.

Clinical.—Stupor or even unconsciousness, with or without symptoms of inflammation of the meninges of the brain. As a rule, it is characterized by sudden starts with screaming, as from some terrible pain in the head. In meningitis from suppressed eruptions with stupor, apparently the result of effusion, interrupted by short cries. In the stupor occurring during the progress of low types of fever or malarial disease, as in typhus, diphtheria, etc. Mania resulting from the suppression of the menses, with stupor alternating with attacks of erotic mania. Impairment of mind so that the patient seems preoccupied, lets things fall from her hands, and seems to be unconscious of things transpiring about her. As a rule, the mental state in erysipelas, diphtheria, low fevers, etc., requiring Apis, is one of apathy, indifference, or even unconsciousness.

Head.—Aching from 8 to 10 P.M., with chilliness and toothache, pain in forehead, alternately in l. and r. side, afterwards in r. side of vertex, where it is sensitive to touch, then in temples, then r. side of forehead, next morning in l. side of forehead; A. in evening during cough; during cough; when rising from reclining or from sitting; < reading; > pressure; > during diarrhoea; mostly confined to forehead, with fever; with fulness and heaviness in occiput; and in eyeballs; dull, heavy, from rising till 3 P.M.; oppressive, when in a warm room and reading; expansive, on exertion, with vertigo and palpitation; bursting, with vertigo and confusion of mind. Confusion; with pain in sinicput; with pain in forehead. Anxiety, with swelling of face. Fulness, with heaviness, pressure and sometimes sudden rush of blood. Throbbing, < moving and stooping, > pressure. Whole brain seems weary, asleep and crawling (Con.). Head feels swollen. Heaviness, with pressure; H. as if she could hardly hold it up, < during day and by motion, coughing, etc., with throbbing. Vertigo; evenings after sleeping on the sofa, with headache; with blindness; with nausea; confused, worse when sitting than when walking, extreme when lying and closing eyes.

Forehead.—Stitches, and in temples; over r. eye, extending to eyeball; burning, in l. superciliary ridge. Aching, and in temples; after sneezing, with vertigo; with dulness and confusion; inwardly above outer end of l. eyebrow, in afternoon, lasting all day, < when coughing; in upper part as if it would burst, extending to temples; in l. side in evening, with stitches under l. ear, chilliness, yawning, and pain in umbilical region; in sinicput, with vertigo; heavy tensile, over eyes, with pain through orbits; dull heavy, > pressure, and in sides of head. Dulness just over eyes. Confusion from supraorbital ridges to protuberances, > after breakfast.

Temples.—Stitch in l. in evening. Aching in l.; and in organs of causality, comparison, mirthfulness and ideality; in single jerks to middle of forehead, < 10 A.M., with sensitiveness of head to touch, burning of eyes and itching of nose; sharp, in r.; heavy, in morning on waking, r., then l.; throbbing. Boring; every morning on waking; intermittent. Bursting sensation (Bell.).

Heaviness in vertex, with fulness. Pressure deep inward in l. side of vertex when drawing on boots. Headache in l. side and vertex when coughing. Heavy pain in r. parietal protuberance. Aching in occiput; < shaking head. Blow in suboccipital region. Swelling of head; inflammatory S. and twitching, so that apoplexy was feared. Hair falls out. Itching; in afternoon; extending to face and neck, afterwards to thighs and hands.

Clinical.—The headache is usually a hot, heavy feeling, with congestion and with sudden stabbing pains, almost universally relieved by external pressure and aggravated by any motion. In meningitis, acute or chronic, or tubercular hydrocephalus, extremely valuable when the peculiar symptoms are present, the child bores the head into the pillow, is stupid and occasionally screams out.

Eyes.—Sclere injected. Bloodshot; and protruding, pupil dilated and immovable, and was obliged to change from convex to concave glasses (from sting in cornea). Piercing in evening, with necessity to remove the spectacles while reading and writing (in a near-sighted woman). Boring forenoon, with piercing. Burning stinging in r., beginning with heaviness and causing lachrymation. Sensation as if a mass of mucus were in l. Heaviness, with inclination to close them, and after being closed for sometime desire to rub and press them.

Twitching in l. < at night. Stinging itching, and in lids and around eyes (Sulph.), on l. side, and especially in inner canthus. Piercing itching around eyes, in brows, lids and eyes themselves, < l., and more at inner canthi, with desire to rub eyes while pressing them hard, with soreness and smarting in margins of lids, in canthi and in eye itself (Sulph.), quivering of l. ball and sensation of mucus in them, < l., full feeling in eyes and weak vision. Weakness, with photophobia; W., with pain when used. Lachrymation; l.; of l., in evening, with pain in l. side of forehead; of l., with burning and sensation of a foreign body in it, weakness of both eyes, with pain and sensitiveness to light in evening when sewing; of r.; of r. at night in bed, with flow of mucus; of r. from a biting piercing sensation; with pain in eyes; with pain when looking at a bright light.

Piercing in balls. Aching in l. ball, mostly in lower part; A. around l. ball, then around both. Pupils insensible to light. Lids swollen, red, œdematous (Rhus t.). Upper lids so swollen that they hang like sacs over face. Agglutination; with soreness of margins and canthi. Twitching of r. lid. Stinging in r. lower, in morning. Burning in margins of lids (Sulph.), causing lachrymation. Stinging in r. caruncula. Sensation of a foreign body in l. outer canthus after constant profuse lachrymation. Itching on margins; l. of r., with prickling; paroxysmal, of r.; of l. inner canthus. Conjunctiva injected. Burning stinging around l. eye and in superciliary ridge. Aching over and about eyes, > pressure. Pain around orbits; in l. orbit, mostly lower part. Photophobia. Vision obscured; difficult, with a whirling sensation in sight. Blindness; in afternoon when stooping.

Clinical.—An extremely valuable remedy in a great variety of diseases of the eyes; in inflammation of the lids, which are oedematous, often everted so that the lid actually rolls over to the cheek, the conjunctiva is inflamed and oedematous, with hot lachrymation, photophobia, violent stinging pains; the lids even may become ulcerated. It is often found valuable in purulent ophthalmia, with infiltration of the balls and lids, great oedema and sharp pains are sufficiently characteristic. In inflammations of the cornea of various sorts, serofulous, parenchymatous, with or without destruction of the tissues, especially in ophthalmia following eruptive diseases, with great oedema, burning stinging pains. There is, as a rule, temporary relief from the application of cold water. Sometimes indicated in staphylooma of the cornea or sclerotic. In serous inflammation within the eyeball, in serous iritis or aquacapsulitis, with punctiform deposit on the inner surface of the cornea. In muscular asthenopia, with sharp stinging pain on attempting to use the eyes, swelling of lids, etc. In short, it is an extremely valuable remedy in inflammatory affections of the eyes, always characterized by serous exudation, oedema, with sudden piercing pains.

Ears.—Swelling; of a lymphatic gland behind ear. Purple. Stitches under l. Pain in r. middle; behind l. Itching in r., then l.; in ears and glands near root of tongue, increasing in two years to sharp itching and burning in throat just back of palate, finally working into bronchial tubes, down around lungs, and resulting in asthma. Ringing in r. Rumbling. Hearing diminished.

Clinical.—Erysipelatous inflammation of the external ear. Deafness in fever.

Nose.—Swelling. Obstruction. Sneezing; on going into open air; violent; with watery discharge from nose and eyes. Coryza, < evening, with dull sensation in nose, and now and then some dropping; with dread of cold but < from warmth; with feeling as if it would swell. C. at 4 P.M., with dryness of nose, then burning of lips, with sensation as if they would chap. Blowing of blood; mornings.

Clinical.—In erysipelatous inflammation of the nose externally, red swelling, sharp stinging pains. Coldness of the tip of the nose when the throat begins to be sore is a pretty sure indication for Apis.

Face.—Swollen; red and oedematous, especially nose, eyelids and cheeks; and head. Inflammatory S., r. eye completely closed, l. almost, the cheeks hung down to the breast; and eyelids puffed up, lips turned upward, inside out; and cyanotic. Shrunken, wan and anxious. Pale. Red; then purple; with heat, burning piercing pain and swelling. Stinging in l. malar-bone; burning, in chin and malar-bones. Sensation as if l. side would swell, especially about eye.

Jaw.—Drawing back and forth of lower. Stiffness of lower extending to mouth and throat, making speech difficult and unintelligible, with constriction in throat exciting spasmodic hawking cough, with difficulty in breathing, < on inspiration, throat swollen, < uvula and arches of palate, < on l. side, deflecting uvula to the right.

Lips.—Swollen; upper; and sensation of swelling, then eruption about lips and dryness and desquamation of lower lip. Cyanotic. Livid and open. Lower chapped. Dark streak along epithelium, with cracks and desquamation. Dryness, with a black stripe in red portion. Roughness, < upper, with tension. Prickling, with bruised and swollen feeling; P., and on tongue, extending over face, temples and head, thence over entire body.

Clinical.—The appearance of the face varies with the character of the other affections; in disease of the kidneys in pregnancy the face is oedematous and pale; during fever it is generally hot and bright red; sometimes almost livid; in erysipelas it is swollen and inflamed, with severe stinging pains; the erysipelas is characterized by puffiness and oedematous infiltration, which, as a rule, does not pit on pressure; the swelling is out of proportion to the intensity of the pain.

Mouth.—Jerking grinding of teeth on biting them together, in swallowing, after yawning, etc. Toothache in evening in r. upper jaw, during which she feels the biting-together of the teeth in her head, with chilliness. Jumping pain in l. upper molars. Gums bleed. Gums painful.

Tongue.—Swollen; then S. of face and whole body, with inability to swallow, move tongue or speak. A row of vesicles somewhat to l. of tip, with soreness and rawness; V. on tip and l. side, with red spots. Covered with a dirty white fur, pale, soft and flabby. Pain, with burning rawness, stinging, and with vesicles along edge. Rawness on margin, with scalding and pimples and stinging. Dryness, with redness and tenderness of mouth (Rhus t.). Prickling heat. Burning extending into stomach, with eructations and gathering of tasteless water in mouth, the eructations < after drinking water, almost suffocating her.

Scalding in mouth and throat. Burning in mouth in forenoon, with thirst. Dryness; under tongue at 6 P.M., > moving tongue much; of palate, also with roughness. Salivation; soapy, mornings, and in fauces. Taste bitter at back of tongue and in fauces; B., afterwards more pungent, spreading to fauces, with affection of tongue as after chewing pyrethrum, at same time symptoms in all parts of mouth as after alcohol. Taste as of sweet almonds. Loss of taste.

Clinical.—During acute febrile states the tongue is red and hot, even dry and hot, and in low fevers it may even tremble, reminding one of Lachesis. Sometimes in scarlet fever it is cracked, sore and covered with blisters or ulcerated, but is rarely red and dry. In diphtheria it is swollen, not heavily coated.

Throat.—Swollen; with hoarseness, difficulty in breathing, difficulty on swallowing from irritability of epiglottis, and with white spot to left of glottis; and posterior part of hard palate, base of tongue and inside of cheeks, the parts bright red, dry and shining. Viscid mucus deep in T. in morning, compelling frequent hawking; thick M. in pharynx. Pressure as from a foreign body in upper back part. Rawness, with inclination to hawk; R., with viscid saliva adhering to hard palate, velum and tongue; extending to pit of stomach, with hoarse, hard, spasmodic, hollow cough, caused by a sensation of filling up in throat, as if he needed to raise something, eating drove the soreness downward and he continued to eat till soreness and cough disappeared. Full and choking sensation, as if filling up; F., constriction and suffocation, < horizontal position, with difficult, anxious breathing. Constriction, with sensation of a foreign body in it and painful swallowing. Deep-seated stinging itching, at lower part of neck, with constriction. Dryness; with heat (Bell, Æsc. h.). Swallowing difficult. Nausea apparently from T.

Clinical.—In severe inflammations of the throat, with general stupor and prostration, even in diphtheria, we will find in Apis an extremely valuable and frequently indicated remedy. It is almost a specific in true diphtheria, always indicated when the throat is very much swollen and œdematous, with severe stinging pains on attempting to swallow, with great inertia or even complete stupor. In suspected scarlet fever, in the early stage, when a rash is seen upon the hard palate and the throat is œdematous and bright red, with great pain on swallowing and the eruption is mottled, without thirst.

Stomach.—Appetite lost; and he refused drink. Thirst. Eructations; after eating; tasting like the yolk of eggs; violent empty during headache. Hot vapor seems to rise from S., with dry throat, without thirst, with burning cheeks and cold feet. Aversion, with chilliness and cold limbs. Nausea; at night, with rumbling in abdomen as before diarrhœa; with vertigo; with vomiting and faintness; with pain in whole body. Gagging. Vomiting at night in sleep, with thirst; V., with diarrhœa; of food; of bile; then a thin bitter fluid with pain across lower abdomen; yellow and bitter. Prickling as from needles. Pressure in region of orifice; in pit. Crampy pain, and in abdomen, then vomiting and diarrhœa. Oppression at pit; at epigastrium. Sore feeling, and in abdomen. Burning.

Clinical.—The absence of thirst is the rule in Apis cases, though sometimes there may be great thirst; in these circumstances the condition of stupor and the afternoon aggravation at 5 o'clock will overbalance the presence of thirst. The vomiting of food and frequent effort to vomit must be associated with the Apis symptoms in meningitis or in the early stage of scarlet fever and in various other troubles. It has occasionally been found useful in the nausea of pregnancy.

Abdomen.—Distention; after a moderate meal, and dyspnoea when lying, strong desire for stool, passed flatus and urine freely. Rumbling, with urging to stool; R. as before diarrhœa. Loud offensive flatus. Sputtering flatus after stool. Cutting. Gripping. Sickly feeling, inclining him to continue a quiet sitting posture. Pain; mornings, with hard scanty stools; in morning, with urging to stool, also with pain when straining, after dreaming at night that she had pain in abdomen and diarrhœa; P. < pressure, touch and horizontal position, with sensitiveness; with urging to pass flatus; with a feverish trembling feeling; contractive, at 11 P.M. when walking, compelling her to bend forward. Soreness; morning; when sneezing or on pressure. Compression. Nausea.

Faintness and nausea from short ribs across the whole abdomen. Pain under l. last ribs; in umbilical region, with chilliness; from hips towards umbilicus, forenoon; in hypogastrium, with bloating of abdomen; in hypogastrium, with bearing down in uterus, as if menses were coming on. Shooting deep in pelvis. Throbbing boring over crest of l. ilium, > eructations. Soreness deep within, below and beside r. hip, with burning and numbness.

Clinical.—Abdominal dropsy, sometimes with diarrhœa and vomiting, great oppression of breath with the other general symptoms indicating Apis. With all the abdominal affections there is present the characteristic bruised feeling in the abdominal walls, which are extremely tender (Lyc.), sometimes even when the abdomen is not swollen; we may even meet with this symptom in hydrocephalus. Stool sometimes involuntary on every motion; this symptom indicates Apis in diarrhœa and cholera infantum, especially in great stupor with disinclination to take food or drink. In dysentery with a low type of fever, apathy, bloody, almost painless stools, abdomen sore, anus raw, tongue raw, dry, sometimes with tenesmus. Cholera infantum with constant relapses, with threatening brain troubles, sunken abdomen; the child gets stupid and starts suddenly, especially during dentition. There may be constipation, with fever or with hydrocephalus.

Rectum and Anus.—Electric shock in R. then urging to stool. Frequent urging. Tenesmus. Anus, raw sensation, with diarrhœa; pain in A.; throbbing in A.; sensation of stuffing; heat.

Clinical.—Hæmorrhoids, with stinging pain, the anus becomes extremely sore (Æsc. h.). Piles after confinement, with sharp, stinging pain. Ascariæ, with delirium, screaming, etc.

Stool.—Watery, yellow; frequent yellow, W., with gripping; W. copious. Soft, mixed with serum, orange-colored. Loose in morning; and urgent; loose, lumpy. Copious diarrhœa, with vomiting; lumpy D., with vomiting, then watery and fetid stools, then pappy mixed with mucus and blood, then stools like dysentery, with tenesmus and crushed sensation in intestines. Copious, blackish brown, green and whitish. Frequent. Scanty, pappy, light yellow. Natural, preceded by emission of flatus, and almost colorless water, containing lumps, or fragments of jellylike mucus, streaked with blood. Omitted.

Clinical.—Diarrhœa, watery, yellow, sometimes painless. Chronic diarrhœa, cannot urinate without having a stool, or the stools become dark and fetid, worse after eating (compare with Aloeæ).

Urinary Organs.—Burning and soreness when urinating. Excitement. Disagreeable feeling in bladder, with bearing down in region of sphincter, frequent desire to urinate and during micturition burning smarting and uneasy feeling in spermatic cords. Urging, with scanty urine and dribbling. Frequent desire to urinate; with burning in urethra and with uneasiness in spermatic cord; frequent desire, and when passing burning and sensation as if the flow were obstructed by contraction near glans. Involuntary micturition. No micturition for thirty-six hours. Stitches in urethra. Burning in urethra before and after micturition. Urine high-colored, and frequent emissions of small quantities. Urine copious; < outdoor exercise, with flatulence and diarrhœa; pale, with red or mealy sediment, frequent urging and strangury. Scanty; with frequent micturition. Offensive.

Clinical.—In acute inflammation of the kidneys, frequently with great aching in the lumbar region, with soreness over the region of the kidneys (Merc. c., Phyt.), and excessively bruised sensation in the abdominal walls on deep pressure. Acute inflammation of the kidneys, particularly during or subsequent to eruptive diseases; the urine may be almost entirely suppressed, loaded with casts; the dropsy also is very great, comes on rapidly, is especially marked in the face and upper part of the body, with stupor, absence of thirst; with restlessness and dryness of skin. In inflammation of the bladder, which becomes very irritable; frequent or even involuntary micturition; at times when urine is passed there is stinging pain or there may be strangury (Canthar.). The urine is rarely bloody, very frequently high-colored. The urine is sometimes retained in the bladder, rarely suppressed (Stram.). As a rule, in diphtheria, erysipelas, scarlet fever, etc., when there is no inflammation of the urinary passages the urine is quite free and pale, even though the patient drinks but little. In subacute or chronic Bright's disease Apis has been found serviceable in temporary exacerbations with an increase of dropsy, sometimes about the head, when the patient is stupid, sometimes in the chest, when there is great difficulty in breathing and the patient is suffocated on lying down. Incontinence of urine in old people.

Sexual Organs.—Frequent and long-lasting erections. Scrotum tense and translucent, looking as in hydrocele. Testicle swollen, with tension and itching; l. T. sore; fulness in r., with aching. Excitement. Desire when sitting at home and when driving.

Deep penetrating pain in clitoris, extending into vagina, with swelling, dryness and hardness of labia minora, which is covered with a crust, hindering the beginning of micturition, > in evening by applications of cold water. Hemorrhage from uterus. Metrorrhagia in second month, with profuse discharge of blood, heaviness of abdomen, faintness, restlessness and yawning. Miscarriage at second month; at third month. Bearing down as in early stage of parturition; B., with sensation as before menses; in r. ovarian region. Cutting in l. ovarian region across to r. in evening when stretching in bed. Strained pain in l. ovarian region at 6 P.M., < walking, then in corresponding spot on r. side, with lame feeling in scapulae. Drawing in r. ovarian region.

Clinical.—Erysipelatous inflammation of penis, with excessive edema, great soreness and stinging pain. Hydrocele with the characteristic symptoms. Inflammation and swelling of r. testicle. Inflammation of prepuce, with warty excrescences. It particularly affects the r. ovary (Lyc.); curative in various forms of inflammation and neuralgia, always with extremely sensitive sharpstinging pains. Has cured cystic tumor of the ovary (ovarian dropsies), with bruised sore pain in abdominal walls (Lyc.). In inflammation of the cellular tissue of the pelvis (pelvic cellulitis), with excessive soreness over the lower abdominal region and sharp pain (Ars.). In enlarged and inflamed uterus following pregnancy, etc. While menstruation is sometimes profuse, as an accompaniment in various diseases, it has been found useful in the suppression of menses with the cerebral symptoms above noted, also with local inflammatory symptoms, bearing down, extreme tenderness, with flushing of face and head, especially in girls. Dysmenorrhoea, with severe ovarian pains, with a puffed, waxy appearance of face, etc. It has averted threatening abortion with soreness of the ovaries, hemorrhage. Erysipelas of the mammary glands or swelling like tumors, with stinging boring pains.

Respiratory Organs.—Raw sensation in larynx, with sensitiveness. Hoarseness. Cannot speak above a whisper. Cough in shocks when roused from sleep before midnight, from a crawling in windpipe at pit of throat, > when something is loosened and swallowed, at every shock increased headache in l. side and upper part; severe C. before midnight, < after lying and sleeping, from tickling in posterior wall in windpipe, with desire to brush the spot, l. side of head aches while coughing, he must bend head back and hold it so that the shock cannot act with so much violence, cough < warmth and rest, > loosening mucus; deep, hard ringing, from constriction of throat, reaching down to upper part of lungs, which were very sore.

Expectoration of copious, transparent, frothy, bloody mucus. Sensation as if he could not breathe again. Suffocation; with inability to bear anything about throat (Lach.), dusky face and bluish lips. Asthma. Dyspnoea; and at each inspiration a crowing sound that could be heard across the street; with sleepiness and shortness of breath when walking (Curare). Breathing hurried and difficult, with fever and headache; H., superficial and sighing; H. nights, and short. Closed rooms, especially if overheated, are insupportable. Inspiration croupy; l. laborious, loud. Breathing slow, heavy. oedema of lungs developing. Sighing.

Clinical.—(Edema of the larynx, with great distress for breath. Hydrothorax, with suffocation on lying down, either the result of pleurisy or dependent on disease of the kidneys; in these cases there is especially present with the dyspnoea a feeling as if he could not draw another breath. The cough is usually suffocative, spasmodic, from irritation in upper part of chest or suprasternal fossa, short and dry. Fit of coughing brought on by pressure on the larynx (Lach.).

Chest.—Stitches; at night, and through back; just below heart; in side; in l. side; under l. arm, near fourth or fifth rib; in r. nipple extending into lung; in forenoon, where cartilages of ribs bend towards hypochondria, l. then r., with darkness before eyes, in which she felt boring sticking. Tearing, drawing, starting from l. lower side of sternum, drawing back and forth in chest, upward, and finally into lower jaw, and at same time pain in back.

Pain; at night; in upper part; under l. short ribs; near last ribs, in or below heart; in l. side, near middle of sternum, with fulness in chest and short breath; sudden, to l. on lower part of sternum; sudden, just below heart, soon extending towards r. chest, with suffocation, face and hands purple, falling down, feeling as of rapid swelling of lining membrane of air-passages, including nose, which was stopped. Bruised pain. Sore feeling (Phos.). Fulness, with tension and pressure; feeling of F., constriction or suffocation, < horizontal position, with difficult, anxious breathing. Oppression; at bottom of sternum; with frequent desire for a deep inspiration (Phos.). Trembling in forenoon, with pressure and oppressed breathing. Heat in morning, and in stomach. Melting heat in region of diaphragm as from running violently.

Heart and Pulse.—Stinging in region of H. Intermittent pain. Oppression in region of H., with slight suffocation reaching to throat. Palpitation. Rapid, feeble beats of H. Pulse rapid; full and strong; and weak; and small; P. decreased; feeble; scarcely perceptible. Slow, irregular, afterwards rapid. Pulseless at wrist.

Clinical.—Pericarditis, with scanty urine, swollen limbs, bluish lips, great soreness over the region of the heart.

Neck.—Swollen glands. Flushed. Rheumatic stitches in r. side of nape; in muscles of r. side, morning on rising, < moving head in that direction, > moving head in any other direction. Piercing burning pain in spot on l. side, also on occiput and l. arm. Tensive pain extending back of l. ear and over l. side of head. Drawing from nape, extending behind l. ear and over l. side of head. Tension in r. side, beneath and back of ear. Stiffness of l. tendons, painful if he moved the head to opposite side; S. of nape, and small of back. Weight at nape, with tension.

Back.—Inward trembling down, with shuddering without coldness, 3 to 5 P.M., more in upper half. Weakness in both sides of spine, as if she could not lie upon it. Pain under scapulae, < r.; under scapulae, with sore feeling on moving the parts; under scapulae, < moving. Pressure on last ribs, posteriorly on l. side of spine, hindering breathing. Bruised sensation near last ribs, < l. Burning stitch in upper part of small of B. Stiffness of small of B.

Extremities.—(Edematous swelling. Blood settled under toe and finger nails. Twitching. Unpleasant sensation in inner side of arm from elbow to axilla, and in anterior and inner part of each thigh from near knee to inguinal region.

Clinical.—Synovitis, especially in the knee, which is swollen and shiny, with stinging pains, extreme sensitiveness (from a bruise). Limbs swollen from dropsy, associated with inflamed kidneys. Inflammation around a nail (paranitium), with burning stinging and great soreness. Sometimes indicated in dissecting wounds with great swelling.

Upper Extremities.—Weakness. Great increase and intensity of odor from axillary glands. Cramp in l.

shoulder. Pain in shoulder and upper arm; r. Tensive pain extending from l. shoulder into nape. Drawing in l. biceps. Cramp in r. arm. Swelling of arm and hand, with pain; S. of whole r. arm from sting on r. hand, with enlargement of axillary and cervical glands. Itching sticking in back of arm. Aching in r. ulnar nerve; down l. ulnar nerve, in bones of arms and fingers. Drawing in r. arm, with burning of anterior surface. Crawling in arm, as if asleep, < l. Sudden darting pain in l. elbow.

Stinging and burning in hands, especially palms, > cold water. Sore and red spots on palms. Want of power, with incomplete anaesthesia of hands. Benumbed feeling in r. hand, then itching in palm. Swelling of second r. finger, except tip, especially middle joint, in morning, with redness and heat, burning stinging, with tingling, extending up arm to body and down r. side and leg to foot, pain < 5 P.M. to 8 A.M., preventing sleep, < cold applications, > hot applications and gentle rubbing or pinching of end of finger. Burning pricking in finger-tips. Tingling of l. fingers. Numbness of fingers, especially tips, about roots of nails, with sensation as if he could shake off the nails; N. of index; l. ulnar fingers. Inward burning about a hang-nail on outside of r. fourth finger.

Lower Extremities.—Staggering. Pain as if in bones. Sore feeling in flesh, > walking, returning while sitting. Pain in l. hip; in l. knee, outside, over and under knee, especially in front and laterally. Burning stinging in knee. Crawling as if asleep from l. knee to foot. Darting pain in l. outer malleolus. Foot and toes feel swollen and stiff. Feet swollen in evening when taking off boots and socks; with fulness, heaviness and stiffness, with itching, redness and bungling feeling of upper part, fulness and pain in soles and balls of toes, and sensation as if stepping on cushions. Pricking in little toes.

Skin.—Purple spots on extremities and purple skin of feet and purple nails of fingers and toes. Redness of hands as far as wrists and feet and ankles. Red stripes along fingers and arms. Red spots on extremities. Red and white spots on palms, arms and feet. Erythematous redness of trunk, arms and chest, and the body appeared bloated. Elevations, with sensitiveness, without change of color. Swelling on back of neck, so that the head pressed upon the chest. Throbbing in the swelling. Painful red swelling; inflammatory S., r. eye entirely closed, l. almost, cheek and nose level, cheek hung upon the breast, the breast swollen like a great loaf; S. about joints, with inflammation and itching. Swellings after bites of insects, sore and sensitive to touch; at outer corner of eyebrow.

Itching of face, arms and legs, with redness and with hard, white elevated patches and ridges, the application of cold water distressed him, occasionally the legs became cold and blue but in five or ten minutes they were again red and hot. Itching, red elevations over body, extremities and even ears. Wales covering body, without itching or burning, but with disappearance of other symptoms; white wales covering body. Red and white blotches. Red blotches, with sensitiveness of skin to touch. Blotches on body and on back of hand, with stinging. Inflammation over whole body, with pressure when rubbed, and white spots like mosquito bites; l., with pain and gangrene; cellular l. ending in suppuration.

Erysipelas of face, with fever, coated tongue and thirst; E.

of forearm, with disorder of muscular nerves and with heat, redness, swelling and pain. Erysipelatous swelling, hard and white in middle, with sharp pain. Nettle-rash; after fever; over whole body, also with lessening of previous symptoms; over whole body except feet; paler than usual color of skin, with swelling of face and whole body. Sensitive pimples; in inner cartilage of l. ear. Furuncles and large swellings of every description, or local inflammation attended them with stinging. Sore pustules, with red areola in hair of pubes, with soreness and pain.

Stinging, with swelling and inflammation; itching S. in different parts, especially lower limbs. Stinging pricking, burning, smarting and itching all over skin. Prickling; all over body; especially on back and palms of hands, face, forehead and under eyes, chiefly in circumscribed spots. Burning in various portions, with stinging; especially on back, which itched. Burning like prickly heat on back, arms and hands and after scratching, itching and blotches like nettle-rash.

Sensitiveness to touch; every hair is painful when touched. Full and constricted feeling on forehead and face, then swelling, with red streaks on face, swelling extending to body and limbs, and urticaria over whole body. Crawling in l. fingers; as from insects on inner side of r. knee in morning; of feet, with itching; as after freezing.

Itching; > scratching; over r. eyebrow; on back of hands and upper part of feet; of r. hand, with chapping; and after scratching blotches like nettle-rash; on outer part of l. wing of nose, with soreness and redness; biting, in eyebrow, sometimes r., sometimes l.; l. or stinging of face, ears, throat, hands and wrists. Stinging itching on posterior surface of r. thigh, like flea bites, in afternoon, > scratching, then on r. arm. Burning itching, on l. thigh, especially posteriorly; in spots in palm, < l.; at 9 P.M., on backs of hands, knuckles, joints of fingers, < r., then chapping; in evening, beginning in arms, spreading over whole body; over whole body, with red pimples, thicker on chest and back than on face and arms.

Clinical.—Valuable for urticaria, erysipelas and oedematous swellings, always with extreme sensitiveness to touch and with stinging burning pains.

Sleep.—Yawning; mornings. Sleepiness; in morning; in morning, will not rise, feels as if beaten, must stretch herself, with vertigo. Sleeplessness; and the brain has no rest day or night, with restlessness and loose, urgent stools at night. Restless sleep, with inclination to frequent waking and incessant dreams. Terrified starting in evening sleep from a noise. Frequent waking, with vexatious dreams of business cares. Dreams; full of care and toil, of traveling, mostly by railroad.

Fever.—Chilliness; at noon, with red face and red spots on body; in evening, with cold fingers, < l.; in evening while sitting, caused by previous slight movement, with heat in face and headache; when eating; with cold limbs and nausea; with hot hands; with racking pain through head, weakness and shivering; then fever at night. Shuddering, with diarrhoea; S., then nettle-rash. Chill every day at 3 P.M. recurring over back, with shuddering, < in warmth, with dead feeling in hands, then after an hour heat, with hoarse cough, heat of cheeks and hands, without thirst, then heaviness and weakness. Cold extremities; hands. Coldness and pallor of fingers up to first phalanx, and of toes, nails cyanotic. Cold, clammy skin. Cold feet, with hot head. Heat; at night, with agitation; with general oppression; over whole body, with stinging. In flushes; mixed with chills. Internal, without external, with trembling, and rapid pulse, then vertigo while standing, as if about to faint, pallor, nausea and vomiting, then sleep, with anxious starting and cough, then quiet sleep after turning on to other side. Heat of head; in upper part of l. ear; in spots on hands; in finger-tips; in feet; in face, with full sensation. Burning in head, < motion and stooping, > firm pressure, with throbbing and with occasional sweat. Sudden heat over back, with pain at l. ilio-sacral junction. Burning of toes, with redness and heat in them while the feet are cold. B. of toes, with erysipelatous redness and heat in a patch on foot and coldness of the rest of the feet. Sweat; after trembling and fainting, then nettle-rash; alternating with dry skin; cold, on feet.

Clinical.—In intermittent fever the characteristic symptom for Apis is chill at 4 to 5 P.M., with thirst, < external heat or slightest motion, with oppression of breath as if he would smother; heat without thirst, with some sensitiveness; the sweating stage is usually very slight or wanting; there is generally sleepiness throughout the paroxysm. In typho-malarial fever; in which there are the unconsciousness, dry tongue, involuntary stools, stupor, intense thirst.

Apium Graveolens.

A tincture is prepared from the seeds of this plant (the common celery; Nat. order, Umbellifereæ).

Generalities.—Bruised sensation in flesh after scratching, with sometimes a raw sensation. Inability to sit still or lie still, from feeling of "fidgets," cannot keep from thinking. Weakness; in evening. Remission of symptoms in morning and forenoon.

Head.—Aching all day, > when eating and in open air; frontal; sharp, over r. eye and temple on going to bed and lasting all night, > during breakfast; in r. temple from noon till evening, with nausea (chronic headache always began in l. temple); in l. temple, spreading over l. side of face and to top of head; < deep in l. temple, as from a jar, almost throbbing, < by light, must keep eyes partly closed, reading tires head, the headache afterwards distinctly throbbing deep in and through temples and somewhat in forehead, most of the time can count the beats in the head, the pain < by stooping, moving head and eating, > by complete rest and quiet, but the throbbing continued when at rest, expiration through nose makes the throbbing painful, afterwards the pain > for some minutes by three mouthfuls of cold water, also > by hot compresses to forehead till he began to move, > on waking if he waked without moving, stopped short on eating Indian meal gruel. Sore feeling over whole top. Scalp sore to touch.

Eyes and Nose.—Eyes feel sunken. Tickling in nose in forenoon, with desire to sneeze. Nose stuffed; with pain in forehead. Sneezing in morning, with tickling and running from nose; S. in morning, with watery discharge from nose and tickling in r. nostril.

Lips, Mouth and Throat.—Itching of lips and desire to rub them with the teeth. Sore pain in l. teeth. Sore spot on tip of tongue, feeling like a canker sore. Soft palate red and sore; soft palate and fauces swollen and dark red. Back part of throat hurt by air rushing down posterior nares. Throat sore.

Stomach.—Appetite lost; ate nothing from Sunday morning till Wednesday night. Nausea. Spitting up food. Unpleasant sensation, with belching tasting of celery. Heartburn. Gone feeling in pit, partially > by eating.

Stool and Urine.—Two urgent, well-formed stools in the day, preceded by pain in abdomen going directly into rectum, with feeling as if she could not retain the stool a moment, next day three stools of the same kind. Urine retained.

Respiratory Organs and Heart.—Tickling in top of windpipe at night, causing dry cough. Cough. Wheezing at night. Heart's beats can be counted by hearing or feeling in chest.

Neck, Back and Extremities.—Muscles of nape pain on motion and seem sore from severity of headache. Sacral pain, with bellyache, the S. pain > after getting out of bed, < on lying down again; S. pain < after lying down, > by moving about, with pain in lower abdomen on first lying down, > after continued lying, the same S. pain afterwards on rising, but extending further up back and more on l. side. Growing pain in r. leg before going to bed and lasting most of the night.

Skin.—Itching blotches on l. sacral region. Red, itching eruption on upper inner part of thighs, < l., extending to groins, towards night. Itching on different parts, < after undressing and at night; and as soon as it was allayed in one place it appeared in another. Itching leaving burning after scratching, about face; on l. jaw, extending to whole l. side of face and nose. Itching of l. cheek and jaw in evening, after scratching red blotches, then burning; I. on l. lower jaw, then after scratching red blotches, then itching red blotches on l. instep and outside of l. ankle; I. on l. buttock at night, after scratching felt a blotch like an insect bite; I. like the bite of an insect in different parts, causing shuddering or trembling of the part, then little red elevated itching pimples, the I. somewhat > by scratching, then burning creeping sensation.

Sleep.—Broken. Sleepless all night; till 4.30 A.M.; from Sunday till Wednesday. Could not go to sleep without great exertion and then would wake unrefreshed in ten minutes.

Fever.—Chill from any change of temperature, < in back or where the lower temperature strikes the body. Hot feeling on vertex. Intermittent burning inside thighs, which look like a raw surface, extending to groins, < on l., with itching, which is < at night. Sweat on forehead on waking at 4 A.M.

Clinical.—Profuse discharge from granulating ulcers, intense constriction over sternum, with drawing feeling through to back on lying down.

Apocynum Androsæmifolium.

This "dog's bane" is a perennial herb belonging to the Apocynaceæ. A tincture is prepared from the fresh root.

Aliases.—Apocynum cannab.

Trembling. Pain in different parts; P. on turning to l. side; P. in all joints; flying P. in different parts. Swollen sensation in body and face. Heaviness of body, with great sleepiness. Weakness. Fulness in head. Headache; in l. side; pulsating A. in occiput;

A. in back of head and neck, with stiffness. Great itching and irritation in l. nostril. Great sneezing. Everything smelled like honey. Twitching of facial muscles. Violent pain in l. zygomatic process. Pain in all l. lower teeth. Taste delightful. Nausea. Vomiting; with purging; effort at V. Flying pain in stomach.

Shooting pain in l. groin. Feeling as if something would pass the bowels, with fulness and pain in r. side. Diarrhœa, with pain and rumbling, only two stools, but copious and affording much relief; D. and constipation on alternate days. Constipation. Frequent bilious stools; painful bilious diarrhœa. Micturition frequent. Urine profuse. Menses profuse, lasting eight days, with violent pressing pain.

Dull heavy pain when breathing, seeming to go from above downward. Pain in nape extending to front of neck. Stiff neck. Pulsating pain in r. forearm. Pain above wrists. Hands and feet swell. Pain in knee and in r. shoulder. Cramp in soles, < r., with burning and with pain in joint of l. big toe and heat in r. leg and knee. Tingling pain in toes, sharp pain in middle toe. Itching of body and face; of face, with burning. Inability to sleep. S. unrefreshing. Violent dreams. Chilliness. Heat of head and neck; H. in r. leg and knee. Profuse sweat of whole body, with violent heat in soles.

Clinical.—Has been found useful in acute rheumatism with great stiffness. General rheumatic pains. It has been used for renal calculi and gravel.

Apocynum Cannabinum.

The Indian hemp is a perennial herb belonging to the Apocynaceæ. A tincture is prepared from the fresh root.

General Action.—Increases the amount of urine; causes free action of the bowels, with weakness of sphincters of rectum and bladder, and with hæmorrhoidal congestion. It has a powerfully depressing action on the heart, causing irregularity and great weakness of pulse.

Allies.—Alstonia, Digitalis, Asclepias, Arsen., Phos., Aloe, Pod., Oleander, Colch., Verat.

Generalities.—Weight diminished. Rheumatic pain in joints. Restlessness at night; on going to bed. Weakness in morning; at night, especially in all muscles; after stool; < motion; with diarrhœa; muscular; muscular, all the evening. Aggravation from motion.

Mind.—Bewildered. Cannot concentrate thoughts. Dull and unable to think well. Fancy exalted with flow of good spirits. No ambition. Inability for labor.

Head.—Aching; morning on waking; on waking before 5 a.m.; extending to meatus auditorius externus; confused; confused after stool; confused, extending to orbits. Dulness. Heaviness in evening, with aching in small of back and limbs; dull, after stool. Vertigo in morning on rising from stooping; on rising from stooping; when rising, < yawning or stretching; after stool; < ascending; as if he would fall, suddenly appearing and disappearing.

Forehead.—Aching; darting; throbbing, and in vertex; heavy drawing, especially about superciliary ridges. Fulness. Heaviness; over eyes.

Temples.—Sticking in r. Aching; in r.; r. after stool; r., then stabbing pain, then confusion of head, then vertigo; with heaviness and pain in eyes as if he had used them too much; piercing, in r., also after stool, with vertigo and ringing in r. ear; piercing, in r., with nausea; A. darting from l. to r., and vice versa. Throbbing in temporal artery.

Eyes.—Irritation in l. as from sand in morning on waking, with heat and redness. Pain in l. as if wearied, with drooping of lids. Pain in orbital region and dull heavy feeling over eyes.

Ears.—Sticking in l.; r. Partial deafness in l. after singing.

Nose.—Sneezing long-continued and violent. Discharge increased. Nostrils and throat filled with thick well-concocted yellow mucus in morning on waking.

Face.—Pale; with cold sweat (Dig., Verat.). Red and hot look. Dull heavy pain in both sides of face and nose, < l., passing into forehead.

Mouth.—Tongue sticks to the roof in morning. Dryness in morning; on waking. Salivation, then dryness in fauces. Mucus and saliva in mouth and fauces increased. Spit thick and tenacious. Tonsils and throat coated with dried mucus.

Stomach.—Hunger (Oleander, Verat.); all the time; ravenous. Thirst on waking. Hiccough night and morning. Nausea; in evening; at night when waking; after sleep; after stool; < about 7 or 7.30 p.m.; with inability to vomit; with piercing pain in r. temple; with flashes of heat in different parts, beginning in throat and extending downward. Vomiting; after sleep. Retching. Pinching shooting from r. to l. of epigastrium. Oppression in epigastrium and chest (Phos.); impeding breathing, after lighter meals than usual; distressing O. in epigastrium after meals; distressing, in epigastrium, > walking. Gnaiving; 10 a.m., after a hearty breakfast; after dinner. Burning pain (Colch.). Burning while at breakfast. At pyloric region sensation as if a ball pressed against the inside of the wall. Dull, heavy, sick feeling all the morning, and in abdomen. Working in S. after meals; as from flatus, > empty eructations. Sinking; on waking; in pit. Weakness.

Abdomen.—Rumbling; during stool, with emission of flatus. Flatulence; emission of flatus in evening; emission before stool; emission during stool. Distention; about stomach, liver and spleen, < after a moderate dinner (Lyc.). Distended feeling, with pain as if flatus were moving in different parts, then sudden urging to stool. Feeling as if he had drunk too much water. Grumbling; and disagreeable feeling. Pain while at breakfast, > stool; after stool, compelling him to sit down again, when nothing but wind passed; darting in different parts, with feeling as if flatus expanded the intestines; of moving flatus before stool. Feeling as if diarrhœa would occur. Uneasiness. Empty feeling after stool (Pod., Sul. ac., Phos.). Weak feeling (Oleander, Stool.).

Short pinching across middle. Aching in umbilical region; after stool. Grumbling pain in umbilical region. Feeling of goneness in umbilical region after a stool. Feeling as if something were passing up colon, with a grumbling sensation. Feeling as if something were passing through liver. Pulsation in r. hypochondrium in evening. Distended feeling in lower after eating. Darting pain in lower, with rumbling. Weak feeling in lower.

Rectum.—Tenesmus (Colch.); after stool; after stool, with aching in hypogastric region. Urging to stool; after eating; after pain in abdomen; with emission of only flatus; sudden. Bearing down; after stool, even protrusion. Soreness; after a stool, with bearing down. Heaviness. Weak feeling.

Anus.—Protruding inflamed hæmorrhoids, with pain in anus as if a wedge were forced into it by a hammer; inclination to hæmorrhoids. Bearing down pain (Cact.). Pressure and weight, > walking. Burning. Itching. Open feeling after stool. Loss of power in sphincter (Aloe).

Stool.—Watery, small, with much flatus, then soreness in anus; watery and large, with bearing down pain in anus and soreness in rectum (Aloe). Thin, frequent, with the force and sound of a cork from a champagne bottle, lemon-colored, frothy, containing undigested food (Pod.); thin, at latter part; copious, thin at first, towards the end containing lumps of feces; thin, light-yellow, mixed with mucus. Loose, bilious, but not very copious. Loose in morning; loose, small, frequent, with much flatus, sometimes difficult, sometimes expelled with force. Diarrhœa scanty, difficult, with much flatus. Furious painless diarrhœa at night. Early, mushy, expelled with a rush and much flatus. Frothy. Bloody. Involuntary when intending to emit flatus (Aloe). Mushy, copious, darkish-brown, very fetid. Scanty; and difficult. Bowels sluggish but faces not hard or costive. So large after the diarrhœa ceased that the expulsion was painful. Symptoms always immediately after eating.

Urinary Organs.—Bladder seemed much distended, then turbid hot urine, with a thick mucous sediment, with burning in urethra after micturition. Aching at neck of bladder after urinating, with sensation as if the sphincter were trying to close but could not (Jug. r.). Little expulsive power in bladder. Weakness of sphincter of neck of B. Constant desire to urinate with copious discharge. The scanty urine flowed as easily as oil. Could hardly tell when urine was passing; hardly knew when he was through, the urine still seemed to want to dribble away. Smarting and burning in urethra when urinating. Aching in urethra after urinating. Discharge of thin watery fluid from urethra. Urine copious; and lighter-colored; with a sediment, which in many respects resembled albumen. Scanty urine. Hot U. (Aloe), leaving tingling in urethra.

Respiratory Organs.—Cough short, dry. Sudden, hard and frequent C. evening and nights. Expectoration of white mucus; of white gelatinous mucus. Respiration short and unsatisfactory. Disposition to sigh (Op.). Constant sighing from a peculiar sensation in chest. Suffocated feeling.

Heart.—Darting pain in region in afternoon and evening. Catching pain. Weak feeling near. Palpitation. Increased action; with fluttering and sensation as if it would force itself through the wall of the chest. Action fluttering and feeble, then slow and labored, now and then losing a beat, with a clicking sound. Impulse felt against wall of chest. Pulse rapid; slow; diminished; full, irregular, slow, intermittent, dicrotic, at times feeble.

Back.—Pain. Sticking in inferior angle of scapula. Pain at inferior angle of l. scapula; pain in r. S. and in muscles of forearm. Prickling tingling in region of l. S. at 2 p.m., with lameness of muscles. Aching in kidney region; in lower part of l. loin when walking. Soreness in kidney region when using muscles.

Aching in sacrum and at times sharp and sticking pain, appearing occasionally in hip, knee and ankle-joints.

Extremities.—Bruised feeling in morning on waking, > after walking, and in all joints, and especially in small of back. Sore feeling in morning, and in muscles. Weakness of arms. Lower limbs feel stiff. Pain in knees, < l.; so that he feared inflammatory rheumatism.

Skin.—Boils on face and thighs. Erysipelas of face and head. Itching on back, sides and limbs at 6 p.m., and on going to bed found large papules, like hives, covering the body, red when scratched, which did not relieve, appearing in greatest number on lumbar region and around waist.

Sleep.—Sleepiness; on going to bed, without ability to sleep. Little sleep at night. Sleep unrefreshing. Waking early. Disturbed by dreams.

Fever.—Cold hands and feet. Burning in red part of upper lip. Heat of skin on going to bed (Sil.). Flashes of heat; in face; in different parts, with nausea. Sweat; cold on face (Dig., Colch., Verat.); copious, also at night.

Clinical.—It has been used chiefly for dropsical effusions dependent upon diseases of the liver; it has not been so useful in albuminuria. Cases of hydrocephalus have been cured; patients do not have the screaming out which characterizes Apis. Hydrothorax with scanty urine; ascites; general anasarca; in all these cases there is generally great thirst, but drinking causes distress or nausea and vomiting; the stomach is very irritable and there is great distention on taking anything into it. For neuralgia of the sciatic and lumbar nerves in r. groin and trochanter extending up into lumbar region, pain very severe. Excessive hæmorrhage from the uterus, vomiting. It has arrested post-partum hæmorrhage. Purpura, with suppression of urine, has been cured. The general indications in dropsies of various sorts seem to be the presence of great thirst and the extreme irritability of the stomach; in this respect it resembles Arsenicum. It is supposed that the aqueous infusion is more efficacious than the tincture.

Apomorphinum.

An alkaloid obtained from the decomposition of morphine by means of hydrochloric acid. Formula $C_{17}H_{17}NO_2$. For use, the alkaloid is triturated with sugar of milk.

General Action.—The chief interest attached to this substance lies in its remarkable power to produce emesis (which it does in doses of from five to seven milligrams in adults). This irritating action upon the nerve centre is similar to that of Sanguinaria, Veratrum, Ipecac., Copper and Zinc.

Generalities.—Paniculations. Depression. Faintness. Weakness; with sweat on face, which was pale; so that eyes closed involuntarily.

Head.—Aching. Heaviness. Vertigo; with chilliness. Dulness, sometimes described as headache, sometimes as heaviness or vertigo, often with roaring in ears and feeling of heat, at times sudden anxiety in præcordial region and pressure in chest, with the reaction there is generally inclination to sleep, prostration and in a few cases nausea and retching without warning, the relaxation during the prodromal state was very great, with sweat, salivation and paleness, especially of face, the vomiting is easy, or after the stomach has been emptied difficult with eructations and retching, between the acts of vomiting the patient is quiet, weak, yawns and perspires, sleepy after the vomiting ceases.

Injection of conjunctiva and lachrymation. Pupils dilated. Face red; pale. Salivation. Violent inclination to vomit. Vomiting; without previous nausea; easy; of water as soon as it was drunk, also milk. Retching; as soon as stomach had been emptied. Weight at stomach. Respiration irregular; rapid. Pulse rapid and irregular; rapid, small and soft. Extremities heavy; weak. Inclined to yawn. Sleepiness, with sweat. Sleep. Heat running suddenly all over body, then vomiting. Hot feeling all over body, especially in head. Sweat.

Clinical.—The applicability of this drug to the relief of various troubles requiring prompt emesis will be apparent to every one. (Its use in poisoning by Opium is dangerous.) The hypodermic injection of $\frac{1}{4}$ of a grain will cause full emesis within 5 to 15 minutes in an adult. It has been found useful in vomiting of various sorts, sometimes with violent spasms and empty retching and headache, sometimes with heartburn, pain between shoulder-blades; sometimes it has cured the vomiting of food, sometimes palliated the vomiting of pregnancy or uterine displacements or uterine tumors, sometimes relieved seasickness; in one case the 2d triit. cured vomiting which had lasted several days without any organic disease, apparently of nervous origin.

Aralia Racemosa.

The American spikenard is an herbaceous plant belonging to the Araliaceæ. A tincture is prepared from the fresh root.

General Action.—See respiratory organs.

Alites.—Iodine, Ars., Ip.

Severe cold, no cough. Weak, half sick and filled with vague nausea. Feeling on rising at 8.30 as after a "spree," with nausea in throat and stomach and sensation as if diarrhœa would set in, and at 3.15 P.M. stool, difficult, soft, yellow, about a teaspoonful, with protrusion of mucous membrane of rectum like a tumor (have had hæmorrhoids), after stool aching pain in rectum extending upward and on l. side. Headache.

Lips red, swollen, lips and mouth feel parched, wants to keep the tongue moving to keep it moist, although there is profuse salivation, saliva running from mouth, < by lying, roof of mouth covered with ulcers, irregular in size and shape, having a yellowish-white covering (not membrane), looking like pus, throat swollen and sore, swallowing difficult on account of a sensation of a "bunch" in throat, voice weak and husky. Nausea. Discomfort in stomach, with flatulency. Gripping. Irritation in anus at night. Mucous discharge from rectum. Diarrhœa; preceded by belching.

Asthma on lying down at night, dry wheezing respiration when lying on back, with sense of impending suffocation, rapidly increasing dyspnoea, loud musical whistlings during inspiration and expiration, but louder during inspiration, inability to lie down, warm, salt, mucous expectoration, greater oppression of r. than of l. lung, afterwards when lying on r. side all oppression and discomfort were in r. lung, but on turning over the l. lung was affected and the r. relieved entirely, constant desire to clear chest of something, all obstruction being during inspiration, on forcible expiration raw, burning, sore feeling behind whole length of sternum and in lungs, most intense behind sternum, in morning easy expectoration of loose phlegm, afterwards fear that r. lung is diseased, and cough now and then, with raising of phlegm, which is swallowed involuntarily.

Sweat in sleep at night.

Clinical.—It has been found useful for asthma with spasmodic cough at night, in general < lying down. Spasmodic cough at night after the first sleep, cough caused by tickling in throat, associated with constriction of chest, has to sit up and cough violently; sometimes caused by a feeling of a foreign body in the throat. Asthma, with oppressed breathing all day, as from a weight on stomach, < night on lying down, when the patient is awakened by the violent cough, > raising a little tough mucus. Hay fever, frequent sneezing, with asthmatic attacks and whistling respiration, must sit up. It has cured leucorrhœa, acrid, offensive, with bearing down pains.

Araena.

The papal-cross Spider (Araena Diadema), Linn. A tincture is prepared by crushing the live spider and digesting with alcohol.

General Action.—The most characteristic feature of this drug is the tendency to a periodic recurrence of the symptoms at exactly the same hour. Continued coldness without reaction characterizes the attack.

Related Remedies.—(Tarantula), Camphora (not periodic), Argent. met., Arnica, Cedron, Scelle corn.

Generalities.—Weakness; with confusion of head.

Head.—Aching; till evening, > in open air; > smoking in open air; > walking, with burning in eyes and heat in face; especially in forehead, > smoking; with confusion, both > by smoking. Drawing extending down lower jaw. Confusion in evening when studying, and pressive pain, as if on bones of r. temple and upper part of forehead, > resting head on hand; after eating; with weakness. Heat in forehead and eyes, a flickering in them on reading or writing, which aggravated the headache.

Ears and Nose.—Twinging pain in ear and parotid gland, r., then l. Coryza; with thirst.

Mouth.—Sudden violent pain in all teeth at night after lying down. Sensitive cold sensation in r. lower incisor, at the same hour two days, < drawing in air. Sticking in palate and larynx. Taste bitter, > smoking; nauseous bitter, with coated tongue; unpleasant T. of milk after drinking it.

Stomach, Abdomen and Stool.—Thirst. Heaviness and fulness in lower abdomen, as from a stone, at the same time two days, with nausea in pit of stomach, gripping in abdomen, heaviness in thighs and confusion in head. Stool fluid, passed only a part at a time and with straining, with pain in abdomen, which is > by rubbing, fermenting in abdomen after the stool.

Sexual and Respiratory Organs.—Menses too early, too strong and too copious. Hæmorrhage from the lungs.

Extremities.—Dull, burrowing bone-pain; in r. arm and tibia in morning in bed and at intervals through the day. Twitching in muscles of l. upper arm in afternoon. In ring and little fingers a feeling as if they had gone to sleep and of fornication. Dull, burrowing bone-pain in r. os calcis on motion, > continued motion.

Sleep restless, with frequent waking, and always with a sensation as if hands and forearms were swollen and heavy. (Feverish attacks, consisting mostly of coldness, with pain in long bones, troubles in the abdomen, which are usually accompanied by a chill, and mostly come on towards evening, and pimples here and there.) Heat in face; especially in eyes.

Clinical.—Tremulous, sensitive, nervous exhaustion, nightly sensation as if her hands and arms were enormously enlarged, often causing her to strike a light to see if it were really so. In headache, continuous for fifteen months, at base of brain, < in damp weather. Toothache, < in damp weather and as soon as the patient gets into bed. Lumbar abdominal neuralgia, intermittent, from being uncovered at night, < from 8 to 11 A.M., with yawning or vomiting. Enlarged spleen, always < in damp weather. Diarrhœa, great loss of appetite and sleep. Bronchitis, cough < on lying down at night, tickling in throat brought on cough. Asthma, unable to lie down day or night, white, frothy expectoration, nausea and disgust for food. Diseases of os calcis, with boring; digging in that bone; this may be due to simple periostitis or may be associated with caries; sometimes bones feel like ice. Sleeplessness in subjects suffering from asthma; nervous cough. Chronic intermittent fever, with swelling of spleen, living in a damp place, patient chilly day and night, always < during a rain. Quotidian fever. The attacks recur at the same hour and consist mostly of coldness, which lasts a long time and is not followed by heat or sweat. The patient is exceedingly weak, but white thirsty has none of the restlessness of Arsenic. These conditions have been found mostly in old people.

Argentum Metallicum.

Pure precipitated silver is prepared for use by trituration with sugar of milk.

General Action.—Silver exerts a marked and general action on the mucous membranes from the pharynx through stomach and bowels, genito-urinary tract and respiratory apparatus. Independently also it seems to cause spinal irritability, with numerous pains in body and extremities, with tendency to spasmodic action of muscles.

Allied Drugs.—Aluminium, Ferrum, Zincum, Lyc., Chin., Sulph., Gelsem., Hyperic., Agaric.

Generalities.—Electric shocks through upper part of body, in forenoon, exploding close to foramen magnum (compare Chin., Sulph.). Twitching and pulsation of several muscles, especially in r. thigh; of r. temporal, r. frontal muscles, muscles of neck near thyroid cartilage and towards nape, it repelled the hand, with quivering pain.

Burrowing, tensive, stiff, bruised and broken feeling in bones. Drawing pain, now in l. forehead, now in occiput, now in l. elbow, when at rest; alternately in different joints, upper arm, calf and forehead, when at rest. Soreness between nates, around anus and in groin, when walking. Painful tension alternating between tendon of r. psoas and triceps humeris, with bruised pain on pressure.

Weakness in morning on waking (Chin., Alumin.), with depression; after waking, especially of upper arm; at 11 A.M., especially of upper arms, with sleepiness; when sitting or walking, especially of thighs, with sleepiness; when walking in open air, with heat and anguish as if the clothes were too tight; paralytic W. on motion; in limbs in morning, > rising, with tendency bruised pain in nape. The attacks recur every day at noon (Gelsem.).

Clinical.—General tendency to emaciation, with sallow, pale complexion. General anemia, with œdematous feet. Rheumatic pains in limbs and back, generally < lying down. General loss of power, threatening paralysis.

Mind.—Cheerful and talkative (reaction). Merry when pleased, but crying long about a trifle. Ill-humored.

Head.—(Stitches in morning, with redness of one eye.) Shooting and tearing. Stinging burning pain in head. Intoxicated condition; dizzy sleepy intoxication. Creeping and crawling, as if tipsy. Dizzy stupefaction. Confusion; at 10 A.M.; as from smoke in brain; as from vertigo. Hollow feeling, with aching in brain and chilliness. Soreness on pressure. Vertigo, with difficulty in controlling his senses; when sitting and reflecting; on coming in from a walk, with shivering; suddenly, with mist before eyes (Gelsem.).

Forehead.—Tearing in r.; deep in r. eminence, extending towards r. temple; in l. eminence; under l. eminence, with compression in globe of eye. Aching, with drawing pressure in occiput and stupor; over brows; deep in r. eminence extending obliquely to r. temporal region; drawing, in eminences. Intermittent boring anteriorly in l. side, < evening after lying down.

Temples.—Cutting stitches in skull or on surface of brain, in front of l. ear, forward. Tearing in l.; region of r. and l. bone, < touch; in l. bone and over l. mastoid process. Aching in l.; externally in bones; over r. ear, extending backward, with drawing; drawing, in l. temple, also at rest, also when sitting. Pinching in r., with intermittent stitches extending inward. Drawing downward from mastoid process for an inch, > on pressure when at rest.

Parietals.—Aching externally in bones; externally in l. bones; drawing throbbing, deep in r. half of brain during rest; drawing, in l. side of head, as if in brain substance, at 8 P.M. when crossing the room, becoming a tearing as if a nerve were torn out, ending suddenly. Drawings deep in r. half of brain in evening, increasing to tearings and extending towards forehead and occiput.

Occiput.—Drawing pain in l. when at rest, alternating with the same in ball of l. thumb; drawing pain externally from bone obliquely across r. temporal bone to middle of frontal bone; between l. protuberance and mastoid process when at rest.

Clinical.—Attacks of vertigo, with crawling and whirling in head as if intoxicated; on looking at running water; feeling of emptiness in head.

Eyes.—(Redness and thickness of lids.) Sticking vertically through l. upper lid in afternoon; in canthi; l. inner canthus at 3 P.M.; l. canthi, with itching. Itching in inner canthi; stinging, in canthi.

Clinical.—Sometimes useful in blepharitis, but rarely in purulent ophthalmia, the edges of the lids thickened.

Ears.—Stitches in fossa behind r. lobule, penetrating head; inward in fossa behind l. lobule; cutting, in l. middle, as far as brain. Tearing over l. Drawing pain within l.; in fossa behind r. lobule, extending downward in a crescent form, during rest; drawing pain from fossa under r. lobule to skin of cheek, extending to lower jaw, as if in periosteum; intermittent drawing, in fossa behind l. lobule; drawing, extending downward from mastoid process, > at rest on pressure. Stopped sensation in r.

Nose.—Throbbing in fore part of l. nostril, with tension in external skin of nose as if bones were compressed and tickling prickling in l. nostril, causing violent sneezing. Biting in l. nostril. Irritation as if a cold would come on. Obstruction in fore part. Tingling and itching in, then bleeding. Fluent coryza; with frequent sneezing. Bleeding on blowing nose.

Face.—Stitches in r. malar-bone. Tearing on l. zygoma; drawing T. in r. zygoma. Gnawing pressure in bones of r. side, especially malar-bone. Drawing pain in muscles, especially in region of cheek-bones. Throbbing over l. cheek, as if muscles would be raised, with swollen feeling in l. cheek, chilly burning in skin, and redness of both cheeks. Swelling of lip under nose (Hep., Merc. c.). Cutting stitches inward under r. lower jaw, apparently in gland.

Mouth.—Teeth. Lower row sticks to upper, as if covered with sticky cement (Zinc.). Aching in the hollow l. lower wisdom tooth; in an incisor on pressure forward. Gum painful, < touch. Tongue, sore and burning vesicle (Lyc.); dryness, and of hard palate; dry in middle; dry feeling, with moisture; burning on tip, in afternoon. Mouth dry. Salivation morning in bed; during afternoon nap, then dryness of mouth so the tongue stuck to the palate; with shaking chill; viscid, impeding speech.

Clinical.—Sticky, tough saliva on palate, causing scratching.

Throat.—Swelling of region of submaxillary gland, making neck stiff, with tension on motion and difficult swallowing as from internal swelling of throat. Mucus, viscid, gray, jellylike, in morning, easily hawked up (Alumina). Cutting towards parotid gland as after an acrid acid, when chewing, felt in Eustachian tube. Boring and digging. Drawing pain in r. submaxillary and parotid glands; drawing pain in l. parotid gland. Rawness and soreness; during expiration and deglutition. Roughness, with scratching. Scraping constantly in velum pendulum palati, as if a rough body were glued to it, worse during empty swallowing than when swallowing a morsel, forcing him to swallow saliva, afterwards descending deeper into fauces. Painful tension when yawning, as from a swelling. Itching crawling in pharyngeal orifice of r. Eustachian tube, extending to tympanum, r. then l. (compare Gels.). Pulsation of carotids, < l. Nausea, then general heat, especially about head, with red face, without thirst.

Clinical.—Catarrhal sore throat. Chronic pharyngeal catarrh, with hawking of jellylike mucus which is viscid and gray, < morning. Rawness and soreness when coughing, not on swallowing.

Stomach.—Hunger in morning; at 6.30 on waking; in forenoon, with nausea as from emptiness of stomach and scraping irritation in bronchial tubes, causing dry cough; during afternoon nap, with nausea; with nausea, contraction of pharynx and inclination to swallow saliva; with drawing-in of pit of stomach. Excessive appetite; even when stomach feels full (Lyc.); in paroxysms. Appetite gone; in morning; gone, with loathing of food when thinking of it. (Great desire for wine). Hiccough when smoking. Nausea; caused by anxious dreams. Retching, by which a bitter, acrid, bad-tasting liquid is brought into mouth, leaving behind scratching, roughness and burning in fauces. Vomiting in afternoon during stool.

Pinching over S. and in l. hypochondrium. Pressure in pit. Burning; sudden in pit, when standing and reading, with dull compression of brain from all sides, approaching vertigo, nausea in region of sternum, sudden heat in whole body, but more in face, and sweat on chest and face.

Abdomen.—Painful distention at night, > emission of flatus (Lyc.). Rumbling; at night, with emission of flatus; with fermenting, as if water were poured from one intestine to another. Cutting transversely across internally. Contractive pain when sitting after morning stool. Pain as in diarrhoea. Tension in muscles when walking, so that he has to stoop, with contraction. Burning in morning as far as chest.

Flatulence in upper, with fulness and hungry feeling (Lyc.). Tympanic distention of r. side of A., with bruised pain on hard pressure, > emission of flatus. Rumbling in l. like the croaking of frogs. Stitching between r. hypochondrium and epigastrium, then hunger and rumbling in bowels; cutting, in rings; extending outward in muscles near two last ribs, ending in pinching, > rubbing. Bruised feeling on l. surface when walking, with sprained feeling.

Hypogastrium.—Stitches extending backward. Pressure after beginning to eat, extending towards pubic region, < during inspiration, > rising from the seat. Drawing pain through r. inguinal ring, down to testicles, at 4 p.m., during rest, with pasty stool; drawing tensive, in r. inguinal region, along psoas muscle when at rest. Straining during and after a soft stool; sensation in bend of l. groin as if tendon of psoas muscle were strained, with bruised pain on pressure. Bruised pain in groin over l. hip and on l. side of pelvis. Boring just over r. groin. Tension in l. iliac region, along psoas muscles; in l. groin and thigh, with drawing.

Pelvis.—Drawing stitches in r. towards back part, during rest. Drawing pain externally on l. posterior part, during rest. Drawing on r. side of posterior brim, and in small of back. Sprained pain around back of l., on motion; on external posterior rim on motion after rising; on l. posterior surface of outer rim (at insertion of gluteus maximus) in afternoon after walking, renewed at every step; at back, < l. side, caused by difficult stool and micturition. Bruised pain around back of l.; bruised and sprained P. on l. surface when walking.

Rectum.—Frequent and successful desire for stool in lower part, with small soft stool.

Anus.—Sensation as if a worm forced its way through sphincter (Ferrum). Sensation as if a living thread-worm hung out, which on stooping caused itching (Sulph.), but no need to scratch. Itching at 8 p.m. while walking, and along fossa between nates. Feeling as if small bubbles of air escaped.

Stool.—Brownish-yellow, pasty, with ineffectual pressure at end. Dry and like sand after dinner. Hard, insufficient. Frequent, preceded by pinching and urging, the last almost diarrhoeic. Difficult.

Urinary Organs.—Micturition frequent; and copious (Gels.). Burning when urinating. Stitch forward in urethra.

Clinical.—Polyuria, diabetes insipidus and possibly glycosuria, urine very profuse and turbid, of sweet odor.

Sexual Organs.—Tearing along spermatic cord into testicles at 4 p.m., when resting after a walk. Crushed pain in r. testicle when walking, < pressure of clothes (Rhod., Zinc.); in testicles in evening in bed. Bruised pain in l. testicle. Digging deep in substance of r. testicle when at rest, with fear and anxiety. Desire diminished. Emissions at night; without lewd dreams; incomplete, in sleep.

Clinical.—Seminal emissions without sexual excitement or with loss of sexual power. Chronic gleet. Affections of l. ovary, it feels as if it were very large. Prolapsus of uterus with great bearing down and pain in l. ovary, pain extending up back and down l. thigh, with leucorrhoea, yellow, excoerating, ichorous, of an intolerable odor. In women suffering from uterine disease, pain in joints and limbs. Ulceration of uterus, cervix swollen, spongy, corroded, with foul discharge. Palliative in scirrhus of uterus. Sore feeling extending to the whole abdomen < riding in a carriage.

Respiratory Organs.—Crashing, shattering, with a reverberation (like that heard from ice breaking up in the spring). Mucus on laughing, causing coughs. Mucus in air-passages on stooping, expelled by a single cough. Pain in cricoid cartilage, caused by a draft, with feeling of a stopper in throat and bruised pain on pressure. Cutting in windpipe, becoming a stitch, causing shocks of cough, watery expectoration with the cough.

Cough (in morning). Hacking, dry C. in morning after rising. Attacks of short rattling C. by day, > at night and in open air, with thick, white, easy expectoration, looking like boiled starch (Agar.). On inspiration two tones (as from a bassoon, low and high), at the same time low down in throat, in evening before sleep.

Chinical.—Loss of voice after singing or talking. Chronic hoarseness, cannot speak; larynx feels sore, and there is expectoration of gray gelatinous mucus, the rawness extends as far as the bifurcation of the trachea. When eating fruit it seems as if a little piece stuck; it feels in upper and front part as if something lay in a little spot, almost as if chilling and somewhat pressing, which constantly irritates him to cough, without being removed by doing so. Rawness and soreness in upper part of larynx when coughing, not when swallowing (Broni.). Feeling of a raw spot in windpipe, in region of suprasternal fossa, < speaking, talking or singing. Cough from laughing. Cough caused by irritation in larynx and trachea and from accumulation of mucus, the expectoration is characteristic, looking like grayish, boiled starch or like gray jelly. A valuable remedy for the chronic laryngitis of singers and speakers, the expectoration is characteristic.

Chest.—Twitching from r. anterior clavicular region towards shoulder-joint (in a fibre of pectoralis major) during rest. Stitches under l. third true rib; between r. sixth and seventh true ribs, < deep inspiration; under l. last ribs; near r. nipple; beneath r. nipple; on r. side near handle of sternum; under xiphoid cartilage; outward in r. side, when sitting, arresting breathing; boring stitches in r. axilla; cutting transversely across below l. last rib, when stooping sideways and leaning on arm; drawing, as in an ulcer, in lowest rib near spine; extending outward inside upper part of sternum; intermittent, under cartilages of l. last true ribs, over pit of stomach, evening in bed, as if in pleura, in precordial region; pressing, on r. side of chest and sternum, < deep inspiration.

Tearing beneath r. axilla. Cutting on l. side, near pit of stomach, in cartilages of false ribs, morning in bed, changing to a pain in same place on r. side, which is more like an indistinct pressure; on left of pit of stomach, extending across cartilages of false ribs, morning after waking, with bruised pain on pressure; outward in both sides, in region of lowest ribs, < deep inspiration; horizontal, on l. side, in cartilage of false rib; when quiet after breakfast. Pinching in spot below r. axilla at noon while at rest, with bruised pain after pressure; sticking pinching in l. side of sternum, < sitting bent. Aching externally in sternum; internally on middle of sternum, < motion, especially stooping and then rising again; over heart, with oppression; spasmodic, in ribs, with tension; drawing below r. axilla during rest after dinner, with bruised pain on strong pressure; as if something pressed hard on r. ribs; pressing outward in spot under second or third r. rib, during deep inspiration; cramplike in l.; then soreness on touch. Oppression. Sprained feeling in posterior wall of r. axilla on exertion, > rest; cutting sprained feeling in cartilage of l. false rib, horizontally across rib, near pit of stomach. Gnawing scratching on l. side when at rest. Mucus, with cough and expectoration.

Heart.—Spasmodic twitching of cardiac muscle, < lying on back, with the thought that he would have apoplexy. (Oppressive burning in region.) Pulse quick in evening in bed, with thirst.

Neck.—Pressure on l. outer side when walking in open air. Drawing pain in r. side close to foramen magnum. Tensive bruised feeling along sterno-cleido muscles in morning when stretched, on sitting in open air. Stiff feeling in nape, with drawing and pressing on occiput. Painful tension on both sides of foramen magnum in morning after waking, < motion.

Back.—Cutting stitches at ends of r. ribs, near spine, < curving back. Bruised feeling in morning after waking, and in loins. Tickling itching stitches between scapulae. Tearing in upper part of l. scapula when sitting, > rising from a seat; in glenoid cavity of scapula, extending to clavicle. Pressure inside scapulae. Sprained feeling in uppermost muscles of r. scapula on exerting the outstretched arm.

Loins.—Stitches in second lumbar vertebrae; burning stitches in r. loin when sitting, but when rising and on pressure the pain is burning without stitches. Pressure in side of back opposite bowels, then oppressive stitches on least motion or when breathing, so that he had to walk bent, when lying still with gripping as in a malignant ulcer and with oppression of chest. Drawing tensive pain in l. loin and below inguinal ring at 7 P.M., after walking, extending to thigh. Bruised feeling in small of back; morning on waking, < motion, and in loins and nape. Deep-seated sprained feeling in lumbosacral region, > adduction of l. thigh, compelling limping, then bruised pain on outer side of l. knee.

Extremities.—Tearing in ends of long bones; in metacarpal bone of thumb and in metatarsal bone and proximal phalanx of big toes, < touch, with aching. Drawing and tensive pain in bends of elbows and knees, > strong pressure. Cramplike drawing in back of r. hand and foot. Sprained feeling in top of r. shoulder on walking, and in l. inner malleolus. Discomfort and weakness. Weakness in morning; > after rising.

Upper Extremities.—Shoulder. Electric shocks, extending through l. arm, when sleeping, with hands under head. Twitches around r. joint, at one time in posterior margin of axilla, at another in front of clavicle extending to top of shoulder. Tearing in r. joint; on top of S. and in region of head of humerus; on articular eminence of r. at 5 P.M. while at rest; from articular eminence of r. to nape during rest; pressive T. below joint. Tearing drawing pain in r. joint at rest, with paralytic weakness; drawing pain in r. deltoid; drawing pain in l. deltoid at rest, with bruised pain on pressure; drawing digging pain under r. deltoid; boring scratching pain in r. shoulder-joint in morning when walking. Bruised pain on top of l. when walking. Sprained feeling in l. joint during rest. Weakness on waking at 6.30.

Arm.—Tensive drawing, like stitches, in different places. Inclination to fall asleep in morning when lying on it. Paralysis of r. arm and hand. Paralytic feeling during motion, especially in elbows.

Upper Arm.—Cramp in middle, < lifting arm. Burning stitch anteriorly in middle of l. Tearing in l.; drawing tearing near condyles of l. elbow at 3 P.M., at rest. Pinching in r. Aching in flesh, < touch; drawing, in muscles of r., near bend of elbow, during rest, with paralytic weakness; drawing, in anterior surface of r. when at rest, with paralytic weakness in the same place and inclination to stretch arm. Paralytic drawing on outside of l., with bruised feeling on pressure. Weakness; in morning after waking, > after rising, with stiffness of neck; about shoulders in morning on waking.

Elbow.—Twitching in l. at 3 P.M. during rest; in bend of r. during rest and bruised pain on top of r. shoulder. Stitches in tips; in tip of l. during rest. Burning pain in a spot at 6 P.M. during rest. Drawing pain through radial joint of r. at noon during rest; spasmodic, in bend of r., as if arm had been sprained, during motion, < extending arm. Tension externally at tip when bending arm.

Forearm.—Stitches at beginning of radius, behind wrist; intermittent, in r. radius, more in muscles. Tearing in posterior muscles between bones of l. elbow and radius, as far as wrist; drawing, above wrist at 2 P.M.; jerking, in middle of radius, r. then l., then in proximal joint of r. middle finger. Spasmodic pressure in inner side of l., with drawing pain. Drawing pain in radius, beginning above wrist, in morning in bed, then the same pain in r. shoulder. Paralytic drawing pain from middle of flexor side of l. radius to elbow during rest; from condyles of elbow, along ulnar side in evening in bed, r. then l. Paralytic drawing in r. radius, beginning above anterior condyle in evening.

Wrist.—Tearing in bones. Drawing pain in radial part of l. during rest, > moving hand, with bruised pain on pressure.

Fingers.—Twitchings of whole r. thumb while writing, so that it is abducted from fingers. Tearing in middle joint of r. little; in proximal joint and metacarpal bone of l. fourth, < seizing something, with spasmodic clenching of finger; drawing T. in middle joint of l. index, in bed, afterwards throbbing. Paralytic pain in r. joints. Drawing pain in middle joint of r. index at 1 P.M. during rest, with sudden paralytic weakness in it; drawing P. in ball of l. thumb, during rest, alternating with the same in l. occiput; in bone of proximal joint of ring finger at noon, during rest. Drawing in joints of l. three middle.

Lower Extremities.—Stiffness in evening. Weakness after waking; with giving way of knees when walking; after rising from bed, especially in region of trochanters, with painful sprained tension around trochanters and buttocks, < walking, with bruised pain on pressure.

Thigh.—Electric shocks starting from l. then r. hip-joint during after-dinner nap. Twitches above l. patella. Tearing stitches over l. patella; throbbing S. in l. trochanter, synchronous with pulse, along neck of femur to socket in morning in bed. Pressure in r. hip-joint when he steps on l. foot in running. Drawing pain in l. hip at noon during rest. Paralytic drawing in r. hip-bone. Bruised feeling in gluteal muscles on walking, stooping, adducting thigh and lying on parts; behind l. hip during motion; in anterior surface of l. thigh and knee. Sprained pain in r. hip-joint; l. hip, caused by sneezing; in hip-joint on every step. Burning soreness between nates after walking. Tingling humming in l. thigh, with drawing in anterior muscles. Stiffness of muscles about hip-joint on dressing. Weakness of thigh when walking in street; paralytic, in thigh and hip; paralytic, in r. hip-joint when walking, < moving leg forward, with stitches when setting foot down, causing limping.

Knee.—Electric shock in r., in forenoon, then two similar shocks through upper part of body, exploding close to foramen magnum, preventing sleep. Twitching in outer side of l. when sitting, with a clucking sensation. Tearing in l. when sitting. Aching when sitting, and extending outward in muscles of l. leg; cramplike incisive, over l., on both sides, when he does not move; drawing, in condyles of l. Drawing from r. popliteal space through knee to outer margin of patella at 10 P.M. in bed. Bruised feeling, < sitting; on inside of r.; l. patella; on l. side of r. patella, < walking, > sitting, with weakness of limbs; in r. on motion with pain as if dislocated; throbbing, on anterior and inner surface of r. knee when standing. Sprained pain in l. patella, on motion; in r. knee in morning on walking, with cramp in calf; inward in r. knee, > during rest. Knees give way on ascending stairs; on walking.

Leg.—Cramp in l. calf, < rest. Burning corrosive stitches in l. tibia, not far from knee in evening in bed, causing twitching of foot. Tearing in and below head of fibula, now l., now r.; throbbing, in middle of r. tibia. Cutting in l. fibula on standing. Pain consisting of digging, tension, rigidity and bruised feeling, in fibula, at 3 P.M. when walking, with weakness, repeated at 6 P.M.; pain in muscles of calf as if too short when descending stairs; drawing throbbing, in middle of l. tibia at rest; paralytic, in periosteum or bone of l. fibula during rest; drawing paralytic, through marrow of r. tibia at 6 P.M. when walking across the room. Paralytic drawing in middle of l. tibia, as if in periosteum, during rest; cramplike drawing in lowest part of r. calf at 10.30 A.M. Sprained pain in inner condyle of r. tibia on walking in open air.

Ankle.—Cutting-outward stitches in outer malleoli when sitting, > walking, < resting foot on a small support. Tearing in l. inner malleolus, extending upward, during rest. Bruised pain on l. inner malleolus. Sprained pain in l. outer malleolus when walking; in r. inner malleolus on motion after rising. Paralytic drawing pain near l. outer malleolus at rest. Feeling as if l. foot were detached, and cartilage of joints did not touch when walking.

Foot.—Tearing, at times on soles, at times on dorsa, or on heels, toes (especially proximal joints), in tarsal or metatarsal bones, with sometimes a tearing extending beyond malleoli. Pain in a corn; in heel when stepping, feeling as if pithy; drawing, in l. metatarsal bones and ankle, with burning in corn of l. toe; drawing, on dorsum of r., in metatarsal bones, while sitting, then throbbing P. Bruised feeling in joints, < sitting, with throbbing. Pulsation in joints of feet and lower part of legs, as from weakness, < rest, > motion, with tingling and stinging in skin of leg. Toes. Tearing on back of l. middle toes at 6 P.M. Burning pain in a corn on l. little toe in evening.

Skin.—Furuncle on l. last rib, sensitive to touch. Pimple on l. temple, with pain on touch; (P. on tibia, with burning pain.) Sticking as from fleas; here and there, as from electric sparks; in middle of extensor side of l. forearm at 11 A.M., then in skin of r. chest. Titillation in r. palm. Crawling in fold of external ear; on l. scapula as if asleep. Itching over whole body; external ear; l. ear; inner surface of l. lobule; between scapulae; on elbows; corrosive, in lobules in morning after rising; corroding, in fossa of r. auricle; biting, on forehead; biting, on r. elbow; biting, on inside of l. knee; in folds of concha, afternoons, with burning sore pain after scratching; burning, here and there.

Sleep.—Inclined to, fore part of night, but could not on account of heat and stinging in skin, with vertigo when half awake, so that he thought the head would fall out of bed, then shaking of body as in epilepsy, with vertigo and sleeplessness. Sleepless after 3.30 A.M. Restless at night. At beginning of afternoon nap electric shocks of l. lower limb, starting from knee. Waking frequently. Dreams anxious; of care and fright; that he was followed by a large, powerful enemy, then early waking and weakness, especially in hip-joints; unremembered, of loathsome things; of the day's business; of the events of the day; vivid.

Fever.—Chilliness under skin morning in bed; in afternoon till he fell asleep, then sweat after midnight; over upper part of body at night on lifting covers; under skin of upper part of body morning in bed, with weakness of limbs, especially upper arms, hunger and nausea; on back and on feet, extending above ankle; on r. side of pelvis, near sacrum, when sitting, returning after dinner. Creeping chilliness in skin on uncovering upper part of body. Shivering; over r. side of scalp; creeping through outer side of l. lower limb when standing in a room.

Heat in forenoon, with feeling of heat over whole body, less about head, without thirst, with sweat on abdomen and chest. Hot sensation in face without redness. Burning on r. side of small of back when rising and on pressure; on tip of r. elbow; paroxysmal; in a corn; in r. heel and tendo-achillis as if asleep; itching, under skin of inner side of l. wrist, with stinging. Warmth in concha of l. ear, with itching.

Sweat, easy, < during and after eating.

Clinical.—Hectic fever every day from 11 till 12 or 1 o'clock.

Argentum Nitricum.

Nitrate of silver is prepared for use by dissolving the pure salt in distilled water.

General Action.—An irritant poison causing violent inflammation and ulceration of throat and stomach and mucous membranes generally. It attacks and destroys the red corpuscles of the blood causing general malnutrition, especially ecchymoses. It increases the flow of bile and causes degenerative changes in the liver and albuminuria. It depresses the temperature. It produces violent tetanic convulsions, followed by paralysis.

General Peculiarities.—Sharp splinter-like pains in mucous membranes (Nit. ac.), free mucopurulent discharge. Tremulous weakness, with coldness.

Allied Drugs.—Aurum, Cuprum, Mercur, Plumbi. Zinc., Nitric acid and compounds, Picric ac., Gelsem., Hydrastis.

Generalities.—Emaciation. Dropsy; oedema of legs and ascites. Convulsions; and twitchings. Trembling and tremulous sensation (Gels., Cupr., Merc.). Excitation of muscles and nerves, with consensual excitation of nerves of stomach. Pressure in groins at 10 P.M. while sitting, and in hollow of r. knee, in l. little finger and on back of l. foot. Pain in sides in morning after a restless night, with bruised feeling in limbs; in groins, below and in front of l. trochanter, when walking, causing knees to bend; drawing, in groins, thighs, calves, especially in tibia and l. thigh.

Clucking sensation in spots in upper arm or thigh, hand, one ear and on l. cheek; also the same, or in one leg, or else drawing in finger-joints, or in one knee, or in spot of r. upper arm, if the pain in forehead decreased for some time. Expanding sensation, especially in face and head (Glon., Gels.), with a feeling as if bones of skull separated, and with heat. Disagreeable sensation moving about, now in limbs, especially in r. upper, now in head, especially about r. temple. Orgasms in whole body, with heat (Sulph.). Restlessness at night, with headache and stupefaction (Sulph.). Presentiment of the approaching epileptic fit.

Weakness; morning on waking, with apathy; morning on rising, with oppression of body and mind; morning after rising, with trembling and irritated and apprehensive mood; after breakfast, with nervousness, trembling and fear to undertake anything; in afternoon; afternoon, with heat; after a short walk; with rigidity of calves; with despondency; tremulous, with debility and apathy. Insensibility of body. Aggravation during the day; of mental and head symptoms at night, but of general symptoms in morning; on l. side. Amelioration from emission of flatus.

Clinical.—General tremulous weakness, with nervous restlessness, emaciation and sighing respiration. Epileptiform convulsions or even true epilepsy, the patient is very restless or tremulous before or after the attacks. Especially useful in epilepsy caused by fright, or associated with menstruation. For chronic nervous results of alcoholic stimulants or the effects of excessive sexual indulgence, very restless, afraid to be alone, very melancholy, especially worse after eating, with flatulent distention, palpitation, etc. Paralysis from diseases of the spine, with great exhaustion and restlessness, sighing respiration. It has probably cured some cases of locomotor ataxia. Paralysis involving the diaphragm and lungs, sighing, gasping for breath. Post-diphtheritic paralysis. In all these cases there must be present more or less of the characteristic mental and abdominal symptoms of the drug.

Mind.—Unconsciousness. Stupefaction, with suffering look. Imbecile appearance, with childish manner, and on lying down, even in the day, to relieve his head visions and distorted faces hover before his imagination. Sluggishness. Difficulty in conceiving an idea, with heat and fulness in head. Absence of thought. Confusion of senses, with stupid demeanor. Wandering of thoughts. Memory weak, with inability to think correctly (Merc., Nit. ac.). Faltering speech from inability to find suitable words. Alternation of clear consciousness and indifference. Mental and physical affection, he does not undertake anything lest he should not succeed. Anxiety in morning after rising, with irritability, nervousness, weakness and trembling; making him walk rapidly. Apprehension that she will lose her senses, with chilliness. Fixed moody thoughts. Depression; after eating; without desire to do anything. Gloomy at 11 A.M., with drawing pain in forehead, yellowish complexion, sweetish-bitter mucous taste, dry, viscid lips, weakness, febrile sensation and weakness of legs. Nightly nervousness; with heat and fulness in head (Sulph.). Nervous, faintish and tremulous sensation. Taciturnity; hypochondriac, with dulness in head and beating in whole body. Laziness.

Clinical.—Melancholia, apprehension of serious disease; during the attacks of great anxiety or depression she becomes very weak or she has diarrhoea (the diarrhoea as the result of mental emotion is a marked indication for this drug). Melancholia, with impulse to throw herself from the window. Valuable in the mental depression or irritability which results from brain fag, with general debility and trembling of the whole body.

Head.—Aching; morning on waking from dreamy sleep, with confusion; beginning in morning on waking, < movement, with fulness, heaviness and stupidity; morning on waking, obliging him to gnash his teeth; deep in brain on waking, with chilliness all the forenoon; from mental exertion; < strong and agreeable odors; > binding head tightly (Pic. ac.); aching, with enlarged feeling (Bell.); with toothache, with eruptions and chilliness; generally with chilliness, sometimes with heat; especially in forehead, with weakness and restlessness; especially in forehead, with dejection and restlessness; disturbing sleep; stupefying, at night, especially extending to temples and forehead, with heaviness of whole head, restless dreams and nausea; as if it would burst, from mental exertion (Pic. ac.).

Boring in different spots. Digging-up moving about in parenchyma of brain; pressing digging headache, with chilliness and bruised feeling in limbs. Drawing in bands over surface of brain, apparently in membranes or sinuses. Congestion, with throbbing of carotids, heaviness and stupefying dulness in head, melancholy, weakness of mind and inability to express himself suitably and coherently. Fulness; morning on waking, with confusion and with heavy aching, especially at l. frontal eminence, temples and occiput, with at times cessation of occipital pain but increase of temporal pains, with enlarged and weighty feeling in head, and with vertigo suddenly appearing and ceasing, the pain > tightly binding or pressing head and by cold air; at night, with heat and excitement; > pressure, with pushing and heat; with dulness; painful P. in afternoon, with heaviness, inability to recollect and glowing heat in head and cheeks.

Stupid feeling when writing. Dulness in morning on waking from a sleep full of dreams. Confusion; over night, with stupid feeling, changing in morning on waking to fulness in forehead, with stinging digging in same, < after rising; after dinner, with beating in whole body and hypochondriac taciturnity; < after coffee; especially in occiput, l. side of head and forehead; with whizzing in ears and hard hearing. Heaviness; morning on rising; at night, with dulness and heat; and fulness, especially in frontal sinus. Sensation of sinking down from head. Tender, to cold.

Vertigo; morning; morning, with headache; before falling asleep; more before eyes; with blindness; with dulness of sense and as if he had lost sensation, with drowsiness; with buzzing in ears, weakness of limbs and trembling; with nausea and confusion of senses; with staggering (Gels.); as if intoxicated, with weakness of lower limbs; as if turning in a circle, in morning, with headache; faintlike.

Forehead.—Stitches, intermittent, in l. eminence, < afternoon, with digging; in l. frontal and parietal regions, extending to malar-bone, and then digging pain. Tearing in r. bone; l. side; l. eminence; here and there; in sinciput, with pressure and heaviness; extending into l. eye and side of face, with lachrymation of red and glistening eye. Aching; r. bone; r. upper; r. half in morning on waking, especially in eyebrows; after waking, > after dinner, with dulness; < evening; < after coffee, dull drawing, then sticking; over forehead and below l. eye, with drawing; extending to eyes, with sneezing; as if grasped, and in vertex; as from a band, on l. bone, especially on eminence, at times more violent, < walking. Boring in l. frontal eminence (Aurum); above l. eye; in l. frontal bone; l., then r. side; l. side when walking; above, on l. side, with tearing; in eminences, with heaviness of front part of head; in a spot in bone; in spots, with tearing, and in sides of head; moving about above forehead. Pushing in r. as from a load. Drawing; on l.; on l. eminence; in l. eminence, with sticking; in l. eminence, with digging, afterwards with drawing tearing, extending along l. arm; over, with pressing. Pulsations in l.; undulating pulsations. Cool feeling as from a current from r. eminence into r. eye. Heaviness all day in sinciput, < stooping, with pressure; in sinciput, < walking in open air, > towards evening, with pressure; over eyes, which open with difficulty, < stooping, > towards evening; in forehead, with pressure.

Temples.—Tearing at 6 A.M. in bed; in r., extending to face; drawing T., extending from r. to upper jaw and some teeth. Cutting in l. Aching in r. Boring; in r. at 10.30 P.M., increasing in shocks, the same in l. at 10 P.M. when sitting.

Vertex.—Tearing on r.; at 8 A.M., more violent diagonally. Drawing extending from top of skull to above and behind l. ear. Aching over coronal sutures, passing to eyes and root of nose.

Sides of Head.—Stinging and digging in l. half of brain, alternately anteriorly and posteriorly. Tearing on r. side of head at night on waking; now in r., now in l.; on l. side of skull; in spots on r. skull. Aching in one side, with enlarged feeling in corresponding eye; in r.; in r. in evening, consisting of heaviness, fulness and pressure; dragging beating A. in r., with general discomfort. Boring in r. at 8 A.M.; in r. upper at 8 A.M.; in spots in r. upper at 1 P.M. when walking, increasing in shocks. Digging in r. side of head; in r. hemisphere in evening, with raging till he lost his senses, if it abates in forehead, it increases in side of head and towards occiput, whence it extends to nape, pain < during motion, when there is vertigo so that he walks to the left. Drawing in side; on top of l. side, also as if crawling and pricking; in r. side, < motion, > rest, with pressure and heaviness; sudden drawing upward on r. parietal bone at 10.30 P.M., when sitting, then pressing on l. side of forehead, then pressing deep in r. wrist.

Occiput.—Intermittent digging cutting motion, extending through l. hemisphere to frontal protuberance, increasing and decreasing rapidly. Boring in r. Narrow traction, extending into middle of brain.

Scalp.—Tumorlike, itching elevations, and in nape. Wandering tearing in l. upper forehead. Tender. Itching; with creeping crawling and sensation as if roots of hair were pulled upward; at boundary of neck and scalp at night; with biting, and on nape; pricking, in a spot in hair at nape. Creeping towards morning.

Clinical.—Hemicrania, deep-seated, periodical headache, a boring pain, > tight bandaging, brought on by any depressing cause; sometimes the bones of the head feel as if they would separate and the head feels very large, the patient almost loses her senses, it ends in vomiting, or the pain may extend to the face (compare with the gastric symptoms).

Eyes.—Bloodshot; and unable to read at night. Wild rolling, with dilated and insensible pupil. Hollow. Bleared; and dry, with circumscribed congestion and ecchymoses in conjunctiva bulbi (Arn., Plumb.), after itching in the preceding evening. Opaque spot on cornea. Filled with mucus; morning on waking, with confusion of head, especially in forehead and root of nose. Ophthalmia, with pain. Pho-tophobia; with smarting and burning after long use. Deep-seated aching in morning. Smarting; on closing them; by gaslight. Pricking; in l. Pressure as if too full, with heat and pain in ball on motion and touch, with mucous flocks in daytime, infiltration of conjunctiva bulbi and palpebrarum, with stinging itching pain as from a grain of sand, gray spots and bodies in shape of serpents moving before vision, misty vision, narrowing of aperture between lids, frequent winking, general debility and heat of skin. Sore pain in upper and inner part of r. when reading. Burning, morning on waking, with dryness and trouble in opening them. Itching in l., with biting. Lachrymation. Sticking in l. ball; in inner angles of balls; in l. ball at 6 A.M. on rising, more in lower part; in r. ball at 10 P.M.; burning sticking on external surface of l. ball. Pupil contracted.

Scurf in lashes. Agglutination; of r. at night; with smarting on waking. Stitches in r., < evening, with burning. Canthi, blood-red, with swelling of caruncula lachrymalis and with clusters of red vessels extending from inner canthus to cornea (Zinc.), puckering and interstitial distention of conjunctiva, increased secretion of tears and gum; stitches in inner; itching; biting in r. outer. Red swelling around cornea, towards inner canthus (Zinc.). Redness of conjunctiva of eyes and lids.

Orbits.—Tearing in centre of r. lower ridge in attacks while sitting, with pressing. Pressure on l. lower border; in l. eyebrow. Neuralgic pain in l. infraorbital region. Boring on surface of l.; on lower margin of l.; on upper margin of r.; on lower margin of r.; deep in r. lower ridge; on both sides of glabella. Drawing on lower margin of r.; in centre of r. lower ridge.

Vision.—Blindness; caused by mucus (Euphras.) Obscuration, with anxiety, heat in face and lachrymation. Weakness, with moisture of eyes; sudden W. at twilight. Blurring of letters, with vanishing of vision when reading and writing (Nat. m.). Farsighted. Fiery bodies and flashes in morning in the dark.

Clinical.—With the headache and nervous symptoms there is frequently great photophobia, with general loss of muscular co-ordination, is unable to keep the eyes fixed steadily (Conium) and everything is blurred. The inflammatory symptoms are usually very violent; purulent ophthalmia, with great swelling of the conjunctiva, and especially of the caruncula, the discharge is very abundant and purulent; even when the cornea is involved and ulceration results it is sometimes found to check the progress of the disease. Especially in new-born infants, purulent ophthalmia, with much profuse discharge, threatening, or actual ulceration. Chronic ulceration of the margins of the lids, with profuse discharge, sometimes calls for Arg. nit., but more frequently for Arg. met., if the edges of the lid are thickened.

Ears.—Tearing behind r. Twinging pain; in r., with tearing. Stitches deep in l.; deep in r. and all around it; in r. when walking. Aching above l., morning after rising. Painful stoppage, with headache. Boring above r.; in front of l. Feeling of a board before l. Drawing in front of and above r., like a crawling and pricking. Whizzing in l., with feeling of obstruction and hard hearing; W. before, with dullness of head. Ringing; morning in bed; with deafness (China); before ears, passing into momentary deafness, with roaring.

Nose.—Ulcers in; covered with yellow crusts. Bleeding pimple on septum. Pain in r. wing, with swelling. Sore pain in, when compressing wings.

Bruised pain in l. bones. Itching in. Smarting in. Rigidity in cavity, with clawing. Obstruction; at night, with itching; in room, but in open air flow of thin mucus; in upper part. Sneezing. Scurs in r.; causing pain and bleeding when detached. Discharge of white pus, with clots of blood; white pus, mixed with lumps; pus like brain substance; purulent mucus, with spots of blood when sneezing. Coryza; with chilliness, sickly look, lachrymation, sneezing and stupefying headache, obliging her to lie down in afternoon; with sneezing, then tingling in nose and posterior nares; dry, then loose, changing to rattling cough, with yellow expectoration, sweat, bad look, hollow eyes and disturbed sleep, and as the cough improved blowing from nose purulent mucus mixed with blood. Bleeding from r. nostril at 8 A.M.; blows blood from r. nostril; blows blood and puriform mucus from nose. Sense of smell dull. Smell of pus before nose at night.

Clinical.—Loss of smell and hæmorrhages.

Face.—Sunken, pale, bluish. Pale. Lead-colored, with nausea. Sickly appearance. Expression of old age, with tight drawing of skin over bones. Convulsions, the mouth being almost locked. Twitching under skin close to l. side of nose, with creeping. Stitches; in l. cheek; on zygoma; in l. cheek, with drawing; burning S. on l. zygoma at 4 P.M., then r.; deep in l. side of chin. Tearing on r. cheek; in l. zygoma, with boring. Pain wandering about in l. cheek like a crawling. Boring in r. cheek; deep in sides of chin. Drawing in cheek; under skin, above chin.

Lips.—Bluish, and soft parts of mouth. Purple-red spots on margins and about chin, with a whitish-gray crust covering interior of mouth. Hard pimples on vermilion border, paler than lips and sore to touch. Pustule on derma of upper lip, arising from a painful red, shining pimple. Dry and viscid; lips, mouth, tongue and fauces parched night and morning.

Jaws.—Shooting over r. ramus. Bruised pain in r. lower. Drawing in r. lower.

Mouth.—Teeth. Exfoliation of a r. lower molar, causing ulcerative pain and a vacillating sensation. Stitches in lower; in r. molars, lower, then upper. Sudden tearing in morning when washing mouth with cold water. Aching; in l.; in r. molars; < chewing, eating sour things and putting cold things into mouth, with grumbling and digging, especially in l. lower teeth. Raging in a carious l. lower molar. Sensitiveness to cold water (Calc. c.). Drawing in r. upper; in molars; in r. lower molars; in lower T., also at 9 P.M.; through lower incisors, with sensation as if lifted.

Gums.—Loose, bleeding readily. Inflamed and standing off from teeth in the shape of white indentations, especially painful when touched. Tender and disposed to bleed (Merc., Zinc.).

Tongue.—Red tip, with pain and prominent papillæ. White; and slimy. Dirty brown. Dark-bluish spots. Yellowish-gray. Yellow coat at base and dry feeling though it was moist. Swelling, with ulcerative pain. Prominence of papillæ of l. side; prominence and soreness of papillæ. Roughness. Stitches deep in; in tip. Burning; in fore part; in tip at 10 P.M., with bitter taste; warmth in tip, then in œsophagus; warmth in tip alternating with warmth in pharynx. Pain as if burnt, with papillæ of l. margin becoming erect and forming reddish, painful pimples. Dryness; morning; evening; with slimy mouth.

Mucus in mouth and fauces in morning, obliging him to hawk and spit (Nit. ac.); watery, and in posterior nares. Ulcerated crusts on mucous membrane, especially of l. cheek. Astringent sensation, and in tongue and region of lips. Tension in palate, with prickling, then a swelling with a wart-shaped excrescence on middle of soft palate, impeding deglutition. Dryness; of palate and fauces. Warmth. Salivation; thin, with a taste bitter or like soap-suds; drooling in sleep (Merc.). Petor in morning (Merc.).

Taste.—Inky. Metallic; and astringent, < by warm tea. Sweetish. Astringent, with watery saliva; bitter, metallic; as of verdigris, with nausea. Bitter; with warmth on tip of tongue and then in pharynx; pappy, with viscid mouth; sweetish. Clayish; morning after rising, the tip of tongue being white and the root yellow. Pappy, chalklike, with mucous coat on the reddish-white tongue.

Throat.—Redness of velum palati, posterior nares and isthmus; pharynx; dark R. of uvula and fauces. Congestion, especially posteriorly, with heat; with burning soreness on r. side. White patch at back of pharynx; on posterior pillars of fauces. Palate white, swollen and sore. Mucus in morning fasting, and in posterior nares, sinking deeper into throat and forming lumps, which cause retching and hawking (Nit. ac.); thick, tenacious M., obliging him to hawk; causing hawking and hoarseness; in posterior nares, obliging him to hawk (Nit. ac.), also in forenoon. Hawking up yellow-brown, bloody mucus. Cramps and choking.

Prickling, making r. eye water. Pain suddenly at night in bed, with short dry cough; burning pain in region of velum palati and posterior nares. Ulcerative pain in spot of velum pendulum palati; in posterior wall of pharynx, changing to an aching pain when inspiring deeply and yawning; in r. side, with drawing and tension upward and downward, sensation of a splinter when swallowing (Nit. ac.), erectating, stretching and moving neck, and sometimes undulating jerking and pulsating. Rawness and soreness. Roughness; at night, with dryness and ulcerative pain (Merc.); causing hawking. Scraping; causing hawking and cough. Cauterized feeling in uvula. Soreness morning on waking (Hydrastis); at night on waking; when drinking cold water and during empty swallowing; when swallowing, as from a swelling or splinter (Nit. ac.). Swollen feeling in velum pendulum palati when moving tongue and swallowing. Burning. Dryness; at night, with strangulation and shortness of breath. Tickling causing cough; evening and morning; several days before dinner; in throat and palate at noon, causing lachrymation and fatiguing hacking cough; as from a feather, obliging hawking. Catarrhal feeling, and in larynx. Styptic sensation.

Œsophagus.—Cramp at 10.30 A.M. Feeling in Œ. and stomach as if full of food. Soreness and burning.

Clinical.—Acute and chronic sore throat, with much thick mucus and a feeling of a splinter lodged in the throat (Nit. ac.), sometimes with burning and dryness, generally with dark redness of all internal parts of throat. Catarrh of smokers, with sensation of a hair causing cough, > again by smoking.

Stomach.—Appetite increased; irresistible for sugar in evening; insatiable in morning and evening; desire for acrid cheese; diminished; lost for breakfast; lost, with a strawlike taste to food. Aversion to food. Thirst increased. Erectations; in morning; with most of the gastric derangements; in morning after rising, with sick feeling and pain in abdomen; violent; insipid; tasting of ingesta.

Nausea; after each meal, < during and after dinner and in evening; with troublesome efforts to vomit; with warmth in stomach, both > eating; with burning and pain in stomach; with gnawing in stomach; with heaviness in S.; with pressure in S.; with gurgling in abdomen; with discomfort and emptiness in abdomen; with stiffness of legs, chilliness and shuddering; faintish N. in afternoon, with palpitation; resembling hunger. Retching. Vomiting; with diarrhoea and colic; with anxiety in præcordial region; V. substances which tinge the clothes black; violent.

Shifting of flatus and twisting, with eructations. Painful swelling of pit, with anxiety. Fulness in pit (Nit. d. s.); in epigastric region at noon after bread and milk. Cramp at 4.30 A.M.; before breakfast. Pain; afternoon; > towards evening; > diarrhoea; in attacks; in pit at 8.30 A.M.; on r. side near pit, < deep inspiration; at r. of epigastrium, with tenderness; ulcerative P. after dinner; stinging ulcerative P. below l. short ribs, < touch and deep inspiration. Gripping, with burning. Inflammation; gastro-enteritis. Gnawing on l. side; wild G., a sort of hunger, with nausea. Cardialgia; before breakfast, with nausea; before breakfast, with internal chilliness and bad appearance; waking her at night, with twisting in stomach, which extends into abdomen. Burning; and on chest; ascending from S.; with nausea; with rumbling in intestines and emission of flatus. Coolness. Compression, aggravated periodically, > diarrhoea. Constriction; periodical.

Feeling as if it would burst after yawning, with sensation as if œsophagus were spasmodically closed, hence ineffectual effort to eructate, with strangulation, pressing pain in S., faintish nausea, salivation and inability to stir, all > by empty eructations. Tension and pressure causing anxiety and sensation as if filled unto bursting. Sensation of a lump in pit, waking her at midnight, vomiting of glairy mucus, which can be drawn into threads, in morning, then nausea in forenoon, with tremulous weakness and sensation as if head were in a vise. Oppression; from food and dragging downward. Heaviness and dragged-down sensation. Trembling and throbbing. Warmth in epigastrium.

Clinical.—Great craving for sweets. Well-marked gastritis characterized by enormous distention, or therewith free eructations of gas. For the gastritis of drunkards it is unrivalled. Ulceration of the stomach; the pain extends from the stomach to the chest and shoulders and down to abdomen; the greatest distress from water or food, often associated with enlargement of the liver and cutting pain in the region of the liver. Sometimes severe cardialgia as from a stone in stomach, with ineffectual efforts to eructate, becomes strangulated, face becomes purple, followed by almost unconsciousness. Disordered stomachs of children from sweets, with distention, nausea, eructations, violent cramps in bowels, tongue thickly coated white, dark redness of the face, headache, etc.

Abdomen.—Distention (Carbo v.); after supper, with heaviness, anxiety and impeded respiration; with oppression. Flatulence. Emission of flatus; after dinner. Shifting of flatus in morning, then diarrhoea; in morning, waking him, with rumbling and urging to stool. Rumbling; at night. Pain; at night, waking from uneasy slumber, then sixteen evacuations of greenish fetid mucus, with noisy emissions of flatus; P. before diarrhoea. Cramp after catarrh. Sore pain, with hunger, > eating, then trembling in that place. Feeling of a ball rising into throat (Ign.). Tension, towards evening; painful T. and pressure as if sore and ulcerated. Uneasiness. Coldness in A., with painful irritation. Feeling of looseness, with pain in hypogastrium.

Feeling below umbilicus as if distended, or as if a weight were on it, > emission of flatus. Pain around umbilicus. Stitches like electric sparks through l. side, < sudden transition from rest to motion. Stitches in spleen evenings; intermittent S. in spleen. Pain in hypochondria; l. Drawing down l. side when standing, with heaviness.

Liver.—Stitches; beginning with a jerk; periodical, in anterior surface. Cutting. Painful fulness, with occasional drawing and stinging, < walking, often reaching into chest.

Lower A.—Flatulent distention, > emissions of flatus, with heaviness. Intermittent pressure in transversalis muscle, near crest of ilium, as from a foreign body. Aching, in groins, < touch; in groin when walking, and below and in front of l. trochanter, causing bending of knees. Drawing in one or other groin, with pressure; oppressive painful D. down to groin, with tension, as in ascites. Dragging and weight, at times amounting to burning pain, > micturition. Oppression.

Rectum.—Stitches. Urging during diarrhoea; sudden, waking at 6 A.M., with copious half-liquid yellow stool, then ineffectual urging. Burning spot on anterior wall, about an inch above sphincter, unaffected by stool, < micturition and at night. Discharge of ascarides; of tania. Itching in anus (Æsc. h., Sulph., Zinc.); in perineum. Creeping in anus, with burning.

Stool.—Liquid, with mucus. Brown, liquid, fetid, copious, fluid, then vomiting. Diarrhoea; after breakfast; in evening; with pain in abdomen; with retching and vomiting of mucus; scanty, watery about midnight, with flatulent colic and noisy flatulence during stool (Jatro.), after eating sugar in evening. Pasty. Hard, Constipation; or diarrhoea. Dark. Of green mucus, with retching, vomiting of mucus, pain in stomach, drawing pain in abdomen and intolerance of lying around hypochondria. Bloody; with debility; of bloody mucus frequently towards morning. Small, with discharge of mucus. Frequent; with pain in abdomen; with pain in hypogastrium; of a peculiar odor, of a greenish semi-solid mass made up of lumps of undigested food and mucus, passed with flatus. Slowness and diminution of fecal and urinary discharges.

Clinical—Diarrhoea of green mucus, like chopped spinach, usually with great flatulence. Evacuations of shreds of mucus or of undigested food, with enormous distention of abdomen, emissions of much flatus, stools excessively offensive. Green, fetid, uncoagulated stools. Dysentery, with bloody slimy stools, with symptoms of ulceration of the rectum. Chronic dysentery. Diarrhoea immediately after drinking. Diarrhoea caused by the least excitement; many cases of chronic diarrhoea, the result of shocks, have been cured by this drug, especially with the chronic flatulence so characteristic of it.

Urinary Organs.—Urging to urinate; at 4 and 6 A.M., with scanty dark urine; waking at night; quick, with copious clear urine; frequent at night, with scanty urine; frequent, with much yellow urine, then cutting in end of urethra. Micturition. Difficult; at 7 A.M., with burning and discharge of white pellicles, shreds of epithelium from mucous membrane. Accelerated. Rare, urine scanty and dark. Frequent; at night; and copious, also in forenoon. Inability to pass urine in a projecting stream (Caut., Gels.). Divided stream (Canth., Thuja). Larger stream. Of a few drops after he had done, with feeling as if interior of urethra were swollen.

Urethra.—Oozing of mucus; thick white, at night, then thinner. Stitches in extremity (Nit. ac.). Cutting from posterior part to anus when emitting last drop of urine (Thuja). Ulcerative pain between acts of micturition (Prun. sp.); during micturition, then ineffectual urging; in middle, as from a splinter. Inflammation, with pain (Cannab. s., Cubeb., Thuja, Merc. c.), increased gonorrhoea, priapism, dysuria, bloody urine and fever (Petrosel.). Dragging pain during micturition. Drawing through end. Painful pushing. Burning in urethra during micturition (Cannab.), with constricted sensation in fore part; during micturition, with swollen feeling and difficulty in passing last part of urine; during and after micturition, at times amounting to a stabbing pain (Nit. ac.); after micturition; in morning on urinating, with itching and tickling; especially at meatus and below scrotum; with increased gonorrhoea, burning during micturition, painful tension during erections, chordee, bleeding from urethra, and shootings in same from behind forward. Sensitiveness near orifice. Soreness, even after micturition; sore and swollen feeling. Sensation as if swollen, hard and knotty. Pain as if swollen and ulcerated. Peculiar sensation in orifice. Feeling as if a fluid ran along. Feeling as if a burning drop ran along, after urinating (K. bi.).

Urine.—Copious; at night; pale and frequent. Scanty, concentrated, with disappearance of uric acid; in evening. Dark; and acid. Cloudy at noon, from mucus, with a light red sediment covering vessel as far as the urine reaches. Strong smelling. Inorganic salts increased. Silicic acid abundant.

Clinical.—With the gastro-intestinal troubles the urine is generally very scanty; with the nervous symptoms it may be profuse; in paralytic troubles there may be incontinence. Very valuable in the early purulent stage of gonorrhoea, with most profuse discharge and terrible cutting pains, urine bloody, of great value, given internally. Profuse purulent leucorrhoea, with great soreness and bleeding of the vagina, ulcerations of the cervix, which bleed (compare with Arg. met.).

Sexual Organs.—Pain on coition, with stretched feeling in urethra and absence of pleasure. Chancrelike ulcers on prepuce with pus at their tips, then diffusion of the ulcers through a spacious depression, with a tallowlike coating. Enlargement of r. testicle, with hardness. Pain extending into and along course of spermatic cord. Pain as if from pins and needles in testes and scrotum, < r. side. Spasmodic contraction of cremaster muscle, drawing testicle high up into scrotum, with a drawing pain extending into testes. Desire wanting, with shrivelling of genitals. Emissions at night; with lascivious dreams; frequent and copious at night.

Female.—Uterus, hæmorrhages; congestions; excitement of capillaries. Orgasms at night. Menses copious, with cutting in small of back and groin and contractive sensation in latter; suppression of menses, miscarriage and metrorrhagia.

Respiratory Organs.—Larynx. Whizzing and whistling as regular as the pulse, caused by movement of blood when lying on l. ear after dinner. Balls of soaplike mucus, causing cough. Soreness, < morning, and in pit of throat. Scratching, causing hawking and cough. Irritation and tickling, then accumulation of mucus, causing rattling and whizzing breathing until the mucus is thrown off in lumps. Tickling at 2 P.M.; at 3 P.M., with lessened inspiration, then short, dry, shaking cough, > sitting; dry T. in daytime, causing cough. Hoarseness at night, with dry cough and expectoration of blood-tinged mucus mixed with saliva; with roughness in throat.

Cough; in evening, < tobacco smoke; at night; at night from tickling in larynx; at night, with sweat; several days before dinner from tickling in throat; from tickling in throat; from scraping in throat, with hawking. Suffocative at noon for several days; impeding speech, after dinner. Violent, short, dry, at night in bed, from sudden pressure in throat. Fatiguing hacking, at noon, with lachrymation, from tickling in throat and palate. Dry, fatiguing evening and morning from tickling in throat; dry, paroxysmal, at night, sometimes causing vomiting; dry and hacking.

Dyspnœa. Suffocative respiration. Sighing from oppression of chest.

Clinical.—Chronic inflammation of larynx in singers (compare with Arg. met.). Threatening paralysis of the lungs, the patient could scarcely breathe, fear of suffocation, distress in stomach, great accumulation of gases.

Chest.—Mucus. Stitches in l. side; in breasts; longitudinally in sides; superficially about centre of eighth rib. Pinching moving about in pleura costalis and pulmonaris, with oppression of chest. Pain at night; externally in l. in evening when drawing on boots, then sore pain in pectoral muscles, < stretching arms, especially near l. nipple; externally on touch; caused by walking, with need of deep inspiration, > walking; tensive, internally in spots; as if it would burst, in middle of upper part after ascending stairs; ulcerative, in r. mamma, towards axilla, < touch, and when stretching arm and turning trunk speedily to one side an oblong protrusion is felt; almost in heart, causing uneasiness in chest, forcing him to walk. Pressure outward from r. nipple. Burning; warmth between scapulae and sternum, changing to pressure in epigastric region, also with eructations; warmth between scapulae and sternum, changing to pinching and pressure in epigastric region. Stuffed sensation. Oppression; with wandering clawing. Fulness, with anxiety and disposition to sigh. Heaviness, with disposition to sigh; as from a stone in middle. Aggravation of symptoms from lying, especially evenings.

Clinical.—Threatening paralysis, with feeling of a bar around chest. Angina pectoris, intense pain, can hardly breathe.

Heart.—Pressure when walking, with necessity to breathe deeper. Pain in præcordial region. Anxiety; paroxysmal; in præcordia after dinner, also with sighing and feeling of disease. Fulness in præcordial region. Faintness in præcordial region. Feeling as if beating once or twice stronger when walking. Irregular action, intermitting sometimes, with discomfort in chest, also with increase of irregularity from attention to it, > motion in open air. Palpitation; in afternoon, with faintish nausea; towards evening on motion; at night; from sudden muscular exertion or excitement; from rapid motion; > lying and in evening in bed; with restless sensation in heart; like a sudden falling from above towards middle, with pain in middle of upper part of chest as if it would burst. Trembling when walking rapidly.

Neck.—Rhythmical bounding pulsations in l. carotid.

Clawing like a cramp in r. anterior cervical muscles. Drawing in r. side, with pressure. Muscles of r. side sore and stiff.

Back.—Tensive clawing pain. Pain at night; P. in middle; in centre at r. of spine. Pressure between shoulders, penetrating deeply in morning on waking, especially at angle of r. shoulder; on spots in dorsal muscles. Pain at back of r. scapula on motion, with tenderness of muscles.

Loins.—Cutting and in abdomen; on touch. Digging, < bending. Pain; in kidneys; > standing or walking; passing off into flatus; as from a band. Sprained feeling in morning when sitting; in morning, < rising, and preventing walking, except crooked. Bruised feeling. Rigid and stretched feeling. Weakness; in lower lumbar and sacral regions and in gastrocnemii. Heaviness, < sitting; with drawing in the same, with trembling of lower limbs and debility; paralytic H. in l. extending into hip-joint.

Sacrum.—Pain; in afternoon on standing, and in thigh; in r. sacro-sciatic notch, where the nerve passes out, on rising, < blowing and sneezing. Heaviness in os, extending along pelvis, with painful drawing, as before menses; H., with paralytic sensation, preventing long sitting and obliging him when walking to stretch the dorsal spine; extending along pelvis and hips, with stiffness and paralytic pain.

Extremities.—Chorealike motions. Trembling, with general debility. Stitches in last phalanx of l. index, then in first r. toes; in knuckle of r. third finger and on dorsum of foot. Pain in spots of joints and soft parts of arms and legs. Boring in l. outer malleolus at 5.30 A.M. in bed, and in l. shoulder; in spots in ankles and in soft parts of limbs. Drawing internally in centre of r. upper arm after rising, then in flesh of r. thigh, below and internally. Weariness, with heaviness. Sensation as if they would go to sleep or become rigid. Paralysis.

Upper Extremities.—Paralytic drawing in r. Pain in r. axilla as if sprained or torn, and upon raising the shoulder the pain extended along arm to hand, where there was a prickling. Tension in glands of r. axilla.

Shoulder.—Pressure in l.; in spot on r.; on top; on top of l. while resting arm; in l. joint. Boring; l. in morning in bed; r. at 4 P.M.; l. joint, < motion. Drawing in l.; in top of l., with pressure. Skin of r. tender, irritated by brace.

Arm.—Pain in r. on motion, < at shoulder, with tenderness; P. through whole r., at times more violent on back of hand or in upper arm; in muscles of l. side at 6 P.M., while walking, towards lower part of thorax, into muscles of loins, < inspiration and walking. Stitching about r. olecranon, < resting the joint. Tearing internally on r. elbow. Pressure in elbows, extending to forearms. Boring in r. elbow. Pain in ulna at night. Drawing in r. forearm; r. or l., with pressure; in lower part of l. forearm; paralytic, in bones of forearm.

Wrist.—Pressure; in r.; in l.; in l., always at 10.30 P.M. Boring in l. at 8 A.M. Sprained pain in l., waking at night, with heat and uneasiness in hand, then in morning a pustule on a red hard base, with stinging pain in it, near joint. Tension and stiffness of l. on bending and on leaning on it, > towards morning, with a deep-seated pain. Stitches in knuckles of r. hand. Drawing in l. hand; on dorsum of r.

Fingers.—Spasmodic contraction; of adductors.

Cramp in ring, when seizing anything. Sticking in tip of l. little. Tearing in first phalanx of l. index at 6 A.M. in bed; rheumatic, in thumb where the phalanx joins the metacarpus. Pain through joints of l. index at 9 P.M., < bending, when there is a stiffness as from swelling, which lasts till morning. Boring in several joints; in spots on fingers, with tearing. Constriction in tip of l. index, with stinging and throbbing. Drawing in r.; in l. little; in l. thumb; r. thumb; in single joints; in second joint of l. index. Tenderness of tendons of back of r. index and l. middle, with hyperesthesia of skin over them extending to outer condyle, spreading during the day over dorsum of r. hand to ulnar side, up back of forearm, outer side of upper arm, shoulder and r. side of face, finger-joints became tender and stiff, outer side of head of ulna and olecranon tender to touch, shooting through metacarpal joint of index and at elbow, increased sensitiveness of skin, with diminished power of distinguishing sensations, afterwards spread to r. side of body, metacarpal joints of l. third and fourth fingers tender.

Lower Extremities.—Starting up, especially of knees, waking him at night. Staggering in open air. Vacillating gait, with discomfort in whole body and crawling in limbs, as in incipient fever. Weakness; especially of legs, with at times feeling as if they would suddenly fall him; in forenoon, with sick feeling, dread of labor, drowsiness, chilliness and sickly appearance; with vertigo as from intoxication; paralytic, with emaciation. Paralytic heaviness and debility, so that he did not know where to put them.

Thigh.—Pressure above r. patella when sitting. Drawing through r. T.; sticking from hip to tarsal-joint; paroxysmal nervous ("cramplike"), in hips, along ischias antica, to knees; paralytic painful, as if bruised, in rectus cruris muscle above l. patella.

Knee.—Tearing, raging, digging-up pain under patella, l. then r. Drawing tearing, extending into legs; drawing T. on l. side of patella and near it; internal T. in l., then r. Pressure when sitting; when walking, > on stepping; in r.; r. when walking; r. when sitting and walking, and on dorsum of l. foot; in r. anteriorly, l. anteriorly. Boring on r., and in spot on outer side of r. calf. Drawing; r.; internally in l. when sitting and walking. Throbbing, with weariness.

Leg.—Drawn up to abdomen by muscular contraction. Tearing on r. anteriorly; on r. tibia. Pressure on anteriorly; anteriorly in r. leg, afterwards in l. knee; internally in a spot, then on l. inner malleolus. Boring in spots, with tearing. Compressive sensation in whole l. when walking. Drawing through l. when sitting; through whole r. on sitting; with pressure; anteriorly on l.; anteriorly when walking; anteriorly in lower half of tibia, with scraping. Weariness; in morning.

Calf.—Cramp at night. Cramplike pain in l. when walking. Sensation like a stitching or hot fluid running over skin of l. when walking. Pain in a spot on outside of l. when walking, causing bending of knees, also on standing. Drawing when ascending stairs. Weariness; with rigidity.

Ankle.—Stinging in r. outer. Tearing in l.; below l. inner malleolus when sitting at 1 P.M., > walking rapidly, with stitching. Pressure in r. when sitting; in l.; l., with drawing. Painful drawing below l.

inner malleolus, beginning and passing off when walking. Boring in r. malleolus; l. outer malleolus in morning in bed; internally behind and below l. malleolus when walking. Bends easily.

Foot.—Tearing in bend of r.; on dorsum of r. Pressure on spot on dorsum of l., > walking. Boring on sides of l. tendo-achillis; on dorsum of r. foot, drawing from without inward, when sitting. Drawing on outer margin of r.; on dorsum of l.; in bend of l. when sitting at 7 A.M.; arthritic, in r. Prickling in r. sole when sitting. Tenderness of under part of r. heel on treading.

Toes.—Stitches in r., with drawing. Drawing in r. at 11 P.M.; in l. at 11 P.M., shifting to other parts.

Skin.—Discoloration (argyria) from blue-gray, violet or bronze to black. Brownish on lower limbs; brown spots on upper chest and on hands; brown, tense and hard. Blotches on border of nape of neck, etc.; irregularly-shaped B. on border of nape and scalp, with itching, soreness when scratched, and after scratching inflammation and moisture; red, on dorsum of r. hand and index, changing to yellow blisters on a red base.

Pimple, painful, inflamed, in l. corner of mouth, forming a pock-shaped pustule, which after efflorescence passed into a hard pimple; itching, blotched shaped, on lower limbs; hard, on lower limbs and in bend of knee, with itching at night and burning after scratching; itch, covered after scratching with bleeding scurfs.

Pustules in l. canthus; on chin and cheek. Pustulous erythema preceded by itching and pain. Itch-like eruption, especially on back. Itching vesicles on back, the itching > evening; itching V., resembling itch stigmata, especially on chest and back, towards shoulders. Elevation with red base, looking like a blister, but only semi-fluid, under l. eye, with burning, later a similar spot on margin of r. lower lid, afterwards below lashes on both lower lids. Irritable urticarious spot on back of r. shoulder.

Stitches alternately above and at sides of r. knee when walking at 7 P.M. Boring in skin of tip of nose, with crawling in skin of l. side of nose. Drawing in cheeks; on l. forehead and l. cheek as from a spider's web. Crawling on l. cheek. Itching of chest and axilla; in various parts at night, also prickling; stinging, especially around l. nipple. Itching smarting when getting warm in night, especially in thighs, hypochondria, chest and axilla.

Sleep.—Yawning at 10 A.M. and in afternoon long and deep; Y. in forenoon, with sleepiness; Y. at 5 P.M., with drowsiness; Y., with chilliness. Sleepiness; in evening; while sitting in evening; in evening, but sleeplessness till midnight from thinking, then monstrous dreams, which seemed an extension of his mental condition when awake, for through the day he was disinclined to talk, but took a morbid delight in building air-castles; desire for sleep, in night, with tossing about, but no sleep; S. when sitting.

Sleeplessness from fancies before his imagination, then in the first part of the night fantastic half slumber, full of dreams; S., with tossing about. Restless sleep; with talking; with dreams and frequent waking; with headache and stupefaction; and stupified, with horrible dreams.

Dreams; of snakes; of putrid water, fishes and serpents, filling him with horror and waking him; that an insect burrowed deeply into his heel; in morning that he is hungry, which wakes him, when he has spasm of stomach, with hunger, nausea, pain in back and flatulence; lascivious; L. in morning, during which he would have had an emission of semen if he had not awakened; restless, in early part of night, of long dim passages, with a succession of strangely dressed figures, who retreated when approached but followed when he went on; fantastic; heavy; confused, of places where he had been and of persons he had seen.

Fever.—Chilliness in forenoon, with headache, also loss of appetite at noon, nausea, and at 4 P.M. tumult and beating in head, heat in head, creeping chills, dry hot skin, nausea, desire for something salt, weakness, increase of the desire for something acrid and sour, so that at 7 P.M. she ate pot-cheese, which improved the symptoms, but the febrile condition lasted all night. Chilliness in evening; every day at 6 P.M., then heat, the chill lasting longer and returning on uncovering, even during the heat, perceptible pulsation of l. temporal artery during the heat, both stages without thirst; after rising, with nausea; after eating, with weakness, nervousness and obtuse feeling in head. C., with pale, almost yellowish countenance, nausea and empty eructations.

Shuddering forenoons, at the same hour, passing into a chill, with gooseflesh and coldness, hot head, cold hands and nausea, > warm soup. Chill up back and across shoulders, < after eating and on coming in from open air; running along spine at noon, with heat and flushing of face and limbs; in spine close to occiput, extending to end of coccyx, from noon till 5 P.M., with heat and lethargy, heat of head, hands and feet, chills > by warmth, then sleepiness, but lack of sleep, caused by vivid imagination, till 10 P.M., then restlessness, heat, aching of legs and back, feeling as if brain were too large for skull, sweat in palms, on lower part of abdomen and inner sides of thighs, then sleep about midnight, afterwards recurrence of chills for eight days, beginning at noon and lasting four or five hours. Feet cold in afternoon and evening.

Heat.—Fever every day at 6 P.M.; feverish, sick feeling in afternoon, with weakness. Heat, with heaviness. Burning spot on one or other hand; on inner condyle of knee; on back of arms after dinner.

Sweat in morning; from 4 to 6 A.M., after a restless sleep disturbed by cough; at night; as soon as he got warm in bed, with chilliness; on chest at night. Profuse, at night.

Arnica.

Arnica, montana, L., belongs to the Composite. A tincture is prepared from the root, leaves and flowers, mixed.

General Action.—The most pronounced effects of Arnica are on the blood, general anæmia, with sharp neuralgias, tendency to hemorrhages; depression of temperature; malnutrition, with disordered digestion, involuntary diarrhoea. Rheumatic and cutaneous symptoms are marked. The soreness of flesh is quite characteristic.

Alloid Drugs.—Bry., Rhus t., Ruta, Bapt., Bov., Sec. c., Elaps, Phos., Nit. ac., Hyper., Symphyt., Carbo v.

Generalities.—Agitation increasing to tetanus of r. side. Convulsions. Twitchings; of single muscles, especially in limbs. Fibrillar contractions of isolated muscular fasciculae, especially in region of jaws.

Trembling of whole body alternating with convulsive movements of limbs. Stitches; in almost every part, especially nose, eyebrows, eyelids, even in hands and fingers; in whole body, with itching; burning, in different parts. Intermittent tearing in almost every part, especially in limbs, for the most part rising from below upward, in lower limbs, < sitting.

Pain in periosteum of all bones, resembling almost a drawing in all limbs, as in fever and ague; formicating or dull pain in a contused part; twitching, in affected parts; in whole body on lying, as if it were on pebbles. Sensitiveness of whole body (Plat.); of all joints on motion and of skin. Bruised pain over whole body. Sudden illness when pressing on dorsal vertebrae, with jerks in muscles of nape and of back, with throwing back of the head while the trunk is upright, the illness < on pressing on last dorsal vertebra, when there is a pain in waist, radiating to epigastrium, with suffocation and weight on chest. Orgasms of blood in evening, with pulsations in whole body and vertigo. Sensation as if everything on his body were tied too tight. Uneasiness of whole body, becoming a trembling. Faintness; when walking, > standing; from heat of sun, with nausea.

Weakness; on rising; on retiring at 10, but restlessness and wakefulness until midnight; early in bed, with relaxed testicles, as if he had had an emission, which was not the case; when walking, as if suddenly blighted with old age; with a bruised sensation (Bap.); with sluggishness; with sleepiness; with tremulous uneasiness; with a desire to sit down.

Feeling when walking in open air as if whole r. side, especially shoulder, were heavy and hanging down paralyzed. Aggravation from speaking, blowing nose, motion and almost every noise. Amelioration from a long walk in cold weather.

Clinical.—Extremely valuable when the body feels bruised and sore; results of injuries (rather of cuts than of bruises). Excessive prostration, with anæmia, sticking pains, or after low fevers. Hemorrhages of venous blood, passive; general tendency to blood disorganization. Thromboses. Hematocele. Paralysis (r. side). Pernicious anæmia. Tendency to degeneration of tissue, with foul odors, boils and abscesses which do not mature well or do not granulate. In septicæmia, burrowing abscesses, enlarged veins, which are sore; muscular pains from overexertion; bedsores; affects of contusions and sprains; stings of insects, etc.

Mind.—Memory wanting (Lach., Phos.). Absent-minded; with wandering of thoughts. Reveries. Inability to perform continuous active work. Aversion to work; any work requiring perseverance. Indisposed to think or talk after walking in open air. (Inclination to perform greater literary work than can be accomplished without injury to health.) Uneasiness of body and mind, feeling as if prevented from doing something necessary, with indisposition for any kind of work. Indifference to work, to everything (Phos.). Fright; from unexpected trilles, with starting. Horror of instant death. Hopelessness. Anxiety; hypochondriac. Apprehension of future evils. Weeping; after supper, with peevishness, will listen to nobody. Depression of spirits.

Sensitiveness, sometimes without physical sensitiveness, sometimes in alternation, sometimes simultaneously with it. Excitability, she could easily laugh when there was no occasion for it, and when something disagreeable was told her she got angry and howled. Sullen. Sullen insolence and imperiousness. Quarrelsome. Obstinate and headstrong resistance to other people's opinions. Contradictory, opinionative, nothing suits him. Morose and does not speak a word; morose, desires all sorts of things and then repels them.

Clinical.—Valuable in mania, delirium tremens, especially with involuntary discharges of a putrid odor, nosebleed of dark blood. Affections of head or mind, which appear slowly long after an injury. Delirium of low malarial fevers. Delirium of low malarial fever, muttering or complete stupor. In apoplexy, with stertorous respiration (paralysis < on l. side), or with involuntary stools, with no cerebral excitement, but a heavy stupor, with foul breath; or if the patient should be somewhat conscious he complains of aching soreness over the whole body, fear especially of persons coming towards him, as if they would strike him; this condition of fear is an extremely well-marked mental symptom of Arnica in gout.

Head.—Stinging from 3 to 8 P.M., now more in forehead, now more in occiput. Stitches when coughing; extending upward, renewed on coughing and moving head, > resting head on painful side. Jerking lancinating when stooping, as if everything would come out of forehead, with nausea. Twitching tearing, < stooping and coughing. Aching; morning on waking, < 8 A.M., on walking in open air, when there was vertigo, > 10 A.M.; in forenoon; (A., > lying); with weight in eyes and sensation of oppression and drooping in lids; then throbbing aching in temples; as if a knife were drawn transversely through head from l. side, then internal coldness of head, causing hair to stand on end; distending, seeming to arise from something soft in vertex, with drawing in occiput and tearing towards temples; distending, when walking in open air; distending, with burning; rheumatic, with vertigo (commonly one-sided); stupefying, in morning.

Emptiness. Obscuration, with confusion in sides of head and contraction of pupils. Confusion; with pressure in r. half, especially over r. brow; < artificial vomiting, with vertigo and anguish; with fulness; with sleepiness; changing to r.-sided headache; so that she feared falling over while sitting, with frontal headache. Heaviness; so that it hangs on one side; heavy and so movable on account of weakness of muscles of neck that it inclines to all sides. Blood rushes to brain, with aching in forehead. Vertigo; during rest; when walking; when reading too long, with nausea; > sitting and bending head, but on righting head or moving it feeling as if everything turned with her; sudden V. at dinner, as if he would fall forward.

Forehead.—Stitches; in sinciput on coughing; in sinciput and occiput, morning on waking, lasting all day; in l. eminence, with sensation of extravasation of blood; < raising eyes, with heat in face and thirst; jerking. Aching; in morning, changing to confusion of whole head, > afternoon; < walking, ascending stairs, reflecting or reading; in l. half in evening; in r. forehead, temple and r. eye; then stitching and twitching stitching, with chilliness; over eyes, extending towards temples, with sensation as if integuments of forehead were spasmodically contracted; as if brain were rolled up into a lump, < near stove; pressing out in spots in afternoon; as if constricted; stupefying, more externally; twitching, in fore part of head; in r. half of bone, then sneezing, then it extended into l., afterwards into r. ear. Bruised pain in l. side after sneezing. Crawling in. Heaviness. Vertigo as if everything turned around with her, < waking.

Temples.—Stitches; extending inward; extending towards forehead; jerking, in l. Intermittent tearing in l.;

with stitches. Aching; in l.; on coughing; as if a nail were thrust in, with general sweat about midnight, then exhaustion. Constriction.

Vertex.—Aching externally; in r. side, impeding work. Tender and sore feeling in brain.

Sides.—Intermittent sticking and tearing in l. Aching on r.; on l.; in parietal region and in orbits; under parietal bone and in region of lachrymal fossa.

Occiput.—Twitching tearing in l. half in forenoon. Aching in r. half at 11 A.M., < 1 P.M., extending to r. half of forehead at 2 P.M., > evening; in spots as if hair were pulled out, or as from electric shocks.

Scalp.—Immovable almost as far as eyebrows. Stinging itching. Fornication over orbits; on vertex.

Clinical.—Neuralgias, sharp (as from a nail or knife), all pains worse on motion. Neuralgias following injuries to nerves; intermittent, with a malarial basis, with coldness, no fever. Apoplexy. Hot head with cold body. It has been found useful in meningitis or meningeal irritation as a result of concussion. It is particularly indicated in a severe headache as if the head were being distended, with extreme sensitiveness of the brain internally, or sometimes sharp knife-like pains.

Eyes.—Sunken, glassy, with dilated insensible pupils. Protrusion of r. Staring, denoting anguish. Aching in l. Burning. Itching. Tension and sensitiveness to pressure. Burning lachrymation. Ball, aching in inner half of r. and in corresponding part of forehead; drawing A. in r.; pinching in inner half of r., also > motion in open air. Pupils contracted; dilated. Pain as if too dry and sore in margin of upper lid along contact with ball when the ball is moved. Stitches in inner canthus. Itching in canthi. Intermittent pressure on margin of l. orbit. Cramplike tearing in l. eyebrow. Vision of sparks. Blurred V. Diplopia, hallucinations of V., could not judge of distances and saw only half of an object, saw a bright light with l. eye, which disappeared on closing that eye but reappeared on closing both.

Clinical.—Useful to hasten absorption of hæmorrhages in conjunctiva or retina, paralysis of the muscles from a blow.

Ears.—Stitches; behind; through r., then l., then through eyes, with feeling as if the eyes were forcibly turned upward; extending inward through middle ear; then tearing. Bruised pain internally in cartilage of l. Painful drawing extending into l. half of skull. Pressure in; intermittent P. in region of tympanum. Hearing more acute; less acute. Humming. Roaring. Ringing in l. Singing in r.

Clinical.—Meniere's disease, with vertigo (inclined to fall to the left) and salivation, deafness, vomiting and coldness in the occiput.

Nose.—Twitching on bone under l. eye, extending over eyeball. Sticking tearing. Bruised pain from above downward. Cramplike pain at root. Pressure on bone, with numbness. Ulcerated feeling in nostrils. Sneezing; frequent. Blown frequently, with traces of blood. Coryza; evening on going to sleep, then catarrh on chest in morning on waking. Bleeding (Ham., Sec. e., Carbo v.); morning on blowing; at night (Nit. ac.).

Clinical.—The nosebleed of Arnica is characterized by dark fluid blood; especially during low forms of fever or in whooping cough (compare Carbo veg.).

Face.—Pale. Flushed and swollen. Sunken. Twitchings (intermittent tearings) in muscles of ramus of lower jaw. Twitching throbbing in l. cheek. Cramplike pain in cheek when yawning. Creeping over l. cheek, like a shivering without coldness, extending to side of occiput. (Bruised pain in r. articulation of jaw on moving jaw to and fro.) Incipient paralysis of lower jaw.

Lips.—Trembling of lower. Swelling. Chapped; external margin, especially of upper lip. Hydroa. Pimple on both sides of upper; in groove of upper, with redness all around and tensive pain. Vesicles in middle of lower. Ulceration in corners, with burning pain, < motion of parts. Dryness. Fornication as if asleep. Itching of upper, with burning if rubbed.

Clinical.—The face of the Arnica patient is usually cold and pale; in apoplexy paralyzed; in low fevers a dusky red.

Mouth.—Teeth. Covered with mucus (Bov.). Wabbling and elongation. Tearing in l. upper molars when eating. Aching in l. lower molar; in teeth as if roots were scraped; (as if teeth had been bitten out, were dislocated, wabbling, throbbing, with feeling as if pressed outward by blood, the pain then < by touch). Gums, pain as if ulcerated when chewing, especially under the tongue; as from a leaden bullet on lower and internal G.; fornication in G. as if asleep.

Tongue.—Coated white (Bry.). White and yellow, with want of appetite. Biting; stinging, at root. Burning, and in palate; in anterior third, and in soft palate. Burning scraping from root through œsophagus into stomach. Sore feeling. Dry feeling in tip and in palate and lips, with shivering over arms and thighs.

Aching in hard palate. Dry mouth (Bry.); in morning without thirst, but with foul taste; without thirst; with thirst. Burning in palate. Puckered feeling in palate. Scraping, especially at the root of the tongue and in œsophagus; burning scraping, and in œsophagus. Cool, with thirst, desire for strong drink. Salivation; thin, with nausea. Breath fetid (Nit. ac., Sec. c.). Taste of rotten eggs between meals; putrid, slimy T.; bitter; bitter morning on waking; sour; (sour to everything).

Clinical.—Serviceable for toothache after filling. Persistent hæmorrhage after drawing teeth. The tongue, in fever, is dry and sore, sometimes blackish.

Throat.—Swelling of submaxillary glands; with pain, < raising or turning head and on touch. Mucus, tasting bitter when hawked up. Subdued whistling. Noise when swallowing. Stinging in back part when not swallowing. Pain as if something hard or rough had lodged in fauces in afternoon when lying, > rising. Scraping. Soreness. Constriction. Swollen feeling. Dryness. Swallowing difficult; prevented by nausea, as if food would not go down. Burning when swallowing; in back part, with feeling of internal heat, or rather that sort of anguish that originates in heat, without external heat; with scraping causing shuddering and nausea, afterwards the burning and scraping extended down œsophagus to stomach, causing nausea, fulness and pressure, with warmth over whole body and sweat; in palate and pharynx, changing into scratching; extending gradually to stomach, and ending in mouth and œsophagus; scraping burning, extending to stomach, becoming a pressure in stomach; scraping burning in uvula and œsophagus.

Œsophagus.—Pressure on l. side, extending upward, sometimes with stitches. Scraping; burning scraping. Burning. Dryness.

Stomach.—Hunger increased; in evening, then after eating repletion, with coliclike pressure in places in abdomen, especially in sides; H., with decreased appetite; ravenous, which could not be satisfied on account of want of appetite and a certain aversion to food; desire for vinegar. Appetite lost; in evening; at dinner; with nausea. Repugnance to food; to meat and broth; to tobacco; (to milk).

Thirst; at night; during the yawning before the fever, with much drinking, afterwards during the hot stage, but little drinking; without external heat, the pupils being little capable of dilatation; desire to drink constantly, but she knows not what, because everything is offensive to her.

Eruptions; bitter and like bad eggs (Elaps., Phos.); like rotten eggs, in morning; of bitter mucus; empty; of salt water. Imperfect hiccough after dinner. Nausea; in morning; forenoon, with general relaxation; on opening eyes during siesta, > closing eyes; from the usual tobacco; with eruptions; with burning scratching in throat; with distended feeling in stomach; with pressure in stomach. Retching; violent; empty; empty at night, with weight as from a lump in pit of stomach. Vomiting; caused by cough; of bitter yellow bile; inclination to, without nausea.

Digging movements in epigastric region, > after dinner, with pain in forehead. Grumbling, unpleasant motions; grumbling, with colic. Cramps. Griping, with sticking and frequent gagging; pinching, spasmodic griping. Pinching; pinching and pressure, extending through small intestines as a constriction, with many movements. Pain; in upper and anterior part; in epigastrium; in epigastrium, < pressure; especially at posterior wall and extending to spine; with heaviness on anterior wall of chest; transversely across above pit, with dyspnoea; in pit as from pressure of a hand, gradually ascending to throat, where there was nausea, with salivation, > lying, leaving pressure in abdomen; as from a stone; contractive; spasmodically contractive, also > eating; spasmodic contraction moving up and down in stomach, causing general pain, especially in posterior wall of stomach, with sensation as if wall of S. would be pressed against spine and spine would be made painful; as if posterior wall were pressed against spine; flying pain in epigastrium and in r. hypochondrium; intermittent; in region of cardia; as if xiphoid process were pressed inward. Digging pain in pit, with sensation as if something were rolling up like a ball. Burrowing in pit, with sensation as if something were knotting itself up. Drawing in epigastric region. Cardialgia. Emptiness; after a meal, as if she had not eaten enough, but feeling as if she had drunk much, with a swashing feeling in abdomen.

Fulness; in pit after eating, with pressure in a spot deep in hypogastrium behind pubis, < standing, and almost urging to micturition; with pressure and with burning pain in upper part. Repletion, with loathing. Satiety even though stomach was empty, with frequent acidity in mouth. Heaviness. Oppression. Tension; in lower part of epigastric region morning in bed.

Abdomen.—Distention; before diarrhoea; after supper, especially in lower part, with tension and with pressure, especially in side of abdomen, lasting all night, with heat of limbs, fatiguing dreams, hourly waking and with emissions of flatus; with frequent urging to stool, also with emission of flatus; with fre- quent urging to stool, though more than ever constipated; tympanitic. Flatulence. Flatus, with pressure in stomach; fermenting; frequent emissions, also night and morning; offensive (Sulph.); smelling like rotten eggs (Sulph.). Movings. Rumbling; grunting, from flatus. Gurgling. Grunting, then tenesmus, with emission of flatus; as from emptiness. Twitchings under stomach. Tearing in muscles. Cutting, then tenesmus, then lumpy stool, with flatus; C. as after a cold. Pain; after a light meal, with tenesmus; flatulent; flying.

Upper Abdomen.—Stitches below last ribs; below r. ribs (Merc. s., Chel.); under l. false ribs when standing, intercepting breathing (Bry., Seneg., Zinc.). Pressure below last ribs. Constriction at level of attachments of diaphragm. Clawing throbbing in l. side between pit of stomach and umbilicus; pinching throbbing in same place. Pinching in splenic region.

Umbilical Region.—Stitches, apparently in small intestines. Tearing over. Cutting in small intestines; over umbilicus, < breathing deeply and at every step, > before and during stool. Pinching over umbilicus. Aching in spot on r. side of U., with sensitiveness to touch, as from accumulation of flatus.

Sides.—Distention of r. every day from morning till 2 P.M., at rest, > emission of flatus, with pain as from an internal wound, and with pain as if shaken, torn or cut when coughing, blowing nose or setting down foot, and with pain as if cutting into a wound when touched. Stitches during cough; in spleen, shooting upward when walking. Thrusts from one side to the other. Cutting in l., darting like a stitch to vertex. Sudden bruised pain in r. when walking. Pressure in liver region; as from a stone when lying on l. side during inspiration and expiration. Intermittent aching, seemingly in liver or duodenum.

Hypogastrium.—Fermenting flatus below umbilical region. Stitches in muscles, leaving an itching, > scratching. Intermittent tearing in l. half of pubic eminence. Deep-seated digging within hips on both sides, as in dysentery, with nausea and drowsiness.

Rectum.—Rumbling. Squeezing and pressing when standing. Aching. Straining. Tenesmus; then copious, thin or paplike sour-smelling stool, with relief; every half hour with passage of only mucus. Sudden urging as before diarrhoea, but only a few feces. Ineffectual urging; frequent. Swelling of hæmorrhoidal vessel (Ham.). Burning in anus, with shooting (Sulph.).

Clinical.—Diffuse, subacute gastroenteritis of a low type, the above symptoms especially, offensive gases passed upward and downward, and general soreness as if bruised.

Stool.—Thinner and darker. Diarrhoea; at night, with flatulent colic; with cutting in intestines; with tenesmus; like brown yeast (Kali. bi.); choleraic; white; sometimes scanty and tough stool, with flatus. Increased, soft, with blood from hæmorrhoids. Brown, paplike, with grumbling in abdomen. Constipation. Hard, difficult, with pressure in abdomen; hard and less frequent. Undigested. Involuntary at night in sleep (Hyosc., Bry., Con.). Frequent, with necessity to lie down after every stool; small, consisting of mucus.

Clinical.—The diarrhoea, as above, is associated with great prostration. Involuntary, putrid stools in typhoid. Hemorrhage from bowels in typhoid, dark, venous. Dysentery (with tenesmus) of a low type. Prolapsus ani.

Urinary Organs.—Tenesmus of bladder, with involuntary dropping of urine; tenesmus of neck, with ineffectual urging. Desire to urinate, with biting burning, < after urinating; frequent, also with copious urine; frequent, with scanty yellow-red urine. Urging, with copious watery urine. Frequent micturition; with watery urine; with scanty white watery urine, with difficult emission of last drops. Urine retained, with aching and pressing in bladder. Has to stand a long time before urine is emitted.

Urethra.—Stitches; after micturition. Cutting in orifice, at end of micturition. Itching in anterior part, in region of glans, when not urinating.

Urine.—Copious and dark; copious, with inability to retain it long, especially at night; in morning, flowing slowly, as if urethra were constricted. Scanty; and red. Brown, clear, becoming whitish and turbid; dark brown. Brown, with brick-red sediment. Sulphur-colored, turbid, frothy, with neutral reaction, depositing a sediment. Watery. Earthy phosphates increased. Acid; and dark, of high specific gravity, opalescent on boiling, but clear on adding Nitric acid. Sediment contains crystals of phosphoric acid, ammonia, magnesia and urates, the latter adhering to sides of glass.

Clinical.—Pain as from knives in the region of kidneys. Hematuria. The bladder symptoms, above, have been found associated with the dysenteric symptoms, with paralytic conditions or as the result of injuries.

Sexual Organs.—Stitches through glans; in afternoon. Itching of glans or itching stitches. Erections after waking, without amorous thoughts or desires. Stitches in serotum. Testes hard, swollen and tender. Desire, with continued erections. Little desire. Emission by day during a caress; several in one night, with voluptuous dreams.

Clinical.—Uterine hæmorrhage resulting from a mechanical injury. Uterine disorders from injuries, with easy bleeding; prolapsus; hæmorrhage after coition. After parturition excessive soreness and lameness, especially useful after instrumental delivery. Sore nipples. Mastitis from injury.

Respiratory Organs.—Larynx sore. Swollen sensation in larynx, causing cough and hawking, which brings up nothing or only a little thick mucus, without relief. Hoarseness in morning. Voice low, muttering. Agreeable cooling in trachea on expiration, as if walls were too thin. (Crackling sense in trachea when walking and in evening when lying down.)

Cough; at night in sleep; in children caused by weeping and lamenting; in children caused by cries, with anger and tossing about; during siesta, from itching in upper part of larynx; on yawning; irritation (with expectoration, which seems to come from posterior nares). Dry, from tickling in lowest part of trachea; short, hacking, dry, also every morning after rising, from tickling deep in trachea; constant, shaking the whole frame. Hæmoptysis. Expectoration bloody (Bry., Phos., Sec. c., Nit. ac.); of glairy mucus, with blackish points.

Suffocation. Short, punting respiration. Dyspnoea; quick inspirations and expirations. (Difficult quick inspirations, with slow expirations.) Frequent, slow, deep breathing, with pressure below chest. Loud, blowing B. in sleep. Breathes with open mouth at night and mouth is dry on waking. Desires open air; open country air.

Clinical.—Spasmodic cough (whooping cough), with nose-bleed, hæmorrhage into conjunctiva, etc. Bloody expectoration in chronic cases; too weak to spit it out, must be swallowed.

Chest.—Stitches; in sides (Bry., Sulph., Ran. b.); r., near ribs; l. side; in middle of l.; under sternum; in sternum, < walking; in l. near sternum during deep inspiration; in one side, with short cough, which aggravates the pain, and with tightness of chest; in sternum, extending into chest; as from flatulence, in sides under ribs. Pain; in spot in r. side; on sternum over pit; lower part of sternum, < deep inspiration; cutting outward, on both sides, < inspiration; twitching, in l.; (drawing, with anxiety). Bruised feeling in ribs from coughing; bruised pain in joints of bones and cartilages during motion and breathing. Sprained pain in connections of parts of chest with back. Raw feeling, < walking, with bloody sputa; (pain as if raw, with clawing in larynx during cough). Soreness of walls.

Anguish across, with nausea. Suffocative oppression (Nat. arsen.). Tightness, with difficult breathing (Phos.). (Tension across, as far as neck, > lying on back, < walking and standing.) Weight on; on upper part; in chest in morning on waking, > exercise. Painless constriction in middle of l., which tightens breathing, with pain on touch in pit of stomach, which arrests breathing. Blood seems to have accumulated in morning, > exercise. Coldness internally.

Clinical.—Soreness of the walls of the chest, as if bruised, with sharp pains like neuralgia, serves to indicate this drug in rheumatoid affections of the pectoral muscles.

Heart.—Stitches in region; from l. to r. side of heart. Squeezing pain or pain as from shock. Anguish (præcordial), with feeble and intermittent cardiac contractions and feeling as if heart stopped. Palpitation. Action stronger; jerking; rapid, then suddenly slow. Rhythm irregular. Pulse.—Feeble, rapid and irregular (Apoc., Dig.). Rapid; and strong. Thready. Irregular; in evening. Small and slow.

Clinical.—Bruised pain about the region of the heart and stitches, with other symptoms, have led to its use in affections of the cardiac muscle, hypertrophy and fatty degeneration (compare Baryta c.). Angina pectoris. Palpitation and pain about the heart, as the result of excessive straining.

Neck.—Swelling of glands, with pain, < moving neck or speaking. Pain in last cervical vertebra on bending head, with tension; on spinal processes of last cervical and first dorsal vertebrae, with tension; in nucha on standing; in muscles as if cravat were too tight; where r. external carotid emerges from sterno-cleido mastoid muscle, as if a lymphatic gland were swollen, < suddenly turning head to left, by forcible pressure and by severe throbbing in arteries of neck; cramplike, in muscles of nape, with stitches extending inward; cramplike tensive pain in muscles of nape when sneezing or yawning. Lameness of muscles. Rough drawing in l. muscles, with bruised pain.

Back.—Pains, as from long stooping at hard work, in morning on rising from bed (Caut.). Arthritic pain, and in limbs. Burning pain when walking in open air. Bruised pain. Pain; in middle of spine when sitting; in spine as if it could not carry the body. Crawling in spine.

Scapulae.—Twitching tearing in fascia supinator of l. in forenoon, often > motion; drawing tearing, extending downward from l. in evening. Cutting thrusts between when walking, extending into chest. Pinching on lower angle of l.; in muscles between lower angle of r. and spine, < stretching the parts (had been noticed in former years). Pain between; in l. and in acromion; seeming to extend from posterior wall of stomach, with pressure near spine; superficial pain between, afterwards more below r.; in spine between scapulae, with cramp in stomach. Bruised pain in r. towards back. Feeling almost under shoulders as if a lump lodged there, which caused stitches on motion.

Stitches in r. side from last ribs to axilla at every inspiration. Pain in dorsal vertebrae as after sudden rising from long stooping, this cramplike pain was internal.

Loins.—Stitches; when coughing, breathing deeply or walking (Bry.). Pain as if something inside had been torn. Cutting inward, < stooping (Berb.). Pain (Æsc. h.). Bruised pain (Berb., Rhus t., Sul.). Fullness, with pressure. Weight across lower part, with feeling as if a cord were drawn tightly across. Bruised pain in sacrum (Berb.).

Extremities.—Twitchings, especially of feet and shoulders, with heat of feet. Convulsive movements alternating with trembling of whole body. Stitches here and there. Pain, arthritic, and in back; drawing P. in spots on hands and r. foot; tingling, when body is shaken (e. g., in a carriage) or when treading. Bruised pain; paralytic, in all joints during motion (Calc. c.). Weakness; of feet and arms when walking in open air. Falling asleep of those on which he rests. Heaviness; in muscles under joints when walking in open air, with pressure.

Clinical.—Rheumatoid affections of the muscles, with bruised feelings, sharp pains, great loss of power or even paralysis. Gouty inflammation of the joints, with great fear of being approached. Sciatica during pregnancy. Varicose veins; with ulcers.

Upper Extremities.—Stitches inward below axilla. Twitching pain from l. shoulder-joint to middle finger. Drawing aching in l. shoulder when standing erect. Rheumatic pains in shoulders. Shoulders lame. Smarting sore sensation below shoulder. Tearing in arms and hands. Bruised pain on anterior surface of arm. Arm weary as if bruised, so that he could not bend his fingers inward.

Upper Arm.—Twitching in muscles; in l. as if a nerve were twinged. Stitches; like shocks in upper part. Tearing, apparently in bone, from lower part of l. to elbow.

Forearm.—Stitches in l. in morning in bed, with pain as if arm were broken; Burning S.; below elbows. Tearing along ulna from elbow to ring and little fingers. Tension of flexor muscles when bending arm, with tensive pain on extending those muscles again.

Wrist.—Cracking of r. on moving hand, with dislocated feeling. Stitches, < motion. Tearing in l., < writing, the pain is felt especially in dorsum of hand, > letting arm hang down; sticking T., < l. Sprained feeling; l. Aching in l. W. and pain, with itching. Weakness of l., with feeling generally as if he could not use his arms.

Hand.—Distended veins, with full, strong pulse. Trembling. Tearing; on back between ring and little fingers; drawing T. on ulnar side of back of r.; twitching T. on ulnar side of back of r. during rest. Pressure on back. Drawing in outer half of back of r. Feel swollen and sore. Weakness, < seizing something.

Fingers.—Cramp in l. Stitches in bend of middle joint of index; in both middle; in distal joint of middle; itching, in tip of middle; burning, on end of l. third; twitching S. Tearing in tips of two last l.; in ulnar side of ungual phalanx of r. ring. Aching in joints of r. ring and little; in unguis phalanx of r. ring; in first phalanges of three last l. Bruised pain in balls of thumbs. Crushed pain on pressure, in unguis phalanx of r. ring finger. Drawing cramplike pain in shafts of bones of fingers and forearms, extending backward and upward. Drawing in r. thumb; in r. third finger in evening, especially in unguis phalanx, with tearing, also at times in little finger and along ulnar edge of forearm.

Lower Extremities.—Trembling. Tearing. Pain at night when laid across one another. Standing is painful.

Thigh.—Twitching of l. recti muscles (common); pinching, in l. thigh near scrotum; feeling of T. of muscles. Stitches above knee; itching, on inner side above knee, > rubbing. Tearing in l. upper (very common). Pinching on outer side. Thrusts in hips. Pain when rising and stepping; drawing, in l. hip-joint when sitting with thigh extended; drawing cramplike, in muscles when sitting. Sprained pain in hips. Bruised pain when walking; in adductors of r. in afternoon when walking. Tension in l. buttock and in knee.

Knee.—Tottering when standing. Bending suddenly when walking; while feet are insensible. Stitches; when touched. Tearing (not uncommon); in region of l., > violent friction. Aching in r. Bruised pain when ascending stairs. (Cramplike pain, and in leg.) Weariness, < rest, and in r. fibular joint.

Leg.—Twitching lancinating pain extending upward in tibia. Tearing below l. knee; in l. calf like boring and digging from above downward, afterwards extending into thigh, thence crossing behind os coccygis and ending in r. iliac bone. Aching in l.; A., with soreness when walking. Bruised pain in tibia when walking; over r. calf, with weakness of legs. Gurgling feeling from below upward in lower part at rest. Burning spot on outside of l. tibia. Tension in muscles of calf, from below upward, with drawing when standing.

Ankle.—Tearing in malleoli; on r. outer malleolus and on dorsum of foot; undulating (almost dull stitching), in A. Sprained pain in tarsal joint. Weakness, with weight on insteps.

Foot.—Cramp in muscles of soles. Stitches extending through big toe; in r. tendo-achillis when extending tarsal joint, not when walking; in soles when walking, as if in a corn; crawling, in soles. Tearing in l. sole in evening; in heel. Arthritic pain, with fever towards evening. Pain as from internal uneasiness and as if lying too hard, in evening. (Aching in the paralyzed F.) Crawling in outer half of l., as if a nerve were pulled, when walking, on raising l. foot and bending l. ankle. Drawing in outer half of back of l. Tired after walking in open air, with bending of knees, sleepiness, sleep and dreams.

Toes.—Cramp in l. Shoeks in big. Stitches when walking; in big; in r. big. Tearing in l. little; sticking, in under surface of big T. when lying down for siesta, and when setting down foot. Pain, throbbing, in one; (numb) trembling P. in one. Arthritic pain, as if sprained in joint of big T. towards evening, with redness.

Skin.—Pallor. Livid color of thighs, with blue and yellowish marks. Redness; with heat and œdema; red patches, with swelling and burning; points and vesicles with red areola, smarting and itching; erysipelatos, with turgescence, heat and papular elevations, which on touch itch and are tipped with a vesicle; over front of feet, with puffing and infiltration of cellular tissue, causing the hard caked feeling of true erysipelas, with soreness, the latter > walking.

Swelling of nose, also erysipelatos and vesicated; under l. eye; of face, with smarting pain, especially under eyes, heat of face, blotches on cheeks and forehead; hot, red, shining, stiff, of l. cheek; red, of r. cheek, with throbbing and pinching pain, swollen lips, heat in head, cold body and sometimes hot feeling in feet; S. of cheek, with throbbing and pinching as if two hammers beat against each other, crushing the flesh; of arm, with papules, then vesicles, then excoriations, with redness, itching, burning; of ankle, extending to thigh, with heat and pain, afterwards blackness of whole limb, with feeling as if a weight were attached to it, then skin began to peel off, and the blackness changed to purple, l. then r.; sudden S. of (sick) foot.

Inflammation of hand, then redness and erysipelas, erysipelatos, l. hand dark blue and covered with vesicles, giving the appearance of a rhinoceros hide, then pustules; erythematous l., with œdema of face and whole body, becoming vesicular and scaling. Erysipelas; over l. cheek, from under border of lower maxilla to scalp, with irritation and constitutional disturbance. Erythema of face, less about margins of hair, worse on lids, with redness and swelling of cheeks, upper lip and nose, and concha, especially its margin, lids œdematous, œdematous sacs hanging from lower lids, with heat of face and biting (itching).

Eruption, with burning and smarting; over malar-bone; like pin-heads, with red skin; on palms, causing exfoliation, with scaly look of hands and cracking of skin in folds. Eczema, with crowded bullæ and pain; on back and down to knees, on abdomen and genitals, with general hyperæmia, papules, vesicles, excoriating and exuding surface and crusts, itching, stinging and burning. Rash coming and going on face, especially on forehead. Nettle-rash, erythematous and vesicular rash, then bullous, but on nose it was inclined to be pustular, forming crusts, when the bullæ burst much serum exuded and vesicles appeared in the places over which the serum ran.

Pimples (on scrotum); itching, on prepuce; on side of neck, with stinging and ulcerative pain on touch, itching; between thumb and index, with sticking when touched; painful, on margin of beard. Pustules; on side of forehead; in and under nose, with biting pain; acne under r. labial commissure, with burning pain. Eruption like smallpox on cheeks, especially under eyes. (Abscess of psoas muscles.) Vesicles, with itching; V., with heat and irritation; then erysipelatos patch; acuminated, on an inflamed base; exuding.

Stitches; as from fleas, on chest and inner surfaces of arms after suddenly becoming heated; (burning and itching S. here and there when lying down for siesta, > scratching). Tearing at different times and on different parts. Pain, drawing on dorsum of l. little finger; tensive P. (at place of application), with burning, afterwards when washing, the hair-follicles look like prominent crimson grains, which later are red flat spots; burning, at times in this, at times in that part; cold, now here, now there.

Sensitiveness, and of all joints on motion. Formication over orbits; near nose; of forearms; of feet; itching P. on side of nose, > rubbing. Itching; in morning on waking; l. outer thigh and foot; of toes; of whole body, with stitching; red spot on glans; crawling I. in l. side of chest; stinging, in sides of chest and in back; pricking, on scapula; stinging, on inner side of thigh like soreness, > touch; pricking I. on proximal joints of fingers, > scratching.

Clinical.—Erysipelatous inflammation, with tendency to ecchymoses, great prostration, tendency to boils, especially in diabetes. Gangrenous appearance in contused wounds. Bed-sores.

Sleep.—Yawning; frequent, in evening, without sleepiness; with stretching, and with dilatation of pupils, without sleepiness. Sleepiness; in forenoon; in evening; after a long walk in open air, with disinclination to think or speak. Sleeps much. Sleeps two hours in evening, then sleepless till 5 A.M., then sleep till 9 A.M. Sleepless; till 2 or 3 A.M., with anguish as if owing to heat; till 2 or 3 A.M., with stinging, biting itching here and there. Falls asleep late in evening, but sleeps long in morning. Sleep restless; and diminished. Unrefreshing S. Disturbed sleep after going to bed exhausted, waking frequently, each time from a dream that he was dying and that his bed was surrounded by friends. Talking loud and unintelligibly. Lamenting in sleep. Starting up in fright; when falling asleep; starting and jerking backward of head. Waking early; frequently from dreams; frequently with emissions of semen.

Dreams. Of lightning striking, of graves, etc. Frightful, with screams, which wake him; that men are flayed; of large black dogs and cats in evening immediately on falling asleep. Anxious; about visions in previous dreams. That she is scolded and reproached (about immoral conduct). Vivid towards morning, and waked by his own talking; V. but unremembered. The dreamer showing much irresolution, while half asleep. Agreeable.

Fever.—Chilliness; beginning in morning in bed, lasting the whole forenoon; in morning, then heat; C., < evening. External and internal C. Internal; on waking by day or at night. Shaking C. without thirst. Shivering when gaping; when walking. Shivering C. over whole body and head, with heat in head, redness and heat in face, coolness of hands and bruised feeling in back, hips and anterior surface of arms. General shaking chill, with internal heat, hands and feet being cold. Cold spot on forehead as if touched with a cold thumb. Cold nose towards evening, with dry heat of face as far as behind ears, without thirst (Apis.); C. externally in nose, with internal heat. Chills in back, in morning, and in anterior part of thighs. Cold feeling in r. side when lying on it in morning. Cold dry skin. Shivering of limbs; over arms and thighs, with dry feeling in tip of tongue, in palate and lips.

Heat when lying quietly for some time, especially on head, which he must move constantly. Dry H. over whole body in morning after waking; in bed, with thirst, but chilliness on uncovering or making slightest motion. Flying H. over whole body, with anguish. Internal H., especially in head, with heaviness of head, without thirst. Itching burning of skin. Burning in brain while the rest of body is cool, or at least not hot; burning on top of head and neck externally; heat in head at night, waking him, then anxiety, with fears of apoplexy; in flushes over head, with sweat on face; internally and externally in head. Heat in lobule of ear; externally on l. ear and cheek; internally in ear, but not externally. (Burning about border of nostrils, with desire to sneeze.) Heat of one cheek, with redness, body otherwise cool, or at any rate not hot; (H. of one cheek at noon during dinner); in face, with itching; flushing over face, also in evening; of lips; in back, in paroxysmal flushes. Burning in feet; on external edge of l. foot, with biting; heat of feet, with twitching of limbs, especially feet and shoulders.

Sweat; at night, with anguish; on waking. Sour; at night. Cold. Intermittent at night, with anguish. On face; forehead; chest and inner surfaces of arms; on soles of feet and toes. Red, on chest.

Clinical.—Arnica is indicated in a low type of fever, generally of a malarial nature (typhoid or typho-malarial). Bed-sores develop, hemorrhages are frequent from internal parts, the lower extremities cold while the upper part of the body is hot. In fever stupid, secretions foul.

Arsenicum Album.

Arsenic acid is trititated with sugar of milk for the lower attenuations.

General Sphere of Action.—Arsenic is, above all, a tissue drug, ranking with Phosphorus and Antimony. An irritant poison, it produces most violent gastro-enteritis, with destructive action. It suspends and destroys the glycogenic function of the liver (Phos., Ant.), and causes acute and chronic inflammation of the kidneys (Phos., Merc., Plumb.). It irritates the air passages, increases, at first, the secretions and finally paralyzes the pneumogastric. It irritates the heart and finally produces vaso-motor paralysis. The skin is irritated, and violent itching and burning are followed by eruptions and finally ulceration. Glandular action is excited, then diminished. It produces intense irritation of the spine, affects chiefly the gray matter of the chord, and causes persistent hyperæmia and softening, with consequent paralysis. It has a special affinity for the blood-corpuses, which may be destroyed. It causes general fatty degeneration (Phosphorus). It produces well-marked intermittent fever, with incomplete resolution.

General Peculiarities.—The general key is irritability (skin intolerant of scratching, the stomach intolerant of water, though the patient is thirsty). Aggravation shortly after midnight. Profound exhaustion; excessive restlessness. General relief from warmth (Camph.)

Allyed Drugs.—Antimon., Phos., Merc., Plumb., (Zinc.), Rhus tox., Secale c., Camph., Thea, Colch., Verat., Tabac., Silicea.

Antidotes.—Ferrum, China.

Generalities.—Body crouched. Lies crouched in bed, moaning and groaning. Gathers himself together in bed, can scarcely move his limbs and is with difficulty awakened from his delirious sopor. Lies on his back, touching the region of coccyx with his heel, while knees are raised and widely apart, suddenly he turns around and takes a different position. Lies on back during sleep with his l. hand under occiput. Screaming frequently from pain. General swelling. Weight increased, with dyspepsia, foul breath and general malaise. Weight increased, then emaciation. Emaciation; with weakness; with excessive sweats; with clay-colored face, blue margins around eyes, weakness of limbs and inclination to rest; complexion pale bluish-gray, abdominal walls olive-green, back ecchymosed, mouth and nose covered with scabs, and nearly all the hair fell out; progressive, without loss of appetite. Consumption. Fatal marasmus. Jaundice.

Convulsions; caused by pain in soles; with foam at mouth; with cramps in legs; with horrible distortions of limbs; with unconsciousness, vomiting and colic; then renewed violent vomiting; then dysenteric stools; then violent sweat, then sleep; seemingly from external causes, especially from vexation or other violent mental agitation, an hour before their appearance drawings in limbs, longing to lie down, without finding sleep, when the convulsions came on a sudden jerk through whole body, or coldness running from head down back like lightning, and at the same moment unconsciousness, stretching and writhing, then drawing together of limbs, especially of arms, at times also convulsive distortion of facial muscles and tetanus, with injury and bleeding of under lip or tongue, but more frequently the spasm rages in the abdomen, which rises and falls rapidly, with rumbling, the attack is generally repeated before return to consciousness, when she calls for water, which renews the convulsions; felt a dart go through her, then became insensible, with lividity of face, foaming at mouth and moaning; on regaining consciousness did not recollect what had happened during her fit; found prone on the floor, body arched in that curve which evinces spasmodic contractions of muscular coat of stomach and intestines, or of diaphragm and anterior abdominal muscles, or of both, convulsions every fifteen or twenty minutes, lasting each time thirty to forty seconds, with wild, staring, bloodshot eyes, imprecations, fearful ravings, between the convulsions prostration, irregular, intermittent and accelerated pulse, during and between the convulsions intense suffering in stomach and abdomen, evinced by pressure on abdomen, forward inclination and anxiety of countenance; arms jerked outward, then unconsciousness, lying like one dead, pale but warm, clenched thumbs, twisted fists, drew up her arms slowly, then lowered them slowly, after ten minutes worked her jaws, breathing imperceptible, in a quarter of an hour the fit ended in a jerk through the whole body, a sort of starting forward of arms and lower limbs, consciousness returned at once, but there was great weakness.

Tetanic spasms; body bent backward and chest distended high up, with miserable wailing. Rigid spasms, with body bent backward. Convulsions in rapid succession, with such stiffness that no joint could be moved, and teeth clenched so as to scarcely permit the escape of the froth and contents of mouth and stomach. Epileptic convulsions in the night, preceded by palpitation, with the fits peculiar trembling of r. arm and lower limb, symptomatic fever, insatiable thirst, white but moist tongue, face flushed, respiration hurried, pulse rapid, irregular, contracted, frequent gripings in bowels, twitches of chest and abdomen, fits repeated following nights, no sound sleep, if he dozed he woke suddenly and much agitated, pulse rapid, twitches, tremor of r. arm and lower limb, headache, eyes painfully affected by light, and vertigo, which was < sitting up in bed or by exertion, afterwards a fit every day about 8 P.M.; on recovering from each fit he looked wild, forgot where he was, talked incoherently, then complained of languor. Fell down senseless, was convulsed, had cramp in limbs and was cold, afterwards limbs cold and bathed in sweat, skin blue and corrugated, feeling as if par-boiled, pulse imperceptible at wrist, pulsation of carotids rapid and fluttering, eyeballs retracted, face livid, voice husky and guttural, thirst, distress at epigastrium, frequent vomiting, appearance as in malignant cholera, then cramps and coldness of limbs increased, vision failed, voice faltered, throat became dry, tongue swollen, hiccough, delirium and death.

Hysteria; tossing her arms about, unconscious and unable to speak. Hysterical spasms, then exhaustion. Raises herself anxiously, stares, attempts to throw off all the clothing, jumps out of bed, throws about her clenched hands, then sinks down unconscious, with convulsions of arms and legs, toes flexed. While rolling about in bed he screams "I am suffocating," throws off the cover, opens his mouth wide as if to draw breath, and remains fixed in this condition several seconds.

Twitching; of body and limbs; T. of chest, abdomen and limbs. Inclination to start. Convulsive startings all over body; in sleep. Startings like convulsive shocks in the affected part in evening on falling asleep, excited by a slight trouble in a remote part, such as tearing, itching, etc. (Nux vom.). Trembling; in morning; with fornication; with sweat on face, convulsive, with coldness and faintness. Grasping head and throat.

Cramps; in legs and stomach, muscles of former spasmodically contracted, abdomen rigid and tender, in intervals of pain eyes half-closed, tongue covered with creamy fur, breath soon became more rapid and difficult, with increasing lividity of face. When on the stool sudden difficulty in breathing, with cramp in chest, hands and arms, then cramp in calves, cold all over body, stiff and helpless, violent vomiting, prostration, countenance anxious and restless, skin cold and clammy, pulse feeble and frequent, eyes sunken, with dark borders, lip and tongue parched, thirst, breathing slow and oppressed, sometimes sighing, burning pain in stomach, < pressure, nausea, limbs cold, vomiting, with griping and purging, the cramp came on almost every fifteen minutes, the slightest movement seemed to excite the spasm (Nux vom.), vomiting of greenish-yellow fluid at intervals, brandy and all warm drinks were rejected, but a little cold water was retained.

Stitches over whole body. Tearing in bones. The burning, stitching tearings, especially in extremities, affected the patient more as the energy of body decreased and sensibility increased. Pain through the whole system; felt at night during sleep; of the affected part waked him from time to time at night, < before midnight; at night can only be endured while walking, worse when lying quietly than when sitting; P. < evening; < after dinner, especially when sitting; < being talked to; < easy breathing or slight motion; P. > external warmth; > by pressure; in joints. The paroxysm of pain is frequently accompanied by other minor symptoms. Pain in the joints; in various parts, especially across shoulders, down spine and limbs, also in joints, which were often stiff and swollen; in whole trunk, mostly in small of back, and back, < after riding on horseback (in a practised rider). Pain seems intolerable and drives the patient mad. Sharp pains all over body, especially in genitals. Sharp pains all over body mornings on waking, with aching across shoulders and back of neck.

Neuralgia; came with throes of violence over l. eyebrow, into bones of face, crept up the spine and settled in vertex, making her feel as if she could go mad or rush out anywhere, with intolerance of noise. Burning pain, especially in inner organs (Sec. c.), skin and ulcers. Pains generally burning, at times, also stitching, then again gouty tearing, with which at times rapid twitching and pulling appeared at one spot, and in general the affected limb was constantly twitching. Pains all over body as if he lay on fire or needles. The pain and uneasiness return at regular hours, as in fever and ague (China?). Ulcerative pain in affected part, as if it had passed into suppuration and were about to open, when sitting. Pain in affected part when sitting as if the bone were swollen and excoriated. Numb pain in whole side of body.

Prickling in various parts, < eyes, with tingling and with lachrymation. Anxiety in whole body, with cold sweat. He felt thick. Feeling as if he would burst before the diarrhoea. Whole body feels œdematous, especially hands, with heat. General soreness. Sensation as if the whole l. half of the body were drawn together. Malaise; morning on rising; during forenoon; with necessity to go to bed early and inability to get warm; then vomiting. Wretched in morning on waking. Unusual lightness. Great muscular activity and aptitude for walking.

Restlessness (Sec. c., Camph.); at night (Sulph.); throwing himself from side to side; changing from one bed to another; especially of arms and legs; with anxiety (Camph., Rhus t., Sec. c., Sulph.); tossing about the bed in a sort of anguish; and unquenchable thirst; threw herself about the bed and tightly clasped a bystander in her anxiety and oppression; with hypochondriac anxiety, as from continued sitting in a room, as if coming from upper part of chest; with contraction of body; the child is restless, moans and is fretful; dejected restlessness when sitting occupied, obliging her to walk about.

Collapse; with cold extremities, purple lips and dusky face (Camph., Sec. c.). Faintness; in morning, with anxiety and weakness; when discouraged; with anxiety, inability to control her thoughts and reeling; with coldness over whole body; with burning and nausea. Weakness (China, Phos., Merc. cy., Mur. ac., etc.); in morning; in evening; after a meal (Mur. ac., China, Ph. ac.); on movement or unusual mental exertion; on slight exertion, with pallor; after dinner, with excessive yawning; after drinking milk or vomiting, then tossing about of arms and legs, with pain and sickness, ending in vomiting and prostration as before; after vomiting (Verat.); from diarrhoea (Sec. c.), so that he felt faint, could not get into bed, legs trembled, the weakness > by white wine; W. < night, especially affecting the heart; with irritability; with vertigo and headache, so that he fell after rising; obliging him to lie down with the slightest paroxysm of pain (Plumb.); so that he could scarcely walk, he feels as if he would fall over; almost losing the use of l. side; cannot speak without effort; so that he could not hold an object; as from want of food. Muscles lax. Could not sit upright, stand nor walk, but when lying could make every motion. Nervous prostration. Typhoid state; sleepiness, numbness, stupid appearance, ringing in ears, no pains, redness of cheeks, slight ophthalmia, dorsal decubitus, paralysis of limbs and trunk, emaciation, moist skin, violent beating of heart, pulse rapid, abdomen retracted, hollow gurgling in abdomen, no diarrhoea, and involuntary micturition.

Senses morbidly acute. Sensitiveness, so that a draught of air caused cramp and convulsions; the gentle opening and shutting of a door or the touch of the bed clothes caused her to start, and the careless closing of the door drew tears and gave her pain. Electro-muscular contractility diminished. Stiffness, with inability to move, is only able to stand; muscular S. < in morning and extends to arm and forearm, which pain on motion.

Feeling as if pressed by a heavy body. Leadens heaviness. Heaviness and fomication, which soon attacked upper limbs. Oppression. Tingling, beginning in l. arm, five days afterwards numbness of thighs and calves, the eleventh day anaesthesia of fingers and partial paralysis of flexor of forearm, then the same in lower limbs, with pain in both, in five weeks skin of whole body had desquamated, most on hands, in six weeks the paralysis of flexors of both extremities was unabated and accompanied by soreness on pressure, in two months and a half he was still unable to stand, in eight months the paralysis of sensation and motion and soreness on pressure continued, though they were less (compare Plumb.). Affection of tactile sensation. Numbness; and tingling; N. extending down r. side to foot. Cannot move. Immobility of eye and limbs. Paralysis; of motion and sensation; incomplete; of lower half of body; local P., preceded by numbness or tingling in fingers and toes. Many symptoms occur only in the evening after lying down, several occur two hours after midnight, not a few in the morning after rising.

Aggravation at night; while sitting and lying, and amelioration while standing and moving; she was glad if she was not required to move or speak (on account of the pain); aggravation during heat and damp. Felt better after eating.

Clinical.—It is adapted to a condition of profound prostration, rapid exhaustion or even collapse. Paralysis, especially of lower extremities. Hysterical paralysis. Spinal paralysis from myelitis. General dropsy, with weak heart. Dropsy from kidney disease. General anaemia. Pyæmia, with œdema, erysipelas, gangrenous ulcers and purulent expectoration.

Mind.—Delirium; at night; with carphology; with attempts to escape (Bell.); with restlessness; < at night, with restlessness; with tetanic convulsions; every morning when sleeping by himself, as if he heard wild beasts gnashing their teeth around his bed. Sees vermin crawling about the bed, from which he wants to escape, and throws away handfuls of them (Stram.). Motioning as if measuring with a rule, so that his ravings mostly related to his business. Delirium, rose to visit his absent daughter and could with difficulty be quieted, but spoke rationally. Runs through the house at night in search of thieves. Sees thieves in the room and hides under the bed. Imagines the house and space under it are full of thieves, which causes fright and anxious cold sweat. Suspected that people were about the house plotting against his life, jumped out of bed, reached after imaginary objects, stared wildly and suspiciously around him and at every one who made the slightest noise or stirred, and talked incoherently. Attacks of madness and sorrow. Anxiety and fear, he sees an absent acquaintance dead upon the sofa and has great dread of him. Furiously mad when offered something to eat, without appetite.

Alternating lively phantasies. Delusions alternating with half-confused sleep. Feeling as if she would lose her senses when thinking long about anything. Foolish answers. Loud wailing. Piercing lamentations interrupted by attacks of weakness. Cried and howled and spoke little and abruptly. Crying at trifles, with quarrelsome inclination. Sobbing, with childish spells of crying.

Her desire exceeds her need, she cuts and drinks more than is good for her, and she walks further than she needs to do or can endure. Anguish; with tossing about the bed (Acon.); with despair driving him from place to place for relief; with oppression of chest and difficult breathing; with trembling and with tearing in the abdomen; with cold sweat on face and trembling; as if everything became constricted, with anxiety in pit of stomach; so that he fainted; from the heart, interrupted by attacks of weakness; as if he had not done his duty. Despairs and weeps, imagines that he must die (Laches.); is cold and chilly, and then weak. Fear; and anguish, sees ghosts day and night; with jumping out of bed and hiding; of solitude and death, rage from slightest cause, especially if one spoke of her recovery, which she considered impossible, with at times indescribable melancholy. Dread of death (Acon., Sec. e., Plat.); sudden, when alone or on going to bed.

Anxiety; at 3 A.M., now with hot feeling, now with nausea; after 3 A.M., after waking; in evening after lying down; and heat did not permit sleep before midnight for many days; and restlessness of whole body; and restlessness, with cries of "kill me or relieve my pains!" with impatience; with excitement; with cold sweat; deathly; as regards some persons; in evening, lest some evil had befallen his relatives; periodical. Sadness; after eating, with headache; and crying at slightest provocation; with want of interest in anything. Despondent about his condition. Disposition to suicide (Plumb.); after midnight, by stabbing his heart through and through. Indifference to life. Indignation alternating with mildness, in her indignation she looks at nobody and does not want to hear anything, she also cries; morning in bed, pushed the pillows about indignantly, uncovered himself, saw no one and did not want to be spoken to.

Fretfulness and fault-finding at everything, every conversation, noise, even the light was disagreeable (Sulph.); fretful, indignant, capricious, every word angered her. Vexed at trifles and talking constantly about other people's faults. Quarrelsome. Dislike and indifference to those around him. Discontented, has no desire for anything. Dissatisfied all day and vexed with himself, believes he has not done enough and reproaches himself.

Sullen and silent. Silent and turned away his head when spoken to. Indisposed to reply to questions. Returns short answers. Answers slowly. Talks but little, complains only of anguish. Seriousness. When alone thinks about disease and similar things, from which it is difficult to free his mind. Irresolution. Impulsiveness. Inclination to jest in a malicious manner. Agitation; mental and physical. Excitement; towards morning, hindering sleep, though he was drowsy. Sensitiveness; to least noise. Easily made to laugh or cry. Indisposition to amuse himself like other children, with sensitiveness and precocity. Laughing fits, irritability and tendency to tears. Good humor, he likes to converse. Lively and combative.

Mind energetic and fresh, inclined to gaiety. Laziness.

Inability for mental work, fear of his fellow-men, irritability, passion and such down-heartedness from sleeplessness that he committed suicide. Ideas crowd upon him and he is too weak to repel them in order to dwell upon one alone. Confusion of mind. Absence of mind. He scarcely knew what he said or did. Absence of understanding and of external and internal senses, and when one shouted into his ears he looked at those present like one intoxicated waking from a deep sleep. Stupor; after vomiting and diarrhoea; with staring eyes; with sleepiness. Coma; with paralysis, tetanic convulsions, or spasm in muscles of extremities. Unconsciousness; with pallor. Memory lost; of recent acts, with frequent vertigo, drowsiness and feeling as if she were "losing her mind."

Clinical.—Melancholia, with suicidal tendency, great restlessness, constant change of place, wringing of her hands, < last part of the night. Insanity, with self-mutilation. Excessive fear of death, yet despair of life. Nearly all the mental disorders are characterized by extreme anxiety, fear and restlessness.

Head.—Palsied shaking. Felt swollen to an enormous size. Bent on one side and pain on raising it as from rheumatism in sterno-mastoid. Lancinations, > cold wet towel or open air on affected part. Tearing, and at same time in r. eye; with heaviness and with drowsy faintness in the daytime; pain as if brain were being torn out.

Aching; morning on waking, > rising; in morning on rising, < l. side; from 6 to 8 p.m., with sweat, anguish and loss of appetite; growing worse all day, with constriction at temples, as from intoxication; < 11 p.m., with cold hands and face; < at night; < light and noise (Bap., Sil.); < vomiting; < in a warm room; > applying cold water; with vertigo; and in face, < on l. side, preventing leaning or resting on that side and obliging her to sit up all night and keep the head erect; and across eyes; and in breast and belly, with vomiting and thirst; with soreness of scalp and itching.

Throbbing pain when raising himself in bed, especially in forehead, with nausea; tearing throbbing pain, < night; tearing throbbing, in attacks, sometimes on one side and extending over whole head. Stupefying aching; especially in forehead, when walking and standing, > sitting, with fine stitches in l. temporal region near canthus; especially over r. eyebrow, with sore pain when knitting the brow. Tensive aching. Contractive pain. Aching as if the brain were pressed by a hundred-weight. Burning pain. Periodical pain. Intermittent pain all day. Headache alternating with pain in stomach. Drawing and throbbing. Throbbing, and in all limbs. Throbbing like a hacking at 2 a.m., as if the skull were pressed asunder, with sweat. Confusion; evening; with noise; with somnolence. Stupidity towards noon, with weakness of head; from 11 a.m. till 6 p.m., as if he had not slept enough; as if he had done much work in great haste, with internal uneasiness; as in violent coryza, and when out of humor, with confusion and vertigo.

Heaviness; > open air, but returns on entering room (Tab., Zinc.), with humming in ears; with stupefaction; in morning after rising, as if the brain were oppressed by a load, with humming in ears; as after sexual excess (China). Irritability of brain. Weakness from much pain, with weakness and nausea in pit of stomach. "Aching tired sensation" at base of brain. Congestion. Sensation as if brain moved and beat against skull during motion (China, Sulph.). Brain seems to flap when moving head while walking (Rhus t.), with pressure upon it. Wavering sensation in brain, < moving head.

Vertigo; every evening, she has to hold on to something when closing her eyes, on studying or reading; when sitting; on rising; after sleep; on going into open air, < on re-entering room (Tab., Plat.); on walking in open air, with a stupid sensation in head, especially in forehead, so that he staggered; when vomiting; with vanishing of thought when rising up; with stupidity and inability to think; with dullness of head; with obscuration of sight; with pausea when lying; with rush of blood to heart; with inability to keep erect; with trembling; when walking, as if he would fall to the right; sudden, with qualmsiness.

Forehead.—Aching, with vertigo; over brows; (over l. eye, < evening and night); during sleep, he complains of headache, now in forehead, now in occiput. Neuralgia in F. and face. Pricking pain over r. eye. Drawing pain in r. side. Throbbing pain during motion. Throbbing pain over root of nose. Constrictive pain above eyes and in temples. Bruised or sore pain in F.; and over nose, > rubbing. Inflammation of sinuses, with aggravation at same hour each day. Heaviness, < evening, with pulsations more moved and in forehead and temples.

Temples, swelling of superficial veins; stitch in l., also > touch; tearing stitches in l.; pain; pain in r.; neuralgia in l. on waking; painful hammering at noon and midnight, after which her body feels paralyzed. Vertex, pain; in morning and in occiput; pain in V. as from a weight; burning pain in V., with sore pain in scalp when touched; now a pressing confusing, now a throbbing, or a burning pain in V., > rubbing; drawing pain under coronal suture every afternoon. (Hemicrania.) Neuralgia on l. side; then paralyzed feeling. Dull beating pain in one-half of head, as far as above eye. Aching on l. side. Tearing in l. side. When walking, sensation of two marbles striking each other over ear. Bruised pain in one side in morning when rising. Aching in occiput. Tearing in occiput. Occasional shooting in O.

Hair falls out; on l. side; thick only on middle of skull, and the skin desquamated; with hairs sticking together in places like felt; matted on l. side; the H. which had come out grew again, was stiff, brittle and gray, but gave place to healthy hair. Scurfy eruption on occiput. Pimples over whole scalp, painful on touch as if echymosed or ulcerated, with the same pain in whole scalp; (very red pimples); pimple on l. side, covered with scurf, obliging scratching, and painful when rubbed as if ulcerated. Hard pustules; (P., with burning pain, and on face). Moist discharge. Herpetic eruption behind r. ear, with red base, burning, twitching and stitching, then itching. (Corroding ulcers.) (Ulcerated crusts; as far as middle of forehead.) Sensation as if hair stood on end and were pulled up by the roots. Pain on touch; as if ulcerated. Soreness of scalp; with pain at vertex and sensitiveness of the hair when touched at the points. Bruised pain in external head, < touch. (Burning pain in scalp.) Fornication every other night. Creeping on occiput, as if roots of hair were moving. Itching; corrosive; painful as of an ulcer, with pain as if echymosed, especially in region of occiput; (gnawing); (burning).

Clinical.—Neuralgic headache, with extreme prostration, burning in stomach, retching, thirst, etc. The pains are burning, shooting, like needles, with soreness in the painful part. Dandruff; head dry and scaly, soreness, rarely eczema and still more rarely pustular eruptions.

Eyes.—Blue circles around. Yellow as in jaundice. Injected; glistening; and vessels of cornea injected. Sunken; with pale face. Protruding; and red; and watery. Staring. Distorted. Turned upward and squinting. Rigid; and turned upward. Suffused, languid; with lividity of inner part of under lids. Tearing; in l.; in r. and at same time in head. Stitches, with burning. Pain in l.; in l. at night; deep-seated in r., with stitches when turning it; drawing, with twitching in lids; burning, with photophobia. Heavy pressure. Feeling of sand in l.; in eyes in evening. Burning pain. Burning; during the day; in evening, < lying down, with pricking; B., with smarting. Pulsative throbbing after midnight, and at every pulsation a stitch. Jerking in l. Soreness; with inflamed look. Sensitiveness. Distended feeling, then conjunctival inflammation. Prickling.

Nightly itching; biting, gnawing. Feeling as if there were a boil below each. Feeling as if full of tears, but without lachrymation. Feel worse when moving them or looking steadily. Lachrymation; in morning, with fluent coryza; of r.; L. and itching, with pus in eyes in morning; with dazzled sensation in eyes; with half-open and red eyes; corrosive L., making cheeks sore, also lids (Merc. cor.). Blue spots in white of eye, and on abdomen and genitals. White of eye yellow. Icteric flush in albuginea and at edge of the reddened cheeks. Eyeballs hot and burning sore. Pupils dilated; contracted; alternately contracted and dilated, < in night and by a lighted candle or moving finger to and fro; insensible to light.

Lids.—Agglutination; in morning; at external canthi in morning. Gum in the morning. Edema (Rhus t., Apis) often closing eyes; of l.; of upper, with redness, Swelling; and redness; redness and excoriation, of upper, then of lower l., then of forehead, head and neck, without pain and without secretion of mucus; with tendency to eversion and with redness along edges and at angles, and painful vision. Blue. Red and half-shut; edges red; inner surface red, with uneasy sensation rather than pain, obliging rubbing. Desquamation, with redness and with line of excoriation at outer canthi. Lower lid externally excoriated where the burning was most severe. Blepharadenitis, cil; and ulcerosa (Graph., Merc.). Inflammation; of l. upper. Not closed during sleep. Spasmodic closure. Spasms; and of jaws, etc. Trembling of upper, with lachrymation. Aching over l. lid, < raising eyes, and in upper half of ball; sudden, in lids at 1 P.M., with pricking and lachrymation. Smarting as from smoke.

Pain in margins during motion, as if they were dry and rubbed against the balls. Dry when reading by candle light, as if eyes were rubbed by them. Burning in margin of upper. Itching about lashes. Stiffness; as if he had smoked all night. Could not open them at night without lifting them with her finger; l. cannot be opened.

Conjunctiva.—Red; or sore. Minutely injected, with diffused pale redness. Yellow. Bluish-white. Inflammation. Conjunctivitis of tarsal portions; with suffusion of eyes and photophobia; with itching and depreciation of vision; with sparkling eyes, anasarca simulating increased fat, ending in a hide-bound skeleton slowly sinking to the tomb; as from external irritation.

Suborbital pain on l. side, with stitches. Aching under r. eye at night, causing so much anguish that she could not remain in bed. Pinching over eyes. Vision lost; dim; as through white gauze; impaired, with pain in eyes if used. Photophobia. Flickering; and dark; and when eyes were closed shining particles floated backward and forward. Dazzled by snow, with lachrymation. Vision yellow during nausea (Dig.); of sparks; of white spots or points; of bluish sparks.

Clinical.—Ophthalmia, which is extremely painful, with very great sensitiveness of the eyes to light, burning, swelling of the lids. In all the external inflammations of the eyeball it is characterized by extreme painfulness (burning), hot and excoriating lachrymation, swelling of the lids, great photophobia; with these symptoms it has been found useful, not only in ophthalmias, but in inflammations of the cornea, with or without ulceration, and also in internal inflammation, with accumulation of pus in the anterior chamber (keratitis). In ciliary neuralgia, with fine, burning pains. Disseminated choroiditis. Retinitis albuminaria.

Ears.—Stitches in morning; outward in l. meatus auditorius at night. Tearing in middle; sticking T. outward through l. meatus auditorius, < towards evening; drawing T. in l. lobule; drawing T. behind ear, extending along neck to shoulder. Otalgia. Cramp, pain in outer. Deep-seated agreeable creeping. Voluptuous tickling in r. meatus, causing rubbing. Sensation as if l. meatus were stopped from without. Closure from within while swallowing, like deafness. Deafness. Sensitiveness to sound; to noise. Sounds, and in whole head. Ringing; in r. when sitting. Roaring; at every paroxysm of pain; in l. Rushing noise as of a near waterfall.

Clinical.—Otorrhea, with thin excoriating discharge, sometimes fetid. The skin within the ear becomes raw and burning, and the discharge becomes ichorous and very offensive (compare Mercury).

Nose.—Swollen and pouring forth a watery discharge. Pointed. Tip violet and cold. (Ulceration of upper part of inner, secreting a fetid, bitter ichor); U. of inner surface. Soreness of mucous membrane. Stitches in bones. Pain in bone, at root. Burning pain. Burning; in l. nostril in evening, with peculiar dryness in back part of mouth. Itching internally. Dryness. Stoppage as from catarrh; distressing S. under bridge, which occasionally altered his speech (Lyc.). Sneezing; without coryza; violent, waking at night, with a copious watery discharge. Coryza; every morning on waking, with sneezing; with hoarseness and sleeplessness; fluent and dry together; fluent, with frequent sneezing; fluent, with lachrymation in morning. Running from nose; with itching. Discharge every day, beginning at 5 A.M., > hot weather, < morning (Euphras.), went off in open air; excoriating (All. cep.); watery and excoriating (All. cep.); watery excoriating from l. nostril; profuse, thick, yellow. Nosebleed; after wine; during ill humor; when vomiting. Offensive smells. Smells of pitch and sulphur alternately.

Clinical.—Fluent coryza, with watery, burning, acid discharge and sneezing. As a rule there is no ulceration or stoppage as in Nux vom., though they may occasionally happen. The discharge is always burning, excoriating. Extreme sensitiveness of smell, cannot bear even the smell of food.

Face.—Swollen (Apis, Rhus t., Merc. c.); especially about eyes, and red; with fixed redness, more or less under eyes and on cheek-bones; red and covered with cold sweat; dark and hot; with erysipelatous redness and blisters, which soon discharge and look gangrenous; of r. cheek, with pain in that side of face and smooth, shining, scarlet skin over swelling; with fainting fits and vertigo. Pinched, with sunken eyes (Sec. c., Verat.); and livid. Sunken; and pale and covered with cold sweat (Verat., Tab.); and leaden-hued. Deathly cold when vomiting (Verat., Tab., Cocc.). Pale, yellow, cachectic. Pale; corpse-like and convulsively distorted; except a flush on each cheek. Pale-gray and swollen. Leaden-gray. Bluish-gray. Dusky. Livid; and livid; livid and sunken. (Clayey, lead-colored, with blue and green streaks and spots.) Complexion by gaslight, dark greenish. Yellowish; with sunken eyes; greenish Y; grayish Y. Black around mouth. Red; spot on r. cheek; in spots and covered with sweat; especially upper parts of cheeks; and distorted; with yellowish tinge about nostrils. Hippocratic. Appearance is best compared with that of a cholera patient in the algid stage (Cauph., Verat.). Expression of agony. Wild look; look of vague anxiety and desperation, as well as an expression of deep trouble. Expression of apprehension. Stupid. Frequent smiling. Distorted, as if dissatisfied; distorted drawn lines; distorted by convulsions and pain. Convulsions. Distorting of muscles.

Tearing of a quotidian type; in l. half. Pain, and in teeth and gums; < by touching painless side. Sensation as if an eruption would appear all over it. Throbbing, and in head, as if the boils would burst. Stiff feeling. Lancinations along r. inferior maxillary nerve, repeated while lying, with headache. Jaw, abscesses; clenched; tonic cramp in J. and throat; convulsive motions, so as to almost break the glass, when drinking (Merc. v.); pressure in l. upper J.

Lips.—Spotted black. Livid. Bluish; and colder. White-powdered. Swollen; and cracked; with a blister discharging lymph on r. edge of upper, and a blister discharging pus on l. edge of lower. Desquamation. Brown strip of shrivelled epidermis through middle of vermilion border of lower. Painful blotches in upper. Corrosive ulcer (Merc.), painful in evening after lying down, and waking at night, tearing and smarting in day on motion, the pain < touch and exposure to air. Superficial ulcers on inner surface, with swelling of lips and pain < eating or speaking, afterwards with pyalism. Sore, with ulcers in mouth. Eruption similar to herpes labialis. Eruption on lower, with a thick crust and lardaceous base. Painless E. on margin of vermilion border. Bleeding of lower after eating. Distorted as in risus sardonius; mouth drawn in all directions. Prickling twitching in one side of upper, < when going to sleep. Lower burning, hanging down, everted, painful, and cannot be approximated to upper lip, preventing speech. Itching of upper, as if pricked with red-hot needles, extending as far as under nose, next day swelling of upper lip above vermilion border. Dry; and pale red; and covered with herpes.

Clinical.—Face is apt to be pale and puffy, even in fever, especially with all gastro-enteric troubles; sometimes pinched and drawn, hippocratic, cold or covered with cold sweat. Facial neuralgia, with burning tearing pains.

Mouth.—Teeth. Yellowish-earthly, with little lustre. Sordes. Tartar at base. Progressive caries, with aching. Grinding; in sleep. Falling out of all. Looseness and prominence of one in morning, with pain in gum on touch, and pain in outside of cheek over the tooth, the tooth not painful when biting teeth together. The r. upper began to loosen and were removed with the fingers. Loose, seemed longer, was sensitive to pressure and cold water (Merc.). Painful looseness, with soreness, < chewing, likewise the gums are painful on touch and the cheek swollen (Phos., Merc.). Stitches. Tearing recurring regularly at night; tearing in teeth and head before menses, driving her almost to frenzy, and she strikes her head with her fist. Aching; in l. upper; in all l.; and in gums and face; on rising, < afterwards, with salivation; in r. molars in evening, < lower; waking at night; in upper on biting on them; extending to all teeth of that side; jerkings continuous A., extending to temple, > sitting up; as if loose, not < by chewing. Loose sensation. Dull, as if she could not chew with them.

A large portion of the alveolar process of superior maxilla was detached (Phos.). Abscess over r. upper canine tooth, discharging sanious pus (Phos.). Gingivobulbar groove much injected. Gums crimson line; swollen, bleeding, painful to touch and spotted white; swollen and covered with a network of white false membrane; spongy; aphthous ulceration of G. and tonsils; tender and shining; burning in G.; stitches in G. in morning; nightly tearing in G. of incisors, < lying on affected side, > warmth of stove, next morning the nose is swollen and painful to touch; pain.

Tongue.—Swollen; and grayish; and foul. Large, indented, with silvery-white fur, through which the dark red papillae project. Protruding papillae, at end scarlet. Bluish. Red; and smooth and dry (Verat. v.). White (Ant. c., Bry., Tarax.); and dry; and moist; W., with red tip; whitish in centre; upper surface white, not coated, but thickened. Brown and dry (Plumb.). Dryish, coffee-brown color, changing to an inky color. Black and dry, and the ecchymosed spots on the skin became dry and black. Tongue coated; sometimes with red edges; patchy (Tarax.), with a red streak in middle and redness of tip (Verat. v., Phos.); brown (Plumb.) and dry; white, with red margins and pain; white, with scattered red papillae, as in scarlatina; yellowish-white; tongue, roof of mouth, gums and fauces covered with white velvety coat, growing dryer and harder until fourteenth day, then began to detach itself and was discharged by the bowels, having the fetor of putrid animal matter, leaving mouth, throat, stomach and bowels tender; green; yellow at base and red at tip and edges; (Merc. i. f.). Tongue inflamed, dry, cracked, with a brownish coat in centre, gums dry and angry, mouth feeling as if lined with flannel. Tongue dry; D. morbidly red, with papillae at tip; D. and coated towards back; D. and excoriated. Superficial ulcers on edges. Stitches in root, as from a fish-bone, when swallowing or turning head. Boring in r. border in a sort of half sleep. Pain on side of tip as if corroded. Sensation of blisters on it. Pain as if covered with burning painful vesicles. Scalded feeling. Burning; and in pharynx and stomach; and in palate and throat. Coldness. Seemed thick. Drawn together, as from alum. Weakness and pain. Insensibility as if burnt and dead, and no taste.

Mouth in general.—Lost the power of speech. Speech monosyllabic, tremulous. Aphthae; and in tongue; A., white then becoming black. Painful blisters, and on tongue (Borax, Sul. ac., Merc.). Mucous membrane abraded. Hæmorrhage, and from rectum (Phos., Crotal., Sec. c.). White pointed prominences on palate and uvula, seemingly the membrane covering palate, bones and velum pendulum detached at the parts by a whitish liquid. Slimy M. and throat. Stinging, and in pharynx. Pain beginning at l. side, then affecting all gums. Burning pain. Burning in mouth, along pharynx and in a pit of stomach (Arum t., Nit. ac., Mag.). Dry feeling in M.; with thirst, but he drinks little at a time. Roughness of hard palate. Imagines he has sand in M. M., lips and tongue sore and appeared scalded in patches. Tenderness, and in throat. Salivation; must spit often. Bloody saliva (Merc., Sec. c., Zinc.). Bitter saliva. Frothy S. expectorated. Breath has a peculiar offensive, pungent odor. Fetor of breath (Arn., Merc., Nit. ac.); with superficial ulceration of gums and throat.

Taste.—Bitter; (mornings); after eating; after eating and drinking; with yellow diarrhoea. Sweetish and in throat. Putrid; mornings. Nauseous. Metallic. Burning, astrigent. Dry, as of wood. Sooty. Disgusting, sour. Sour; to food. Flat T. to beer. Salt T. to food. Food tastes as if not salted enough.

Clinical.—Neuralgia of the teeth, burning tearing; > heat of the stove, < after midnight, with great prostration; teeth feel long and very sore. Gums unhealthy, bleeding easily, with a general cachectic condition. Tongue ulcerated. Canker sores on tongue. Epithelioma of tongue. Neuralgia of tongue, with burning pain. In fevers the tongue may be red and dry, or it may be brown and black, smooth, as if varnished, generally very sore mouth; gangrenous sloughs of tongue (cancerous). Ulceration of mouth, with great dryness and burning heat. Gangrenous sore mouth of children (compare with Chloride of Potash).

Throat.—Submaxillary glands swollen, with aching and contusive pain; swelling of l., < evening; (S., with pain on pressure); of parotid and submaxillary glands. Swelling of l. carotid when stooping. Swelling of thyroid gland, especially on r. side; of fauces, with redness; of uvula, with redness; of tonsils, with false membrane. Diphtheritis. Redness, with aphthous ulceration. Ulceration; with inflammation resembling diphtheria and quinsy; spotted with white ulcers, next day soreness descending gullet into chest, with an excoriation on each side of uvula, a white ulcer on l. tonsil, and redness and tenderness of rest of throat and back of palate, swallowing a liquid caused gasping, hurried cough and pain. At base of each pillar aphtha surrounded by red areola, with redness of pharynx. Obstinate follicular soreness. Superficial excoriation. Inflammation and swelling internally and externally about root of tongue. Tonsillitis, with dry tongue and mouth. Constant spitting of saliva and mucus from fauces. Hawks up gray mucus. Spasm. Cramp. Tearing. Pain; in evening; when talking; from vomiting, and in chest; with inflammation; on l. side as far as pectoralis muscle. Nausea, with accumulation of water in mouth.

Strangling. Feels closed, and nothing can pass through it. Constriction; as if swollen; suffocative C.; spasmodic C. Sensation as of a hair in it. Scraping; as of rancid grease, in morning on swallowing first mouthful; behind velum pendulum palati between acts of deglutition. Roughness; morning, with hoarseness. Husky feeling. Soreness; capricious. Dryness; with soreness, scraping and burning; with thirst. Burning; in pharynx; and in œsophagus; and in region of stomach; and in chest; with lacerations; with uneasiness and hoarseness; with oppression as if suffocating. Uneasiness. Sensation of a lump of mucus, which tastes of blood. Bitterness after a meal, the food having a natural taste every other day (like a tertian fever). Sweetish taste. Globus hystericus. Paralytic condition of pharynx and œsophagus, the bread fell with difficulty and a rumbling noise. Swallowing difficult; and painful; impossible. Constant desire to swallow saliva.

Œsophagus.—Burning pain; and in stomach, with nausea and vomiting. Burning. Soreness. Constriction. Spasmodic contraction.

Clinical.—Arsenic is not so often indicated in ulcerations of the throat as many other drugs, rarely in the early stage of diphtheria; it is valuable in the later stages with profound prostration, especially if the membrane of the throat becomes dry, with burning thirst, irritable stomach, profound prostration or with albuminuria and dropsy. Inflammation of the œsophagus, with spasmodic stricture on swallowing food, burning.

Stomach.—Appetite increased. Constant craving for food. Desire for acids and acid fruit. Inclination for lard. Inclination to eat, but everything is repugnant. Capricious. Lost; for dinner; lost, with pressing in region of stomach; lost, still he relishes the food he eats; lost or else craving. Loathing of food; of butter; of animal food.

Thirst; frequent in evening, seldom during the day; at night, from dryness of throat; < evening; > night; but drinking did not refresh him; he drinks much, but little at a time; with dryness of mouth and a peculiar thick, white saliva; with anxiety. Burning T; without especial desire to drink. Constant T. for cold water, the smallest quantity of which could not be retained. Desire for coffee; for milk, which was usually repulsive; for malt beer; (for brandy). Thirst absent; during the chill (Gels., Op.).

Erections; < drinking; with nausea; with hicough. Unsuccessful. Empty; after every attack of vomiting. Of foul-smelling gases. Tasting of ingesta. Sour after dinner. Bitter after eating, with gulping up of bitter greenish mucus. Acid fluid rises into mouth. Waterbrash after 4 P.M.; when coughing violently. Hicough; at night; at night when rising, with a scraping repulsive taste in mouth; after eating, then eructations; long-lasting at the hour when the fever ought to come; convulsive.

Nausea; at 11 A.M. and 3 P.M.; in forenoon, obliging him to lie down, with tearing around knuckles and on dorsum of foot; often about 10 P.M. and nearly always on waking, but not at night unless she happened to be up; from drinking; after eating, with vomiting; before a meal, and after eating or drinking distention, or pressure and cutting in abdomen; before and after dinner, with imperfect waterbrash; in open air; when sitting, with waterbrash, the N. > walking in open air, then profuse papaceous stools; when sitting up in bed, and frequently sudden vomiting; in open air; after the heat; > brandy; in pharynx and stomach; with rare vomiting, but frequent retching, which increased periodically, with oppression. Ineffectual inclination to vomit and purge, with cramp in stomach and abdomen, and he imagined he had cholera. Nausea, with anguish; with faintness, tremor, heat all over and shuddering; with copious flow of tenacious saliva; with flow of viscid saliva from mouth, heat in fauces, stupor and small, frequent pulse; with failure of vision, pallor and difficult breathing; with headache and diarrhœa; with sweetish taste in mouth; constricting, then vomiting; as high up as chest in morning on waking, then vomiting of white mucus and a bitter taste in mouth; with distended feeling in stomach, pain as from a fire within, burning in mouth, then vomiting of a greenish fluid, then burning in throat and along œsophagus, tenesmus, slight discharge of mucus, excoriation of anus, then bloody vomiting.

Retching; violent; violent, with vomiting, griping in abdomen and pain; ineffectual; tendency to R. from crying or coughing; as soon as he had taken a few spoonfuls of soup, with vomiting; and vomiting, nearly approaching convulsions; with violent vomiting of much greenish liquid, and two stools consisting of food eaten the previous day, almost undigested; constant, and sometimes vomiting, with spasms of stomach and bowels, weak and quick pulse, frequent dark bloody diarrhœa, frequent coldness of limbs, then soreness of stomach.

Vomiting; all night, with diarrhœa; every time after drinking (Eup. per.), also with pain in abdomen and pharynx; after eating (Tab.), also without nausea; on rising head; whenever he drank, with shivering (Caps.); an hour after getting up; waking her from sleep; < night, > towards morning, when diarrhœa appeared; > water (cold, Cupr.); of all nourishment as soon as it touches the stomach; of food; then mucus and green bile; of food mixed with a tenacious mass; of food mixed with a reddish brown liquid; of food, mucus and a fluid partly acid, partly bitter; of food and white mucus; fragments of food, then water, with relief; of food, then repeated diarrhœa, with relief; sudden V. of food mixed with bile. Incessant vomiting of the milk, with roaring like a wild animal on account of pain.

Difficult V. of the beverage and of yellow-green mucus and water, with bitter taste in mouth, which remained a long time. Violent vomiting; excited by any substance taken into stomach; with sensation as if it would tear out his stomach and intestines; violent, with frequent unconsciousness, then trembling, abdominal pain and repeated stools; violent, with violent nosebleed; violent, of a brown turbid matter mixed with mucus and sometimes streaked with blood; violent, of mucus and bile, also of frothy masses; violent, with internal burning, thirst and heat. Vomiting of blood; and mucus; of blood, and evacuation of blood (with burning pain in anus). Evacuation upward and downward of much blood, mixed with bilious matter, with relief; with cutting in stomach. Bilious V.; on getting up; of bile and mucus; bilious and watery; bloody and slimy, of green insoluble bile; of green bilious matter and rosy mucus. Vomiting of greenish matter, streaked with blood. Of green matter at night and of whitish stuff next morning. Bitter: bitter green-yellow liquid; greenish bitter. Green; on drinking. Grass-green. Yellowish, greenish, stercoraceous. Pinkish. Reddish. Brown and green substances. Brownish fluid, which became green on standing. Of an alternately thin or thick brownish dark substance, with exertion and increase of pain in stomach. Discharge of a reddish-black matter through mouth and anus. Vomiting of a yellow fluid; yellow, mixed with frothy saliva or streaks of blood; of a thin, bluish, dirty yellow substance, then debility; of a yellowish fluid, streaked with green. White fluid. Frothy fluid. Watery. Glairy fluid in morning. Glairy substance, tinged with blood. Mucus in morning, with increased saliva; of white mucus; of yellow mucus; of tenacious mucus and a brownish mass. Sour. Of a substance which causes constriction in throat.

Vomiting brings no relief. V., with apprehensions of death; with anxiety, prostration and tightness at throat; with diarrhœa; with diarrhœa of greenish bloody water; with diarrhœa, then collapse; with purging and unbearable odor; with pains in abdomen and legs; with thirst, also with burning in abdomen; with palpitation; with prostration; with horrid cries. Sudden vomiting, ending in abortion, alternating with diarrhœa, then constipation. Periodic, more a retching. Paroxysmal. Symptoms like cholera, except that the vomited matter was like thin coffee grounds. Attack like sporadic cholera, incessant vomiting, diarrhœa, cramp in calves, livid appearance and evacuation of liquids, showing no signs of blood.

Pressed hand on epigastric region, lamented, groaned and screamed. Distention; and hardness; D., with greater warmth than in rest of body. Fulness; in morning. Repletion in evening, with aversion to food and pain after eating; in epigastric region, with pinching in abdomen. Spasms, with colic, diarrhœa and fainting fits; spasmodic jerks from pit to rectum.

Stomach seemed to jump, then pain with vomiting of fluid, apparently the water he had drunk, which relieved the pains, but they returned and were acute over the whole body. Cramp in S. and abdomen. Stitches as with a thousand red-hot needles; in pit when coughing. Tearing, and in abdomen; transversely across in afternoon when walking; spasmodic. Spasmodic cutting in S., abdomen and chest. Pinching stitching cutting in pit during menses, extending to hypogastrium, and in back and sides of abdomen, so that she had to bend double when standing or sitting, with loud eructations, moaning and weeping. Tearing boring in S. and intestines, with spasm. Pinching in pit, towards r. side of abdomen, causing her to stoop. Gnawing and pricking in pit (acute and fine beating), with tense feeling. Gnawing, corrosive pain. Cardialgia.

Pain; in epigastric region; across epigastric region; in epigastric and umbilical regions; in epigastrium and chest; in gastric region; in pit; in pit, arresting breathing; in evening; at exterior wall when talking; from eating; when she drank; after breakfast and dinner, with empty eructations and nauseating relaxation of body; after eating, so that he could not stand up; in epigastrium after evening meal, with nausea and indifferent appetite; at orifice after eating, and in fauces as if food remained high up, then empty eructations; from violent retching; on pressure; in pit; in pit, with heat; epigastrium and upper abdomen; and navel region; and abdomen, more at large end of S. Pain on touch; in epigastrium; and abdomen; and bladder; then more in regions of liver and abdomen; > sweet milk; with constantly increasing anxiety and cries for help; with headache; with cramp, vomitings and waterbrash in S. and lower part of chest, with heat; in epigastrium, with heat; in epigastrium, with tension, alternating with headache. Intermittent pain.

Pain in epigastrium as if cut off from hypogastrium, with anguish and lamentations about his pains. Pain as if S. would be distended and torn to pieces. Pain as if full of flatus, < after vomiting and diarrhœa. Paroxysmal P.; in epigastric region. Spasmodic, with writhing, moaning and making strange faces; periodic spasmodic P., and in abdomen. Throbbing pain in epigastrium, preventing sleep. Painful drawing, with shivering. Drawing pain in pit in evening when sitting, extending around lower border of l. ribs, as if something were torn loose. Smarting P.

Burning pain (Ox. ac.); and in abdomen; < pressure; in epigastrium and upper abdomen, < pressure; extending to pharynx. Burning; in pit; in region; in epigastrium; in cardiac portion; < motion of child in uteri; > vomiting; with uneasiness; with pressure as of a load; with pain in S. and liver, < touch; with thirst; with anxiety and retching; with tenderness of epigastrium and cramps, with aching; in epigastrium and throat, with constriction in latter; in S. and chest, with oppression; extending from pylorus to throat; from pit to throat, where it is most violent, causes scraping and hinders swallowing. Heat rises from S.

Internal chilliness in epigastric region, and he is never clad warm enough, though the parts feel warm to touch. Coldness; in pit. Anxiety in pit (Arg. n.); at night rising high up. Indescribable anguish in pit, without distention or colic. Constriction in epigastric region. Contraction in S. and pharynx, with painful burning. Strangling feeling, with sensitiveness to touch. Gastritis (Arg. n., Phos., K. bi., etc.). Gastrodynia. Inflammation of alimentary mucous membrane. Dreadful suffering in epigastrium. Distress; then nausea and vomiting. Soreness in pit when talking, drawing breath or moving about (Bry.); when coughing. Tensive sensation in epigastric region. Could not bear any wine. Digestion weak, with dislike to meat. Inability to digest food, especially meat. Indigestion in various forms. Acidity. Weight after eating, as from a stone (Bry.). Heaviness; with anorexia. Weakness of epigastrium after micturition, so that she trembled. Sinking.

Clinical.—Most violent gastro-enteritis, even ulceration, and various diseases of the stomach (cancerous, etc.), are cured by Arsenic, always with a few characteristic indications, extreme thirst, with extreme irritability of the stomach, which will remain but little, if anything, extreme soreness, with burning heat. In less serious conditions it is frequently useful, for instance, persistent deathly nausea of pregnancy, chronic catarrh of the stomach; the whole inner portion of the stomach seems raw; constrictive pain when the stomach is empty. Severe gastralgia brought on by the slightest food or drink, the patient thinks that she shall die, with profound prostration, the pain is burning hot and extends up sides and over abdomen.

Abdomen.—Inclined to lie on. Swollen; and painful; and tympanitic; every morning, then emission of flatus; after stool. Distention after eating, > leaning his back against something. Softness. Retraction; with feeling as in lead colic, and little sensitiveness to pressure. Walls contracted and almost touch spinal column, recti muscles stretched like a rope. Tension; of muscles, outline distinct, with pain in r. hypochondrium on firm pressure. Unevenness from epigastric region to pubis and to hypochondria, caused by spasmodic contractions of abdominal muscles and of viscera, with faintness, sickness and purgings of bright green color like paint. Spasms in evening after lying down, with pinching and with sweat, then emission of flatus and thin stool. Gurgling. Rumbling; morning on waking; then twisting and cutting, then diarrhœic stools. Flatulence; after eating; putrid smelling flatus. Increased peristaltic action. Hemorrhage. Cramp; beginning in abdomen. Stitches, extending into vagina. Tearing; with nausea and vomiting.

(Lancinating tearing and gnawing, and in stomach.) Cutting; and tearing, with coldness of hands and feet and with cold sweat on face; before diarrhoea, with twisting; with vomiting; clawing, in evening after lying down and in morning after rising, sometimes darting through abdominal ring (as if a hernia would protrude) into spermatheca cord and perineum, then rumbling and grumbling. Pinching as if diarrhoea would occur. Gripping; and free movement of bowels.

Pain; in afternoon, with diarrhoea and chilliness, the pain continuing after the diarrhoea; at night; at midnight, especially in hypogastrum, then burning in stomach; on touch; < touch of bed-covers, with tension; < pressure; > after stool; with unbearable anxiety; with tense and heavy sensation in r. epigastric and hypogastric regions; with urging to stool, then diarrhoea; with diarrhoea and vomiting; with constipation; with heat in face; and in legs; so that he rolled about the floor and despaired of his life; so violent that she had to hold on to the houses to prevent falling; causing screams. Twisting pain and gripping; twisting before and during stool, with pinching and rumbling. Deep-seated. Pain moving, with diarrhoea and pains in anus. Pain becomes seated in l. side. Intermittent, smarting. Sore. Bruised, as if crushed, during cough. Drawing pain, which moved to the head, where there was a beating and still more a jerking, then it extended to the l. side, where sudden jerking stitches were felt.

Burning pain; noon and afternoon, > after stool; increased to sharp pain on pressure; especially in side. Burning; < stretching feet, with constriction; with heat and thirst; and in throat and chest. Anxiety, with pain so violent that he grasped bystanders and again pushed them from him, frequently jumped out of bed and sat on the chamber or ran about; A., with fever and thirst. Piteous complaints that an unpleasant sensation in A. and anguish took away his breath and forced him to bend double in this or that direction or to rise and walk about. Discomfort. Intestines feel as if drawn together. Drawing and pressure, as from incarcerated flatus. Uneasiness when at rest. Pulsation extending deep inwardly. Weakness of muscles.

Pain in upper abdomen. Tendency to inflammation of duodenum, with pain. Digging in r. side of A., with pressure. Pain in r. side. Rheumatic pain in l. side. Liver, congestion and torpidity, with various symptoms resulting therefrom, and bilious and feverish attacks; pain over region of liver, also < pressure; pain in liver when walking in open air; tenderness in region, > diarrhoea; irritation of L., with yellowish or sickly pale look.

Spleen hypertrophied. Stitches under short ribs, < lying on that side. Lancinations under l. short ribs in evening after lying down. Cutting below last ribs, < touch. Hypochondria tense and shaken by convulsions; increased tension of H. during paroxysm of fever, and he is almost unable to lie on that side. Pain in r. hypochondrium; and in adjoining lumbar region, extending through side of serotum, sometimes into r. groin and side of abdomen, like renal colic. Drawing stitching under l. II. when clearing throat, extending into chest.

Umbilicus.—Pain about, causing him to bend forward, < touch, attempting to raise himself or to lie on back; drawing pain in region; pains which were in the stomach at first passed down into intestines, he pressed with his r. hand on the navel and cried that his intestines were burning. Pains below U.

Hypogastrum.—Pinching increasing to cutting, in morning, before, during and after diarrhoea. Cutting. Slow stitches in groins. Pain on pressure. Pain in inguinal and iliac regions, < pressure. Sprained pain in groin and r. lumbar region when stooping. Contractive pain in l. groin during micturition. Sensation of a bar around flanks. Burning in groin.

Clinical.—Metro-peritonitis, nausea, vomiting, profound prostration, cold sweat, brown tongue, burning pain, etc. Catarrhal enteritis. Ulceration of the bowels. Enlarged spleen, with paroxysms of violent pain. Enlarged liver. Inflammations of the liver, associated with inflammations of the kidneys. A great variety of inflammatory disorders of the abdominal viscera, characterized by extreme sensitiveness, tendency to collapse and general Arsenic symptoms. Dropsy of abdomen.

Rectum.—Painful spasmodic protrusion of; remains protruded after hæmorrhage. Hæmorrhage. Stitches during menses, extending to anus and pudendum; deep in, with itching. Prickling; as if passing sand. Burning; after stool (Æsc. h.), with weakness and trembling in all limbs. Peculiar feeling of smarting and pain at end, with inclination to evacuate, but not tenesmus. Urging to stool; driving out of bed; constant U.; ineffectual. Tenesmus; as in dysentery, with burning, pain and pressure in rectum and anus (Sulph., Nit. ac.); with mucous stools; with stools tinged with blood.

Anus.—Hæmorrhoids; blind, painful, with slow hot prickings; bleeding and protruding; with pricking when walking and sitting, not at stool. Twitching. Hæmorrhoidal tenesmus, causing burning pain, < at night, preventing sleep, < in day and increasing to stitches, < walking. Soreness when touched. Burning; > hard, knotty stool; with itching. Itching; and in privates, with soreness and sometimes sharp pain. Itching scraping or smarting. Corrosive itching in perineum.

Clinical.—Hæmorrhoids, with burning like fire, > heat.

Stool.—Watery; and offensive; and painful; and frequent; profuse; profuse, with relief; only of blood and water; white, curdy; ash-colored, like dirty water, with yellow mucus, without pain or tenesmus; yellow, scanty, then tenesmus and colic around umbilicus; frequent yellowish, after pinching in lower abdomen, with thirst; contained acid water. Greenish, watery, involuntary; G. watery, painless; G. bloody water, with vomiting; watery, mixed with lumps of green mucus. Violent, watery. Black fluid. burning the anus, after uneasiness and pain in abdomen.

Diarrhoea; in afternoon; from fruit or fresh vegetables (China); < night, with coldness of extremities (Sec. c., Verat.); with vomiting (Verat.); with prostration; with tenesmus; with much rumbling; with abdominal pain, also with grasping of hands towards head and drawing of the legs up high; with itching and soreness of anus; with tearing and cutting in abdomen; with anxiety and cutting in abdomen and exhaustion; difficult; dark, bloody-colored; black mucous, with persistent vomiting; chronic, dark, muddy, offensive, forcible and sudden, and he turns pale at the same time; frequent, violent, offensive, black; yellow, with tenesmus and burning pain in rectum and anus (Aloe); yellow, with bitter mouth; olive-green; inodorous, also unhealthy; inodorous as after indigestion. Dysentery-like. Slimy, morning and forenoon, preceded by gripping and followed by straining; S., having a hacked appearance. Containing grumous particles. Bilious. (Greenish dark brown, smelling like a putrid ulcer.) Profuse, first white, then yellowish half-liquid, involuntary, while standing, as if one suddenly opened the pipe of a vessel containing liquid. Scybulous passages of clayey color. Diarrhœa alternating with constipation.

Constipation; with pain in abdomen. Hard stool, with vomiting; scanty; black; black at first, afterwards stools covered with bilious mucus. (Knotty, unsatisfactory.) At first thick stools, at last diarrhœic, green.

Stools black, acrid, putrid. Black; containing black matter and worms. Discharge of a reddish-black matter through mouth and anus. Blackish-brown bilious, with gripping. Brownish, mixed with mucus. Yellowish-brown. Dark, offensive, frequent, and at same time vomiting of a clear mucous odorless liquid. Green; streaked with green and offensive. Bloody; with tenesmus; contained bloody mucus. Watery blood with and surrounding S. Evacuation upward and downward of much blood mixed with bilious matter, with relief, covered with a mass which appeared combined of jelly and bile. Expulsion of pieces of mucus, with tenesmus and cutting in anus, as from blind hæmorrhoids. Stools unhealthy, pale, with constant passing of mucus and rarely of blood; of white tenacious mucus, similar to rinsings of intestines, which masses formed lumps of the size of a fist.

Stools excoriated skin about anus. Contained a ball, seemingly of undigested fat mixed with tendinous parts. Profuse S. Small S. after colic, with tenesmus, first of dark-green fæces, then of dark-green mucus. Frequent calls, with scanty discharges of brick-red fluid. Involuntary; and micturition; and copious, painless; copious at every act of vomiting; serous, corroding, as if there were fire at anus. While fully conscious she discharges stool and urine unawares; supposing it to be flatus. Frequent; in afternoon; but not effectual; mixed with slimy, fatty masses. Retarded. No stool.

Clinical.—Diarrhœas generally dark, scanty, watery or mucous, sometimes bloody. Stools may be brown or black, burning, putrid, brought on by eating or drinking, or < after midnight, preceded by most violent burning and cutting pains and followed by extreme exhaustion; the general Arsenic symptoms are usually present. Constipation rare, abdomen painful.

Urinary Organs.—Urethra. Burning; on urinating (Sulph.); in anterior part in morning at beginning of micturition. Urethritis. Deep-seated tearings. Biting pain. Urging to urinate; frequent, with copious urine; frequent, which at times is accomplished only with difficulty; constant urging, with burning in bladder; constant urging, with hot and dark urine; desire which he cannot satisfy, and with a catheter only a few spoonfuls of clear urine are discharged.

Micturition involuntary (Caut.); of scanty urine. Frequent at night, with a large quantity each time. Difficult; spasmodic difficulties. Strangury; with red urine. Ischuria; with pain in bladder. Urine retained; in spite of all internal exertions to pass it; as if bladder were paralyzed.

Urine copious; and dark brown (Benz. ac.); burning hot. Scanty; and burning (Canth., Merc. c.); passed with difficulty; and dark yellow, and depositing lithate of ammonia; drawn by catheter, and giving the characteristic reaction of glycosuria. Almost colorless.

Red. Dark, wine-yellow, with pressure. (Greenish, dark brown, turbid when emitted, looking like cowdung stirred up with water, and forming no sediment.) Hæmaturia (Phos., Tereb.). Turbid U. Red sand and pain in passing it. Much sediment. Brick-dust sediment.

Clinical.—Acute and chronic inflammation of the kidneys, either idiopathic or associated with various diseases, the urine is scanty, hot, there are generally great œdema and dropsy, very irritable stomach and bowels, great thirst. Inflammation of the bladder, with extreme burning on urinating. The urine is usually very scanty with all diseases, suppressed (in Asiatic cholera or in dropsy), thick, sometimes fetid. Diabetes has been cured.

Sexual Organs.—Painful swelling. Sharp pain. Sphacelus of male. Penis swollen (Merc. c., Rhus t.); blue-red and cracked; and burning; painful, with violent efforts to urinate. Pain in penis, bladder and kidneys. Itching on glans; corrosive, on posterior part. Stitching itching on tip of prepuce. Discharge of prostatic juice, with diarrhœic stool. Erections in morning; with burning in anterior part of prepuce; rare and incomplete. Frequent priapism. Scrotum swollen; all the reddened part covered with small vesicles discharging slightly and reddening in desiccation; cuticle peeled off leaving cutis vera exposed, inflamed and bleeding, both testes were enlarged and could not be touched. Loss of power. Strong desire. Emission, with sexual dreams; without dreams, then continued erection.

Female.—Itching. Tenderness of labia. Sudden profuse discharge of dark blood from vagina. Discharge of bloody mucus after menses (Zinc.). Leucorrhœa; while standing and emitting flatus; copious, yellowish, thick and corrosive (Sep.); yellow, offensive, watery after menses, with discharges from rectum of blood and purulent mucus, with burning pain. Uterine suffering. Uterine weakness, with abdominal pain and nervous prostration. Active fetal movements during the attack (she was seven months advanced in pregnancy). Premature delivery. Difficult and distressing delivery of a stillborn fœtus, apparently between fifth and sixth month, and great weakness, though there was no flooding. Amenorrhœa (Puls.). Constant exhausting menorrhagia (Phos., Sec. c.). Menses too early (Calc. c.). Menses profuse (Calc. c.); pale (Phos.); and scanty (Sulph.); suppressed; and, in their stead, stitches in gluteal region and in shoulders. Furor, and if not satisfied spontaneous orgasm.

Clinical.—Hydrocele in a child. It has been found valuable in inflammations of the pelvic viscera, pelvic cellulitis, uterine enlargement and tumors, ulcerations and cancer of the uterus, uterine hemorrhage; in all these diseases the indications are lancinating burning pains, etc. Leucorrhœa acrid, burning, offensive, thin, or sometimes thick and yellow, with general œmia, etc. Burning pain in r. ovary, amenorrhœa, instead of menses profuse, exoriating leucorrhœa. Granulations on inner surface of uterus, with pains as from red-hot wires.

Respiratory Organs.—Air passages seem constricted. Larynx dry. Spasm of glottis (Chlorine). Hoarseness; on waking, with pain in chest; toneless voice. Husky and guttural. Voice hollow, speech unintelligible. Voice trembling; and speech monosyllabic; uneven, now strong, now weak. Feeble, whispering, thick and rough. Aphonia. Bronchitis; obstinate.

Cough; evenings directly after lying down (Dro.); evening after lying down, she has to sit up, then contractive pain in epigastric region and pit of stomach, this pain continued the cough, which made her weak; evenings before sleep, from a smoky sensation in larynx, as from sulphur fumes; C. in evening, with nausea and retching; at night, he has to sit up as soon as it begins (Con., Hyosc.); fits of C. wake him at night, as if he would suffocate, and the throat becomes swollen (Lact.); when going into cold open air (Phos., Kali. c., Dulc.); when moving the body, frequently putting him out of breath suddenly; on drawing a deep breath or moving about; when he drinks without thirst; from tickling in larynx (Brom.); from a constrictive sensation in upper part of larynx, as from sulphur fumes; from irritation in air passages; < after drinking (Phos.); < morning, with expectoration of slimy purulent masses; < night, from tickling in throat, < speaking, causing pain in abdomen, with green expectoration.

Cough, with yellowish expectoration, and bronchitic râles in chest; with muco-crepitant râles (without dullness), in posterior part of lungs. Violent in morning. Spasmodic; lasted till heat of summer, with tendency to vomit; waking in middle of night, the coughing fits ending in bringing up a little clear phlegm; with spasmodic asthma, bronchitis and congestion of lungs. Asthmatic (Iod., Ip.). Short cough; in morning after the (usual) tea-drinking. Dry C. in evening, with dyspnoea; deep, dry, short C., increasing, after midnight. Frequent, short, dry, from a suffocative sensation in larynx, as from sulphur fumes. Dry, choking C., with short, labored breathing and sore pain as if ulcerated, extending from pit of stomach to middle of chest. Irritation to cough, with sore sensation in larynx.

Spitting of blood; with such nervous irritability that a current of air causes convulsions. The mucus coughed up is streaked with blood (Phos., Sulph.). Discharge of mucus streaked with blood, then nausea. Expectoration painful; thick yellow; green bitter, in morning; difficult to loosen.

Breath lost in evening on getting into bed, with constriction of trachea and wheezing in it like the sound of a fine string. Threatened with suffocation, he puts out his tongue. Imagines she will suffocate, being so weak that she cannot take a deep breath. (Sudden catarrh at night, threatening suffocation.) Suffocative sensation when walking in open air, obliging him to cough; when ascending stairs (Calc. c.). Asthma at midnight, making him spring up; in sleep; when fatigued, as from anguish; beginning with running from nose, then rapid exhaustion, then bronchitis and congestion of lungs (Iod., Aralia r.); spasmodic (Ip.); the breathing becoming weaker and shorter, until she can only breathe and talk very low by bending chest forward. Short anxious breathing. Short breathing; < walking; as if chest were contracted, after cough; and irregular; S., accelerated, moaning. Breathing difficult, with anguish; in sleep; when vexed; when reclining (Ac. ac.); with pain in r. chest and shoulder. Distressed, ending in asphyxia. Heavy breathing; as if chest were oppressed, during pain in abdomen. Painful breathing; from tender state of abdomen; inspiration painful. Hurried. Slow; and imperfect. Moaning; spends the night in moaning and groaning. Sighing.

Clinical.—Laryngeal catarrh, with dryness, burning, sensitiveness. Bronchitis, cough in the night, with rawness behind the larynx. Paroxysmal cough, with suffocation, < cold air. Capillary bronchitis, with extreme anxiety, puffiness of the face, etc. Emphysema, with excessive dyspnoea, suffocative cough, cold perspiration, etc. Asthmatic attacks coming on after midnight, suffocative, with cold sweat, burning in chest, extreme anguish. Asthma especially < cold changes of temperature, feeling of great constriction in air passages and gasping. Dy-pnoea from oedema of lungs in Bright's disease, consumption; consolidation of the lungs, with extreme prostration, fever, sweat, etc. Valuable for the cachexia which leads to chronic disease of the lungs. In all pulmonary troubles the cough is < after midnight, < lying on back, expectoration is very scanty, with general Arsenic symptoms. Angina pectoris.

Chest.—Muscles wasted, peculiar sunken appearance. Hollow between his chest and belly, into which "she could have laid her arm." Suffocative catarrh; catarrh and oppression of chest, with phlegm; wheezing, with bruised pain between shoulders. Cramp. Twitching.

Stitches; when stooping; in l. during deep inspiration, obliging to cough; in side under short ribs, she cannot lie on that side; when coughing in side of chest, then in side of abdomen; under ribs when coughing, and increased headache, as if heat were in it; upward on sides from talking; upward in sternum when coughing. Stitching-tearing in region of r. upper ribs. Stitching-tearing, tensive pressing and burning pain. Pain; in r. clavicle; at junction of upper and lower sternal regions; in r. side; in lower, on full inspiration; internally in upper part; in r. upper, ending in stitches, < breathing; tensive, < sitting; smarting pain along sternum.

Oppression; evening; wakes at night with O. or spasm in chest and anxiety; in region of sternum, making respiration difficult; when walking fast, coughing or ascending stairs; after eating, with pricking of skin, restlessness and desire for fresh air; with anxiety; sudden while walking, threatening suffocation, with weakness. Tightness; as soon as he walked a little; with dryness; as if bound by a hoop; he feels as if he must burst. Constriction crevings, with anxiety and restlessness; C. with heaviness; with short and hacking cough; so that he could scarcely speak and came near fainting. Heaviness on sternum. Weight on. Compressive sensation when eating.

Pneumonia of posterior lobes of lungs and partial consolidation of lower lobes of both sides. Inflammation of lungs. Congestion of lungs. Shock in apex of r. lung, with higher percussion sounds than in l., increased auscultation, vesicular murmur and large and fine moist râles. Soreness in chest, with rawness. Burning internally; with excruciating pain; extending below diaphragm; in r., extending to groin, where it is a pressure. Chilliness internally, in evening and after supper. Creeping internally. Lassitude when walking, with oppression of breathing.

Heart.—Sounds, especially the "choc," violent, not agreeing with the small pulse. Decided bruit de soufflet. Cramp. Pain in region; burning P. in region, with tumultuous beating of heart and feeling as if it were turning inside out and everything were spilling out of it. Precordial anxiety. Oppression in region. Sensation as if pressed down. Inflammation, and its results, dilatation and oedema of feet.

Irritable. Palpitation (Spig., Thea); at right (Sulph.); after stool, with tremulous weakness, so that he has to lie down; irregular, but so violent at 3 A.M. that he imagines he hears it, with anguish; visible and audible, at night; visible in carotid, causing beads of sweat on face; with profuse sweat; with vomiting; with small irregular pulse. Tumultuous beating, but no pulse. Violent action, and one hears a violent blowing sound, with full rapid pulse. Irregularity of heart's action and breathing. Beats faster and stronger when lying on back. Quick and faltering; and feeble, also with no pulse at wrist. Slow, with weak pulse. Weak; and irregular; almost imperceptible, small, irregular.

Clinical.—Very valuable in weak heart, which is irritable, rapid action on the slightest provocation. Tumultuous action of heart, palpitation. Irritable heart of smokers or of tea-drinkers. Occasionally indicated in inflammatory affections of the heart, endocarditis, hypertrophy, dropsy about the heart.

Pulse.—Rapid; weak and irregular (Dig.); weak and unequal, with occasional indication of fluttering; soft and jerking; full and hard; sharp, but easily compressible; hard, irregularly accelerated; full and compressible, then fluttering, then weak. Slow and hardish. Tense; and small. Full and strong. Feeble; and small. Small, contracted and intermitting. Restless, small, increased after repeated vomiting. Pulseless; with frequent, irritated beating of heart.

Neck.—Drawn by spasms to l. side and backward. Distortion of muscles. Painless swelling. Swelling of an artery on l. side when stooping. Neuralgia on l. side, then paralyzed feeling. Pain in morning on waking, across nape and shoulders; P. in vertebrae on pressure; cramplike P. on l. side. Stiffness; of nape; of nape as if bruised or sprained, night and morning, and a similar pain over hips. Lost the use of muscles of nape.

Back.—Pain; with uneasiness and anxiety; with weakness and inclination to lie down, which did not relieve; with painful drawing on external surface of extremities. Beating, drawing and stitching pain at night in back, small of back and thighs. Bruised pain; and across scapulae. Burning pain, < sitting up. Drawing pain in forenoon. Drawing up and down. Gurgling movements in muscles of l. side when lying on r. side. Weakness.

Spine.—Unmistakable alteration of cord, which may manifest itself as myelitis centralis acuta or poliomyelitis acuta, in more chronic cases inflammation may result, not only of the gray substance, but of the white also, constituting a diffuse myelitis (comp. Phos.). Tearing in lower part. Acute pain in lower part. Neuralgia at top, extending to vertex. Stiffness beginning in region of os coccygis. Weakness, with coldness and tenderness.

Pain across scapulae, extending down arms. Drawing pain between scapulae, obliging him to lie down. Pain in region of two last dorsal vertebrae. Stitches in region of kidneys when inspiring and sneezing. Loins, tense tearing, especially below curve of l. rib, where it is sensitive to touch; pain; pain after vomiting; periodical pain; bruised pain; drawing pain from loins to shoulders, with stitches in sides and flatus moving about in abdomen and pressing up, > eructations; painful contraction over anus, towards loins; weakness; painful stiffness. Drawing from sacrum to nape, causing trunk to bend backward.

Extremities.—Nails lost; badly colored; altered color and peeled off; livid, violet; dirty yellowish brown, with longitudinal furrows and cracks; changed color nearly every month, at first fiery red, then black, as if suffused with blood, then new nails, which were thin and transparent. Swelling. Atrophy of muscles. Hands and feet as if mummified, so that the skin hung in folds about the bones, which protruded.

Hands and feet wasted, so that joints protruded, and so paralyzed that nothing could be held firmly, the feet would not permit him to rise, on stepping he always planted the flat sole and on walking dragged his feet like weights.

Convulsions; with rigidity and pain. Distortion. Twitching; with painful drawings starting from back. Startings on falling asleep. Stretching from time to time and remaining in that condition several moments on account of relaxation, then vomiting with renewed violence. Contractions; in knees and elbows; drawing together of upper and lower. Toes and fingers continually flexed, > after profuse loss of blood by vomiting and from anus, after being bent straight they appeared dead, but, after a warm bath, life returned to hands and feet, and the toes and fingers again remained bent. Contraction of flexors of four last fingers of both hands and of all toes, the two last phalanges flexed upon the first and the balls of fingers and toes rested on palms and soles, so that walking was difficult. Cramp; with rigor and numbness; in legs and arms. Trembling; after a moderate walk; after vomiting; with jerking; of r. arm and lower extremity; in hands and feet, with prickling. Hands and feet constantly agitated.

Stitches in hands and feet. Tearing; in long bones; in arms and lower limbs, < lying on affected side, > motion of affected part; sudden tearing jerking or stitching in thumb or big toe in morning in bed, changing to a burning. Gnawing in legs and arms; as of rats, or like the boring of a gimlet into bones. Neuralgia in arms and legs. Pain; with stiffness; with dread of moving them; with feeling of sickness; occasional, in joints, as shoulder and knee. Wandering pain; especially in arms, which were weak. Arthritic pain in shoulders and hips. Drawing pain; > by exercise; in joints of knees, feet and hands; in evening in foot and middle finger. Sensitiveness of muscles. Uneasiness before retiring, > lying down.

Weakness (Phos., Merc., Plumb., Verat., Mur. ac.); < r. side; paralytic, at a certain hour every day; with stiffness, so that it was difficult to hold anything and his gait became stumbling; especially from knees to toes, with crawling; of wrists and ankles, with stiffness and pain; in joints in forenoon, < sitting, with pain; of hands and feet, with trembling feeling in morning; of fingers and toes as the gastro-enteritis got better, slowly extending to knees and wrists, with numbness.

Heaviness. Stiffness; of fingers and toes; < l. with diminished sensibility (of all joints, with inability to stretch himself because of tension in whole body, and with stiffness and coldness of knees, so that he tied handkerchiefs around them, otherwise they were painful and disturbed sleep). Tingling; in hands and feet, with burning. Creeping as if asleep. Falling asleep, with insensibility; of r. arm and foot. Numbness; in arms and legs, also with pain; in arms and legs, with prickling and weight, like being asleep, arms > raising them in an upright position; of hands and feet, also with pains day and night, preventing sleep; in hands and feet, with paralysis; of finger-tips, and in feet, where there was occasional cutting; of soles, and diminished sensation in hands; of limbs, with pain across shoulders, extending down arms. Diminished sensibility; in finger-tips, spreading over hands and arms, then in toes, spreading over feet and legs.

Ataxia of muscles, with gait as in excessive chorea, and the hands could hardly be held up. Lost the use of hands and feet, legs and arms, there was little sensation below instep, with soreness in arch of r. foot on motion and pressure, cramps in all muscles of lower limbs at once, especially in plantaris of r. leg, with neuralgic pain in forearm and legs below hips, the pains increasing to a climax, then gradually diminishing, < cold air or water and between 9.30 p.m. and 8 a.m., the paralysis was both of sensation and motion, though the paralyzed parts were sensitive to cold. Paralysis; with anæsthesia and violent pains; sometimes general and affects both upper and lower limbs; of feet, hands and arms; of arms and legs, with pain in muscles and in bowels; of l. arm and leg, with sensibility of skin and coldness in limbs.

Paresis, with crampy pains in feet, calves, hands and abdomen, no use of arms or legs, great muscular atrophy, tremor, no patellar reflex, but slight hyperæsthesia, later hand and feet felt numb and prickling, itching over body and limbs, fornication of feet, sensation of a tight cord around waist, "throat felt as if gone at times," legs flexed and contracted, extension caused pain in flexor muscles and tendons, muscæ volitantes, dropping of wrists and ankles. Paradic reactions of nerves and muscles of limbs lost, daily a fainting spell, with dyspnœa, cardiac sounds feeble, later lower limbs œdematous, difficulty in flexing fingers into palms, tabetic gait, two apparent gastric crises of locomotor ataxia, diarrhœa, nausea, colic, trembling, etc.

Upper Extremities.—Weakness, with retraction of flexors of fingers. Axilla, (glandular swelling); tearing sticking in r.; soreness in; tingling in. Shoulder, cramplike sensation in l.; neuralgia, afterwards extending to groins, thorax and back, abdomen became tympanitic and muscular paraplegia slowly ensued; neuralgic pain extending to fingers, with numbness; unbearable pain in l.; drawing pain.

Arm.—Painful swelling of r., and hand. Constant motion as if picking at something above the head. Tearing at night in bed, especially in elbow and wrist. Sudden peculiar neuralgia in l. after meals; N. of l., then paralyzed feeling. Pain in A., of that side on which he lies at night; P. < l., which was weak; in l. ulnar nerves; drawing. Weakness. Going to sleep of r. if he lies on r. side. Immobility of l. Pain in elbows and fingers; rheumatic P. in r. elbow. Swelling of r. forearm, with pain. Drawing pain in styloid processes every evening. Weakness of wrists, and the fingers could neither grasp nor hold anything smaller than the crutches, which they could hold a little, though there was no sensation in finger-tips even when injured.

Hand.—Swollen. Deep furrows in interosseous spaces in dorsa, the H. looking like skeletons, the palms forming deep concavities. Never recovered their fulness and strength, and the "navus" almost disappeared. Contractions. Cramp when moving it. Trembling (Merc.). Drawing tearing in metacarpal bones in morning. Tearing sticking in bones of H. and of little finger. Pain on extension. Drawing in l., with cramps. Sensitiveness of palms, yet he does not know whether he has taken hold of an object. Weakness. Stiffness and insensibility. Neither extension nor flexion was complete. Motion less impaired than in arm and forearm, especially the ability to bend forearm on arm is almost lost. Numbness, with swelling. Paralysis, beginning with heaviness, without wasting.

Fingers.—(Hard swelling, with pain in bones of fingers.) Ungual phalanges wasted and nails hard, brittle, clawlike. Clenched. Flexed; half-flexed. Two last phalanges of all F. are bent on the first; and the tips touch the palm. F. and hands moved in sleep. Trembling, with occasional creepings in hands and feet. Tonic spasms, cramps, < night in bed; of r. on attempting to stretch them. Painful cramp in lowest joints of all; in tips from morning till noon. Pain in joints when moved. Drawing pain in middle. Drawing from tips into shoulders, with jerking and tearing. Could not be moved; could be bent, but not extended. Fuzziness extending up arm, ending in loss of sensation. Sensation blunted as far as wrists. Insensibility; of l. fourth and fifth; as if everything stagnated. Tingling creeping to shoulders, with burning.

Lower Extremities.—(Edema (Apis., Merc., Plumb.)). Painful swelling. Wasting. Retracted to abdomen. Twitching. Trembling. Unsteadiness when walking across an open place, with vertigo. Tottering; and stumbling, as if stiff, with slipping outward of feet. Gait heavy, "slumpy," and it is difficult to raise himself after eating. Painful shocks. Painful cramps. Tearing; from top to bottom, with inability to tread, sit or lie, had to shake the limb to and fro day and night, or else limp about and had no rest, < night; on motion, especially in knee and tarsal joint. Tearing sticking, apparently in periosteum, down to tip of big toe (Nit. ac.). Pain; especially in joints; drawing. Uneasiness, he cannot be still at night and has to move his feet all the time or walk, to get relief (Rhus t.). Weakness; with heaviness. Sensation as if they would break down when descending stairs. Can walk only a few minutes very slowly. Hyperæsthesia. Wooden sensation. Asleep. Stiffness. Can scarcely be rotated. Immobility; with tearing. Paralysis; with insensibility (Phos.); partial P. and desquamation of cuticle.

Muscles of thigh feeble and soft, calf flabby, foot extended so that the back of it formed a line with the spine of the tibia, while the inner margin of the foot was turned inward and upward and the plantar surface looked inward and backward, the instep formed an angle with the tibia directed inward and forward, the joints of ankle and foot were weak, on flexing the leg the foot could be moved in a loose manner, toes flexed and motion restricted.

Thigh.—Convulsions, and of legs. Jerking in hip, then cough, which it seems to incite. Painful cramp-like contractions of bundles of muscles of T. and calves in evening in bed, toes being drawn inward, then he became very weak. Paroxysmal cramp-pain of single parts of muscles of T. and legs, and when feeling the parts a jerking as of something alive. Pricking in r. hip. Drawing tearing in hips and l. foot in morning after a sleepless night. Drawing tearing from anterior surface of thigh to knee and tarsal joint when walking. Sciatica. Intermittent pain extending along crural nerve as far as heel and toes. Pain in anterior and inner part of T. on rising in morning. Soreness between T., with itching. Stiffness as after a long walk, with the headache; S. over hips as if bruised or sprained, night and morning, and a similar pain in nape.

Knee.—Starting as from an electric shock after dreaming directly after lying down that he is going to knock his foot against a stone. Pain. Bruised pain in side when touched and when sitting, sensation as if the flesh were detached. Bruised or sprained pain in l. < rising from a seat. Sensation as if bandaged tightly. Tension in bend when sitting and standing, as if tendons were too short, > walking. Weakness; r. unable to support body. Stiffness, especially of K. and feet, alternating with tearing; S., and in ankles. Paralysis.

Leg.—Swelling; and of feet; to above calves, preceded by tearing in calves, which went off by application of warm cloths. Dwindling. Calf is hard and as if pressed flat, with cramp-pain, the whole leg cold, insensible and stiff, then tension in calf and a sort of paralysis of leg. Convulsions; and of knees. Twitching; in afternoon when sitting. Contractions of extensors. Convulsive contractions in calves; in legs, with bending up under thigh. Strange nervous affection, with pain and stiffness: Cramp; till 11 P.M.; with diarrhoea; and of feet. Cramp in calves (Cupr.); when walking; < night in bed. Cramp-pain in leg in morning, ending in humming or buzzing. Tearing during the shuddering; T. in tibia; in r. calf when sitting; drawing, from bend of knee to heel, as if sprained. Tearing sticking in lower part. Boring in r. tibia. Drawing, tearing and jerking from ankles to knees. Tearing drawing in tibia. Pain; and in feet; on touch; when stretched; in calves; especially in joints; drawing P. when resting perpendicularly upon floor while sitting; pulsating, in head of l. tibia; (jerking from upper to lower part). Muscular soreness. Clucking. Weakness. Heaviness; with weariness; with weariness and drawing, < morning, with bending, unsteadiness and weakness in knees. Feeling as of a weight hanging from them. When he turns on l. side he can easily move the whole r. leg inward or outward, the toes still point towards l. leg, but in l. leg these motions are impossible, and the voluntary extension of feet is impossible. Stiffness; of the swollen legs and feet during and after the fever, with pain. Numbness of legs and feet; with tingling (Phos.). Prick of a pin had no effect on l., and a hard pinch was requisite to excite motion in r. Paralysis.

Ankle.—Swelling without redness but with tearing, which can be > application of warmth. Tearing; around ankles and on dorsum of feet when lying down, with nausea. Pain on touch.

Foot.—Edematous; with exhaustion. Swelling; then weakness, then heaviness of them; with numbness and creeping in lower limbs; hard, red-blue, green-yellow and painful; shining hot, extending above ankles, with round red spots, causing burning pain. Drawing, so that he cannot hold it still and can step only cautiously. Trembling. Dragged loosely when walking, when lying they lie relaxed and fallen down. Steps flat with the whole sole when walking. Cramps; and in legs to knees, > warm applications and friction. Stitches in outer border; in soles; in bottom of l. heel when treading, extending to posterior surface of thigh. Tearing in heels; in metatarsal articulations, with stitches, and with stitches in joints when treading or walking, as if feet were sprained, and ankles feel sore and painful when touched; prickling T. in a corn at night in bed. Pain; < motion; < on appearance of menses; in soles on stepping. Sprained-pain when in unnatural position and on a misstep; in joints, on top of instep, when stepping. Pain in heels as if they had lain in a hard place, in morning on waking. Prickling pains from soles to about two inches above knees, with sensation lost in l. leg and impaired in r. and loss of motion in both. Numb pain in r., with inability to raise it when sitting except with the hand. Weakness; on great exertion; gave way beneath him. Fuzziness, extending a hand's breadth above ankle, with falling asleep and coldness; in soles, with formation and pain, the numbness and pain gradually extending up calves and thighs, with cutting. Soles feel as if made of wood and do not feel the ground. Numbness, with stiffness, insensibility and occasional swelling and pain. Stiffness, with weakness. Could be moved only when lying. Paralysis; preceded by vomiting.

Toes.—Drawn downward (Cupr.). Contracted so that the tips touch the soles, walking is difficult and standing upright causes pain. Flexed, can be extended a little by exertion of the will, but easily with the hand, and her gait is difficult and awkward. Weakness. (Stiffness so that she could not walk.) Numbness to knees (Phos.). Paralysis of extensors and flexors.

Clinical.—Sciatica coming on at night, > heat, burning pains, anguish.

Skin.—White and pasty-looking; W. as in infants, then yellow and scaly, producing an irritating eruption all over body, with a strong and peculiar smell. Blue; in spots on abdomen, genitals and in white of eye; in spots anteriorly on thighs, not removed by pressure. Blue, corrugated and feeling as if parboiled. Yellow on neck; yellow spots on chest; upper part of chest; and brown, with rare perspiration; then dusky brown. Livid on arms; on anterior part of chest and neck; dark and L. on hands and lower half of forearm, as in malignant cholera. Smutty, mottled, especially on limbs. Smutty brown, especially on uncovered parts. Red over whole body, with moisture; R. spots over whole body; redness of hand, with red points extending half way up forearm. Spots of purpura on neck. Anemic, lustreless, parchment-like and could be raised in thin folds from the underlying tissues, especially as all fat had disappeared. Hard and horny on toes, especially little toes, which pained like a burning and made walking difficult. Dry; and rough; and cracked, also scaly, very sore, with a strong and peculiar smell. Pet-chize (Phos., Sec. c.); on trunk and thighs; purple, on chest and neck; red, circumscribed, in evening, painful, moist, and burning after scratching.

Eruptions; around mouth (Rhus t.), burning and painful; over whole body; chiefly on hands, forearms, scrotum and thighs; on forehead; colorless, biting, around whole neck, on shoulders and on sides; rough cracked, dirty, brownish-red on neck, bosom and shoulder, with burning and itching, which were always < during coryza; reddish-brown, rough in patches on chest anteriorly; itching, dry brownish-red in irregular patches on waist and bosom; painful black. Rash red, scorbutic; over whole body, falling off in scales (Hydrocotyle); with such pains all over that he could not turn in bed; red anteriorly on body, spreading to whole body except face, skin red, swollen, covered with fine blisters, with itching and burning, disturbing sleep, then desquamation. Miliary eruption; on forehead, wrists and feet; with amelioration of all symptoms and re-establishment of urinary discharge, then mealy scales. Nettle-rash; especially on abdomen. Blotches on forehead; on hands, with pimples; small white, and the skin colored, smarting and painful, the pain generally < at night; large red blotches, and partially in wheals, on face and neck, spreading over whole body.

Swelling of all parts around orbits; painless under l. eye, soft, partly closing eye (Rhus t.); like a nut on each frontal eminence, < evening; of ears, with erysipelatous redness and blisters, which soon discharge and become gangrenous looking; of l. hand, forearm and axillary glands, with inflammation of hand, and purple patches gradually covering arm and side. (Edema of head, face, eyes, neck and chest. General erysipelas, with sensation of a devouring fire.

Desquamation; from head to foot; of whole body except head; of the cuticle and skin of tongue; scaling and irritating eruptions, which nothing relieves but Turkish baths. Eruption on face dried into scabs, and nose and lids scaled. Eruption on face dries, here and there scabs fall off, and on l. concha new blisters form.

Pimples on hands, chest and forehead; on thumb; around mouth; burning, causing anguish; red, conical, over hands and fingers, with itching, which is < by scratching; painful nodes on r. arm; small, on several parts, causing burning pain, but not much itching; pointed, with itching, > scratching in region of l. temple, exuding bloody water when scratched and painful and sore when rubbed; itching, between eyebrows, exuding bloody water and then filled with pus; whitish pointed, the tips filled with watery fluid, with burning itching, on hands, between fingers and on abdomen, the fluid flows out on scratching and the itching disappears. Inflamed spot on l. side of face, by the parotids, red, solid, painful, appearing yellow on pressure. Inflammation of lower part of abdomen, penis, scrotum and upper part of thighs, with ulcerations in some places, burning pain and constitutional derangement.

Deep gangrene (Sec. c.). Whitlow. Abscesses on hands, then pain in wrists and arms; on posterior side of arm above wrist, on opening it copious discharge of thick yellow pus, with denudation of surface of ulna. Boils; which refuse to heal; on back; digging burning pain in the boil in groin when touched. Sores on head and neck. Pustules; on forehead; face; l. cheek; about angles of mouth; on chest; on neck and arms, especially painful at night; pale red, between thumb and index, with pain < in evening; itchlike, then desquamation and itching; as in varioloid, on face and upper part of body; partly confluent, easily torn open, changed to thick crusts and left scars, on forehead, about eyes, on cheek-bones, shoulders, upper part of arm and chest.

Blistering of feet. Vesicles covering face; about mouth; black, causing burning; on face, with itching; coalescing, surrounded by a red base, over ear and on nose; over whole body except limbs, with inflamed appearance of skin between them; containing clear watery liquid, on inner side of thumbs; filled with yellow fluid, on the red inflamed part of face, the redness and inflammation spreading about nose and mouth. Discrete papulo-vesicular eruption on trunk and upper limbs, with itching < at night. Shingles. (Ran. b., Rhus t.). Eczema. Herpes-like spot on side of neck, and upon face, with itching and burning, l. then

r.; red herpetic skin around mouth. (Itchlike eruption, especially in bends of knees.)

Ulcers on face; which did not yield to treatment; around lips; cancerous, ulcer necessitating amputation of the limb; on leg, with gray crust and surrounded by an inflamed border, it is burning and painful; with very high edges; much coagulated blood comes out; on heels, discharging ichorous matter. Burning pain in ulcers. Burning in border of ulcer and teeing in U. itself; around ulcer, which is fetid and suppurates, with faintness and drowsiness in daytime. Tearing in U. Painful ulcers, < morning, with dark-brown, thin, bloody pus under a thin scurf, with single stitches while sitting, the stitches > standing and still more walking. Suppuration and swelling around the spreading U., especially on abdomen, genitals and inside of thighs. Fleshy excrescences spring up from U. on fingers, they soon become decayed, blue and green, with viscid ichor, spreading an intolerable odor. Painful sensitiveness of old U. previously painless.

Stitches; slow, hot, here and there. Pain; burning P. < walking, in the horny skin on toes, especially little toes. Prickling over whole body; after eating, with restlessness, oppression of chest and desire for fresh air. Tickling in l. palm. Sensibility or irritation, with vesicles, sometimes nettle-rash or the eruption of scarlet fever. Smarting and itching disturbing him at night, forcing him to apply cold water compresses, he got a little sleep about 4 A.M. Formication, with trembling (Phos.); F. on r. arm and forearm; hands and feet; hands at night; fingers and toes toward evening; in lower limbs. Habit of picking fingers and lips till they bleed (Arum tri.).

Itching over whole body; with exhalation of back all night; with blotches and rawness; under r. ear, with pimples; on backs of fingers, with pointed papule between fingers; at inner surface of thighs, afterwards becoming seated on l. side of scrotum, with redness of that side only and of posterior part of penis, and with heat. Tickling I. in r. middle finger. Creeping I. in thighs as far as abdomen and in loins and nates; tickling creeping I. of r. big toe, as in a healing wound. Burning I.; with pain after scratching; around eyes and temples as if pricked with red-hot needles. Biting I. on forearm near wrist; of thighs; r. thigh near groin.

Clinical.—Eruptions on face. The skin diseases requiring Arsenic are, as a rule, dry, scaly, with soreness, intense itching and burning. In unhealthy states of the skin and in low fevers we may have ulcerations and even gangrenous sloughs. It is sometimes, but rarely, indicated in vesicular and even pustular eruptions, when the general symptoms of the patient correspond. It has earned a great number of indurations and tumors even after the ulcerative stage has been reached. In all these (numerous) diseases the general indications must be followed.

Sleep.—Yawning; after eating, with weakness; with stretching. Sleepiness; in daytime when sitting; sleepiness, but no sleep. Sleepiness alternating with restlessness. Slumber and slight delirium. Sleep between acts of vomiting. Heavy sleep; with tendency to walk in sleep. Sleep at night alternates with raving and different visions. Drowsiness interrupted by uneasy dreams and anxiety.

Sleeplessness; till 3 A.M.; with restlessness, and moaning; with creeping in abdomen; with fainting fits. Startings of various kinds in evening when falling asleep; tossing about, sleeps only at times after 3 A.M. Restless; and disturbed by dreams; and disturbed till 1:30.

A.M. by attacks of cough, anxiety and heat; with feeling as if a chill were coming on; tries to uncover, jumps out of bed, with a fixed stare, and tears her clothes off. General sick feeling in sleep. He hears every sound during the morning slumber, yet dreams. Moaning in sleep in evening; M. < about 3 A.M., with tossing about. Talking and quarreling. Loud talking and indistinct murmuring with half-closed eyes. He complains in sleep of headache, now in forehead, now in occiput. Light sleep, with muttering delirium. Feeling in morning as if she had not slept enough; with weary eyes and inability to get out of bed.

Dreams, uninterrupted, about thunderstorms, fire, black water and darkness; full of care, sorrow and fear, disturbing sleep; full of care and danger, he wakes with a cry and when asleep dreams of something else; full of care, he wakes and then continues his dream. Anxious; while falling asleep, he wants to cry out, but cannot, and is suddenly waked by that cry, which he hears yet. D. and nightmare, and the dreams hovered before his mind even during the day, disquieting him. Frightful. Full of threats, apprehension or repentance. Vivid, vexatious. About death, catalepsy, did not know where she was on waking. Sexual, with emissions.

Fever.—Chilliness; in daytime, then thirst, in evening heat in face; in afternoon, with shuddering about head, stretching and drawing in limbs, then chilliness and goose-flesh, from 8 till 9 P.M., heat over body, especially face, without sweat, with cold hands and feet; towards evening; then heat; towards evening, then sweat without heat; towards evening, with drowsiness, general sick feeling, as after a paroxysm of fever, after midnight sweat on thighs, the attack returning at same hour two days afterwards; evening in bed; in evening and in morning on waking; every day at 3 P.M., with hunger; > after a meal; at night in bed; on waking, or fever; on entering house, then hicough, then general sweat, then again hicough; when talking or moving about, with ill humor and flushes of heat, then redness of face, with chilliness; before vomiting, then heat of skin, which is cold to touch; after the heat.

Coldness, with chattering of teeth, distortion of facial muscles and trembling; of body and dryness of skin alternating with cold sweat; general C., with profuse sweat; with cold feet, yet he began to sweat; with dryness of whole body, especially hands and feet; with chattering teeth, but red and hot forehead; with internal heat like fulness or fire in vessels; then dry heat of skin; alternating with heat; with alternating burning pain in stomach and anxiety. Internal C. in afternoon, with external heat and red cheeks. Internal C., but not external, or else heat internal, but not external, except perhaps in palm.

Shivering; in morning, alternating with heat; in forenoon without thirst, with spasms in chest, pain in whole body and a kind of inability to use one's senses, then heat, with thirst, then sweat and roaring in ears; every day at 5 P.M.; every evening before retiring; when walking in open air; after dinner; after drinking; from slightest chill from dampness or sitting in a cold church, with abdominal pain, diarrhoea, rapid loss of strength and distressed countenance; during the pains, then thirst; > after dinner (rare alternate effect); without thirst; with shaking of head; with heat of external ear, anguish and gnawing in pit of stomach and nausea; general, with hot forehead, warm face and cold hands, or with warm forehead, hot cheeks and cold hands; is apt to be accompanied with other ailments; after drinking, as from disgust. Feverish S.; every evening.

Ague, quotidian, sometimes tertian. Chilliness every other day at 6 P.M., with weariness of thighs and bruised feeling, on third day at 5 P.M. inclination to lie down, then chilliness over whole body without thirst, then heat without thirst, and oppressive aching in forehead. Intermittent fever, chilly between 8.30 and 9 A.M., after getting out of bed, till 1 P.M., with chattering of teeth, nails and lips blue, sometimes sickness on waking, bad taste, desire for much cold drink, pulse feeble, wants to lie down, be quiet and wrapped up, breath offensive, tongue brown, then fever till 4 or 5 P.M., with full pulse, frontal pain, not much thirst, especially hot to touch on abdomen, with pain there, feet and hands cold objectively, cannot bear draught of air, breath offensive, tongue brown, then well till 6 P.M., when there is slight chill lasting till 8 P.M., then heat again, bad dreams, sleeplessness after 3 A.M. Coldness and numbness of whole r. side, especially of arm and hand, with frequent exhaustion. Coldness of nose and ears; tip of nose, and pinched; face; face in afternoon; face, with blue nose and lips; gaze and hands, with cold sweat on them; l. side of face colder than r.; sensation as if cold water were poured down back; of trunk and limbs. Cold limbs, with the diarrhoea; limbs in afternoon; and pulseless; limbs cold, with pain in abdomen; C. limbs bedewed with clammy sweat; l. arm colder than r.; C. forearms. Cold hands and feet; in evening, and about abdomen. Coldness of lower limbs (Sec. c.); with stiffness and without power of motion; especially of knees and feet, covered with cold sweat; from calves to feet in evening. Cold feet; with fever; with contracted pulse; soles cold.

Heat; at 2 A.M., warmth over whole body, sweat on face and feet, tension in hypochondria and epigastrium, causing colic and anxiety; heat at sunrise, in bed, with sweat on face and dryness of forepart of mouth, without thirst; in afternoon with thirst; every evening; from 4 to 6 o'clock, with sweat; at 10 P.M., with redness of whole body, then sweat; at night, without thirst or sweat; H. at night, with restlessness and with pulsations in limbs, hindering sleep; < evening; > morning and < night. Heat, with thirst; H. with delirium; with rapid, hard pulse; with restlessness; with sore throat and rash; with headache and sensitiveness in region of stomach; with pain in shoulders and nape; with vertigo, flashes of light and apparent motion of stationary objects, twitching of limbs and intermittent pulse; with diarrhoea, slight hypertrophy of spleen, spasm of glottis, anorexia, nausea and headache, after three weeks the fever and intestinal symptoms ceased, but appetite did not return, tongue furred, blepharitis, after some days seized every evening by chills, followed by heat.

Anxious heat. Internal heat; after midnight, with anxiety and inclination to uncover; while vomiting, with thirst; after diarrhoea, with thirst, and external, as from too much wine, with thirst for beer. Heat alternating with chill. Typhus-like fever, with restlessness, alternating with stupor. Tertian intermittent fever. Fever at same hour for several days. Remittent fever, only flushing heat, chiefly felt in præcordial region and forehead, sometimes ending in partial or general sweats, but usually there is only heat beginning in stomach and præcordial region, passing to rest of body, especially felt in forehead and eyebrows. Hectic fever. Irritative fever, with weakness, fainting and vomiting of bile. Unpleasant sensation through body like a sort of fever, and when lying the head is hot, especially ears, but knees are cold. Feeling as if blood in arteries were boiling hot. Burning in all veins on the frequent waking at night. Sensation as if the blood coursed through the veins too rapidly or were too hot, with small, rapid pulse. Burning flush over whole body. Heat over whole body except hands.

Heat in head when coughing; in head on waking, with colic; on vertex, with disposition to lie with hands over head; H. on scalp of vertex; in outer ear in evening. Heat in face at 7 p. m.; in face and body at beginning of pains; with redness; with flushes and anxiety; with itching, during which the pain in face diminishes; with pain in abdomen. Heat in hands and feet. Feeling as if hot water ran down calf, from knee to ankle, l. then r. Burning in soles, in toes, gradually rising above ankle. Hot skin; and dry. Burning in skin of finger. Hot skin and flushed face, with occasional vomiting and shuddering, when the paroxysm of pain and nausea came on relief only on sitting up, bending forward and pressing on stomach, relief after vomiting.

Sweat; in morning, till he rises; in forenoon, with heaviness of head, roaring in ears and trembling; nights; in bed, causing faintness; when beginning to sleep, > after a little sleep; on least exertion; after vomiting; after the fever; with desire to drink all the time; with diuresis; with griping in bowels, then loose stool, then keen appetite and excitement. Moist skin, with cold limbs. Sweat on face; mornings on waking; on hands and thighs at beginning of sleep, > after a little sleep; about lower limbs at night, especially about knees; on legs in morning; on legs at night. Sweat copious; offensive; over whole body; on feet. Cold; returning towards evening and disappearing rapidly. Cold, on forehead, also after exercise; cold on face, also on limbs; over whole body, especially hands and feet. Cold, clammy. Clammy.

Clinical.—Malarial fevers of various sorts, with profound prostration. A great variety of intermittent fevers, with the general indication of inequality between the three stages; the febrile stage is generally greatly prolonged; either the cold or sweating stage, or both, may be suppressed, with the general Arsenic symptoms of great restlessness, prostration, thirst, irritability of stomach and bowels, etc. In low types of typhoid fevers, with the Arsenic characteristics frequently enumerated. In typhus fever; in blood poisoning; hectic fever; yellow fever; in short, in a great variety of low types of fever, with tendency to disorganization of the blood and other tissues. Eruptive fevers, sometimes in scarlet fever. In hemorrhagic measles.

Arsenicum hydrogen.

The gas may be passed into distilled water and kept in a cold dark place; it rapidly decomposes.

General Action, like Arsenic, but much more violent. Compare Ars., Phos., Carb. ac., K. clc.

Generalities.—Pale blood exuded from the mucous membrane and from the prepuce. Anæmia, with systolic bruit de souffle at apex, in consequence of retention of poison in the body, from lack of urinary secretion, as well as fatty degeneration of heart and paralysis of that organ, finally anguish, pain in region of liver, cold limbs and nettle-rash. Epilepsy. has become nearly imbecile. Twitching of muscles of forearms, then contractions of facial muscles. > warm bath. Malaise; indefinable. Difficulty of motion. Restlessness. Syncope. Weakness; on waking; sudden, indescribable W., with nausea. Hands as far as middle of forearm, feet as far as near knees, nose, eyebrows, became dead, pulse ceased, and every sign of life left these parts, though they could be moved. All hair on "deadened parts" became snowy white, and the white brows formed a strange contrast to the dark-brown face. Crawling in the deadened limbs (as they became restored), especially in nose.

Mind.—Delirium, with desire to escape from bed; slight D., but he answers all questions clearly after some hesitation. Anxiety; while vomiting, with belief that death is near and despair of being better. Disinclination to work. Sopor.

Head.—Aching; during chill; with dulness of head; sudden, then pain in epigastric region, with renewed vomiting, pale tongue, great thirst, features again altered, sclerotic yellow, prostration. Vertigo; on ascending stairs, so that he staggered against the sides of the stairs; with cephalalgia, nausea and vomiting; with pain in stomach, prostration, cerebral congestion, fever, dim sight, indigestion, nausea and griping; with weakness; sudden, with fainting and vomiting. Aching in forehead; after eating. < at night, with weakness.

Eyes, Nose and Face.—Eyes sunken, lustreless, conjunctiva bulbi red; E. yellow, sunken, with blue circles about them; sclerotic injected with blood of a yellow color; E. watery. Violent sneezing, with coldness of nose. Nose and lips excoriated. Face yellowish; pale; bronzed; features drawn; expression as in cholera; hippocratic. Lips colorless.

Mouth and Throat.—Gums pale, discolored, bleeding easily. Fulgigo on tongue and gums. Tongue yellow; red and foul; dry and coated; dry, whitish. Mouth dry and sticky. Blood oozed from mucous membrane of mouth and accumulated on anterior pillars of palate, exhaling a nauseous odor. Taste sweetish; bitter. Constriction of throat; with burning. Dysphagia.

Stomach.—Appetite lost. Great thirst. Eructations; spasmodic, of much gas, without relief of the pain in the abdomen that causes moaning. Nausea and vomiting. Incessant retching and vomiting. Vomiting; of food; of everything taken into stomach; greenish; of bitter green mucus, with the colic. Pain; in epigastrium, also on pressure of hand; in epigastric region during chill. Cutting in epigastric region and below it. Heat. Distress about heart and stomach, then profuse vomiting. Irritation, with acrid burning from pharynx to lower end of alimentary canal, vomiting of food, then of bile, ultimately of coffee-grounds-looking matter, consisting of broken-down blood corpuscles and epithelium of stomach and lower part of œsophagus, constipation, three or four pints of bloody urine, fever, full, hard, frequent pulse, dry, hot skin, burning pain in alimentary canal, deep-seated pain in lumbar region, restlessness, anxiety, pale, anxious face and prostration.

Abdomen and Stool.—Spleen and liver at first diminished in volume, later hypertrophied. Tympanitic A. Distention during chill. Colic. Heat in A., with cold extremities. Intestinal hæmorrhage. Desire for stool. Bloody stool; frequent blackish S.; bilious. Diarrhœa. Obstinate constipation.

Urinary and Sexual Organs.—Strangury. Ischuria and bloody urine. Dysuria and hæmaturia, with arsenic in urine, and disorganized cells of blood, abundant desquamation of epithelium from renal canaliculi, with small proportion of albumen and hæmoglobuline, uric acid during convalescence. Urine suppressed. Scanty and bloody; and black. Hæmaturia (Canth., Phos., Ter., Senec.). Almost black (Ph., K. clc., Carb. ac.); reddish black, forming a thick clot of blood. Copious, black urine, with sensitiveness of renal region to pressure, enlargement of liver and spleen, hæmoglobinuria, jaundice, afterwards urine decreased from day to day and was lighter in color, at last total anuria. Foreskin and glands covered with pustules, leaving round superficial ulcers, sixty-five on outside of foreskin alone.

Clinical.—Sudden suppression of menses, with internal chills for three days, followed by tearing pains in hands and feet, confused head, ringing in ears, loss of appetite, thirst, with vomiting of everything, rumbling in bowels, sleeplessness, diarrhœa of red mucus, tongue dry, red, cracked, expectoration of viscid dark mucus, cough at night caused retching and vomiting; Ars. failed, but Ars. hydrog. cured immediately.

Respiratory Organs and Chest.—Voice whispering. Respiration difficult; anxious, frequent moaning, rapid. Ronchi in lungs. Oppression of chest during chill; O., with weakness. Constriction at suprasternal notch; at base of lung with quick breathing.

Pulse, Neck and Back.—Pulse rapid; and small; R. and weak. Tearing in neck during chill. Pain in kidney region; with urging to urinate. Unpleasant pressive feeling in kidney region, which rapidly increased and spread up back to between shoulders. Pain in lumbar region.

Extremities.—Trembling. Painful contractions. Pain. Weakness. Tearing in upper, during chill. A kind of stiffening of upper, which afterwards extended to lower and caused pricking. Pain in elbows and upper arms; in lower limbs, < R. Rheumatic tearing in knees. Walked with difficulty.

Skin and Sleep.—Yellow skin and sclerotic (Phos.); skin deep-yellow, pseudoicteric, then grayish-yellow, then cadaver-like, with excessive itching; dark-brown skin (Ph., K. clc.). Violet eruption. Papules on abdomen, face and loins. Somnolence. Profound sleep. Sleeplessness.

Fever.—Chill; while walking; < 10 P.M. on undressing; from 3 to 5 P.M., when the headache was usually worse, C. beginning with yawning, discomfort, anxiety, oppression of chest, pain in neck, drawing in upper limbs, increased frontal headache, then heat till 8 P.M., with hot, dry mouth, only little thirst, then sweat and sleep, with at first frequent startings during the unrefreshing sleep, but after midnight he became quiet, next day slight paroxysm of fever, the following day a severe paroxysm, then fever every day; with pain in head and in renal region and vomiting. Cold body; extremities; skin. Heat; in evening. Burning in head. Sweat; profuse.

Arsenicum Iodatum.

For use the pure substance is triturated with sugar of milk.

Affinities; with Arsenic and Iodine.

Generalities.—Feeling in the morning as if he had taken a cold. Nervous system very irritable, with wake-fulness (Ars.). Weariness of whole body, with heaviness of limbs (Ars.).

Clinical.—Threatening pyæmia; blood-poisoning, with debilitating sweats. Enlarged serofilous glands. Eruptions and ulcerations in syphilitic patients. Enlarged mesenteric glands, with diarrhœa and cholera infantum.

Head.—Aching all over head; preventing sleep. Seemed large and heavy, with pain. Dull heavy aching morning on waking and lasting all day, < motion, stooping or studying, with pressing outward. Dulness the entire morning, with dull pain in l. malar-bone and occasional frontal headache. Bad feeling in evening, like a cold. Aching in forehead, with dulness of whole head during forenoon, with stiffness and soreness of l. side of neck, < moving head. Sharp pain in forehead and in ears, < l. ear, when riding in a sharp cold wind. Pain in r. temple.

Eyes.—Weakness, with burning pain and feeling as if lachrymation would set in.

Clinical.—Scrofulous ophthalmia and tendency to ulceration of lower lid. Parenchymatous keratitis.

Ears.—Clinical.—Otitis, with fetid corrosive discharge. Catarrhal inflammation of the throat, nose and middle ear; swelling of the tissues within the nose; hypertrophied condition of the opening of the Eustachian tube and increasing deafness. Chronic irritability of the middle ear following scarlet fever; thickening of tympanum.

Nose.—Dryness.

Clinical.—Coryzas, burning, acrid. Hay fever. Catarrh, burning sensation, tubercular diathesis.

Mouth.—Intermittent pain in first r. upper molar.

Clinical.—Epithelioma.

Throat.—In morning after moving about hawking up thick mucus, mixed with clotted blood, which seemed to come from the head and relieved the pain.

Clinical.—Later stage of diphtheria, with evidence of putrefactive degeneration. Diphtheritic croup.

Stomach.—Appetite increased at first (Iod.); lost. Pyrosis. Pain, < rising after sitting; in afternoon, with raising of wind and greasy fluid similar to that after eating salt pork; at epigastrium, with thirst, dry throat, fever and sometimes diarrhœa and tenesmus.

Abdomen.—Hardness and distention from flatus, which was discharged constantly. Cutting as if he would have a stool, > emission of flatus and warm applications; C. embracing the whole abdomen and obliging him to bend almost double, > large soft stool, evacuated with straining.

Anus and Stool.—Aching in anus, with seeming inability to keep the sphincter closed, amounting to dysenteric straining at stool. Urging to stool in morning on rising, with scanty stool, small in size, as if anus were contracted, mushy, with small scybalæ, and of peculiar black color, resembling feces of an ox, with straining as in dysentery. Mushy stool, almost black, with straining and tenesmus. Diarrhœa, five to ten stools each day, not at night, but the urging began on moving about in morning. Painless diarrhœa every night at midnight.

Urine.—Increased in quantity.

Genital Organs.—Clinical.—Lencorrhœa, bloody, yellow, with hard swelling of the labia, followed by indurations in the axilla. Mammary abscess. Mammary tumor, with retracted nipple, sensitive.

Cough.—Hacking, with dryness and stoppage of nostrils.

Chest.—Clinical.—Pulmonary tuberculosis, with cavities in lungs, hectic fever, etc. Chronic catarrhal pneumonia, with mucopurulent expectoration, dyspnoea, night-sweat, etc. Chronic pneumonia, with abscess in the lung, hectic fever. Acute catarrhal pneumonia, with caseous degeneration and fibrosis. Fibroid degeneration of the lung, with inflammation and hæmorrhage; commencing cavity. In general, many cases of pulmonary disease, pneumonia, subacute and chronic, and various forms of phthisis pulmonaris have been cured, the special indications being great debility, night-sweats either after the cavity is formed or when a cavity threatens to form, with a decidedly cachectic condition of the patient. It seems probable that in the Iodide of Arsenic we have found a remedy most closely allied to manifestations of tuberculosis; it will be indicated by a profound prostration, rapid, irritable pulse, recurring fever and sweats, emaciation, tendency to diarrhoea, etc. It is especially valuable in nontubercular phthisis.

Heart.—Clinical.—A number of cases of weakness of the heart have been reported as relieved, and it undoubtedly acts similarly to Arsenic in such cases; unfortunately nearly all the cases reported have been treated with a combination of other drugs with this one, so that perhaps as much credit should be given to the other drugs as to the Arsen. iod.

Pulse.—Irregular, rapid.

Back.—Soreness as if beaten, and especially of back of neck.

Extremities.—Heaviness, with weariness of whole body. Rheumatic pain, as if in shaft of bone, in upper third of r. humerus while writing, suddenly shifting to r. metacarpal bones, then to l. femur. Laming pain in l. calf, afterwards embracing entire leg, > motion, returning at rest. Dull heavy soreness of l. calf. Weary feeling in calves while kneeling. Formicating prickings on external l. ankle, then on inner r. ankle.

Skin.—Dryness. Painful formation on external border of l. foot, then burning pain on l. instep. Itching on various parts; on back; on back of l. hand, then stinging itching on back of r. hand.

Clinical.—Eczema of the beard, watery oozing, great itching, < washing.

Sleep.—Constant yawning, with early sleepiness. Restless night, with little sleep.

Fever.—Peculiar chilliness of l. thigh, beginning on posterior surface and noticed more there, then formation and weight in l. foot, the latter extending up leg, the clothes when touching the limb feel cold, the formation and weight afterwards extended to r. foot and were partially > by walking, the chilliness > application of warmth. Fever, pulse 80, strong. Heat in lumbar region as if clothes were on fire.

Clinical.—Night-sweats of phthisis and of many other debilitating diseases.

Arsenicum Metallicum.

Pure Metallic Arsenic is triturated with sugar of milk for use.

Action and Affinities. See Arsenicum alb.

Generalities.—Emaciation. Pulsation over whole body; especially under sternum; especially in r. hip-joint, < morning, > evening. Weakness. Disinclination to rising in morning after sound sleep. Recurrence of symptoms after two weeks. Aggravation in morning; after brandy. Appearance of symptoms on r., then l. side.

Mind.—Stupor in morning after sound sleep all night. Despondency. Depression of spirits. Indifference.

Head.—Aching, < when laughing. Swollen feeling morning on waking. Sensation as from fumes of whisky. Heaviness like vertigo. Swollen feeling in forehead, with immovable skin. Heaviness in forehead, with dull feeling. Aching in l. side of head, extending to l. ear and eye, with nausea. Soreness of scalp when pulling even one hair.

Eyes.—Pain so that he could not read much. Heaviness. Lids swollen and inflamed.

Nose.—Coryza; with hoarseness, then with angina faucium; fluent. Discharge of scalding water, which excoerates nostrils.

Face.—Bleated; feeling as if. Ulcer on l. inner side of lower lip; on r. inner side of lower lip, with soreness on touch of tongue.

Mouth.—Gums swollen and painful to touch; gums swollen and feeling as if scalded, with salivation. Tongue coated white and covered with mucus; coated white and showing imprint of teeth. Dryness.

Stomach.—Aversion to wines and liquors. Eructations of hot bile. Nausea.

Abdomen.—Bleated. Lancing gripping after waking at 6 A.M., > sharp, burning, watery stool, then debility, sleeping in his chair, loss of appetite and full pulse. Tension and sensation of swelling. Pulsation in umbilicus. Painful swelling in r. groin, where a bubo had suppurated twenty-four years before. < extending leg, the pain goes to hip, < sitting, when the leg goes to sleep, > walking.

Anus, etc.—Sore feeling in A. Bleeding varices; V. on r. side, painful after stool (not bleeding). Constipation. Red, sandy sediment in urine. Pain in region of heart; P. in l. muscles of chest.

Pulse.—Full and hard; at 9 A.M., and rapid. Rapid; in morning; in morning, but slow in evening. Slow after midnight, rapid in morning, after rising.

Back.—Lumbago. Numbness in r. lumbar region from vertebrae to crest of ilium, and inside of r. thigh down to knee.

Limbs.—Cracking of finger-joints. Swollen feeling in hands, fingers and feet, with feeling as if he could not close hand. In lower limb sensation as if he could not use it, but he could walk well after using it. Hip-joint, lame feeling in r.; numbness in r., extending to pubes; paralyzed feeling in r. hip-joint extending to pubic symphysis and down inside of thigh to knee. Dry feeling in r. knee. Pulsation in r. anterior tibial artery at superior extremity of its inferior third.

Skin.—Scales. Itching of forehead; on face, > pinching; on face, > pressure, but not by scratching; on lower part of face, with burning, as before eruption; on face, < night, > bathing with cold water, with burning, stinging and swelling, then desquamation in small scales; in r. groin, extending to knee.

Sleep.—Very sound at night. Sleepiness in morning after rising; in daytime and evening; afternoon when walking in street; S., with little sleep. Restless sleep; with fulness in head, which was < on waking in night. Sensation in sleep as if he would have headache in morning on waking. Dreams of danger, especially by water, that he is in danger of drowning, etc.

Fever.—Dry heat in palms of hands. Burning of hands and feet. Heat of feet, with a bloated feeling; dry heat of feet, also at night. Sweat of feet; offensive S. on genitals.

Arsenicum Sulfuratum Flavum.

Triturate with Sacch. lach. for use.

Cramps, grips, vomiting, diarrhoea, with thirst and fever. Falling down in spasms. Faintness. Weakness. Anxiety and fear. Apprehension. Confusion of head, too many thoughts crowd upon him. Vertigo on walking in open air, feeling through head as from drunkenness. Stitches externally in r. frontal region; throbbing stitches in r. frontal region. Gum in canthi. Tensive feeling behind r. ear, as if something stuck there and pressed the ear forward, on brushing hair on occiput. Teeth pain as if loose on chewing food. Tongue white; T. swollen, afterwards dry; stiff, immovable. Taste bitter. Mouth and throat dry.

Disgust for all nourishment. Thirst. Nausea after dinner, at noon. Nausea and vomiting. Vomiting offensive bile, then feeling better. Cramp in stomach, with faintness, griping, diarrhoea and vomiting. Abdomen distended, soft, painless. Colic as from a cold, morning on waking. Tenesmus. Liquid, profuse stool on touching abdomen.

Respiration difficult. Stitches extending outward in r. chest. Pulse frequent, hard, afterwards small, thready; slow, suppressed, afterwards rapid, scarcely to be felt. Pains in l. knee. Fright on falling asleep in evening, as if he fell out of bed. Cold forehead. Cold, stiff body.

Arum Dracunculus.

Preparation, General Action and Relationship same as Arum tri.

Taste styptic and metallic, with bitterness in back of mouth. Hand feels as if plunged among nettles. Fingers feel as if stings were driven perpendicularly into them when rubbed together. Prickings as of thorns in r. fingers. Pricking in fingers, with itching. Pain in r. index as if pulled.

Arum Dracontium.

Preparation, General Action and Relationship same as Arum tri.

Generalities.—Occasional shooting pain in r. malar region, then in r. external malleolus, then in thenal eminence of r. thumb, then in l. malar region. The pains are mostly transient in any one part, course along the extremities, sometimes in one direction, sometimes in the opposite one, are not very sharp, are generally intermediate between aching and shooting, those in nervous trunks are more of the shooting character, but always leave an aching, at first the pains are confined to r. side, afterwards chiefly to the l. Prostration. Languor and depression of spirits.

Head.—Aching pain over l. eye. Head feels heavy and aches in occipital and r. parietal regions in morning on waking. Aching in l. occipital region, then in l. temporal, then in l. frontal region.

Eyes.—Conjunctivæ injected on waking at 6 A.M., lids dry, stiff, agglutinated, and burning and smarting of edges of lids. Heat of eyelids, with dryness and smarting.

Ears.—Shooting pain in l.; in r.; in r., leaving fullness and aching in middle ear. Warmth and fullness in l. middle, then in r., afterwards in one or the other when swallowing, seldom in both at the same time, caused by mucus in Eustachian tube. Aching pain behind r.

Face.—Aching in r. malar region in morning on waking.

Mouth.—Apthous ulcer on tongue. Soreness of mouth and throat. Peculiar acrid sensation in mouth and throat. In the morning tongue and mouth coated with a foul slimy mucus, having a putrid taste.

Throat.—Uneasiness, with disposition to cough. Soreness in muscles when swallowing. Loose cough, with soreness of throat, < swallowing, simulating catarrhal angina, with dryness and smarting in throat, rawness and fulness, causing continual disposition to clear the throat by swallowing, coughing or hawking. Raw feeling, morning on waking, with rattling of mucus in larynx at every full expiration, > after rising and moving about. Mucus, the raising of which by cough produces a rattling in larynx, with disposition to swallow arising from excess of mucus.

Stomach.—Eretractions of flatus. Sinking at pit.

Abdomen.—Pain caused by incarceration of flatus. Escape of flatus from stomach and bowels.

Stool.—Copious, semi-fluid, with much flatus. Three, copious, bilious, with aching in abdomen and burning in rectum. Bilious diarrhoea, with borborygmus and emission of flatus. At one time slightly constipated, at another somewhat loose. Late and insufficient.

Urinary Organs.—Tenderness and smarting or burning at orifice of urethra, < during micturition. Burning in urethra after micturition. Irresistible desire to pass urine, which is diminished in quantity, high-colored and causes burning or smarting in urethra. Frequent copious emissions of limpid urine.

Sexual Organs.—Fine shooting in course of l. spermatic cord. Desire diminished and most of the time absent, with flaccid and relaxed penis.

Respiratory Organs.—Rattling of mucus in larynx at 7 A.M. if expirations are prolonged. Soreness of larynx, with disposition to cough. Hoarseness; at 6 A.M. on waking, with expectoration of mucus, rawness and tenderness of throat, rattling in larynx on expiration, > by rising, except when expirations were prolonged. Cough; all night; from laryngeal irritation, < night and lying down. Expectoration of thick heavy, yellowish-white pus; of mucus by coughing in morning. Asthmatic attacks nightly; waking about midnight, leaving rattling of mucus in larynx and upper part of trachea, followed by bad sleep. Dyspnoea in paroxysms, with aching in chest and secretion of mucus in larynx and trachea.

Chest.—Dull heavy aching. Shooting and aching pain in l. brachial plexus of nerves.

Heart and Pulse.—Aching pain in precordial region and down l. arm. Heart beat so violently as to shake walls of chest. Pulse rapid, hard and jerking; rapid, small and irregular, the artery seems to roll under the finger, and it requires considerable pressure to be counted correctly.

Neck and Back.—Shooting in l. anterior inferior triangle of neck, near clavicle. Aching along spine, especially between scapulae and in lumbar region, with weakness across loins.

Extremities.—Aching pain along outer aspect of l. foot, then in corresponding part of l. hand. Tingling or slight stinging in fingers and toes, as when circulation is impeded. Fine tingling or pricking in hands and feet, < r.; in r. foot, then in r. hand, then in l. foot, then in l. hand. Aching pain in r. shoulder; r. humerus. Occasional shooting and aching pain along r. humerus and r. thumb. Aching pain in r. forearm; l. forearm, l. hand and r. humerus. Sharp shooting pain in styloid process of r. ulna. Fine tingling all over r. hand, which is warmer and redder than the l. and swollen. Shooting down r. thigh.

Skin.—Flushing of hands and face. Pimples, a species of lichen, on nose, and urticaria near r. elbow.

Fever.—Heat in palms. Burning in soles. Sweat on neck and breast at 8 p.m.

Arum Italicum.

Preparation, General Action and Relationship same as Arum tri.

General malaise. Debility; and emaciation. Aggravation from pure wine, coffee and brandy. Mental uneasiness. Intellectual incapacity. Headache in damp weather, especially in occiput. Contusive aching in anterior lobes of brain. Aching in brain from least mental exertion, < stormy weather. Acute enterocolitis. Colic after eating, then diarrhoea; C., with pain in vesical region and urging to urinate; contractive twisting, < before stool. Sensitiveness of abdomen, with heat. Smarting and tearing in rectum during stool. Stools generally liquid or very soft, scanty, yellowish or dark, with emission of flatus and towards the last mixed with frothy mucus; S. more frequent from 3 to 6 A.M.; frequent, preceded by colic, mostly in abdominal region, and renewed with each urging to stool.

Hoarseness suddenly < about 9 p.m.; < evening, with tickling in larynx and cough, < after sleep. Shocks of dry cough and constant hawking of thick, tenacious, gray or brown mucus, often blood-streaked. Contusive pains in l. chest, sometimes in front, below clavicle, sometimes behind, below spine of scapula and near its inner border. Heat behind sternum and anterior part of chest. Dull pain behind l. scapula. Pricking in finger-tips, with fornication. Skin of fingers red, as from wine-les, with sensitiveness and pain as if burnt, < pressure. Last two phalanges of fingers covered with almost invisible elevations, with itching, < after bathing, then desquamation. Itching, < about 6 A.M.

Drowsiness every morning. Chills in daytime at slightest draught. Coldness and shivering in afternoon, especially down back, in evening redness of face, general heat, rapid pulse, at night sweat, especially on chest, having an odor resembling that of Hedera helix when rubbed between the fingers. Heat of skin and hands at night in bed, with rapid pulse. Night-sweats.

Arum Maculatum.

A tincture is prepared from the fresh root and kept in a cool, dark place.

General Action and Relationships same as Arum tri. Horrible convulsions. Weakness; with inability to speak, raising hands frequently to its mouth and throat, uttering at intervals a sharp cry and starting up as if suffocated. Torpor, then violent febrile reaction. Taciturnity, with sleepiness after eating. Pressure in l. temple; below ears, behind lower jaw. Gums bleed (on kissing). Tongue, stitches; with burning; swollen; feeling as if swollen. Burning pain in mouth and lips. Caustic effects over lips, mouth and as far as could be seen. Salivation. Throat; swollen so that a probe could not be introduced into oesophagus; stinging in T. and oesophagus. Pain on l. side below larynx, near trachea, on pressure; P., provoking swallowing, which is difficult, as from a swelling on l. side above larynx. Ticking in throat, becoming a burning. Swallowing impossible; difficult, as if the "palate were down."

Appetite lost. Vomiting; of blood. Cramp in stomach. Cardialgia. Pain in stomach on pressure. Constriction in abdomen as in anxiety and fear, then it ascended over whole chest, with hot breath, then it rose into throat, first like a pressure inward in the back part of palate above larynx, provoking swallowing, which is difficult, afterwards it feels too narrow. Emptiness in abdomen as after vomiting, mornings after eating. Pressure on a spot between navel and top of hip, < standing, or lying on side or back, most on filling chest full or making abdominal muscles tense, with pain on pressure.

Diarrhoea. Bleeding from urethra. Urine copious. Urine watery, smelling almost like burnt horn, becoming cloudy in middle on standing. Hoarseness. Bloody sputa. Sleepiness, < after dinner and sleep, with red face. Sweat.

Arum Triphyllum.

A tincture is prepared from the fresh root of this plant ("the Jack-in-the-pulpit"), and kept in a cool, dark place.

General Action.—An irritant poison causing inflammation of mucous surfaces and destruction of tissue, together with a low type of fever.

Alloid Drugs.—Kali bi., Ail. Nat. ars., Ant. er., Canth., Graph.

Generalities and Mind.—Weakness. Forgetfulness. Low spirits. Irritable disposition.

Clinical.—Tendency to great depression of the vital forces. In low types of scarlet fever, diphtheria, typhoid fever, with carphology, especially boring into the nose and picking the lips until they bleed. Delirium in scarlet fever, with boring into the nose.

Head.—Aching; > after breakfast; > after dinner; < after drinking hot coffee. Dulness; morning. Fulness. Heaviness; morning; at night. Obstructed feeling, as if full of mucus, and in chest. Vertigo; with fulness of head and absence of mind. Feels better after dinner. Worse at night.

Forehead.—Stitches over l. eye; in evening, suddenly repeated. Tearing in r. side, in r. temple and ear. Aching; and on r. side of head; in r.; terrible A. in both sides, with heaviness of eyelids. Heaviness and dulness in morning.

Stitches in l. temple; at 10 p.m.; in r., extending towards submaxillary bone. Aching in temples; in vertex, sometimes with cold feeling as if cranium were open; in scalp of vertex, with soreness on touch. Boring in r. side of head in morning on waking. Shooting in occiput when turning eyes upward.

Eyes.—Cloudiness. Aching in r. Smarting. Sensation as after shedding many tears. Sleepiness. Heaviness. Much water in eyes from morning till evening, especially in outer canthus, with swelling of margins of lids. Tension in lower lids in evening, as if swollen. Vision dim.

Ears.—Tearing in l.

Nose.—Soreness of nostrils (Graph., K. bi., Aur.). Nose, lips and face feel chapped (Ant. cr.), as if he walked in a cold wind. Obstruction, must breathe through mouth; l. nostril obstructed; in morning. Dryness. Sneezing; much in afternoon, with feeling as if he had taken cold, and chills over whole body, beginning at vertex; much at night. Moisture in afternoon, with obstruction.

Coryza; fluent, also profuse; fluent afternoons, with heat in face and head. Continual discharge from l. nostril. Discharge in morning, with streaks of blood and hardened mucus; yellow and thick D. during the day; watery; watery at 4 P.M., with sneezing; watery, and at the same time obstruction, < in morning; profuse watery, with obstruction of r. side; tough, yellowish, with sensation of approaching swelling in soft palate and pressure.

Clinical.—Violent coryzas, fluent, acrid, ichorous; nostrils very sore, with constant desire to bore into the nose and to pick it. Nose completely stopped, with fluent acrid discharge. In hay fever, with terrific pain over root of nose; nose and throat feel raw. In scarlet fever and in diphtheria the nose becomes ulcerated, with an offensive excoriating discharge; the patient is constantly working at the nose.

Face.—Lips chapped; thick and burning; dry; scalded feeling in morning. Sprained pain in l. articulation of jaw when swallowing.

Clinical.—Lips chapped and burning; the patient constantly picks at the lips until they bleed; the corners cracked, bloody; with this the submaxillary glands are often swollen, the tongue red and the whole mouth raw.

Mouth.—Tearing in l. teeth. Aching in l. lower decayed teeth towards evening. Tongue cracked, painful and burning (Ail.); raw feeling at root and at palate; burning at root and in throat; pain on l. margin; smarting at upper anterior part. Mouth, lips and soft palate sore and burning (Ars.) in morning. Palate sore, with pain when eating and drinking. Dryness of mouth (K. bi.). Salivation.

Throat.—Swelling of l. submaxillary glands (Bar. c., Merc. i. r.). Internal swelling in region of larynx, < r. side. Mucus; tenacious; much M., with tickling, compelling to cough. Stitches in l. side. Pain, < night; < when coughing; burning. Scratching, > after drinking hot coffee; constant, with burning and desire to swallow. Soreness at 5 A.M.; 4 P.M.; burning (Canth.). Burning; morning in bed, > after rising; at 10 P.M., and in lungs; before midnight, with dryness, then much mucus, which goes deeper and deeper down by swallowing. Constriction; at night. Swollen feeling in soft palate in morning when swallowing. Constant desire to swallow; with stitches in throat, which is painful to pressure. Swallowing difficult; in morning. Amelioration during morning till after dinner; A. after breakfast.

Clinical.—Throat raw. Occasionally useful in diphtheria with the characteristic nose and lips. Sore throat from speaking. Sore throat, with hay fever, violent coryza, rawness and soreness, constant hawking.

Stomach.—No appetite. Thirst to drink a little at a time.

Abdomen.—Intermittent distention from noon till evening. Rolling in morning, with frequent painful urging to stool. Cutting. Pain in hepatic region, first in front, then in back.

Stool, Urinary and Sexual Organs.—Burning in anus (Caps.). Urging to stool driving from bed, stool watery, dark brown. Diarrhoea frequent, from 3 to 8 A.M.; diarrhoea like mustard till noon, afterwards no stool for two days; watery, brown (K. bi.), with eruptions of food. Stool soft; with much tenesmus; thin, yellow, in morning. Micturition frequent. Urine copious; and pale. Sudden tearing in r. testicle, repeatedly from noon till evening. Cutting in region of l. ovary. Menses darker.

Respiratory Organs.—Internal swelling in trachea, r., then l. side, and when pressing against it soreness of l. parotid. Hoarseness (K. bi.). Cough from tickling in throat, with much mucus; frequent C., also at 6 A.M. after waking; much at 5 A.M.; spasmodic. Expectoration of much mucus; scanty but constant discharge of tough mucus from mouth (K. bi.).

Clinical.—Laryngitis, with great hoarseness, the result of talking; hawking and clearing the voice.

Chest.—Stitches in r. lung and under r. scapula. Soreness of lungs (Ail., Pho.). Burning pain in lungs (Ail.) when coughing. Burning, extending from lungs to pit of stomach. Full feeling, with soreness in l. lung and l. upper arm and pain in forehead.

Neck and Back.—Neck stiff. Pain in region of atlas and dentoid vertebra, extending to r. side; P. over hips.

Extremities.—Heaviness, especially of lower. Aching in r. shoulder and between scapulae. Swelling and stiffness of hands, > about 6 P.M. Pain in r. hip under trochanter. Cramp in r. leg in morning on waking. Pain in middle of l. tibia, where there has been a discolored spot for years. Stinging in soles. Tickling itching in centre of r. sole.

Sleep.—Yawning in afternoon; at same hour on two days, with coldness running over body; Y. < in afternoon, with stretching and sleepiness. Sleepiness at 11 A.M., also with yawning and heaviness of eyes; S. in evening. Sleeps in his chair after supper. Sleep restless at night, with heaviness of head.

Fever.—Chills running over body at night. Flushes of heat at night; flushes from 4 to 9 P.M. with burning face. Heat of face; r. ear.

Asafoetida.

A tincture (solution) is made of the gum-resin obtained from Narthex Asafoetida, Falc., a plant of the natural order Umbelliferae.

General Action.—Most marked on the nervous system, producing effects like hysteria and chorea. Especially valuable in globus hystericus and flatulence.

Affinities.—Con., Puls., Croc., Mezer., Cinnab., Nit. ac.

Generalities.—Hæmorrhages. Trembling over whole body, with cold skin and small, weak pulse. Stitches; in tips of toes, in skin of r. axilla, on r. cheek; fine, superficial here and there, so that he must rub. A good night's sleep was followed in morning by oppression of chest, quick breathing and beating of pulse and heart, distention of abdomen, then aching in stomach, all > stools partly solid, partly papaceous, dark brownish and blackish, smelling of the drug, also the rheumatic pains in back of head extending to arms and drawing, rendering pain back of neck, were > after the stools.

Pain in l. chest, in elbows, below l. scapula, in hands, shoulders. Pressing in joints of r. hand and in r. temple at 6 A.M. on waking, with pressing in nape of neck. After rising pressure in forehead, drawing in muscles of r. forearm, in muscles of l. cheek, pressure in r. tibia and l. calf, and drawing and pressing in different places in forehead. Pains return frequently and jump from one place to another. Drawing aching below edge of l. ribs when walking and in muscles of scapula. Drawing in muscles of scapula, thighs, fingers and in r. cheek. Drawing in spots in skull, in feet, forearms, quickly jumping from one place to another, in wrists, on soles, in calves and temples (Puls.).

Restlessness. Heaviness in whole body. Weakness (in evening, then very sound sleep); in evening, with sleepiness; on motion; with limbs sinking down heavy and relaxed and vertigo. Pains appeared when walking, but were < when sitting. Pains > towards 9 P.M. Pains appear less frequently towards evening. Symptoms disappear in evening, except distention of abdomen. Relieved by emission of offensive flatus.

Clinical.—It has been found useful in various forms of destructive syphilitic processes, deep ulcerations, caries of the bones, especially of the tibia; in these cases the characteristic indications are the terrible throbbing pains at night, with extreme sensitiveness of the affected part. It has been used for various forms of hysteria, with extreme sensitiveness to external impressions. Hysterical spasms, with suppression of habitual discharges. Hystero-epilepsy.

Mind.—Ill humor and dislike for work. Irritable, yet indifferent to everything. Fretful and apprehensive mood, which seems to arise from abdomen.

Head.—Stitches. Aching; in brain; in joints and bones during night when waking and in morning; on small places; with heaviness; with heat and confusion when sitting and reading; alternately increasing and decreasing; extending to eyes and nose; A. like an emptiness. Vertigo. Drawing in skull. Heaviness; with fulness and confusion, then aching over whole brain. Fulness; after waking, which gradually changed to periodical pains, lasting into next night. Rush of blood, with warmth of face and headache. Tension in brain; stupefying tension in head, < l. side. Confusion; with stitches in forehead and temples; with pressure in temples; with aching and sensation as if a string were drawn across brain; changing gradually to a pain as if the whole brain were compressed, with vertigo, heat of skin and quickness of pulse; making thought difficult. Weakness.

Forehead.—Stitches in l. eminence; in middle and below bone, with aching and burning in sternum and inclination to cough; burning externally, near eminence, > touch, and pain as if ulcerated; extending to occiput, then confusion in head; sudden, deeply penetrating under l. eminence, like shocks, then sensitiveness (Ign.). Tearing. Boring above eyebrow, r. then l. Aching; l.; in bones above; with heaviness; with weakness of whole body; on different spots on bones, at times with sticking and burning pains. Drawing wave-like pressure through l. half, ending in dull pressure on eminence. Pressive pain from within outward; r., also intermitting. Pressure externally. Aching in l. side, extending over head; A. over eyes as from sleepiness. Drawing. Swashing and gurgling sensation in brain beneath upper part of bone. Heaviness in sinciput; in sinciput and forehead, with pressure and with external warmth of cheeks and ears, chill in back and sticking in tongue. Tensive confusion and burdensome heaviness.

Temples.—Stitches deep in l.; slow in l. Tearing in r. Pressure; r.; sudden in r.; asunder in both; outward in l.; sudden, inward, as from a pointed plug; intermitting in l., almost like a pushing inward.

Vertex.—Superficial stitches on r. side. Pressure on; and over r. eye; starting from l. half, changing gradually to pressure in direction of eyes, increasing and decreasing alternately.

Parietals.—Aching in r. side of head; in l. side of head, extending to eyes and changing to intermitting fullness of brain; in r. bone as from a deeply penetrating plug (Mez.); sudden in l. side of head as from a dull tool pressed in, rapidly increasing and suddenly disappearing. Pressure outward in l. side. Drawing above r. ear, which changes into stitching.

Occiput.—Tearing. Drawing and tearing pains, extending through nape to upper arms and feeling like rheumatic pains. Drawing pain. Drawing. Pain, extending over head, as if brain were compressed by a cloth. Wandering pain. Pressure on l.

Eyes.—Burning stinging in l. Dryness. Periodical burning, with pressing together of lids as if overcome by sleep. Pressure. Aching of r. Burning in r. ball; in l. ball, as from within outward; tensive, in r. ball. Burning stinging in r. ball. Sensation of sand between balls and lids; and as if a cold air blew upon bulbi. Pupils dilated. Lid, twitching of upper; of l. upper; stitching and itching, also in edges; itching, sticking and burning, < r.; burning in r., also edges of r. Burning in r. inner canthi. Pressure in middle of upper lid.

Pressure on external margin of l. orbit. Pinching drawing across supraorbital region (Cinnab.). Musca volitantes. Vision dim; when writing, > blinking.

Clinical.—Orbital neuralgia, severe boring pains above orbits, throbbing at night, > pressure and rest. A most valuable remedy for a similar pain, which occurs in severe cases of iritis and for intraocular inflammations, permitting the case to progress rapidly towards recovery.

Ears.—Aching in r.; l. Drawing and stitches around l. Drawing behind l.; on outer rim of r. concha; in meatus auditorius. Dull sensibility, especially dull hearing, in forenoon. Ringing before.

Nose.—Pressure as if it would burst, especially in r. wing. Sneezing. Coryza.

Face.—Pressure in l. cheek; in bones of face; on zygomatic bone; outward in r. side. Drawing in l. cheek; r. cheek. Painless tension in various places, on malar-bone (Con., Verbase.), nasal bones, with a kind of numb sensation. Swelling of lower lip, with burning sticking, then similar swelling in l. corner of mouth. Numb pressure in l. angle of chin, extending into tooth above it.

Jaw.—Pinching in ramus of lower. Pressure in lower; in l. corner; angle of l. lower; in joints. Drawing in l. lower; r. lower, then in r. forehead; from angles into muscles of nape; in joints, changing into pain, which returned late in evening.

Mouth.—Severe drawing in lower incisors. Teeth blunt. Gums sore. Tongue, stitches in tip; burning in tip; biting burning pain in tip. Burning in mouth, throat and stomach. Mouth dry; dry sensation, though there is moisture enough. Sensation as if upper skin of anterior walls of mouth were loosened, as in incipient cancrum oris. Salivation. Taste fatty, rancid; taste insipid and acrid; insipid, changing to that of onions.

Throat.—Drawing down l. side on motion. Hysterical rising, as if a ball or large body ascended from stomach to œsophagus (Nit. ac.), or pharynx, in evening (Senec.), obliging him to swallow, which relieved (Ign.), but the sensation returned. Scraping. Constriction, with pressure in chest. Dryness, and while swallowing tension.

Æsophagus.—Spasms (Stram.); like hysteria. Sensation as if peristaltic motions were reversed, and, in œsophagus, were driven from stomach towards throat. Rising in, afterwards with nausea and scraping in pharynx; hysteric rising. Aching and burning, and in throat, like heartburn, as after fat food. Soreness, and of stomach. Dryness, without thirst.

Stomach.—Appetite increased; with nausea; with desire for something relishing and nourishing; poor; lost. Wine was not relished as usual. Aversion to beer, which tastes slimy. Eructations of air; also tasting of garlic; with garlicky smell; offensive; warm; with salivation; then nausea, as from emptiness of stomach and disgust for food. Nausea. Feeling as if disordered by fat. Distention of stomach and bowels (Lyc., Croc.) with feeling as if peristaltic motions were reversed (Elaps.), with spasmodic working in œsophagus. Perceptible pulsation in pit (Puls.). Sensation as if beaten in epigastric region and abdomen, with fulness in former and eructations.

Pain; in l. side; in epigastric region after eating, also with debility; when sitting, extending towards liver; intermittent, and in abdomen; and warmth towards l. side, and more up into œsophagus, like globus hystericus. Aching and distending pain, as from flatulence, and, in œsophagus, beginning in cardiac region, extending more towards spleen than liver, and rising into œsophagus. Pressure, with sensation as if incarcerated flatus were pressed about in intestines. Pressure changing to tensile pain, extending to both sides, < pressure downward of diaphragm and on touching stomach. Pain in epigastric region, < touch, afterwards drawing, at last tensile. Sickly sensation in pit, like pressure, not exactly painful. Burning; in epigastric region and diaphragm, also cutting. Peculiar movements, and in mouth.

Clinical.—Violent gastralgia, with distention of abdomen, belching of wind and regurgitation of liquid. Flatulence of hysteria.

Abdomen.—Rumbling; with pain. Emissions of flatus; with retained stool; easy; offensive. Flatus retained, passing off in morning, with half diarrhœic stool. Distention; after a hard, dark, offensive stool, causing pain in rectum; with discharges of flatus; with constipation and tenesmus. Gripping, with emission of flatus. Pain, with movements and rumbling. Flatulent pain when walking after dinner. Cutting; when walking or sitting. Pinching. Cutting, pinching. Pinching drawing across, when sitting, with stitches in l. side of abdomen extending outward. Burning. Heaviness; from drinking, with chilling sensation. Sensation of illness, with heaviness and pressure in sides. Tension after eating.

Upper.—Pain as from taking cold and as if diarrhœa would ensue, with ravenous hunger. Intermittent gripping.

Umbilicus.—Stitches; burning; crawling in region. Cutting in region, < sitting and retracting abdomen. Gripping (into a ball) below U. when standing. Aching extending outward.

Sides.—Stitches in l. when walking; in l. externally, > rubbing; extending outward, while sitting after eating, > pressure; outward in l., also with flatulence; sudden, jerklike, outward in r.; gurgling, in l. Sticking, gripping in l. Aching in flanks on drawing in abdominal muscles.

Lower.—Stitching. Sticking and drawing in l., extending along inner side of ilium, when sitting. Attacks of gripping.

Rectum.—Tenesmus. Constant dysenteric feeling as if stool would occur. Persistent, ineffectual urging to stool. Pain in perineum as if something dull pressed out there.

Stool.—Watery; with discharge of flatus, which does not relieve distention of abdomen; with pressing down on rectum. Diarrhœa; with pain in abdomen, also frequent. Profuse, thick, papescent, brown, offensive, relieving symptoms. Thick, papescent, light yellow. Pasty and yellow, containing a little bile. Mushy, with flatulence, without pain, but with fulness and heaviness in abdomen. Constipation. Solid, dark, offensive. Profuse, hard, preceded by pressure and dragging. Two knotty stools in forenoon. Small, partly hard, partly mushy. Difficult, hard. Frequent. Two painless stools, with rumbling, then heaviness and distention of abdomen.

Clinical.—Diarrhœa, extremely offensive, with meteorism, which rises, and regurgitations of food; it seems as if the peristaltic action of the bowels were reversed.

Urinary Organs.—Stitches in urethra. Stitching and burning in extremity of urethra, but not when urinating. Urine dark brown, easily discharged; brownish-yellow, also ammoniacal; scanty and dark; smells of drug; acrid, pungent and light-colored.

Sexual Organs.—Pressing towards, with pain in testicles, < touch and motion. Stitches in mons veneris close to penis. Stitches externally on penis. Drawing pain in glans penis before and on urinating. Drawing in penis while urinating. Swelling of scrotum. Desire increased.

Female.—Swelling. Labor-like cutting and forcing pain in region of uterus. Intermittent labor-like pain in region of uterus. Menses too early, scanty for three days, then natural. Nymphomania in a plethoric woman.

Respiratory Organs.—Cough, hoarse hacking, from smothering in air passages; dry, irritative, from tickling in larynx; frequent, with slimy expectoration from trachea. Respiration quickened; and interrupted by coughing and yawning.

Chest.—Breasts swelled and a milky discharge escaped. Weak movements of l. intercostal muscles.

Stitches after hawking, when standing and sitting; when lying, with pressure and difficult sighing, sobbing inspiration, > pressure or sitting up; in l. cavity; in cavity when sitting and standing, extending to fauces; in intercostal muscles when sitting; in l. ribs; r. ribs; on r. lower ribs, extending into r. flank; in region of last true ribs after eating, with oppression of chest; in region of diaphragm, on r. side; outward, at sternum; burrowing, from diaphragm out to l. ribs; boring outward in l. cavity; drawing, in l.; pinching, in inner side of r. ribs; tensive, in l. intercostal muscles; pressive, in r. cavity, then fine S., with pressive pain in ribs near spine.

Pressure on, with constriction of throat; P. here and there, and in muscles of back; under front edges of l. ribs; behind in region of l. short ribs, also when stooping; in sternum, also on r. side of it; in sternum, > inspiration and expiration, returning on writing; on lower part of sternum on bending chest forward; on lower part of sternum on compressing abdomen, with nausea and fulness at pit of stomach. Pressure outward in r. side; in l. intercostal muscles, also < inspiration and expiration. Aching at scapular end of clavicle when sitting; in middle of sternum, with nausea rising from chest; in sternum, with burning, inclination to cough and stitches in middle of and below frontal bone; drawing, with contraction; peculiar, changing into mucous expectoration.

Spasmodic tightness, as if lungs could not be expanded fully (Bell). Oppression; < l. side; when lying after eating, with pressure and throbbing; spasmodic; preventing respiration and driving patient about in a restless manner. Spasmodic contraction, so that pulse became small, irregular and slow. Jerklike constriction around across back, in region of short ribs; constriction as from a weight on sternum. Drawing in cavity; burning, in r. intercostal muscles. Pressive throbbing extending to fauces, on standing and sitting.

Heart and Pulse.—Aching and drawing pain in cardiac region, extending towards spleen, afterwards towards liver, < full inspiration. Pain in region of heart as from overfilling. Aching in præcordial region as from distention of heart, with small pulse, then loose stool. Palpitation more like a tremor, when sitting. Heart's beat and pulse small, quick and irregular. Pulse quick; and full; small and quick; small and slow.

Neck.—Twitching in r. side. Stitches in r. side of nape. Drawing pain in muscles of r. side. Drawing in nape; in muscles of nape; down l. side on motion.

Back.—Stitches in r. side. Pain; r. side; in attacks, < below scapula; preventing work.

Scapula.—Stitches under l. when stooping; in muscles, < motion; externally in l.; fine burning in and behind r., extending towards ribs. Cutting below r. Aching in r. Drawing in muscles; l. muscles. Clucking in muscles of l.

Stitch in latissimus dorsi, near upper arm. Tensive stitching upward in l. dorsal muscles. Pressure in some dorsal vertebræ. Drawing aching along the four to five last dorsal and first lumbar vertebræ, as if internally along bodies of vertebræ. Aching in region of short ribs, on both sides of the spinal column, sometimes < motion of trunk. Twitching in lower half of back when sitting.

Loins.—Fine stitches around l.; extending from r. towards ribs; boring outward, in l. towards ribs, with anxiety; boring, in l., > inspiration and expiration; tensive, in l., > walking. Dull pressure. Tearing in small of back when sitting. Aching in small of back, < bending upper part of body forward and backward. Stitch down sacrum extending to anus.

Extremities.—Tearing in r. shoulder after waking and in l. tibia, and after rising in joint of l. foot, in toes and in finger-joints. Bruised pain in muscles of upper arm, in joints of hands and feet, and paroxysm-ally in some places. Pressure in single joints of toes and in shoulder-joints and elbows. Aching in r. knee, ankle and elbow. Wandering rheumatic pain, especially in joints and scapulae. Drawing in joints of fingers, on dorsum of hands and feet. Pressive drawing in bones of hands and tarsus on motion. Drawing and stitching in calves, in muscles of arms, here and there, more in the bends. Cramplike drawings in many places on, like a twitching.

Axilla.—Superficial fine stitches below l. Pressure inward beneath l.; intermittent P. inward below r., towards the front.

Shoulder.—Twitching in l.; in l. joint extending inward; in l. joint towards outer side. Stitches in l.; in joints, < motion; outward in l. joint; fine tensive, inward in joint. Bruised sensation in shoulder and elbow-joints. Aching in joints. Pressure in; < in r. Drawing pain. Drawing paralytic pain along l. at rest, and down upper arm.

Arm.—Drawing and pressure in muscles. Pressure on muscles of r.

Upper Arm.—Twitching of deltoid; twitching on outer side of l. upper arm. Twitching sensation in inner muscles of l. Sticking on inner side of l.; outward on inner surface of r.; boring, in inner surface of r.; burning, on outer side of r.; tensive, in r. from upper part outward towards inner side. Pressing in muscles of r. Intermittent cramplike pressure in l., not far from shoulder. Tensive drawing on inner side of l. Drawing pain around head of humerus on holding arm still, with trembling irritability (as from fatigue) of muscles, so that he must move them constantly.

Elbow.—Fine sticking. Fine long stitch extending into bend.

Forearm.—Cramplike twitching extending down, with feeling as if hand would stiffen. Tearing up, on moving finger; up along on bending fingers. Sticking on middle of r.; tearing up r. during rest, then burning. Pressure on outside of l.; boring P. outward on inner side of l. Intermittent cramplike drawing along inner surface of l.

Wrist.—Scraping on inner condyle. Bruised pain in bones, at rest. Pressure; in muscles. Aching extending from r., into r. index; intermittent, in external condyle of l., and in side of thumb.

Hand.—Cramplike twitching in metacarpal bone of l. thumb. Sticking on back of r. Pressure on joints. Pain in r. palm as from a pressive body, with sensation as if hand would stiffen. Numblike pain on metacarpal bone of l. middle finger, as from a weight. Cramplike aching in flesh between metacarpal bones of l. thumb and index. Drawing.

Fingers.—Stitches in joints; paroxysmal, in joints of little, < motion of joint; S. outward in thumb towards back of hand. Pressure at roots of r. middle and index, continuing on various motions; on inner side of thumb; in joints of thumbs; joint of l. thumb, afterwards also in joints of other fingers; drawing P. on back of finger on lying and in rest, with jerks from forearm to elbow. Drawing. Drawing pain in joints of all fingers. Cramplike pain in r. thumb, then l.

Lower Extremities.—Drawing when walking, with pressure.

Thigh.—Twitchings in r.; l.; r. gluteals; l. gluteals; on anterior side of r.; on upper half anteriorly; superficial, on inner side of l.: intermittent, on inner surface of upper; wavelike, on anterior surface of l., not far from knee. Tearing around hip-joint on walking; in l. femur when sitting. Stitches in r. gluteals; drawing fine, in r. hip-joint, extending into intestines; regularly beating, on outer surface of l. thigh below hip-joint. Pain in flesh of r. as if a pointed body stuck therein. Aching of muscles of inside of r. when sitting and walking, and in joints of feet. Drawing; in muscles of r.; in muscles above knee; in muscles of r., running down to knee and foot, where pressure is felt, also jumping to knee when sitting; here and there in muscles of r., with pressure; twitching, in l.; tensive, on inside of r. Paralytic drawing pain on outer side when sitting. Restlessness (trembling) of thigh and leg, like a pulsation of arteries, when sitting after walk.

Knee.—Twitching on inner side of r.; on outer side of l. Stitches near patella on sitting, with pain in patella when touched as if sore and ulcerated; burning, in r. patella; fine, in l. knee when sitting; wandering, when sitting, and in joints of feet. Bruised feeling when sitting, and in ankles, changing at times to pressive sensation. Pain; when sitting, < r.; when sitting, and above them; when walking, and in ankles; l. knee and l. ankle, < walking; behind l. patella. Burning aching in upper part, sometimes changing to burning throbbing. Drawing in bones. Drawing aching in hamstrings on making them tense. Stitching drawing pain in and above r., < walking. Clucking on inner side of l.

Leg.—Twitching in muscles of upper half of r. tibia. Tearing in whole r., > walking. Stitches in r. calf when sitting, later when walking; in r. calf and like pinching, when sitting, then in muscles above r. knee; itching, in forepart of l. tibia below knee, > walking; outward in r. tibia; (running down l. tibia, towards inside). Bruised feeling when sitting, especially in knees. Pressure in muscles; in l. tibia, > motion; in calves, with drawing. Aching below r. calf, > walking. Drawing in muscles; l. tibia; calves; l. calf. Intermittent drawing pain in joints. Goes to sleep if slightly compressed.

Ankle.—Twitching in r., extending downward. Stitches towards inner side of l.; itching, below r. inner malleolus, > rubbing. Pressure when sitting; l. when walking; r. when walking, and towards calf. Aching in r. when walking, then in l. foot when sitting, < walking. Drawing in r.

Foot.—Twitching in l. sole towards toes. Stitches in dorsum of r., > walking. Aching on dorsum of l. when sitting; in r. sole when sitting. Burrowing on inner side of l. Sensation in ball of l. sole as if he had stood a long time. Intermittent tension in r. instep as from a tight boot. Intermittent throbbing on inner side of l. Sensation in lower part of l. as if it would stiffen when riding over the other and hanging down.

Toes.—Twitching in r. great. Sticking, < motion; S. in tips; burning, in l. little; fine, in r. third, on walking. Intermittent throbbing in l. great; painful throbbing in tip of great. Pain in l. great, sometimes throbbing. Pressure on joint of r. great, above r. carpus and on its back; burning P. at root of l. great. Drawing; in bones. Drawing pain in r.

Skin.—Stitches in forehead and r. thigh; l. cheek, then r.; r. forearm; external side of l. thigh; itching, in r. side of lower abdomen. Crawling on back.

Drawing on external surface of l. leg. Itching in r. cheek; below navel; on r. scapula; inner side of r. knee; l. patella, not > by scratching; on dorsum of foot, continues when sitting and walking; crawling l. on lower surface of r. great toe.

Sleep.—Yawning, with discomfort, restlessness and debility. Sleepiness. Night restless. Sleep disturbed. Waking frequently and tossing about. Merry dreams of company and feasting. Sleep full of dreams of things of which he had previously spoken or of what he had done, and the dream became a true continuation, which was afterwards realized.

Fever.—Chilliness till after 9 A.M.; at 8.45 A.M., with the pains, especially in ankles, knees and elbows; at 6 P.M., with warmth of hands. Running over body from time to time. Cold, dry skin.

Shivering from last dorsal vertebra to second lumbar vertebra. Chills in back when walking in room, with cold feet and hands and blue nails; in back and loins; back and hands, also with slow pulse; in back, with heaviness and pressure in sinciput and forehead, external warmth of cheeks and ears, and sticking in tongue; in back while face, head, ears and hands were hot, heat in eyes, < r. and in cheeks, and itching, sticking and burning in lids; running down back, with hot hands and heat in face and ears; in back running through limbs, cold hands, creeping chill through whole body, nails bluish, salivation and asafœtida eructations. C. in back and hands, alternating with heat, heaviness and pressure in head, the chilliness < slight motion in a warm room. Cold hands and feet, 8.30 to 9 A.M., with chills in back and heat in face. Coldness of hands at 9 A.M., with chilliness in back, heat in head and face and wandering pains, also at another time, with blue nails, twitches in r. lower eyelid, stitches in tip of tongue and pressure in sternum.

Heat.—Fever, > 5.30 P.M., and only sensation of heat remains. Feverish after eating, with heat in face without external heat, without thirst, but with anxiety and sleepiness. External heat. Heat in sinciput and face, with chills in back, and cold hands off and on. Burning in l. eyebrow. Heat of face; and ears; of cheeks, also in afternoon in flushes; of cheeks and forehead, with heaviness; stinging burning in l. cheek; of ears, with redness; in neck and occiput; along back. Burning in vertebrae, < l. side; on outer side of r. elbow. Sticking burning at tip of l. index. Burning on anterior surface of thigh when sitting; in skin externally on l. leg; tensive B. in l. calf.

Cold sweat on forehead and limbs.

Asarum.

The Asarabacca (Asarum Europæum, L.) is a native of Europe and closely allied to the American wild ginger, Asarum Canadense. It grows close to the ground and has a creeping, knotty root; the whole plant is used for a tincture.

General Action.—Its chief action seems to be upon the nervous system; general and excessive erethism, neuralgic pains and spasmodic muscular actions predominate. Great loss of energy accompanies the general symptoms.

Allies.—(Group for study.) Piper methysticum and ingrum, Nux moschata, Moschus.

Generalities.—Sensibility of all nerves, when merely imagining (which he is constantly obliged to do) that some one is scratching even slightly on linen, or some similar substance, with finger-tips or nails, a disagreeable sensation thrills through him, arresting thoughts and functions. Ebullitions of blood evenings in bed, preventing sleep. General discomfort, with nausea. Laziness, with slowness. Weakness every afternoon, with constant yawning; such weakness in evening as soon as he rises from a seat, with nausea, that he felt as if he would die; weakness after dinner; weariness, sometimes as if bruised all over (Arnica).

Clinical.—Very valuable in certain forms of irritable nerves (anæmia) with the above peculiar sensitiveness, associated with asthenopia, nervous deafness, loss of appetite, flatulence and nervous hacking cough.

Mind.—Imagines that he is hovering in air when walking, like a spirit. Thoughts so overstrained that they vanish. Mental faculties fail, > vomiting. Thoughts vanish when attempting to reflect, with drawing pressure in forehead. Ideas gradually vanish, as when falling asleep. Stupidity, with increase of headache and nausea when trying to reflect. Gayety alternating with calmness or even sadness. Angry and cross before the cough. Weeping, sadness and anxiety. Melancholy, fretful.

Head.—Aching (> vomiting); with heat of cheeks, both > walking in open air; in different places in brain, mingled with various sensations when bending head to left, pain as if a bundle of muscular fibres had been displaced by violent exertion, the pain extending over l. temple and behind ear towards l. shoulder, increasing and decreasing synchronously with the pulse; drawing, as if it would extend into temples, at noon, > open air and lying down. Pressure inward over a greater part of the brain; pressure in brain, mostly forward.

Drawing (stupefying) here and there in brain, in ear and in nape of neck. Stupid feeling, with indisposition to do anything. Weight as if some wabbling body were in it, which lets its weight be felt when head is turned forward or backward; weight and confusion, with pressure on sagittal suture, as if intoxicated. Confusion and stupidity, with tension in region of ears; confusion > walking, with pressure outward as with a dull point in eyes, especially below r. lid; painful tense confusion. Vertigo morning on rising, with aching in l. forehead; > washing face with cold water, with headache, both returning on drying face; in evening, as if not standing securely; as from intoxication, when rising from a seat and walking.

Forehead.—Tearing after stooping and raising head again; pulsative tearing. Aching above root of nose; A. causing a stupid feeling, as after being waked too early; drawing, in brain below forehead, < when retching; pressing upon eyes, which then water; throbbing, morning on rising; throbbing, from stooping. Pressure downward; as from a stone in brain.

Temples.—Tearing in l. Aching, < l.; in l., with confusion, then below parietal bones, then in occiput: compressive, in l. and behind ears, < walking or shaking head, > sitting.

Headache along coronal suture in attacks, with qualmsiness in abdomen. Pressure outward in sides of head. Pressure in l. occiput, extending to side of head. Feels pulsations in arteries of occiput, then in whole body. Tension of scalp, making hair painful.

Eyes.—Tearing in interior of l. synchronous with pulse. Pressure in l.; as soon as he reads sensation as if pressed asunder. Warmth and pressure in, with diminished lustre. Painful feeling of dryness interiorly. Feeling of dryness and drawing. Lids, swelling of l. upper, with inability to endure much reading: twitching of r. lower; paroxysmal twitching sensation in l. upper, when holding lid still, > raising lid; crawling under upper, < l.; dry burning in lids and inner canthi (Sulph.), < l.; feeling in r. outer canthus as from a cold breath. Vision obscured. Does not perceive objects around him.

Ears.—Pinching like earache in external and middle. Pain in meatus auditorius owing to pressive tension. Pressure behind and below l. Tension and pressure on r. meatus auditorius, afterwards extending to r. lower jaw, when violent, with cold salivation on r. side. Feeling in outer and inner side of l. as if cartilages were contracted. Stopped feeling in front; as if pasted up. Imagines a membrane stretched across r. meatus auditorius, also with warmth in that region, also < during the chill, with tensive pressure in it; imagines a membrane stretched across meatus auditorius, with a compressed sensation. Hearing worse in r. than l. Diminished hearing in l. as if closed by the hand, with feeling as if the walls of the meatus drew nearer one another, or as if ears were stopped with cotton. Distant roaring as of a wind in l., with shrill singing in r.

Nose.—Tickling, as from the copper pole of a galvanic battery, causing sneezing, after many unsuccessful attempts, and discharge of clear fluid. (Violent sneezing.) Discharge of bloody mucus. (Dry coryza, with stoppage of l. nostril.)

Face.—Burning stinging in l. cheek. Fine stinging in r. cheek. Contractive pain in l. cheek, with thrusts, and with drawing pain in third molar. Dryness of inner side of lower lip. Cutting cramp-pain in articulation of jaw.

Mouth.—Feeling in upper incisors as from a cool breath; l. teeth feel as if hollow. Tongue coated white. Smarting of tongue and gums. Burning across middle of tongue, then burning and dryness in whole mouth, the burning > by washing face in cold water, but returning on drying face. Sweetish, insipid mucus. Contractive sensation, causing watery salivation. Saliva hot when discharged; saliva and breath feel hot, without dry feeling in mouth. Saliva tenacious. Cool salivation. Taste as from a foul stomach. Bitter taste to bread; to dry bread in evening; to tobacco when smoking. Smoking tobacco gives no pleasure.

Throat.—Scraping. Nausea in fauces. Tough mucus, which he cannot hawk up. Dryness, with stinging. Swallowing difficult, as if cervical glands were swollen.

Stomach.—Hunger in morning. Eructations frequent, empty; reaching only upper part of chest. Rising of air from stomach when walking in open air, with yawning twice, then eructations and emission of flatus. Hiccough. Nausea; with loathing and shuddering; with pressure in forehead and salivation; with disinclination to attend to business, laziness and want of thinking power. Retching increases in violence in proportion as it becomes more frequent, with lachrymation; empty R., with water collecting in mouth. During the retching all symptoms increase, only the stupid feeling in head decreases.

Vomiting, with anguish; V., with diarrhoea; with exertion of stomach and compression in epigastrium and head; sourish water, with great exertion, pressure on stomach and arrest of breath; scanty, greenish, sourish juice in paroxysms, with great exertion, and with every paroxysm a sensation as if head in region of ears would burst. Cutting in epigastric region, also in places, > emission of flatus. Pinching; in or above it. Pressure in region and pit; in region during inspiration; as from a dull point; in pit, so that he cannot decide whether he is hungry or not. Fulness, with hunger.

Clinical.—Nausea, eructations and vomiting, especially during pregnancy, with the peculiar and excessive sensitiveness of the drug. "Desire for alcoholic drinks is said to be controlled by Asarum. "Strings of odorless mucus pass from the bowels;" whether this drug will prove curative in catarrh of the bowels remains to be proven, many of the symptoms point to its homeopathicity to that condition.

Abdomen.—Painless movement of flatus. Breaking of the flatus not emitted. Cutting in morning before stool, with stitches downward in rectum. Pain; l. during motion, with painful pressing; with vomiting; single painful sensations in l. side, in an oblique direction below umbilicus; raging, in l. groin, darting through urethra into glands and causing sore smarting, contractive pain in the same. Constrictive sensation in region of diaphragm. Fulness, with hunger. Qualmishness, with attacks of headache along coronal suture.

Stool.—Urging to, an hour and a half after a stool, with cutting in abdomen and rectum before and during the stool, which is softer than the former. Diarrhœa; like resin and consisting of tough mucus, for six days shaggy masses of mucus, with ascarides. Whitish-gray and ash-colored, with bloody mucus on top. In small hard pieces. Morning stool delayed, scanty, yellow like an egg (mucous) and in a thin string.

Urinary Organs.—Pressure upon bladder during and after micturition. (Drawing in urethra.) Constant desire to urinate.

Respiratory Organs.—Stitches and constriction in larynx, making respiration short and jerking, the constriction > by hacking cough. Cough from irritation in throat caused by inspiration. Cough from mucus in chest, which rises into throat and causes difficult breathing, then cough with expectoration. Expectoration by hawking and cough. Respiration short at night; short, with constricted feeling in throat and hacking cough. (Whistling when beginning to cough.)

Chest.—Twitchings in region of clavicle. Stitches during respiration; stitch on l. side near pit of stomach. Pressure on; in r. side, at regular intervals; in region of last ribs, as with the back of a knife. Painful stretchings in l. side. Burning in r. half, more external than internal. Lungs, stitches during inspiration; on deep inspiration; in r. during inspiration; deep-seated in l., at every inspiration, arresting breathing; pain as if constricted with a sharp wire; l., or as if cut into by the wire.

Neck.—Spasmodic contractions of l. cervical muscles, with bending of head towards l. side, the contractions > by washing face with cold water, but returning on drying face. Pain in l. side of nape as if a bundle of muscular fibres had been displaced by violent exertion, afterwards extending over head and shoulders. Paralytic pain as if bruised in muscles of nape when moving them. Sensation in muscles of nape as if the cravat were too tight, or as if parts were pressed by a blunt edge.

Weight about neck and sensation as if muscles were compressed by a cravat.

Back.—Stitches below scapulae. Pain across the spinal column from one crista illi to the other as if the flesh were torn or pulled towards the outer side, in tearing jerks, when walking. Bruised pain; along inner border of r. scapula on touching or moving it inward. Paralytic pain as if bruised when standing or sitting, > lying. Burning pain in small of back while sitting, with stitches.

Extremities.—Lightness, he is not aware of having a body. Occasional twitching and tearing pains. Bruised feeling.

Upper Extremities.—Axilla, pressure in l., as with a rough piece of board; sudden aching in axillary glands. Shoulders, tearing stitches; sprained pain when moving arm. Arm, tearing in l.; contractive tense pain in deltoid when laying hand on table, or when it lies there; discomfort and exhaustion of arm when lying on table; paralytic weakness. Wrist, drawing paralytic pain in l.; sudden drawing and burning pain extending from wrist through thumb and index. Fingers, drawing, evening in bed.

Lower Extremities.—Weakness when ascending stairs; weakness as if not rested by sleep.

Thigh.—Spasmodic contractions near r. knee, > extending limb. Lancinating tearing in l. Sudden digging in upper muscles of l. Pain in hip; r. hip; in hip-joint and middle of thigh on touching or walking; in hip-joint and middle of thigh when stepping, with paralyzed feeling in the limb; drawing, in hips when walking; drawing and tense, in head of l. and further on, < walking. Pressure above bend of r. knee as from something hard and blunt. Sensation from r. hip-joint to knee as if it would go to sleep. Weariness and bruised feeling in thighs and knees as in a fit of ague.

Knee.—Tearing stitches. Drawing; in tendons of hollows, evenings in bed. (Clucking in hollow.) Uneasiness in l., causing one to move about. Weakness, with staggering if not very careful, > washing face with cold water, but returning after drying face. Twitching in calf. Bruised feeling in l. tibia. L. leg feels asleep and foot is insensible as when very cold, and as if dead. Sudden stitches in sole. (Toes painful as if frozen.) Drawings in toes, evening in bed.

Skin.—Itching below l. temple, beginning with fine stinging. Itching as from a flea-bite in front, below r. axilla.

Sleep.—Frequent yawning. Drowsiness by day; drowsy and out of humor, > walking in open air. Sleep restless every other night, cannot easily fall asleep. Nightly vexing dreams about insults received.

Fever.—Chilliness when drinking. Shaking over whole body. Chilliness and shivering, without thirst. C., with gooseskin, cold hands, cold and blue face. Shaking chills in evening, with faintness, especially in knees and small of back, without thirst, with cold hands and hot forehead. Shuddering, with disgust and nausea. Shivering, with heat in face. C. after the hot feeling, the heat in head and face remaining, with shivering on slightest motion. C. when seated and not well covered, or when moving, but heat as soon as he covers himself, sometimes with rigors. C. all day, when sitting or lying still and keeping covered he feels only pain in eyes and forehead and pressure on pit of stomach, and sometimes external heat, but during exercise in room or exposure to open air he feels chilly, with scarcely any thirst, but when walking fast or entering warm room from open air, or when becoming heated by animated talking in room, or after dinner, or when in warm bed he feels better. Fever all day, chilliness in forenoon, then after midday nap hot feeling externally, with internal rigor and thirst. Feeling as if a cold wind blew on him, with coldness to touch, goosekin, then heat (in afternoon), with slimy mouth, dryness in throat and thirst, then coldness as before, then in evening heat, continuing in bed, with necessity to uncover his hands and with dryness of palate. Cold feeling above l. ear. Rigor in back (suddenly, from biting on a hard crust). Coldness of hands, with warmth of arms and rest of body, still they are covered with gooseflesh, and he has violent chills.

Heat; as if sweat would break out. Heat after chills, especially in face and palm, with return of the symptoms in ears. Heat of forehead and scalp, with shivering and chilliness, no thirst, pulse strong and quick. R. external ear hot to touch; warmth in region of r. external meatus auditorius, with sensation as if a membrane were stretched across it. Warm feeling in cheeks; l. cheek.

Sweat in evening immediately after lying down; at night; when sitting still; easily; on upper part of body and upper extremities.

Asclepias Cornuti (Syriaca).

This species of milk-weed is quite common in the United States, growing on roadsides. A tincture is prepared from the root.

Group for comparison.—Apocynum c.

Appeared dull and stupid. Headache; morning on waking, with disagreeable feeling in stomach; principally between eyes. Vertigo. Constriction across forehead. Tongue covered with thick fur. Tickling in fauces. Burning and tickling in fauces and throat. Appetite increased. Food little relished. Nausea. Vomiting; violent, with retching; then rawness in stomach and pain, cold skin, feeble pulse and feeling as if a sharp instrument were thrust through from one temple to the other. Pain in stomach; and rawness. Uneasiness in stomach. Increased secretion of bile. Excoriation of anus. Stool, slight inclination to; soft and yellow; fluid, copious, yellowish, with griping; soft, copious, brown, with pain in bowels; frequent. Ardor urinae. Urine increased; in morning; with increase of specific gravity and solid matter; and pale, of lighter specific gravity. Increase of water in urine. Tickling at end of penis. Increase of bronchial secretions.

Heart's action increased. Pulse quick and full; quick and feeble after vomiting. Drowsiness and sleep. "Slept rather hard" during the night. Sweat profuse.

Clinical.—Has relieved persons suffering from dropsy dependent on disease of the kidneys and heart; it appears to increase the quantity of urine and perspiration. Nervous headaches after suppressed perspiration, followed by profuse flow of urine. Dropsy following scarlet fever, or from heart disease. Rheumatism of large joints. Intermittent, pressing uterine pains, threatening miscarriage in pregnant women, have been removed.

Asclepias Tuberosa.

The butterfly-weed has bright orange-red flowers and a large fleshy root; from the root a tincture is prepared.

General Action.—A marked cathartic; muscles, especially of chest, painful (Bry., Coloc., Kali c.).

Generalities.—Pandiculations. Emaciation. It seemed when walking as if he leaned forward and to the left. Sharp bone-pains from time to time in different parts. Pain in joints. Oppression from dinner till evening. Distress and general weakness after walking a short distance and smoking a cigar, with aversion to all movement. Pulsations in muscles, in arms, back and various parts. Numbness of whole body. Feeling as if recovering from a long and severe illness. Weakness; morning; morning, especially in legs; > evening; so that walking is difficult; with disinclination to work; of body and mind all day, with dulness.

Mind.—Elevation of spirits towards evening. Low spirits. Fretfulness. Thought difficult. Memory weak.

Head.—Aching; morning on getting up, also obliging him to lie down again in consequence of debility; > foot-bath. Heaviness; with pain, < l. side; with drowsiness; with uneasiness; and of eyes. Confusion; when getting up, with heaviness. Intoxicated feeling after smoking a little, vertigo, dim vision and general debility. Vertigo, with dulness behind forehead. Aching in forehead; forehead and vertex, < motion and > lying. Aching in r. side of head at noon. Headache presses deeply on base of skull and is similar to Ipec. headache. Alopecia. Pain in scalp of l. occiput, with pain on touch, as if there were a pimple there.

Eyes.—Dull, and he looks as after several weeks' sickness. Ophthalmia. Blepharophthalmus, heaviness of eyes and itching in r. ball. Blepharitis. Feeling as from sand. Pain from gas-light. Fatigued; and heavy. Ulcerative sensation in lower lids. Pain in l. inner canthus, with itching in globe, and on shutting lids a noise like the sucker of a pump-box. Itching in r. inner canthus at 4 p.m., in lower lid and all over face, with stitches in forehead and several parts of body. Pain in l. orbit. Vision disturbed. Vision of black spots.

Nose.—Pimple on septum in r. nostril and at r. side of root, with itching. Pricking in like a flea-bite. Itching; in l. nostril; in root on both sides. Sneezing; desire for, in l. nostril. Coryza in morning in open air; dry C.; fluent. Blows blood from l. nostril.

Face.—Hippocratic. Yellow complexion. Lips inflated and full of pimples.

Mouth.—Teeth yellow. Pain in r. lower molars. Gums and buccal membrane pale, inclining to yellow. Gums bleeding; of r. upper canine tooth. Tongue has yellow sticky coat. Breath fetid, even smelling of pepper. Taste putrid; taste of blood.

Throat.—Constriction, with pricking in larynx. Angina.

Stomach.—Appetite depraved; deficient; anorexia in morning; insatiable hunger at noon. Thirst. Eructations; till evening; prolonged, smelling of medicine. Nausea morning on getting up. Cramps. Pain; with rumbling in bowels; in pit, with burning in stomach; nervous. Gastralgia; after supper, and it seems as if the cough would shatter the stomach. Burning in stomach and intestines, with noisy borborygni and slight pain. Weight.

Abdomen.—Rumbling; at 3 A.M., with cutting pain, which wakes him; at 6 A.M. on waking, with soreness of peritoneum; and uneasiness, with heat in umbilical region. Flatus emitted till evening; emitted, with rumbling in region of transverse colon; smelling intolerably of medicine. Pain; forenoon; 11 A.M.; after dinner; on ascending stairs; on pressure; continues long after a stool, with smarting in rectum; with emission of fetid flatus. Wind colic after breakfast; flatulent pain and stool of intolerable smell, with sharp pain in hypogastrium as if rotten, with soreness on pressure and as if it would all come out; wind colic while walking, pain as if everything would fall down. Pain at 1 A.M. as if intestines would fall out, with painful and large stool, then at 1.30 and 2 A.M. small and painful stools with increasing pains. R. hypochondrium, pain; grumbings in evening after being magnetized. Throbbing in l. hypochondrium.

Rectum and Anus.—Urging to stool. Blind hæmorrhoids.

Stool.—Dysentery, with threadlike pulse. Liquid (after salad); liquid causing smarting; soft and fetid, preceded by rumbling. Of intolerable smell. Like moss and suspended in water, at 4.30 A.M. Entirely albuminous. Sticky green, smelling like rotten eggs. Yellow, like tincture of turmeric, with yellow and green flocks. Frequent, painful, with colic, of bistre color and slimy, the last containing false membranes, looking as if intestines had been scraped, also yellow spots as from grease and feeling like a stream of fire. Always accompanied by colic. Insufficient.

Urinary Organs.—Lancinations in urethra, with excoriations of glans penis and beginning of a sanious and purulent secretion, the excoriation > bathing with urine. Shooting in orific of urethra. Urine red; and after standing there rise to surface small red, almost black spots, the sediment is deep-colored and thick, in the form of clouds and masses of moss, while the surface (beneath the spots) is clear and as if decomposed.

Sexual Organs.—Sweat and insipid smell. Flabbiness and insipid smell. Weakness. Chance on r. side of prepuce, was washed with urine and passed to l. side. Erection without desire; prolonged erection in morning.

Respiratory Organs.—Pain in bronchi. Asthmatic paroxysm. Inspiration noisy and forcible, and the lungs seem to be dilated more fully. Forcible inspirations at 4 P.M. Respiration painful, especially at base of l. lung. Cough dry; with constriction in throat; dry and harsh, causing pain in forehead and abdomen (Bry.); dry and hacking (Bry.), though a little mucus is raised with effort; dry and spasmodic.

Chest.—L. lung dull on percussion. Shooting downward from l. nipple, with stiffness of l. side of neck. Pain moves up to behind sternum and becomes sharper and cutting, < long breath and motion of hands, as in triturating (Bry.). Acute pain on r. side, seemingly in pleura. Pain < singing or loud speaking; P. in region of diaphragm on motion; beneath l. nipple, with palpitation; in lungs, > bending forward (Coloc.); in l. lung, then weariness, the pain returning on coughing or drawing a deep breath. Spaces between ribs close to sternum tender on pressure, and darting pain shoots over to r. side. Oppression after smoking; after the forcible inspirations; with difficulty in breathing. Warmth internally, with dull pain at base of lungs and with feeling of tightness. Weak and sore feeling. Paralysis of r. lung in forenoon, with violent pain.

Clinical.—Pleurodynia or acute pleurisy.

Heart and Pulse.—Lancinating pain near heart; lancinations in heart and r. intercostal muscles at 6 P.M. Pain as from the prick of a pin. Constrictive pain. Pulse disturbed after dinner. Rapid and small.

Neck and Back.—Torticollis on waking. Lancinating pain between shoulders. Pain in back and between shoulders; between shoulders, < on r. side; between shoulders, a little to left, in afternoon. Rheumatic pain in r. scapula and in l. wrist. Pain in loins near sacrum, lumbago.

Extremities.—Bone pain in r. arm and r. leg. Pains are always felt crosswise, when r. leg is affected the l. arm is equally so, and when it is r. arm it is also l. thigh. Pain in r. shoulder and l. leg; r. shoulder and l. knee; l. thigh and r. shoulder; l. wrist, r. arm and l. knee; r. arm near wrist and in l. leg near malleoli; l. knee and r. forearm; r. knee and leg and l. elbow; l. knee and r. elbow; above l. knee and in l. arm.

Upper Extremities.—Shoulder, pain shooting up to l., which was painful on motion; sharp shooting pain in r. Pain in shoulders and in r. breast; in r. shoulder after dinner; in l. and in r. forearm near wrist; in l. after getting up.

Arm.—Bruised pain in l. Pain in r.; l.; rheumatic, in l. Arthritic pain in r. elbow. Pain in l. arm near wrist. Pain near r. wrist at 3 P.M. Hand, pain in l. at 9.30 P.M.; rheumatic, in r.; neuralgic, in r. palm; numbness of l. hand.

Lower Extremities.—Thigh, pain in r.; in l. near knee at 6.30 P.M.; rheumatic, close to l. knee; coxalgic, in l.; coxalgic, in r. hip.

Knee.—Sharp and lancinating pain as far as thigh; lancinating pain in l. at 2 P.M., and when walking pain in r. hip-joint. Pain in l.; pain in l. when walking; in r. when walking, and in l. when sitting; aching, in knees and driving P. in thighs; rheumatic, in l. knee and r. thigh; rheumatic, in l., also morning on getting up, also at 8.30 P.M.; rheumatic, in r. at 1.30 P.M., extending into femur.

Leg.—Rheumatic pains. Sharp pain in r. tibia near knee at 6.30 P.M., with sore pain on pressure. Weakness of legs in morning. Sharp bone pain near l. malleoli. Pain in l. tarsus; rheumatic pain in r. tarsus. Pain in l. foot. Sprained feeling in l. foot. Lancinating pain in l. metatarsus. Painful corns on foot and a callosity on each fourth toe; corns painful in bed, < touch of bed-clothes. Rheumatic pains in l. fourth and little toes.

Skin.—Red erythematous tetter on r. thigh below ilium (after dinner), with pain and itching, less inflamed in evening, then another of lighter color, but sore to touch, behind it, the first followed by a dark-colored spot for several months. Pimples; on l. temporal region and on back; below upper lip, on r. side; small red, in a thick cluster beneath l. labial commissure, with crawling and gnawing itching; on lip, then below angle of mouth, becoming pustular, and one on eyebrow, which is painful (r. side); on l. side of nose, filled with serum; itching, on nose, thighs and back; red, on stomach; on nape of neck; on back, itching at night and towards morning; on l. wrist; on l. middle finger; on thighs; red, on r. thigh. Itch-pustules on l. hand, with itching. Variolous pustule on bend of l. arm. Blister as from a bug-bite between sacrum and r. ilium.

Itching of lobe of r. ear, of face, nose, and especially lips. At root of nose on both sides. Around body like a girdle, evening when lying; of waist and at top of l. thigh; thighs; nates; r. thigh in evening, then l.; hips and l. thigh; l. ham; arms at night; forearms at night; wrists at night; l. hand and r. side; l. hand between middle and little fingers; last l. fingers, then in r.

Sleep.—Drowsiness; > open air; irresistible. Somnolence till evening. Sleeplessness. Slumbers tardy; with drowsiness in morning. Night restless; sleep restless during first part of night, with frightful dreams.

Dreams gloomy and frightful; frightful, all night, waking him at 5 A.M. Tiresome, of duels, flight, etc.; fatiguing, of reckless boasting, of trying to sing political songs in a loud voice in spite of the presence of spies. Extraordinary, of political affairs. Of churches, of horses and of troublesome things. Of supernatural things. Of the country, and other dreams. Complicated, but containing its own explanation, as if it had happened the night before.

Fever.—Chilliness, with cold feet. Fever, with adipsia and rapid pulse. Warmth of skin.

Asimina Triloba.

The Papaw, a small tree growing in the South and Southwest of the United States, ripens a fleshy fruit, which is edible when ripe. A tincture is prepared from the crushed seeds. The cutaneous disturbance (and fever) were caused by eating the skin of the fruit.

Compare Anacardium, Rhus t., Cocculus.

Languid and pale. Discomfort all day. Did not care to converse, even with his best friends. Headache; morning on waking; became general through frontal region after walking in open air and somewhat relieved. Aching in temples; morning on rising, involving eye, with occasional sharp pain over it, which was < by a single cough. Throat sore, but not so much so as the hoarseness would indicate. Stomach felt increased in size; soreness on pressure. Colic. Rumbling pain in abdomen in evening, with desire for stool, then a pappy, insufficient stool. Soreness in abdomen, < pressure. Pain in l. hypochondrium. Rectum and bowels inactive. Insufficient stool.

Hoarseness; with unusual difficulty in talking, seeming as if mucous membrane were thickened, and organs slow to respond to efforts of speech. Cough slight and dry. Aching pain in upper part of chest, < l. side; in upper part of l. lung. Lower end of sternum sore on pressure. Pain in l. shoulder, involving pectoral muscles. Sharp pain in l. hip-joint at 10.30 A.M., 1.30 P.M., and in evening.

Eyes red, burning and smarting, lids swollen, and face covered with pale red eruption, with some swelling of integument and with much smarting and burning, which allowed to run its course watery vesicles form, which coalesce, burst and form large dark crusts, but on this occasion, after Rhus tox. 3d, the eruption did not form crusts and subsided in a few days, when the stomach became tender to touch, as if "sore inside," for three days, with bloating, then > by appearance of dry, papular eruption in patches over body and extremities, with now and then a watery vesicle, and with intense itching and burning, < scratching and heat, > cold air and cold water, the eruption beginning with a red, itching, burning point, after scratching and rubbing a blotch like hives, the itching < from early in evening till after rising in morning, the poisoning has followed this course several times, it began this time on l. cheek.

Waking about daylight, unrefreshed, with headache. Did not rest well at night, turned and moved all night, could not dismiss from my thoughts what had occurred during the day, and got up unrefreshed. Fever, with vomiting of ingesta, scarlet eruption, pulse rapid, full and steady, fauces red and swollen, tonsils and submaxillary glands enlarged, yellowish diarrhoea, frontal headache, soreness of throat and nausea, afterwards desquamation of cuticle and a carbuncle on anterior aspect of thigh, the eruption, fever and diarrhoea being much like some cases of scarlet fever, and the diarrhoea lasting much longer than the other symptoms, all the other children had the eruption on neck and upper limbs.

Asparagus.

Asparagus officinalis, the well-known garden perennial, contains an active principle (Asparagine), which also occurs in Convallaria, Paris, Robinia, etc. A tincture is prepared from the young sprouts.

General Action.—This substance is a marked diuretic and sometimes an emetic; it depresses the heart, produces profuse mucous secretions, nasal and bronchial, and causes weakness. Its allies are Convallaria, Squills, Paris, Digitalis, Apocynum, etc.

Generalities.—Most symptoms < on motion. Pains > throving chest forward and head backward.

Mind.—Serenity. Peculiar anxiety, with palpitation and ill humor.

Head.—Confusion and vertiginous staggering. Forehead, aching, with confusion; aching in brain near eyes; confusion; heaviness in sinciput; stupefaction in sinciput, then aching in temples, < l.; vertigo in sinciput. Temples, pressing pain, < pressure.

Eyes.—Stitches and crawling. Vision acute.

Nose.—Sneezing; irritation to. Coryza, with profuse thin whitish fluid from l. nostril, then from r.; C., with aching extending from root of nose over forehead to fore part of head; C., with beginning dryness and swelling of internal nostrils, then impeded entrance of air; dry C. Smell lost.

Face.—Pale.

Mouth.—Painless cavity and exfoliation of a carious molar. Saliva diminished; increased; sweetish, as if mixed with blood. Talking through nose. Taste coppery; T. sweetish, insipid.

Throat.—Hawking almost constantly, with rough feeling in throat; inclination to hawk and cough, rising from deep in throat; and inclination to cough, the mucus is not readily loosened, but is brought up by paroxysms of cough; H. of mucus. Copious tenacious mucus from throat.

Stomach.—Thirst. Eructations. Retching while coughing. Nausea on waking before 5 A.M., and vomiting of the food eaten in the evening, with bile and mucus, then fecal bilious diarrhoea, then frequent vomiting with increased effort. Wind.

Abdomen.—Discharge of much wind. Distention. Colic, with bilious diarrhoea. Gripping in region of navel, which is painful on touch. Pinching below navel in evening. Drawing pain in groin.

Anus and Stool.—Burning and soreness at anus,

(Itching in anus.) Peculiar desire for stool and somewhat difficult hardish stool.

Urinary Organs.—Burning in urethra; and cutting; burning after urinating, with sensation as if there were more urine to pass. Urging to urinate. Urinating frequently, with fine stitches in orifice of urethra. Frequent scanty discharge of urine, preceded by sticking in urethra, with burning. Urine scanty and cloudy; decreased, beer-brown, without sediment; a little straw-colored urine, becomes turbid immediately. Diuresis; with thirst and increase of appetite. Urine of peculiar odor. Turbid urine after dinner; turbid when passed, but became clear and formed a white, flocculent sediment. Fatty coating on sides of glass after the urine was shaken out and the glass well washed. Urine kept over night formed a reddish deposit on sides of vessel.

Clinical.—Cystitis, pus and mucus, tenesmus, weak bladder, enlarged prostate or inflammation of the neck of the bladder from cold, with pus and mucus.

Sexual Organs.—Swelling of penis, with erections and urging to urinate. Stitching on r. side of glans. Excitement of sexual passions. Menses one day longer than usual.

Respiratory Organs.—Tickling and inclination to cough. Cough towards evening; remitted after breakfast; straining, with inclination to vomit, and also forcing tears into eyes; distressing, with oppression of chest and copious mucus. Expectoration difficult. Mucus is more readily loosened upon each turn of coughing. Breathing difficult when moving or ascending stairs. Is obliged to sit up in bed to relieve the breathing.

Chest.—Stitches in l. on inspiration; in various parts on inspiration, especially about l. scapula. Pressure in, after breakfast. Sudden darting pain through r. at 10 A.M. Oppression. Constriction; < writing. Tension when taking a deep breath; tensive sensation on inspiration, as if hollow. Hollow sensation, with external heaviness.

Heart and Pulse.—Stitching in region of heart after eating. Palpitation, < after motion and ascending stairs, with anxious restlessness; with oppression of chest; while sitting, so that the leaves of the book he held trembled. Pulsation of heart perceptible to touch and hearing; on moderate motion. Irregular, quick, twofold stroke of heart. Heart's beat hardly perceptible. Pulse small, compressible. Pulse accelerated; when sitting.

Clinical.—Cardiac affections of people with weak pulse, pain about the left shoulder. Palpitations and pains about the heart, with troubles in the bladder.

Back.—Rheumatic pain between scapulae. Pain in small of back, at beginning of lumbar vertebrae. Shooting pains through loins, in region of lumbar vertebrae while sitting.

Upper Extremities.—Shoulder. Pain in region of, on touch. Rheumatic pain in region of r.

Lower Extremities.—Thigh. Pain as from dislocation in neck of r. bone while walking; in forenoon while walking, preventing rapid motion and sometimes causing limping. Bruised pain in muscles in middle, making it difficult to walk, < descending stairs, with sore pain on touch. Sore pain in upper surface on touch and on bending hip and knee-joints, making it difficult to walk. Stitching above r. knee, then below l. side of knee, evening when sitting. Indications of cramp in calves. Cramplike pain in l. calf while stretching on waking, > rubbing. R. foot more painful than l. R. foot weaker than l. Drawing in l. toe, which he had cut with an axe when a boy, at 10 P.M. before sleep.

Sleep.—Drowsiness and yawning; in morning.

Fever.—Shivering, with weary sleepiness. Warmth increased. Febrile excitement at 3 P.M., with weariness. Heat of face. Burning of cheeks.

Asterias Rubens.

The red star-fish is found on the seacoast of Europe and America; for medicinal use a tincture is prepared from the live animal, which is cut in pieces and macerated in Alcohol.

General Action.—Experiments hitherto made developed chiefly nervous phenomena. Hysterical and neuralgic symptoms predominate. Notice particularly the neuralgia of the left breast and arm.

Generalities.—Desire for open air, anxiety and impatience in the house. Difficulty in keeping still. Scarcely able to work. Malaise, lassitude > after eating; malaise after evening meal, with heat of skin, frequency and fullness of pulse. Lassitude under influence of heat, especially warmth of bed. Symptoms increase in intensity in the second part of the day, especially in the evening.

Clinical.—Is reported to have cured a case of chorea, quiet only when the hands were in the pockets; at other times trembling of arms and legs, could scarcely walk.

Mind.—Uncommon cheerfulness in evening. Inclination to bite. Irritation from noon till 2 P.M., with anger and inclination to pick a quarrel with some one. Melancholy alternating with cerebral excitement, with inclination to give herself up to mental or bodily work, to walk or engage in violent exercise, species of moral intoxication. Weeping, with despair, then calmness. Sensitiveness prompting him to weep from least emotion. Anguish from noon till 3 P.M., as if a misfortune were impending or he were going to hear bad news, and he then feels as if he should give way to tears. Disturbance of understanding, with general debility.

Head.—Distress in brain. Headache stopped at noon. Aching, < at close of day, more severe at back of head than at forehead, the head aches all night. Whole skull painful during the severe pains. Pain in skull as if being crushed. Vertigo; when walking. Shocks in brain as from an electric battery, waking him in the night, with light feeling in head, consciousness almost lost, fear of apoplexy, and on coming to himself hard quick pulse and violent throbbing in r. carotid, this fever lasted till close of next day. Rush of blood; with fullness, heat and feeling as if about to burst. Throbbing; when ascending or walking. Twitches in brain; during first half of night, when blowing nose. Heaviness; with heat, throbbing in head and flushed face.

Forehead.—Boring above l. eye, coming on and ceasing suddenly, causing contraction of brows, with misty vision. Aching above eyes; in sinciput in morning, hardly ceasing in daytime by walking in open air; with fullness, contraction of muscles and compression above eyes; seeming to crush eyes by a heavy weight. Twitchings in forehead, at temples, especially occiput.

Pressure at temples. Lancinating pain in r. temple. Pain in vertex as if skull were bruised. Agitation, spasms, feeling of uneasiness in upper part of brain, < exercising memory or understanding, a sensation similar to the weariness of a limb after great exertion. Flying pain in r. half of head. Sudden pain in r. side. Fulness of head, seeming to disturb it laterally. Occipital aching after breakfast, going and coming suddenly; at r. side, < walking.

Eyes.—Bloodshot. Fatigued look. Pain from within outward. Heat. Balls drawn backward. Winking, with redness of edges of lids. Fatigued by light. Can hardly be used in evening.

Ears.—Lancinating pain, which is felt in auditory meatus, is concentrated at occiput and there ceases, returns in the course of the day, but more feebly. Hard hearing, < r. ear; hard hearing, with sounds as of a river, of waves. Sudden loud noise in both ears.

Nose.—Sneezing in morning on waking, with coryza. Epistaxis.

Face.—Red; and swollen. Expression of dulness, a kind of stupidity in posture and look.

Mouth.—Tongue swollen. Drawing pain in tongue. Tongue troubles her, with repugnance to talking. Saliva increased.

Throat.—Dryness. Irritation; with heat. Soreness in morning on waking, with constriction. Dull pain extending along oesophagus.

Stomach.—Appetite wanting, with loss of taste. Aversion to meat. Capricious appetite, with desire for highly seasoned dishes, strong cheese, liquors, coffee, tea. Loud and frequent eructations in morning. Lassitude of stomach in morning, after many loud eructations, with heat in this organ.

Abdomen.—Alternately swollen and lessened in size. Colic, with shivering alternating with flushes of heat in face; colic, then diarrhoea. Drawing in walls. Flatulence very troublesome after each meal, because it does not pass off either above or below. Dull pain in shocks in r. side and near navel.

Rectum and Stool.—Hæmorrhoidal swelling. Hæmorrhoidal flux. Heat in rectum. Stool liquid, brown, gushing. Frequent, soft stools. Difficult, firm stool. Constipation, ineffectual urging.

Urinary Organs.—Frequent urging to urinate, and more abundant urine. Frequent emission of watery urine. Thick viscid urine, with heat in urethra on urinating.

Sexual Organs.—Erections in morning; frequent in sleep. Pressure in lower organs of abdomen (womb?), walking is troublesome. Anguish in womb as if something protruded. Jerking in uterus. Unusual moisture in vagina, which affords relief. General sensation as before menses. Menses delayed eight days, during which the colic and other sufferings which usually accompany them are present, but they cease after appearance of the flow, which is more abundant than usual. She is harassed by sexual desire every morning in bed.

Chest.—Breasts swell, as before menses. Lancinating pain in anterior inferior portion, to r. and l. of sternum, > throwing back upper chest and shoulders. Pain under sternum; P. in whole l. side, < movement; dull, in muscles of præcordial region. L. breast feels as if pulled inward. Drawing pain in breasts; towards inner portion of chest, from before backward, under the l. breast this pain extends over inner portion of arm to end of little finger. Compression in præcordial region. Fulness, making him fearful of syncope. Undulating pulsations at night causing anxiety.

Heart.—Anxiety during the night and in morning. Palpitation; leaping, and when strong extending to epigastrium, with a tightening sensation. Beats scarcely perceptible and prolonged.

Back.—Drawing pain; in sacrum.

Extremities.—Uneasiness especially in bends of arms, and she can hardly bear the arms covered. Diminished sensibility, especially in legs and thighs. Pain in r. shoulder; l. elbow; flexor tendons of l. wrist; extending from thumb-joint to shoulder. Numbness of hands and fingers; of l. hand, extending to arm; of hypothenar eminence and of l. finger.

Lower Extremities.—Bruised pain. Restlessness in a close room, with need of fresh air. Lassitude.

Thigh.—Lancinations in anterior part; on anterior surface; burning, in l. great trochanter and hip-joint, darting to outer side of ham. Aching in l. hip-joint in morning. Pain in r. hip and in whole l. side as far as scapula, causing fever. Pulling pain at outer side of l. Drawing in r. hip as if leg were too long and were pulled downward.

Pain in l. knee. Lancinating pain in a sore made on leg by scratching. Legs weak when standing. Pain in r. ankle; in l., < walking. Foot, pain in l., and in muscles of leg; in joints of l.; gouty, in l., < movement, it centres at articulation of great toe with the metatarsal bone and continues there all day. Painful drawing in soles and toes.

Toes.—Cutting in l. great, with soreness of l. sole and pain in toes. Lancinating pain, especially in l. great, with heat and soreness, which prevented wearing a shoe, < after sunset and in a close room, with redness, which was < by heat, the pain > cold air or cold water, renewed by warmth of bed, but ceased in early part of night, and returned several evenings.

Skin.—Eruption between breasts. Redness on chest, with branlike efflorescence; red spot over l. olecranon process, with a dry, branny, friable coating, and a similar spot on anterior part of same arm; red blotch on chest, with itching. Fomication in lower limbs. Itching around l. thumb-nail; of thighs and legs, > towards 6 p.m. in open air.

Sleep.—Sleepy when reading. Sleep from 2 a.m. till middle of day. Sleep, with restlessness. Vivid dreams about persons and events.

Fever.—Shivering, with drowsiness, heat of skin and restlessness at night; S. during the colic, alternating with flushes of heat in face. Coldness of l. arm as from a cold wind. Heat. Antipathy to everything which causes heat, with extreme desire to bathe in cold water. Heat in head; as if surrounded by hot air; in head, then in whole body, with desire to drink cold water and cool herself internally and externally; of feet; of skin, fever at close of day, shivering, heat followed by cold; of skin after evening meal, with malaise, frequency and fulness of pulse.

Astragalus Menziesii.

A tincture is prepared from the plant. Natural order, Leguminosæ. Compare Oxytropis, to which Astragalus is closely related.

Weak feeling, with a feeling in arms as if trembling; weak feeling, with emptiness in stomach, the latter > a light supper. Feeling as if all nerves were trembling. Vertigo in occasional attacks, with fulness in head. Aching in temples. Fulness in r. temple and superior maxillary bone, with nausea, shivering and chilliness. Pain in l. superior bone, then pressure. Aching in r. superior bone, with pressure in both bones. Pain in masseter muscles. Burning in pharynx, cesophagus and stomach. Stool loose, like diarrhoea, at 7.15 A.M., an unusual hour, with burning and tenesmus, at 8 A.M. burning at anus, recurring occasionally, and at 9.15 A.M. occasional tenesmus. Sleep restless after midnight, frequently disturbed, with dreams of quarreling.

Atropinum.

Atropine and its salts, obtained from Belladonna, are prepared for use by titration.

Physiological Action similar to Belladonna.

Alfred Drugs.—Bell., Hyosc., Stram., Sulphur, (Secale c.).

Antidote.—Morphine, Nicotine, each in part.

Generalities.—Appears dull and stupid. Convulsions; especially of limbs; beginning in neck and face. Clonic spasms of biceps flexor cubiti and of muscles of jaw, < by disturbing the patient. Clonic cramp in face and limbs (moves arms forward in front of chest). Staggering, then falling, with convulsive movements of limbs, then pupils much dilated, heart beating rapidly, tongue curled to roof of mouth, lips, mouth and throat dry, convulsions about once in five minutes, glossopharyngeal not responsive to tickling. Twitching in head and arms, with vomiting, face red, then pale, pleasant delirium, head thrown from side to side, fingers closed, arms flexed, convulsions of upper limbs, looking as if deeply drunk, after three hours clonic spasms over whole body, passing into toxic ones, pupils dilated, no reaction, difficult deglutition, voice hoarse and thick, skin insensible, dry, bluish-white, no fever, pulse small, frequent, soft, irregular, intermittent, respiration accelerated, superficial.

Jerkings; especially in legs, arms and face, when attempting to drink the arm contracted suddenly and the water was spilled, and when walking one or both legs contracted, throwing one to the ground. Hands tremulous and eyes closed, but she became quiet and drowsy, then kicking and throwing her arms about, limbs weak, unable to stand, face flushed, then meddlesome and pleasant delirium, picked at her clothes, tried to get out of bed, imagined she was sewing, nursing her child or shopping with her sister, then repeated sighing and yawning, then unconsciousness and stupor, eyes closed, pupils dilated, muscular system relaxed, except trismus, deglutition almost impossible, respiration labored and like that of an intoxicated person, lids closed, conjunctivæ injected, eyes brilliant and staring, tongue, hard and soft palates glazed and parched. Face flushed, pulse full, strong, hard and bounding, respiration almost stertorous, somnolency, impairment of senses, when aroused and raised up he would look around wildly, and when addressed in a loud voice muttered incoherent words, tremor, weakness, especially of lower limbs, so that he was unable to stand, though there was considerable strength in his arms, involuntary micturition. Convulsive trembling of one or another muscle.

Startings in women; S. at any sudden noise; at night when nearly asleep, as if frightened (Bell., Sul.). Busy with his hands, pulling the bed-clothes about. Restlessness; in morning on rising, and unrefreshed; with agitation of body and mind; with sleeplessness; with haste, becoming a desire to fight. Impossible to keep him in bed and difficult to keep him from walking about. Sensitiveness; to sounds and objects at night, with symptoms akin to early stage of meningitis, in morning rapid pulse, furred tongue and hot, dry skin. General discomfort. Weakness; morning on rising; in morning, lay in a half-dreamy sleep and after dressing great desire to lie down again; in open air; during stool, with nervousness, general discomfort and sweat; and trembling all over. Faintness and need of fresh air. Anæmia.

Motion difficult, and when I raised my arms they fell as if made of lead. Heaviness, drowsiness or actual sleep, with tendency to dreamy delirium. Numb or crawling sensation, formication, down back, on arms and backs of hands. Torpor and paralytic trembling. Anæsthesia (Abs., Acon., Bell., Sec. c.); and water glides over skin without moistening it or producing sensation. Lost the power to estimate distances either by eye or touch, touching an object produces no sensation. Better sitting or standing than lying.

Clinical.—It has been used homeopathically for neuralgias; supraorbital, < emotion; earache; neuralgia under the knee, > warm wraps, etc. It has sometimes been prescribed for the symptoms of Bell., especially in meningitis, spinal irritation.

Mind.—Delirium, with restlessness; < at night, with agitation; with drowsiness; followed by or alternating with stupor. Meddlesome D. Frightful phantasies. Spectral illusions at night. Struggling to rise from bed (Bell.). Jumping out of bed and insisting on dressing himself. Resists being undressed, saying continually that he shall lose the train. Restless and unmanageable, refusing to answer, swallow or to be examined, and appeared profoundly intoxicated. Delirious and restless, talking constantly about his affairs. Talked almost unintelligible nonsense in morning on waking. Attempts to reason. Insisted that her blood did not circulate, and that her feet must be put into hot water or she would die. Answers imaginary questions. Talked and laughed wildly, but answered questions readily, fancying that they were at home and attempting to arrange furniture. Returned answers when addressed, whose beginning showed that he understood, but which passed into irrelevant, senseless talk. Incoherent quarreling. Delirium after a chill, resembling the subdelirium of certain typhoid fevers. Busied with subjects which at other times occupy his mind, politics and struggles consequent on his relations in life. On closing eyes after retiring, mind filled with strange ideas, rambling, incoherent speech, spectral illusions, with fits of wild, uncontrollable laughter, the delirium lasting all night, fancied that I was afflicted with epilepsy and afraid others would discover my condition, nearly oblivious of all that transpired the latter part of the night, but know from bruises and pains from contact with a stove, chair or some solid body that it was passed in the wildest delirium.

Delirium, resembling delirium tremens; incessant rambling, restlessness, grasping at imaginary objects and screaming from fright, terror was depicted on his face, and he clung to his nurse's neck or he threw himself in different directions to escape the frightful objects (Stram.), later the delusions were pleasurable, of playing with toys, drawing, eating, etc. Pleasing illusions, meddling with everything, picking at and handling imaginary objects, with muttering and smiling, or with loud chattering interrupted by subdued laughter. Hallucinations, grasping at imaginary objects, with staggering, rapid, full and strong pulse, drowsy, stupid, answered in an indistinct tone but rationally, afterwards coma increased, head hung upon his shoulders in a limp state, unconscious, respiration ceased and artificial respiration was resorted to. Picking at specks and at the air, on lying in bed. Picking at bed-clothes, as if searching for something at night, with confused mutterings (Hvos.). Incoherent quarreling. Frenzied with excitement. At times when it seemed to him as if he were fully conscious he saw persons at the bedside, and slowly reached out to grasp them, or saw books and newspapers which receded, or the hand would come in contact with them and feel nothing. Felt a wet cloth on my head, but supposed I had been out in the rain without a hat, etc., etc.

Delirious, but not wholly unconscious, starting from a brief repose, and screaming with pain or terror and clutching, flexor muscles of limbs, especially upper, were principally affected, muscles of spine occasionally contracted so as to jerk head backward, pupils dilated, pulse rapid and weak, skin dry, hot and covered with scarlatinoid redness. Violent delirium, tongue dry and brown, respiration labored and quick, with flapping of cheeks, twitching of arms and legs, catching at imaginary objects. Excitement, with congested skin, face, hands and whole body swollen, delirium, sensibility suspended, clonic spasms at times of limbs, pupils dilated, thirst, speech thick and clogged, tongue and throat swollen. Delirium, with absurd hallucinations, pulse rapid and feeble, skin flushed and dry, tongue dry and brown, thirst, throat dry.

Motion unpleasant, and if feet were lifted in walking the floor seemed to recede before they were put down again, a sliding of the feet seemed the only safe way of locomotion, with dizziness and fear of falling, great thirst, but only a little water could be drunk at a time because swallowing was unpleasant, languid feeling, a semi-recumbent position was assumed, and whether sleep with wild dreams or waking hallucinations followed it was impossible to tell, but they were the opposite of those produced by Cannabis indica, for all the imaginations and conversations were of the long past, whether there was total blindness or imagination of blindness could not be remembered, but all the images were very distinct, the actions were performed by embodied spirits of those long since departed, and lengthy pleasant conversations were held with Plato, Alcibiades, Aspasia and others, sound sleep must have followed, for consciousness did not return till sixteen hours after taking the Atropia, then sudden waking, with nothing abnormal but languor and disturbed vision. Loud cries without pain.

Fretful. Desire to scold and quarrel, alternating with internal anxiety and fear, changing at last to anguish. Morose, quarrelsome, angry at trifles. Sudden fear of death, with nervous excitement and formation all over body. Apprehension after his internal restlessness, soon amounting to anxiety. Sadness; with anxiety, restlessness and fear of misfortune, or angry and inclined to be alone, seldom lively. Cheerful to an exaggerated degree. Indolence of mind; then vertigo, then beginning intoxication. Want of memory. Memory wrong, thinks what happened in the night of the 11th took place in the night of the 10th. Attention difficult to fix. Absent-minded; and forgetful, after partly finishing a sentence was obliged to inquire what I had been saying. Feels as if awakened from a dream. Confusion of mind when he closes his eyes, and all sorts of spectres. Dull and not inclined to move about or converse; when spoken to often turns his head to the wrong side. Unconsciousness; with incoherent talking; and irritability, striking his mother when she took him from the nurse. Comatose; and insensible, with dilated pupils and flushed and swollen face; with cyanotic and cool skin, pale face, livid lips, relaxed limbs, jaw hanging down, mouth and tongue dry, pupils dilated, insensible, respiration slow, pulse 90.

Head and face flushed and hot, with full, bounding, irregular pulse. Sticking in base of skull and especially over eyes on every motion and < stepping. Feeling as if screwed up, and walking caused sticking. Aching; with vertigo, pain in back and nausea; with vertigo on sudden motion; sick headache, with pain in r. eye and r. temple. Fulness and discomfort; skull feels too small for brain, pain in vertex and over eyes, pain in all that part of head above eyes, head feels as if it would burst. Dull feeling, with feeling as if hair were matted into a thick felt. Confusion in morning as after a disturbed night, > open air; dizzy, evenings, alternating with vivid phantasies, with general fatigue and at times ringing in ears. Intoxicated feeling, afraid to walk, must concentrate the mind to keep from falling, staggering.

Vertigo; in morning on rising, so that it became dark before his eyes; on waking; on waking, < rising, with confusion of head; on waking with staggering towards objects for support; on turning head quickly; when attempting to walk; with wanderings of vision; with weight on vertex and over eyes; with pressure in temples, with little or no pain; with strange feeling in head, so that he could not see, throat deep red, sore, with inability to swallow; with heaviness, drowsiness or sleep, tendency to dreamy delirium and in women startings; intermittent; intermittent in forenoon.

Forehead.—Intermittent fine drawing stitches across F. and temples. Aching; > closing eyes; headache beginning in middle of F.; in anterior-superior cerebral region; with vertigo on moving suddenly. Fulness, with heat of head; in anterior part of brain; in front part of head, with dilatation of pupils.

Temples.—Sticking in l. in morning on waking, extending behind ear, scarcely permitting him to open l. eye, < moving about in open air. Aching; and in eyes; intermittent, like a deep heavy pressure, and at other times tension in anterior cerebral region, as if brain pressed out in all directions. Pressure from without. < r. Bruised feeling. Fulness: in T. and forehead, with pain and with vertigo so that one can scarcely walk. Throbbing.

Pressure under parietal bones. Throbbing in vertex.

Eyes.—Restless. Projecting from sockets. Congested; and glassy. Fixed and glassy. Aching; and in head; and in temples; with lachrymation; in back part; with fulness and pressure in anterior part of head, making me restless, with sleeplessness till near morning. Swollen feeling, and the pain in eyes and temples < with each pulsation of the heart. Eyes and lids sore to touch. Dryness. Intolerance of light. Weariness.

Pain in l. ball. Pressure from without in every direction in ball. Pupils immovable; and dilated; dilated, with diplopia; dilated, with clouded vision, images confused, with a reddish tinge. Lids swollen; red and excoriated skin of lids; erysipelas of lids spreading to face and head; inflammatory swelling of mucous membrane of eyes, with muco-purulent secretion, often with swelling of lachrymal sac, occasionally with less swelling but more marked hyperemia and lachrymation; lids heavy and difficult to keep open about 9 P.M., without sleepiness; lids ache; lids feel sore and are red. Glaucoma of r. Congestion; with dryness of the conjunctiva and aching in ball; erysipelatous inflammation and swelling of conjunctiva and lids; conjunctivitis. Sharp pain under r. eye, with aching in temples. Intermittent neuralgic pain under l. orbit running back to ear.

Vision and hearing morbidly sensitive; at night. Difficult vision with r. eye; D., of small, near objects. When talking with persons they suddenly vanish. After looking at objects a few minutes they become indistinct and fade away. Letters run together after reading a little. Eyes lost control of distance, print held at usual distance was blurred, at a long distance letters could be distinguished but words soon ran into confusion, distant objects were plainer than natural, but near objects soon became indistinct and light caused pain deep in balls. Partial blindness, with one pupil twice as large as the other. Partial color-blindness. Cannot estimate distances correctly. Staggering, catching at distant objects which appeared near and often stumbling over objects which appeared distant. Quick rotation and duplication of objects. Dim V.; with golden circles dancing before eyes. During the increasing dimness illusions of gigantic figures, whirls, double images, enlarged appearance of all objects and laughable or frightful appearances of all kinds. Diplopia. The large figures on the carpet seemed to be constantly and successively rising to her face (perpendicular diplopia, the apparent object below the real one). Round or oval objects seem elongated; the vertical diameter of the human face seemed equal to the rest of the body, especially prominent were the nose and chin, with their margins enveloped in mist, next day pupils large and sluggish. Eyes of attendant seemed very large. Letters of a newspaper seemed to expand and contract with each pulsation of heart. Objects appear enveloped in a white vapor. Vision of many white flies on the door, which was white, at night, continued till next noon, on closing eyes. Bright spots and stars and a brilliant glow around letters. Bright flashes at night on closing eyes. V. of a black bug, with veritable legs, below a black door knob. V. in morning of a thousand-legged brown worm on carpet, the predominating color of which was brown.

Ears.—Hearing sensitive, with frequent illusions. Roaring. Hears tinkling bells. Ringing.

Nose.—Mucous membrane dry. Sneezing caused by glaring light; and rubbing nose frequently.

Face.—Red; and hot; with white spots; afterwards pale. Pale; and sweaty. Expression of mania; of anxiety. Twitching, especially around mouth and lids. Mouth opens but little, masticator muscles are rigid. Lips swollen and hanging down; L. parched, and no relief from water.

Mouth.—Teeth and lips dry and covered with sordes. Teeth feel "on edge." Tongue trembles when protruded; with light redness of tip and edges. Tongue coated dirty gray; white; whitish on margins and yellow in middle; T. thick, cannot articulate distinctly. Tongue dry; and coated; mucous layer dry, brown and hard; anterior part or whole of dorsum, except a wide margin, dry, brown and rough; dorsum of T., roof of mouth and velum palati dry and glazed; feeling as "dry as a chip," though moist to sight and touch, and the throat seemed almost as if its sides were stuck together; and hard and soft palates, extending down pharynx and larynx, making voice husky and often inducing dry cough and difficult deglutition. Tongue and mouth dry and feverish and throat dry, > for only a short time by water, the dryness of throat increased, causing at first frequent deglutition, afterwards strong effort to avoid swallowing, which had become painful. Tongue partially paralyzed. T. difficult to protrude and cannot be moved about in mouth at will. T. and other muscles assisting in speech difficult to move. Stuttering, especially at words difficult to pronounce. Slowness and embarrassment of articulation. Articulation indistinct, rapid and chattering. Speech thick, probably from dryness of mouth and throat.

Mucous membrane red. Hard and soft palates completely glazed. Thick, viscid or slimy mucus. Coating of viscid, slimy, white mucus. Mouth and throat feel as if she could not swallow, but she drank with avidity warm water, though it seemed difficult at first. Formication on palate. Buccal cavity feels hot. Dryness; at night, especially along median line and on each side of it. Hard and soft palates and back of oesophagus as dry and glazed as a piece of paper. Dryness; of M. and throat, with sensation of burning and choking and difficult swallowing; D. suddenly > by a viscid acid secretion, of offensive odor, like sweat of feet, the mouth becomes foul and clammy, with a bitter coppery taste; but no thirst, and inability to feel passage of water through mouth and throat. No sensation in M. and throat when drinking water except slight coldness. Loss of sensation in buccal cavity, with loss of taste.

Salivation. Taste slimy; sour; sweetish; to food lost; salt, to everything.

Throat.—Mucous membrane dark and mottled. Fauces and uvula red. Drops of white mucus stick to uvula. Hawking of clinkers from posterior nares. Throat feels raw and irritated. Soreness; with pain on swallowing; increasing till hoarse. Burning; and in stomach. Dryness; > towards morning; and especially in gullet, so that he could not swallow bread and butter unless he took water; with pressure in anterior and superior cerebral regions; with constriction and desire for something sour and juicy, the D. and C. < by a sour apple; extending to lower passage of nares; causing constant inclination to swallow; causing inclination to cough, > swallowing water. Constriction. Fulness. Choking, then inability to swallow, with feeling as if seized by the throat. Throbbing or heaving sensation in carotids. Swallowing produced spasms of suffocation; swallowing appeared to give pain, manifested by grimaces and increased facial spasms.

Stomach.—Hunger, < eating; H. for salt food; constant but soon satisfied, food tasteless. Appetite lost. Aversion to meat and beer, the beer aggravated the empty feeling in stomach and caused painful pressure. Thirst; with dry mouth and throat, perversion of sensation, everything tasting very acid; no T. in spite of dryness of throat. Eructations, empty; tasting like the yolk of eggs.

Nausea; in morning, with vomiting. Ineffectual retching. Vomiting after warm drinks; after milk; of food after dinner; profuse V. of colorless mucus, then of green, bitter fluid after the morning vertigo. Nervous and wakeful for three hours, hurried from bed and vomited profusely a watery fluid, bitter at first, nearly tasteless, afterwards with sticking in umbilical region. Constrictive pain caused by beer, < walking, with eructations of air and nausea. Distress in epigastric region. Feeling in night as if the stomach had got a grip of the apple eaten in the evening and would hold it as in a vise. Sensitiveness to strong pressure. Soreness of pit. Discomfort. Burning. Uneasiness, with empty eructations, then with nausea and retching, increasing to a pressing sticking and contractive pain, with pallor and sweat of face, singing in ears and aching in forehead.

Abdomen.—Tympanitis and tenderness. Tension; and swelling but not tympanitis. Pain in umbilical region, > copious watery, gushing stool.

Rectum.—Urging to stool. Paralysis of sphincters of R. and bladder.

Stool.—Diarrhœa of yellow bile. Frequent watery, gushing. In the stool, fluid seemed mixed with urine. No stool for five days and then induced artificially.

Urinary Organs.—Tenesmus and frequent desire to urinate; ineffectual desire; frequent desire with only a moderate quantity. Micturition prevented by spasmodic stricture, after long waiting void half a teacupful, stream no larger than a knitting-needle (stream ordinarily extra large), inability to empty bladder, then only in drops, then complete stricture, the catheter drawing off a pint of normal looking urine. Micturition only after some trouble; difficult and in drops. Urine passed slowly and increased in quantity; U. retained. Incontinence of U.; and involuntary stool. Frequent micturition at night; and profuse almost colorless urine. Dysuria. Urine profuse; scanty; high-colored, turbid; acid, dark, brownish, without sediment and containing atropine.

Respiratory Organs.—Voice husky; lost; weak. Cough; paroxysmal, from mucus in throat, with difficult expectoration of thick tough mucus, after the cough burning in throat; periodic dry tickling, from speaking or smoking, with sore feeling in throat and pressure on chest. Scanty, thick, frothy, white sputa. Choking. Rattling inspiration. Rapid respiration.

Chest.—Râles about base, pain over r. side of, cough, with rust-colored and scanty expectoration, dulness of chest as far as spine of scapular on r. side behind, tubular breathing and bronchophony, rough breathing over l. lung posteriorly. Warmth.

Heart.—Fluttering sensation in cardiac region. Palpitation; at night, with great debility and distress. Action accelerated and pressure of blood increased by weak doses, the reverse from poisonous doses. Action irregular and apparently obstructed. Labored heavily and to my feeling at the rate of about fifty per minute, with sore feeling over base of heart.

Pulse.—Rapid; with increased force of cardiac contractions and of arterial tone; with increased tone but diminished volume; increased in volume and power, often with vertigo; full and soft; in morning on rising, and small and irregular, with lassitude; irregular, generally full but varying much; small and compressible; small and weak; with heat. Slow; afterwards rapid; S., afterwards small and rapid. Weak.

Extremities.—Movements are unsteady, as from loss of control over limbs. Trembling. Sudden stretchings, always waking him. Spasms, clonic. Weakness; especially of lower. Heaviness and inactivity, especially of lower; H. and numbness. Tingling in ends of fingers and toes. Numbness, with formication in arms. Partial paralysis of arms and legs.

Upper Extremities.—Arms, hands and fingers thrown about constantly, as in delirium. Hands feel dry and glossy; numbness of H. extending to finger-tips, with prickling, afterwards insensibility. Fingers numb, with feeling as if holding a book, which he fears will drop, and on taking a small object, as a pin, it appears as if there were five or six; insensibility of tips.

Lower Extremities.—Gait weak. Staggering; or inability to walk. "Limbs felt like sticks," thought she could not walk across the room, but with aid did so with difficulty. Stiffness of l. knee, l. leg and in r. great toe. Dragged legs when walking. Jerkings of legs; waking at night. Kicking, waking at night.

Skin.—Hands and fingers suddenly swelled and became stiff while the face was scarlet-red and eyelids swollen. Redness; like scarlet fever, over face and upper half of body, skin hot and dry. Feeling as if turgid and swollen, afterwards covered with a rash similar to that of scarlatina. Fornication; preventing sleep.

Sleep.—Yawning often. Sleepiness, with disinclination to speak or move; S. with vertigo; with perversion of ideas; with sometimes flushing of face. Waking late in morning, with heaviness and confusion of head. Sleepiness early, but inability to fall asleep, heard every noise, but could not open his eyes, wearied by diversified dreams, that he was in a forest followed by serpents, tried to flee, but could only move with difficulty, the serpents wound themselves about him or crept into his clothes, or a common play-ball lying on the table increased in size, so that the room could no longer contain it and it threatened to choke him, or he thought the masonry work was going to yield on all sides and the house was going to fall, afterwards covered only with a shirt he came to a place deserted by people, saw several persons come up to him, tried to flee but could not because he was lame, these endeavors to escape from danger exhausted him, and he was glad to be free from this condition when awakened by a loud cry.

Sleeplessness; till 1 A.M., then dreams of people moving about disfigured in such a way that the perpendicular diameter of the face almost equalled in size the rest of the body, especially the nose and chin and the contours appeared misty; with delirium. Unintelligible talking in sleep. Short restless naps. Restless sleep, with dreams of running horses, of playing baseball, of amputating a man's arm, of shadowy forms sitting or standing by the bedside or moving in the air.

Dreams and startings, a fancied noise is a common cause of waking, and at these times the patient generally manifests a little delirium. Frightful dreams waking him, disconnected, of being murdered, of falling from a height, of being attacked by large dogs, etc. Pleasant D., of flying, etc.

Fever.—Chilliness and cramp, with tingling of extremities. Internal C., < towards 6 P.M., with external heat, apprehension and restlessness, palpitation, anxiety as if he had committed a crime and sleeplessness till towards 11 P.M. Frequent rigors and loss of muscular power, being unable to walk, or, as he expressed it, "to feel his legs." Chill alternating with heat, with tension of chest, dyspnoea and feeble pulse. C. over back alternating with heat (cold predominating). Cold sensation along spine. Cold extremities. Cold hands. Cool skin on forehead and head.

Heat; of head; subjective H. of head; H. of face, with redness. Hot and dry hands. Hot skin; and pungent, also with face flushed, veins of forehead turgid and head burning; hot, pungent and dry skin covered with a rash resembling that of scarlatina, which the child frequently scratched; hot, dry skin, with biting and tickling; hot, dry, red skin, with itching; hot, dry skin and lips covered with mucus. Dry skin. Sweat in sleep.

Aurum.

For use triturate the precipitated metal with sugar of milk.

General Action.—A general destructive action on tissues, especially on connective tissue in parenchymatous organs; on bones, etc.

Relationships.—Mercury, Nit. ac., Plat., Iod., Phos., Rhod., Puls., Ign.

Generalities.—Tremulous agitation of nerves, as in joyous hope. Trembling when he cannot express his anger. (Makes small motions without knowing it when thinking of a motion.) Cannot lie on either side at night. Simple pain or bruised pain in morning in bed, in all joints, especially in small of back and knees, < lying still, > rising. Bruised pain in head and all limbs morning in bed, < rest, > rising; B. pain in all joints in morning and forenoon. Painful drawing in veins in afternoon, with weakness. Sensitiveness of whole body, when thinking of pain he imagines that he already feels it, and everything is disagreeable to him. All sensations fine and acute.

General indisposition, as before an illness. Sensation in joints and muscles as after unwonted exercise, feel very strong, going up stairs I involuntarily take two steps at a time and run in and out of houses. Constant inclination to be in motion. Internal emptiness and weakness of whole body. Weakness in morning on waking; in morning, with aching in legs, so that she desired to lie down immediately; in evening but inability to sleep; from mental labor; with no inclination for rest or sleep; with causeless vexation; sudden, in afternoon when sitting or reading, > sleep. Feels well in open air.

Clinical.—A remedy frequently indicated in secondary syphilis and effects of mercurial poisoning, by its mental symptoms, nocturnal aggravation of pains, etc. It is always to be thought of in interstitial changes of heart, liver and kidneys and in gouty diathesis. Especially suited to old people.

Great oppression of heart, cardiac difficulty in breathing, weak pulse and great depression of spirits; the skin showed large brown patches and again patches like albugo. Severe attacks of oppression at heart at night, with palpitation and with great debility.

Mind.—Awoke at 3 A.M. and said rapidly in a strong voice and with red face, "Mother, thou art my jewel of a daughter! What sort of a dog is that? What sort of a head is that on the wall? What is running about there in the room?" and asked many other such foolish questions. Says something absurd in a reverie. Religious excitement. Howls and screams and imagines herself lost.

Disgust for life, suicidal tendency (Arsen., Nit. ac.). Anguish, increasing unto self-destruction, with spasmodic contraction of abdomen; A. with palpitation, weariness of limbs and sleepiness; with weakness and appearance as if near death (Arsen.). Peevish and vehement wrath at least contradiction (Bry.). Silent peevishness alternating with cheerfulness. Sullen mood and taciturnity. If left alone he sits still in a corner, taciturn, melancholy, but the slightest contradiction excites his wrath, which he manifests by disputing and talking much, afterwards by a few detached words. Anger and vehemence; when thinking of absent persons. Quarrelsome (Verat., Plat.); and abusive, Impatience. Some persons are offensive to him. Melancholy (Cimicif., Sulph., Plat.); imagines that he is unfit for this world and longs for death, which he contemplates with delight; imagines he can succeed in nothing; and he seeks solitude (Con., Nat. m.). Weeping; because he imagines he has lost the affections of his friends (Puls.); alternating with laughter, as if unconscious of herself (Ign., Plat.).

Discouraged at least trifle; and out of humor with himself. Dissatisfied with everything, imagines obstacles everywhere, partly occasioned by adverse fate, partly by himself, the latter making him morbidly depressed. Apprehension, anxiety from a noise at the door, and fear lest some one would come in, anthropophobia (Nat. m.). Anxiety > while eating (Mez.). Timidity. Uneasiness; he imagines that he neglects something and deserves reproaches, which deprives him of energy and perseverance. Cheerful, with constant desire to converse. Anxious to reflect deeply about this or that subject, but this makes her weak, tremulous, cold and damp over whole body. Intellectual faculties more active and memory more faithful (reaction). Memory sharp, afterwards bad; impaired.

Clinical.—Settled melancholy, with suicidal mania, (it has not proved so valuable for suicidal mania as might have been expected from its symptomatology; in nonsyphilitic cases Arsenic seems more efficacious). Most valuable for the melancholy of syphilis, with longing for death, disgust for life, but without attempts to commit suicide. Melancholy, with weeping. Religious melancholia, with weeping and crying. Mental derangements, with constant rapid questioning, without waiting for replies.

Head.—Shaking sideways and up and down (Merc. v.). Tearing here and there, especially in forehead, with vertigo. Aching from mental effort (Phos.); before lying down in evening, then shivering and chills after lying down; stunning, as from a violent wind; as from an incipient cold; bruised, ever since morning, < reflecting, reading, talking or writing, when the ideas are confused, > 7 P.M.; as from a contusion, sometimes like a pressure in one part of the brain, sometimes like a tearing, < since morning, > 3 P.M.; in bones on lying down, as if broken, so that all his vital energy seemed affected.

Confusion; morning on rising, with heaviness in occiput. Hypochondriacal intoxication, head feels full of compressed air, especially towards nape. Rush of blood; while stooping. Vertigo when standing; when stopping (Sulph.), as if turning in a circle, > raising head; as if he would fall to the left when walking in open air, forcing him to lie down, but returning even then on slightest motion.

Forehead.—Stitch in centre where hair begins; externally; in bone like a slow drawing. Tearing; in l., < during motion; deep-seated in F. and temples, > open air. Aching in l.; externally. Tingling in forefront of head. Bony tumor on upper part of l. side (Sarsap.).

Tearings in l. temple. Aching in temples; on l., < touch; on l. temple externally. Tearing in r. vertex; in l.; l., < during motion; cutting T. in r. vertex. Bony tumor on r. vertex, with boring pain, < touch.

Megrin' returning every three or four days, with stitching, burning and beating in one side of forehead, heartburn, nausea and bilious vomiting. One-sided throbbing, hacking headache. Boring in r. side. Grinding, boring and throbbing in one side in morning after waking, < cough and bending head backward. Tearing in r. occiput; through brain to forehead, also < during motion (Dry.). One-sided drawing in occiput. White pimples all over hairy scalp, with heat and itching.

Clinical.—Most violent pain in the head, with symptoms of exostosis of the cranial bones, pains < night, pressure outward, roaring in the head, sparks before the eyes, longing for death.

Eyes.—Protruding. Red scleroticæ. Tension making vision difficult; < fixing eyes, > closing them, with diminished vision. Feeling of sand. Pressure as from a foreign body; P. inward upon l. Heat; when looking, as if blood pressed upon optic nerve. Feeling of weakness and pressure. Constant lachrymation. Ball, pressive pain from above downward in r.; pressive pain inward in r., < during motion; pressing out in internal and superior angle of l. ball.

Lids agglutinated in morning; lids red at approach of menses; lower lids swollen; burning in lids, with stitching and itching; biting pain in l. upper lid. Inner canthi bluish; stitches in l. inner canthus and lid; burning in inner canthi, with stitching, drawing and itching; itching in r. canthus, with burning. Stitch outward in lower part of l. orbit; tearing in r. O. close to external canthus; spasmodic pressure in posterior segment of l. O.

Vision double (Gels., Nit. ac., Con.), and one object is seen mixed with another, with tension in eyes. Half-sighted, as if the upper half of vision were covered with a dark body (Gels.), can only see lower objects with the inferior half, upper objects invisible. Fiery sparks. V. indistinct, as through a black veil. Momentary loss.

Clinical.—A most valuable remedy for very acute inflammations, particularly characterized by tendency to ulceration of the cornea; extreme photophobia, the patient very sensitive. In iritis, with intolerable pain in the bones, extending down into the face and nose, with great soreness all about the eye (Asaf.).

Ears.—Tearing in l. meatus auditorius externus. Burning, with stitches. Tension. Hardness of hearing. Crackling in l. Roaring in morning in bed. Raging and roaring as if close to roaring water. Humming, with whistling and ringing; H. before l.

Nose.—Nostrils ulcerated, agglutinated (Nit. ac., Thuya, Phos.), painful, so that he cannot breathe through the nose. Swelling of r. nostril and beneath it, with redness. Swelling in house after walking in open air; S., with redness. Shootings downward in septum. Sore feeling internally, < touch (Graph.). R. bone and adjoining part of upper jaw painful to touch (Merc.), especially where infraorbital nerve comes out. Appears obstructed though air passes through it. Burning in (Nit. ac.), with itching, sticking and smarting. Biting pain in lower part; so that tears came into his eyes, as when desiring to sneeze, excited by strong sunlight, or exalted, pious grief or highest degree of pity. Itching in nostrils. Itching titillation in wings, as in a cold, sometimes with a desire to scratch. Sneezing. Coryza; fluent; with thick discharge like the white of an egg. Crusts in; in r. nostril, as from ulcers (K. bi.), yellowish, almost painless and dry. Smell acute (Graph.), the smoke of the lamp is offensive; putrid S. in nose when blowing it (K. bi.); sweetish; smell of brandy in nose, with dyspnœa.

Clinical.—Inflammation of the nose, with deep-seated destruction of the tissues, caries of the nasal bones, which are very sore to touch, fetid discharge, purulent, bloody; boring pains < night.

Face.—Red; and blue spots. Pale; with a worn look. Swelling of cheeks, lips and nose, in morning; of one cheek, with drawing and tearing in jaws and hacking and grumbling pain in teeth, which appear too long. Bloated, shining as from sweat, with protruding eyes. Stitches in one cheek; burning, in zygoma; itching, on r. side. Tearing in zygoma (Arg., Kali iod.); in r. half of chin; drawing tearing in l. side of face. Tension in malar-bone and ear. Tearing in r. lower jaw, > pressure. Intermittent stitches in external border of lower jaw. Pain in a gland of lower jaw as if swollen. Burning vesicle on vermilion border of lower lip. Pimples on lips, with stitching and itching.

Clinical.—Diseases of the bones of the face, involving the mastoid, with horrible odor from the nose and mouth.

Mouth.—Teeth. Looseness, even of anterior, in sudden paroxysms. Stitches; in upper. Tearing in two r. upper posterior molars, excited by touch and eating, with painful swelling of gums (Merc.). Aching caused by drawing air into mouth; in upper incisors when chewing; hacking and grumbling A., with swelling of cheeks. Dull sensation in molars; sudden painful dulness in one upper molar when chewing. Gums, painful pustules, as if a fistula dentalis would form; ulcer, with swelling of cheeks (Merc.); redness, with swelling; swelling of G. of r. upper molars, with soreness on touch and when eating; bleed easily.

Tongue coated brownish. Mouth blistered inside. Aphthæ. Pressure in region of palate. Heat, with smarting. Difficulty in eating. Accumulation of agreeably sweetish saliva. Putrid smell. Fetid odor in evening and night, unperceived by himself. Smell as from old cheese. Taste putrid, as of spoiled game, between meals; bitter, with dry sensation in mouth; astringent metallic; sweet, on anterior part of tongue; sourish; agreeable milky; insipid.

Throat.—Pain in a gland below angle of jaw (Merc.). Pain in parotid glands; bruised pain in P. gland on touch (Merc.). Mucus; which can be hawked up, but prevents full inspiration. Stitches; when swallowing (Ien.). Burning, < swallowing, with stitching and itching. Drawing, with scraping. Attacks of distention, as in vomiting, but without nausea. Lumpy, wakes at night and desires to moisten it. Painful obstacle to deglutition in l. side.

Clinical.—Sometimes useful in syphilitic sore throat.

Stomach.—Appetite not appeased by eating. Is forced to eat hastily, especially at the beginning of a meal. Appetite lost, can eat only bread and milk. Repugnance to meat. Thirst; for cold drinks; for coffee; for spirituous liquors. Eructations tasting of the drink (beer); watery; regurgitations, as if the person would vomit, with pressure in abdomen. Hiccough. Nausea; after eating and sometimes while eating; in stomach and throat; with discomfort from stomach and in abdomen; mental labor causes nausea, which affects his whole being. Pressure in region at noon; on l. side, near pit, below cartilages of upper false ribs, < during expiration. Pain as from hunger. Burning, with hot eructations; B. with drawing and cutting.

Abdomen.—Rumbling. Emission of much flatus; of fetid. Pinching here and there; with cutting, then diarrhoea, then distention of abdomen. Pain; labor-like, as if menses would appear; flatulent, at night, especially in l. hypochondrium; flatulent, after midnight, with squeezing and anxiety in abdomen; flatulent, after lightest meals; twisting, before and during stool; tensive, in abdomen and lumbar region, with desire for stool. Painful feeling of contraction. Tender to touch. Heat, with drawing. Discomfort, with urging to stool, < after dinner. Heaviness, with cold hands and feet.

Tensive pressure just below navel and on both sides in lumbar region, with fullness. Tearings in r. side, extending to lower ribs, when sitting, as if everything were shattered, forcing him to bend crooked.

Hypochondria.—Stitches in l.; like stitches in spleen. Burning in r., with cutting. Pressure as from flatus, < food and drink, often < motion and walking, goes off with flatus. Flatus becomes incarcerated under l. ribs, with lacerating pain.

Hypogastrium.—Rumbling. Pinching in inner side of ischiatic bones. Jerking twinges in l. side of pelvis. Bruised pain in r. iliac region when sitting, > rising and drawing up the thigh. Heat, with sensitiveness. Burning pain in abdominal ring. Pressing in ring when sitting and stretching body, as if a hernia would protrude, > rising. Weight on pubis (Lil. t.).

Groins.—Inguinal hernia protrudes, with cramp-like pain, and flatus seems to get into the hernia. Cutting thrusts, forcing him to draw the abdomen in and the feet up. Pain as from a swollen gland. Painful stiffness in bends when walking or spreading legs, as after a long walk, and in tendons of lumbar muscles. Drawing, extending into thighs. Weakness.

Clinical.—Enlarged liver, fatty degeneration.

Rectum and Anus.—Stitches. External hæmorrhoids, bleeding during stool. Border of anus painfully swollen. Cutting in A., with heat and scraping. Burning in A., with tearing. Heat in perineum, with dull pain.

Stool.—Soft every morning, with pinching. Diarrhoea; green; < night, grayish-yellow; nightly, with burning in rectum. Hard, knotty. Constipation. (White-yellowish.) Copious; in evening. Large and difficult.

Urinary Organs.—Stitches in side of bladder when breathing. Constant desire to urinate, with scanty but natural urine. Infrequent micturition, with scanty yellowish urine. Dysuria. Stinging tearing in urethra. Burning in canal of urethra, with stitching and smarting. Diuresis. Urine more copious than corresponds to the quantity he drinks. Diminished; turbid, like buttermilk, with much mucous sediment. Thick, with a strong ammoniacal odor and decomposing rapidly. Hot, red, containing sand.

Clinical.—Chronic inflammation of the kidney, associated with cardiac and hepatic disease.

Sexual Organs.—Discharge of prostatic fluid, with relaxed penis. Moisture around glans. Painful twitchings from before backward in penis. Prickings at end of glans, every pricking followed by a similar one above the navel, towards pit of stomach. Tearing stitches at glans when obliged to urinate. Erections many nights in succession; nightly, with pollutions; at night, without pollutions; painful. Itching of scrotum. Swelling of r. testicle, several days at 6 p.m., > towards 11 p.m., with aching when touched or rubbed. Testes swollen and hard (Rhod., Puls.). Tensive pain in r. testicle, as if bruised. Desire; morning after rising, with violent erections. Lewd fancies at night, with small and relaxed penis. Pollutions at night; with voluptuous dreams.

Drawing pain in mons veneris. Redness of labia majora, with swelling. Burning in vagina, with pricking. Heat in vulva, with pricking and smarting. Thick, white leucorrhœa. Menses retarded.

Clinical.—Tests on the verge of atrophy, in boys, with pinching condition, low spirits, lifelessness, bad memories; tongue commonly coated at the back; appetite for plain food bad. Chronic enlargement of testicles, with induration and severe pain at night, dependent on chronic inflammation. Hydrocele. Enlarged and prolapsed uterus. Chronic metritis. Great sensitiveness of the vagina, with the preceding symptoms. Sterility, with lowered vitality of the parts; especially called for when want of children has resulted in depression of spirits. Vaginismus, with hysterical spasms, hysterical paralysis, palpitation, ovarian pains, etc.

Respiratory Organs.—Larynx, tickling when sitting and writing, then dry cough, almost causing retching; adhesive mucus; deep-seated mucus, which he cannot hawk up. Voice husky. Cough; at night, on account of want of breath; short dry; racking; splitting, at night. Difficulty in raising mucus.

Suffocative sensation after eating. Dyspnœa; at night; when walking in open air; when laughing or walking fast, as if the chest were too tight for breathing and too flat in front; with stitches in chest when inspiring; he constantly takes deep breath and cannot inspire air enough. Frequent deep breathing.

Chest.—Dry catarrh in morning on waking, and difficult expectoration of mucus after rising. Râles in upper part during expiration, descending into abdomen and groin, then quick beating of heart, with weakness and apprehension, then slumber. Mucus deep in lungs which is easily thrown up, then free and expansive breathing, whereas he was generally asthmatic.

Stitches in sternum; near sternum, under last r. true ribs, with lacerations; in sides, < inspiration, with heat in chest and dyspnœa; over heart; in l. when breathing; under l. ribs when coughing; under ribs when breathing deeply and yawning, > going to bed; under cartilages of first three r. ribs, sometimes they continue as a sensation of a plug, sometimes they are intermittent, > walking, with external redness; tearing S. on right side near lumbar vertebrae, > pressure.

Cutting on l., near sternum, < during inspiration. Pressure in l. wall; on r. side, with anguish; on sternum, with drawing tearings towards shoulders; on sternum, with busy demeanor, as if something agreeable were about to happen. Tightness, with anxiety. Oppression when coughing, and in abdomen. Sensation of narrowing in the direction of the sides, with feeling of a movement anteriorly. Burning, with stitches. Shuddering in r. when yawning.

Heart.—Swelling of præcordial region and of upper abdomen, with stitches when pressed upon or laced tightly. Attacks of anguish, with tremulous fearfulness; anguish coming from præcordial region and driving one from place to place. Drawings, with cutting. Heat, with itching. Seemed to shake as if loose, when walking. Palpitation; at night; when lying on back. Strong irregular beating. Sometimes a single violent beat.

Clinical.—A remedy of considerable value in hypertrophy of the heart, with tendency to fatty degeneration, wandering pains, sometimes with palpitation and irregular pulse, feeling as if the heart would cease beating, with hypochondriasis, etc. Rheumatic endocarditis in the course of rheumatic fever.

Neck.—Tearing near r. clavicle. Jerking tearing stitches in l. external muscles. Tension as if a muscle were too short, < stooping. Difficulty in turning head, as in torticollis.

Back.—Stitches below r. scapula, near spine. Tearing on inner side of scapula when bending body backward and to the left, and below it. Pain in spine in the morning so that he could not move a limb. Pain at lower part of spine. Loins, piercing pain in r. during inspiration; cutting over loins when sitting; bruised pain; pain, as from fatigue. Pressure on l. side near lumbar vertebrae and on upper border of os innominatum. Heat starting from kidneys and extending to bladder.

Extremities.—Shooting in arms and legs, with drawing pain. Arms and legs go to sleep in morning on waking, < lying, with numbness and insensibility. Tearing tension under axilla. Shoulder, stitches; soreness; pressure in l. S. when walking. Arms, drawing pain down l. on bone, > motion; fatigue; difficult movement. Upper arm, tearings in l., < uncovering it; tearing in anterior surface of both; pressure in l. near periosteum; pressure on under surface and in middle of r.

Cramplike tearing in r. elbow. Bone pains in r. elbow. Forearm, intermittent tearing on inner side of l.; pressure on anterior surface of r.; pressure on external side of r.; heavy feeling during rest. Tearing in bones of wrist; cramplike, deep-seated, from upper to lower row of carpus, < at night. Metacarpal bones, tearing; cramplike pain in l., especially of thumb. Pecking, almost stitching, between thumb and index. Fingers, tearing in r.; tearing in lowest joints of r.; tearing in last joint of l. little; tearing in joints, often spreading into phalanges; pain in joints; boring in knuckles of r. at 3 P.M.; drawing in joints. Tearing in anterior joint of r. thumb.

Lower Extremities.—All the blood seemed to rush from her head into the lower limbs with a paralyzed feeling in them and necessity to sit down. Cramplike pain in region of hip, on inner brim of pelvis, < rubbing.

Paralytic pain in hip-joint when rising from a seat and walking. Stitches in gluteal muscles, winding downward.

Thigh.—Twitching of r. posterior muscles when sitting or laying l. limb across r. Tearing during motion, as from growing. Tensive pain in muscles of l. when walking in open air, > sitting, but not when standing or walking or by touch. Pain in r. femur as if broken, on laying r. thigh across l. Cramplike drawing in tendon of psoas muscle down into thigh when sitting. Sore place on external surface of l. when lying at night. Weakness when walking. Thigh feels paralyzed and tendon of lumbar muscles so painfully stiff that the thigh cannot be raised.

Knee.—Tottering. Pain in r. when walking; in r. when sitting; as if bandaged when sitting and walking. Boring in l. Weakness of r. when walking, so that a drawing pain is felt when walking and setting the foot upon the floor. Stiffness and paralyzed feeling. Hard red swelling from malleolus to calf from rubbing of boots, > rest. Pressure on l. tibia when stretching leg. Gnawing pain on both sides of legs over malleoli, > motion, with stitches in tendo-achillis. Tensive pressure near r. internal malleolus. Weary pain in r. tarsal bones, shooting towards knee, in morning in bed.

Swelling of feet, so that walking is difficult. Stitches on dorsum of foot, behind toes. Tearing posteriorly in r. sole. Pressure as from something hard in hollow of sole. Heels painful as from ulceration or extravasation of blood. Drawing pain in feet. Drawing in heels in evening when going to sleep. Paralytic drawing in metatarsal bones of great toe, as far as tip. Toes, tearing in r.; bruised or sprained pain in last joint of great T. when walking; drawing in joints; paralytic drawing in r. T.

Clinical.—Dropsy of lower limbs, which were painful, pitting on pressure, < night, > morning, with profound melancholia, difficulty in breathing, pulse and heart feeble, discharge from nose, at times bloody.

Skin.—Redness of toes, with burning. Brownish-red elevations on nose, which ache upon touch. Elevations on leg and below knee, changing when rubbed to nodosities under skin. Elevations on legs and calves, < in open air, looking like blotches from the stinging of nettles, burning and feeling like knots, of a dirty yellowish color. Wheals under skin on leg, over heel and behind knees, with itching, < walking. Lump in the groove between nose and cheek, it irritates, gets picked, scabs over and persists. Smooth pimple on border of r. lower lid. Red pimples on nose; on face. Pustules on face; on neck and chest. Moisture behind ears.

Stitches below r. scapula, near spine. Grinding pain in an old chillblain. Fornication here and there. Itching, < walking; here and there, and burning shootings, almost like stitches; in inner third of r. groin, with a wheal made tender by rubbing, the tenderness remained after the wheal had disappeared.

Sleep.—Sleepiness; by day. Slumber by day when sitting, with weakness of head. Slept after dinner and his mind was thronged with ideas. Sleeplessness all night without pain, nevertheless no sleepiness nor lassitude in the morning. Sleeplessness, with nightly restlessness. Sleeps badly after 4 A.M., with turning from side to side and tired feeling in the hand on which he lies. Wakeful in evening; with great mental activity.

Sobs aloud in sleep. Sleep uneasy, during which he feels the pains. Sleep unrefreshing. Waking frequently at night as from fright.

Dreams towards morning; every night, with constant erection. Frightful; at night; about thieves, with loud screams while asleep. That he would fall from a height. Troublesome, fatiguing. Full of disputes. Of death. Of the dead and of corpses. Vivid, unremembered. Erotic at night. Agreeable and sensible, but unremembered. In evening while half awake, that some one was talking to her.

Fever.—Sensitiveness to cold. General horripilation in evening, with dry coryza, without heat or subsequent thirst. Shivering through whole body, with gooseflesh on thighs and shaking of brain against frontal bone. General coldness in morning, especially of arms and hands, beginning at shoulders, with blue nails, without fever; general chills in evening, with coldness of hands, warmth of face and forehead, without thirst. Chilliness in evening in bed; lasting all night, with coldness of legs as far as knees, sleeps only half an hour at a time, anxious but remembered dreams. Coldness, with blue nails, insipid taste and nausea, then increased warmth but without fever. C. especially of hands and feet; in back; between scapulae; of hands and in evening in bed; of soles of feet and patellæ as soon as he gets into bed in the evening. C. alternates with heat.

Orgasm as if the blood were boiling in all the veins. Heat on vertex; of head, worse at occiput. Burning behind ears, with pricking and itching. Burning on exterior of nose, with itching. Heat in cheeks; in face, with cold hands and feet; in axilla; in nape of neck, extending to head and cheeks; in back, with pricking and itching; in loins. Burning in arms, with stitches. General sweat in morning. Slight perspiration at night, only between the thighs was there real sweat.

Aurum Muriaticum.

For use one part of the crystals is dissolved in nine parts of distilled water.

Clinical Application.—This soluble salt of gold has been preferred by some to triturations of the metal; the indications for its use do not vary essentially from those of the metal, and we may refer in a general way to the different clinical paragraphs under Aurum met.

Generalities and Mind.—Drawing tearing in various parts, especially in limbs. General erethism. Aversion to work. Weariness. Excitement. Disgust for life, inclination to suicide. Sadness; with frequent weeping; as if a misfortune impended. Unreasonable contrariety. Excessive cheerfulness, carelessness. Indisposition for mental work. Memory weak.

Head.—Shaking frequently. Aching on rising after a restless night; throbbing A., with heavy dreams. Confusion. Heaviness. Vertigo; on every motion, with whirling before eyes and tearing over eyes, < stooping, > open air and on going to bed at night. Pressure on brain along sagittal suture. Tearing beginning above l. eye and extending towards r. ear, > lying down. Pain in l. frontal eminence, like a toothache, extending towards supraorbital foramen, next day in r. side. Drawing pain in forehead. Beating in l. forehead. Tearing in r. temple; in l.; in l. all day, extending to r., > in bed; from l. towards ear, with vertigo and tearing over eye. Drawing pain in l. temple, extending to vertex. Throbbing pain in l. temple after rising, > applying cold water, returning in afternoon.

Eyes.—Tearing in l. Pressure in open air, with tearing and blindness. Burning, with pricking and itching. Dryness. Symptoms appear periodically. Symptoms > covering eyes with hands. Lids red and swollen; lids agglutinated in morning; difficult to keep shut; burning, with sticking and smarting. Biting in r. external canthus, with itching. Burning of conjunctiva. Vision weak. The paper appeared white, as if not printed, when reading by candle-light.

Ears.—Sticking in l. Drawing pain in r. Sensation of a plug in l. Ringing. Deafness after the ringing in ears, as if the ears were wide internally and hollow, and so nothing could be heard distinctly.

Nose.—Redness, with swelling; with itching inflammation, then desquamation. Red swelling of l. side, the cavity is ulcerated deep in, with dry, yellowish scurf and sense of obstruction, though air passes through it. Red swelling in and beneath r. nostril, with a crust of ulcers internally and sense of obstruction, though air passes through it. Burning and itching pain externally on upper part. Burning, with itching. Crawling internally. Sneezing, then tearing in l. nasal bone towards eye, with heat of eye, injection of conjunctiva and spurring lachrymation. Coryza, with tickling in throat; fluent, nights; fluent, with sore throat and irritation to cough; thick, yellow. Offensive watery discharge, irritating to lip. Discharge of yellow-greenish matter. Crusts in nose, with inclination to pick at them.

Face and Mouth.—Face red. Pimples on lips, with smarting and itching. Twitches in r. upper jaw. Jerking toothache in anterior and upper teeth; jerking partly on one side, partly in upper incisors. Gums red, < at night, and swollen. Aphthæ all over mouth. Burning in mouth, with itching and smarting. Taste flat, > at night in bed, with nausea. Taste metallic, with salivation, frequent desire to swallow and sensation of a plug in throat.

Throat.—Painful swelling of submaxillary glands. Sore throat, with red fauces. Scratching, with pricking. Swallowing difficult.

Stomach.—Appetite lost. Thirst. Putrid eructations. Nausea in morning, < after breakfast; after eating; with vomiting of the water drunk and a trace of clear blood. Vomiting, with violent retching, foul eructations, then cutting colic and four watery stools. Digestion slow. Gastritis. Distress after eating. Burning, with stitching, gnawing and cutting. Eruptions. Painful paroxysmal drawing in pit, extending to middle of sternum, as if a hard body were pressed into cavity, < stooping, eating and drinking.

Abdomen.—Distention. Rumbling and gurgling. Emission of flatus. Flatulence, with colic and fluid stool. Colic; constrictive, obliging her to bend up, > in bed. Tenderness on touch. Drawing. Drawing pain in small intestines, intermittent, > fluid stools, eating, drinking and motion. Redness at umbilicus, with heat, itching and smarting. Hypochondrium, stitch in l. as from running too fast; disagreeable feeling in r.; burning in r. Heat in hypogastrium, with pricking.

Rectum and Stool.—Hæmorrhoids, with discharge of blood during stool. Continual urging, with rumbling, but no satisfactory stool. Diarrhæa; < at night, gray-whitish; frequent, with burning at anus; frequent, with tenesmus. Watery stools.

Urinary Organs.—Constant desire to urinate. Urethra, sticking through whole length on standing; burning while urinating, with smarting; heat, with ischuria, and the urine feels hot; heat in canal of urethra, with itching. Urine increased; scanty, red, thick, containing sand; burning and acrid; decomposes rapidly.

Sexual Organs.—Itching on penis wakes at night. Exhausting erections. Swelling of testicles, with tension. Paroxysmal painful drawing in l. testicle, extending towards inguinal ring. Drawing along spermatic cords. Labia red and swollen. Red pimples on labia majora before menses. Itching of pudenda. Heat in vagina (Merc. c.), with itching (Kre.). Burning in vulva, with itching. Constant running from vulva. Light-yellow leucorrhœa, < in morning. Leucorrhœa returned, acrid, with itching of genitals (Puls., Kre.). Menses too early, profuse and acrid, preceded by leucorrhœa, which she formerly had had after menses. Menses too early, short, blood bright.

Respiratory Organs.—Speech difficult, rough, hoarse voice. Tickling in trachea, with dry cough as from inspired dust. Cough loud; short, dry, paroxysmal, < at night, then heat in throat; frequent C., < at night; frequent, hard, with white expectoration mingled with threads of blood; constant thick, with thick yellow expectoration. Sense of suffocation. Suffocative attacks at night. Heavy deep breathing on standing, as if a stone lay on chest. Breathing short, with apparent obstruction in larynx. Breathing difficult.

Chest.—Sticking in r. pectoral muscles, < deep inspiration and motion of upper part of body. Tearing in r., from middle of sternum towards r. shoulder-joint, < every inspiration. Sticking tearing in intercostal muscles, r. then l. Sprained feeling in r. side on standing up, with pain in pectoral muscles on touch. Burning pains in l. clavicle. Drawing pains in both sides. Spasmodic drawing between sixth and seventh ribs, with sensation as if some one attempted to stretch out the heart. Oppression.

Heart.—Stitches immediately over; in region, extending towards middle of sternum, < motion and deep inspiration. Sticking boring at point of impulse of apex, waking at night, > hard pressure on precordial region, then lancinations extending from this place to l. hypochondrium, > deep inspiration. Burning, with pricking. Drawing and cutting pain. Oppression, compelling deep breathing, which relieves. Palpitation.

Neck and Back.—Stiffness of neck. Burning in back, with pricking, cutting and tensile pain. Pricking in loins. Bruised pain in loins, < stooping. Fatigue in loins.

Extremities.—Bruised feeling. Weakness. Shoulder, tearing in l., then sensitiveness to touch; drawing pain in r. joint; lame feeling in l. after rising; pain in S. and arms. Arms, shocks; sprained feeling in l.; stiffness; burning and lancination in A. and forearms. Drawing in middle of r. upper arm, with boring. Intermittent drawing in elbows, as if in a tendon. Tearing in r. forearm from elbow to tip of little finger. Drawing in balls of r. hand. Hands difficult to clench. Finger-joints stiff. Tearing in middle finger after dinner.

Lower Extremities.—Drawing tearing in muscles of hips. Paroxysmal lancinations in front and middle of thighs, extending towards patella. Tension in thighs and legs. Knees swollen. Spasmodic tearing below hollow of knee, extending to middle of calf. Bruised feeling in lower third of r. leg, < walking, with limping and feeling as if the pain tended more and more to the great toe and would go off the end of it. Burning pain on anterior side of l. leg. Feet swollen. Tearing in l. metatarsus. Tearing in r. great toe and on inner side of r. knee. Cutting in toes when walking. Intermittent drawing burning pain in l. great toe, < walking.

Skin.—Redness of toes. Swelling in wrist, with tensile pain on bending hand backward, and stitches in wrist on seizing anything. Red pimples above pubis. Boils on buttocks and thighs. Petechial-like exanthema on legs, with a pimple in centre. Crusts behind the ears. Tickling itching of forehead.

Sleep.—Yawning after eating; > after eating, but it returns. Sleepiness in daytime. Deep sleep. Waking, with a start. Sleeplessness. Restless sleep, with frightful dreams. Heavy dreams of impending unhappiness. Troublesome dreams.

Fever.—Chilliness, with gooseflesh. Cool sensation on vertex. Violent fever. Burning in forehead; in occiput, with stitching; behind ears, < at night, with itching; in hands, with itching. Heat in knees, with pricking and lancination. Burning of feet. Sweat increased.

Aurum Muriaticum Natronatum.

Triturate with sugar of milk for use.

General Action and Relationship.—See Aurum and Natronum mur.

Generalities.—Increase of secretions from stomach, intestines and kidneys. Boring in those parts which are at rest. Circulation accelerated. Weakness; in morning on rising. Symptoms are most frequent during rest.

Clinical.—Hysterical spasms, with unconsciousness for several hours, beginning with coldness starting from abdomen, sometimes with pulsation in occiput, with inflamed uterus filling the whole pelvis, interfering with the action of the bowels and bladder, entirely cured.

Head.—Tearing diagonally over H. Aching. Deep-seated drawing, and in face.

Forehead.—Tearing in bone. Sticking in bone. Boring in bone; in bone above eyes; in l. bone, extending into eye; in bone, with cutting. Pain; wandering; wandering in bone. Drawing in l. side; in bone; in bone when sitting; above eyes, with pressure and heaviness; on r. bone, mostly with a bruised feeling. Heaviness; in sinicput; in sinicput when sitting; in sinicput, with heat; in sinicput, with pressure.

Boring in temple; in l. as with a wedge. Distensive pressure in temples. Throbbing in temples. Vertex, cutting shooting across l. side; tearing across to l. side; boring in r. side; drawing diagonally across. Side, tearing in l.; cutting in l. above forehead, when sitting; cutting in a spot in r.; drawing in l. Occiput, boring in side; B. in r. side when sitting; drawing; D. in bones; D. in l.; heaviness and heat. Frequent tearing on various parts of skull. Cutting in a spot on scalp of r. side of vertex.

Eyes.—Boring in r. Stitches in l.; in ball; in margins of lids, with burning; in r. inner canthus; l. outer canthus. Burning in edges of lids. Boring in bones below eyes; above eyes; above r. eye; in bone over l. eye; in orbit above r. when walking.

Ears.—Stitches in r.; deep in l.; in bone in front of l. Boring in depth of r.; behind ear; in bone behind r.; deep-seated in neighborhood of r. Pressure in bone before r.; in bone above ear. Tingling deep in l.

Nose.—Boring in bones; close to r. bone; along l. side; in r. side, with cutting. Pressure in l. side of bone. Drawing from tip upward, also on sides, with sensation as if it and adjacent parts were thickened; D. in r. nostril and in skin of cheek on l. side of nose, with biting pain. Air passes with unusual freedom. Sneezing.

Face.—Twitching about chin, towards lip. Stitching in skin of l. cheek; in skin of cheek, then heat. Tearing in l. cheek. Cutting in a spot in skin of r. cheek. Boring deep in l. cheek; in l. zygoma. Drawing pain downward in l. cheek. Drawing in chin; in l. cheek; in r. cheek when sitting. Lip, crack in middle of lower, with biting, burning, and pain on touch; stitches in l. side of lower; stitches in vermilion border of lower; pulsation in lower, with sensation as if its centre were thickened. Jaw, boring in l. side; in r. side of upper.

Mouth.—Boring in roots of r. teeth; when sitting, alternating with stitches; B. in lower incisors, extending towards knees, with cutting; Drawing in lower incisors. Tension in roots of l. teeth. Stitches in tip of tongue; below tongue, with scraping. Biting on tip of tongue. Burning in tip; on under surface of tongue and below tongue; deep-seated below tongue, on sides of frænum. Redness behind upper incisors, with swelling and with pain, < motion and warm or salt food, the inflamed spot is like a yellow blister, with a red edge, the redness extending towards l. palate, afterwards it is rose-red, painful to touch and feels rough and swollen. Mouth and throat dry. Salivation; with scraping in fauces; with taste partly sweetish, partly metallic. Taste coppery after milk-soup, which was salted only a little, with smarting pain and with dulness of teeth; coppery, with constriction of salivary glands, clear saliva and dulness of teeth, > eating, but returning.

Clinical.—Indurations of tongue.

Stomach.—Nausea. Gastric irritation. Pressure in epigastric region.

Anus and Stool.—Hæmorrhoid painful, protruding. Stitches in anus. Constipation or diarrhœa.

Urinary Organs.—Stitches in end of urethra. Cutting in end of urethra, also on urinating. Frequent urination. Diuresis.

Sexual Organs.—Clinical.—Obstinate leucorrhœa, with spasmodic contractions of muscles of vagina. Chronic metritis and prolapsus. Induration of vaginal portion of uterus. Enlargement of uterus for fourteen years, twice its natural size, entirely cured, uterus replaced itself. Induration of ovaries, reaching as far as umbilicus. Cases of ovarian dropsy. Ulcerations of neck of womb and vagina, resulting from inflammations and indurations. Cases of subinvolution, anteversion and prolapsus, with greenish-yellow discharge. All these cases were cured by internal use of the remedy, generally 3d trit., it usually caused increase of appetite.

Respiratory Organs.—Tickling in larynx and somewhat deeper; in larynx, with dry cough. Cough spasmodic; short dry, with scraping in larynx; short dry, even to retching. Difficult respiration, with anxiety.

Chest.—Stitches in wall below l. axilla; in wall, now r., now l., when walking; in wall below l. nipple, unaffected by respiration. Tearing between ribs, below l. nipple, when walking. Boring in wall above l. nipple. Wandering pain in l. wall during rest. Drawing pain above l. clavicle, towards shoulder and nape, when sitting. Pressure between sternum and r. nipple; behind sternum, extending into back, when walking; outward from r. nipple, unaffected by respiration.

Heart.—Violent beats, with pressure while standing. Beats rapid, irregular when stooping; rapid, small, irregular, on slight motion, with oppression. Irregular beating, with anxiety and difficulty in breathing, afterwards arrest of breath. Palpitation irregular, anxious, when walking; palpitation irregular when sitting, with inclination to inspire deeply; palpitation small, rapid, when standing and sitting, with necessity to inspire deeply.

Neck.—Cracking in cervical vertebræ on bending head. Sticking in l. side, with burning. Tearing in l. side. Pain in l. side; burning, in skin of nape. Drawing in skin on l. side; in l. side, with burning. Tension in l. muscles as far as clavicle, < bending head to r., with pressure, at times unbearable during rest.

Back.—Boring in l. scapula. Drawing in dorsal vertebræ; in muscles on l. side, with pressure. Pressure on r. scapula; in muscles on side of l. scapula.

Upper Extremities.—Stitches in r. axilla during rest. Shoulder, boring; pressure in r.; pressure in l. when walking; frequent P. in joints; drawing. Upper arm, sticking above inner condyle of l.; pinching above inner condyle of r.; boring above r. elbow; pressure above r. elbow; pressure in r. deltoid, with warmth, which extends into fingers; drawing; drawing in skin of r.

Elbow.—Tearing in l., > motion. Boring on r.; in l. during rest. Bruised pain in r. Pressure; during rest; in bend of l. when walking; inward in l. E. and forearm during rest. Drawing; in l. during rest.

Forearm.—Boring in lower part of l. Bruised pain in r. during rest. Pain as from weariness in lower part of l.; in r., with warmth. Burning pain in skin of dorsal side of l. Pressure in r.; below l. elbow; when lying quiet; when sitting, and in elbow; in l., < rest.

Wrist.—Boring. Bruised pain during rest, and in joints of arms. Pressure; in l., then r.; r. then l. when sitting; during rest; in r., < rest. Drawing in bones of r. hand, with bruised sensation.

Fingers.—Stitches in roots of l.; tip of r. little; several joints. Tearing in roots; in second joint of r. thumb. Boring in roots; in joints of r.; first joint of l. index during rest. Pressure in roots of l.; joints of r. little; second joint of r. thumb. Stretching sensation in r. when walking; in roots of l., then in l. wrist, when sitting. Drawing in roots; on back of second phalanx of r. thumb; in roots of l. when sitting and walking; painful, in r. when sitting. Tension in roots; in roots of r.

Lower Extremities.—Sticking in skin above knee; in flesh on inner side of l. thigh; in flesh above r. knee, on inner side. Tearing in skin above l. knee. Cutting in skin above l. knee. Boring above r. knee. Pressing in l. hip-joint when sitting.

Knee.—Stitches in l.; in l. when sitting; in l. when walking. Boring; in r.; when sitting; r. when sitting; in l. when standing. Pressure; in r. when walking; l. during rest; r., then l., when sitting; r. knee and foot, > motion, with drawing; in r., as if bruised. Drawing in l.; r. when sitting.

Leg.—Sticking in skin of l. calf when sitting. Boring below r. knee; in sides of r. tendo-achillis when sitting, afterwards when walking. Pain as from weariness, > motion. Drawing in shins.

Tibia.—Tearing; on l. Boring; in l.; lower part; r., then l.; l. when sitting. Pressure on r.; in lower part of l.; in lower part of l., extending through foot and toes, extending again in a turning motion to the tibia, when sitting. Drawing in r.; in lower part; in centre of l., extending into ankle.

Ankle.—Painless crepitus, as from rubbing dry leather, below inner bone of r. when lying still, afterwards rhythmical, slower than the pulse. Sticking above inner malleolus. Boring; in r. when standing; in l. outer malleolus extending to tibia, during rest. Pressure in l.; P. when sitting; in l. when sitting; in r. during rest. Drawing on r. outer malleolus; in l. when lying. Quick pulsation about l. inner malleolus extending to great toe, when standing.

Foot.—Stitches in ball; on ball of l.; in ball of r., with burning; in the usually painless corn. Tearing in r. sole. Boring on dorsum; in dorsum of r.; in os calcis; in bone on r. sole; on r. sole when standing; on dorsum of l., extending to toes. Pressure on dorsum of l.; on r. when sitting. Drawing in ball of l.; in l. heel; in inner edge of l., then r., in evening when sitting; in r. sole to tips of toes when sitting.

Toes.—Stitches; in tip of great; in back of r. great; in tips; in tips when sitting. Sticking cutting in tips of r. when sitting. Boring in l.; r. great; l. great when sitting; posterior surface of r. great during rest; l. great, with cutting. Stretching-apart sensation in r. Drawing; in l.; roots of r.; in r. during rest; in r. when walking; deep-seated in l. great, < rest; in roots of l., mostly with a bruised feeling. Tension in roots.

Fever.—Cold hands, blue nails, with heat in face and ears. Coldness in back. Internal warmth. Heat in head and face; ears. Burning in l. wing of nose; skin on l. side of nose; cheeks; skin of l. cheek; cheeks, < stooping; lower lip; edge of upper lip; on skin on r. side of neck; skin of r. axilla; inner side of r. arm; skin on back of r. hand; tip of l. little finger; skin of r. hip; in skin above l. knee, then above r.; skin of r. knee; in knees when sitting; skin of l. calf; drawing, in nape.

Badiaga.

The fresh-water sponge (Spongia lacustris, Link.) is not uncommon in ponds and slow-flowing streams. It belongs to the section Protozoa of the animal kingdom. A tincture is made from the dried sponge; or it is triturated.

Related Remedies.—Iodine, Spongia.

Generalities and Mind.—Pains in various parts in afternoon, < motion, with stitches in the sides, especially in posterior part of r. side. Soreness of muscles and integuments, especially the integuments, < motion and friction of clothes, afterwards with sensitiveness to cold. Soreness of muscles and whole body, causing a restless and sleepless night. More inclined to mental activity in spite of headache.

Head.—Aching from between 1 and 2 till between 6 and 7 P.M.; from 2 to 7 P.M., with pain in posterior part of eyeballs and in temples; < from 1 till 7 P.M., with pain in posterior part of eyeballs, < l.; A., < 7 to 10 P.M., on a rainy day, with soreness of body. Aching in forehead in forenoon, < moving eyes, worse in temples and extending into posterior part of l. eyeball; in forehead, extending through l. temple and eye, < afternoon and evening; in forehead, extending to eyeballs, < afternoon and by motion, with heat in forehead and aching in temples; in forehead in afternoon, < 7 P.M., with heat and congestion. Scalp sore to touch, with tetter on forehead and dull, dizzy feeling of head in forenoon. Itching of scalp, with dandruff like tetter; and dryness of hair.

Eyes.—Irritation and inflammation of r. Scrofulous inflammation, with hardening of Meibomian glands. Intermittent pain in posterior part of r. ball at 3 P.M., the same next day, < afternoon, and in temple. Pain in balls, extending into temples, < turning them in either direction. Pain in l. ball and temple, extending to l. side of head and forehead. Soreness of l. ball, even on closing it tightly. Bluish-purple margins of lids and blueness under eyes. Twitching of l. upper lid.

Clinical.—Intermittent neuralgia of r. eyeball, extending to forehead and temple, < afternoon.

Ears, Nose and Face.—Hears slight shocks as of distant artillery in afternoon and evening. Sneezing, with coryza and cough (Iod.), < afternoon. Sneezing, < afternoon and evening, with coryza, most on l. side, with occasional stoppage of nose; S, with fluent coryza and occasional stoppage of nose. Discharge from l. nostril; thick yellowish mucus, < afternoon, it is also hawked up. Face pale, ashy or lead-colored. L. cheek and malar-bone sore to touch.

Clinical.—Hay fever, sneezing and watery discharge, with asthmatic breathing (Iod.), paroxysms of suffocating cough, during the cough the mucus flies out of the mouth and nostrils.

Mouth and Throat.—Scalded feeling in mouth and tongue. Mouth and breath hot in afternoon and feverish, with thirst for large quantities of water at a time. Hawked up a viscid solid lump of bloody mucus in the morning. Throat inflamed and sore, < swallowing.

Stomach and Abdomen.—Appetite bad, with bad taste. Lacerinations at pit of stomach at 8 A.M., extending to the vertebra opposite and to r. scapula, and at times to r. side, resulting there in a pleuritic pain, with pleuritic pain in l. side, the pleuritic pains < by contortions of body and on full inspiration. Lacerinations in region of liver, with a bounding movement. Constipation.

Clinical.—Indurated buboes (Iod.).

Urinary Organs.—Lacerinations in orifice of urethra and near it, at noon. Urine reddish; high-colored.

Genital Organs.—Clinical.—Uterine hemorrhage, < night, with feeling of enlargement of the head.

Respiratory Organs.—Cough, > in warm room. Cough, with yellowish mucous expectoration. Spasmodic cough from tickling in larynx as if sugar were dissolved in the throat, < afternoon, ejecting viscid mucus from bronchial tubes, which at times flew forcibly out of the mouth, next day similar paroxysms, < after 1 P.M., causing sneezing, with coryza most from l. nostril.

Clinical.—Whooping cough, with thick yellow expectoration, it flies out of the mouth half across the room.

Chest.—Lancinations in r. supraclavicular region, in or near subclavian artery, in evening, afterwards drawing lancinations in evening. Stitches in sides, < r., from seventh to eighth rib, < motion. Pleuritic stitches, < afternoon and evening, with soreness of whole body, especially the chest. Pleuritic pains in sides in afternoon, < motion or full inspiration, with stitches. Pain in r. side on contortions of body.

Heart.—Is heard and felt to pulsate from chest up to neck at night while lying on r. side. Pulsations felt and heard while lying, extending up to neck on slightest emotion or thought. Vibrating palpitation on least elation or other emotion. Vibrating palpitation at midnight in bed, then while lying on r. side sensation as if lower lobe of l. lung were settling down or collapsing, > changing position.

Neck and Back.—Stitches in nape, < bending head back and forth, with soreness and lameness. Stitches in nape, < flexing head back and forth, with stiffness. Intermittent drawing pain in nape. Stitches below r. scapula, < throwing shoulders back and chest forward or by contortions of body, at times causing a moan or shriek. Pain in or near head of r. scapula. Painful drawing downward from l. scapula to near spine, a similar sensation in forehead, and slightly in a decayed molar. Pain in small of back, hips and lower limbs. Pain in r. kidney in afternoon.

Extremities.—Pain in lower limbs; in r. knee at 2 P.M.; in l. knee on going up or down-stairs; running from anterior of r. leg to posterior of r. thigh between 12 o'clock and 1 P.M.; intermittent, in muscles of lower posterior third of r. leg, with a sore, contracted, clumsy, bruised feeling of anterior muscles of lower third of r. leg, < by flexing foot and ascending stairs, when the toes tend to drop, as if the foot were asleep, though without a sensation as if asleep. Anterior muscles of r. leg sore as if beaten, with a contracted feeling, sore upon ascending stairs or walking, with a numb feeling while sitting or lying, afterwards the sore numb feeling < ascending stairs or flexing foot. Stinging in posterior part of r. heel, < pressure.

Skin, etc.—Itching of l. wing of nose. Awoke at 3 A.M., with frightful dreams and crampy pains in metatarsal bones. Palms dry; and hot.

Baptisia.

The wild Indigo of America, Baptisia tinctoria, R. Br., is a perennial herb belonging to the Leguminosae. A tincture is prepared from the fresh root.

General Action.—It produces profound depression, with a tendency to disorganization of the blood; low type of fever and conditions simulating malarial poisoning (dysentery and typhoid fever).

Compare Rhus, Arnica, Gelsem., (Apis, Bry., Phyto., etc.). Paralytic symptoms, Lathyrus, Oxytropis, Physostigma.

Generalities.—Intolerance of pressure on all parts, could not rest back against chair without pain, obliged to change sitting posture often, even the feet were painful from resting on floor (Arn., Bry.). Pain in all parts on which he lay, each time after waking from nightmare, especially in sacral region and hips, inducing the conviction that the position would soon cause bed-sores, obliged to lie on his face to relieve the back and hips (Arn.). Rheumatic pains in r. side. Erratic pains in various parts.

Indescribable sick feeling over whole body. Feeling as if he had taken cold, soreness of throat and sneezing. General feeling of having slept too long and too hard, with bloated feeling in eyes. Restlessness (Rhus); does not sleep quietly, wants to get up, yet does not want to; R. in evening. Faintness; with trembling of legs and aching in them. Weakness; after a light dinner at 3 P.M., with sleepiness; especially in lower limbs, with weak knees and vertigo (Gelsem.); in all parts, with bruised and sick feeling, yet does not feel very badly; with tremulous feeling, as if recovering from a fit of sickness and as yet incapable of vigorous mental or physical exertion, > walking in open air, which causes lachrymation; with flashes of heat from small of back in all directions. Indisposition to move (Bry.). Feeling of inability to make physical or mental exertion, on going to bed. Weariness of whole l. side of body; in back and lower limbs, especially r., after walking, and in r. shoulder and arm. Stiffness and soreness over whole body, with dread of motion; stiffness of all joints as if strained. Paralysis of whole l. side, l. arm and hand numb and powerless. Aggravation of all symptoms after a glass of beer (Rhus).

Clinical.—Weary bruisé feeling over the whole body, especially in the limbs. Hysteria, with great physical prostration, with numbness and fear of paralysis, wanted to die, rubbed her hands all the time, restless. It is indicated in low types of disease, tendency to disorganization of the blood, with restlessness and generally with delirium or stupor. It may be useful in low typhoid states of a great variety of diseases, all the eruptive and malarial diseases. All the secretions are offensive, even the sweat and urine, with frequent attacks of faintness and exhaustion.

Mind.—Excitement; of brain like the beginning of delirium. Disposition to talk. Low spirits. Mind cannot be confined, a wild, wandering feeling. Indisposition to think and inability to think. Memory weak. Stupid feeling after breakfast. Weakness rather than confusion. Very distinct recollection of what he had been reading.

Clinical.—Delirium, with low fever, ideas confused, wandering, muttering, seems to be endeavoring to get pieces of the body together; incoherent muttering. Brain fog, the head feels very heavy, is averse to any mental effort and lacks the power to think.

Head.—Aching, < noise; < motion (Bry.); with bruised feeling in forehead; with pain in loins; causing a sensation of wildness. Heaviness; in morning after rising, with pain; with pain in occiput; as if he could not sit up. Feeling as if large; and heavy. Soreness of brain, < stooping. Confusion; especially in occiput, where there were pain and fullness. Stupid feeling, with pain at occiput. Numbness of brain, with stitches or shocks in various parts of head. Vertigo; with weak feeling of whole body, especially of lower limbs, with weak knees. Swimming sensation, as before operation of an emetic.

Forehead.—Aching; in morning; in evening, with smarting of eyes and drawing pain down nose; with pressure at root of nose; with fullness of whole head; with pain in abdomen all the evening; then passing to occiput; in anterior lobes of brain in afternoon, and in r. frontal sinus; in sinuses, < r.; in r. sinus; over r. eye; sharp over r.; then l. eye. Feeling as if it would be pressed in. Tightness across, with pain over r. eye. Soreness in front part of head in evening on moving eyes or turning them upward.

Pain in temples; in r.; sharp pains in T. by spells. Pain at base of brain, with lameness and drawing pain in cervical muscles; heavy P. at base of brain (Petrol.).

Pressure in occiput in morning; P. in occiput from ear to ear and from vertex to nape. Fulness of external vessels of head and face. Soreness of scalp.

Clinical.—Feeling of great tightness of skin of forehead, it seemed to be drawn to the back of the head, the head felt too large, heavy and numb (in fever).

Eyes.—Shining. Congestion of vessels, with redness and inflammation. Smarting and aching. Feeling as if pressed into head, with confusion of sight, cannot place anything until he looks at it a few seconds, everything appears to move. Swollen feeling, with burning and lachrymation. Lachrymation on going into open air. Soreness of balls (Eup. perf.); with lame feeling on moving them (Agar.). Partial paralysis of lids, it is difficult to keep them open (Gelsem., Rhus.).

Ears, Nose and Face.—Dulness of hearing. Pain at root of nose. Soreness extends to posterior nares. Sneezing and feeling as after taking a severe cold. Catarrh. Thick mucous discharge from nose. Face sallow.

Mouth.—Teeth and gums sore, and much blood oozes from gum when pressed with the finger (Merc.). Tongue coated yellow; along centre; coated yellow, with flat bitter taste; coated first white, with reddish papillae here and there, then a yellowish-brown coat in centre, the edges being red and shining, and tongue feeling thick; coated white in morning and congested; feels scraped; dry on waking (Rhus t.), and feeling burnt; numb pricking sensation. Ulcers. Salivation; in evening; then sore throat, with scraping and burning; then pain in r. lung; viscid and flat-tasting; sweetish bitter, then a dryish or glutinous substance, and the lips stick together. Taste flat, bitter; filthy, with salivation; of food not quite natural.

Clinical.—The gums, mouth and throat are sore, ulcerated breath fed, salivation, ulcerations, with red areola. Useful in the sore mouths of nursing infants and of nursing women. Stomatitis of phthisis.

Throat.—Redness of tonsils and soft palate. Congestion; of tonsils and soft palate; of tonsils, with frequent inclination to swallow, which causes pain at root of tongue (Phyto.). Angina, throat feels swollen or full, with oppressed respiration and sharp pains in chest when taking a long breath. Pricking in upper part. Scraped sensation extending through it. Soreness, with a contracted feeling; S. extending to posterior nares. Rawness, with much viscid mucus. Constriction, causing frequent efforts to swallow (Apis., Lyc.). Dryness, extending to nares, with roughness and stringent sensation, then increased secretion, especially from pharynx. Tickling, provoking cough.

Clinical.—Diphtheria, the patient semi-comatose or delirious, could swallow only liquids; the face is dark red, and there is a horrible odor from the mouth. Contraction of esophagus, with great difficulty in getting food into stomach, could swallow only liquids.

Stomach.—Appetite lost. Thirst. Constant desire for water. Eructations of air. Feeling as if it would be a relief to vomit. Nausea; in evening; with heat. Feeling as if he would vomit, but no nausea, with shooting in l. kidney and l. side of umbilicus.

Stitches in cardiac extremity. Cramp in evening. Pain; in epigastric region; in epigastric region all night; in S. and liver; in S. and in r. hypochondriac and umbilical regions; in S. and in r. hypochondriac region, the pain in r. side very severe when walking; in epigastric region at night, < turning over, which he had to do constantly; with belching of much wind; with feeling as if a hard substance were in it; in pit, with constriction of diaphragm. Intermittent pain in cardiac portion. Pain in S. and r. hypochondrium, extending to spine, < motion; in S., abdomen and r. hypochondrium, passing down to r. iliac region; in S. and liver, sharp at times. Drawing pain in epigastric and r. hypochondriac regions, < walking. Heavy pain in S. and liver, with heat in those parts. Distress all the forenoon, and in abdomen, with desire to vomit; D. in epigastric and umbilical regions, with rumbling; in S. and umbilical region, with pain in region of gall-bladder; burning, in epigastrum, with colic in umbilical and especially in hypogastric region, rumbling in abdomen and desire to vomit, but no nausea. Empty feeling.

Abdomen.—Distention. Rumbling; with desire for stool; with mushy stool. Shooting pains all through. Pain on pressure. Distress. Pain in r. hypochondriac region (Bry.); in region of gall-bladder, also < walking (Diosc.); in liver, stomach and umbilical region; in liver, extending from r. lateral ligament to gall-bladder; in liver and stomach, which caused a numb feeling to pass all over the body. Soreness in region of liver. Pain in umbilical region (Diosc.); < full inspiration; with rumbling in abdomen; in umbilical and hypogastric regions, very sharp in hypogastrum by spells. Swelling of glands in l. groin, very painful when walking. Cutting in hypogastric region at 1 A.M., waking him, with rumbling, then restlessness. Drawing pain in r. groin; and in r. testicle and r. foot.

Clinical.—It has been found useful when there is great soreness over the region of the gall-bladder, especially in diarrhoea.

Rectum and Stool.—Rectum felt as if the drawings were upward instead of downward. Inactivity of lower bowels and rectum, stool natural but slow. Diarrhoea; in morning. Papeseent stool, with much mucus, but no real pain. Constipation; with hæmorrhoids in afternoon; with fulness of abdomen, flatulence, pain in hypogastrum, and soreness of abdominal muscles as from cold or coughing severely.

Clinical.—Diarrhoea in low types of malarial fever, evacuations horribly offensive, thin, fecal, usually dark. Dysentery, discharges bloody, some tenesmus, but not painful.

Urinary and Sexual Organs.—Burning when urinating, urine not very copious but dark red. Urine high-colored. Urine whitish, has no effect on blue litmus nor on red paper. Shrivelling and relaxation of genitals, with dragging pain in r. testicle and spermatic cord, the same next day, with absence of sexual desire and with seminal losses from relaxation and inertia of sexual organs, afterwards the aching in spermatic cord was very annoying at night.

Respiratory Organs.—Epiglottis swollen in morning. Hoarseness. Breathing difficult (on waking from a dream of hard labor in snow, which caused great heat, and finally of being smothered in the snow), the lungs felt compressed, obliged to open the window, heat of surface, dryness of tongue, increased pulsations of heart, rapid pulse and excitement of brain (as in beginning of delirium), then chilly horripilations over lower limbs and back. Breathing difficult on lying down, from a feeling of weakness of respiratory apparatus, such as he had only felt during fever, obliging him to rise, with fear of going to sleep lest he should have nightmare and suffocate (Lach.). Breathing oppressed at 6 P.M., with cough, soreness of r. lung, sneezing, increased secretion from bronchial tubes and fauces and expectoration of mucus. Constant want to take a full breath.

Chest, Heart and Pulse.—Pain through l. chest; in sternum; in r. lung, less in l., with soreness. Constriction of chest, with oppression. Tightness of chest, with desire to inspire deeply. Oppression in præcordial region in afternoon, with a feeling of unsatisfied breathing. Feeling of increased compass and frequency of pulsations of heart, the pulsations seem to fill the chest. Audible throbbing of the heart. Pulse rapid at 2 P.M.; and full, soft; then faint; slow and weak; slow, round and full.

Neck.—Pain, unbearable on moving head. Soreness of muscles. Stiffness of muscles, with lameness.

Back.—Twitching of l. latissimus dorsi. Pain; < walking; extending to sacrum. Lameness of muscles of B. and chest, < moving head. Stiffness of B. and hips, with pain. Pain in lumbar region; < walking; heavy, in lumbar region at night on going to bed. Pain in sacrum compounded of a feeling as from pressure and fatigue from long stooping, soon extending around hips and down r. leg.

Extremities.—Aching; drawing, in arms and legs; at times drawing, in r. wrist and l. ankle; wandering, with vertigo. Prickling of hands and feet, < motion, with numbness. Thrilling through hands and feet, somewhat like going to sleep or want of circulation.

Upper Extremities.—Constant twitching of l. deltoid. Pain in l. shoulder and arm; in l. shoulder, extending down arm; drawing, in shoulder and arms, < l. Sore and stiff feeling in shoulders and chest, the jar of the buggy is painful. Numb prickling pain in hand and arm, < movement, with sharp darting pain through fingers. Hands felt large and were tremulous. Numbness of l. hand and forearm, with prickling.

Lower Extremities.—Feel weak and vacillating on walking. Pain in hips and legs, with numbness. Drawing pain in l. hip; in r. hip and in both calves. Soreness in anterior part of thighs, < after sitting. Darting pain in l. knee and l. malleolus. Cramp in calves whenever he moves them. Drawing pain in calves; in legs. Pain in legs. Numbness of l. foot, with prickling. Prickling of foot and leg, they can be moved but little.

Skin.—Livid spots all over body and limbs, thickest on body. Feeling on forehead as if it would be pulled to the back part of the head, with numbness in forehead and face. Contracted feeling in forehead. Tight feeling in forehead, with pain over r. eye; T. feeling in forehead, with pain in temples.

Sleep.—Yawning while conversing with people. Sleepiness; all day; after breakfast; with stupidity and weariness; with desire to have eyes half closed. Sleep unusually sound; deep till 3 A.M. Slept well till 2 A.M., then restless till morning. Fell asleep while sitting and writing; in a carriage. Restless night; with frightful dreams. Sleeplessness; after midnight; after 2 A.M.; after 3 A.M., with restlessness. Nightmare, feeling on waking as if the room were insufferably hot and close; N., then anxiety after waking. Frightful dreams. Dreams of being bound down with a chain across the mouth; of fighting and disputations, but always comes off best; of triumphing over all opposition; continual.

Fever.—Chill about 11 A.M.; in evening on going into open air; all day, with fever at night and rheumatic pains and soreness all over body; of surface; over back in forenoon while sitting by a hot stove; over back in evening; in lower limbs and back.

Heat after going to bed. Hot sensation over whole body, then sweat, vomiting and diarrhea, stools dark. Heat in flashes on waking at 3 A.M., with feeling as if sweat would break out. Heat in forehead; on top of head, with soreness of scalp; of face; cheeks; of face in flashes; of face, with redness; in l. side of face and head, with prickling; of lower limbs at night; in feet, with pulsation; external H. of limbs, except feet, which are cool. Heat of whole surface, especially of face, the tongue dry on rubbing it against roof of mouth, smarting and feeling sore as if burnt, compelled to move to cool part of bed and finally to rise, open a window and wash his hands and face, with a peculiar feeling in head which is never felt except during fever. Dry heat of whole surface, with occasional chills, principally up and down back.

Clinical.—Typhoid fever, with great sensitiveness of the r. iliac region and soreness of the abdomen generally. Generally useful in the early stage of typhoid fever, restlessness, with muttering delirium, fetor of breath and body, face dusky, etc.

Baryta Acetica.

Dissolve the acetate of Barium in distilled water for use (one to nine).

Action and Affinities, as Bar. carb., except the modifications by Acetic acid.

Generalities.—Lies on his back, deprived of voluntary motion. Discoloration of tissues, with emaciation. Bruised feeling in whole body, with weariness and heaviness of lower limbs; B. pain in spots, slowly increasing and decreasing. Drawing in whole body, now here, now there, especially in joints. Indescribable malaise. Inability to cough, to expectorate, to articulate words of more than two syllables (owing to failure in expiration), or to lift head from the pillow.

Weakness (Acet. ac.) after eating, with depression, discomfort, constant desire for stool, and anxiety in lumbar region, as in dysentery; with constant desire to lie or sit; with giving way of knees when standing, pain in spine, especially in lumbar region, as after a long ride, discomfort in whole body and constant desire to sit, or rather lie, would rather walk than stand. Paralysis extends rapidly downward, affecting first the abdominal muscles, then those which have their insertions in chest, then those of neck, lastly sphincters of bladder and rectum. The symptoms (tearing, drawing, throbbing) in head and limbs appear more on l. side.

Mind.—Wavering long between opposite resolutions. Resolved during the day that she will undertake a certain matter in the evening, but scarcely has the time come when she repents and is undecided whether to do it or not. He proposes a short journey, but as soon as he makes preparations he is inclined to remain at home. Self-confidence has disappeared. Anthropophobia. Sadness. Grief at every trifle. Sudden fearful suspicion, for example, that a friend was taken suddenly deathly ill. Solitude; with fear, the slightest noise in the street seems like a fire alarm, and he is so frightened that he starts in every limb. Dread, when walking in the street she imagines that people are judging her wrongly, which causes anxiety, so that she will not look up and sweats over the whole body. Fretfulness; with disinclination to work. Sudden but transient anger. Obstinacy, irritation and excitement about trifles. Forgetful of the word he was about to speak; of a common word in the midst of a speech (Bar. c.).

Head.—Pressing as if it would burst, especially in frontal eminences and over orbits. Dulness; with tensive confusion in forehead and eyes, especially in inner canthi. Confusion, with heaviness; C, extending to temple and forehead. Light feeling as if empty. Vertigo; on moving body.

Stitch outward in r. frontal eminence. Burrowing in forehead and temples. Pressure over r. eye; stupefying, over root of nose. Pain pressing outward in forehead, < raising head, > stooping, especially in orbits. Deep-seated twitching in l. temple, orbit and ear. Thrust outward in l. temple. Aching in l. temple. Burrowing in top and front of head almost every morning after rising, > afternoon, with loose sensation in brain on shaking it.

Pressing-asunder stitch in l. side, traversing l. occiput and ending in cervical vertebrae. Aching in r. half of brain, from neck to frontal protuberance. Sudden drawing in occiput, extending over r. ear and lower jaw. Heaviness in occiput, especially close to neck, with tension. Scalp painful on touch. Stitches here and there on scalp, compelling scratching. Creeping, as if hair stood on end. Formication, with pricking under scalp and under skin of face. Head and face feel as if covered with parchment.

Eyes.—Aching, with fatigue. Pressure in l. after a twinging pain in l. temple and orbit, with sensation as if eye would water and weakness compelling her to close the lids, afterwards same sensation in r. eye; deep-seated pressure, < looking at one point or upward or sideways, > winking or looking downward. Pressure on balls. Rapid alternations of dilatation and contraction of pupil, whereby it has obtuse angles. Vision misty if she closes the eyes and presses the balls, with aching in balls.

Ears.—Stitches below r. near ramus of jaw; drawing, in l. mastoid process, aggravated at intervals, then pain in the spot, < touching it or turning head.

Clinical.—Neuralgia behind r. ear.

Face.—Pallor, with drawn features and drooping eyebrows; cadaverous P. Feeling as if much swollen, but is only slightly so. Feeling as if covered with cobwebs (Graph.). Sensation as if something were drawn tightly over F. and scalp, especially in temporal region, with cold sensation in face. Tension, which draws down eyelids, with inclination to expectorate saliva; T, with nausea and diarrhoea.

Lips.—Pustules in r. corner, with pain on touch. Broad wheals under skin of upper, with pain on touch. Upper feels swollen, with sensation on inner surface and on palate as if burnt or numb.

Mouth.—Painful swelling of gums of r. upper back tooth, with redness and a dark-red border around tooth, pain in tooth from cold drinks and sensitiveness in its vicinity. Tongue cold and somewhat black. Utterance imperfect. Constant spitting of saliva without nausea. Taste detestable; bitter, but natural to food; pungent in throat on smoking tobacco.

Stomach.—Appetite great, but if satisfied then discomfort and heaviness. Aversion to eating, yet hunger. Satiety. Little appetite, food will not go down, it is repugnant and eating gives discomfort. Appetite satisfied if she eats a little, with heaviness in stomach as from a stone and gnawing, the pain transiently > by stretching up or bending backward, < sitting bent. Thirst.

Empty eructations; with insipid taste and salivation; with sensation in epigastric region as if it would force itself through, which causes soreness, then tasteless eructations. Nausea; when walking, < touching epigastric region; then sudden and copious vomiting of bile and brownish substance (probably the chocolate taken in the morning). Retching. Vomiting almost every hour; copious V.

Sticking below pit, near ensiform cartilage, continuing as a simple pain. Writhing pain when food passes into it, as if it forced its way against sore places. Pain; in epigastric region, < slightest food, with pressure of breath and sensation as if on deep breathing the breath were arrested there, with a rough voice, which is only transiently > by frequent hawking. Intermittent sudden drawing pain in pit. Sensitiveness in pit, pain on every hard step. Sore pain in pit on pressure and on breathing; sore pain, even when fasting; < standing, walking and sitting bent, with gnawing, but when lying on back, bending forward or pressing on stomach she feels only the pain, not the gnawing. Heaviness in morning fasting, > breakfast, with nausea; in pit, making respiration difficult, > deep breathing, < carrying a slight weight. Heartburn after eructations.

Abdomen.—Borborygmi; with grumbling. Gurgling; in afternoon on moving it, with sensation of much fluid in it though she had drunk nothing. Gripping extending downward. Pain as from diarrhoea, drawing to and fro, > transiently by rumbling. Sensation as before diarrhoea, with chilliness. Sensation in upper as before vomiting. Sudden stitches in r., making her cry out. Aching spot in r. hypochondriac region, only on inspiration (< deep breathing), with pain on pressure. Pinching in spot below l. hypochondrium, < pressure of finger; sudden, in region of transverse colon, as if flatus pressed through it. Sudden stitch from r. groin into abdomen. Sudden restrictive pain above pubes, worse by paroxysms.

Rectum and Stool.—Frequent urging to stool, with pain in lumbar region and creeping coldness over head and along thighs, as in dysentery, then soft stool at intervals, then continuing pain in loins and renewed urging. Urging with pain as if the intestines were spread out, then soft stool with renewed urging. Frequent desire, but she goes no oftener than usual, and the passage then is natural. Stool half liquid, then constipation. Stool soft, finally like diarrhoea; soft, granular. Involuntary stools.

Urinary and Sexual Organs.—Necessity to pass clear watery urine frequently, though little at a time. Frequent and copious micturition in morning before eating or drinking. Almost complete incontinence of urine and faces. Urine increased; and clear. Much mucus in urine. Sweat on scrotum. The formerly-swollen epididymus swells anew violently. Desire diminished.

Respiratory Organs and Chest.—Pressure just below larynx. Voice extinct. Voice rough on account of tough mucus in throat and larynx, on hawking he raises but little and makes his voice clear for but a short time. Respiration imperfect; and frequent, respiratory sound almost imperceptible. Stitch between r. sixth and seventh ribs. Heaviness across chest, < inspiration, which causes sticking beneath upper end of sternum.

Heart and Pulse.—Heart sounds dull, deep. Pulse rapid and small; slow; irregular.

Neck.—Aching extending from cervical vertebræ to behind r. ear, obliquely to parietal bone, at 4 P.M. and afterwards, on two days. Tensive pain on l. side.

Back.—Relaxation of posterior muscles of trunk after vomiting. Stitch on l. scapula and on outer side of r. thigh. Sudden pinching on l. scapula. Anxiety in lumbar region, with discomfort and restlessness, like urging to stool, > passage of flatus or empty eructations, then frequent soft stools. Throbbing, grumbling sensation in lower part of small of back.

Extremities.—Muscular relaxation, he was scarcely able to sit in an arm-chair. Digging in l. shoulder-bone. Bruised pain in middle of l. humerus. Sensitive pain in a spot in humerus. Drawing in all long bones of r. arm. Heaviness of l. arm, with difficult motion of it, the shoulder alone seems to act, the hand and forearm are paralyzed. Bruised pain on back of forearm, as if in bone, worse by paroxysms. Painful drawing in l. forearm, as if in bone. Twitching in inner condyle of wrist in slow, wavelike paroxysms in morning in bed; rhythmical T. in outer condyle of wrist. Tearing in wrist, extending to tips of fingers. Cramplike pain in r. wrist, extending outward. Stitches in lowest joint of l. index.

Lower Extremities.—Tearing down leg, most painful and lasts longest in knees, and also in other joints, nates, hips and ankles; intermittent, downward in r. nates; in external and anterior side of thigh, extending downward under skin, as far as knee when walking.

Knee.—Tearing extending downward under skin, while walking. Stitches through l. on ascending stairs, leaving painful paralysis; sudden S. on inner side of l. Aching on inner side of l. on raising it and putting leg forward in walking. Pain in l. when sitting, more towards inner side, on extending foot it becomes a dull pressive sensation.

Drawing pain down whole l. leg. Sensitive drawing in small spot in l. tibia. Legs dragged, < ascending steps, on account of lame sensation in middle of thigh. Giving way of r., then l. leg. Weariness of legs when sitting, with jerks in foot and aching in posterior surface of thigh, which is < by stepping and extends to foot. Drawing pain in l. sole.

Skin.—Acne pimples on chest. Pustules on l. middle finger, with sore pain on touch. Red, eroded, moist, burning spot between scrotum and thigh. Fine stiches here and there. Crawling here and there, with burning stiches, often sudden in a spot, not > by scratching and rubbing; C. in palm, with biting; in whole body nights, especially on back, hips, legs, ankles, back of feet and fingers, waking him, with constant scratching, which only transiently relieves; burning, on back of hand and fingers, only transiently > scratching. Itching on chest.

Sleep.—Yawning, with stretching and sleepiness; Y., with suffusion of eyes. Wearing with sleep in forenoon. Overpowering sleepiness. Sleep in afternoon and continual nodding. Frequent waking, with heat, throwing off of covering, and with aching of feet as after long standing, > walking. The first sleep uneasy, with frequent waking, though he was tired and sleepy on going to bed. Sleep unsound and unrefreshing. Unrefreshed in morning on waking, > rising, with bruised feeling in limbs. Dreams of dead persons (which did not frighten him), with murmurs in sleep. Vivid, strange dreams. Confused dreams; with restless sleep, frequent waking and fatigue, so that he soon fell asleep again.

Fever.—Chilliness in forenoon, coldness rising in pit of stomach, with pressure, so that it seems as if the hairs were drawn together, it then extends slowly down arms and legs into feet. C. in attacks extends down through whole body, with coldness of hands; C. in attacks, especially in arms, with gooseflesh and yawning. Shivering chilliness in head, with tension in malar-bones as if there would be gooseflesh in face and as if the hair stood on end. Shivering in attacks, with flashes of heat, mostly in back, the chilliness extends from the face, in which there is tension. Skin cold; and covered with sweat. Feeling of a cold air along leg as far as condyles. Chilliness extends from pit of stomach, then warmth of whole body except feet, then chilliness again.

Flushes of heat over whole body, then exhaustion, so that the hands sink down, face and hands hot, the rest of the body almost cool. Hot sensation on back; in face, without redness.

Baryta Carbonica.

Pure Carbonate of Barium is triturated for use.

Action.—A profound tissue remedy affecting glandular structures especially; indicated in general degenerative changes.

Affinities.—Lycop., Merc. i. rub., Mag., Nat., Calc., Kali.

Generalities.—Stitches in joints. Tearing in whole body, now here, now there. Pinching in several places. Bruised feeling over whole body in morning on waking, with weakness. Tense feeling in whole body, with anxiety in forenoon. Beating through whole body in morning on rising. Drawing alternately in r. shoulder, in lower extremities, arms, occiput and eyes, with heaviness of occiput, great indolence and sleepiness causing dizziness.

General sick feeling. Sensitiveness of all senses. Faint feeling at night, with profuse vomiting, next day nausea. Walking in open air is difficult, but the farther he walks the easier it becomes. Weakness at 8 P.M., so that he almost sinks down; W. from a short walk, then necessity to sleep; when lying, which generally seems a kind of heaviness. Relaxed condition of joints. Indolence after dinner. Paralysis extending from below upward, so that he could only nod his head, with red face, difficult speech, sensation intact, reflex irritation increased, respiration rapid, with tracheal râles. Several symptoms decrease during dinner. Many symptoms arise when sitting, are better when standing, and disappear on motion. Many symptoms disappear in open air.

Clinical.—It is useful in conditions of malnutrition in children when there is imperfect development of mind or in diseases that have a tendency to slow degenerative changes, like scrofulous glandular indurations of various sorts. It is an extremely valuable remedy in degenerative changes in coats of arteries, aneurism, arterial fibrosis, in apoplexy as the result of senility, etc. Fatty tumors, particularly about neck and back. Paralysis of old people.

Mind.—Delirium at night, with stupefaction, as in fever. Anxious evenings in bed, with necessity to open her clothes. Fear and cowardice. Sadness and fear for his future, in the evening, he thinks that he is lost. Despondency, with crying and the belief that she must die. Lachrymose mood at night. Dejection, with disinclination to speak. Ennui and ill humor. Peevish and quarrelsome. Good humor becomes mischievousness. Stupid feeling in the morning on waking. Want of memory; so that he does not know what he has just spoken (Anac., Dig.).

Clinical.—In children mental weakness, approaching idiocy. Mental impairment, as a result of masturbation, irresolute, memory lost, no confidence in himself. Senile dementia, with loss of memory.

Head.—Stitches, from warmth of stove; in brain, with heat and crawling in head; increasing and decreasing. Shattering in brain on stamping. Aching in evening, < noise, especially the human voice; from walking. Heaviness in morning on waking, after rising heat in it, with coldness of hands and feet. Confusion; in morning on waking and the whole forenoon; in evening, with heaviness in it, sleepiness, constant falling forward of head, fretfulness and fatigue; when sitting, > open air. Humming as of boiling water. Rush of blood, with feeling as if the blood stagnated there. Loose feeling in brain, it seems to fall here and there when moving head.

Vertigo in morning after rising; and everything turns around, with a faint nauseous feeling; on rising from stooping; with headache on stooping; with nausea on stooping; so that he must cling to a support, with nausea; so that everything turns around suddenly, on raising arm; so that he does not know where he is when walking along a little path.

Stitches in l. frontal eminence on stooping when washing. Pressive pain outward in forehead. Throbbing in F. deep in brain, on stooping. Heaviness in r. side of F., with pressure. Sensation in F. on stooping as if everything would fall forward. Stitches above r. temple in morning when yawning; burning S. in r. temple. Pulsation in temples. Vertex, stitches when standing in sun, extending through head; tearing; pressure in brain on waking, extending towards occiput, with stiffness of neck.

Sides.—Stitches; after dinner and in evening, when they are most severe in l.; in l., extending from occiput to frontal eminence, or alternately here and there. Tearing in spot deep in r. parietal bone; deep-seated, in brain beneath r. ear, renewed by touch, with intermittent twitching. Painful screwing together from both, then tearing in a spot on l. parietal bone, afterwards in l. side of occiput. Throbbing in l., with sticking. Tension on l. parietal bone, with burning in a small spot.

Tearing in l. side of occiput, > bending head backward. Rheumatic pain in occiput, with swelling of glands in neck. Throbbing in occiput in evening, extending to frontal eminence. Hair falls out when combing. An old tumor on scalp hitherto painless becomes larger, and when touched pains as if ulcerating. Pimples on sides. Pain in scalp as if the hair were pulled in a spot on r. parietal bone. Formication in evening. Itching, with biting, and on temples; creeping l. here and there, > scratching.

Clinical.—Apoplexy of old people. Wens. Crusta lactea, with moist crusts, falling of the hair, especially with swelling of the glands.

Eyes.—Swelling in morning. Redness of white, with white pimple upon eye near corner; of white, with lachrymation. Tearing. Pain in l., extending over temple into ear. Pressure, with itching as from dust. Itching; with burning pressure, soreness and dryness. Burning on exerting vision. Dry heat and pressure. Pain in balls.

Lids.—Swelling in morning. Inflamed redness internally. Agglutination; at external canthi, at night. Matter on externally, < in morning. Closed in twilight. Difficult to open in morning. Stitch through l. upper; twitching, in external canthus. Twitching tearing in r. upper. Pressure in external canthus as from sand. Burning in inner canthi, with lachrymation. Itching on border of upper.

Sharp drawing over l. in evening, extending from nose towards temple. Sensation as if a burning spark passed from upper margin of r. orbit to root of nose. Vision obscured; gauze before eyes in morning and after a meal; double; of a black spot; of sparks in the dark; of sparks, with tearing in eyes; halo of rainbow colors around candle-light.

Clinical.—Cataracts.

Ears.—Gland below r. swollen and painful to touch (Merc. i. rub.). Stitches; deep in l. Tearing behind r.; in l., extending outward; in bones in front of r., with boring and drawing. Boring in r., causing cries. Crawling pain in bones in front of r. Drawing pain, a kind of twinging. Drawings at night. Throbbing in front of l. when lying upon it; deep-seated, after midnight when lying upon it, r. then l., with pressure; in l. like a pulse, when lying upon it at night. Crawling in l., with twitching. Itching internally; in l. Sensation as of hard hearing.

Hardness of hearing. Reverberation on blowing nose violently. Sound like a sounding-board, even when breathing. Stunning noise. Roaring before, with buzzing. Ringing. Buzzing in evening like a ringing of bells and a violent wind. Cracking when swallowing; in one on swallowing, as if it were breaking; when walking fast, swallowing, sneezing, etc. Crashings at night. Crackling in l. if he lies upon it, extending to r., preventing sleep.

Clinical.—Deafness, the result of impairment of the auditory nerve, especially in old people. Suppurative inflammations of the middle ear, especially in connection with suppurating tonsils.

Nose.—Dryness (Kali bi., Iyc.). Seems swollen and internally agglutinated. Sneezing in rapid succession in evening; so violent that it shakes the brain, then vertigo. Stoppage. Frequent inclination to blow, with discharge of thick mucus, then dryness. Discharge of thick yellow mucus. Profuse mucous discharge. Fluent catarrh, which rapidly appears and soon disappears; F. catarrh, > night, with hollow deep voice and dry cough. Catarrh, with stopped sensation. Frequent but transient catarrh. Frequent bleeding; and profuse; bright red in morning in bed; easily when blowing and cleaning nose. Smell very sensitive.

Clinical.—Coryza, with great swelling of upper lip.

Face.—Pallor; with peculiar tense sensation in skin. Redness in evening; with purple-red color of lips and congestion of blood. Puffiness; of l. cheek and region behind ear, with pain in temple. Twitching in l. side. Stitch. Sensation of swelling. Pressure under chin, < touch and motion of jaw. Lip, cracking of lower; vesicle on lower; swelling of upper, with burning pain; upper feels swollen; burning spot on red part of lower; burning smarting of lower; dryness in morning after rising; dry sensation in lips and gums, not > by drinking. Jaw, stitch in middle of lower; tearing in r. lower; pain in articulation on closing; pain in glands on under J.; gnawing in l. side of lower.

Mouth.—Teeth. Frequent and profuse bleeding. (One becomes hollow rapidly.) Looseness, with pain while eating and afterwards. Tearing in back. Tensive and sticking pain in all r. Boring as if they would be rent asunder if he takes anything cold or warm into mouth. Gnawing in roots and gum of molars. Aching in evening in bed; burning, in l., now upper, now lower, with salivation, and if he lies on l. side the side of the head feels pressed in and there is throbbing in l. ear; sore pain, < touch. Throbbing pain in a lower back tooth in morning after rising, with sensitiveness; drawing, jerking, throbbing toothache, as if something were seated under teeth, extending into ear and r. temple. Grumbling in a molar. Crawling in tips of teeth in evening. Crawling-burning in l. lower T. Gum bleeds and retracts.

Tongue.—Coated. Vesicle under; burning V. at tip; pointed, in middle. A tear on l. border, which smarts and pains as if sore. Hard spot in middle, with burning when touched. Smarting burning pain in tip. Pain in side as from vesicles. Rawness in morning on waking, with feeling when it touches the palate as if it were a grating-iron. Dryness in morning, with swollen sensation in throat when swallowing.

Mouth filled with inflamed vesicles, especially palate and inside of cheeks. Much thick mucus in mouth. Stitches in palate. Stickiness. Dryness in morning after rising. Numbness in morning. Continual spitting of saliva; saliva runs out during morning sleep. Intolerable odor, which he does not perceive himself. Taste foul every morning, with coated tongue; taste and smell foul and bitter. Bitter taste, with slimy mouth and coated tongue. Sweet T. behind root of tongue. Sour taste in morning after rising; in evening; before eating. Salt T. in mouth and throat in afternoon. Loss of T.

Clinical.—Paralysis of tongue in old people.

Throat.—Submaxillary glands swollen (Calc., Merc. i. r.). Takes cold easily and has inflammation of T. in consequence. Inflammation (after a bruised feeling in all limbs, chilliness and heat), with swelling of palate and tonsils, which suppurate (Merc. cor.), on account of which he cannot open jaws, speak nor swallow, with dark-brown urine and loss of sleep. Swelling of l. tonsil. Stitches; in evening, < swallowing, with dryness; on swallowing; on swallowing after taking cold. Smarting pain when swallowing, < empty swallowing, with pain externally on sides of throat when touched. Rawness after night-sweat, worse during empty swallowing than when swallowing (soft) food, with smarting; < after swallowing, with scraping; then paroxysms of cough (Argent.). Pain when swallowing.

Constriction, < afternoon, with sensation on swallowing as if a plug were in region of larynx. Choking in attacks after dinner when sitting and writing, with sensation as if the thyroid gland were pressed inward, thereby impeding respiration; C. during dinner, with arrest of breathing, so that he must open his clothes. Scratching, then feeling as if a plug or morsel lodged there. Sensation as if a fine leaf lay before posterior nares in morning after waking. Sensation in upper part when sneezing, as if a piece of flesh were loosened, with burning. Feeling of mucus, with desire to drink to relieve the sensation. Swollen feeling internally in morning when swallowing, with dryness of tongue. Dryness in l. back part when swallowing, with sticking and pressure as from swelling. Tickling, causing constant hawking.

Clinical.—Submaxillary glands swollen, indurated, especially those glands posterior to parotids. Quinsy (it seems to remove the predisposition to quinsy). For suppurating tonsils from every cold; indicated when the tonsils are inflamed with swollen veins, in persons who have habitual sweat of the feet.

Stomach.—Hunger but no appetite; H. even in morning on rising. Insatiable appetite. (Desire for dainties.) Appetite lost; slight. Aversion to fruit, especially to plums. Thirst, with dryness of mouth; T. almost every day at 6 P.M.

Eruptions; from afternoon till far into night, preventing sleep; forcible, with pressure in stomach, as if a stone rose and fell; suppressed, after dinner, then spasmodic constrictive pain in stomach; empty, in morning, waking him; empty, in morning, with sensation as if a lump the size of a hazel-nut rose with them; empty, in afternoon; empty, after a (natural) stool; rancid; sour, after eating; bitter; sweetish, after dinner, or of bitter water. Water rises from stomach and fills mouth constantly. Hiccough; violent in forenoon and after eating. Nausea in morning fasting, with palpitation and anxiety; in morning as from foul stomach. Vomiting, with diarrhoea; frequent V. of mucus; of fluid, water and chalk, forming a sediment.

Stitches extending into spine. Drawing-tearing in pit on becoming erect after stooping, with sensation of a heavy body there. Pressure after bread, not after cooked food, with nausea and salivation; in r. side from morning till afternoon, extending into chest, with retching, as if a hard body pressed upward with difficulty; as from a stone, > eructations. Ulcerative pain on pressure. Constrictive pain in afternoon. Tension in pit, with heaviness, as from flatulence and palpitation. Feeling of repletion. Fulness after eating, as if he had eaten too much (Lyc). Throbbing in pit, extending into l. chest, with stitches. Burning in region in afternoon. Cold and empty feeling. Weak feeling, > after eating (Sep.).

Abdomen.—Hardness and tension (Calc. c.). Distention (Carb. v., Lyc., Mag. c.); painful. Offensive flatus. Many troubles from flatulence, whereby hæmorrhoids protrude, with pain when sitting. Cutting in evening, especially around navel; at night; wakes about midnight; during menses, with griping. Pinching, with nausea. Pain at night preventing sleep, renewed on slightest motion; after a customary walk, then exhausting night-sweat; > partly by eructations and partly by warm poultices; in evening so violent that the umbilicus is retracted and he is obliged to crouch. Tension, with sensitiveness to touch. Feeling as if something were swollen. Aching in forepart as if in muscles, < evening and when walking and on motion, > sitting and lying. Stitching in l. hypochondrium; short, below r. H., without effecting respiration. Drawing-cutting in l. upper abdomen, extending upward. Aching in region of liver, < motion and touch. Feeling of contraction in a spot in l. upper abdomen. Stitches in r. side and in small of back; in r. side when hiccoughing, turning body, yawning and breathing deeply, not when walking. Pressure in r. side morning in bed, > rising. Pinching around umbilicus on slightest motion when lying down at night and when sitting by day, > passage of flatus and ceased when walking; P. around umbilicus, more when sitting than when moving. Sudden stitches below umbilicus.

Hypogastrium.—(Inflammation of a hernial ring.) Pinching on urinating. Cutting at night when lying outstretched, with pressure towards rectum, rending pain in intestines, fulness above pubes as if everything were stopped and the abdomen would burst, the pains > by a stool, which at first was hard and knotty, then liquid, with pressure, after the stool burning in anus. Deep-seated drawing pain, down along r. groin, as from a string. Pressure above pubes in morning when lying on back; outward in abdominal ring on motion and during stool. Heaviness over pubes during menses.

Clinical.—Habitual colic of children who do not thrive, who seem hungry but refuse food. Enlarged mesenteric glands, the abdomen is hard and swollen, the swallowing of food is painful, in scrofulous children (Cale, c.).

Rectum and Anus.—Stitches in rectum all day, and hard stool. Frequent desire for stool. Urging to stool, she cannot retain the stool because it is forced out rapidly. Hæmorrhoids, with smarting and sticking; moist, after stool. (Passage of round worms; in stool.) Frequent passage of blood, with distention of abdomen. Painful soreness around anus, as from excoriation (Nat. m.); sore pain around A. towards evening, with burning. Burning in anus; with the (natural) stool. Crawling in anus. Biting in anus (Alum.).

Stool.—Diarrhœa; mixed with blood (in a child). Soft, with urging (previously there had been a hard one), then burning and pressing-asunder in rectum. Hard, with burning in anus (Sulph.); H. and difficult, with pain in rectum and bloody mucus. Tough. Light-colored.

Clinical.—Constipation, with hard knotty stools (Mag. m.); hæmorrhoids, burning and soreness.

Urinary Organs.—Renewed desire after urinating, then when walking a few drops of urine pass. Urging to urinate after dinner. Urging, she cannot retain the urine, it passes so quickly. Frequent micturition every other day; twice every night, with much urine each time. Micturition rare and scanty, with burning in urethra. Burning in urethra on urinating (Sulph.). Yellow sediment (Lyc., Sepia).

Sexual Organs.—Numbness. Sudden erection in evening, with shivering and great desire; slow E. Itching on r. side of scrotum. Burning in l. testicle. Desire disappears. Falls asleep during coition, without emission. Emissions in an old man, then feeling of dryness in whole body; E. in close succession, then exhaustion; profuse shortly after coition.

Painful drawings in pudenda in evening, like tearings by jerks. Discharge of bloody mucus from vagina, with anxious palpitation, restlessness of body, pain in small of back and faintness. Menses too early; and too profuse. Menses scanty; and short.

Clinical.—Diminished sexual desire and premature impoency. Enlarged prostate.

Respiratory Organs.—Sensation in larynx as if he inspired only smoke. Stitches in trachea. Hoarseness; or rather loss of voice. Cough after midnight; from continued speaking (Caust.); from incessant irritation, with mucous expectoration. Suffocative cough (Ip.). Dry cough in morning after rising, then sensation as if a hard body fell in chest; D. cough from a tickling in trachea and in præcordial region, > at night and sometimes after dinner; short, in evening; violent, in evening, then weakness in head.

Clinical.—Chronic aphonia in scrofulous patients. Capillary bronchitis, suffocative catarrh of old people.

Chest.—Stitches in l.; on every respiration; in l. on lifting a heavy weight with both hands; in r. in evening, causing her to cry out; deep under sternum, then bruised pain; extending to shoulder; sudden, deep in l. in evening, with burning. Tearing externally in breasts, with sticking (Con., Sep.). Pain; > partly by eruptions and partly by dry, warm applications; beneath r. ribs, with coldness of hands and feet and heat and redness of cheeks. Soreness when coughing; sore pain in and on externally. Fulness, with bruised pain in l. side; F. < ascending, with short breath and with stitches, < inspiration. Sensation of palpitation in forepart. Burning in l. side (Senega, Ran. b.).

Heart and Pulse.—Palpitation; when lying on l. side (Puls.); renewed when thinking of it, for then it makes her anxious, < noon. Pulse full, hard, 80.

Clinical.—Palpitation and distress in region of heart, etc. See Bar. mur.

Neck.—Swollen glands in nape and occiput (Sil., Sulph.). Swelling in nape, extending over head, with redness and ulcerative pain in skin and great swelling of all glands of this region. Boring bone-pain. Stiffness on waking from midday sleep.

Back.—Pain in r. side on lying down; backache as if he had lain too hard; tensive pain under r. ribs when rising from a seat and when stooping far forward (to lift something), extending forward. Pulsation, < rest and after excitement. Stitches through l. scapula to front of chest; burning S. on outer border of scapula. Bruised pain between scapulae. Dislocating pain in l. scapula. Weakness of spine, with clumsiness, it falls together when sitting a long time.

Loins.—Stitches; worse when sitting than on motion. Pain; tensive, < evening, so that he could not rise from a seat nor bend backward. Bruised pain during menses. Sore pain, extending around abdomen externally. Painful drawing, as if a heavy body dragged downward. Heaviness as from taking cold. Burning, extending through abdomen.

Extremities.—Weakness in afternoon, sweat towards evening, vomiting at night, all reappearing (according to a three-day type). Feet, arms, etc., go to sleep when lying upon them.

Upper Extremities.—Pain in axillary glands (Merc. s.). Audible cracking in l. shoulder-joint on every motion of arm. Throbbing alternating with tearing, now on l. shoulder, now between scapulae; at night. Swelling of r. arm, with pain in axillary glands. Tension here and there in arms. Heaviness of arms, with trembling. Falling asleep of l. arm; of arms when lying on the table. Ulcerative pain in humerus. Pain as from a blow above l. elbow.

Twitching in bend of l. elbow, almost like shuddering, extending to middle of upper and forearm.

Twitching-tearing in bend of r. elbow. Bruised pain in elbow. Tearing extending from middle of l. forearm to wrist. Paralytic pain in forearm in morning, > motion, returning during rest.

Stitches in l. wrist, > motion. Sudden tearing in wrist. Drawing in l. wrist, extending to middle of upper arm. Tension in wrist and other parts of r. arm, or drawing. Distended veins on hands, with redness. Trembling of hands when writing. Pinching in hand. Wrenching pain in back of hands.

Fingers.—Ulcerated nail on l. fourth. Cracking in joints of thumb and little F. on motion. Stitch in first joint of thumb and suddenly in tip. Tearing under thumb-nail; T. in first joint of thumb and in fourth finger, so violent that it seems as if the finger would be torn off. Drawing pain in first joint of thumb. Drawing in index as if paralyzed, with sensation on touching and bending as if pithy, especially at tip. Throbbing in middle joint of middle finger.

Lower Extremities.—Tearing, extending into heels, > when walking, with tension. Pain at night, as after a long walk or much dancing. Tension, > walking, with tearing; extending up to hips, as if all tendons were too short, < when standing, > when lying. Stitches in nates. Drawing pain in r. nates as if flesh were drawn downward.

Thigh.—Twitching above r. knee. Sticking in r., so that he could scarcely walk; sudden, on inner surface; sudden, in hip-joint, as if it would be wrenched out, with pain on walking as if it would break to pieces. Tearing in r. in morning after rising, > warmth of bed. Pinching in r. hip-joint, as if stiff or screwed up, extending down front of thigh. Pain in r. hip-joint on walking in open air. Pressing inward in bend of r. thigh. Bruised pain in middle of r.; extending over whole leg and lasting from afternoon till towards midnight. Blow above r. knee when standing, so that he believed he would fall forward. Drawing down front, as if in bone, > when walking.

Knee.—Stitches. Tearing on inside, extending to middle of tibia, > when walking, returning when sitting. Intermittent cutting in r., making leg lame. Cutting burning in r. knee-pan. Pain, and in legs.

Leg.—Cramp; in calves; in calf on stretching leg. Twitching in r. calf. Paralytic pain, > elevating leg, as, for example, on a sofa, especially in r. tibia. Drawing pain, as if in bones, in evening when sitting, obliging him to stand and walk. Tension in tibiae on descending a mountain; in tendons of calf, as if too short. Crawling in l. calf when sitting, as if going to sleep. Weakness in morning, so that he sinks down.

Sprained pain in ankle; and on back of foot, with stitches on motion. Trembling of feet when standing, so that he must hold on to something. Stitches in heel; deep in ball of r. foot; burning S. in a corn. Tearing in feet, extending to knee, < motion. Pinching in corns. Pain in tough skin of sole like a corn, when walking. Ulcerative pain in ball of foot on stepping, < morning after rising. Drawing pain in feet when walking. Cramplike pain in soles. Uneasiness in feet; when sitting, with constant necessity to move the leg in order to relieve the tension in thigh and the burning in pubic region.

Toes.—Corns. Cramp on stretching foot. Tearing in r. great, towards tip; in l. great, by the nail, with stitches, sensitiveness of the place and fretfulness. Drawing pain.

Skin.—Eruption on ears; on r. eyebrow, with stitches when touched. Desquamation on backs of hands. Chaps on tips of fingers, and desquamation. Dryness of hands, like parchment. Roughness and dryness on back of hands; in a spot on r. cheek. Rash (tetter-like) on upper part of forehead, with a sensation that is more burning than itching. Boils on forehead; on nates; on face, but without sensation. Pimples on arms; hips, nose, upper lip, forehead, etc.; itching, in nape close to scalp; itching, on wrist; itching, in a cluster, with a red base, below l. corner of mouth. A small wound easily becomes unhealthy, for example, the wound would not heal after removal of a splinter from a finger, it ulcerated, throbbled and prevented sleep at night.

Stitches. Tensive feeling in face; tension in forehead after a meal. Crawling in l. cheek; on both sides of nose; in hands, then they fall asleep. Itching in bernal ring; on back; evenings in bed, now in face, now in back, now in hands; in thighs, even at night; here and there, partially > scratching; here and there, then pain after scratching; on l. scapula, then pimples after scratching; on back, with eruption; over whole body, preventing sleep for several hours; burning, here and there; sticking, in nates.

Sleep.—Yawning; every morning. Sleepiness every day after dinner; in evening, with involuntary closure of eyes. The thought which she had had all day that she would sleep very well prevented sleep all night. Sleeplessness; on account of heat. Falls asleep late, then restless sleep, with dreams. Starting in evening on falling asleep, so that the whole body rises. Waking every hour. The child wakes frequently and calls for its parents. Unrefreshing sleep in afternoon, then heaviness, bruised feeling, painful confusion of head and constant yawning. Dreams nearly every night; anxious, nearly every night, with restless sleep; A. at night, then heaviness of head in morning; frightful; of fire and the like; so that she wakes in sweat; confused, several nights, so that in the morning on rising it is some time before she collects her mind.

Fever.—Sensitiveness to cold. Chill in forenoon, then sudden heat in evening, with pulsations of blood in head; C. in afternoon, with thirst; towards evening, alternating, with heat; general, at 8 P.M., with shivering beginning in feet and with bristling of hair; alternating with heat all night; on entering house; as if dashed with cold water, < afternoon; sudden, in forenoon, with gooseflesh, external coldness and bristling of hair. Shivering in arms in afternoon, > warmth of stove, < least draught. Coldness of hands, then itching; C. of r. foot when walking in open air, with tension in calf; of feet from afternoon till evening, then general heat after lying down. Cold sensation in r. side of head, and at same a burning; burning cold sensation in forehead in forenoon.

Heat all night, with anxiety; H. when eating or drinking; after dinner, with discomfort and with pressure in r. side above stomach. Orgasm of blood and palpitation, preventing lying on l. side, with sore feeling in heart and anxiety. Alternations of heat. Drey H. all night, with sleeplessness, but if she puts her hand out of bed, chilliness and thirst. Hot and dry skin. Burning, now here, now there, on skin. Burning in upper part of r. scapula; in nates. Heat in head in morning on rising, and sticking as with knives; H. in head, with sweat on it, then thirst in evening; frequently rising in head; H. and redness of one cheek, with coldness of the other; dry, of face in afternoon; on back of nose, as from a drop of hot fat. Burning externally in whole breast, with redness; B. spots on l. side of lumbar vertebrae and lower part of l. scapula, < rising from a seat, > walking, occurring also at night, so that he can lie only on one side; in bend of thigh when sitting, as if in bone; in soles all night, yet he cannot bear anything cool on them.

Sweat after midnight; exhausting, at night; on inner surface of hands and fingers in afternoon; profuse, on l. side, especially on head.

Clinical.—Tendency to sweat of the feet.

Baryta Muristica.

For use dissolve one part of Barium chloride in nine parts of distilled water.

General Action and Affinities.—See Baryta carb.

Trembling. Convulsions. Weakness; with laxity of muscles. Heaviness so that he cannot keep up. Immobility. Paralysis. Anxiety; with retching. Headache. Head affected. Heaviness of head, so that he can scarcely sit up. Vertigo. Eyes sunken. Eyes stiff so that he cannot move them. Paralysis of l. lid. Catarrh of eyes, ears and nose. Deafness. Face red. Face pale, with anxious expression. Sensitive drawing in facial muscles.

Clinical.—Whizzing and buzzing in ears. Noises in ears on chewing and swallowing.

Teeth loose. Toothache, first sticking, then (twitching) throbbing, < after sleeping and after midnight, which compels him to sit up in bed. Tongue coated. Mouth and tongue dry. Swelling of salivary glands; of palate. Salivation. Offensive breath, as from mercury. Taste bad, even to food. Swallowing difficult.

Clinical.—Chronic hypertrophy of the tonsils. Valuable in loss of power, paralysis of the pharynx and Eustachian tube, with clacking sounds on swallowing or sneezing; air is forced into the tympanum too easily.

Appetite lost. Nausea. Retching. Vomiting in morning; V., with pain in abdomen; of everything taken, with stringy mucus; of small portions of nauseous-looking and tasting substance; violent; violent, with anxiety. Stomach troubles; cramp; pain; warmth going to chest and head. Pain in abdomen; burning. Burning in abdomen. Pinching in pelvic cavity. Diarrhea; painful; profuse, without pain in abdomen. Stool liquid; S. greenish and chopped; coated with mucus. Micturition painful; constant M.; involuntary. Urine increased; U. has a white sediment. Frequent emissions at night. Menstruation induced. Voice weak. Cough. Dyspnoea. Oppression of chest. Internal heat in upper part of chest.

Heart beats irregularly, pulse scarcely perceptible. Pulse rapid, full. Pulse soft and irregular.

Clinical.—Some remarkable cases of aneurism have been reported cured by this drug; one particularly of the descending aorta, in which death seemed inevitable, entirely cured in six months by the 1st dec.; there were persistent palpitation, fulness and painfulness in the chest, swelling of the thorax close to the sternum, etc.

Pain in back. Swelling of hands and feet. Trembling of extremities, with faintness and twitchings. Weariness of muscles of extremities. Hands and feet paralyzed. (Extremities paralyzed, cold.) Twitching of arm, < night. Tension in legs. Cramp in toes. Skin inflamed. Eruptions, small; itchlike, on body and throat; itching, on neck; scurflike on abdomen and thighs. Scurf, profusely suppurating, on scalp. Red pimple on side of tip of nose, with biting, tickling, sore sensation, with fine stiches on touching and rubbing it. Suppurating glands discharge more. Biting pain in skin. Tearing-burning in denuded spots. Cold surface; C. extremities. Fever, with thirst. Tertian fever. Dry heat day and night. Sweat.

Belladonna.

The entire fresh plant of Atropa Belladonna (Solanaceæ) is used for a tincture.

General Action.—Action on the heart is complex, stimulating the accelerator centres and paralyzing the pneumogastric; heart's action rapid, pulse full, peripheral vessels dilated; wild delirium, ending in stupor; convulsions, with dilated pupils. Suppresses secretion of glands, of mucous membrane and skin. Intense scarlet redness of skin. Urine first increased, then suppressed. Fever.

Affinities.—Hijos, Stram., Verat. vir., Duboisia, Hydrocy. ac., Sulphur.

Generalities.—Falling down, without ability to raise himself. Lying on his belly, with head bent backward and chin resting on hand, not noticing what was said or done in the room. (Walking round and round in a circle.) Swelling of whole body, with redness and heat. Distention of veins over whole body; of bloodvessels of limbs, especially arteries of neck pulsate, so that when lower jaw is opened it strikes against the upper at every beat, causing chattering of teeth, with internal and external warmth, < heat.

Convulsions; when forced to swallow liquids; especially of flexor muscles; C., with gnashing of teeth; with ludicrous gestures, whistling, singing and crying all together; epileptic; epileptic, then apoplectic condition; after a vexation, which compel him to run to the wall; of muscles of limbs, trunk and face. Subsultus tendinum; with carphology. Incessant movements, especially of arms. Movements as in chorea. Jerks, with loud raving. Constant motion of muscles, partly alternate contractions of single muscles, partly automatic motions, startings of limbs, biting motion, carphology. Jumping, as if alarmed, when touched. Intermittent cramps. Want of muscular co-ordination. Trembling; with convulsive shivering. Unsteadiness in all her motions. Haste in all motions.

Irritability and acuteness of sense, of taste, smell, touch, sight, hearing, and the mind is easily moved and thoughts are more active (Nux vom.). His senses deceive him. Stitch in affected part on every second or third step, extending to head. Tearing in a part of the muscles, especially in volar side of ulna, just above wrist. Gnawing in affected parts. Boring in glands. Cramplike pain, < in sleep, in one side of chest, one side of abdomen and one loin, so that she bends the painful part inward. Pain in evening, preventing her from stretching. Pain disappeared suddenly when it had reached its height and instantly a pain arose in some other place. Pain in all joints, extending as far as tips of fingers and toes, with a cold sensation.

(Tenderness to touch where the shootings had been.) Bad feeling in whole system on turning in bed. Trembling sensation in all muscles. Pulsation of all arteries in morning on waking; P., like a pendulum, alternating between head and chest; perceptible through whole body. Restlessness; at night, with grinding of the teeth and now and then convulsions; every moment he wished to get out of bed (Hyosc.), but then would fall back in prostration; the boy wished to escape and was strong far beyond his age; especially of hands and feet (Acon.); body thrown now to one side, now to other, now chest is raised, now abdomen; occasionally raising his feet, as if ascending stairs, moving his mouth as if talking, but the sounds were inarticulate.

Weakness; in morning, with vertigo; in evening; < evening, with short breath; with tottering gait and feeling as if knees would give way; in frequent attacks, feeling too heavy and as if drawn down; of l. side, numbness of l. side of face and of l. arm and pricking in same parts. Desire to lie down. Faintness. Stiffness of whole body; with head drawn backward and body agitated by single jerks. Anesthesia of whole body. Insensibility, with rattling respiration and twitchings of hands and feet. Paralyzed feeling on getting up and attempting to stand. Aggravation in afternoon, especially about 3 or 4 P.M.; (A. in l. half of body); (in flexor surface and fibrous membranes).

Clinical.—Violent convulsions, with great rush of blood to head, face red and hot. Epilepsy. Chorea. A valuable remedy for taking cold from a slight draft of air, especially after having the hair cut. Particularly useful for plethoric persons. Hysterical spasms, with red face and wild actions. Effects of sunstroke. Scarlatina. Measles. Acute inflammation of glands.

Mind.—Delirium; > after a meal; > after sleep, with quick movements; with heat; with springing out of bed, laughing (Hyosc., Stram.) and constant talking; violent D., with livid face, injected and protruding eyes, dilated pupils, strong pulsation in carotids, full, hard, frequent pulse and inability to swallow. Fury (Hyosc.); pulling at the hair of bystanders. Inclination to bite bystanders (Hcy. ac.). Inclination to tear everything to pieces. Attempted to bite and strike, broke into fits of laughter and gnashed her teeth, head hot, face red, look wild and fierce. Fury, with heat of body, staring eyes and continually spitting at those about her.

Delirium, with picking at bed-clothes and throwing them off (Hyosc.); threw herself from a height in D.; with violent motion of arms and legs. Running into the street naked (Hyosc.), gesticulating, dancing, laughing, uttering and doing many absurd things. Paroxysmal D. D. alternating with lethargy. Fury, at the forcible administration of liquids. Abhorrence of liquids; liquid poured out makes her furious, resembling delirium tremens; almost hysterical. Grasping for imaginary objects. The patients thought they were pursuing their ordinary occupations. Persisting that there were horrid monsters all over the room staring at her. Carphology. Suspicious D.; refusing food, also drink. Speech loud, disconnected. Delirium, at one time expressive of great joy, at another of great terror. Talking about mice and other dark-colored animals that he saw (Stram.). Imagined that he was swimming in his bed evenings on lying down. He dreads decaying with a living body. Beautiful images. Imagined that he was rich. Muttering like one asleep.

Garrulity (Hyosc.); using absurd language, at which he often laughed, turning to the speaker when addressed but not answering correspondingly; with squinting and stupid expression. Laughter; involuntary; violent spasmodic. Singing (Stram.); inclination in evening to sing and whistle; alternations of singing and scolding, with constant motion of limbs. Mirth; after supper, with increase of vital powers, then drowsiness.

Taciturnity; with desire for solitude and quiet. Weeping; on waking, with ill humor. Despondency. Anxiety; with desire to flee. Fear that death was near. Anguish; tearful while walking in open air, with weariness of life and inclination to drown herself. Timid mistrust. Starting in affright, < at approach of any one. Anger. Quarrelsome mood (Verat. v.); with disposition to laugh in annoying manner. Howling; about trifles, < soothing words. Losing her temper soon, then weeping. Ill humor; silent; whining, with headache as if a stone were pressing forehead. Apathy. Aversion to work and to movement.

Disorderly, so that speech did not correspond to thought, nor thought to sense, nor sense to objects present. Confusion, with flickering before eyes; C., so that he did not know whether he was dreaming or awake; with general trembling. Manner of expression incomplete, speech difficult. Speech slow and confused; S. loud and disconnected. Answers hasty; and laconic and dry. Passing quickly from one idea to another.

Absence of mind. Thoughts disappear during headache. Memory diminished; lost. Forgot how to do the simplest thing. Stupor; with cramp of extremities; interrupted by shrill screams; compelling sleep in forenoon, after waking hunger, with heat and dryness of mouth without thirst, then hacking cough, with offensive breath as of human feces. Coma; with rattling in throat, red face, dilated pupils, convulsions of upper limbs, heat of skin, red spots on neck and chest and feverish pulse; C., with small, weak, unequal pulse. Unconsciousness; with stiffness of lower limbs, distention of superficial bloodvessels, red, swollen face, full, rapid pulse and sweat.

Clinical.—The general character of the delirium is one of great activity, tendency to run about, to escape from the room or bed; in general with great excitement, hot head and face, sometimes with fury, sometimes excessive fear.

Head.—Drawn backward (Hcy. ac.), boring deep into pillow. Thrown hither and thither, even to shaking, then again convulsive bending forward of head and trunk. Swelling. Distention of brain. Stabbing in evening, as with a double-edged knife. Shootings; through brain from all sides. Tearing; here and there; as if sutures of skull would be torn open; cutting T. extending from one part to another. Boring during the day, with pain, in the evening shooting. Aching; on waking, with lassitude; stooping and motion (Bry.); > after leeches, with feeling as if enormously large, with intolerance of light and noise (Ferr.); and in eyeballs, which felt as if starting from their sockets; with swelling of lids, heat in face and lachrymation.

Jerking pain, < walking quickly or ascending stairs rapidly, with at every step a jolt downward as if a weight were in occiput. Drawing and expansive pain as if something in it rocked in a jerking manner. Drawing pain. Pain as if screwed together on both sides. Throbbing pain, with heat; T. pain, with pressure at vertex. Pain as if brain were numb. Throbbing; in brain, from before backward and towards sides, ending at surface in shooting. Pressure now here, now there, in large areas; especially above nose, < stepping; deep in brain during and after walking in open air; outward, as if bursting, also in open air, < coughing. Heaviness; morning on rising.

Spasm of brain, generally when standing or walking, seldom when standing or sitting with back against something, a sudden drawing and giving way, as if nerves were in motion, when all upon which he looked appeared to move in one direction and then back to their former position, with feeling as if he would fall, without giddiness, with sensation in pit of stomach corresponding to the feeling in the brain. Confusion, < movement; in evening, with garrulity; < walking; with warmth rising from stomach; with swelling of glands and neck; as if intoxicated. Dulness > open air, < in room, with turning in head. Uneasy sensation. Weariness, with inability to raise it after stooping.

Rush of blood, with pulsation in cerebral arteries and throbbing in head (Glon., Ferr.); and sensation as from a ligature around neck; R. of blood when leaning head backward; on stooping, with heaviness as if giddy. Apoplectic condition (after epileptic convulsions); A. condition alternating with paroxysms of rapid automatic movement, with convulsive laughter, and during the brief intervals of sleep subsultus of face and limbs; a kind of apoplexy, causing her to fall down insensible. Intoxication; after eating; after least quantity of beer; with disturbed vision and difficult speech, he imagines that he cannot move his tongue.

Vertigo; in morning, with weakness; while sitting; < movement; < walking, with turning in pit of stomach; > after sleep, with headache and drowsiness; with rush of blood to head, roaring in ears and misty vision; with pulsation in head, dilated pupils and nausea; V., with vision of snow-flakes, etc.; as if objects swayed to and fro; as if everything turned in a circle. Affection of head and eyes, > coffee.

Forehead.—Three stabs extending to occiput, whereupon sudden disappearance of all previous headache. Sticking; in r. eminence, < bending forward, > pressure; outward in eminences; tearing, over r. orbit. Tearing; externally; in sinciput; T. over eyebrows; burning, in l. eminence. Boring under r. eminence in morning after waking. Gnawing externally in eminences. Crampy pain in eminence, extending over zygoma to lower jaw. Aching; so severe during motion that it caused him to close the eyes, > sitting and lying, returning on rising, but on going into open air the forehead seemed pressed in by a heavy stone, > while sitting in a room; on l. side; behind and above eyebrows; under eminences on rising; in orbital region, with redness of eyes and face; below r. eminence, soon occupying the whole forehead, decreasing at intervals only to return in greater violence. Pain as if brain rose and fell with every step, > strong pressure. Shooting burning pain in l. eminence. Pain as if a stone were pressing it, > laying head down and stooping, with dilated pupils and whining ill humor; P. on stooping as if everything would come out; as if brain were pressed towards forehead, > bending head backward; as if brain would be pressed out above orbits, preventing opening of eyes and obliging him to lie down; outward in l. eminence. Pain as from a board before it. Pain above orbits as if brain were compressed, so that he must close his eyes. Weight at top, causing vertigo and sense as if intoxicated. Pain above eyes like a weight in head, felt on touching eye. Tensive pressure in r. Pain in morning as if something over brows sank down and hindered opening of eyes. Drawing pain in bone and in nape. Drawing; in head towards forehead, as if brain would dilate. Contracted sensation in muscles of F. and eyes. Dulness. Confusion, with periodical attacks of vertigo. Cloudiness as if an oppressive cloud moved to and fro, especially under bone. Cold sensation in middle of brain. Pulsation in bloodvessels and pain as if bones were lifted up. Rush of blood on stooping.

Temple.—Stabbing from one to other. Shooting in r.; S. outward; outward in l. Darting pain in r., affecting eye. Tearing; in r. and in vertex, extending in various directions. Cutting outward, spreading through brain and there passing into strong throbbing. Pain through T.; in l. at 3 P.M.; in r., which on supporting head with hand increases to a sense of bursting and extends into r. frontal eminence. Pressure inward in l., spreading over anterior half of brain, on that side where the head is supported by the hand. Weight from centre of brain towards T., with diminished hearing. Drawing pain extending to over r. orbit. Drawing down in temples and in r. orbit. Beatings.

Vertex.—Tearing in r., < movement. Twisting pain, sometimes also digging, sometimes tearing, the pain < pressure, and the skull seemed thin, as if it could be pressed through. Pain; crampy, in r. Pressing in r., then l., then r. again. Tensive pressure in l. and in forehead.

Side.—Stabbing in r. as with a two-edged knife, then in front of head, then in vertex, then in occiput, so that she cannot lie on either side. Cutting in r. from frontal to occipital region, becoming general, at last setting in l. parietal bone. Darting pain under l. parietal bone. Boring in r., < motion, with throbbing. Gnawing in r. upper part, down to ear, caused by gnawing in a hollow tooth. Pain; in r. after rising and moving briskly; in l. parietal bone, extending to temples; in l. parietal bone, extending to r. temple; throbbing, in parietal region; drawing, in r. at rest after dinner, and in r. arm. Pressure outward in l. half of brain, < forehead.

Occiput.—Lightning-like stabs behind ear in evening. Shoots in l. Cutting to l. of protuberance. Pain. Throbbing pressure in l. Weight.

Scalp.—Hair falls out. Hair which was previously naturally electric is no longer so. Sensitiveness, even pressure of hair causes pain (Sulph.). Soreness of roots of hair. Pain as after strong pulling at hair. Sensation as if hair on top were pulled. Frequent unconscious scratching of head and rubbing of nose.

Clinical.—Terrific headaches; the head feels full of blood; violent at base of brain, head drawn backward; violent throbbing in carotids, with red face. The headaches are almost universally aggravated by the slightest noise or light. Headache so violent that he seems to get blind and then becomes unconscious. Headaches greatly aggravated by bending forward the head is generally drawn backward. Meningitis. Meningitis from erysipelas. Apoplexy, in the early stage.

Eyes.—Staring. Projecting; and sparkling. Glassy. Animated, with dilated pupils. Squinting. Sunken. Spasms. Inflammation and a wild expression. Conjunctiva covered with red vessels, with shooting and lachrymation; and cornea dim. lids swollen, afterwards put in anterior chambers. Puffy appearance about. Swelling, with lachrymation. Trembling mucus before.

Shooting inward. Pain; and once hot prickling in r.; crawling, as if full of sand; drawing from, below upward under l. Smarting. Feeling as if protruding. Feeling as if too large. Pressure, < morning, with lachrymation; P. as if hard spring water were in them. Sensitiveness. Dryness, on motion dry and stiff sensation; burning, more violent alternately in one or other. Heat, as if in hot vapor; H. afternoons while walking in open air, with sticking and drowsiness; < coffee, and sensation as if swimming in tears; > pressing them upward, with itching. Insensibility to light. Tickling. Soon tired on reading. Feeling as if he could see nothing, yet he saw when he strained his eyes.

Lachrymation; salt. Optic disk deepened in tint and retinal arteries and veins enlarged. Balls in constant motion; alternately fixed and very movable. Balls turned upward; and outward. Pain in balls; deep in, on closing eyes. Dryness of surface of ball.

Pupils.—Dilated; < r.; and immovable, and eye devoid of expression; < l., with flickering before l.; l., with a white scale in it; r., with necessity to close that eye on writing in order to see the lines plainly. Contracted; with headache. Insensible to light.

Lids.—Lead-colored spots. Redness; of margins. Swelling; of lower; of upper, with paralysis and redness of palpebræ of l. eye, with prolapsus of upper lids as in ptosis. Mucous membrane of eyes and lids injected and swollen. Agglutination in morning. Wide open. Closed; in morning on waking; half closed. Twitching. Quivering of l. upper; r. upper. Throbbing pain in lower, towards inner canthus, with inflammatory swelling and lachrymation. Heaviness; < r.; with feeling as of a sticky mass between them and ball, compelling rubbing.

Canthi.—Dirty redness of internal, as if washed out. Swelling of l. punctum lachrymal. With suppurative inflammation, at first with burning, then with pressing pain. Itching shoots in internal. Tearing in inner, extending into eyes. Pain in l. internal, even on slight touch.

Conjunctiva.—Full of blue-red vessels. Red streaks in morning, with pain. Red vessels at l. external canthus in morning, with twitching of eye. Yellow color.

Orbit.—Darting pain in and near l. Pain, often feeling as if eyes were being torn out, sometimes as if pressed into head, with pain pressing from forehead into eyes. Pressing pain in upper part. Confused pressure, alternately in r. and in forehead. Pain in l. supraorbital ridge, with weak vision of r. eye on writing, whereby the letters swam, and oppressive sensation as if r. lid hung down paralyzed.

Vision dim; > strong effort of will, < afterwards, sometimes with double vision and undulating motion of objects. Distinct only for distant objects and completely parallel rays, as those of a star in the heavens. Weaker while walking in open air and in bright light. Photophobia. Blindness; in morning; in l. eye, the lid of which is drooping, inflamed and painful when touched; for near objects, double V. for distant ones. Amaurosis. Diplopia; and objects appear far off; and objects appear to revolve and run backward. Vision of r. eye became clearer, l. more impaired, upper lid more tumefied and prolapsed, conjunctiva more vascular and raised above margin of the transparent cornea, which in a few days became opaque and a little puriform fluid accumulated in anterior chamber. Vision of sparks. Of halo around candle-light, partly colored, the red predominating, at times the light seemed broken into rays. Of occasional flashes of light. Of flames when leaning hand upon her swollen cheek, and the air seems like a mist. Chromopsia. Letters swim while reading. Lines jumped hither and thither when reading by lamp-light. Saw nothing when reading but the white margin which surrounded the black letters transformed into rings. All objects seemed bordered with yellow. Objects appeared white; during the delirium. All colors appeared reversed. Vision of a large white star in the ceiling and across it from l. to r. silvery clouds seem passing. Of black points and stripes at 10.30 A.M., on going out. Letters seemed larger than usual, and vision sharper in l. eye than in r. On seeing himself in the glass he asserted that he squinted badly, and that both eyeballs were turned towards nose. Faces looked large, broad and out of proportion, a speck as large as a fly and the head of a nail appeared like a spider with its legs in constant motion, and for months afterwards there was a sort of glimmer upon all objects, like the motion of heated air rising from the roof or sides of a building, and the figures on a carpet seemed to blend.

Clinical.—Great congestion of eyes, but not often useful in inflammatory affections of the external parts of the eye. Neuritis of optic nerve, hemorrhages from the retina from suppressed menses, congestion of the head, sudden heat of head, suppressed eruptions. Pains of acute glaucoma. (Bell. must be given only occasionally in glaucoma, and the use of Atropine is absolutely forbidden; it brings on aggravation of acute glaucoma, though it will not cure the chronic disorder.) Ciliary neuralgia, with great heat and throbbing pain. Spasms of the lids and muscles. Squinting. Exophthalmic goitre.

Ear.—Purulent exudation. Shootings to chin; in external meatus; in middle during eructation tasting of the ingesta; in middle, with hard hearing on that side. Thrusts in middle, with pinching; T. through mastoid process below ear. Tearing downward in middle and external; T. behind r.; in lower half of r. cartilage; on posterior side of l. cartilage; in r. external and in r. side of face downward; from before backward externally in r.; feeling in r. as if it would be torn out of head; pain in ears and temples as if alternately torn out and pressed in, alternating with a similar pain in orbits. Cutting behind ears. Pinching after hicough, r. then l. Boring close to r. Pain; l.; drawing, extending into nape. Pressure on mastoid process below ear; on muscles behind l. and on muscles of forehead; on external meatus; in meatus as if one bored in with a finger. Tingling.

Sensitiveness to loud tones (Sil.). Noises. Ringing. Roaring; with flickering before eyes, < l., and twitching of l. upper lid. Singing. Din as of trumpets and drums and a roaring, then a humming and buzzing, < sitting, > standing and lying, still better when walking. What was said to him sounded like a humming. Fluttering and bubbling before ears in morning after waking. Hard hearing. Deafness as if a skin were drawn over ears. Hearing lost.

Clinical.—Acute inflammation of the ears, terrific pain, rolling of the head, serene loss of hearing. Acute inflammation of the parotid gland, erysipelatous swelling.

Nose.—Sudden redness of tip, with burning; R. of Schneiderian membrane. Ulcers in nostrils; painful, on side of nostrils where they unite with lip. Stitches in tip in evening and night; S. below nose. Cramp at root. Pain in l. nostril in morning and stoppage by matter; pressing P. in bones; bruised internally above wings on external touch. Painful drawing over l. half. Crawling on tip, > rubbing. They frequently bored into their noses. Dryness; with redness; of Schneiderian membrane, also of eyes, with burning in them and in lids; of nostrils, with frontal headache. Sneezing; frequent dry, with tickling, especially in l. nostril; prolonged fits.

Catarrh or cough, with coryza. Blowing out of mucus mixed with blood. Watery mucus. Mucus dries to crusts. Fluent coryza from one nostril only. Coryza, with smell in nose as of herring-pickle, < when blowing nose. Moisture in l. nostril, then sneezing and collection of mucus in nose, throat and air passages. Stuffing alternating with flow of water (Nux v.). Stoppage of r. nostril, then sneezing, then coryza. Bleeding; in morning; at night. Smell sensitive, the smell of tobacco and soot is intolerable; S. of camphor is loathsome; of rotten eggs before nose; bread smells and tastes sour; loss of smell.

Clinical.—Acute inflammation internally and externally. Hæmorrhage from nose. Nose swollen, red and hot.

Face.—Swelling; of cheek, with burning pain; and redness; and R. especially about eyes. Redness and heat (Bry., Stram., Verat. v.); without sweat; and heat, with swelling of face, neck and chest; glowing, with headache; and neck, then desquamation; with general warmth and restlessness, then pallor and lassitude; with heat of face and coldness of limbs; R. of cheeks. Bluish redness. Dirty redness. Purple redness of cheeks. Red irregular spots, < l. cheek, with heat. Bluish-red spot on l. cheek in morning on waking, increasing until it occupies the whole cheek, with burning and sticking in the spot and boring and throbbing in whole cheek, < movement, afterwards swelling of other cheek. Pale; and cold. Sunken and covered with cold, clammy sweat. Expression anxious and vacant; vacant; alternately anxious and joyful; joyful and astonished; stupid; E. of stupid astonishment.

Spasms; with ridiculous motions of all parts; with grinding of teeth and at times stretching and extension of limbs; convulsive motion of muscles of l. side, especially of l. canthus; remarkable mobility of muscles. Distortion. Disfigured on expiration the boy puffed as if hot. Risus sardonius. Shootings in chin. Tearing below r. zygoma, with drawing. Pinching on l. zygoma. Sharp pains in cheek. Pressing below r. zygoma. Swollen feeling. Nestling, spasmodic sensation in chin. Numbness.

Lips.—Swelling of upper, with stiff feeling on opening mouth. Redness and swelling (Bry., Apis); dark R., and of tongue and gum, with dryness of throat and difficult swallowing. Crack in middle, < upper, on sneezing and coughing. Desquamation. Pimple beneath externally and to the side, with biting corroding pain; P. on upper, with creeping while untouched, but itching shooting when touched; pale-red P. in corners; on margin, changing to an ulcer covered with a scab and paining as if inflamed; on upper, near r. wing of nose, covered with a scab, another beneath margin of lower lip and on inner skin of lower lip, both with biting pain, as from salt water. Pustules on borders, with smarting pain. Ulcer, with red edges and corrosive itching, in corner; U. in corner, also with tearing. Sore feeling at corners, as if they would ulcerate. Burning pain at lower outer edge, with vesicles. Drawing in upper, then red swelling. Heat; and of mucous membrane of mouth, fauces and nose, with dryness. Dryness, and of tongue, skin of cheeks and throat, with constriction of pharynx, difficult speech, incomplete phrases.

Jaws.—Trismus. Tetanic closure on attempting to pour down liquid, and regurgitation of liquid. Spasms. Twitching. Convulsive chewing, with foam from mouth. Shooting in socket; on lower margin of r. lower; from upper into internal ear; in direction of ears, with tension; in r. joint on chewing, extending into ear, then twitching. Tearing on inner surface of corner of l. lower, < during deglutition, and in and behind l. tonsil. Pain (a jerking drawing?) in lower (in glands?), shooting inward. Lower feels as if drawn backward, with pain on advancing it and on biting. Clucking along under edge of lower.

Clinical.—Erysipelas of the face. Facial neuralgia, with flushed face, etc. Lockjaw.

Mouth.—Teeth. Grinding. Bleeding of hollow on sucking them. Shooting in an upper hollow molar, then swelling of cheek. Tearing (?), waking after midnight; T. in a hollow lower T. and in an adjoining sound molar, < contact with air or food. Feeling as if they would be forced out. (Digging.) Drawing in r. upper all night, with swelling, burning pain, external heat, sometimes painful jerkings; D. in r. upper anterior molars. Pain drawing from ear to upper hollow teeth, where the pain becomes a boring, > while eating, < afterwards, < at night, becoming after drinking coffee jerking and boring. Pain rather drawing than shooting. Toothache in a child. Pain running through upper middle incisors. Toothache after eating, increasing gradually and as gradually diminishing; T. with drawing in ear. Painful jerkings in nerves of fangs, or throbbings. Pain when biting anything, as if roots were ulcerated and would break. Pain in roots in evening after lying down and during mental occupation, like the pain of excoriation, and when worse like a cutting; like a soreness, on admission of open air. Incisors feel too long.

Gum.—Vesicle below an incisor, with pain as if burnt. Bleeding near a hollow tooth. Pain on touch, as if ulcerated. Heat, with itching and throbbing. Itching, with pain in throat.

Tongue.—Deep redness; of papillæ, with swelling. Vessels beneath T. bluish and injected with blood. Pallor. Swollen; and pressed close behind lower incisors. Cracked; and white-coated, with salivation. Coated; yellowish; white; white and moist; white, with smarting in middle, as from a vesicle; white tenacious coat, which comes off in shreds. Trembling (Lach., Merc.). Sticking to throat on attempting to spit. Cramps at base. Pain, < touch. Feeling as if there were a vesicle at tip, which caused burning pain on touch. Swollen feeling. Feeling as if lying deep in mouth and so the buccal cavity was larger. Cold feeling in anterior half, with dryness of it. Dry; and D. throat, interfering with speech (Verat. v.); and retracted; hanging from the child's mouth, and swollen; D. and cracked; and difficult to move; and yellow-brown; with thick frothy mucus adhering to its sides; as if covered with a crust; D. sensation, < drinking water. Paralyzed feeling.

Speech.—Stammering. Interrupted. Slow and impeded. Rapid, interrupted. Difficult. Indistinct. Speechlessness. Paralytic weakness of organs.

Mouth slimy in morning on waking, with headache; S. in morning, > after eating; with feeling as if a bad taste came from it. Mucus < morning after rising, sometimes of putrid taste. Foam; bloody. Drawn to one side by spasms. Deep crimson color from posterior third of palate as far down as could be seen, with enlargement of tonsils. Redness, and of gullet, with heat and dryness.

Scraping, and in throat, extending into stomach, with constriction; S. on palate. Pain beneath hard palate, about the middle, when eating rolls and milk, extending through fauces to nasal cavity. Rawness of palate, < touch of tongue and chewing, with soreness. Soreness on inside of cheek, with erosion of mouth of salivary duct. Dryness (Acon., Bry., Verat. v.); at night, with thirst; of lining of cheeks, lips, tongue, which look burnt, roof of mouth and pharynx; dry sensation though tongue was moist; though moist, with stickiness and great thirst. Aridity as if mucous membrane had been removed by some pungent or corrosive substance. Heat in hard palate. Unctuous clammy state, < drinking water. (Paralytic weakness of internal parts.) Salivation; in evening. Saliva flows from mouth. Saliva has a spoiled taste; S. in throat was thick, white, clinging to tongue like glue. Constant spitting without ejecting saliva. Breath hot; offensive B. in morning on waking.

Taste.—Disgusting, with clean tongue. Metallic. Coppery. Like copperas. Nauseous, with empty eructations. Sickish-sweetish. Putrid; after eating; rising from fauces even when eating and drinking, though food and drink have their proper taste. Aromatic. Like wine. Salt-sourish. Sour to bread; to the last part of the bread and butter, every evening, then heartburn; to the broth that had been taken, then scratching in throat. Salt to food. Natural to food when beginning to eat, then suddenly taste partly as if too salt, partly insipid, with feeling in pit of throat as if she would vomit what she had taken. (Bitter to bread and apples in evening.) Clammy. Pasty. Insipid. Lost; to food.

Clinical.—Difficult dentition (acute symptoms). Stammering. Paralytic weakness of the organs of speech. Inflammation of mouth and throat, all the parts are red, hot and dry, < r. side.

Throat.—Shooting in r. parotid, extending into external ear, where it becomes cramplike, repeated at same hour next day. Strong pulsation in carotid. Swelling; around T. and jaws; of tonsils. Inflammation; of tonsils; aphthæ. Aphthæ. Redness; with burning along alimentary canal; of uvula and velum palati. Tenacious mucus. Great expectoration of light mucus as soon as the throat began to feel sore. Frequent E. of mucus. Hawking of mucus from upper part. Mucus in upper part, with general sensation as before catarrh of throat, with swelling and inflammation of arches of palate, tonsils and posterior wall of pharynx. Spasm; spasmodic action of muscles at every attempt to swallow. Cramp extending from r. tonsil to top of pharynx.

Shootings on swallowing and breathing; in pharynx on swallowing, turning head and feeling side of neck, with pain as from internal swelling; in l. side; in pit. Scraping; from dry hawking; in soft palate when swallowing. Pain; in region of tonsils; in posterior part on swallowing; as if swollen during deglutition and expectoration, < l. side. Soreness; after reading aloud; when swallowing; with redness about tonsils and palate, extending to ears (Gelsen.), also in morning. Constriction; extending to stomach. Feeling as if too narrow when swallowing; painful narrowing of pharynx, with stretched sensation when preparing to swallow. Dryness; with difficult swallowing (Duboisia); hindering swallowing and altering voice; causing constant attempts to swallow, then at every attempt suffocative spasms of fauces and glottis; and of lips without real thirst. Burning; (with natural moisture in mouth), not > drinking, transiently > sugar; intermittent, in upper part, with frequent necessity to swallow. Tickling. Paralysis.

Swallowing.—Difficult; of water; of solid food possible only by constantly taking liquids; and painful; only a few drops, the rest being forced out by spasmodic action of muscles of deglutition (Lach.). Inability to drink; to swallow solid food; painless I. to swallow. Constant urging to swallow.

Esophagus.—Intermittent contraction, when swallowing, followed each time by scraping in region of epiglottis as if latter were raw and sore. Dryness.

Clinical.—Adapted to the early stage of a great variety of inflammatory diseases of the throat, characterized by the above symptoms; and especially by intense hyperæmia, with dryness and tendency to spasmodic contraction of the pharyngeal muscles.

Stomach.—Longing for food and greedy swallowing of it. Hunger but no inclination for any kind of food. Desire for this or that, but no relish if he eats it. Appetite diminished; especially for animal food. Appetite lost; for breakfast; for dinner, yet he ate with relish, and the hunger was < after eating; lost, with feeling of emptiness and hunger, but if he begins to eat relish; lost after smoking tobacco; lost for everything but water, soup and bread and butter. Aversion to food; A. to acids.

Thirst; in morning; in evening, with watery taste, though all liquids are loathsome. Violent every noon; after midnight and in morning. Unquenchable; with slow pulse. Burning, with heat in all parts, craving for drink, but repelling it when offered. For cold water. Desire for beverages without appetite for drinking. Absence of T. Repugnance to beer; to coffee; to milk, which appears to have a loathsome smell and (bitter, sourish) taste, which disappear after continuing to drink.

Eructations; with flatulence in bowels and stitches in l. breast; incomplete; bitter; bitter, after a meal; tasting of ingesta; of burning sour moisture, with a kind of retching; hicough-like. Something midway between eructations and hicough. Hicough; which jerked her up, then deafness until the next attack.

Nausea; in frequent attacks in forenoon; after breakfast; in evening, in throat (not in scrobiculus cordis), with occasional bitter eructations; when walking in open air; < when he would eat; with efforts to vomit; with inability to vomit; changing to burning, with full sensation in throat. Empty retching. Vomiting; after eating and drinking; after drinking, with large swallows; after milk, then slight amelioration; then sleep; of food; of undigested food eaten twelve hours before; difficult to excite.

Distention; and tension; of epigastrium in evening in bed, with tensive pain in stomach. Spasm always during midday meal; S. like cramp: (During cough turning, as if vomiting would come on, even when empty.) Cramp; and in abdomen. Shootings in pit. Shooting cutting in pit, forcing him to bend backward and hold his breath. Pinching across epigastrium and downward, as if in colon. Squeezing in pit while walking, obliging deep breathing. Acute pain. Pain; after drinking; about pit; periodical, in pit at night, with tremor. Hard pressure < after eating; painful P. in pit when walking, forcing him to move slowly; P. in pit, in part gnawing. Oppression in pit, so that she could not breathe properly, alternating with nausea.

Contractive sensation after a little food; C. pain in pit. Burning; in region. Burning pain at orifice. Heartburn when smoking, then scraping, burning, smarting at beginning of gullet, and chiefly at upper part of larynx. Sensitiveness to touch in region. Distress; as from indigestion. Sensation as if something were in pit, making him cough. Feeling in pit as of accumulation of flatus. Emptiness. Painless throbbing in pit.

Clinical.—Vomiting, cannot keep any food in the stomach. Soreness and distention in the region of the stomach. Neuralgia of the stomach, of the most violent character, with extreme tenderness. Gastritis, with violent vomiting, even of food. Nausea and vomiting are among the most persistent effects of this drug; these symptoms are more frequently associated with other Bell. symptoms than is generally supposed.

Abdomen.—Tumefaction; with tenderness to touch, constipation and weak pulse; with rolling or grumbling in l. side. Meteorism; with constipation, in one case subsiding and recurring with the delirium. Retraction; while lying, with pain. Rumbling; with pinching. Emission of flatus; of inodorous.

Pricking at 11.30 A.M. (Shooting after drinking milk); S. outward and in chest. (Cutting in evening.) Pain in a spot as if seized with nails, a gripping, clutching, claving. Pinching, in evening before soft stool; deep, < retracting abdomen and on bending upper part of body to the left; obliging him to bend double, with ineffectual urging to diarrhoea, then vomiting. Cramplike pain extending to spine, occasional sharp pain in hypochondriac region. Pain; with urging to stool. Pain as if sore and raw. Tenderness on pressure, especially in ovarian region. Constrictive pain, obliging her to bend up. Pain as from a heavy weight when walking and standing. Drawing pain, with cold feet. Drawing as from flatus.

Feeling of distention, with constrictive pain below umbilicus, the latter coming in jerks and obliging bending double. Full feeling in evening, with gripping and rumbling; F. feeling < after stool. Something seems to rise and to press on throat, with retching, but without nausea or vomiting. Feeling as before diarrhoea, when straining at stool, with internal heat in abdomen. Heat (with anxiety), and in chest and face, with obstruction of nose; H. rising into chest.

Upper and Side.—Distention in region of stomach. Pain in upper. Cutting in l. side in morning while lying on that side. Gripping in r. side while walking, with shootings thence to r. axilla. Pressing-out pain in side when pressing upon pit of stomach.

Hypochondria.—Bile increased. Fulness below short ribs, and when stooping fulness at pit of stomach and darkness before eyes. Shootings near last r. ribs. Pinching in hepatic region, < rising from a seat. Sharp pain in splenic region. Pain in hypochondria, as if pressed out when pressing on epigastrium. Tension round ribs.

Umbilical Region.—Sticking; itching, in navel, > rubbing. Stabs as with a knife in l. side below navel; between r. hip and navel; shooting, extending round l. hip to lumbar vertebrae. Clawing-together pain coming from sides into navel. Pinching; immediately under wall below navel after eating. Gripping; transversely across below navel, then emission of flatus, with rumbling; as if he would be obliged to go to stool, > emission of flatus. Squeezing, < noon and afternoon; S. and clawing, obliging him to bend forward. Pain. Constriction; as if a ball were forming. Tensive sensation below navel after stool.

Hypogastrium.—Distention, > emission of flatus, with gripping and with nausea. Shooting in inguinal glands; S. in l. groin. Cutting, now here, now there; C. < l. side; outward in crests of ilia on rising from a seat. Tensive pain in morning on getting out of bed, especially in region of os pubis, with feeling as if hypogastrium (rarely epigastrium) were spasmodically constricted, sometimes as if distended (although not really so), pains gradually increasing and decreasing. Feeling immediately below umbilicus as if intestines pressed outward, < standing. Pressure in morning as if everything would be forced out towards organs of generation, with distention of abdomen, then contraction of abdomen, then discharge of white mucus from vagina. Feeling in r. groin as if a hard body pressed outward when sitting bent forward. Drawing pain in whole circumference of pelvis, alternately in sacrum and os pubis; flatulent D. on r. side, over horizontal ramus of pubis. Congested feeling in pelvic region, with excited sexual desire.

Clinical.—Peritonitis. Metroperitonitis. In abdominal affections characterized by extreme sensitiveness to touch, intolerance of even the clothing, with great heat. Acute inflammation of liver. Gall-stone colic cured. Jaundice.

Rectum.—Shootings during motion. Squeezing, constrictive pain in lowermost intestines, alternately with shoots or jerks in direction of perineum. Constrictive pain, then sore pain in upper abdomen, then rapid evacuation of mucous diarrhoea, lastly empty straining. Voluptuous tickling in lower part. Itching in lower part; sudden I., and in anus. Sense of constipation. Inability to press during stool. Tenesmus, a constant pressing and urging towards anus and genitals, alternating with painful contractions of anus. Straining to stool, then scanty diarrhoea, then increased straining. Constant desire for stool. Urging to stool, which is thin; frequent but ineffectual, or with a scanty, hard stool; ineffectual, then vomiting.

Anus.—Bleeding. Haemorrhoidal flow. Itching, with constriction; I. externally when walking in open air. Itching in perineum, with moisture.

Clinical.—Bleeding piles, with great forcing and great sensitiveness. In dysentery the mucous membrane of the anus is swollen and everted, with excessive tenderness.

Stool.—Watery, scanty, with tenesmus; W. copious, greenish. Diarrhoea-like; greenish; offensive, greenish; dark, at night; scanty, with stitches above umbilicus; frequent, with tenesmus; then frequent desire, with no stool or a scanty one. Granular, yellow, somewhat mucous. Pappy, mixed with mucus. Constipation. Hard and scanty. Green, faeces enveloped in reddish mucus. (Sour smelling.) Small; and rapid, involuntary. Slight, with colic. Involuntary. Frequent. Retarded. Slow and dry. Suppressed; also urine, with profuse sweat.

Clinical.—Diarrhoea of green mucus and blood. Dysentery, especially in children.

Urinary Organs.—Discharge of prostatic juice from relaxed penis. Irritation, especially of neck of bladder, with strangury, bloody urine, with heat, redness of whole body, palate and pharynx. Pressure in vesical region at night. Pain in region of bladder; with desire to urinate, but evacuation of only a few drops by the catheter. Twisting as of a worm in bladder. Bladder half paralyzed. Tenesmus. Urging to urinate, with bloody urine; U., with scanty, dark urine; with ability to pass only a few drops of colorless urine; with difficult micturition in a small stream. Frequent urging; with scanty urine; but urine passed after great effort and guttatim. No inclination to urinate.

Urine retained, passed by drops. Involuntary micturition; during deep sleep in daytime; while in a stupor; in children. Dysuria. Painful micturition. Strangury; with bloody urine. Urine suppressed. Frequent, copious micturition. Bladder full, urine flowing slowly through catheter. A stitch from bulb of urethra to orifice when walking. Shootings behind glans between acts of micturition, < movement. Burning in urethra, with ineffectual urging to urinate.

Urine.—Copious; with strangury at neck of bladder; pale and watery; now C., now scanty. Scanty; and passed with exertion; strongly ammoniacal, evacuated by a catheter. Dark. Bloody. Deep red, with light sediment. Yellow, turbid. Whitish. Scalding. Containing vesical mucus. Turbid like yeast, with reddish sediment. Thick, white sediment.

Clinical.—Acute cystitis. Dysuria, especially of children and excitable women. Acute inflammation of the kidney.

Sexual Organs.—Irritation in boys, manifested by constant erections and by seizing the member with the hands. Weakness and relaxation, sweat at night. Tearing upward in l. spermatic cord in evening before sleep. Drawing in spermatic cord during micturition. Soft, painless pimple on glans. Prepuce retracted behind glans, causing disagreeable feeling in glans. Smarting in outer edge of prepuce after micturition. Itching, as from a flea-bite, on forepart of glans. Frequent erections. Scrotum blistered. Shootings in the testicles, which are drawn upward. Sexual indifference. Emission at night during relaxation of penis; at night without lascivious dreams; twice in one night.

Female.—Shootings in internal organs at every step. Urging as if everything would fall out, < sitting bent and walking, > lying and sitting erect. Dryness of vagina, with burning, stinging. Badly smelling hemorrhage from uterus. Menses too soon; M. inordinate, sudden. Metrorrhagia, the blood having a bad smell.

Clinical.—Inflammation of pelvic viscera. Prolapsus of uterus; inflammation of uterus; inflamed ovaries, < r.; all with heavy dragging and forcing pain, as if the uterus were heavy with hot blood; suppression of menses with these symptoms. Ovarian tumor, with forcing pain. Dysmenorrhœa. Uterine hemorrhage. Threatened miscarriage. Rigid os during labor. Post partum hemorrhage. Fibroid tumor of uterus. Retained placenta, with hot gushes of blood. Metrorrhagia, very offensive. Inflammation of mammary gland, which was extremely sensitive and hot. Violent cerebral symptoms (see mind and head) from suppressed menstruation.

Respiratory Organs.—Noise and rattling in bronchial tubes. Pain under larynx after eating, with hiccough. Pressing in l. side of larynx, < external pressure. Constriction of larynx. Painful dryness of larynx, with aversion to all drinks; D. of larynx, making voice husky and often inducing dry cough.

Hoarseness; especially when crying; with dryness in larynx, with frequent cough, and frequent necessity for empty swallowing, and when swallowing pain in larynx extending to l. ear (Lach.); hoarse and weak voice. Aphonia; or confused sounds uttered with pain. Weak voice. Piping voice with difficulty in speaking (Stram.). Sharp and clear voice.

Cough beginning about 10 P.M., recurring every quarter of an hour or oftener, in three or four fits at a time; C., waking her at night; from rawness and dryness in upper part of larynx; preceded by crying (Arm.) (in a child); with bloody taste in mouth; with much straining and fretting (in a child); with prickings under l. ribs; in attacks which end in sneezing; croupy, hollow and scraping; violent C. in sleep with grinding of teeth. Dry cough from scraping in larynx; D. at every inspiration; from tightness of chest like dry catarrh; short, in evening in bed, from itching tickling in back of larynx; violent, in forenoon, as if a foreign body had lodged in larynx, with coryza. Cough, with bloody expectoration in morning; with expectoration of thick white mucus, preceded by angina, followed by rawness and dryness in upper part of larynx; C. as he had inhaled dust, waking him at night, with mucous expectoration. Coughing up a substance resembling old catarrhal mucus, of purulent appearance, from upper part of trachea in morning.

Expectoration of mucus from air passages by coughing and hawking; E. of blackish thick mucus.

Respiration.—Difficult. Short, after coffee in afternoon. Anxious, with the brazen stridulous sound of croup. Violent, short, hurried, anxious. Groaning; at every expiration; < morning; alternating with jumping and dancing. Sighing. Moaning. Deep, at times yawning; D., as in croup. Jerking. Irregular. Intermittent; at night, inspiration and expiration together lasting only half as long as the pause before the next inspiration, expiration by starts and louder than inspiration, inspiration only a little longer than expiration. Rapid; and oppressed; and irregular; and sighing, shallow. Retarded, at times whistling. Stertorous; with râles in anterior part of chest. Vesicular murmur, without rattling. Appearance at times as if he had drawn his last breath.

Clinical.—Acute laryngitis, with great hoarseness or loss of voice, the larynx feels dry and is painfully sore or feels swollen, with suffocation. Spasmodic croup. Spasm of glottis. Whooping cough, with hot face and head, and nosebleed. Chronic laryngitis, with cough like the barking of a dog, without fever and without soreness. Catarrhal croup in the first stage, the child gasps for air and tosses about wildly (Acon.).

Chest.—Milk runs out of mamma, in a woman not pregnant. Inflammation of the lungs. Stabs as with a knife below last two ribs, close to xiphoid cartilage and above false ribs. Stitches in l.; in mamma; (under l. ribs); here and there below skin of r. side; at 3 P.M., and just below r. axilla; under r. arm towards evening, hindering breathing; in sternum when coughing and yawning; in l. side from sternum towards axilla, < motion; deeply penetrating, in r.; backward below clavicle when walking; in cartilage of l. ribs, < expiration, when it changes into an almost burning sensation.

Intermittent cutting in r. Shooting pinching on both sides of upper part of sternum. Gnawing beneath cartilages of last r. ribs. Squeezing in l. and r. sides. Acute pain in sternum above xiphoid cartilage. Cramping pain below end of sternum, gradually extending to pit of stomach and upward to sternum and over cardiac region. Pain, and between shoulders; when sitting and walking, with short breath; at sternal end of fifth rib; below r. nipple; beating, under sternum, above scrobiculus cordis. Pressing in r. causing anxiety; P. outward in region of sixth true rib.

Oppression; in evening in bed, causing difficulty in breathing, as from mucus in windpipe, with burning in chest. Tightness. Constriction as if pressed inward from both sides; spasmodic C., and in throat, with sense of suffocation. Spasmodic tension, extending to deep in abdomen, < motion. Drawing in l., with stitches. Burning in r. Inquietude and beating. Air seems to have collected beneath sternum, disappearing with rumbling in abdomen, whereupon the nausea is worse.

Clinical.—Pleurisy. Rarely, in inflammatory diseases of thoracic organs.

Heart.—Stitches. Pressure; arresting breath and causing anxiety. Anxiety. Violent beating. Clucking on ascending stairs, a sort of palpitation. Palpitation; when exercising, with laboral breathing; with pulsation in carotids and temporal arteries, heat and redness of face, congestion to head and fever; (during rest, with feeling as if the concussion extended to throat, < movement, with difficult slow, respiration.) Action feeble; but frequent. Action and pulse smaller and contracted. Trembling.

Pulse.—Full, frequent. Increased in force and frequency (Acon., etc.). Frequent and small; F., irregular and uneven; contracted, often intermittent; and feeble. Sometimes frequent, sometimes slow. Strong, hard. Irregular; one strong beat being followed by four or five weak ones. Slow and full, and large; S. and weak; and small; slow, radial artery full, hard, firm to touch, with insensibility, a vein in the arm being opened the blood, which flowed slowly, was dark and thick. Small, intermittent. Feeble. Scarcely perceptible. Imperceptible.

Neck.—Swelling of glands on l. side, with burning pain; S. of glands of nape, with cloudiness of head; of glands, with pain at night. Shootings in a gland at side; S. in region of second and third cervical vertebrae on carrying head erect. Pain in nape as if it would break, when coughing. Sharp pain between last cervical and first dorsal vertebra. Pain externally when bearing head backward and on touch; pressing, in nape close to occiput; drawing, in r. muscles. Drawing in muscles. Cramplike tension in l. muscles. Stiffness; so that he could not lay the head on the side; of nape.

Clinical.—Stiff-neck from taking cold. Torticollis, r. muscles contracted. Acute inflammation of glands (compare Iod., Calc. c., etc.).

Back.—Cramplike tearing now here, now there, now in arms, during menses. Pain as if dislocated in r. side and in spinal column. Pressive pain at l. of spine, under false ribs. Stiffness of muscles of B. and lower limbs, preventing sitting up in bed or raising himself upright, if supported he can stand, but is unable to move his feet or to walk.

Spine.—Stabbings inward in vertebrae. Shooting and gnawing. Gnawing, with cough. Cramplike pressive sensation in middle, becoming tenser if he attempts to straighten the back. Rigidity.

Scapula.—Shootings in r.; electric, from l. to r. Darting pain at vertebral end of eighth rib. Drawing cutting behind r. Pain under l., more towards outer side. Cramplike pain between r. and spinal column, almost like pinching. Strained pain between S. Drawing pressure between r. and spinal column. Drawing between S. in evening, extending down spine. Painful stiffness between S. and nape in morning when turning neck to and fro.

Lumbar Region.—Cutting in r. and in lower end of sternum. Spasmodic sensation in l. Sharp pain in r., above ischium. Pain; in l. kidney; in kidney region in morning, > pressure. Sacrum and coccyx, cramp-like pain, with ability to sit for only a short time, while sitting he becomes stiff and unable to rise again for pain, he cannot lie well, it often wakes him at night and he has to turn on to the other side, with violent pain, he cannot lie on the back, > standing and walking slowly, but he cannot walk fast.

Clinical.—Spinal irritability, pressure upon the dorsal vertebrae causes screams and distress in stomach, or violent cough and flushed face. Hyperemia of spine, with difficulty in walking, loss of co-ordination when walking. Lumbago, with pain in hips and thighs, cramps in legs, etc.

Extremities.—Moved slowly upward, then with greater force thrown downward. Twitchings. Convulsive movements. Convulsive extension on waking. Movements now simulating chorea, now hysteria, then tetanus, changing to opisthotonus. Distortions alternating with immobility. Involuntary performance of the motions peculiar to the daily duties. Constant motion all night. Trembling; with inability to walk, and if lifted they fell powerless.

Stitches in shoulder region and in feet. Tearing in flexor surface of l. forearm and in palm and sole; shooting T. through l. knee, with crawling on l. sole, tearing in volar side of l. hand and in upper third of metacarpal bone of little finger. Gnawing as of ants in bones of arm and thigh, creeping downward. Pain in all. Drawing pain. (Soreness in bends of joints.) Uneasiness. Weakness; in morning, with restlessness of them on account of pain; with indisposition to work; paralytic, of all muscles. Numbness. Heaviness of hands and feet. Stiffness. Immobility.

Upper Extremities.—Affection as in chorea. Sense of stretching and twisting. Heaviness and paralytic feeling, especially in l. arm. Painful swelling of one of l. axillary glands. Tearing under and in r. axilla. Shooting pressure on top of l. shoulder. Stitches in region of shoulder and in region of l. false ribs.

Arm.—Continual contortions, and of hands. Stretching, and of hands, as if she would seize something. Convulsive shaking. Trembling on slightest motion. Contractions and twitchings, the fingers clenched and elbows rigid. Painful twitching; < r. When eating he often put his hand instead of the spoon into the soup, and often he was unable to find his mouth with his spoon. Weakness, still more in hands, as if she must let them hang down. Heaviness. Stiffness of r. (upon which she had not lain) at 3 A.M., with feeling as if shorter than the other and with tearing.

Upper Arm.—Stabbing outward below head of humerus. Tearing in humerus. Paralytic tearing pressure in anterior surface of l. Paralytic pressure in l., with paralytic feeling and weakness of whole l. arm. Paralytic drawing pressure, and in forearm, with weakness. Bruised pain. Drawing pain in inside of l.; in l. near insertion of deltoid, > pressure.

Drawing downward in muscles of r., which when it reached region of elbow twitched upward again to axilla. Paralytic weakness of r., then also of forearm.

Elbow.—Shootings externally in l. Cutting in interior of l. when walking. (Pain as if burnt when moving or touching it.) Paralytic drawing pain; and in l. fingers. Rumbling in bend of l., as if water or some heavy liquid were running through veins.

Forearm.—Twitching of tendons and muscles on inner side. Shootings in l.; in middle of inner. Cutting tearing in lower muscles of l.; in lower muscles of r. during rest. Aching in muscles. Throbbing pain along r. radial nerve at 11.30 A.M. Burning throbbing near olecranon and posterior ridge of radius often during the day, < touch and pressure, at 6 P.M. a similar pain at base of scapula, near angle, < pressure, with warmth in this spot.

Wrist.—Shooting along ulnar nerve to elbow. Paralytic tearing in carpal bones. Inability to turn hand easily, he can do it only by jerks, as from deficiency of synovial fluid.

Hand.—Swelling; with dryness and dropping of anything he takes hold of. Constant motion, and of fingers. Twitchings. Trembling; with periodical twitchings of rest of body. Shooting in metacarpal bones of thumbs. Tearing pressure in metacarpal bones and in distal joint of l. index; shooting T. in l. metacarpal bones. Soreness; on pressure. Dry sensation in palms, with smooth feeling. Stiffness of r. and of fingers.

Fingers.—Easy dislocation. Shootings out at tips during general chill, < when grasping. Paralytic tearing in middle joint of r. index. Tearing-cutting in muscles of r. little. Painful drawing in proximal joint of l. middle, as if in periosteum. Pain in tip of middle as if a foreign body had lodged and caused ulceration, < touch. Pain in tips of l. as if they had been jammed. Tingling. Stiffness of anterior joint of middle, with pain on bending, a simple pain (? sore).

Lower Extremities.—Stumbling. Staggering; in morning on rising; with vertigo, headache and drowsiness. Sensation in joints as if they would give way, particularly in knee, < walking and descending stairs. Weakness, with nausea, trembling, anxiety and vertigo. Little control over, with weakness and dragging. Paralysis; temporary, and of neck of bladder and of sphincter ani.

Hip.—Shoots in r. Pain in l. when lying on r. Paralytic tension in joints when walking, as if dislocated.

Thigh.—Cutting shoots in external muscles above knee only when sitting. Knife-stab in middle, more towards posterior side, after eating. Cutting twitching-tearing in posterior muscles of l. when sitting. Pain in T. and legs as if bruised and as if brittle, with shooting and gnawing towards shafts of bones, tearing in joints, the pain gradually rising from tarsal joints to hips, obliging him while sitting to continually move feet, > when walking (comp. Rhus. t.). Cramp pain in gluteals on bending forward, with tension. Fluctuating throbbing pain in upper and inner part of l. Sore pain on inner side. Feeling as if there were no flesh on ischia, but more comfort on a hard than on a soft seat. Pain drawing outwards on a spot on inner side of l. Hard pressure in middle of anterior surface of r. Rheumatic drawing in a spot between l. knee and trochanter at night, changing to burning throbbing next day, with erysipelatous redness. Paralytic drawing in r. T. and leg. Heaviness while sitting; while walking, with stiffness; of T. and legs while walking, with stiffness of knee.

Knee.—Twitching in bend of r.; in bend extending into muscles of thigh. Shooting in bend of l.; in r. patella while sitting. Pain. Cramplike pain in r., near patella, towards outer side, when sitting; especially about patella, preventing him from ascending stairs. Squeezing pain in bend of r. Feeling when walking as if outer hamstrings were too short, alternately with a similar sensation in inner hamstring, but it is more intense in outer. Tingling-quivering sensation over r. when sitting. Bubbling in forepart of l., as of water.

Leg.—Trembling; with tottering gait, raising of one leg as if he had to ascend a hill, whereupon he falls and cannot rise without aid. Cramp in calf in evening in bed on bending leg, > stretching leg. Shootings in l. calf coming up from lower part. Prickings below l. patella when sitting. Tearing pressure in middle of inside. Tearing; in tibia; frequent, in l. calf; burning-tearing upward through inner surface of popliteal space; drawing, in r. tibia, with sensation of pressing-asunder. "Growing pain" in r., a feeling of stiffness, with heaviness. Sensation as if jammed, < night, > letting leg hang down, with commotion (dull tearing) and stir therein. Pressure in forepart of l. tibia when standing. Sensation drawing upward, as of crawling externally, but internally as of shootings. Drawing on l. tibia near knee. Tension in muscles, especially in calf, where there is crawling. Feeling in calf as if he would have cramp. Necessity to extend them. Weakness; paralytic; paralytic, when ascending stairs, especially of calves. Painful heaviness of r. when laying it over l.; drawing H.; tremulous. Numbness; crawling over them after lying a short time, in r. then l. Loss of control.

Tendo-achillis.—Boring or tearing shoots. Tension in r. tarsal joint when walking in open air.

Foot.—Swollen. Raised when walking as if stepping over a high obstacle. Cramp in sole in evening in bed when drawing up knees. Shootings in soles; S. from l. to knee when stepping upon it; in dorsum of l. when sitting. Tearing in metatarsal bone of great toe; T. in l. sole while walking, with occasional shooting. Boring digging in soles; digging in soles, with burning. Sharp pain at base of first metatarsal bone of r. Pain in metatarsal bones as if dislocated while walking or bending foot. Bruised pain in ball of heel when treading on it. Drawing pain in hollow of r.; D. pain extending to scapulae and thence into fingers, at last into teeth, which then seem on edge and become loose; cutting, in a spot, extending through legs and thighs, then through small of back to shoulders; painless, or creeping from heels around ankles to toes. Tension in r. sole in region of heel, changing to tensile pressure, > pressure. Bubbling as from the dropping of water. Creeping from below upward in feet. Lassitude, with drawing pain. Numbness. Inability to stir l.

Clinical.—Sciatic nerves extremely sensitive, as if uncovered, cannot bear to have anything press upon the affected part. Acute inflammation of hip-joint, with heat, etc. (Symptoms of neuritis, see also arm.)

Skin.—Distention of veins. Gray spots on chest. White like a statue; W., except face, which is red and swollen. Redness as in scarlatina; R. suddenly spreading over body, especially in face and legs, with heat and exaltation of all faculties; red spots (which itch?); in spots over whole body, especially on chest; in spots on backs of hands; sharply defined uniform R. on face, neck, arms, trunk and thighs; on face, chest and limbs; then roughness and desquamation.

Appearance in color, and to a certain extent in thickness, like scarlet flannel. Scarlet eruption; on arms and legs. Eruption like scarlatina; on face, upper limbs and trunk, ending abruptly at wrists and flexure of thighs, with hot and dry skin; like scarlatina, covering skin with occasional livid spots. Scarlet rash on neck, upper part of chest, on hand and forehead. Red, scaly eruption on lower parts of body as far as abdomen. Red elevated spots on chest and belly, frequently disappearing and suddenly appearing, with general redness of skin. Red elevations at root of nose, and when touched pain as if ulcerated. Red elevations similar to nettle-rash, gradually coalescing, covering face and front of neck, around the spots a white border, also around mouth.

Erythema. Inflammation. Cold, painful, long-lasting nodosities and swellings (apparently secondary effect). Boil upon shoulder; painful, on temple; red, hard B. at angle of lower jaw, with stinging when pressed. Pimples on chin; on face, and boils; rash-like on chin, with burning on touch; on side of chin, with itching sticking, or rather stiches than itching, > scratching; on l. mamma, with crawling itching, > rubbing; beneath r. elbow, with stinging on touch; red exuding bloody serum when scratched, on temple, at r. corner of mouth and on chin. Pimply exanthema on face, suppurating slowly.

Pustules; on cheek and nose, rapidly filling with pus, becoming covered with a crust, also on nape and arms; between lips and chin, with burning smarting, pain < night; white-tipped, under l. wing of nose; red, on back, especially in scapular region, the whole skin is red and smart when touched, but in tips of pustules there is shooting. Erysipelatous fever, with inflamed swellings passing into gangrene. Gangrene, hot and cold. Ulcers; exude only bloody matter; (become covered with black scabs); cutting in U. during rest, and tearing on moving the part; sore pain around U.; painful, on side of nostrils where they unite with lip; become painful to touch, almost a burning pain; pain in U. almost only at night (from 6 P.M. to 6 A.M.), burning as if something would press outward, and the part seems paralyzed and stiff; itching of U.

Sensitiveness to touch; S. to the free air. Pleasant pricking as of warmth out of all pores. Creeping upwards on l. arm. Itching prickings here and there in evening in bed. Itching stinging on r. scapula. Scratching of various parts, especially of neck and chest. Itching; of feet; shooting, on scapula, > scratching; tearing, here and there, < night in bed, after rubbing only tearing pain remains; scraping, on forehead; biting, on feet and their dorsa; crawling, now here, now there; creeping, on legs and back; (tittilating, on l. scapula).

Clinical.—Early stage of erysipelas. Early stage of boils.

Sleep.—Yawning; frequent, in afternoon, with stretching and filling of eyes with water; frequent, in evening, then chills along skin; like that of an intoxicated person. Sleepiness; on waking; in morning after rising; from 5 to 9 P.M., with desire to stretch; towards evening, with yawning, but in morning feeling as if he had not slept enough; with dulness of intellect; with inability to sleep because of itching, scratching causes erythema; full of inquietude. Sleep in afternoon. Somolency, with subsultus tendinum, pale cold face and hard, small, rapid pulse. Deep sleep. Heavy disturbed sleep, with stertor. Profound, late S., with headache and languor on waking and no appetite for breakfast. Inability to rouse himself in morning, and on waking ill humor. Stupefied sleep; with opening of eyes, looking about him wildly, then stertorous slumber. Sopororous condition, with convulsions of face and limbs. Sopor, coma or lethargy after the delirium, and sometimes the delirium returns as the sopor goes off.

Ineffectual efforts to obtain sleep. Sleeplessness; after midnight, with sweat; except from 1 to 6.30, then unrefreshed on rising; from anguish, also with drawing pains in all limbs; from a fancy that he has some pressing business; with relief of pains at night. Restless sleep; before midnight, the child tosses about, kicks and quarrels in sleep (Hyosc.); with irrational talking and difficulty in keeping them in bed; with active dreams. Starting in otherwise quiet sleep, feeling as if falling deep down, which caused shuddering. Starting and waking when falling asleep; in evening, the feet are jerked upward and the head forward. Suffocative snoring only on inspiration. Croaking and moaning. Singing and loud talking.

Awoke from noon sleep with restlessness, screamed and stamped. Waking three times about midnight, with ineffectual retching and cold sweat as from anguish. Frequent waking with restlessness; F. waking as if he had slept enough. Waked constantly by fearful dreams and twitchings. Waking in night full of fear, it appeared as if there were something under her bed which made a noise, dry heat on waking. Sleep intolerable on account of increased pains and frightful dreams.

Dreams immediately on falling asleep. Frightful D. Wakened by D. of danger from fire. Anxious D. about murderers and street-robbers, he heard himself shouting, but did not come to his senses. Fatiguing D. Vivid but unremembered. Unremembered. About household affairs. That she was occupied with many people, and she wished to get away, but did not go so far as that. Pleasant; provoking laughter, after the delirium.

Clinical.—In children a kind of restless sleep, with sudden starting, twitching of arms, with half-closed eyes, hot head, fright, dilated pupils, etc.

Fever.—Chill over body in evening on undressing, then heat in whole l. side of body; C. after bathing; after eating; after dinner, with chattering of teeth, and when lying trembling of limbs as in cold stage of intermittent fever; on undressing, especially in arms, with goosesflesh and with redness and heat of ears and nose; with shuddering and gooseskin. (Chill, then felt quite well, then sweat on face, hands (?) and feet (?) before the heat, no sleep during the heat, scarcely any thirst during the chill, none during the heat and sweat, headache during the sweat on face, none during the chill or heat.)

Chilliness internal and external in sleep and on waking. External C. with internal heat. Shivering; during stool: as soon as cold air blows on her, in other respects better in open air; then in afternoon flushes of heat; convulsive, towards evening, then heat and general sweat. Thrills of chill running over whole body, then internal and external heat, especially in face. Chill alternating with heat; without thirst, and mostly with confusion of head; suddenly, with sleepiness in the daytime.

Shivering over abdomen; intermittent, down back. Chill in back, or pit of stomach, or in arms, spreading thence all over body; in sacrum in evening in bed, spreading over back and lower limbs, then heat. Shivering over one arm. Coldness of hands; in morning, with dulness of head and weeping; of lower limbs, with rigidity; in r. hip-joint; C. of legs; of feet; of feet in evening, with heat within ear; of feet, with bloated red face and flow of blood to head. Everything he touched seemed very cold, < the longer he held it.

Heat; in morning; at night, < towards morning, yet he does not dare to uncover, for the uncovered part is painful as from a chill; on slight motion; after attack of cough, with distention of superficial veins, insatiable thirst, anxiety and trembling; with furious delirium; with bluish redness of skin; with phantasies, the boy talked of animals which he seemed to see, and hearing seemed dull; with palpitation; with general sweat when hands are in bed, but general chill when they are put out of bed; from below upward, breaking out of sweat as of anguish, then nausea, with anxiety, the nausea descending lower and lower.

Heat internal or external. Internal H. after beer. Internal and external, especially in face, which was red and covered with sweat, with confusion of head. Hot and scarlet skin, especially on face and interior half of trunk. Dry, hot and scarlet skin, especially on face and ears. Hot and dry skin, with small, wiry, hard and rapid pulse. Dry heat in attacks. Heat and redness of head; H. of head, with coldness of rest of body; internal and external H. of head. Hot and puffy face; H. sensation in face, with cold feet. Internal heat in face, without redness; afterwards redness and swelling. Creeping H. under skin of face. Heat in evening on hands and feet. Dry H. in extremities of hands and feet, with thirstlessness and pallor of face. Heat of feet. Warm feeling along back of r. forearm as of approaching numbness, with paralytic feeling along anterior tibial nerve.

Sweat; in sleep during the day; about 2 or 3 A.M., after waking, on covering arms, > uncovering them; in evening in bed on covered parts; at night; after midnight in sleep; as soon as he covers himself in bed, especially on upper parts; on least exertion, mostly on face, down nose; when walking in wind, with colic, as if he had got cold; suddenly occurring and as quickly disappearing; on upper parts; on face only; on forehead and at pit of stomach, on waking from frightful dreams; intermittent, in morning rising from feet into face, which especially sweats, then coldness; S. on feet when sitting, without warmth. Cold sweat on forehead; on limbs; on hands; on feet. Dryness of skin; and insensibility.

Clinical.—Scarlet fever, throat red, hot and dry, nausea and vomiting, with hot head or delirium, etc. Typhoid fever rarely. Occasionally indicated in typhus. Worm fever. Fever of dentition, etc. Very rarely, as an intercurrent, in any form of malarial fever.

Benzoic Acid.

Dissolve the pure crystals in Alcohol (1 to 9) for use.

General Action.—Produces symptoms of a uric-acid diathesis; pains in joints and tendons; great change in the quality of the urine.

Affinities.—Carbol. ac., Berb., Arn., Led., Viola t., Rhod., Sulph.

Generalities.—Emaciation. Trembling, with palpitation. Tearing and stitching, especially in metatarsal joints of r. great toe (Sulph., Berb.). Pains change their place incessantly and suddenly, but are most constant in region of heart. Pain passes from the r. hand and appears in l. arm, extends downward into elbow, then appears in region of heart, later in r. thigh and ankle. Weariness; after menses.

Mind.—Hilarity, preventing sleep. Sadness. Anxiety while sweating. Activity of mind while at work, afterwards anxiety. Omits words every moment while writing.

Head.—Aching after mental emotions. Confusion; with sleepiness. Sensation as if there were air in it. Excitement in morning when sneezing, with lightness. Sensation of shaking in it. Vertigo, making him fearful of falling sideways, < afternoon. Tired feeling as from night-watching. Symptoms easily produced on uncovering or on exposure to a draught, and in morning on waking, and < during rest. Symptoms return periodically and are often accompanied by pains in stomach, nausea, gagging and coldness of hands. Symptoms are generally accompanied by depression, lassitude and loss of appetite.

Hard throbbing in temporal arteries. Pain in l. temple; hammering P. in temples, obliging him to lie down. Tearing in vertex. Pressure in vertex and spinal column forenoons while sitting, as if pressed by an elastic body, causing stretching, bending forward and anxiety. Pain in sides internally, with bruised sensation. Rheumatic pain on outside. Itching of hairy scalp.

Eyes.—Burning. Distress as from want of sleep. Symptoms easily appeared in open air when walking, and when reading by candle-light. Throbbing in balls. Burning in lids. Itching in canthi; r. outer, then in r. inner.

Ears.—Swelling behind, which seemed to reach periosteum. Intermittent shooting in r. Itching in l. Starting. Puffing from pulsation of temporal arteries. Noises when swallowing. Sound as of confused voices, < swallowing or walking in open air.

Nose.—Redness at angles. Pain in bones. Pressure at root. Sensitiveness. Itching of septum. Irritation in l. nostril as before sneezing, with inability to sneeze. Sneezing, with hoarseness. Coryza from exposure to cold, renewed every day. Epistaxis. Smell dull. Smell as of dust, cabbage or something stinking. Symptoms appear especially in evening.

Face.—Circumscribed redness. Pressive sensation. Tension in one side. Numb feeling. Symptoms > heat, pressure or rubbing. Trembling of lips. Lower lip bitten involuntarily two successive days at dinner.

Mouth.—Stitches in a r. lower hollow molar. Cutting pain in teeth. Darting pain in carious molars. Slow jerking in a r. upper molar. Tongue bluish. Velvetty coat on tongue; white mucous coat on T. in morning. Soreness at back part of tongue, < swallowing; at root of T. and on palate, with rawness.

Acid mucus in M. Taste of blood; bitter taste on drinking coffee or milk; B., with pressure at stomach and eructations; flat, soapy, after drinking water; salt, to food; smoky, to bread; after-taste of food. Symptoms of M. and throat > after eating.

Throat.—Thyroid gland feels swollen. Sensation of swelling or contraction. Sensation of lumps in pit, as if food stuck there. Scratching. Heat, with sensation of stretching. Mucus. Swallowing difficult; S. incomplete. Heat in œsophagus, as from acid eructations.

Stomach.—Appetite increased in evening; lost morning. Thirst in evening, with sleepiness. Singultus. Nausea mornings; N., with malaise; with gagging and disturbances about head. Vomiting of a salt substance; bitter V. Gastric disturbances when ascending a height (in pregnant women). Pressure, with eructations. Burning. Fatigued by pressure of clothes on epigastrium. Symptoms < walking.

Abdomen.—Discharge of flatus in afternoon and evening. Tearing. Heat; spreading over body, with rapid pulse, increased sweat and excretion of phlegm, indigestion and confusion of head. Pain below l. short ribs. Superficial stitching midway in upper part of liver. Cutting about umbilicus, > stool. Tensive pain in groins.

Rectum, Anus and Stool.—Stitches in rectum; contraction of extremity of R. Urging to stool, with ineffectual straining. Stitches in anus in evening; fornication in A. Bowels opened freely, with extraordinary pressure to stool. Stool frothy; S. putrid, bloody; insufficient.

Clinical.—Diarrhœa, offensive, light-colored, of a pungent, urinous odor; stools like soap-suds, very copious, odor is similar to that of the urine, which is dark and of very strong odor.

Urine.—Of repulsive odor (Rhod., Viola t., Sul., Sep.), changeable color, brownish (Carbol. ac., Nit. ac., Arn.), cloudy, alkaline (Carb. ac.), effervescing with hydrochloric acid, immediately after micturition white flocculent sediment of phosphate and carbonate of lime, without uric acid, with pallor, weakness in loins and languor. Fetid, with protopsus uteri. Aromatic. Bloody. Thick. Copious, turbid, with traces of urea, mere traces of hippuric acid. At first increased in quantity, not in frequency, afterwards frequent micturition, with strong pressing, urine aromatic od. (Carb. ac.), long retained, saline, the urinary symptoms < in forenoon. Decreased. Acid; and irritant; with copious hippuric acid, with a base. Abundant hippuric acid after adding hydrochloric acid, but no uric acid. Disappearance of urea, but not uric acid.

Clinical.—Valuable especially for catarrh of the bladder, with offensive brown urine. Cystitis, with extremely offensive odor. Nocturnal enuresis, dark offensive urine. Kidney colic. Offensive, acid urine in rheumatism.

Sexual Organs.—Pain; raw. Smarting of frœnum preputii. Thrilling, almost painful sensation, on l. side of glans penis, extending into urethra, ending in tickling and itching. Itching of glans; in sulcus behind corona glandis. Menses too early; M. retarded. Lochia too long-lasting.

Respiratory Organs.—Irritation. Hoarseness in morning, with sneezing and pleasant excitement and freedom of head. Copious mucus in bronchi. Respiration whistling. Difficult breathing on waking. Cough; after a slight cold; excited by inspiration; from sensation of something rough or dry in chest; then expectoration of greenish mucus; hacking, after rising.

Clinical.—Asthma, especially in rheumatic persons. Inflammation of bronchi and lungs, with great tenderness of the chest, cough < night, lying on r. side.

Chest.—Stitches in middle; in evening; in evening in bed, < deep breathing; in r. side. Cutting. Pain in l.; about sixth rib, < deep inspiration and by bending to either side; on sides; about r. third rib, midway between sternum and side; deep penetrating, posteriorly in l. side, about sixth rib. Painful starting. Agitation. Rough sensation. Swollen sensation; in mammary gland. Burning in nipples. Can scarcely bear pressure of clothing.

Heart and Pulse.—Pain in region of H. Constriction of H. Weak feeling in region. Palpitation, waking after midnight and every night at 2 A.M., with heat and hard pulse, sleep prevented by throbbing of temporal arteries; P. while sitting and after drinking; with trembling. Intermittent beats. Undulating beating. Pulse accelerated; slow; full.

Clinical.—Has been prescribed in valvular diseases of the heart.

Neck and Back.—Pressure in nape. Stiffness on one side of neck. Pressure on spinal column. Pain in r. side between tenth dorsal vertebra and side; in region of kidneys; starting in loins. Trunk symptoms < on motion after long sitting, at night on going to bed and on blowing nose.

Extremities.—Knicking in joints and cracking on motion. Tearing in various parts, with stitches; T. in r. toes, especially in their middle joints, then in r. knee, last joint of metacarpal bone and of l. thumb, in lower part of r. radius, etc.

Clinical.—Gout and rheumatism, with swelling of joints, with the peculiar urinary symptoms. Valuable in rheumatic gout of the fingers, nodes very painful, with the urinary symptoms (Aruica). Gouty deposits in wrists. Swellings of the wrist (ganglion). Gout of great toe.

Upper Extremities.—Sensation of swelling under axilla. Stitches on outer surface of r. arm in evening, then on inner surface of l. Tearing in bones of arm; at outer surface of wrists, as if in bones. Fingers swollen; with tearing and stitching in various parts of limbs, especially in front at metatarsal joint of r. great toe. Tearing in metacarpal joint of l. thumb; deep in upper joints of l. index. Pain in joints of r. fingers; paralytic pain in fingers.

Lower Extremities.—Sensation as if bandaged. Lassitude; in r. hip. Tearing in posterior surface of thigh. Pain in gastrocnemii; in r. hip; in l. hip, then in thigh, next in knees, then in toes; in l. hip, in knee and worse in toes, leaving the toes it seats itself in muscles of calf and then in knee, leaving these parts it appears in r. thigh and ankle. Cracking of knee. Pain in both knees; in r.; in l.; drawing P. in knees after drinking wine. Dry sensation in knee. Pain in r. tendo-achillis, and at the same time in region of heart, then in l. tendo-achillis; in l. tendo-achillis, close to os calcis, while supporting a slight part of weight of body. Sharp pain in l. ankle during the time it supports the body while walking.

Toes.—Stitch perpendicularly upward through r. great, in morning while lying, then burning, which increases gradually to a stitch, then in l. great toe, from which it vanishes with a thrill. Deep sticking tearing in lowest joint of great (Led., Sulph.). Pain; raw P. between. Numbness.

Skin.—Red spots on fingers; on nose. Formication in forehead. Itching on various parts, then an agreeable feeling of being scratched, leaving burning; I. on chin; I. in nape; I. in r. palm in evening, with deep tearing in metacarpal joints of little and ring fingers.

Sleep.—Sleepiness, with dulness of head. Deep sleep. Starting up from S. Disturbed by dreams.

Fever.—Horripilation before stool. Coldness, with feeling of heat; C., then heat and sweat. Cold sensation in head. Coldness of back; at sacrum; of hands; feet; knees; of knees, as from a cold wind; of hands, with head symptoms. Heat during the coryza; H., with sweat. Internal H. on waking; internal H. wakes every night at 2 A.M. with a hard-bounding, but not quickened pulse, so that he must lie on his back because the pulsations of temporal arteries sound like puffing in ears and prevent sleep. Heat of face; on one half of F.; around mouth. Sweat; morning in bed, especially on face, with moderate heat; at night; while eating; while walking; on disappearance of other symptoms; with anxiety; with itching; of feet; with aromatic odor. Cold sweat on head; on face; on feet. Exhalation from skin diminished.

Berberis.

Berberis vulgaris. The common Barberry. A tincture is prepared from the bark of the fresh root.

General Action.—The most numerous and decided effects are the shooting pains in almost every part of the body. The pains in the region of the kidneys are most marked and have been frequently verified clinically. It also exerts a marked action on the liver, promoting the flow of bile.

Affinities.—It is interesting to note the close resemblance of the neuralgic symptoms to the botanical relatives in the Ranunculaceae, Cimicif., Clem., Puls., and even Aconite; the hepatic symptoms similar to its allies Pod., Chel., as well as Iris and Aloes. Also see Diosc., Agaric., Silicea and Zinc.

Generalities.—Bruised feeling (Cimicif., Arn., Sil.), after long stooping, with feeling as if unable to do anything; B. feeling, as after great fatigue, especially in lower limbs. Weakness; of body and mind in morning on waking; in evening and after supper; in evening, with early falling asleep; from continued occupation, with sweat; < walking or long standing; even to trembling, so that she feared her knees would break down, with vertigo on rising from stooping; faintlike, when walking, standing or rising from a seat, with vertigo. Attacks of faintness after a walk, with sudden orgasms of blood, and shortly before going to bed sweat and heat in upper part of body, cold, pale, sunken face and oppression of chest, on lying down in bed shivering, difficult falling asleep and restless sleep, with heavy dreams. Condition near faintness after a drive followed by a short walk.

Mind.—Anxiety from 4 P.M. till going to bed, with fright, and in the twilight some children and dogs appeared twice as large as natural; A. if she moves, stands long, rises from a seat, even in morning when rising in bed and on getting out of it. Ill-will, intrepidity. Peevishness, becoming a loathing of life. Melancholy and disinclination to speak, with quiet, not conscious longing. Satisfaction with nothing. Apathy; with dizziness and disinclination to work. Easy disturbance from external causes during mental work, with fretfulness and necessity to cease work. Thought difficult; < morning. Memory weak.

Head.—Sticking. Tearing now here, now there in whole H., in forehead and temples. Aching; < morning, with heaviness and confusion; as if skull would burst, and on stooping sensation as if something shook in H. and as if everything would come out at forehead; as if pressed asunder or pressed down by a heavy weight, especially in forehead; heavy, with prostration. Heaviness; and on stooping sensation as if head were drawn down by a heavy weight. Fulness, especially in forehead. Tension. Puffy sensation. Feeling as if becoming larger (Cimicif.).

Emptiness and gloominess. Confusion; from morning after waking till after noon, with heaviness of head, pressure in forehead, prostration, fretfulness, chilliness, sometimes with heat between the chills, then heat, especially in head, with symptoms of impending coryza, especially moisture of nose and sneezing, which go no farther, repetition of these attacks, with which aggravations always begin; as from a cap and as if it would be drawn downward from behind. Intoxicated feeling. Vertigo; on stooping; on walking, with faintish weakness; so that she must turn from l. to r. and forward (during hard work, with frequent stooping and exertion of arms), with attacks of faintness, frontal headache, then chilliness in back and occiput. Symptoms generally > open air.

Forehead.—Stitches in sinciput; S. and jerking in F., and in vertex when stooping; in r. extending outward to side; in spots above margin of l. orbit, extending outward and upward, or twitching or rolling pain; paroxysmal, especially suddenly through supra-orbital region; paroxysmal in F. and temples, generally ceasing suddenly; tense, over r. orbit. Tearing; in l. eminence, with pain on touch; sticking, and in temples. Pain in r. upper part; now over eyes, now in frontal eminences, now in temples, now in other places in forehead; extending towards vertex; extending tense, caused and < by stooping, > open air; tense, in F., temples and eyes; in F. and eyes on stooping, as if brain were heavy and fell forward; outward-pressing, and in temples. Stupid sensation.

Temples.—Stitches; inward in r.; jerking, in r., extending into r. eye, then shooting into vertex. Tearing; in r. and in r. cheek; intermittent twitching. Pain in r., extending to eye, as if in bone, with stitches into sinciput; P. in r. as if it were thick or would be pressed out, < touch; tense in l.

Stitches in l. parietal region. Tearing in l. occipital region. Tensive pain in occiput as if scalp were too small and brain too large.

Scalp.—Pimples on head and face, most frequently on occiput, temples and forehead, especially near hair, with burning stitches as from fleas in same spots. Scalp and skin of face feel puffy and tense; with difficult motion of scalp. Tensive numb sensation in S. and in skin of face. Smarting or corrosive sensation, now here, now there, in S. and in skin of face, < rubbing, then sometimes red spots. Corrosive itching or sticking on spots, in scalp and skin of face. Itching below hair, chiefly in occipital region, either simple or biting, or burning, < evening, the itching > by scratching, but appearing in other places, with stitches, often with warm sensation in skin.

Eyes.—Sunken, surrounded by blue or dirty gray rings. Red. Inflamed, < afternoon. Stitches; outward into forehead; usually sudden, mostly coming from other parts, as from forehead or from temples into eyes, or rising in eyes and spreading into forehead; digging, in r., then l., beginning deep in and extending obliquely across middle of orbital margin upward and outward into forehead. Tearing. Pain; on beginning to read by candle-light; after crying; < motion of eye; as if he had wept long. Sensation as if forced out. Throbbing in l. Bubbling in l.; in evening; in r. Coldness, as on going into cold air, with lachrymation on closing them. Burning; in morning after rising, with dryness, dim look, redness of conjunctiva of lids and misty vision; from 12 o'clock; at 3 P.M., < till she went to sleep, < l., with sensation of sand in them; with dryness and redness and with matter in canthi. Dryness; with biting or burning, sometimes with itching, often with feeling as of sand between lid and eye, at times with redness of conjunctiva of lid and even of ball. Stiff feeling, with dragging. Troubles < afternoon and evening; < in open air. Intermittent tearing in l. ball, extending obliquely downward and outward.

Lids.—Inflammation, < l., with swelling. Redness of margin and of sclerotic; of inner surface, and margin covered with white frothy fluid. White crusts on the dry margins in morning after rising. Agglutination of l. in morning. Twitching when reading by candle-light, seldom by daylight. Sticking on border of l. upper, towards outer part, then burning. Tearing in upper; in l. lower; pinching. Tearing drawings and twinges. Sensation as of a foreign body in l. internal canthus, with inflammation of lachrymal caruncle and dryness of conjunctiva in internal canthus. Biting beneath r. lower; crawling B. on margin of r. lower, becoming a twitching bubbling in lid. Itching, at times burning, biting or sticking, seldom smarting; I. in canthi, at times biting or sticking. Burning in spots or biting. Dry sensation if closed. Feeling as of drops of cold water between margins of lids or between lids and balls. Heaviness on motion. Sticky sensation in margin in morning after rising.

Orbits.—Twitching in region of r. upper. Stitches from l. margin to r. frontal eminence; biting S. and itching pain in margins, in skin, especially in inner canthus. Tearing in outer side of l., with tendency to lachrymation; T. in upper margin of l., extending towards forehead; in inner angle of r., extending towards nose and forehead; in bone on margin, especially lower, often extending into orbital cavity, at times it only begins to pain on touch.

Vision.—Dim, < for far objects; D., with sleepiness. Everything seems to run together when sewing. Sensitiveness to bright sunlight. Daylight blinded her more than lamp-light. If she looks at anything fine she must hold her hand before her eyes to shield them from the daylight and still more from lamp-light, which blinds her. Blackness on exertion in sewing.

Ears.—Stitches in l.; in r.; in r. at 5 P.M.; tearing, in middle, alternating with the same symptom in other parts of head; tensive, inward in r.; tensive, in r. in evening, as if something were digging in it; bubbling inward in l., then continued S., then pressure, then stopped sensation; drawing upward, deep in r.; in slow jerks deep in r., then tearing in anti-tragus; jerklike in r., as if it came out through the drum, when at work while sitting, as if a nail were forced through, or as from a stinging animal, with digging S. between the pains, with sensation as if ear were full and dragged downward. Tearing in external; in one or other middle; in bone behind l. Drawing pain often during the day, ending in stitches. Painless throbbing and whizzing in l., seldom in r., in rapid shocks, as if the air or the wing of a bird struck against the drum, with dryness and coldness in ear. Ringing in r., beginning deep, then becoming higher.

Clinical.—Gouty concretions in the auricle, becoming very painful, with tearing stinging pains.

Nose.—Biting gnawing in tip. Crawling in nostrils, biting or itching; C. in l. nostril as before sneezing. Dryness of mucous membrane; with sensation as before catarrh, with sneezing. Moisture of N. and eyes as before coryza. Fluent catarrh; of l. nostril, involving frontal and maxillary sinuses, a yellow, burnt-smelling water, afterwards purulent, sometimes whitish, at times yellowish or greenish mucus, of burnt smell and taste, was blown from nose and hawked up, < in morning. Bleeding from l. nostril in morning on rising; from l. at 6 A.M., preceded by pain in l. temple extending to eye.

Face.—Pale, dirty-grayish, sunken cheeks, deeply-seated eyes, surrounded by bluish or blackish-gray circles, and sickly expression. Tearing sticking in cheek-bones. Burning stitch in l. side of chin. Tearing in l. cheek, especially in malar fossa; chilly, in a spot on l. cheek; posteriorly in l. cheek-bone, in jerks upward. Aching jerk in r. cheek, as from a box on ear. Sticking cold sensation in a spot on l. cheek.

Lips.—Bluish-red color on inner side of lower. Red, bluish spots on inner side of lower, towards angle. Pimples; painful inflamed, with deep suppurating points in centre, on mucous membrane of L. and cheeks. Vesicles on r. inner side of lower. Epidermis becomes sticky and scales off, and a thin brownish flat scurf appears on its inner margin. Stitches in margins, sometimes itching, sometimes burning. Tearing in l. side of upper, with burning and tingling. Pinching in r. half of lower. Twitching bubbling in l. side of upper, as if some one were pricking it. Dryness. Painless throbbing in upper, just over r. corner of mouth. Burning spots in upper; B. in outer margin, as from pepper or as if swollen; in upper, in r. corner, as from pepper, with bubbling and drawing-downward feeling. Cold sensation in l. corner. Sticky feeling on margin in morning after rising and during the day. Fornication on r. side of upper. Itching, > rubbing, but returning, sometimes biting or burning.

Jaws.—Sticking, especially in lower, < night; jerking, in angle of l. lower, digging, biting, extending into lower and back teeth, as if the gum were loosened from the teeth, or as if they were raised; tearing, in r., shooting by jerks into temples. Tearing in r. upper, extending from angle in front of ear into temple. Aching in l. upper, alternating with tearing; A. as if squeezed, on margin of horizontal ramus of r. lower, about middle; bruised, on touch, in lower margin of l. lower, near and in front of angle.

Mouth.—Teeth. Stitches in two anterior r. lower molars, then sensation as if too long; S. in r. lower as if carious, in afternoon and night, with sensation as if teeth were too large and on edge, with sensitiveness to cold air, especially with tearing and sticking in lower jaw. Tearing in l. upper back; in the second l. upper molar, extending to other parts of face; in l. upper canine, extending to superior maxillary bone. Scraping-gnawing in all l. lower molars, as if in roots or necks. Slow digging in root of r. upper canine, as if denuded from gum. Aching in next to last l. upper molar as if too long. Drawing, bubbling pain pressing downward in first l. upper hollow incisor, with sensitiveness to touch, as if too long and on edge, or as if something heavy hung upon it, afterwards a boil in gum over it.

Gum.—Dirty red scum on several upper incisors, less on lower jaw and on molars. White nodes on upper. Gumboils (pustules) becoming ulcers, above second l. upper back tooth. Bleeding.

Tongue.—Red pimples on r. side of tip, with stinging, < touch, with stiffness and thickness of forepart of tongue. Painful white vesicle in r. side of tip. Stitches, < r. side. Sticking burning in spots on l. side, with pain of tongue on touch and motion.

Sticky feeling, pasty and as if burnt, in mouth and throat. Smarting-burning on mouth and chin, sometimes like fornication. Dryness and sticky sensation; D. still more in fauces, < morning after rising, > eating and drinking, with sticky sensation, rawness of mucous membrane, white tongue, diminished saliva or a sticky frothy saliva like cotton, seldom with thirst and heat, taste lost or impaired, but sour after eating. Sticky saliva. Bad metallic smell.

Taste.—Lost. Bloody, < morning and afternoon. Bitter, at 8 A.M.; after eating; and sour. Scraping-burning in M. and throat, like heartburn. Inispid, nauseous, rising from stomach like heartburn.

Throat.—Inflammation of arches of palate, uvula, tonsils and œsophagus. Sticking in side, passing behind jaw and shooting out of ear, < l. side; digging S. just below r. angle of jaw, extending into ear and out again. Pain in l. tonsil caused and < by speaking and swallowing, with sensation as if the seed of fruit were sticking in throat, with redness and sensitiveness to pressure in l. arch of palate and sensitiveness of neighboring parts of throat to motion. Pressure in back part of palate and pharynx, with dryness. Smarting, < r. side, < scratching, which causes a red, hot spot. Scraping; in morning; in morning on waking, > moistening; in evening, extending into stomach and trachea; > drinking water; < mornings after rising, sometimes with pain in one side of it; obliging hawking and raising.

Stomach.—Appetite increased; in evening. Hunger without appetite. Appetite lost; with a bilious, bitter taste; lost, with almost no taste for food. Thirst, < afternoon, with dry mouth; T. waking her at night. Eruptions; without bad taste or smell; with griping in abdomen; alternating with yawning; bilious. Hiccough. Nausea; after dinner; N. > after breakfast. Heartburn. Peculiar sticking burning, more violent than heartburn, extending into pharynx. Stitches in region. Pressure in region. Sensation in epigastric region as if it would burst, in evening after eating till 9 P.M. Writings in region. Chilliness in region.

Abdomen.—Rumbling. Fermentation, especially in region of colon, with motions. Movements, as before stool. Emission of flatus; seldom offensive, preceded by painless gripings, at times with warmth in anus. Cutting sticking. Wandering tearing in muscles, or tearing sticking. Sticking cutting. Cutting as before diarrhoea, in afternoon till next day, when there was diarrhoea in morning and afternoon. Griping. Twinging in walls, with constriction. Writings. Pain; morning in bed; in region of l. descending colon; burning, in l. side, in a spot under skin and extending into it. Constriction. Drawings. Urging before stool, with moving.

Upper.—Stitches extending across in region of stomach. Sticking tearing from 10.30 to 11.30 P.M., on going to sleep, extending into stomach and l. hypochondrium, mostly corresponding to a place in front of kidneys, < breathing, motion and touch, with short respiration, distention and hardness of abdomen, the pains returning next morning on rising and afterwards.

Hypochondria.—Stitches in region of gall-bladder < pressure (Diosc.); in l. hepatic region, near border of false ribs, about three inches from linea alba, < pressure, extending into region of stomach, appearing when walking; tearing, in l., in front; tearing, in l., extending through l. lower and outer part of chest towards back, and shooting back and forth; burning, on border of r. false ribs, about two inches and a half from linea alba. Drawing tearing below tips of false ribs on inspiration, with feeling as if something were torn loose. Twinging, constrictive sensation in l. upper part of abdomen, especially in l. H., across towards umbilicus. Pressure in hepatic region, on margin of false ribs, about three inches from linea alba; in forepart of r., extending inward into border of false ribs; in l., extending backward or downward. Bubbling sensation below tip of false ribs, in r. forepart.

Umbilicus.—Stitches above to r.; deep at l. of; superficial tearing, in l. side. Pain to side of, corresponding to a place in front of kidneys and rather to side, mostly sticking, or burning or gnawing, usually only on one side, generally in a small spot, for the most part < only by deep pressure, often extending to lumbar region or to groins, liver, spleen or stomach. Cutting drawing in l. side, extending deep inward. Cutting jerking pain an inch above U., an inch and a half from linea alba, extending in slow drawings outward across l. lumbar region. Griping around U. (Diosc.). Twisting pain in region (Aloes). Twinging around and above U. (Chel.), in l. side of abdomen. Intermittent pain pressing outward, to l. of U., as from something living. Colic below U. (Diosc.).

Inguinal Region.—Varicose veins, near r. ring, extending to thigh, preceded by pressing. Stitches in one or other, and above Poupart's ligament; paroxysmal throbbing, in r., shooting suddenly into thigh; dragging, and above and in Poupart's ligament, especially in ring, < walking and standing, with pulseline stitches, sometimes with painless bubbling, they extend into testicles and upper anterior part of thigh and upward in region of kidneys, at times beginning in this last place, with stitches in front of region which corresponds to kidneys posteriorly. Tearing extending to mons veneris. Cutting constriction in l. ring, extending inward, as if it were going to deepen. Pain in ring; itching burning, in region of l. glands; in r. glands on touch, as if they would swell, with aching in region. Burning smarting in r.

fold, with tension on motion. Dragging in I. Tension in one or other ring, as if a hernia would appear, < standing and walking. Sensation above and to outer side of r. ring as if something would protrude, extending to thigh. Peculiar cold feeling in region of r. ring, becoming more like a burning.

Poupart's Ligament.—Stitches at its origin at l. ilium, extending down it, then shooting outward into l. side of female urethra; dragging, above I., extending outward and upward; above middle of r., extending inward and becoming a twinging; tensive, above middle of r. Twinging in and especially above them, extending outward and into inguinal rings. Drawing pain above one or other, extending towards thigh.

Ilium.—Sticking deep in one or other (Agar. m.), an inch or an inch and a half from the spine, extending obliquely inward towards small of back, sometimes with bubbling, deeply penetrating stitches; dragging S. from anterior inferior spinous process of I. and above it, towards inguinal region and thigh; drawing or cutting, above anterior border of I., down Poupart's ligament. Tearing-sticking above l. crest in morning on waking; in anterior region of one or other crest, extending up towards abdomen; in crest, to region of anterior spinous process and farther backward, sometimes inward and upward into walls of abdomen, mostly towards Poupart's ligament and region above it, at times into thigh; across from spine into crest, at times extending into pelvis or upward into muscles. Tearing posteriorly in crest, usually only on one side, extending into gluteal muscles or into bones; from posterior border downward and inward; sticking, about middle of outer posterior surface of I., deep in bone, extending inward, in morning on waking; dragging, anteriorly in crest, extending into one or other side of abdomen. Gnawing, tearing, ulcerative pain. Smarting in region of crest of r., extending into hip. Drawing pain in anterior region of pelvic bone, extending outward into muscles of thigh.

Clinical.—Very valuable for hepatic diseases; with indigestion, eructations, salivation, heartburn, vomiting of food, etc., after eating. Soreness in the region of the liver. Bilious colic; colic from gall-stones, with jaundice.

Rectum.—Long-continued sensation after stool, as if one had just been to stool or had just recovered from a pain in anus. Sensation of relief after stool. Urging to stool; constant; before stool, especially in colon, extending into small of back; after stool, also with perceptible movement in intestines; tensive, in small of back and in anus.

Anus.—Hæmorrhoids, with burning pain after stool (Sulph.), the stool frequently hard and of a dirty blood color externally; II., with itching and burning. Stitches; burning, during, before and after stool (Sil.). Tears extending around A. Smarting. Pressing. Throbbing pain. Burning pain as if parts around it were sore (Sil., Sulph.). Warmth in region. Fullness. Itching. Crawling as from ascarides. Crawling, burning, itching in and about it.

Perineum.—Digging sticking, with jerking stitches, extending deep into l. side of uterus. Pain in front of anus.

Stool.—Diarrhœa; painless, watery, clay-colored, offensive, < daytime; frequent, pasty, yellowish, with rumbling, emission of flatus, at times nausea, thirst, heat in face and confusion of head, with increased appetite in evening; frequent, with cutting. Soft. profuse, also at an unusual time; soft, profuse, then pressive tensive sensation in small of back and in rectum. Copious, thick, pasty. Constipation. Hard stool; then soft; like sheep-dung, with much, frequently ineffectual, urging. Scanty, hard; S., thin-formed, not hard; and hard or soft, thin-formed, delayed. Painful, in morning, with pressure. Omitted.

Clinical.—Diarrhœa, painless, clay-colored, with burning and smarting in anus, sallow complexion, tenderness over region of liver and pain extending around back and abdomen.

Urinary Organs.—Bladder. Stitches in region (Clem., Sulph.); drawing, in one or other side, extending into female urethra, often arising in lumbar region and extending along ureter; tearing, in region, < l. side, just above symphysis and extending into it, then passing into l. side of penis or returning higher up; pulse-like, above symphysis, becoming a slight sticking, returning next day when the bladder is not very full; compelling micturition. Cuttings in l. side of region, extending into urethra, coming from l. kidney along ureter. Cutting tensive pain deep in l. side, becoming a sticking obliquely in female urethra, as if in orifice. Cutting constriction. Pinching constriction in region. Pinching in one or other side of region, sometimes on pressure upon it burning in whole urethra. Burning pains (Canth.), sometimes when full, sometimes when empty, even after urinating and in morning before urinating. Burning-itching, biting-smarting in region. Aching in region when filled, when empty and after urinating. Sensation as if some urine remained after urinating. Urging to urinate; < morning on rising.

Urethra.—Stitches (Sulph.); in female; in female beginning in bladder, sometimes in the middle, sometimes on one side; extending into bladder; jerking, in female, with spasmodic constriction. Cutting; < one side. Smarting during coition, once pain during ejaculation of semen; S. in U. and glans, < towards forepart and on one side, or extending into bladder, the pains in urethra caused or < motion; extending to l. anterior part of penis. Smarting biting, often with soreness, < when not urinating, chiefly in forepart, sometimes extending into bladder or rectum, often more pain on one side. Constriction posteriorly; smarting C. Pressure when urinating. Burning pain in female, during and after urinating (Sulph.). but more at other times. Burning; especially anteriorly or sometimes more posteriorly, or along the whole length, more on one side, < when not urinating; smarting, in l. side, with intercurrent bubbling shocks. Bubbling posteriorly when sitting. Itching; crawling I. pain when not urinating, when bladder is not full. Crawling posteriorly in male.

Urine.—Sometimes increased, sometimes diminished, when increased it is clear, light-colored, with slight mucous sediment, when scanty it usually has a sediment, this is the case in the beginning and during aggravations, the other during the reaction, but at times intercurrent conditions arise. Blood-red, soon becomes turbid and deposits a thick mucous and bright red mealy sediment (Sep.), slowly becoming clear, with pain in bladder. Pale yellow, either with slight transparent gelatinous sediment, which does not deposit, or a turbid flocculent, claylike, copious mucous sediment mixed with white or whitish-gray, and later a reddish mealy sediment (Agar. m.). Clear, saturated, yellowish, thick, flocculent, or like mealy water, depositing a copious mucous and mealy sediment, with white-grayish, white, or dirty reddish or red granular sediment, with yellowish-red crystals upon bottom or sides of glass. Bright yellow, with profuse mucous sediment. Inflammatory red. Dirty wine-yellow, depositing a copious sediment or only gelatinous flakes. Greenish, turbid. Seems warmer than usual when urinating. The first passed in the morning cloudy. Sediment clear, mucous.

Clinical.—Renal calculi and renal colic, pain extending from kidneys along ureters to bladder, with burning in urethra, bladder, etc.

Genital Organs.—Most of the pains of external G. are caused and < by motion. Weakness in external male; W. after coition. Mons veneris, twinging-tearing; in one or other side; pinching constriction in region of mons veneris and bladder, sometimes only on one side, sometimes when full, sometimes after emptying bladder; pinching constriction extending along dorsum of penis; smarting itching pain; burning, itching or biting, also smarting.

Spermatic Cord.—Soft pulpy swelling of l., especially of lower part, when walking, with at times drawing, burning or smarting, or tearing pain, at times when sitting, with pain extending into testicles (Clem. r.), especially into epididymis (Scenecio). Stitches. Twinging in one or other, only at abdominal ring, or extending to testicles. Drawing pain, extending into testicles (Pul.) or into abdominal ring. Smarting burning pain, now in one, now in other (Clem. r.; Berb. l.), with stitches. Smarting pain in one or other, at one time in region of abdominal ring, at another behind it, at another more beneath it, often extending into testicles.

Penis.—Shrivelling and retraction. Stitches; in forepart. Smarting in l. side, more externally, chiefly in forepart of mucous membrane and in part behind this spot, when walking and afterwards and after coition. Smarting burning in l. side; in r. upper part; on corona glandis. Smarting-burning itching pain in prepuce. Dryness of mucous membrane. Coldness of prepuce and glans, with numbness. Frequent erections.

Scrotum.—Sore pain, < sides, most often on l. Smarting constriction in l. lower part when walking. Itching, simple, or burning, or with stitches, at times smarting or crawling. Coldness in r. side, with tearings.

Testicles.—Stitches; in one or other (Rhod.); cutting; cutting in one. Pain; in one; constrictive, and in spermatic cord, with contraction of scrotum, as if it would be drawn up against abdomen, coldness and shrivelling of scrotum and pain in testicles. Drawing pain, sometimes extending up spermatic cord. Burning pain, as if they would swell. Crawling pain, usually in only one. Smarting or smarting-burning pain; in one.

Desire diminished in both sexes, the ejaculation of semen during coition too soon, the desire weak and transient, in women orgasm is delayed, sometimes associated with cutting or sticking. Emission at night.

Vagina.—Stitches outward in side, < l., twinging, or burning, twisting or long-drawn, often sudden, leaving pain, at times ending in urethra, with sensitiveness to touch. Burning and soreness (Kreo., Puls.), especially anteriorly, even extending to labia, sometimes only on one side, but often in region of orifice of urethra. Smarting, usually on one side.

Menstruation too soon, discharge of grayish mucus, then bloody, scanty, the fifth day it omitted, the sixth day watery, bloody, then till eighth day grayish mucus, for some days previous tearing in limbs, with pain in small of back, at times only on one side, with bruised feeling, as if suppurating, almost like labor-pains, < lying upon it and at night, with sometimes pain in one hip-bone, dragging pain in thighs, extending into calves, especially in veins of legs, which are injected with blood, pain in lumbar region, and once in evening in bed sticking on l. side of navel, extending into l. side of vagina, fretful, tired of life, smarting in vagina, burning, pain and soreness in anus, tensive pain in upper arm and shoulder extending into nape. Short-lasting; and scanty, at first pale, expedited by foot-bath, like bloody water, at beginning chilliness and pain in small of back, tearing in whole body, especially on l. side, painful distention of abdomen, pain in kidneys, stitches in chest, sickly look, and during the first days bursting headache. Ceases the third day, returns on the fifth, but more like bloody water, followed by weakness and tearing sticking headache. Like bloody water on the second day, some drops of dark blood on the third day, discolored mucus on the fourth, then nothing more, during the first days dragging in genitals, pain in small of back, dragging splitting headache on r. side, with faintness.

Clinical.—Neuralgia of spermatic cords and testicles (Clem., Cimicif., Puls.). Uterine symptoms, with leucorrhœa, associated with painful symptoms in urinary organs. Dysmenorrhœa, with pains radiating in every direction, down thighs, into abdomen, etc. (Cimicif., Berb.). Vaginismus, with inflamed kidneys, etc.

Voice.—Hoarseness, with pain or inflammation of tonsils.

Clinical.—Polypus in larynx cured.

Chest.—Stitches in r. clavicle; in l. mamma; below l. mamma, towards heart; in l. side externally and in lower part; deep in anterior middle part, < deep breathing, with short dry cough; inward in r.; here and there, extending inward; outward in r.; pulse-like, in r. clavicle; lightning-like, in r. clavicle, shooting up r. side of neck; long-drawing in region of false ribs, leaving pain extending downward in region of l. false ribs; deep, near l. mamma, outward and downward through the gland. Burning stitches near l. nipple; in region of r. clavicle, as from wasps; deep below r. clavicle, crossing horizontally into first ribs. Intermittent jerking stitches in l. almost as from electric shocks. Sticking jerking pain, like electric shocks, extending into forepart of l. hypochondrium and then backward, with pain in whole lower part of l. chest and abdomen. Tearing stitches, extending around r. side in forepart; near r. scapula, extending into arm and seating itself in muscles of inner side of upper arm.

Tearing in l. side; in wall below l. scapula; on both sides of C. and spine; in r. side, chiefly in forepart, and sometimes in scapula, also between it and spine, with oppression of chest; in l. pectoral muscles, extending towards their insertion in arm; drawing, in sides, chiefly in l., more towards back, and in scapula; drawing, in walls, sometimes caused by stretching or exerting muscles; pulsating at last pressive and tensive, tearing below l. axilla, extending to ribs.

Sudden cutting constrictive pain in front of middle part, extending to abdomen, obliging her to bend double. Pain between l. mamma and wall of C., most severe behind nipple, extending outward into mamma, so that the middle of the sensation is in the nipple, with feeling as if mamma were swollen. Tensive drawing pain in l. side, more towards back. Tearing burning pain in lower border of l. pectoralis major, extending towards arm. Bubbling pain in region of l. pectoralis major in evening in bed, coming from deep in chest, with tension in this region and impeded respiration. Bubbling in r. side below middle. Oppression, < night, with fluent eryza. Scraping; with rawness and soreness. Rawness, as in catarrh, with increase of the habitual expectoration. Peculiar coldness in r.

Heart.—Twinging stitches, extending outward and downward in region. Palpitation. Pulse slow and weak.

Neck.—Sudden stitches shooting from l. side to muscles on inner side of upper arm; tearing stitches in l. side and posteriorly, in slow jerks, extending to occiput. Tearing in l. side; in l. upper part; in cords, < l.; on r. side, once with pain on pressure; in N. and nape, extending to l. occipital region and drawing down again; shooting cutting, on l. side in muscles, near axis, with painful stiffness of neck; rheumatic, in l. side; superficial tensive, on r. Drawing pain in nape on stooping, as if muscles were tense. Tensive pain in nape, with stiffness. Tensive stiffness in one or another place on nape or side.

Back.—Scapulæ. Stitches between, < respiration; from lower part of vertebra, extending through chest and arresting breath; tensive, in region of lower dorsal vertebra, extending towards loins; burning, between; digging pulsating, in region of tip of l., extending upward and outward below shoulder, chiefly along its inner margin; tearing, in r., across back, as if ulcerated. Tearing in tip of r.; between; between, in spine; between, extending towards loins; below spine of r., extending out to a spot, first noticed on touch at 10 P.M. and lasting next day; in l., extending to shoulder, l. upper and anterior pectoral region, along expansion of pectoral muscles and over forearm and hand. Digging sticking tearing in tip of l. Tensive tearing in r., externally, or rather superiorly, towards shoulder, extending into flesh of upper arm and into l. clavicle and pectoral muscles, in the latter it is irritating, as if muscular fibres were torn, with painful movement of arm. Rheumatic pain just below l., extending into loins. Sudden deep-seated pain at tip of r. when leaning against arm of chair, and along its outer border, extending towards axilla, involving whole shoulder-joint and extending down inner side of arm to elbow, the parts seemed bruised, swollen or suppurating, and the shoulder-joint sprained, on raising the arm the sensation extends into chest and arrests breathing, the pain often extends from r. side of neck, the pain > during rest, < pressure on motion, pain in humerus as if there were something living in it, next day chilliness in affected part, extending into region of kidneys, with goose-flesh. Pain on outer lower margin of r. and in ribs, externally pain when grasped, as if swollen or injected with blood, suppurating. Drawing, and in sides of chest, in region of pectoral muscles. Bubbling on border of r., near axilla, as if a bottle of water were shaken or as if air were forced into the flesh.

Loins.—Sticking, now in a small spot, now in a larger place, when it is chiefly pressing, either exactly in region of kidneys or extending above or below, but especially outward, so that it extends around abdomen in front, or to region of hips, sometimes in spine and extending to small of back and region of bladder and groins (Canth.), the sticking at times extends from region of kidneys straight forward into abdomen, at times with numb, paralyzed, bruised sensation. Stitches from kidneys into bladder (Coc. c.), < severe pressure; burning, in kidney region; inward in one or other, at times as from a nail and arresting breathing; in region of r. kidney shooting quickly into outer side of scapula; twinging, obliquely inward and downward in l., in morning on waking, with pressure; pulse-like extending inward in one or other; beginning in lumbar part of spine and extending outward across l. loin. Tearing or tearing sticking, at times only on one side; T. or tearing sticking, usually more on one side, often as if crushed or bruised, with stiffness, making it difficult to rise from a seat, so that the hands must assist rising, sometimes involving hip, nates and upper and posterior part of limbs, at times with numbness. Tearing in morning immediately after rising, extending sideways, forward, upward and downward, affecting whole back between thorax and pelvis, with stiffness in lower part of back if she stooped and difficulty on standing up on account of this stiffness, the tearing when sitting more severe than when standing, > afternoon; T. anteriorly in region of l. ischium; in r. ischium when sitting, extending to r. side of genitals; superficial, frequently upon only one side. Tearing, pulsating pain in kidney. Pressive or tensive pain (Rhus t.), sometimes on one, sometimes on both, or often across small of back, at times extending into posterior part of pelvis, of thighs, and even to calves, with stiffness and lameness or swelling of back and lower limbs, and warmth in affected parts, at times numbness in them. Tensive or pressing sensation deep internally, when severe with a feeling as if bone would be pressed asunder, often with heaviness, warmth, numbness or tingling, < morning on waking and when sitting and lying (Rhus l.), at times > stool or passage of flatus, sometimes only on one side, < stooping. Pressure before stool, and in anus. Pain, with the morbid urine; P. during menses, and in back; extending to nates and upper posterior part of thigh. Digging or tearing sticking; D. in one or other, or gnawing, as if ulcerating; sticking, in one or other, or digging tearing, as if suppurating, < deep pressure. Burning itching and burning-digging in one or other, seldom in both, sometimes in region of small of back, generally superficial, or at times deeper, but then sticking or gnawing, often moving about abdomen. Tearing dragging, with dragging in anus. Twinging, with desire for stool. Bruised and paralyzed feeling, as after long stooping, often in morning on waking, mostly worse when sitting and lying than when walking. Burning pain, mostly with tension and pressure. Burning tensive pain. Drawing pain in l.; usually one-sided, or pressing, or tearing, or alternating therewith. Drawing in one or other, from nates into thigh. Bubbling, usually only on one side, < lying and rising from a seat; in l., extending across into abdomen and into bladder; below l. ischium, extending inward and downward, as if a worm as large as the finger were forcing its way downward. Tensive stiff feeling, sometimes in morning on waking when lying on back, with numbness of it and with lameness of body. Symptoms worse when stooping and when becoming erect, in sitting and in lying than when standing, though not always.

Clinical.—In lumbago one of our most valuable remedies; pains extend from back around body and down leg, with red and mucous sediment in the urine, etc.

Upper Extremities.—Axilla. Bubbling digging in forepart of r., external to and below head of humerus, with a living movement. Painless bubbling in r., chiefly in forepart, as if something living would bore its way out.

Shoulder.—Tearing sticking; along border of r., then extending quickly down outer side of arm and ending in a stitch in tip of little finger; burning S. in region of r. acromion, extending into it. Tearing in joint, especially in forepart; in l., extending across scapula and down back, < motion; along border of l., extending up side of neck and nape to l. occipital region, where it becomes seated; superficial tensive. Rheumatic paralytic pain in r. (Puls., Rhod.), with stitches over l. eye. Pain in r. as if it would suppurate. Strained pain externally and posteriorly in l. Pain in l. as if swollen, especially deep in joint in front, as if in head of humerus, < moving arms backward, always noticed on pressure. Corrosive smarting on l.

Arm.—Aching, especially in thick muscles of shoulders, in inner muscles and on inner sides of upper arm, less in forearm. Drawing tension, at times with tearing, often with heaviness and weakness. Weakness, with paralyzed sensation, painful on exertion after violent exercise of arms, with pain in muscles, < motion and pressure.

Upper Arm.—Stitches in thick flesh in front of l.; on inner side just below r. axilla, with burning between the stitches and afterwards; on inner side just below l. axilla, as if a fine splinter were thrust into bone, ending in a long-drawn stitch; twitching, above r. elbow, extending upward; burning, in middle of r.; burning, in thick flesh of r. Tearing in muscles of inner side of r.; on anterior part of l.; in upper and inner part of l., with burning; under skin in outer side of l., extending to middle; in outer middle part of r., extending to bone; in outer part, extending to elbow; deep in l. humerus, extending from inner and anterior part to the elbow, and in radius to wrist and inner side of back of metacarpus, while at work, obliging her to hang the arm down and incline it to the left, with feeling of heaviness and swelling in arm. Forcing tearing inward in l. humerus, behind belly of biceps. Drawing sticking-tearing in flesh below r. shoulder. Drawing tearing at insertion of l. pectoral muscles. Jerking digging tearing in a spot deep in humerus, anteriorly, just below shoulder. Bubbling tearing extending outward, in muscles of inner side of l. Pain in middle and on outer anterior side of l., in vicinity of bone, with heaviness, so that the arm must hang down. Burning pain on inner side of l. below joint, superficial, with intermittent pressure, whereby the arm becomes worse. Drawing pain in outer side of l. Tensive pain in muscles of r.; in l., about middle of forepart and inward on bone, as if something would be pressed loose, so that it is sore as far as the bone. Bubbling anteriorly in r. below shoulder; externally between muscles and bone, below r. joint; externally in muscles in middle of r.; in thick flesh of r. on going to bed; as if muscles were alive.

Elbow.—Crawling sticking in l. Tearing sticking in forepart of r., especially in tendons of muscles, < motion. Tearing in r., extending outward; extending down muscles of flexor surface of radius; in r., extending slowly along outer border of ulna, as if something scraped the bone, and as it were distended, with lameness and heaviness of forearm; drawing, in r., extending to lower part of forearm. Pain in tendon of biceps at bend after lifting or moving arm, < extending it, reaching deep into joint and along radial side of forearm for a way and along outer and posterior surface of upper arm. Burning pain in outer anterior part of l.; as from nettles in r., between olecranon and inner condyle of humerus. Smarting pain; in r. Drawing tensive pain in outer part of l. Tension on flexor surface of l., a few inches on forearm, extending forward, < extending arm.

Forearm.—Lymphatic swelling in flexor tendons on lower and inner border of l. ulna, not very painful on touch, not at all on motion, covered with petechial spots, with burning pain in skin. Stitches in muscles below middle of l. ulna; above r. wrist, extending deep through joint into middle of hand, decreasing and returning; below each other on inner side of r., in muscles and tendons of ulna, extending lengthwise from about the middle anteriorly; lengthwise in muscles of l., slowly penetrating inward along radius; boring, in inner side of r., four inches above wrist, as if a nail were forced into the bone; burning, on dorsal side above wrist; burning, in r. radius, above wrist, extending inward to bone. Tearing, along inner side of r. radius; under skin in flexor surface; inward in l.; in r., chiefly in ulnar part, from elbow into wrist and back again, nearly all night, and the next morning, at the same time extending into posterior lower part of muscles of upper arm, with heaviness and weakness of arm; tensive, aggravated by paroxysms, from l. elbow to ulna, especially in its lower part, deep as if in bone, in evening and next morning, extending to dorsum of hand and metacarpal joints of fingers, with heaviness and weakness of arm, as if it were swollen. Pinching constrictive pain in lower external part of l. Pinching painlike cramp in flexor surface above r. wrist. Pain in extensor surface of r.; in a spot in flexor surface above r. wrist, as if it extended into bones. Drawing pain in l., outward external, in flexor surface, after exertion, and on continued grasping with r. hand pain in flexor muscles and heaviness of hand and forearm. Burning pain in outer side of l.; on outer side of l. radius, some inches below elbow; biting, in middle of outer side of l., then pressive numbness; biting, tearing, in ulnar side of r. Smarting on back, behind l. wrist, < rubbing; or smarting burning pain, in spots, especially on outer side, < rubbing, at times a red spot appears after it. Numb paralyzed pain in extensor surface above l. wrist, deep between long bones, extending into wrist and on motion to elbow, < letting arm hang down, and then the forearm feels as if asleep. Cold sensation like a tearing on anterior margin of r. radius.

Wrist.—Stitch posteriorly in middle of l., extending deep to middle of palm, after exerting hand; burning, in l. external bone, then burning; itching-burning or biting. Tearing; on inner side of l., extending to flexor surface of ring finger, penetrating deep into joint of hand and then a jerking sticking; alternating with T. in hands and fingers; corrosive, on dorsum of r., extending from metacarpal bone of index to its last joint. Gnawing in r. Pain after exertion of hand. Sprained pain in r., chiefly on outer side, extending into hand. Burning pain; on back of l., as from nettles, < rubbing, once extending between metacarpal bones of little and ring fingers.

Hand.—Stitches in outer border of r.; burning, in inner side of metacarpal bone of r. index; burning, in inner side of metacarpal bone of l. little finger; burning, extending inward on back of l., between metacarpal bones of index and middle finger, then burning; sudden, in l. palm, cutting into it from the outer side, shooting back and forth; tearing tensive, in r. palm, in region of metacarpal bone of little finger extending deep towards little finger. Tearing in outer ball of l. palm; along metacarpal bone of l. little finger; in metacarpal bone of l. ring finger, < pressure; along side of metacarpal bone of r. little finger, with heaviness and weakness in outer part of hand; along metacarpal bone of l. index, with pulslike stitches inward in bone; in r. middle metacarpal bone, with pulsations, returning in single tearings; on external margin of r., extending to little finger, affecting the whole hand; in metacarpal bone of r. thumb, backward towards wrist, changing to stitches; wandering, in dorsum, often extending into extensor surface of finger, often ending in stitches in finger-tips; in dorsum, in region of l. fourth and fifth metacarpal bones, changing to gnawing; tingling, in l. as if distended and heavy. Tearing pulsating pain deep in l. palm, in region of metacarpal bone of middle finger. Digging and tingling pain on dorsum of r., beginning in region of first joint of fingers at 9 p.m., > next morning, with heaviness in fingers, so that she must let them hang down. Pain in metacarpal bone of r. little finger; on motion and pressure, extending to neighboring extensor tendons, with swelling of joint of first phalanx. Gnawing smarting on dorsum of l., < rubbing. Smarting burning pain in region between fourth and fifth r. metacarpal bones, < slight touch. Burning pain in dorsum of r.; between metacarpal bones of r. second and third fingers; along metacarpal bone of r. middle finger, with stitches as from insects, the pain spreads on rubbing.

Fingers.—Stitches on dorsum of first phalanx of index; in flexor surface of first joint of l. index; in flexor surface of first part of index; in tips of index and ring F., at times involving other fingers; in ball of first joint of l. little; in ball of r. thumb; in inner surface of r. thumb, sometimes from pressure; inward in middle of flexor surface of first phalanx of l. index. Twitching-cutting stitch extending across from first joint of little F., into palm. Burning stitches on outer side of second joint of r. index; on inner side of second joint of l. index; on inner side of third joint of l. index; in second and third joints of l. little. Biting sticking in ulnar side of second phalanx of r. middle. Itching stitches in region of first joint of l. index, on inner side. Pulslike stitches in tip of r. index. Bubbling stitches in inner side of tip of r. thumb, under nail, as if shooting out from bone. Tearing in joints; in tips, especially of index; on dorsum, now here, now there, chiefly in joints; in second and third joints of r. index; in inner side of joint of l. index; on inner surface of first joint of r. index; in balls of thumbs; along inner surface of r. thumb; especially on dorsum, often with stiffness, especially in index and ring F., often changing to stitches outward in tips of F.; in outer side of l. thumb, as deep as the bone, < pressure, with pulslike stitches inward near joint; from second joint of r. middle, along tendons of wrist; inward under l. thumb-nail; on inside of r. index, as if the flesh were torn from the bone, so that she almost trembled; as if sprained, in first phalanx of r. middle, chiefly in the first joint, < motion and touch, with swelling about the joints, mostly on dorsum and in sides, and in phalanx itself, with cracking of joints on motion; drawing, in second joint of r. index and near it, on the back; tingling, in l. thumb, with feeling as if heavy and distended; burning, in volar surface of first joint of r. thumb; smarting, in outer surface of l. index, < rubbing, and changing to a burning pain. Smarting on dorsa. Pain in second joint of l. index, < bending, with stiffness; in second joint of r. middle, in morning on waking, < at first by pressure, with stiffness; in bone in region of first joint of l. thumb, extending into second joint. Suppurating pain in tip of l. index, < rubbing, most severe under nail, where it seems as if the flesh would be torn loose, with hot sensation and with pain in second joint. Burning pain on dorsum of r. index; in inner side of dorsal surface of r. index; in first joint of l. index, < rubbing, afterwards red pimples; gnawing, as from nettles, in first joint of l. middle, < rubbing; jerking, in outer surface of r. middle, from second joint into nail, as if in bone. Tingling pain in outer side of third phalanx of r. middle; in tip of l. index, as if it would suppurate. Bubbling in ball of r. thumb.

Clinical.—Neuralgia under finger-nails, with swelling of finger-joints.

Lower Extremities.—Bruised pain, so that he cannot rise from a seat without assistance of his hands, with paralyzed feeling in knees, suffering especially along posterior surface from loins and downward, and bruised feeling in calves, the pains < pressure, motion and stooping, at last the pain extends into feet. Drawing-tensive sensation, < rising after prolonged sitting, with superficial tearings and a heavy or stiff paralyzed feeling. Feeling as if becoming emaciated, which really seemed to be the case. Weakness, with bruised sensation, sometimes with stiffness and paralyzed feeling, as after a long march, or as if strained, as if muscles were too thick, usually in soft parts, with pain easily excited by motion. Weakness while walking, so that he scarcely felt them, as if numb. Heaviness, < ascending stairs, especially in thighs, with bruised feeling and lassitude.

Nates.—Sticking; in l. when standing, extending deep into muscles. Tearing; in r. or l. when walking, extending deep into ischium. Burning pain in l.

Thigh.—Tensive contractions of muscles, especially in posterior surface and in calves, < when walking. Stitches inward in middle of posterior or anterior region; inward in posterior and inner side of l., six inches above knee; long-drawn-out S. inward in inner posterior and middle part, in flesh, when walking; long-drawn, in inner posterior side of middle of l. when walking; pulsating inward, in muscles of posterior part of l. when walking and sitting; outward through l., in forepart above middle; externally in middle of l., extending upward; in forepart of l. five inches above knee, extending into flesh, afterwards S. near knee; on inner side of r. above knee, extending obliquely downward to opposite side, < stepping, when sitting at rest paroxysmal, less sensitive S. Biting stitch in lower and inner part of l. Bubbling stitches above l. knee; in middle of posterior part of l., whereby he thinks he feels a throbbing with the fingers, touch causes continued pain. Burning stitches anteriorly above l. knee; in outer upper side of r.; in outer anterior part of r., below the middle; pulseline, extending downward from r. trochanter, deep inwardly; pulseline, in posterior lower part of r., with pulsation perceptible to finger; tearing, in outer middle region of r., penetrating deep into bone. Tearing in hip-bones of one side near spine; below l. trochanter; on inner side; in thick flesh of l., about middle of forepart; under skin on outer side of l.; in forepart and down over knee; in l. from trochanter to knee when sitting, aggravated by paroxysms; in lower external and anterior part of r. or l. when walking, at last changing to tension; in lower outer side of r. extending across knee into lower part of leg and calf; intermittent, in outer side, sometimes spreading over thigh, < after motion; biting, in inner, upper and anterior part of l. when walking; on outer or inner side, or tearing drawing; in extensor muscles, often after motion, or tearing sticking; in posterior muscles, chiefly about middle, or tearing sticking, or drawing tearing. Pinching in muscles, especially in flexors and in calves; in muscles on violent motion. Pinching-grasping in upper anterior part of r. when standing and walking. Smarting in outer side of r., then in middle of forepart. Gnawing on outer upper part of l.; on posterior surface of l. above hollow of knee; on outer lower part of r., < walking and rubbing; biting, in outer side of l. above knee. Gnawing biting on outer anterior side of l., about middle. Burning pain in region of l. trochanter; in inner anterior side of upper part of r.; on inner side of lower part of l., < touch. Sore pain in bends; in outer anterior side of r. Tension in muscles in upper and anterior part when walking, often changing into pain; T. in thighs and nates from hips downward, with numbness and at times heat; drawing, in posterior muscles. Tensive pain as if muscles were too short, and in calves and knees; in one or other bend when walking, as if tendons were too short; drawing, in tendons when walking, extending over knee-cap; drawing, in muscles of outer side of r., outward and backward, as if cramp would come on. Drawing pain in region of r. trochanter; extending from region of trochanter into thigh; in muscles of r., above knee. Drawing on inner side or drawing tensive sensation or pain. Bubbling anteriorly above r. knee; below nates, slowly working and digging; in muscles of forepart of r., moving here and there, as from something living; anteriorly in r., evenings in bed, extending along thigh, as if a stream of water or blood forced its way through the flesh; painless, in lower part of r., as if a stream of air or a worm as large as a finger forced itself through the flesh. Workings like crawlings or drawings on outer side of l. at night on falling asleep, extending over knee, then cramp in calf, with tingling in it and in the outstretched foot.

Knee.—Swelling of veins near, and in outer posterior upper part of calves. Cramp in l. popliteal space when stepping or stamping, extending into middle of calf and into thigh while standing, when she does not step hard it is less, with tingling and heaviness, as if the parts were enlarged. Stitches through; in l. at night; above patella; above margin of patella on ascending stairs; below margin of l. patella when walking, then burning pain, extending into joint; now in one place, now in another, especially on inner side; backward through r., beneath patella, when walking; in inner side of r. extending outward into tendons; just above patella, deep inwardly, as from a nail, when descending stairs in morning, afterwards a pressure; inward, as from a nail, near lower margin of r. patella on motion, with heaviness in calves; drawing, in hollow of l., extending into upper part of leg, the same pain superficially in inner side of r.; bubbling long-drawn, in tendons of outer side of l. popliteal space when walking and standing. Pain as if inflamed or swollen on inner side of l., near patella, shooting backward into knee, from 4 till 11 A.M., when bending knee, > during rest in an extended position, and through joint beneath patella. Tearing; in r. patella from motion, and in ligament beneath it; in tendons when walking and standing, especially in posterior muscles; superficial, extending down outer side of l. calf; most frequently in inner side, often extending into neighboring parts, or tearing sticking. Pinching in r. popliteal space and in calf when sitting down in evening and when lying, after a moderate walk. Gnawing on outer side of l. knee-pan. Smarting in forepart near patella.

Aching in hollow of l., extending through joint to patella, < bending and extending knee, with feeling as if knee were stiff and swollen and as if tendons were too short. Drawing pain in patella, extending into anterior upper part of leg, < walking. Tensive pain in r. patella after walking, and in ligaments and tendons behind it. Tension, < motion and stretching, now in sides, now in forepart, especially in region of patella, now posteriorly, chiefly in tendons, as if too short, often with sensation of heaviness or paralysis. Drawing burning pain in hollow of r. Weakness during and after walking and on rising after long sitting, with bruised and paralyzed feeling.

Leg.—Sticking near lower part of r. tibia when walking; below r. knee when walking, shooting obliquely upward beneath patella; biting, in middle of outer part of r., < walking and standing; burning, inward externally near l. tibia, a few inches above ankle; intermittent burning, on outer side near middle of l. tibia; tearing, on side between l. tibia and fibula, in extensor muscles, especially in tendons, above joint, extending into external malleolus and outer side of back of foot. Tearing along whole outer side of r., into external malleolus and over outer side of dorsum of foot, then upward along outer side of thigh; intermittent tensive, in outer part of l., a few inches above external malleolus, between tibia and fibula. Corrosive pain on outer side of l.

Tibia.—Stitches in r.; in inner side of l. about middle; inward when walking and standing, seldom when sitting, especially in middle; corrosive, in middle of crest; burning, in lower part of l., in skin on outer side, close to the ridge of the bone, as if it pierced the bone; sudden burning, inward in outer side of l.; burning-itching, on outer side near middle of r.; tearing, outward near middle of l.; tearing, in intermittent twinging jerks, in the middle, as if periosteum would be torn loose. Tearing; in sides; superficial, on side; in places, most frequent in middle, often extending into knee and ankle; down its inner surface when walking, standing and sitting, at times tearing sticking, with pressive, heavy, or bruised or burning sensation, as if the bone would be pressed asunder; tingling, in r., a few inches from joint, extending upward, < pressure. Burning gnawing on inner anterior side below r. knee when walking, < rubbing. Burning smarting in middle of l., < rubbing and motion, changing to sore pain. Tensive aching or pain, with burning or numb sensation, as if bone would be distended, with bruised and heavy sensation in leg, at times bubbling, at times alternating with tearing or sticking or associated with them, and at times on rubbing burning in skin of tibia. Tearing tensive pain in middle, extending to knee.

Calf.—Stitches; now slight, now severe, chiefly in middle, often penetrating deeply; outward above middle of r.; cutting, in outer part of r., near tibia; in upper inner part of l., changing to bubbling, as if a bloodvessel were throbbing under skin; drawing, outward to middle of r.; burning, in middle of l.; burning corrosive, on outer and posterior part of middle of r.; tearing, especially in middle. Tearing in l., extending as far as bones; in places, especially in middle, sometimes extending into tendo-achillis or knee; tensive cramplike, in upper and lower part of r., < walking and standing. Cramplike pain in l. in evening when going to sleep; in upper part of l. evenings on ascending stairs; in r. when walking, with stitches; in l. when sitting, as if muscles were bruised. Biting on outer and anterior part of l. when walking. Smarting burning pain in upper part of r., externally below knee, extending backward and downward over calf, with bruised sensation. Drawing or drawing pain, now here, now there, at times with a feeling as if asleep, heaviness or stiffness. Tensive pain when walking, < rising from a seat. Bruised pain. Bubbling deep in muscles of l.; in outer part of middle of l. in morning in bed. Tingling as from being asleep.

Tendo-achillis.—Lymphatic swelling of l., dusky, pale red, then dusky red spots along tendons, at first violent pain on raising foot, less when stepping upon it, then returning periodically, with sensation as if a weight hung upon foot, > horizontal position, when stretching foot it extended into calf and hollow of knee, with bruised sensation, often with tensive pain, cramp in sole if the foot hangs down, at first flexion almost impossible on account of pain, with sometimes bubbling or tearing or itching. < rubbing, with burning in affected parts, desquamation of skin, chilliness in evening, swelling of affected part of foot after motion and swelling of heel, with burning in it and cramp in foot. Stitches; intermittent, in l. when sitting and hanging foot; paroxysmal, in l. when walking, more posteriorly; burning, in l. Tearing, sometimes extending into foot; sometimes extending into calf, when standing, walking and sitting; sticking, in one or other. Smarting on inner side while sitting, extending to calf. Pain as if strained. Drawing pain or drawing tearing, when standing and walking and afterwards, seldom when at rest. Tensive pain when standing and walking and afterwards, seldom when at rest.

Ankle.—Stitches in anterior region of r. when driving; in inner side of l. on bending joint outward; inward in r. when standing; sudden, in l. when running; burning, in outer anterior part of r., then itching. Tearing extending now upward, now downward; T. in forepart of l., across to inner malleolus and down to sole; in outer anterior part of l., extending into leg and dorsum of foot; tensive, in forepart of l. (Gnawing on forepart of r. Smarting. Smarting itching pain in forepart and sides of l.)

Malleolus.—Bubbling twitches from l. internal, across over joint, as from something living. Stitches in r. inner, < stepping; on r. external when walking, extending into joint; backward across r. internal; biting, on anterior and outer side of l.; burning, below and in front of l. internal; burning, on l. external, changing to burning-sticking; pulslike inward in l. external, in morning when waking, then single stitches; bubbling, in l. internal, preceded by simple sticking, at last changing to bruised numb pain, with hot sensation on inner side of leg. Tearing in l. external, extending upward into tendons; in l. internal, extending into heel; in l. external, in evening when going to sleep, extending into little toe, with digging, so that he could not move the foot; in l. internal, with sticking inward; in l. internal, changing to burning; almost sticking, from l. upward into neighboring tendons; drawing, in l. external, extending forward and downward; or tearing-tensive or sticking pain. Scraping at external, extending up inner side of r. tibia. Gnawing on r. external; in region above and behind l. external, with sticking. Aching in r. inner; below l. internal when walking, with swelling of ligaments and tendons of this region, extending to inner part of foot, as far as great toe; on touch, in tendons and neighboring parts of bone, in front and above, especially in l., < uncovering, > motion. Burning pain in l. external; above l. external.

Foot.—Stitches in balls; on outer side of dorsum of r. when sitting, leaving pain; inward in middle of outer border of r., repeated on stepping; in middle and outer part of l., as if foot would be nailed down; between l. fourth and fifth metatarsal bones when standing, as if a nail were forced through; pulslike, in r. balls. Tearing in inner border of l.; in middle of dorsum of r. when sitting, extending to middle toes; in balls, mostly of great toe, < stepping; jerklike, in outer border of r., involving the whole metatarsal bone of little toe, while sitting after a walk: at one time drawing, at another tensive, at another sticking-tearing on dorsum, drawing back and forth, at times more severe, often ending in a stitch in tips of toes. Pain in forepart on stretching it. Pain as from chilblains, especially in toes. Corrosive pain anteriorly on inner border of l.; on outer side of dorsum of l. Burning pain on outer side of dorsum of r.; as from nettles on outer border. Tensive pain on dorsum of r., across behind first joint of four outer toes in morning on rising, becoming a sticking on stepping. Sensation in hollow of l., as if tendons were too short, like a cramp, when walking and sitting. Bubbles on dorsum of l., extending towards little toe.

Heel.—Stitches, especially in lower part; from anterior outer part of margin of l. when stepping after a walk; inward across r. when standing; mostly in lower surface, extending deep into bones, < motion and stepping; slow cutting through l.; burning, in inner side of l.; pulslike, inward, especially in lower surface of heel, often changing to stitches: tearing, when walking, < stepping, extending deep into bones, > sitting; tingling-tearing in r., extending deep into bones, as from something alive. Tearing, < stepping. Suppurating sensation, < after long standing.

Sole.—Stitch on inner side of r.; inward at first joint of r. middle toe when standing; in l. behind second toe, changing to bubbling; pulsating inward deep in l., not far from heel; crawling, and on back of first joint of l. middle toes; burning inward in r., behind joint of first toe. Tearing on outer border of r.; in l., and in metatarsal joints of toes; now here, now there, often with crawling motions and heat. Pain in a corn in r. Bruised pain in middle of l., rather externally. Sticking burning pain. Burning sore pain in inner side of l.

Toes.—Stitches in tips, especially of great; in a corn on l. great; in under surface of r. great, when walking; penetrating deeply first joint of l. fourth; on back of metatarsal joint of l. fourth while standing, extending into the toe; in ball of l. great, extending into toe; downward through metatarsal joint of little; inward as from a nail, in ball of r. great; inward and backward in great, a stitch with every step, continuing while at rest; in tips, chiefly of great toes, sometimes inward, sometimes outward. Crawling sticking in r. great. Burning stitches in l. great, extending from ball; or smarting S. on dorsum of second joint of r. second. Twinging, drawing, sticking in r. fourth, extending along dorsum into foot. Jerklike sticking in single; in metatarsal joint of r. great; inward in r. great, < when driving. Pulselike stitches upward in region of first joint of l. third, when sitting; at times inward, at times outward, in great toes. Tearings especially in joints; in all r. when sitting; in ball of r. fourth; in metatarsal joints of single; sticking, in r. great, from second joint to tip, while sitting after a walk; sometimes drawing, sometimes sticking, some burning, in joints on surface and in tips; jerking, in first joint of r. fourth; burning, in ball of little. Tearing-wrenching in r. third and fourth, sometimes with stitches. Digging in r. great, as if it would become inflamed; tearing sticking, in tip of r. great; tingling, in r. great. Suppurating pain in l. second. Intermittent, ulcerative or bruised pain in r. second and third. Bruised sensation in tips of great, at times only on pressure. Sprained pain in metatarsal joints of r., extending into middle of foot, < taking hold of it, with swollen sensation. Tingling pain in r. great, as if it would swell. Burning pain in tip of l. great. Burning, corrosive, or sore pain, especially in two last and great toes, even after a short walk, < tight boots, with redness, as after slight freezing, sometimes the outer border of foot suffers, skin between toes painful to touch, alternating with itching tearing between toes.

Skin.—Swelling of a cutaneous gland below and behind r. ear. Redness of tip of finger and of dorsum of two first phalanges, with itching, as after freezing. Red spots on sides of forehead; dusky, punctiform, mottled, on forepart of l. shoulder, at times smarting; dusky, on forepart of r. shoulder and when grasped pain as after a bruise or like "vibices;" dusky, near external condyle of l. humerus, at times burning and itching as if congested, in the middle of a nettle-rash-like welt; dusky red petechial spots, at times itching or burning, on forearm, at times on dorsum of hand near wrist; smarting, on inner side of l. thigh, the pain < rubbing; painful, in r. cheek in afternoon, then cold sensation, the spot extending over whole face, with heat.

Semi-transparent warts in ball of r. hand; itching wart on outer surface of third phalanx of r. middle finger. Nettle-rash above l. elbow; on dorsum of l. hand, in forepart, between second and third metacarpal bones; on l. arm, just beneath shoulder, then desquamation. Pimples on outer ears; on nose; chin; throat; chest, most on scapulæ; nape, especially near hair; back; shoulders; dorsa of fingers; radial side of r. ring finger; nates; thigh; painful to touch in skin of l. external ear, near head; on tip of r. elbow, much inflamed by rubbing; on dorsum of first phalanx of r. index, as if a wart would form. Pustules, sticking, red, burning-itching or sticking, or gnawing, sensitive to pressure, usually with a red areola, changing to liver spots.

Stitch on posterior, external and upper part of l. upper arm; in inner surface of anterior phalanx of l. index; sudden biting, in flexor surface of l. forearm above wrist; biting-itching, in middle of flexor surface of r. forearm, on radius, becoming a biting-itching. Burning stitch to left of navel; then itching; in middle of r. thigh externally and posteriorly; burning-itching S. on l. heel; itching, now here, now there, on limbs and trunk, waking at night. Raw feeling around anus, with burning, pain on touch and sensitiveness when sitting, then a thin scurf on border of anns. Soreness after a long walk. Gnawing, burning, sore pain in r. popliteal space when walking. Pain in a spot in middle of outer and anterior side of r. thigh, then biting stitches. Burning pain in front above middle of r. upper arm; on and near metacarpal bone of l. middle finger; of r. thumb inward; sticking B. pain to right of umbilicus and above it.

Smarting here and there on chest; posteriorly on lower and outer side of r. thigh. Corrosive sensation in region of l. lower orbital margin. Gnawing in upper part of r. side of chest; in a spot above middle of forepart of l. thigh; in upper anterior part of r. thigh; G. in wrists, < rubbing; in calves, < walking. Biting spot on inner and upper side of l. thigh. Biting itching pain on inner anterior part of l. tibia; smarting itching pain on r. upper arm, in middle of outer part, < rubbing; burning, about middle of r. arm, anteriorly and externally. Crawling in first phalanges of four outer l. toes; on toes, with burning, sometimes with stitches.

Itching on chin; in region of one or other inguinal ring; in fossa above l. clavicle; on neck; externally above r. elbow; on flexor surface of l. forearm; on flexor surface, from r. elbow to middle of forearm; in heels; on external surface of lids and on temples and forehead; momentarily > by scratching, which causes redness in region of eye; on knee and thigh in afternoon, > scratching, but returning; on wrists, or biting-itching; in region of tendo-achillis, sometimes burning. Simple I. or biting or burning I. on face, forehead, temples, cheeks, ears, lips and chin; on neck, > scratching but returning; on legs, rapidly changing places. Simple I. or biting, or burning or sticking I. in lumbar region; in calves; in soles; in and around elbow, more on outer side; in various places in thighs, > rubbing, but easily returning; on chest, now in front, now in sides or axillæ, chiefly on scapulæ, > scratching, but returning; on outer ears, with stitches and warm sensation, at times with pimples; in skin of nose, with fine burning or itching stitches and with pimples. Simple I. or burning or biting or crawling or sticking I. in region of shoulder, chiefly on anterior or posterior border of axilla, and in axilla, on dorsum of hand or in palms, > rubbing, soon returning in same or another place. Stitching itching on and behind l. external knuckle; in fingers, or burning sticking l. Biting l. in middle of r. leg externally, near crest of ilium, caused and < by walking; externally in region of elbow, especially above it, > scratching, which causes redness of skin; or burning l. on flexor surface of l. forearm, not far from wrist. Burning itching in lower part of back; on knee, now in front, now behind, now on one side, or l., with stitches. Itching, burning or sticking or biting, on ankles and malleoli, sometimes extending to dorsa and sides of feet. Smarting burning l. on dorsum of l. foot in bed before sleep and during the day when sitting, < scratching, obliging her to seek cold places in the bed for the feet. Itching, either burning, or biting, or sticking, on small of back; on dorsa of feet; in eyebrows, sometimes with burning or burning-itching stitches. Itching on toes, either burning, crawling, biting or burning, or with stitches. Burning scraping l. on r. cheek, in front of ear, down to lower jaw.

Sleep.—Yawning alternating with eructations. Sleepiness during the day, < morning and after dinner. Sleep unusually long, till after 7 A.M., with a weary and bruised sensation and with pain in head and small of back. Difficult waking in the morning, when she cannot collect her thoughts.

Sleeplessness till 2 A.M. Restless sleep, disturbed by dreams; disturbed by itching burning or by anxious dreams. Frequent waking in an unusual position on l. side; frequent and easy W. about 2 to 4 A.M., with inability to sleep again although tired, or if he falls asleep he wakes again, with tension in head, rush of blood to it and excitement. Condition between sleep and waking at night, in which she is tormented by a system of education, which at times assumes the form of a tree, at another some other wonderful form, she tries in vain to get rid of the image, to rouse herself from slumber, to open the eyes, and is fretful about it.

Fever.—Chilliness in morning from 11 o'clock; in evening, then heat, with thirst; before dinner; < before dinner, with cold feet, dryness and stickiness in mouth, without thirst, with pain in region of l. tonsil. Shivering C., then heat. Creeping C., < going into cold air; even shivering in various parts, < forenoon and evening, especially beginning in face and arms and extending over back and chest, then heat, with anxiety and oppression of chest.

Peculiar cold sensation in r. temple. Frequent C. in head in morning, with cold feet, confusion of head, headache as before coryza, frequent heat of head, the hands being cool. Coolness in cheeks, with heat in head. Cold spot in l. side of neck, becoming a burning. Chilliness in back; in upper part of r. side of B., with painless tearing; alternately on back, outer side of arms and in calves, in forenoon, in afternoon burning stitches, < at night, with vertigo, sticking in head and angina, then sweat of a urinous odor. Intermittent, in back in evening before sleep, and posteriorly on arms, extending to hips, after the second attack swelling of l. tendo-achillis. C. in hands, feet and whole body from 11 o'clock on, with heat in face and warm feeling in hands. C., almost tearing, on front of r. tibia. Cold sensation behind l. external malleolus, with painless tearing. Cold spot on skin below r.

nates; on upper outer part of l. leg; above l. internal malleolus.

Feeling as if spattered with cold water on face on going into open air; on dorsum of hand on going into open air; in inner anterior part of l. thigh; below l. calf; on posterior lower part of r. thigh while walking, or as if touched by cold metal. Sensation as if ice-water touched outer side of l. leg not far from knee. Sensation as if posterior part of l. thigh, about five inches from joint, were touched by something cold in morning after rising and next day at noon. Creeping coldness on outer side of thigh as from quicksilver running on or beneath skin, < standing, seldom when sitting, sometimes with tension in muscles or a stitching, though painless, at times ending in burning. Sudden sensation in upper and forepart of r. thigh as if a cold animal, about the size of a lizard, lay on the skin.

Heat; in afternoon, with tendency to sweat; at 6 P.M., then cool sensation; < evening and night, with tendency to sweat; with sweat breaking out on motion, standing, etc., then about 6 P.M. chilliness; in head; face; on outer part of l. thigh; on posterior upper part of thigh; in head and hands in afternoon; H. in head excited by touch; in head after eating and afternoons, the head sweats easily on exertion, stooping, standing, etc.; on dorsum of first joint of l. great toe while sitting; H. in soles, < evening. Heat in face, with redness; in cheeks, with redness; in face, with coldness of other parts; in face, more subjective than objective, with redness of cheeks; in l. outer ear, then coldness of same and of temples. Warmth in lower part of back and in small of back, as if loins were distended or asleep, extending into small of back, hips and posterior part of thighs.

Burning in outer anterior part of l. elbow, in skin and deep in flesh and extending outward; in styloid process of r. radius, with a red spot, becoming larger on rubbing; between r. thumb and index, then a red spot after rubbing. Warmth in palms, often with itching and crawling, as in chilblains; W. on posterior lower part of l. thigh, extending into upper part of calf. Cold burning on l. side of chin. Tensive burning in l. upper part of neck, with stiffness. Biting burning on inner side of r. knee. Corrosive burning on outer anterior side of dorsum of l. foot. Burning as from nettles on dorsum of second joint of r. ring finger; in second joint of l. index, < bending, with stiffness. Tingling warmth in feet; in legs, as after rubbing with woolen cloths, < sitting; T. in soles, at times crawling, often at the same time in toes and on back of foot; as in frozen feet.

Sweat after midnight, waking her frequently; on exertion, < afternoon, with anxiety; cold, on face.

Bismuth.

The precipitated subnitrate is triturated with Sacch. lac. for use.

General Action.—The chief action of Bismuth is manifested in the alimentary canal, causing irritation and catarrhal inflammation.

Affinities.—Puls., (Arsen. in part), Coleh.

Generalities.—Swelling of face, hands, tongue and abdomen. Lying upon his back at night. Spasmodic contraction of voluntary muscles, especially of lower limbs. Faintness. Weakness. Some relief from loose stools.

Mind.—Delirium. Morose, discontented and complaining about his condition. Ill-humored all day, > in evening, and will not talk. Solitude unendurable. Restless peevishness. Begins one thing, then another, but keeps to one thing only a short time.

Head.—Aching; burning contractive, especially in forehead and eyes. Pressive drawing now here, now there; < motion. Confusion; on rising. Heaviness. Vertigo; in morning; on violent motion; in attacks, as if anterior half of brain were turning in a circle; as if brain were turning in a circle.

Forehead.—Tearing above r. inner canthus and in back part of orbit. Cutting above r. orbit, extending to occiput. Digging and boring in F., eyes and in nose down to tip, an alternately contracting and distending sensation. Boring-outward pain in eminences, at times in r., at times in l., sometimes in both. Pain; < motion, with heaviness; heavy, when sitting, especially above root of nose and in temples.

Tearing in r. temple, especially externally, < pressure. Pressure outward in temples. Twitching-tearing in whole l. occipital bone, more violent close to parietal bone. Pressure in occiput, < motion, with heaviness.

Clinical.—Violent neuralgic headaches which alternate with gastralgia, the pains in the head involve the face and teeth, < eating, > cold, feeling as if the parts were torn by pincers (Puls.).

Eyes.—Redness, with dim vision; R. of conjunctiva. Pressure backward and upward on r. eyeball. Mucus in canthi.

Ears and Nose.—Tearing in external cartilage of E. > pressure. Drawing pressure in l. external meatus. Roaring in E. Dryness of nose.

Face.—Pallor, with coldness of whole body. Earthy-colored, with blue rings around eyes and features changed as if he had been sick. Pressure in r. malarbone at regular intervals.

Mouth.—Drawing pressure in back teeth, extending into front teeth, with drawing pain in cheeks. Gums swollen, sore and painful, with soreness of whole interior of mouth; blackish-blue seam on gums. Tongue coated; white; coated white in evening without heat or thirst (Puls.); under surface, tip and borders discolored. Salivation. Taste offensive; nauseous metallic (Puls.); metallic, sweetish-sour, on back of tongue; bitter; bloody, in morning, and the mucus hawked up is colored with blood.

Throat.—Uvula, palate, arches of fauces and inside of cheeks discolored. Inflammation, with pain and inability to swallow; l. of fauces and uvula, with burning in throat, difficult swallowing and thirst. Gangrene of oesophagus, epiglottis and larynx.

Stomach.—Appetite lost. Thirst; for cold drinks in evening without heat (Puls.). Eruptions of wind; after drinking water; frequently empty, with discomfort in stomach (Puls.), then liquid stool, but not bilious; violent E., with griping in bowels and sudden bilious vomiting; acid and bitter. Hiccough. Nausea; < after eating; with pressure in stomach; with bilious vomiting. Vomiting; with diarrhoea, retching and burning in throat; violent, of brownish matter, with profuse diarrhoea. Pressure; < after eating (Ars.); in region; in region, with burning (Ars., Colch.); changing to burning. Discomfort. Tenderness of epigastrium (Ars.). Gastro-enteritis (Ars.). Oppression of epigastrium, with constriction.

Clinical.—Gastric catarrh, with terrible gastralgia, the pain extending from the stomach through the body to the spine. The gastric disorders requiring Bismuth vary, but usually are burning, with a feeling of a load or hard lump in stomach (compare with Abies); vomiting of food and of mucus; gastric spasms > cold drinks (Puls.). Very valuable for inflammation of the stomach occurring during the progress of chronic diseases, for instance, scirrhus. A marked indication for Bismuth is that while taking cold drinks there is relief, yet when the stomach becomes full there is vomiting of enormous quantities.

Abdomen.—Rumbling, with eructations; R. in r. side when standing; in lower. Frequent passage of flatus; passage of much F., then thin bilious stool. Griping, then two liquid bilious stools. Colic. Pinching in lower, with rumbling and urging to stool; P. now here, now there, in lower, also with rumbling and grumbling. Burning and shooting pain in various parts. Discomfort now here, now there, in lower, with pressure.

Stool and Urinary and Sexual Organs.—Ineffectual straining at stool in evening. Liquid, bilious stools; L. frequent, with griping. Micturition frequent, with copious watery urine. No urine was passed, and the region of the bladder was not distended. Urine contained albumen and casts. Aching in r. testicle, < touch. Emission of semen at night, without voluptuous dreams.

Clinical.—Painless diarrhoea, with great thirst. Cholera infantum, with tongue thickly coated white, vomiting, etc.

Respiratory Organs.—Difficult breathing. Cough disturbing him in sleep at night, with profuse expectoration, and cough by day.

Chest.—Stitches in middle of sternum; (pinching, in region of both nipples); tearing, in region of nipples (apparently superficial in lungs and at the same time in pectoral muscles), at times < when inspiring or expiring. Tearing around and near l. nipple; sticking; in region of last ribs. Pinching in region of diaphragm, extending transversely through chest, when walking. Pain in spot in r. side near sternum, more severe at times; in C. and back, a burning and boring; near upper, extending inward towards sternum. Oppression. Burning contraction, so that it is difficult to breathe or speak.

Heart and Pulse.—Severe beating of H. Pulse rapid; at midnight, and spasmodic; and hard, small; and contracted; and small, tense; and hard, full. Pulse spasmodic; and tense; and tense, small. Pulse small; and intermittent.

Neck and Back.—Tensive pressure on r. side, in cervical vertebrae. Twitching sensation in muscles of r. side of N. Sharp pressure on upper border of r. scapula and clavicle. Pain in l. side of back when sitting, as after long stooping. Intermittent stitches on lowest l. ribs at their union with dorsal vertebrae.

Extremities.—Spasms. Cramps in hands and feet. Tearing in r. shoulder-joint. (Spasmodic) contractive tearing in muscles of r. arm. Paralytic weakness of r. arm. Paralytic pressure in forepart of r. upper arm. Spasmodic contractive pain in anterior muscles of l. upper arm during complete rest of body.

Forearm.—Paralytic tearing in r., especially in bones of wrist; in r., towards outer side, at times more in upper part, at times more in lower part, > motion and touch. Cutting tearing in muscles of lower part of r. Pressure on l., more in lower and outer part. Grumbling pain in bones of l. as if bruised.

Tearing in bones of l. wrist; in bones of r., > motion; upon and around r. styloid process, extending into muscles of hands, more violent in the process itself; in metacarpal bones of r. index and middle fingers; itching, in inner processes of both hands. Trembling of hands when eating. Weakness of hand, with trembling. Tearing in tips of r. fingers, especially under nails; in tips of r. fourth and fifth fingers; in last joints of l. fingers; intermittent, in ball of l. thumb.

Lower Extremities.—Intermitting pressure above l. knee, towards outer side. Drawing in middle of calf and in anterior part of l. leg, down into foot. Drawing in r. external malleolus, > on motion. Tearing below r. external malleolus, terminating every time in tendo-achillis; in l. heel; on r. heel near and on tendo-achillis; between two last l. metatarsal bones, close to toes, while sitting; in last phalanges of l. toes; in tip of l. great toe.

Skin.—Itching erosion near tibia and backs of feet near joints, < scratching.

Sleep.—Sleepiness mornings a few hours after rising, but inability after eating to take his accustomed nap; S. in forenoon during work, he reads without knowing what, falls asleep and has vivid and confused dreams. Restless sleep; on account of voluptuous dreams, without, but oftener with, emission of semen. Frequent waking, with weariness; frequent W. as from fright. Startings in evening slumber as if he fell. Vivid, anxious dreams.

Fever.—Cold limbs. Heat; in flushes through whole body, in morning after rising, especially on head and over chest; of head, with confusion of it. Sweat < at night, with burning in skin.

Boracic Acidum.

For internal use a solution of the crystals may be made (1 to 99), or a trituration for the first decimal.

General discomfort, > walking. Confusion of head in morning on waking. Gastric headache. Much cold saliva. Hawking. Nausea, > walking in open air, with heaviness in stomach. Retching, with vomiting of tough mucus and alkaline fluid. Heaviness and restlessness in stomach till dinner. Rumbling in abdomen in afternoon and two scanty, pasty stools. Pasty stool. Pain in region of ureters. Frequent urging to urinate. Copious urine. On r. thigh vesicles, which continually extended and became covered with crusts, in middle, a spot surrounded by new vesicles, which were moist when broken, afterwards this eruption extended to r. leg, then passed over to l. leg.

Clinical.—A solution of Boracic acid is frequently used as an injection in chronic cystitis, with marked benefit.

Borax.

Dilutions are made from a solution composed of one part dissolved in ninety-nine parts of distilled water.

General Action.—A tissue remedy, allied to the Potashes and to Silicea. Its action on mucous membranes is marked by a tendency to aphthous ulceration (compare Mercury). The peculiar nervous phenomena are very characteristic and unlike any other remedy.

Study in close relationship Silicea.

Generalities.—The infant becomes pale and nearly earthy-colored, flesh soft and flabby, cries much, refuses the breast and screams out anxiously in sleep. General trembling, especially in hands, while meditating at his work, with nausea and weakness of knees. Restless- ness; while eating, > stretching backward, with nausea; after animated conversation, with nausea, stupefaction and vertigo.

Weakness; with heaviness of feet; with indolence, fretfulness, thirst after the midday sleep, heat when walking in open air, sweat on head and face, confusion of head, pressure in forehead and eyes, which pain on touch as if sore, inclination to breathe deeply, and when doing so sticking in intercostal muscles, with hard, quick pulse; of joints; especially in abdomen and limbs.

Mind.—Violence; with scolding and swearing at trifles. Fretfulness; every day at 4 P.M.; in afternoon before the easy stool, with indolence and discontent, after it liveliness, contentment and cheerfulness in regard to the future; F., with whining and crying. Irritability during important business. Crying violently at intervals (in a child).

Anxiety increased till 11 P.M., with sleepiness, then vertigo and sleep; A. (in a child) when dancing and if rocked in the arms anxious expression of face during the downward motion; on riding down hill, feeling as if it would take away his breath; with rumbling in abdomen. Fright, with starting at a distant shot; with starting in every limb on hearing an anxious cry; (in a baby) at hawking and sneezing; on waking, the rustling of a paper or dress or the slamming of a door would cause the child to start, scream and seem badly frightened, when laying her down she would start and throw up her hands as if afraid of falling, and some nights they could not put her down at all. Fear of contagion.

Idling through the afternoon, changing from one business to another and from one room to another. Disinclination to work. Earnestness. Liveliness in forenoon, with affectionate mood and desire for work. Voluptuous mood. Vanishing of thoughts. Obligated to reflect long before he can remember what he has done through the day, and for a long time is uncertain whether he was at a place yesterday or to-day.

Clinical.—Extreme anxiety, especially in children, especially from motions which have a downward direction, rocking, being carried down-stairs or laid down, there is starting as in great fright; this dread of a downward motion is extremely characteristic of the drug.

Head.—Aching in morning, especially in forehead; at 10 A.M., with nausea and trembling in whole body; evenings, with confusion of head and sticking in l. ear. Throbbing during menses, with roaring in ears. Lightness, clearness. Confusion on waking. Heaviness. Fulness in morning, > after walking in open air, with lack of clear ideas, of presence of mind and of desire for mental work, leaving weakness in feet and joints; F. on ascending a mountain or steps; with pressure about eyes as if held fast, so that he can scarcely move them; with pressure in small of back when sitting and with sleepiness in eyes. Vertigo in morning in bed; in morning, with full feeling in forehead, so that he lost his good humor; in evening when walking, as if some one had pushed him from r. side towards l.; in attacks, with loss of presence of mind.

Forehead.—Sticking over eyes and in temples, alternating with heat and coldness, so that one time the hands were hot, at another blue, with sticking in the swollen glands of the neck, which afterwards became softer and smaller. Aching; in evening, with sticking in l. ear and in a l. lower hollow molar; above eyes, > walking in open air; intermittent, above eyes. Drawing pain extending towards eyes; above eyes and towards root of nose, at times extending into nape, and on stooping pressure in frontal bone, when reading and writing the pain becomes more violent, with pressure in region of spleen. Twitching pain in afternoon, with nausea and tearing in eyeballs. Throbbing.

Temples.—Sticking in r.; from r. T. to l. half of forehead; rhythmical, in r. Throbbing; throbbing pain, < r.

Vertex.—Stitches in l., then in genitals, and the next night lascivious disgusting dreams (in a married woman). Tearing in forenoon, with roaring in ears. Boring in a small spot near V. Pain in evening, and in forehead.

Stitches deep in r. side, with discharge of pus from r. ear and tickling in l. ear as before a discharge, then acute hearing. Throbbing pain in occiput as if suppurating, with general shivering. Pulsating rush of blood to occiput. Hairs tangled at tips, so that they cannot be separated (in a child), as in Plica Polonica, and if these bunches are cut off they form again.

Eyes.—Stitches in l. in evening. Sensation as if something were penetrating them, > rubbing. Cutting lengthwise in l., coming and going suddenly. Pain as if it would be pressed into the orbit, in morning. Itching, with sensation of sand in them. Pressive burning in r. in afternoon. Burning as soon as he put on the glasses, with contraction. Lachrymation. Stitches in ball, with contraction of upper lid. Tearing in balls, with twitching in forehead and nausea in afternoon.

Lids.—Lashes turn inward towards eye and inflame it, especially at outer canthus, where the margins of lids are very sore. Great redness around eyes when crying (in an infant). Agglutination in morning, and lachrymation; A. at night, with hard mucus, which irritates the eyes like sand. Inflammation of margin in an infant, he rubs them, and at night they are agglutinated. Aching in upper on opening. Sensation in r. when sitting as if something pressed outward from between the skin coming from temples, then pressure around eyes. Difficulty in closing in evening and difficulty in opening in morning.

Canthi.—Inflammation of r. outer, with irregularity of lashes, and at night agglutination of eyes; I. of l. inner, with nightly agglutination. Soreness in outer. Itching in inner.

Sensitiveness to candle-light in evening. Vision obscured in l. eye in evening. Vision of bright waves moving now from r. to l., and now from above downward, mornings when writing.

Clinical.—Inflammation of the edges of the eyelids, which turn inward towards the ball, so that the lids rub against the ball, entropium.

Ears.—Purulent discharge preceded by itching in occiput; P. discharge, with sticking headache; with hot inflamed swelling. Stitches; in l.; in l. on waking unusually early; in morning when washing in cold water. Pain internally, with pressure behind r.; sore pain on boring in with finger. Itching in l. in evening when walking, and sore pain after removing earwax, and at same time sticking in l. side of neck. Sudden sensation as if enveloped or stopped. Difficult hearing in l. (in a child). Roaring and difficult hearing; R. in r., with ringing. Ringing in r., with piping, changing to roaring. Rushing in l. as from a storm. Drumming in l. as over a subterranean vault. Crackling in l. in evening, as if thick wax stopped the ear, which then opened again.

Note.—(Red and shining swelling, with throbbing and tensive sensation.) Ulceration superiorly in l. nostril towards tip, with sore pain and swelling of tip (Aur., Kali). Itching internally, with crawling. The infant rubs his nose vigorously, then his eyes. Sneezing, with great pain, causing stitches in r. side of chest; S., with fluent coryza. Dry crusts in nose constantly. Fluent coryza, with crawling in nose. Discharge of much greenish thick mucus. Bleeding; in morning, and pulsating headache in evening; on blowing nose, preceded by itching in nose.

Face.—Pale, earthy (in an infant), with suffering expression. Flushed. Expression of fear or suffering whenever lifted up or put down in bed. Swollen, with pimples on nose and lips; S., hot and red, with tearing in malar-bone, and pain in the swelling when laughing. Twitching of muscles near r. corner of mouth. Feeling of cobwebs on r. side by the mouth.

Lips.—Red inflamed swelling on lower, with burning soreness when touched. Large herpetic spots upon mouth, and after burning heat the upper lip became scurfy. Pain in corners as if they would ulcerate. Burning pain in lower in evening. Burning below l. nostril in morning in bed. Crawling as from beetles.

Clinical.—Erysipelas of face, with feeling of cobwebs on it.

Mouth.—Teeth. A piece broke out of a hollow one. Sticking in a l. lower hollow back tooth in evening, with sticking in l. ear and pain in forehead; intermittent, mostly in a l. lower hollow back T. Tearing in upper hollow, with gripping and sensation as if enlarged, so that she cannot bite nor clench the teeth, with inflammation and swelling of gum, as if a gumboil would form, in the evening the pain extends into lower teeth, > going to sleep; T. in hollow, extending into l. half of head; from hollow into half of head if touched with the tongue or if cold water is taken into mouth; in hollow, extending into l. cheek, with pressure in forehead and eyeballs. Gripping in hollow, in rainy weather; constrictive, in hollow. Aching in hollow, in bad weather; in upper hollow, with swelling of cheek, which pains as if tense when touched; drawing. Boring in hollow in cool evening air. Digging after every supper and breakfast, > tobacco-smoking. Elongated sensation. Crawling in upper and lower incisors, with tickling, then salivation.

Gums.—Painful gumboil on outer side, with pain in a hollow tooth, and with swelling of cheek and whole l. side of face, as far as below eye, where there was an edematous swelling (the pain > smelling of chamomilla). Swelling, with pressure in hollow teeth in bad weather. Bleeding of upper.

Tongue.—Aphthae. Red blisters, as if skin were eroded, with pain on every motion of tongue and on touch of anything salt or sour. Dryness in afternoon. Cramp, as if stiff and asleep, so that breathing is impeded.

Palate (of an infant) wrinkled, and frequent crying when nursing. Mucous membrane of forepart of palate shrivelled, as if burnt, with pain, < chewing. Aphthae on inside of cheek; bleeding when eating. Membrane of hard palate pinched and dry, with a few small erosions. Mouth of an infant very hot (Kali, Sil.). Slimy mouth. Copious, cold saliva. Taste, bitter, if she eats anything or swallows saliva everything tastes bitter; insipid; lost, to food; lost, to soup, at dinner, and the soup causes sweat.

Clinical.—Aphthous sore mouth, the ulcers bleed on eating or on touch; mouth very tender in nursing children; mouth is very hot, with thirst and vomiting.

Throat.—Mucus, which he must expectorate. Hawking of lumps of mucus in morning. Tough, whitish mucus, difficult to loosen. Tough mucus, difficult to loosen; causing vomiting. Hawking of green, loose mucus. Hawking of a piece of blood-streaked mucus. Roughness; in morning. Rawness in pit, > hawking up mucus, with drawing stitches when coughing and sneezing. Dryness. Burning, causing him to swallow saliva, which is painful.

Stomach.—Appetite increased for breakfast; in evening. Hunger, without real appetite. Little appetite; in evening; especially for supper. Appetite lost for dinner; evenings, with nausea, drawings from vertex to temples and drawings from abdomen towards groin. No desire for tobacco. Thirst in morning, he must drink much. Longing for sour drinks.

Hiccough after eating; H. (in an infant); which makes the throat raw. Nausea; in morning, > after dinner; in morning, with faintness; at noon, at the thought of food, with coldness, drawing headache and pain in abdomen, > diarrhœa; in afternoon, with faintness; every day from 3 P.M. till evening, with pain in sternum; while eating; after waking, and on drinking water difficult, copious vomiting of mucus and some bitter substance; periodical. Vomiting when riding; V. of a tough fluid; of mucus, with heat and rapid, feverish pulse; of sour mucus after breakfast (of coca).

Distention after eating, > in evening on going into open air, with discomfort, sick feeling and ill humor. Sticking in pit, with oppression of chest, which impels him to take a deep breath, but he cannot do it on account of pinching in r. side of chest. Pain in region after lifting something heavy (before menses), the pain goes into small of back, where it becomes sticking, so that she cannot turn without pain the whole night, > in morning; P. as from bad digestion, on external pressure on pit. Pressure after every meal; in pit after eating pears, especially in morning or forenoon, with discomfort; in pit, > walking.

Constriction in pit; in region every day from 4 A.M. till noon, a kind of winding-up sensation, which extends to spine, where it causes sticking. Tightness in pit when sitting stooped, extending into chest, impeding respiration and causing sticking in lung. Fulness after eating apples and mutton, with ill humor and with fulness in head, as if the blood forcibly pressed into it. Heaviness, > walking in open air.

Abdomen.—Distention after supper; D., especially in epigastric region; flatulent, after every meal. Flatulence. Rumbling; at night, > passing flatus upward and downward; after dinner, with diarrhœa. Emission of flatus. Pinching; with diarrhœa. Gripping, with shivering and gooseflesh. Pain as if diarrhœa would result; after eating, > after midday nap. Weakness.

Hypochondria.—Cutting in r. after breakfast, extending downward across through abdomen, then sudden diarrhœa; C. in l. on walking rapidly, as if a hard, sharp, movable piece were there, with sensation in abdomen as if only hard pieces were in it much mixed up. Pressure in l.; from lowest ribs to hipbone, after midday sleep till evening, < external pressure; in l., sometimes with a burning and with a sensation on deep breathing as if something rose into chest, which sank down again on expiration; in l. as with hands, when riding in a carriage without springs; in l. as from a stone, when dancing, > continued dancing.

Pressure as from a stone in r. flank (after menses), then diarrhœa-like, with burning in anus; frequent desire, with rumbling in abdomen and diarrhœa; frequent desire, with pinching in abdomen and easy pasty stool. Feeling as if diarrhœa would come on, after smoking.

Rectum.—Stitches in evening. Contraction, with itching. Desire for stool in morning, stool at first hard, then diarrhœa-like, with burning in anus; frequent desire, with rumbling in abdomen and diarrhœa; frequent desire, with pinching in abdomen and easy pasty stool. Feeling as if diarrhœa would come on, after smoking.

Anus.—A swollen vein as large as a quill, painless, soft to touch. Brown mucus after stool. Boring-sticking, and in small of back. Itching in evening; I. as from hæmorrhoidal mucus.

Stool.—Soft, light yellow, three times a day, with weakness. Diarrhœa; six times from morning till 2 P.M., without pain; in morning, then usual stool in evening; immediately after eating, with weakness in joints and legs, which is > by walking; with rumbling in abdomen; then no stool for several days, afterwards a hard stool daily; sudden, with rumbling and grumbling in abdomen. Slimy stool every hour. Like yellow water. Watery, greenish, with some mucus, crying out during each evacuation. Constipation, with feces like sheep-dung. Hard in morning, then diarrhœa in afternoon, with much wind; H., with straining. Two scanty, pasty. Green (in an infant), preceded by crying. Frequent; and easy; F. diarrhœa after breakfast. Pale mucus passes four times, with the stool once involuntarily. Reddish liquid mucus with the stool. Tenacious, glutinous, yellowish mucus with the stool. Passage of blood and mucus from anus, after diarrhœa. Passage of round worms.

Clinical.—Diarrhœa in nursing infants, offensive, preceded by colic, stools mucus, with aphthous sore mouth, screaming before urinating, etc.

Urinary Organs.—Urging to urinate; several times at night; after an emission, and on urinating cutting in urethra; ineffectual, with cutting in genitals and distention in hips. Frequent micturition; (in an infant) often with cries before the urine passes (Nux v.).

Urethra.—Dark blue spots at orifice, as if skin were off, with biting pain on urinating. Orifice seems agglutinated. Smarting after urinating; < touch. Cutting during involuntary emission of such thin semen that he thought he urinated. Pain in orifice as if sore, after urinating. Burning tension after urinating.

Urine hot, in an infant (Canth.). Pungent smell to urine (Benz. ac.).

Clinical.—Children are afraid to urinate, almost have convulsions when the desire to urinate comes.

Sexual Organs.—Sticking sore pain on penis at margin of place where a chancre formerly existed, < touch. Tensive erection in morning on waking. Excitement, without desire for coition. Sensual sensations while resting his hands in a kind way on a sick woman, without desire for coition. Indifference to coition. Rapid emission, with dream of coition, waking him. Emission very soon on coition and continual irritation in genitals. Obligated to wait long during coition for discharge of semen.

Easy conception. Sensation of distention in clitoris at night, with sticking. Leucorrhœa like the white of an egg, with sensation as if warm water were flowing; as thick as paste and white (Aur.); white, like mucus, fourteen days after menses. Sticking in region of uterus. Menses too soon; and very profuse, with griping in abdomen, nausea and pain in stomach extending into small of back, which lasted till midnight, then sweat; and preceded in evening and morning by heaviness on chest, with difficult breathing and roaring in ears. M. delayed, pale at first, redder in afternoon and more profuse, ceased on third day in the night and returned on the fourth. M. very scanty for two days, then profuse and pale red from third to sixth day, with weakness, M. omitted in second month, but after dose of Borax in the sixth week appeared next day, with pinchings in abdomen.

Clinical.—Dysmenorrhœa, extreme pain during the menses; membranous dysmenorrhœa (Acetic ac.). Leucorrhœa preceding and following the menses, albuminous and acrid. Very valuable for inflammation of mucous membrane of the vagina and uterus, endocervitis.

Respiratory Organs.—Tearing in larynx in evening; in larynx, extending into chest, provoking cough. Cough at night; C., with scraping in throat and pressure in chest. Dry cough from tickling in throat; from scraping in throat. Dry hacking in a child. Dry cathectic cough, as in old people, < morning on rising and evening on lying down, with sticking in r. side of chest and r. flank (Kali c.), the pains < winc, > washing chest in cold water. Hacking and violent cough in evening, and with every paroxysm of cough expectoration of mouldy taste and smell from chest. Cough, with difficult expectoration of white mucus streaked with blood. C., < morning, with expectoration of mucus and with pain in liver, which continues, but without cough, till noon.

Necessity every three or four minutes to take a quick deep breath, which is every time followed by a stitch in r. side of chest, with a subdued painful sigh and slow expiration. Arrest of breath when lying, he is obliged to jump up and catch for breath which causes a stitch in r. side of chest (Kali c.). Respiration short after ascending steps, so that he cannot speak, and every time he speaks a stitch in r. side of chest (Kali c., Merc. s.), the same on running or on any other exertion which heats him. Difficult R.; with necessity to breathe deeply, which he cannot do on account of stitches in chest.

Chest.—Milk increased. Milk flows, so that the bed is wet; M. which flows from the breast is curdled. Stitches with every cough (Merc. s.) and deep inspiration (Kali c.); S. when yawning; in region of r. nipple in evening with every paroxysm of cough; between r. ribs, < lying on r. side, with drawing and obstruction of breathing; on sternum after dinner, < deep inspiration; in r. side if he raises the arm, with drawing; in l. ribs, with soreness internally in chest; as from incarcerated flatus; in l. on every inspiration, as with a knife; drawing, in r. intercostal muscles, waking him as soon as he turns upon r. side, obliging him to sleep on l. side; drawing, in r., extending into r. flank, where it is < by hiccoughing, sneezing, coughing and yawning.

Griping in l. breast, sometimes with stitches, and when the child has nursed, necessity to compress the breast because it aches on account of being empty. Pain; in r. when coughing, > pressure, and in r. flank; > walking slowly about the room; in side, > holding it with the hand; at night in pectoralis major, as from a hard bed, with soreness on touch. Drawing pain in r. intercostal muscles if he bends forward and to the right; in a spot in intercostal muscles, which changes on bending to the left into a pain as from a blow. Contractive pains in l. breast when the child nurses the r. Contraction at every attempt to breathe.

Oppression in evening in bed. Heaviness preventing breathing. Tightness, with constrictive oppression of breath on ascending steps, he is then obliged to take a deep breath, which is accompanied every time by a drawing stitch in r. side of chest. Feeling as if the heart were on the r. side and were squeezed. Weakness, with dryness in throat. Feeling better when lying quietly stretched out on back.

Clinical.—Pleurodynia or true pleurisy in upper part of r. chest, with cough, expectoration of a mouldy smell.

Neck.—Rheumatic drawing pain in nape in evening when walking in open air, extending into l. shoulder and then into scapula.

Back.—Stitches in evening, extending into chest. Pressive pain on both shoulders. Stitches in r. lumbar region, < in morning by stooping while walking, > sitting. Pain in small of back; when stooping; when walking; with mucous discharge with the stool; when sitting and stooping, as from pressure. Pressure in kidney region, < turning, with sticking.

Upper Extremities.—Stitches in r. shoulder. Drawing and tearing in shoulder and between shoulders, so that he cannot stoop. Burning pain in upper arm a hand's breadth around the whole arm. Sticking in palm in evening, with feeling in whole hand, extending above wrist, as if asleep. Tearing in forepart of r. hand, with breaking sensation, as if rheumatic. Feeling as of a cobweb upon hands. Throbbing pain in tip of thumb day and night, waking frequently at night.

Lower Extremities.—Burning pain on l. thigh, a hand's breadth around the limb. Tearing in r. femur, extending from the middle downward and up again, from morning till noon and in evening. Numbness of l. leg, with heat. Stitches in sole; in corns, < rainy weather; boring S. in corns, > pressure. Pain in heel as if sore from walking. Pain in joints and toes of l. foot on stepping as if something pressed them. Heaviness of feet in evening on ascending steps. Burning pain in great toes, especially in balls, < when walking.

Skin.—Inflammation of balls of little toes, with itching, as from freezing. Erysipelas in face. Erysipelatous inflammation of leg, with coldness, shivering, thirst, vomiting of food and bile, then heaviness in head and throbbing in temples, with restless slumbering at night, afterwards nosebleed. Erysipelatous inflammation and swelling of l. leg and foot after violent dancing, with tearing tension and burning in it and increased burning pain when touched, on pressure of finger the redness disappeared for a moment, afterwards tension on back of foot, so that standing was difficult. Wartlike inundations on inner surface of hands after beating something with a stick.

Herpetic eruption on nates of a child. Psoriasis on limbs and trunk. Pimples on face; red, on cheeks and around chin (in an infant); inflamed, on back of little toe, which pains like a corn; whitish, with red areola on chest and throat as far as nape. Pustule with red areola on r. middle finger, with swelling and stiffness of finger, which continued to suppurate and pain long after the pustule opened. Unhealthy, slight injuries suppurate and ulcerate. Old wounds and ulcers are inclined to suppurate. Long-continued suppuration under thumb-nail where she had stuck a needle, with pain on touch. Suppurating spot in heel, that had been rubbed by a shoe. Ulcer in l. axilla. Corroding blister upon nates.

Fornication of feet, > open air, with trembling of feet, nausea and tendency to faintness. Itching on back of finger-joints; here and there on backs of hands, as if bitten by fleas; on malleolus; on os coccygis, with crawling, and after scratching discharge of mucus from anus.

Sleep.—The child at the breast sleeps more than usual, but wakes frequently. Sleepy at noon and deep sleep for two hours. Sleepy in evening and tired. Sleep early in evening and long sleep in morning. Sleepiness in the twilight, but disappearance of sleep when he went to bed. Feeling in the morning as if he had not slept enough.

Falls asleep late and wakes early. Wide awake in evening. Wakes at 3 A.M. and cannot sleep again for two hours on account of general heat, especially in head, with sweat on thighs. Wakes before midnight and cannot sleep till 2 o'clock; W. at 1 A.M., and cannot sleep till 4 on account of much thinking. Wide awake at 4 A.M., so that he goes to work cheerfully.

Restless sleep; on account of rush of blood to head, restlessness of body, rumbling in abdomen and diarrhoea; with thirst and coldness; with frequent waking, crying out in fear, and during sleep muscular twitching and starting at a slight noise. The child tosses about, cries till 4 A.M., frequently out of its sleep, and in the morning is in a whining mood. An infant cries out of sleep and anxiously grasps its mother, as if frightened by a dream. Dream of sore throat and other diseases. Vexatious D. Voluptuous D. She dreams of coition, but without pleasurable sensation.

Fever.—Chill from 2 to 4 A.M., with trembling, vomiting of food, tearing in thighs and pain in their bones as if they would be broken, followed after sleep by heat and thirst, then at 8.30 bitter vomiting, then sweat, with diminished thirst. C. from 2 to 6 P.M. (after thirst in forenoon), then till going to sleep heat, with pain in l. hypochondrium. Coldness every second afternoon, with thirst and sleep, on waking heat with aching in inguinal ring. C. after eating, with more thirst than appetite for dinner, tensive drawing backward around hypochondria, heat suddenly rising into head on deep breathing, then heat at 6 P.M., during which he must lie down till 10, then sweat, then thirst.

Coldness, with headache and subsequent heat, without thirst, > walking in open air. C. alternating with heat, often with sweat in face, during which coldness runs down back, with stretching of limbs, weariness and sleepiness so that he must lie down in afternoon, but inability to sleep, when walking he drags the feet and is fretful and taciturn. General shivering, with throbbing pain in occiput as from suppuration. Coldness, especially in back, without thirst, with flat taste, rawness of larynx, stitches in chest when breathing, weakness, stretching of limbs, contracted, quick pulse, heat, heaviness and stupefaction in head and burning of eyes, with sensitiveness to light. Sensitiveness of external head to cold and to change of weather.

Heat; in evening in bed, with sweat, but chilliness as soon as he rises; if she puts her hands under the bed-covers, but coldness as soon as she puts them out again. Flushes of H. in morning, with nausea. H. of head, mouth and palms, in an infant; in head in evening when writing, with thirst and sensation as if sweat would break out; of l. cheek, with redness. Burning in small of back while sitting. H. of fingers, even from slight cold, with redness, as after freezing; in r. thigh near pudenda, < cough and laying hand upon it; of toes, with redness and some coldness, as after freezing.

Sweat at night; during morning sleep, and when dressing cold sensation, dry cough and rawness in chest, as after taking cold.

Bovista.

A tincture is made of the entire puff-ball (Lycoperdon bovista, L.).

General Action.—Its most marked action seems to be upon circulation predisposing to hæmorrhages (compare Ergot, Ustilago and other allied fungi).

Relations.—Carbo veg. (and the Carbons), Aloes, Magnes. c., Secale, Phosph.

Generalities.—Awkwardness, everything falls from his hands. Stretching without sleepiness. Fell down and remained motionless, with despair. Fell down in a swoon when trying to walk, and her limbs and body became stiff.

Bruised feeling in whole body on motion and touch, especially in joints of arms and in abdominal muscles. (Sensation as if intoxicated with wine.) General anxiety and weakness of body, eructations, nausea, distention of abdomen, passage of flatus, yawning, stretching of limbs and irresistible sleepiness. Restlessness; with anxiety, unpleasant warmth, heaviness in abdomen and alternating sensations of coldness through body. Sudden attack like faintness at noon when sitting down, as if objects turned bottom upward. Weariness; in morning on rising later than usual, especially in limbs; in evening after eating; after a walk; during and after dinner; after dinner, obliging her to sleep.

Mind.—Sensitiveness, offense at everything. Ill humor; in morning after rising; in afternoon during headache; with indifference to life; with apprehension and confusion of head. Apprehension, with fretfulness and disinclination to work. Anguish, sensation as if enveloped in black vapor. Melancholy; and towards evening weariness; then alternating moods. Life seemed very charming to him at one time, at another very hateful. Liveliness in company, but when alone sadness and indifference to everything. Exhilaration in morning, but peevishness in evening.

Indifference to external objects. Aversion to everything after dinner. Courage, vigor and desire to fight with everybody. Talkative. Open-hearted, she spoke of her own failings. Stupid feeling. Thoughts confused. Absent-minded, writes several words entirely wrong and omits syllables; A., with vacant look; so that she could not remember what she had been told or ordered. Memory weak.

Head.—Tearing, with heaviness and bruised sensation. Aching in morning; in open air, with heaviness, mostly in occiput, the A. > at night, returned in morning on going into open air, < in room; at night, < raising it, > towards morning; with weariness; with heaviness, which makes him ill-humored and unable to think continuously, the pain < lying and on waking from midday nap, with pulsations in head, the pain chiefly over nose, which is stopped; intermittent.

Raging pain in brain, as if suppurating, at 8 A.M., beginning in cold air and continuing in the room. Aching on waking at 3 A.M., as if the head would burst, with which he feels every pulsation, > sweat, especially on head. A. after waking, as from too much sleep. Stupefying A., especially in forehead. All the pains are felt deep in brain. Brain feels as if screwed together in morning, > open air, with heaviness. Contractive sensation > after breakfast, with dulness. Drawing around, without pain.

Enlarged sensation with the headache. Heaviness. Stupidity in evening, with heaviness and bruised feeling. Confusion; on stooping, mostly in l. temple, with pain; after coition, with vertigo and sleeplessness; < in morning, with emptiness and drawing; with inability to think correctly and with heaviness and pressure in forehead.

Vertigo; in morning; in morning on rising, with stupefaction so that he nearly fell; after rising from stooping, with stupidity; while standing, with heaviness of head, then sudden jerking backward of head; with sensation as if all his senses would leave him; in sudden attacks on standing after headache in morning, with stupidity in head and unconsciousness; which drew him backward; even to falling forward towards evening; the room seemed to turn about with him; as if everything turned in a circle with her, in morning on rising.

Forehead.—Stitches; over l. eye; over l. eye after dinner, with redness of cheek, without external heat; in r. side; in r. eminence; in r. eminence, extending towards r. ear, with tearing; in middle, rather externally, in evening; deep in, in evening. Tearing on stooping, with heaviness in head and burning in r. eye; T. in middle rather externally in morning; extending to l. side of occiput, then back to forehead and becoming seated in l. temple; in sinciput, especially above orbits, extending into root of nose. Pain; above r. eye, extending towards temple; deep in l. side in morning on moving about, with heaviness and pressing upon eye, with cloud before l. eye, which disappeared by frequent wiping; intermittent twitching, in brain above r. eminence at 2 P.M., with peevishness; heavy, especially on temples. Painful contraction at root of nose, extending outward behind l. frontal eminence, with stitches, as if the eminence would be screwed together, and lachrymation of l. eye, then sensitiveness of the place above l. eye to pressure, after the pain ceased general heat and feeling as if sweat would break out during dinner. Boring outward in l. side at 8 P.M. Sudden turning when sitting or sensation of a sudden current of air above l. eye, above root of nose.

Temples.—Sticking in l., with jerking. Tearing in l., extending towards ear; intermittent, in r., and in r. half of forehead; raging or digging, deep in brain in afternoon. Aching in r. in morning, with throbbing and fretfulness, the A. extending to neck; compressive, starting from temples. Heaviness.

Vertex.—Stitches on l. side in evening, with pain on touch; S. in afternoon, extending over whole head. Tearing in morning, with bruised pain on touch and with tearing on margin of r. concha. Pressure. Stupefying pain, with heat in eyes. Bruised pain on l. side. Drawings in whole top of head.

Sides.—Stitches in r. at 7 A.M.; on r., near vertex; in l. parietal bone; sudden, like boring, deep in r. side, with dulness. Tearing in r. Pressure in both; in l.; in both in evening on entering house, with throbbing. Pain in brain as if it would be pressed from both sides in afternoon; compressive P. in both, on entering room after walking in cold air; bruised, in whole r. at 10 A.M., affecting eye; almost a throbbing, in a spot on l., at 1 P.M. Painful throbbing in r., as in an ulcer. Beating in r. at 7 A.M., on entering room from cold air, with raging. Painful heaviness in r.

Occiput.—Stitches in l. side at 7 A.M.; in l. side, with tearing; boring, in afternoon in a warm room, extending to forehead over l. eye. Tearing, and at same time in lower jaw. Pain, with tension in temples; P. in forenoon, extending over vertex to forehead; on both sides in afternoon, till evening, extending to forehead, with feeling in O. as if everything would protrude; as if a wedge were pressed in. Confusion, < bright light in evening, with heaviness, with inclination of eyelids to fall, feeling as if eyes would be drawn backward, and with anxiety and uneasiness of body.

Scalp.—Hair falls out. Reddish blisters, with itching. Pimples and itching. Sore spots, with itching. Itching, < morning; l. extending to nape, < becoming warm, not > scratching, so that he must scratch the forehead sore. Sensitiveness to touch.

Eyes.—Inflammation of l. Weakness, without lustre or snap. Tearing deep in r., extending above it to forehead. Pain, so that he had to keep them shut; P. as if something were in them, with redness of l.; as if something were in r., with lachrymation. Heat in r., with painful contractive sensation, then in both, and such heat in cheeks that she thought they would burst. Lachrymation in morning.

Redness of canthi. Agglutination of lids in morning; of l. Involuntary closure of lids, with redness of eyes. Difficult opening in morning. Irritation of lids. Tension in l. brow. Sticking in r. orbit. Pressure deep in r. orbit during menses, with whirling and sensitiveness to pressure. It seems as if there were a veil before E. in morning on rising. Vision distorted, it seems as if some scissors with which a person was cutting paper two steps away were close to her eyes.

Ears.—Ulcer in r., with pain on swallowing. Twitching in both external E., with pain in r. on swallowing. Stitches; in r. Tearings in l. in afternoon; in front of r. after dinner; deep in r., with tensive sensation on border of concha. Picking in l. as if something were in it. Drawing. Itching, and in eyes; > boring in with finger; with difficult hearing. Tingling in l., with diminished hearing. Indistinct hearing, misunderstanding and mistakes in speaking. (Noises like rain, < r.).

Nose.—Scabby nostrils. Scab in nostril frequently renewed, after removal burning of the sore place. Redness where septum unites with upper lip, with soreness. Contraction over N., with heaviness and pressure, as if the skin were too short. Burning in nostrils as if sore. Itching in upper part of r. nostril, with ineffectual attempts to sneeze. Sensation of coryza, with swelling of it.

Stoppage at night; S., with pressure in temples; of l. nostril, with flow of a few drops of water; troubling her in talking. Coryza; in morning after rising, with frequent sneezing and ability to draw air only through r. nostril; stopped; fluent, also with confusion of head. Discharge of thin water; of thin mucus. Frequent need of blowing, but slight discharge. Sneezing; in morning after waking. Bleeding in morning; a few drops every time on blowing (Carbo v.).

Face.—Pallor mornings after rising; at one time, at another redness. Boring in malar-bones, with digging. Eruption at corners of lips. Tensive pimples on both lips. Cracked lips. Stitches in lower L. Burning on inner border of l. side of lower L., as in a cut. Tearing in l. side of lower jaw and in one of its teeth. Throbbing on l. side below lower jaw, with sensation as if a gland were swollen.

Mouth.—Teeth. Mucous coating. T., gums and lips filled with clotted blood in morning on waking. Gnashing now and then in evening, as in a chill. Stitches, < at night, with easy bleeding of gum, the pain > sucking blood out of teeth; S. extending into eyes. Aching in evening in bed, > only by warmth; > going into open air; then pale swelling of upper lip and sweat all night, especially profuse on head; in upper incisors, < touch and chewing, > after upper lip began to swell, the lip being far over the lower one and was even with nose, after this swelling began to subside the l. cheek began to swell, pain on touch in all swollen parts; as if the exposed nerves were rubbed; jerking. Drawing toothache waking before midnight three successive nights; D. in hollow tooth; in a right lower hollow T. in evening; in l. lower hollow molar evenings in bed till morning, during menses; as if the roots would be torn out, in evening. Digging in a hollow tooth in morning and evening; tearing, in a hollow tooth in evening in bed, extending into temple. Boring in evening; digging, in a hollow T., < cold, with drawing pain in r. side of head and stitches in ears. Elongated feeling in a hollow T.

Gums.—Bleeding on sucking (Carbo v.), with pain. Oozing of clear blood. Retraction. Swelling and pain. Ulcer exuding blood on pressure. Inflamed spot over a decayed tooth, with ulcerative pain < touch, and throbbing and feeling as if the root were too long.

Tongue.—Yellow coat in morning. Depressed ulcer on r. margin, sore and painful to touch. Red spot painful to pressure near l. ligament of T., where it is united to tongue. Cutting. Burning in tip every morning after waking, with numbness on posterior part of tongue and over whole mouth. Stammering; when reading.

(Swelling internally on l. cheek, then externally a burning blister filled with yellow fluid.) Stitches in palate extending to chin. Dryness of mouth towards evening, in the evening satiety; D. as from sand, with thirst. Heat in mouth. Painful tension in r. cheek. Numbness of M. and tongue in morning after waking, > after eating; in morning on waking, with sensation as if burnt and with bitter slimy taste and with soreness of throat. Salivation (Merc. s.). Offensive breath. Taste bitter; T. of blood; bad, with much mucus in mouth.

Throat.—Pain. Soreness in evening, pain on swallowing saliva as if something were sticking in T. and difficulty in swallowing food. Rawness mornings after rising and evenings. Scraping mornings, with mucus; S., with irritation to cough; and burning, as if he had eaten something too hot; as if sore, extending into chest, with tough mucus in chest, which threatens to suffocate her, this mucus is difficult to raise and tastes salt; interrupting sleep, with necessity to hawk up mucus. Irritation. Burning. Dryness on waking, > rising and eating, with sticking on swallowing and with numbness in mouth; D. in morning on waking, so that the tongue seemed almost like wood.

Stomach.—(Hunger in afternoon); towards evening; excessive. Appetite without real hunger. Appetite lost; for cooked food, only for bread; lost, in a child, with heat of whole body, puffy, scarlet face, it lies and vomits mucus and food, then sweat all night, mostly on head, with nosebleed twice in sleep. Thirst; in afternoon and evening; during chill; < evening; for cold water; for wine and water; for milk in morning; unquenchable; lost.

Empty eructations; mornings fasting; eructations all the forenoon, tasting of the breakfast. Hiccough at 1 P.M.; after dinner; inclination to H. in forenoon, amounting to only half a hiccough. Nausea in morning, > after breakfast, with vomiting of water; in morning, with febrile chilliness, then vertigo, which relieved the headache; in morning, with chilliness and sticking tearing toothache, < l. side, the pains > cold water; in forenoon, also with coldness; during chilliness, < motion, with palpitation; as from prolonged fasting.

Distention of epigastric region, > passage of offensive flatus at 8 A.M., with twinges. Gurgling in morning, > after eating; on l. side, near pit of stomach, in evening. Pressure in pit after eating, extending into chest, > walking, < sitting, with drawing tearing in l. side of head; P. as if overloaded, after eating, with good appetite. Feeling as if one had fasted, even after eating. Coldness as if a lump of ice lay in it. Foul sensation mornings on rising, with nauseous taste.

Abdomen.—Distention increasing till midnight, > passage of flatus; > passage of flatus in morning (Carbo v.), with rumbling; with pain. Rumbling, with gurgling and constipation; R. and noises as before diarrhoea, but diarrhoea only after several hours; as from a purge, > passage of flatus. Violent motions in evening, > passage of flatus, with urging to stool. Trembling, > at 10 A.M., by passage of flatus, with cutting as before diarrhoea. Emission of flatus (Carbo v.); copious, in bed; loud, at 5 A.M., then distention of abdomen and cutting; offensive, < morning and evening; offensive, in evening, with rumbling (Carbo v.).

Stitches; on stooping; with discomfort. Cutting, extending towards stomach, disintermitting in evening, renewed next morning and till noon, > emission of flatus. Colic in afternoon, with urging to stool; C. night and morning, with diarrhoea; (always after dinner, with chilliness); with trembling and gnashing of teeth on account of chilliness, < after stool, the pain < morning on waking, with distention of l. side and urging to stool, the side > walking or pressure on abdomen, < during rest, the pain > stool, which was first hard, then fluid.

Cramplike pain, < on inspiration and on retraction of abdomen. Twisting pain. Suppurative pain on last day of menstruation, with tearing, diarrhœa and exhaustion. Colic obliging him to bend double, with high-colored urine and much thirst. Colic in morning on waking, as if he should go to stool. Pain as if everything were dried, in evening in bed. Sensitiveness internally and externally, with intolerance of touch and necessity to walk bent. Creeping coldness.

Stitches in l. hypochondrium and at same time in l. elbow; in r. H. near back; in r. H., with indescribable pain; burning, in l. H. when sitting bent. Twinges in r. hypochondrium after dinner. Pain in sides of abdomen, almost like burning, after dinner. Tension in upper part, with sticking. Cutting in forepart in morning, > after eating.

Stitches about umbilicus; S. below U. Cutting in umbilical region after eating. Pinching about umbilicus. Burning internally about U. at 11 A.M. Stitches in r. groin; alternating with stitches below r. ribs. Suppurative pain extending from l. to r. side of hypogastrum. Pinching in r. groin. Constriction in r. groin, > stretching body.

Rectum.—Pain deep in, extending forward, after diarrhœa. Itching as from worms, on riding. Urging to stool, then a scanty, thin, yellowish stool, then burning in anus; U. then three attacks of diarrhœa, then tenesmus and burning in anus, with general prostration; frequent, and after exertion, with twisting in abdomen, a stool, first hard, then soft; ineffectual, at 6 A.M., with emission of flatus. Feeling after an ordinary stool as if diarrhœa would come on. Burning in anus after a watery stool. Stitches through perineum towards rectum and genitals.

Stool.—Diarrhœa frequently before and during menstruation (Aloes); D. in morning; in morning, with pain and feeling as if abdomen were suppurating; in evening, with colic; at night, with tearing in abdomen and tenesmus in rectum; with cutting in abdomen; profuse, morning and evening. Liquid, in afternoon, after a normal S. in morning; two L. every day, mostly in forenoon; frequent, with tenesmus and burning in anus. Irregular, at an unusual time and too hard. Soft in morning and hard in evening. Constipation.

Urinary Organs.—Frequent urging to urinate; with profuse discharge. Frequent urging, with scanty discharge; after micturition. Frequent micturition in afternoon and much each time; (frequent M., with sudden urging). Frequent intermission when urinating. Urethra, stitches; pain on urinating as if urine passed over a sore place; burning on urinating; burning always after urinating; burning when not urinating; itching when not urinating; orifice inflamed and agglutinated. Urine copious in afternoon; in night. Urine turbid, like gruel, with violet sediment. Yellowish-green U., afterwards turbid. Very yellow U., with a slowly forming cloud.

Genital Organs.—Red, hard, painful nodule, which suppurated, on penis. Burning. Emissions two nights in succession, once with voluptuous dreams.

Voluptuous sensation in female. Leucorrhœa; after menstruation; profuse, yellowish-green, acrid L.; mucous, tenacious, when walking; thick, like the white of an egg when walking (Borax). Soreness of pubes during menstruation. Traces of menses between menstruation (Carbo v.). Menstruation too soon; and copious, then leucorrhœa. Menstruation too late; and beginning in evening on lying down, then after midnight painful urging towards genitals, with heaviness in small of back, > next day with discharge of blood. M. most profuse in morning, but scanty during the day and night. M. did not last as long as usual and flowed for the most part only at night (Mag. c.). M. less than usual and did not continue so long. M. watery, with weariness of thighs.

Clinical.—Metrorrhagia, blood flows at night or early in morning, easily from a little overexertion between the menses, blood dark; can bear nothing tight around the body; menses preceded and followed by diarrhœa. Leucorrhœa follows the menses, acrid, corrosive; discharge only at night. Cyst in the broad ligament.

Respiratory Organs.—Catarrhal voice in morning, with roughness in throat. Hoarseness every morning. Cough in morning on entering house from the cold air, from tickling in chest; every evening and morning after rising, from tickling in trachea; at 5 P.M. from tickling in throat; from irritation in larynx; spasmodic, > opening window, with deep, anxious respiration and calls for help in feeble tones; dry, evening and morning; dry, from scraping and burning in throat; (irritation to C. from tickling in larynx, with difficult expectoration of tough mucus). Respiration anxious; R. deep, noisy; short on every exertion of hands.

Chest.—Stitches in l. side; in l. lower part; in r. side and at same time in r. great toe; in middle, then in r. hypochondrium, then in l. H., in middle of sternum; beneath r. axilla in morning; in r. lowest rib in morning; in r. side in forenoon, with constant stretching; in sternum in evening, or boring; in lower forepart after dinner when standing stooped; during dinner, extending backwards, < deep breathing; in forepart of l. lowest rib, extending up into chest; below r. ribs alternating with stitches in r. groin; as with an awl in upper part of l. mamma, extending through to back; burning, on last l. rib.

Pressure beneath sternum and in stomach; spasmodic, beneath sternum, as if stomach were overloaded. Oppression in middle, with stitches on inspiration; O., with necessity to sigh, intolerance of anything on chest and sensation as if his large waistband were too small; with heat, the latter rising into head. Heaviness, with difficulty in inspiring deeply. Constriction below sternum. Burning on sternum, with visible pulsation, especially in pit of stomach; cutting, in middle, more externally. Visible pulsation above r. mamma, near clavicle.

Heart.—Pressure in præcordial region and on sternum, with tension in temples. Sharp pain in præcordia. Fulness in præcordial region, with anxiety. Palpitation; with general trembling and uneasiness; with vertigo and headache; with congestion to head, heat, thirst and itching in r. eye.

Neck.—Swelling of cervical glands; with tension and drawing pain. Stitches in nape in evening; on l. side extending into ear. Tearing in tendon of l. side. Tension in nape, with bruised pain on pressure; painful, on r. side on moving head, with twitches in l. ear. Stiffness in nape in morning on rising.

Back.—Stitches on inner border of r. scapula, > sitting bent and rising up, with tearing and feeling as if a piece would be torn off; on inner border of l. S., deep in bone, with tearings; as with a knife between scapula in afternoon; in lumbar region, < turning body. Pain in region of kidneys.

Extremities.—Weariness of hands and feet; sudden, in afternoon. Increase of a previously-existing onion-like smell in axilla. Shoulder-joint, tearing; piercing T. in r. in afternoon; tension, also as if too short, on bending arms backward; weakness of r., with difficulty in raising arm; W. of r., with pain in arm if she took hold of anything.

Arm.—Swelling of r., with soreness to touch and with pressure in shoulders. Weariness, especially in shoulder-joints; in l. Paralyzed feeling in l., < movement. > morning by sweat, with a sprained feeling.

Upper Arm.—Tearing on inside of l., as if in bone; as if in bone in outer side of l. in afternoon. Pain on inner side of l. as if it would break, in morning. Bruised pain in r. humerus in morning, > firm pressure.

Stitches in elbow in evening, r. then l. Tearing in morning in l. elbow; in r.; in tip of r. E. Stitches on inner side of l. forearm, with tearing; boring, on marking of radius, beneath elbow, extending to fingers, which became paralyzed on account of it. Tearing a hand's breadth above wrist and extending into wrist in morning. Pain on inner side of wrist near thumb, as if tendons were torn, and the same pain on outer side of other arm, in direction of index. Paralytic and itching sensation in radial arteries.

Wrist.—Stitches in r.; < taking hold of anything, especially bringing thumb and index together, then in l. Tearing in r. in evening, with throbbing. Suppurating pain in a spot on back of r., on bending hand and pressing upon it. Sprained and ulcerated pain in middle of upper surface of l. on touch and on bending hand upward and downward. Spasmodic drawing in tendons of l. Numbness of l.

Trembling of hands, with palpitation and anxiety. Heaviness of l. hand; of r., with bruised pain at place where pulse is felt and with intolerance of touch. Stiffness of hands, with weakness of fingers. Weakness of hands; < r., allowing the slightest objects to fall. Stitches in joints of r. index while working. Tearing in l. thumb.

Lower Extremities.—Stitches in middle of l. thigh on sitting down; in l. T. and leg and in chest. Intermittent pain in r. hip on stooping, as if small of back were broken. Bruised sensation above kneecap. Sore feeling in bend of thigh during menses; in bend of r. thigh, and on walking feeling as if something woolen rubbed against it. Stitches in l. knee, < rising from a seat; in l. K. in forenoon; on inner side of r., as if in bone. Stiffness of l. knee and pain if he tries to stretch it after it has been bent some time. Weariness in hollows of K.

Cramp in l. leg; in calves towards morning, in bed, pain till evening as if legs were too short. Stitches in middle of l. tibia. Raging or beating pain in r. fibula in afternoon, with tearing extending to knee. Weary pain in r. leg during menstruation. Whole l. leg so sleepy, with fornication, that she cannot stand upon it; r. leg asleep in afternoon. Stitches in r. external malleolus, with pain in internal malleolus.

Stitches in corns. Tearing breaking-drawing pain in foot which had been sprained in childhood, as if joint had been broken, with swelling. Pain in corns;

P. in forepart of l. sole when walking. Drawing in r. foot, with tearing. Heaviness of feet. Stitches in great toes in evening, extending into ankles.

Skin.—Fingers unusually denuded by instruments, with which she was working (Carbons.) (shears or knives.) Roughness over body, with itching. Painful eruption on temple. Reddish hard swelling like a boil on r. leg. Pimples on forehead; on l. side of face near mouth; on back of hand and between middle and ring fingers; dry, reddish, covering hands; on tibia, with sensation as if burnt; itching, over whole body, on temples, above knee; itching P. on neck; itching, on forepart of neck, the l. < after scratching; hard, red, itching and burning, on chest, l. hand and l. foot, the itching < after scratching; red, rash-like, on feet and half way up calves, with itching-burning pain.

Raw spot below r. side of chin, with itching, like tetter, the itching not > scratching. Maturing eruption in l. corner of mouth, on chin and forehead. Itching maturing eruption on forehead. (Parasitism from a slight prick of a needle); (P. on one finger after another.) A previously existing wart developed a red point, suppurated and burst. Longish, flattened pustules under nose, on which a scab remained for more than fourteen days. Vesicles containing water about l. corner of mouth; white, on r. hand, with red areola and itching; red, sore and painful, on backs of feet and at roots of toes. Fornication on back at night. Biting on hips and abdomen, as from fleas.

Itching on inner side of l. forearm; on head, lower jaw, l. side, extending to behind ear, on l. side of neck, on abdomen, r. arm, inner margin of r. foot, heel, over whole body, especially on hands and head; over whole body in evening, then tetter; on arms always at evening, then after washing biting and burning; on arms every day, < evening and morning after washing, with biting; < scratching, near nose, beneath lower jaw, below r. hip. Itching > scratching on r. knee; above forehead, r. side of nose, r. shoulder, l. hip, inner side of r. knee, hollow of knees and in r. sole. l. not > by scratching, on forepart of nose; on l. side of head, on nose, chest, abdomen, inside of r. upper arm, inside of l. forearm, on r. hip, inside of thigh, here and there in limbs; l. not > scratching on inside of r. forearm, then itching pimples. Itching always returning after scratching, on forepart of scalp, on inside of r. upper arm and on l. shoulder. l. on various parts, with red pimples. I. in coccyx so that he scratched it sore, then a crust; on chest, then after scratching itching pimples; on r. forearm, then after scratching redness and burning for a long time; on l. side of chest, then fine eruption. Burning l. on forearms, in region of pulse, in evening, not > by scratching.

Clinical.—Urticaria, itching on getting warm. Eczema of external ear. Red eczema, burning and itching disturbing sleep. Eczema, moist, formation of thick crusts.

Sleep.—Yawning at 5 P.M., with sleepiness; Y. in evening. Sleepiness early in evening; during dinner; after dinner. Sleep after eating. On waking at night from a sound sleep he did not seem to know where he was. Little sleep. Restless sleep; with waking every hour.

Sleep full of dreams. Frightful dreams, that she was in a cellar, the walls of which had fallen in, and she could not get out, etc.; vexatious, with waking every moment. Tiresome; of the past and future; in a sound sleep, of subjects of previous conversations; unremembered.

Fever.—Chilliness; every day at 5 A.M. in bed; every day from 6 to 9 A.M., with external coldness and with griping in abdomen; in evening; all night. Intermitting fever, chill every day from 7 to 10 P.M., beginning with shivering in back, the first days with thirst, without subsequent heat or sweat, every time with drawing pain in abdomen. Shivering in evening on lying down; during supper; with glowing heat of face; with thirst, sticking in chest and tension and stitches in throat, so that she could not turn her head easily. Coldness of hands and feet; of feet at night; on uncovered parts, on neck and chest, and necessity to bind cloths about them, even at night.

Heat in afternoon; in evening, with sweat; > uncovering, with oppression of chest; with thirst; with anxiety and restlessness; in flushes. Orgasm of blood, with thirst. Orgasm and heat rise into face. Heat extending from r. ear down to angle of lower jaw. Burning above knee; in l. sole; externally in pit of stomach after dinner, with stitches in it. Sweat every day from 5 to 6 A.M., especially on chest; profuse, under arms when walking slowly in a cold temperature.

Brachyglottis.

The fresh leaves and flowers of the Brachyglottis repens, Forst. (Nat. order Compositeæ), are used for a tincture.

General Action.—Information is yet too meagre to say. See symptoms of kidneys and bladder in the clinical reports.

Relatives.—Lilium tig., Crocus, Merc. c., Arnica, Apoc. c., Canth., Dig., Kalmia.

Generalities.—Appearance of general illness. Loss of flesh. Pains at first nervous, afterwards muscular. Spine and nerves more affected than muscles, the pains are transitory, and except in the spine, where the pain is not constant, it seems as if the action could be traced along anterior branches of the saphenic nerves, and perhaps along saphenic vein. Soreness to touch (Arn.). Inclination to stretch. Heaviness, with sleepiness. Weakness. Symptoms ceased in afternoon, except weakness of limbs.

Mind and Head.—Irritable mood. Headache; with faceache, preventing sleep at night. Confusion of H. Desire to bend H. Vertigo, with flushed face. Pain in forehead; in evening; in l.; headache, concentrated about l. eye; throbbing pain in F. (Apoc. c., Merc.). Throbbing in l. temple (Dig.); sudden throbs in l. side of head (Kalm.).

Ears and Nose.—Pricking in E.; with itching. Pain in E.; l. in evening. Tingling in E.; with secretions. Soreness in nostrils exteriorly. Irritation in nostrils, with repeated sneezing; l. in l. nostril, with feeling as if the air were too sharp. Itching in nose; with burning.

Face.—Twitches in l. side in evening. Sudden lancinating pain in r. side. Pain in l. submaxillary glands; extending to upper part of face. Pain in l. lower jaw; and in face. Soreness of r. zygomatic process; l.; in corners of mouth, relieved by swelling of lips.

Mouth and Throat.—Toothache; r., extending to ears. Tongue sore. Pricking in tongue in evening, with numbness. Heat in mouth. Scraping in throat. Rawness of throat; with dryness; in evening, with soreness. Soreness of throat.

Stomach.—Appetite lost. Nausea; in evening; in evening, with eructation tasting of ingesta. Pain and soreness. Soreness in evening after tea, with throbbing in r. side of S. and bowels. Fluttering.

Abdomen.—Fluttering sensation (Crocus.). Colic, with desire for stool. Pain in groin; l. (Dios.); in groins, with weariness of lower limbs. Soreness in groins, as if in spermatic cords, with thrilling through penis and testes. Throbbing in r. hypochondrium (Apoc. c.); in l. groin; in l. groin in morning; sudden T. pain in l. groin.

Anus and Stool.—Prostration about anus. Ineffectual urging to stool. Diarrhoea in evening. Small, soft stool, with pain and constriction in anus. Dry S., with sore constrictive pain in anus. S. like balls, knotty and painful.

Urinary Organs.—Pain in bladder during micturition, with soreness in urethra and feeling as if the urine could not be retained; pain in B. after evacuation (Canth., Merc. c.), and in urethra, with stinging in penis. Pressure in neck of bladder; with soreness. Irritation of bladder in evening; l. during micturition. Urging to urinate. Stinging pain in urethra (Arn., Merc. c.). Throbbing in penis, with desire to urinate and pressure in bladder. Urine abundant, pale; and specific gravity decreased, full of mucous corpuscles and epithelium, afterwards urine scanty, full of mucus, dark-colored, two days afterwards pale, containing albumen, then dark, containing transparent waxy casts, afterwards a mass of epithelial cells adhering to each other (phosphates, oxalate of lime), afterwards dark, containing mucous cells and triple phosphates, specific gravity slightly increased, white mucous sediment, containing epithelium, triple phosphates and mucous casts from kidneys.

Clinical.—Bright's disease, the result of overwork.

Genital Organs.—Clinical.—Dysmenorrhœa, with chronic basic peritonitis and fluttering in abdomen; the fluttering in the abdomen and fluttering in r. ovary are the key notes to its use.

Respiratory Organs and Chest.—Breathing oppressed in evening, > sighing; as if pectoral muscles were contracting and a stretching would relieve, with the same sensation in dorsal muscles and in r. scapula. Shooting in pectoral muscles in region of heart. Pain in region of heart in evening; in r. side; in chest (œsophagus?). Painful soreness in sterno-mastoid process. Throbbing in sternum, with pain in pectoral muscles. Painful throbbings about shoulder and collar-bone.

Neck.—Pain prominently affecting upper part of trapeze muscle and extending to shoulders. Pain on moving head from one side to the other, with soreness in region of attachments of sterno-mastoid muscles, pain in neck continues in the evening. Stiffness.

Back.—Pain; < evening, and in region of kidneys; with weariness; with weariness in limbs; isolated throbbing, in r. side. Uneasiness, with prostration. Whole B. feels as if it would contract backward, and the muscles of the neck were affected. First dorsal vertebra sore to touch. Sudden pain about fourth and fifth dorsal vertebrae in evening, extending to r. side of chest and shoulders.

Loins.—Gnawing pain in region of kidneys. Pain across; after riding, extending to pectoral muscles and arms. Soreness; in lower part of spine, almost traceable to sciatic nerve. Weakness after walking, with pain. Weariness in back from coccyx upward, and dull pain in region of kidneys.

Extremities.—Inclination to stretch, especially arms, to relieve the weariness between scapulae and trapeze muscle. Weakness; in morning; < afternoon.

Upper Extremities.—Pain under r. axilla; extending to pectoral muscles. Painful soreness under arms. Cracking in l. shoulder. Soreness in shoulders and neck. Cracking in joints of l. arm. Isolated throbbing or shooting in arms. Isolated sore throbs in r. arm and under r. axilla. Weakness of arms; in evening; of r. arm from writing; of arms and wrists. Pain in deltoid of l. arm in evening; running along l. upper arm, becoming stationary; weary, in upper arm. Weakness in biceps, with soreness. Pain in l. elbow in morning. Throbbing and shooting pain in wrist. Soreness of l. wrist; with pain; of r. wrist, extending to elbow, as if in flexor carpi ulnaris; in fingers and thumb, with weakness of hands when writing.

Lower Extremities.—Cracking in joints when walking. Weakness from walking. Pain in thighs from walking; short sudden pains in thighs. Weakness extending from hip to knee. Sharp throbbings or shootings in knees, with cramplike contractions in muscles of thighs. Rheumatic moving aching in l. knee. Sore throbbing pains in knees; r. knee. Knees weak in evening. Throbbing sore pain in legs. Pain in lower part of legs. Weakness of legs in morning, more in l. than in r. thigh, with soreness in lower part of spine. Soreness on soles.

Skin, etc.—Itching; in face. Painful itching burning under big toes from walking, with itching of r. sole. Sleepiness; during the day, with constant yawning. Inability to fall asleep after waking. Restless sleep. Restless and sleepless night. Talking in sleep. Sleep full of dreams. Confused dreams. Chilliness; with shivering; and pulse 50; with heat in face. Cold sensation and tightness about scalp. Cold hands and feet.

Bromium.

Dilutions are prepared from a solution of one part of Bromine in ninety-nine of distilled water.

General Action.—The phenomena known as Bromism, produced by the bromides generally, is partially shadowed by our provings of pure Bromine; but our exact knowledge is imperfect. In Bromism we find intellectual weakness and melancholia; anaesthesia of mucous membranes, especially in throat and eyes, loss of sexual power, acne on the face, general paralysis. The effects of Bromine upon the larynx and trachea furnish most useful guides to its use in disease.

Affinities.—Iodine, Kali bi, Puls., Ant. crud., etc.

Generalities.—Embonpoint increased (Iod., emaciation). Cracking in joints in morning after rising. Clonic cramps in muscles of eyes, in face and limbs. Trembling. If introduced into a cut it becomes unhealthy-looking and green decay forms about it, with an offensive odor. Jerklike tearings through l. thumb at 6 P.M., in frontal bone, through r. great toe, in lower part of r. leg, in r. knee, with bruised pain when sitting in evening. Flesh feels loose and bruised on touch, especially on l. side of chest. Pressure in single joints and in pectoral and dorsal muscles. Indisposition; mental and physical.

Sensation of fasting, with heaviness in head and stiffness in muscles of neck. Restlessness. Weakness; all the afternoon and evening, with sleepiness, when walking; trembling, at night on waking; after breakfast, as if bruised. Stiffness of throat in afternoon, and of neck, arms and legs, with pain extending from occiput towards forehead, shooting and dragging as if everything would press out in forepart of head. Aggravation from evening till midnight (Iod.); in warm room (Iod.) and when sitting; on r. side; on l. side. Amelioration after eating (Iod.); during motion; on walking; when riding horseback and driving; from ammonia-gas and vapor of spirits of wine.

Clinical.—For scrofulous children with enlarged parotids.

Mind.—Illusions of fantasy, it seemed as if strange persons were looking over his shoulder. Obligated to look about him in evening when alone, and it seemed as if he would see an apparition. Anxiety. Apprehension in evening, with oppression of heart and headache. Fretfulness. Quarrelsome disposition. Taciturnity. Apathy, with weakness. Activity in business. Desire for mental labor. Aversion to his business. Indisposition for mental work. Disinclination to read. Disconcerted, with heat in head. Difficulty in fixing thoughts. Loss of ideas. Forgetfulness.

Head.—Aching; at 3 or 4 P.M., on appearance of menses; with here and there vertigo; in bones in damp weather, mostly in forehead and occiput; especially in forehead, alternating with pain in small of back; bursting pain, more on l. side; dizzy, in morning on waking, with general itehing, especially on chest and between shoulders. Confusion; with heaviness; especially in sinicput, with pressure on brows and root of nose, often affecting a spot above eyes, alternately in one or other side; as if a hoop were about it, causing vertigo. Sensation in brain soon after dinner (that was eaten with little appetite), as if apoplexy were imminent, a feeling as if he would loose his senses and have vertigo. Vertigo; as soon as he steps over running water, also with involuntary drawing of foot in direction of stream; < evening on lying down, with confusion of head; < damp weather; with feeling as if one would fall to the ground and flushes of heat; with nausea; with bleeding at nose, then headache; with tendency to fall backward.

Forehead.—Necessity to keep wrinkled. Stitching to lower jaw, thence into a hollow tooth, with throbbing in it. Tearing in bones. Boring in l. bone. Gnawing in bone. Raging over eyes. Pain; after dinner; on accession and during menstruation, with feeling on stooping as if eyes would fall out; in sinicput, < cough; in bones; in r., then l. bone; in bone in evening, with stitches in larynx; in bone, > open air; above eyes; deep in eyes, with sensitiveness of eyes when reading; over r. eye, with photophobia; with heaviness and heat; in morning affecting eyes; over l. eye, extending into sinicput, with heat and oppressive benumbing pain; in r. eminence; in r. anterior lobe of brain and in r. side of nasal bone; ranging from sinus to base of brain; intermittent; in sinicput in forenoon, as if everything would press outward; hot, in sinicput, extending inward at 9 A.M., throbbing and extending to maxillary bone; stupefied, < during rest, > riding; stupefied, over l. eye. Confusion. Heaviness; in sinciput in heat of sun.

Pressure in l. temporal bone; in l. temple, with vertigo in head; on vertex. Tearing in r. cranial bones. Stitches through r. side. Pain in l. side; extending to l. eye; from l. ear to l. temple, < stooping; throbbing, in l. side after drinking milk, > lying on r. side, with arms over his head. Drawing in l. side. Crawling beneath skin of occiput; tickling C. in l. half of head in afternoon, and on l. cheek. Tickling in r. side.

Clinical.—Migraine of left side, < stooping, especially after drinking milk.

Eyes.—Sunken. Inflammation; of r., with dimness and lachrymation. Stitches; through l. Pain in and above r., with inflammation of conjunctiva; paroxysmal, and in root of nose, as if extending from interior of brain towards vertex. Burning, with spasmodic closing of orbicularis and lachrymation. Lachrymation; of r. eye.

Conjunctiva dull and wrinkled. Distended tortuous vessels in conjunctiva bulbi, with stitches in lids. Biting in conjunctiva palpebrarum. Lids close as if sleepy. Increased moisture in canthi. Stitches in canthi; in r. inner; in l. lids when reading. Cutting in r. inner canthus, then in outer; in r. inner canthus, next day in l. inner. Biting in margins of lids. Heaviness of lids, with coldness of them. Sticking about orbits. Tickling in l. arcus superciliaris in afternoon.

Photophobia; with pressure on moving eyes. Vanishing of vision in evening when sitting and reading, as if caused by a wind. Vision of lightnings. A gray point before r. eye moving up and down with movement of the eye. Illusions as if all sorts of things jumped up on the ground before her.

Ear.—Stitches in r.; deep in r., with heat in ear and sensitiveness of head to cold air; behind l. Pain deep in r.; in r. in afternoon, with tickling on r. cheek; as if internal around ear in evening before sleep, in l., then r. Pressure above l. in morning as from a plug, then sticking in tip of tongue. Throbbing. Tickling in r. lavor aris, > scratching, and behind r. ear, on lobe of l.; on margin of r. Ringing in r. as if full of bells. Roaring, < l.; and in morning closed sensation in r. Rushing in r.; noise of distant R.

Nose.—Inflammatory affection, and of fauces and respiratory organs. Swelling in l. side and on pressure pain as if a boil were forming. Ulceration in l. nostril like a crust, with tickling under it. Soreness internally, with crusts; S., with swelling of wings, a scurf forms in it, with pain and bleeding on wiping it; and swollen feeling around lamella and then in wings, then crusts. Twitching in r. side. Pain on r. side of tip; in l. compressor nasi on pressure. Pressure on nasal and superior maxillary bones and in various places in frontal bones. Smarting beneath r. nostril. It seemed to him as if coryza would appear, with soreness in r. nostril as if he had pulled out some hairs, with dim eyes, pain in r. ribs and little appetite. Itching inside, with continued smell of Bromine. Tickling inside; in l., then in r. nostril; in l. side of tip. Stopped sensation; stoppage, with fluent coryza and lachrymation of r. eye.

Stopped by mucus. Obstinate coryza, with soreness beneath nose and on margin of nose (Iod.); C., with stoppage and soreness of r. nostril. Fluent coryza (Iod.), in which r. nostril is more affected and more stopped, then l.; fluent C., with violent sneezing and corrosive soreness under nose and on margin of nose (Iod.); with discharge from r. nostril and at same time stoppage of it. Much mucus, especially in posterior nares; much M. in afternoon, sometimes with streaks of blood; watery mucus streaked with blood, at other times dryness in nose; frequent blowing of thick M. Much tough white mucus, < r. nostril, at times pieces of tough yellow M. in both nostrils. Yellowish mucus, with yellowish expectoration. Crusts in morning; C. < r. nostril; in r. nostril, with bleeding after removal. Sneezing; shattering S., then stoppage. Bleeding on blowing; from l. nostril; from r.; from r. in morning; bleeding, with relief of chest and eye symptoms.

Clinical.—Coryza, with pressure at root of nose, internal soreness, watery, excoriating discharges, nose seems stopped.

Face.—Haggard. Pallor. Pain in l. zygoma, with stitches in ear, then same pain in r. side; in l. zygoma in evening, then stitches in l. ear, then pain in r. zygoma. Hot unpleasant sensation, especially below nose, tickling smarting as from cobwebs, especially on moving nose, with fluent coryza and lachrymation of r. eye. Tension in l. cheek, extending to lower jaw, at times with pain extending into l. ear. Sensation of heat in cheeks, < r., then in l.

Lip.—Soreness of upper, with desquamation and coryza. Pain in upper as if it had burst, with yellowish spots beneath epithelium, containing yellowish fluid and extending almost to r. corner of mouth. Stretched feeling in middle of upper, and in neighboring part of nose. Burning in upper, with very smooth feeling. Tickling in r. corner in afternoon; T. in upper part of r. side of upper, > scratching, but returning.

Jaw.—Boring in r. lower. Pressure as from a dull body in front of l. joint, but deep in, extending towards lowest fossa of l. nostril, as if in Eustachian tube, on swallowing the motion of the superior muscles of the pharynx changes this sensation for a moment. Peculiar sensation of beginning pain in l. upper.

Mouth.—Teeth. Pain; in l.; in hollow; in r. hollow tooth and in l. upper eye tooth; in l. lower hollow tooth from blowing coals; > pressure; painful sensation in l. upper hollow T. as if toothache would develop; especially in a l. lower hollow tooth, and the anterior half of the hollow T. pains as if sore when touched and seems to be loose. Sensitiveness of a hollow T. to cold water. Elongated sensation in a hollow T. when biting. Throbbing beneath hollow T. Drawings in hollow T. Bluntness. Pain in gum.

Tongue.—Inflammation. Pimples posteriorly on r. side. Stitches in tip; then suddenly disappearing tickling. Dry sensation. Burning on under surface, with stitches; B. under, as from pepper; acrid, extending to stomach, causing nausea, salivation and difficult, painful respiration. Inability to protrude.

Inflammation of buccal cavity. Dryness. Sensation as after a glass of rum, and in pharynx. Smarting on arches of palate, with sore pain. Heat; to stomach, with internal dryness in larynx; and in pharynx and stomach, with increased secretion of mucus, nausea, eructations and colic. Salivation; with constrictive sensation in orifice of salivary glands; with increased mucus in mouth and nose; thin.

Taste.—Scraping. Disagreeable. Nauseous, offensive. Bitter at tip of tongue. Burning. Peculiarly puckered, burning and offensive. Sour. Sweetish. Salt on tip of tongue; S. to water in morning fasting.

Throat.—Pain in submaxillary glands; in l. Redness of fauces and uvula; of fauces, tonsils covered with mucus, scraping-sticking rawness, swelling of tonsils. Inflammation of fauces and uvula, < morning, with dry cough caused by irritation of elongated uvula, with yellow thick nasal mucus streaked with blood, without sneezing or blowing nose. Spasms of muscles of deglutition and respiration.

Stitches; with lachrymation and flow of saliva; S. in glands at side of frænum of tongue; near frænum of tongue, with secretion of thin saliva, then coldness in tip of tongue, with salivation; deep, with scratching. Feeling as if a small body were in fauces, causing hawking. Scraping; towards evening, with dryness; with a rough, deep voice; with frequent hawking of scanty mucus; causing hawking. Soreness. Rawness; in pharynx; in evening, with stitches and tickling in larynx, lachrymation and feeling as if larynx were laced together. Burning from pharynx into stomach; in pharynx, with scraping, so violent that there were twitchings in face and hands, with nausea and forcible empty retchings. Puckering. Nauseating puckered sensation; then burning and sore sensation. Swallowing painful, < morning, with dark redness of œsophagus.

Clinical.—Diphtheria and enlarged parotids, which finally suppurate. In diphtheria, symptoms of the disease invading the larynx. Goitre.

Stomach.—Desire for acids, which aggravate symptoms (Ant. cr.) and cause diarrhœa. Appetite diminished; lost. Aversion to the customary tobacco-smoking, it causes nausea and vertigo. Thirst; in afternoon. Aversion to drinking cold water. Eructations; with vomiting of much mucus; with rumbling in abdomen; empty; like foul eggs. Hiccough. Nausea; towards evening, > after eating, without ability to vomit; with eructations, rawness in throat, salivation, slow pulse and congestion of chest; in epigastric region.

Inflammation, with suggillations like ulceration. Sticking in pit from 8 to 11 A.M., extending to navel, < deep pressure and it generally seems deeper than stomach. Contractive cramp at 11.30 A.M., > after eating. Pain; < pressure; in epigastric region, < pressure, > bending forward, with distended abdomen and flushes of heat starting from back; with rumbling in abdomen; and in r. hypochondrium, with full sensation; extending to navel and below short ribs; rising into œsophagus; intermittent; burning; as before diarrhœa, then liquid stool, with urging. Pressure as with a stone; with internal heat. Heaviness. Emptiness; > after eating, for which he had no longings. Warmth; with confusion in forehead; W., with salivation.

Abdomen.—Tympanitic distention and passage of much wind. Rumbling. Sounds of gas, and in œsophagus. Sticking before menstruation, > lying bent. Griping. Pinching after tobacco-smoking, > pressure, < sudden motion, when sitting bent and pressing upon it he noticed the pain only during expiration. Pain; gradually moving downward; as during menstruation, and in small of back, with passage of much flatus, as was the case during menstruation. Warmth, with accelerated pulse.

Hypochondria.—Stitches; in l.; deep in l.; from r. to l.; from liver towards navel. Cutting deep in both, < pressure, especially on l. side, with diarrhœa. Painful pressure upon H. Pain in l.; in region of spleen, extending towards spinal column; in liver; in region of liver, < pressure and riding, with distention and hardness of r., and feeling as if a hard body were sinking down there. Sensation of a ball in l. Sensitiveness to pressure, and in epigastric region, with flow of saliva. Pulsation in r. in evening. Pain in region of gall-bladder, < pressure and < a few hours after eating, afterwards > pressure, stooping and fasting, sometimes with painful breathing and distention of abdomen by gas, it extends on deep breathing to navel.

Cutting in umbilical region after eating, < pressure. Pain in U. region, < retracting abdomen. Twitching in l. side. Sticking on l. side of umbilicus, on inner surface of wall of abdomen, morning and evening, < pressure, and in evening cutting deep in region of umbilicus, < pressure, with stitches extending towards rectum, to neck of bladder and along r. spermatic cord. Twitching in l. side. Pain in l. side; deep in l. side of umbilicus, < pressure; in l. side, becoming a dragging towards inguinal ring.

Swelling of r. inguinal glands (Iod.). Stitches in anterior spine of crest of l. ilium. Boring posteriorly in crest of l. ilium. Pain in crest of r. ilium; in l. inguinal ring; in l. inguinal canal, < walking, pressure and cough.

Rectum.—Tenesmus during stool. Urging to stool at 2 P.M. after the natural morning stool, with passage of much more wind than feces; frequent U., with passage of flatus and stitches in anus.

Anus.—Hæmorrhoids. Stitches. Ineffectual tenesmus. Tickling. Itching-crawling, as from something living.

Clinical.—Intensely painful hæmorrhoids.

Stool.—Fluid. Thin and frequent. Diarrhœa, > black coffee; bright yellow, preceded by cutting and rumbling; mucous, with much wind. Hard. Like sheep-dung, brown and glistening; like sheep-dung, with pressure in stomach and abdomen. Constipated, then two each day, thinner and more copious than usual. Frequent; at night.

Urinary Organs.—Pain in region of bladder and in its sides, with desire to urinate. Desire to urinate, with tickling in tip of urethra. Frequent calls to urinate. Very little desire to urinate. Pressure in prostate gland when walking. Dribbling after urinating. A drop of burning urine after urinating.

Urethra.—Discharge of drops of clear mucus. Stitches; in orifice; extending towards its orifice. Burning after urinating. Pulsation behind testicles.

Urine increased. Scanty; and dark; dark and turbid, with red sediment; dark and turbid, with whitish sediment adhering to vessel. Contains large flakes of white mucus. Becomes cloudy after an hour and ammoniacal.

Sexual Organs.—Stitches in glans; in tip; in sides and root of penis, extending through penis to glans. Pinching in penis in evening, more on r. side. Erections in morning; from 3 to 8 o'clock. Stitches in l. spermatic cord. Pressure in r. spermatic cord.

Swelling of l. testicle, with sore pain. Increased firmness of testicles. Coldness of l. testicle. Desire increased. Emissions at night; E. early during coition. Loud passage of flatus from vagina. Sore pain in pudenda. Clear blood with menses. Menstruation too early; and too profuse; delayed. Membranous dysmenorrhœa.

Clinical.—Membranous dysmenorrhœa; spasmodic contractions. Loud emissions of flatus from the vagina, with dysmenorrhœa. Chronic inflammation of the ovaries. Tumors in mammary gland.

Respiratory Organs.—Larynx. Mucus, causing hawking. Stitches; at night, with itching; posteriorly on swallowing saliva, with feeling of contraction; with pressure; with lachrymation. Scraping in evening, provoking dry cough (Puls.); and rawness, provoking hawking. Scratching. Pain in l. side as if crushed. Constriction; sticking. Cold sensation, with a cold feeling when inspiring, after breakfast, > after shaving. Tickling, then cough; T., with irritation to cough, constriction deep in throat, dry cough, coppery taste on arch of palate, spasmodic sensation, extending downward from throat, dry cough in evening, and scraping in throat. Spasmodic closure of glottis. Contracted sensation in trachea, or feeling as if pit of throat were pressed against trachea. Tickling in trachea on inspiration, causing cough. Dryness of trachea. Hoarseness; loss of voice, voice weak and soft in evening, with raw feeling in throat; < in afternoon, then in forenoon.

Cough on deep inspiration; C. < during the day; with paroxysms of suffocation suddenly (Ipec.) on swallowing; racking, preventing speech; violent, with sensation of sulphur fumes, then confusion of head and headache; rough, and hollow and dry, with fatigue; hacking. Dry cough, in morning; from tickling rawness in throat; with pain in l. side of chest; with stitches extending from l. nipple into l. side of chest. Short C., without expectoration, with sore pain in chest.

Respiration.—Oppressed (Ipec.). Difficult; he cannot inspire sufficient air, > walking, even rapidly, and in evening and night, < morning. Short, obliged to catch for breath (Kali cyan.); S. and quick; and difficult, with prolonged inspiration and mucous râle. Deep forcible inspirations necessary from time to time. Spasmodic. Frequent, deep. Deep breathing becomes a yawning; D. expirations now and then; frequent D. expirations when sitting. Impeded by pressure in pit of stomach, as from pressure on lower end of sternum; inspiration as from impediment in middle of chest.

Clinical.—Croup, diphtheritic; croup idiopathic. In croup Brom. is rarely indicated in the early stage; but when the febrile symptoms have subsided, the patient is weak, perspiring, has a hard, tight cough, which is spasmodic, with suffocative attacks and sometimes rattling of mucus in larynx; the element of spasm generally indicates the drug. It follows well after Iodine. The choice is generally between Kali bich., Ipec. and Brom.; these are adapted to the same stage of the disease. Spasmodic croup symptoms, starting up as if choked, > drinking; every inspiration provokes cough. Asthma in suffocative attacks, it seems as if the breathing were hindered by spasmodic constriction. In pneumonia, for suffocative attacks, cannot expectorate. Asthma > at sea.

Chest.—Swelling of mamma. Stitches; here and there in wall; in r. side, < rapid walking; in r. side between sixth and seventh ribs at 6 P.M.; in r. side beneath fourth rib, with palpitation; in l.; in l., below ribs; in l., extending towards arm; in upper part, with difficult breathing and sensation of distention; in lungs on attempt to breathe deeply, with cough, pulse full and hard, in beginning slow, afterwards rapid. Tearing in l. clavicle. Pressure upon; on deep inspiration; in r.; in l. pectoral muscles; in wall below r. nipple; in upper part; below l. clavicle; in sternum, with lassitude; intermitted, outward in spots in r. wall in evening, < motion of thorax.

Pain during cough; P. under ribs, < pressure, more in r. side; in l. side; in l. by fourth rib; under l. ribs, < lying bent and in night; in l. side during cough, extending inward from nipple; in l. lung; in r. lung; in r. wall on waking; in r. side beneath ribs, < pressure; in r. between seventh and ninth ribs, < motion; in r. side, gradually extending towards back; in r. side, < morning and evening, lifting a light weight with r. hand and by walking, on account of increased motion of pectoral muscles, < moving thorax after rest, and on waking, afterwards less when walking than when sitting, at times changing to r. dorsal muscles and then < by expiration; wandering, in l. on waking, < bending shoulders forward, with slight flexion of upper part of chest, or by turning thorax on its axis, thus seeming to be in muscles, then extending to r. side of chest, then leaving l. and continuing in r. Paralytic drawing pain through l. towards scapula and into l. arm.

Anxiety, with difficult breathing. Constriction, impeding respiration, with dry tickling cough. Tension. Fulness increasing till noon, continuing till evening, and in throat, with feeling as if a soft substance were between lungs and sternum. Congestion. Burning, then ineffectual retching. Tickling in region of r. eighth rib; in r. side, in region sixth rib, in afternoon. Peculiar exhaustion.

Heart.—Severe beats when standing, > deep inspiration. Palpitation; in evening, < lying on l. side; when walking; on rising from a chair; with forcible inspiration; with oppression around heart, sensation as if the inspired air were cold, and with tendency to yawn.

Clinical.—Hypertrophy of heart, palpitation, suffocation.

Pulse.—Rapid; and tense. Slow and hard; and full then rapid. Full.

Neck.—Swollen gland on each side. Stiffness in morning; on l. side and pain on turning head.

Back.—Twitching in l. latissimus dorsi. Pain before menstruation, with weakness and want of appetite. Creeping down. Sticking tickling in spine, more towards r. side. Boring in spinous processes of dorsal vertebra. Pressure in l. dorsal muscles. Wandering pressive pain in dorsal muscles below scapulae. Tension in r. lumbar and dorsal muscles, < moving these parts. Sore pain in small of B.

Extremities.—Pains; alternating with chilliness and heat. Compression in upper arm and in forepart of both knees. Stiffness at 11 A.M., > in afternoon.

Upper Extremities.—Constriction. Stitches in r. axilla; burning, on top of r. shoulder-joint. Pain in r. shoulder; in joint; below S.; in l. shoulder-joint, with weariness; bruised, in l. S. then in r. elbow; rheumatic constricting, in r. S. when walking in street, extending into arm; painful paralytic sensation in l. S., then in r. S. joint.

Arm.—Tearing in evening, especially in hands and fingers. Restlessness and jactitation. Weakness; of l. Paralytic feeling in l.; as after a blow, in afternoon on holding it bent while walking, with ill humor.

Cracking in l. elbow. Sticking in inner condyle of r. elbow. Sensation from wrists to a little below elbows as if in a vise, then sticking in fingers, which extends towards head. Pressure in l. forearm; in l. wrist. Trembling of hands. Pain in r. hand, once shooting into middle finger, with throbbing pain. Pressure in metacarpal bone of r. index.

Fingers.—Stitches; on back of joint between first and second phalanges of l. fourth all the forenoon; on back of r. little, with red spots; burning, in tip of l. index. Tearing; in first phalanges of r. fourth and fifth; through l. fourth and in r. third and fourth; in middle joint of l. middle oblique extension of fingers; T. asunder pain between metacarpus and first phalanx of r. thumb. Pressure in roots of l.; on back of joint between first and second phalanges of r. fourth. Compression at bases of l. fourth and fifth. Dead pain in all joints of l., extending to elbow and shoulder, with pain in upper and lower part of arm. Stiffness of r. so that she is afraid of letting the dish fall which she is holding.

Lower Extremities.—Knee. Twitching in inner side of r. Pain; in bone of r.; in bend of r.; in r. and downward, with heaviness in r. leg; in l.; in forepart of l.; in l. in morning, < motion, and in l. hip; rheumatic, in l.; burning, in l. Throbbing in forepart of r. while sitting.

Leg.—Gnawing in tibia; sudden G. in forepart of leg, extending to r. side, or sawing pain. Boring in r. tibia; in l. T.; in lower part of l. T. Pressure in r. tibia; in head of r. T.; deep in l. leg; deep in l. leg, extending into foot, with weariness. Pain deep in leg while sitting, l. then r. Throbbing pain in evening on going out, especially in r., with stiffness as far as foot, and with stiffness and pain in r. great toe and in middle toes. Fatiguing pain in bones of l. Weakness of l. Paralytic sensation in r.

Ankle.—Pressure in r.; in l. and anteriorly in bones of r. tarsus and bones on back of r. foot; in r. internal malleolus.

Foot.—Tearing in tendons on back of r. Pressure on back of l. Pain in middle of ball of l. in evening, as from stepping on a hard body, with paralyzed feeling in knee and hip, then aching in l. side of throat near thyroid cartilage. Drawing in tendons on back of r. Tension in tendons on back of r. on bending ankle while walking.

Toes.—Cutting in flesh near nail of great; on back of l. fourth. Pain in r.; in r. fourth in evening; in tip of r. fourth, with tickling on forehead and pain on inner side of r. knee; in a corn on r. little, with rapid growth. Burning and pain in a corn on r. fourth and beneath its ball.

Skin.—Yellow. Bluish in many parts. Red spots on back of l. hand, more towards thumb and index, disappearing and reappearing, sometimes itching, sometimes changing to vesicles, which leave red spots. Destruction, with burning, then inflammation. Boils on arms and face. Pimples on nose and posteriorly on r. side of tongue; about r. inner canthus, with pain on touch and watery discharge when pricked; in suture before anus, with pain on pressure and < rubbing; on r. ring finger, on lower part of ulnar side of third phalanx.

Stitches on malar-bone; on larynx. Pricking changing to burning and dryness. Cutting on ball of r. great toe. Sensation of something living, especially in arms and legs. Crawling below l. nostril, then on r. cheek; of l. great toe, with coldness in it, waking at night; in fingers and short twitches in muscles of foot and in region of knee; tickling, in l. cheek, also in middle of l. cheek. Tickling, > scratching; T. on r. side of forehead and on l. side of occiput; on l. cheek and l. side of head; on l. malar-bone in afternoon; on r. cheek, > scratching; on r. shoulder; on lower limbs; on outer side of l. thigh in afternoon; below r. kneecap, > scratching. Itching, > scratching; above r. external canthus; between fingers; in various places, but reappearing; l. now here, now there, mostly on r. side of face; tickling, in spots, now on r. side, now on l.

Clinical.—Foul ulcers.

Sleep.—Yawning; in morning; all day, with difficult breathing; on full inspiration; with heat in face and nose. Sleepiness; in evening when reading, with inability to sleep; in evening when writing, with confusion of head, sensation as if scalp were too tight or as if a band were around head, and pain in shoulder; with weakness and great inclination to sit down, yet he feels better when moving about. Sleep very sound. Prolonged, unrefreshing sleep in morning; prolonged, in morning, as if stupid, then sluggishness. Light sleep. Sleeplessness. Sleeps with her mouth open. Starting in sleep; and twitchings. Restless, dreamy sleep.

Dreams of nothing but dying, coffins and funerals. Vivid D. and wide awake on waking; V., of journeyings, climbings, quarrels and fights, with distinct recollection on waking; of ascending a height; of descending a steep place, with leaving the bed, but waking when his feet touched the cold floor.

Fever.—Chilliness; on motion in evening; with confusion of head and headache extending into l. eye. Shivering; with yawning and stretching, as in intermittent fever, with confusion of head, drawing in l. tibia down to ankle, whereby the foot becomes cold, this is repeated every other day, as a chilliness, with cold feet. Cold, unpleasant drawing through whole body, with rapid alternations of warmth, at first in l. hand and side. Sensitiveness to cold air; with coldness running through back into legs, < walking. Coldness in back at 3 p.m., and in limbs; in back when sitting; over back now and then, with cold hands and feet; creeping over back; drawing down back; shivering drawing down back. Cold and moist hands. Cold finger-tips. Cold sensation in l. great toe.

Burning internally at 9 a.m., then it seems between skin and flesh; in whole body during moderate manual labor, then clammy sweat in evening; internal, in forenoon, as if in a hot vapor, yet without sweat. Heat rising into head now and then; H. in forehead and chest; in occiput; in face; in nose and on l. cheek; in l. ear, as from a coal or hot water, in evening. Heat in back, extending over body; in back, extending into head and face; in forepart of r. shoulder-joint; in hands; in hands and head, with coldness in rest of body; of r. hand, with fulness as if distended; in feet; in feet, with coldness of rest of body.

Sweat on slight movement; S. in palms; cold and clammy.

Bryonia.

A tincture is prepared from the fresh root of Bryonia alba, L.

General Action.—In large doses a violent hydragogue cathartic. It also (like its botanical ally, Colocynthis) produces sharp pains. It causes inflammation of various organs, particularly of serous membranes and lungs, and gives rise to a fever of a rather low type. Its marked peculiarity is a disinclination to make any effort and great aggravations from motion of any sort.

Analogues.—Iodine, Bell., Verat. v., Colch., Led., Coloc., Lyc., Arn., Phos., Carbo v., Sulph.

Generalities.—Unsteadiness of all parts of body when walking, < after rising from a seat and on beginning to walk, > continued walking. Trembling of the part on disappearance of the pain, with coldness of face. Anxious tossing about of hands and feet until 1 A.M., she lies as if unconscious, with cold sweat on forehead, with sighing, then weakness. Convulsions, with tonic contractions of extremities, opisthotonos, immobility of thorax and on inspiration remarkable depression of pit of stomach.

Stitches; in joints on motion and on touch; over whole body; in affected parts upon pressure; here and there, especially in r. eye and l. arm; jerking, here and there, on vertex, wrists and elbows, especially in places on forehead, with sensitiveness of teeth; in evening in anterior and posterior direction through middle of chest and above navel. Tearing across forehead, then in cervical muscles, then in r. arm; in head and limbs, afterwards in chest and abdomen; in r. shoulder, in knees and toes; in various parts, especially in toes and r. shoulder, with feeling as if motion were difficult. Bruised or suppurating pain in whole body when taken hold of (Arn.), especially in pit of stomach, and < morning; B. feeling in morning, especially in r. hip, with lame feeling.

Pressing in whole body, especially on chest. Pains in every part, < on r. side; in teeth and limbs, < lying down and last till sleep; in joints, < after walking; in several parts, in metacarpus, metatarsus, ribs and clavicles; here and there in body when walking, and in l. knee, l. hip and in loins; during rest, are > after motion, others arise during motion and are < during rest; wandering, gradually becoming seated in l. shoulder; over whole body, as if the flesh were too loose.

Drawing pains here and there; especially in sinewy expansions; at 10 P.M. in bed, wandering through all limbs and joints, especially in l. middle ribs, where it caused stitches, impeding respiration; in periosteum of all bones in forenoon, causing apprehension, as in onset of ague. In almost all limbs and joints, with tension, the pain most sensitive in l. wrist, now in knees, now ankles and neck, remaining longest in l. shoulder-joint, with sensation of paralysis (during motion), afterwards the same pains also in neck, with drawing scraping in long bones, combined with stitches. Drawing rheumatic pains in various parts at different times during the day, especially at insertion of l. ligamentum patellæ, anteriorly on r. leg and in nape. Drawing in lumbar region and in temporal bones, < after eating, with pressing; in temporal muscles, and in muscles of upper arm and here and there in body; painless, back and forth in affected parts.

(Painful throbbing in all vessels.) Anxiety in morning, which seemed to rise from abdomen, as if a purge had been taken and as if the breathing were too short. Attack as if the ailment rose up and took away breath and speech. General sick feeling. Discomfort, with weariness, so that even the clothes were oppressive. Lameness; with desire to keep quiet. Soreness of old bruises; in morning of every part on which he lies. Sensibility < in evening. Necessity to bend forward when walking. Restlessness; of affected part.

Weariness; in morning; on rising, < in forenoon while walking (Phos.), so that he drags himself about, with weakness in knees and legs on ascending stairs; in morning on waking, > rising and dressing; in morning after rising, with heaviness; in forenoon; in afternoon; in afternoon, then two liquid stools without tenesmus; towards evening; on slightest exertion, also with general sweat; on waking; when sitting, > walking; when walking; when walking in a room, > walking in open air; walking in open air, < ascending steps; > a hearty supper; with aching in arms and legs, with sinking down of arms if she works, and with difficulty in ascending steps; with anxiety; as if quickly cooled by a rain after a fatiguing, heated walk, at 4 P.M., in the house, on approach of a storm, with chilliness, bruised sensation and wandering pains, as after taking a similar cold.

Faintness on rising from bed, with cold sweat and rumbling in abdomen. Does not like open air as well as formerly. Aggravation on every motion; A. after waking from midday sleep, with ill humor. Amelioration in evening from emission of flatus; A. while lying. Disappearance of symptoms after a short rest in bed, except the weakness and depressed mood.

Mind.—Delirious; talking about his business; prattling about business to be attended to (Op.), at day-break, > when the pain begins; D. talk at night; talking on waking. Furious delirium, then coma, with occasional subsultus tendinum. Delirious, frightful fantasy at 10 P.M. of soldiers cutting him down, he was on the point of escaping, with heat and sweat (without thirst), the delirium > uncovering and getting cool. Attempts to escape from bed (Bell.). Mental illusion, her head seems too heavy. Nervous excitement; at noon.

Anxiety, apprehension for the future; anxiety in evening on lying down, from constriction of chest; > open air; in whole body, forcing him to do something constantly. Ill humor (Rhus t.), with needless anxiety. Everything puts him out of humor. Ill humor during and after a meal; after a meal, with discomfort. Irritable, weeping mood; (and desire to be alone). Fretful, she imagines that she cannot accomplish her work, constantly takes up the wrong piece, is inclined to take another, then aching in forehead. Angry at contradiction. Quarrelsome. Inclined to scold. Taciturn. Hesitating. Discontented. Despondent; (and disinclined to think, with exhausted mental power); afterwards cheerful. Over-busy. Indolent.

Weakness of mind; so that his ideas disappear, as if he would faint, < standing, with heat in face. Imagination sluggish, it is impossible to make plans for the future, but the judgment is unimpaired. Thoughts vanish suddenly on attentive reading. Want of memory, with loss of reflective powers. Unconsciousness of what she is doing (in a room), < when lying; of what she is doing (in a room), everything falls from her hands.

Head.—Stitches through on stepping hard, mostly from before backward; through H. when coughing. It goes through the head when coughing. Pressure on coughing; (on stepping). Aching; in morning; beginning in morning on first opening and moving eyes; in morning on waking, also especially in upper part of forehead, extending after rising to supraorbital region, > afternoon; in forenoon, especially in forehead and vertex; in afternoon, more on one side, with pain in eye of same side; towards evening, with incipient coryza; after eating, and on walking pressing outward in forehead; < touch, mostly in forepart; < riding; on waking, especially over l. eye, after rising the pain extended towards vertex and occiput; in morning after rising, a twitching drawing in malar and maxillary bones; more a twitching than a throbbing, with hot face; as from a weight in head, as if he would incline it to either side, with pressure outward in brain and desire to lie down; as if brain were too full and pressed asunder, < sitting; as if something pressed skull asunder, pulsating; as from compression, before daylight, < raising eyes, with heaviness and stitches in it and inability to rise; pressing together, with jerks in brain like pulsation; throbbing, more rapid on motion, she thinks she hears it, affecting eyes so that she cannot see well; oppressive, in afternoon; stupefying, in evening.

Confusion; in morning; in morning on waking, with aching, as after intoxication, with disinclination to rise; in forenoon; after rising from bed; before sleep, with drawing in occiput extending into neck; while riding over a rough road; after eating, with heaviness; < walking, > sitting quietly; > moving in open air; > empty eructations; till sleep; with pain in forehead; and pain in temples; with pain in various places, now in temples, now in occiput, now in forehead; sudden; as if in a vise; dizzy; increasing to aching, especially in l. temple, the pain < at 5 P.M., accompanied then by nauseous vomiting, sensitiveness of smell and hissing in l. ear as of boiling water, all > riding in a wagon.

Stupefaction. Dulness, with difficulty in reflecting. Fulness, < turning head. Heaviness; with pressure forward of whole brain; dizzy, on sitting (stooping) and reading, > raising head. Lightness, with wabbling in ears. Rush of blood; then pressing together of temples. Felt as if drunk and would lie down.

Vertigo; in morning on waking, with weakness; in forenoon; on raising head (Phos.), from inclining it forward; on turning head; after eating; while walking, with reeling of all objects and prostration; with fulness of head; with weakness in limbs; in morning on rising, as if head were turning in a circle; on rising from a chair, everything turns, > after walking; in afternoon as if brain were turning around; like a whirling if she sits up in bed, with nausea in middle of chest as if faintness would ensue (Phos.); when standing, as if everything whirled about; so that he nearly fell backward at 8 P.M. on standing; as from drunkenness and as from rush of blood to head; in attacks while walking in open air, > sitting down; sudden, towards noon; sudden, after having a tooth extracted.

Forehead.—Stitches; to occiput; above r. brow; in forepart, with confusion of head; itching, in r. muscles. Digging in forepart of brain, < stooping and rapid walking, with fatigue from walking. Pain; in forenoon; in evening; after continued reading; < stooping; < motion, and in occiput; after motion, especially towards brows; above l. eye, then in occipital protuberances, spreading thence over whole body, the pain becoming so severe on quick motion and after eating that it seemed like a pulsation in head. Pain in l. side and in occiput, with tension in r. side of neck below mastoid process at 4 P.M. Pain as if everything would press out; on stooping, as if everything would fall out; as if pressing outward from above downward, < evening on stooping, and in l. eyeball. Pressure outward on stooping, with stitches; outward over l. orbit, extending into brain, changing to a pressure on eyeball from above inward. Constrictive pain in afternoon after a nap, > washing with cold water, with heaviness in head. Drawing pain, with confusion of head; D. pain in sinciput and pressure in occiput; above r. eyebrow; over r. eye, then in diseased r. eyetooth, then the headache returned and spread over forehead; in r. eminence at 6 P.M., with tension and posteriorly on r. parietal bone, then alternating with the same pain in same places on l. side; in l. side in morning; in l. half above eyebrow, with tension, also as if a bud slowly unfolded in forehead; intermittent, over l. eyebrow. Drawing distending pain in l. half of F. and occiput while walking about room. Throbbing pain, so that he must lie down; hollow, and in occiput. Pain as from a burn over l. eye, > pressure, and on l. side of nose. Compression above eyes. Pressive sensation in sinciput without pain. Confusion. Tension in muscles under skin on moving eyes. Whirling in r. side, with a stitch in l. side of it.

Temples.—Stitches through, on walking in open air; sudden, to forehead; twitching, sometimes extending over l. parietal region. Tearing; sometimes extending to occiput, sometimes to petrous portion of temporal bones, and frequently changing its position. Pain; and in frontal region, alternating with pain in finger and wrist-joints, and with griping in abdomen; in r.; r. then l. Pressing-out pain; l.; from both T. towards forehead. Pressing together in bones, alternating with drawing pain in occipital protuberances. Throbbing outward pain towards T. on going to bed. Pain as if pulled by the hair. Intermittent drawing pain near l. eye. Drawing in bones towards zygoma, < l., afterwards this returned and extended to l. jaw; in both towards malar-bones; in l., with pressing; then copious pasty stools. Tensive twisting pain in single muscle fibres of r. Gurgling.

Vertex.—Increase of pain under V., with soreness of scalp over the same, and bruised soreness of vertex. Throbbing pain in morning on waking. Beating, with beating and fulness in cerebellum. Burning pain in a spot. Weight. Dull motions, and in forehead, causing vertigo and cessation of ideas.

Sides.—Throbbing in r., perceptible to hand. Stitch deep in l. side of brain on coughing. Tearing; l.: in r. parietal bone as by a sharp hook. Digging in a spot in r. half of brain, extending down along both jaw-bones, or tearing, with pain in a submaxillary gland. Pain above and behind l. ear; throbbing-drawing pulsating, in parietal bone, extending to forehead; sudden drawing-throbbing, in r. parietal eminence in forenoon, > pressure; pressing-together, on both. Sensation as if pressed together from both ears.

Occiput.—Pain; in l. lower part at 4 P.M., < touch; > towards noon, with drawing down into neck, but in afternoon pressure in temporal bones and frequently in forehead and occiput; sharp P. in l. protuberance, coming and going suddenly; tensive, in both sides.

Pain like a heaviness which pressed upon a sore spot in morning when lying on back, extending to shoulders. Pressure in both sides; on l. side, with sticking in l. heel. Soreness to touch on one side. Numbness, with enlarged feeling.

Scalp.—Hair seems fatty in morning and hands become fatty while combing. Drawn tightly and sensitive. Sensitive towards evening. Sensation as if posterior half were spasmodically contracted, which caused tension in anterior half. Smarting erosion on occiput at night. Crawling on both sides of ears, with creeping. Itching; while combing.

Clinical.—The headaches of Bryonia are all aggravated by motion, even of eyeballs. The pains either begin in the occiput or finally become seated in the occiput, frequently associated with dryness of the mouth, thirst and coated tongue; the headaches are rarely neuralgic, but are generally sympathetic with gastric disorders or with inflammatory affections. Meningitis from suppressed eruptions.

Eyes.—Sudden swelling of one, with pain, discharge of pus, and the conjunctiva is dark red and swollen. Aching all about r. in evening in open air, especially on lower margin of orbit. Pain as if burnt, extending outward into l. Pressure; with burning itching in lids; painful, < r., with redness and swelling of lids; as from a hand or as from a room full of smoke, in morning on waking. Sensation as of sand in r., in afternoon. Biting as of sand (?), which causes rubbing. Burning of r., with lachrymation.

Lachrymation; in open air; with redness of white of eye and agglutination of external canthus; with itching of lids. Intermittent pain in l. ball, < moving ball, with feeling as if the eye became smaller and were retracted within orbit. Pressure on ball, more from above downward. Throbbing in r. ball. Pupils dilated.

Lids.—Swelling of r. upper; of lower, with pain; in morning, with agglutination; < r., with redness; with redness and pressure. Redness of lower, with inflammation of it and twitching of upper. Twitching drawing together in l. upper, with heaviness. Twitching of r. upper; of upper and of r. eye. Agglutination in morning; with burning biting in r. canthi; in morning, and after forcible opening vision as through a veil. Feel agglutinated in morning, red and swollen, and feel as if rubbed and heated. Pressure above lids towards evening. Burning of r. Itching on border of l. upper, with burning and tearing; sticking, on margin of r., > scratching; sticking, below r. upper, as from a stiff hair, > rubbing.

Canthi.—Sore pain in l. internal, with smarting. Burning in external, on touch. Itching in r. inner, < by rubbing, which causes lachrymation; in l. external, not > rubbing, with biting. Itching-biting in l. external; in l. internal, as from sand, at 3 P.M.

Orbits.—Stitches in brows; in upper border of r. O., with heaviness in eye and itching on lid. Drawing pinching in r. brow, with itching in l. brow. Aching in l., with pulsation; A. deep in r., < pressure on ball; in supraorbital ridge in a spot of the size of a needle; in r. supraorbital region, extending to l. side; contractive, in muscles of r. brow.

Vision misty; in l. eye. Weak in morning, letters run together if she attempts to read. Presbyopia. Flickering before r. eye on looking out of the window after a moderate dinner, then every object seemed covered with rainbow colors, on closing the eye appearance of a jagged, broken iridescent stripe, which on keeping the eye closed a long time became of a blinding white color, then weakness of eye, then photophobia and confusion of head.

Clinical.—Congestion and soreness of the eye (sympathetic). Inflammation of the eye, especially of internal parts, iritis, chloriditis, glaucoma, etc., the eyeball very painful, full feeling, pains extending to back of head.

Ears.—Discharge of blood. Stitches; now in one, now in other, on going into open air and on entering house; in r. meatus auditorius; (on convex surface of r., when touched). Pressure on cartilage of r.; in r. concha. Sensation as if a finger were pressed into external meatus, < stooping to read. Pain about l.; drawing, in r.; constrictive, in meatus auditorius, at first > removing wax, but always returning with difficult hearing; as if burnt, extending out at l. ear. Stopped sensation. (Sensitiveness of whole union with skull); and of border of ear.

(Sensitiveness extends from convex to concave surface, with redness of latter, heat of ear, swelling of external meatus, pain in convex surface, stitches piercing deep into ear, diminished hearing, ringing, difficulty in chewing, pain in bony parts about ear, inability to lie on r. side at night, next day noise before ear as of boiling water, pressure upon ear and warmth were pleasant, cracking in ear upon blowing nose, restlessness at night, next day stitches, < every step, the pain < cold air, stoppage of ear, the swelling and pain extending over a part of parotid gland to zygoma, stitches extending into head and external part of neck, chilliness in evening, with acceleration of the otherwise small pulse, the lower tones of music seeming incorrect and reversed, inability to find any place to lay his head, without tension of the skin over parotid, which caused sleeplessness, sensitiveness of parotid to touch of steel bows of spectacles, which also caused burning, with tearing in two lower teeth, continued swelling of ear, redness, towards evening creeping shivering over back, external ear standing out from base of ear, the skin, especially on margin, thickened, dry, white, with scales, insensible to touch but itching, contraction of meatus, thickening of antitragus, cracking in internal ear when blowing nose, hawking, etc., the swelling extending to lower eyelids and r. side of neck, pain like electric shocks in first r. lower molar [> for a time by drinking cold water], next morning chill in back and limbs, with small, rapid, depressed pulse.)

(Sensitiveness of parotid, with swelling and stitches, then stitch in middle ear, with warmth in ear and sensation as if an abscess were bursting, then ringing in ears and itching in concave surfaces of ears, afterwards stitches, especially in region of articulation of jaw, on swallowing sensation of swelling in throat, with stitches and noises in r. ear, pain in forehead, pasty taste, stools irregular, in afternoon stitches in the hitherto healthy l. ear.)

Hearing difficult in l., as if stopped. Ringing, with difficult hearing; R. as of small bells in front of l. Chirping in head, as of locusts. Humming; before r. Roaring; < r.; with rapid pulse; in l. like water pouring over a dam. Sudden noise in l., then in r., as of a distant windmill.

None.—Swelling, with bleeding; S. of l. side of tip, with twitching pain in it, and on touch feeling as if it would ulcerate. Ulcer within r. nostril, with biting pain. Crawling in septum, < blowing it, with tickling.

Coryza, > in open air; C. with stitches in head and sensation as if everything pressed out at forehead (< stooping); stopped; sudden, stopped, with roaring in l. ear and sensation as if something were before it, which diminishes hearing. Closure of r. nostril, with opening of l. and tendency to watery discharge. Fluent coryza; with chilliness in skin, stretching of limbs and frequent yawning; with greenish discharge. Thin discharge from l. nostril; thin light-colored discharge from r. nostril. Profuse coryza. Severe C., with pain in forehead. Profuse fluent C., with much sneezing; so that he speaks through the nose, with chilliness; causing a restless night. Discharge of consistent whitish-yellow mucus, smelling like bread. Much mucus in nose and bronchi.

Sneezing; < stroking hand across forehead; twice when coughing. Frequent S.; in forenoon; in afternoon; in evening; at 10 P.M. Violent S.; in morning; in morning, with yawning. Bleeding; for a quarter of an hour in morning after rising (Carbo v., Phos.); daily; at 3 A.M., waking him; from r. nostril; from r. after vertigo; from l. nostril in morning; then ulcerated nostrils.

Clinical.—Catarrh, with dryness, sudden suppression of the discharge and headache. Bleeding from suppressed menstruation, occurring regularly every day.

Face.—Red, hot (Bell, Op.), soft puffiness; red, round, hot spot on malar-bone. Swelling of upper half, especially under eyes and over root of nose, with swelling of lids and inability to open l. eye; of r. cheek close by ear, with burning pain; of l. side, more along nose, within it (with diarrhoea). Red spots, and on neck. Yellow. Pale. Sickly, jaundiced look. (Painful throbbing in all parts, perceptible to touch.) Tearing in l. cheek; twitching, externally in malar-bone, extending to r. temple, < touch. Painful pressure under r. cheek, > pressure. Drawing pain in l. cheek. Drawing in muscles. Stiffness of muscles, whereby it seemed as if any desired expression could be given to the face by pushing the muscles. Feeling as if gauze were over it.

Lips.—Swelling of upper (Bell.), with redness and heat, as in beginning erysipelas, and in expansion of nose, then sensitiveness of lip to touch. Crack in lower. Eruption outside border of lower, with itching biting as from salt. Suppurating fissures on lower, with burning pain on touch. Aphthous erosion on mucous membrane of upper. Bleeding aphthæ on inner surface. Bleeding pimple on r. corner of lower. Vesicle on vermilion border of lower, with burning pain; burning, in middle of upper, looking like hydroa. Trembling of lower, then insensibility in it, then it is drawn to l. side. Twitching in corners, so that he cannot hold a cigar; sticking T. between lower lip and gum in morning in bed, like cancer of lip. Sticking together. Dryness (Verat. v.), and of tongue and hard palate (Verat. v.), while tip of tongue was moist; on inner side of upper and on upper teeth. Burning in lower.

Law.—Pinching in articular cavity of r., < motion. Drawing tearing in l., as from drawing toothache. Feeling in lower as if there were a node on the bone, with pain on touch and on turning head.

Clinical.—Neuralgia of one side of the face, cannot even speak or eat, because it is so much aggravated by motion.

Mouth.—Teeth. (Yellow coating, with some smell from mouth.) Looseness. Tearing-sticking on eating, extending into muscles of neck, < warmth. Sticking and twitching pain extending towards ear, which compels lying down. Tearing in l.; alternating with drawing pain every day towards evening. Sharp pain. Aching on taking anything warm into mouth; on opening mouth; during rest, < in bed, > chewing; in back T. on chewing; about 3 A.M. as if an exposed nerve were paining from cold air, < lying on painless side, > lying on painful cheek; as if screwed in and then pulled out at night till 6 A.M., > momentarily by cold water (Coff., Puls.), better on walking in open air, with tearing in cheeks and pinching in ears; sudden intermittent, in l. lower second bicuspids, somewhat as if being pulled out, < morning and evening and on pulling with the fingers (in evening), sometimes shootings in the tooth, sometimes the pain ends in a shoot; jerking in evening in bed, now in upper, now in lower back, when in upper and they are pressed with the finger the pain changes to the corresponding lower teeth; jerking, when smoking; drawing, at times jerking, in l. upper back T. during and after eating, when the teeth seem too long and wobble back and forth; drawing, in back T.; periodic drawing and tearing; throbbing drawing, in roots of r. lower incisors, when > by pressure a similar pain in upper middle incisors, then in last r. upper molars, the pain causing a waving sensation; drawing-tensive, in two r. upper molars, > pressure with tongue or biting teeth together; sore, during cold drinks. Grumbling in a hollow T. Sensation as if too long; in molars in morning after waking, with looseness and when trying to bite pain as if they fell out. Sensitiveness of l. lower hollow T. to touch of tongue, and in gum about it.

Gums.—Spongy. Pain as if sore and raw, with painful loose teeth. Aching, now jumping, now mild, in r. upper alveoli.

Tongue.—White coat (Tarax., Ant. er.). Yellow coat, with sunken raphe. Aphthæ on tip. Painful blister in middle of l. margin; biting and burning blisters on anterior margin. Pricking in anterior third. Burning caused by smoking tobacco. Burning pain in middle in evening, then a hard lump. Dryness, with sensation of prominent papillæ; D. of tip, the filiform papillæ are much elevated and prickle.

Something bitter rises into mouth without eruptions, with nausea. Dryness (Verat. v., Phos., etc.), > for a moment by drinking, then <; so that tongue sticks to palate; dry sensation in morning; in evening, palate, tongue and lips almost stick together, so that speech is difficult; without thirst; of whole mouth except tip of tongue. Dryness of palate; after eating; of palate at night as if tough mucus were on uvula and could not be loosened. (Sensitiveness, but not followed by aphthæ as formerly.) Salivation; after smoking tobacco. Soapy, frothy salivation. Saliva mixed with blood. Saliva runs out of mouth involuntarily. Much spitting. Offensive breath; with hawking of offensive tough mucus, in which were cheesy lumps, sometimes round, sometimes lentil-shaped.

Taste.—Bitter (Chel., Sulph.); in evening after lying down; > frequent drinking of cold water, with nausea > offensive, after drinking beer; nauseous, in morning; pasty, in forenoon; on posterior part of palate after dinner; in a spot on tip of tongue; to everything, with inability to swallow food; to soup, with nausea, then after warm water (which tasted bitter) vomiting of yellowish-green fluid, with remnants of food, then relief. Sweetish; salt, sweetish, after cherry brandy. Flat; and nauseous. Pasty; offensive, especially at root of tongue. Clayey. Nauseous, with bitter salivation; acrid, with bitter eructations. Acrid dry, after eating, with dryness of forepart of mouth without thirst, the lips being dry and cracked. Unpleasant towards evening, with nausea. Offensive to beer; causing nausea and shivering over back. Bad to tobacco, with salivation on attempting to smoke; to meat. As of bad meat or bad teeth in morning fasting. Lost for food, bitter when not eating.

Clinical.—Dryness of lips, mouth and throat. Tongue dry, rough (in low fevers). Tongue heavily coated white (in gastric derangements).

Throat.—Strong pulsations of carotids. Sharp rheumatic pain in tendon of l. trapezius on turning head to l. Stitch on r. side, above sternal end of cavity. Simple pain in submaxillary gland, or swelling. Redness of fauces and uvula. Posterior nares closed by swelling. Slimy in evening, with thirst. Tough mucus loosened by hawking; tough M. in posterior nares. Foul-smelling mucus, as after eating crabs or fish. Pseudo-membranous catarrh, and in palate. Hawking of yellow mucus; H. of offensive mucus and cheesy lumps, easily raised, < in morning.

Angina tonsillaris. Stitching when swallowing; on coughing; internally on pressure and on turning head. Sensation as if a foreign body were sticking in it; alternating with a sensation as if a worm were moving in it. Soreness, < in warm room, > drinking, but returning, with dryness and rawness, on empty swallowing; in evening, with redness and difficult swallowing. Pain in back part on motion; especially in r. tonsil only on empty swallowing, with stitches shooting into r. ear; in l. tonsil in morning on waking, with full sensation in loins. (Swollen sensation when swallowing, or as if full of mucus); in back part, with feeling as of severe coryza, which hinders talking. Scraping; as after strong rum. Rawness; scraping.

Constriction, in pharynx, as from a broad band, with frequent yawning. Drawing extending into ear, with pressure. Tickling and warmth. Dry sensation, with much mucus in it; D. sensation in posterior and upper part in evening; in pharynx, with smarting behind pomum adam. Rancid, smoky taste late in evening; bad T., > eating, with taste in mouth like the smell of decaying meat, with a tolerably clean tongue. Constant disposition to swallow, with stinging externally on r. side, on a line with the promontory of larynx.

Inability to swallow food and drink, they cause choking. Pain in œsophagus as if contracted, more in lower part. Pressure in œsophagus as from an overloaded stomach; P. in O. as if he had swallowed a hard angular body.

Stomach.—Ravenous hunger (Iod., China); in morning, with thirst and flushes of heat; ravenous H. continued into night. Ravenous hunger without appetite; in morning fasting. Desire for acids (Verat. alb.) (fruit). Craving for oysters and strong coffee. Longing for things not at hand. Longing for many things which he cannot eat. Desires things immediately, but when offered does not wish for them (China). Food smells good but when he begins to eat the appetite disappears. Appetite diminished; for dinner. Appetite lost; for breakfast, which almost nauseates him; lost for milk, but if he takes it he begins to relish it. Aversion to food; and even a glass of beer before eating; is repugnant, with longing for warm broth, and after taking it urging to stool, with three painless greenish-brown liquid stools, discharged as from a tube, then burning pain in rectum and on nares. Aversion to tobacco, with salivation on swallowing.

Thirst excessive (Iod., Chin.); she must drink much at once, and the drink does not distress her; with necessity to drink much cold water, with internal but not external heat; in morning on rising; about 3 A.M., then sweetish-sour sweat, before this ceased drawing headache, which after rising changed to confusion of head; on waking at 11 P.M., with feverish excitement, pulse accelerated, hearing sensitive, even the swinging of the pendulum of a small clock affected him unpleasantly, he tried to sleep again, but lay long in a dreamy half-sleep; necessity to drink several times at night; great after eating; < drinking beer; for very clear, cold water. Longing for coffee. Desire for wine; the moderate use of which relieves nausea. Thirst, then loss of thirst, with coldness of hands and feet. Loss of thirst. Aversion to beer in evening.

Eructations (Carb. v., Phos.) after eating (Carb. v.), but not after drinking; (with burnt taste in mouth and mucus in throat); severe, after eating, from morning till evening. Bitter (Arn.); after eating. Sourish after eating; with sourish salivation. Of food; tasting of food. Of contents of stomach. Of mucus in morning. Of water and mucus, like waterbrash, which rises into chest at 6 P.M., with general coldness. (Burning, which makes the mouth raw and prevents the tasting of food.) Empty; after eating, with dizzy confusion of head and drawing pain in l. half of forehead; with confusion of head; with rumbling on l. side near stomach; suppressed.

Hiccough; after eating, and on every shock caused by it, pressure in forehead, as if the brain shook from behind forward; after vomiting; after eructations.

Nausea; in morning on waking (Lyc.), with vomiting; in morning after anxious dreams, without ability to vomit, with empty eructations; every morning, two hours after rising, with salivation; all the forenoon; in afternoon after drinking; in evening before sleep; in evening, then flow of much water from mouth; before midnight; on waking after midnight, with necessity to vomit food and bile; on slightest motion, even to vomiting; after a breakfast of coffee; after eating, with vomiting; on walking in open air, > in house, returning in open air, with weakness in limbs and head, so that he expected to fall, he gasped and warmth came into chest and extended into head; from tobacco; < smoking; even to vomiting, < lying on r. side, then easy empty eructations alternating with salivation; with much salivation; with dizzy confusion of head and frequent yawning; with creeping chills; with shuddering and convulsive contraction of abdominal muscles, especially on each side of epigastrium; causing shivering, with involuntary shaking of head and closure of lids; then ravenous hunger; intermittent, all the forenoon, even to vomiting; anxious, during dinner; suddenly, then vomiting at intervals of half an hour, the last time with violent retching and constriction of stomach, the matter seeming like chocolate, water and mucus, with taste of the medicine (he had taken chocolate for breakfast), then difficult vomiting of saffron-yellow, tough, bitter fluid; suddenly after dinner, then paroxysmal and difficult vomiting of much more than had been eaten, with a few drops of bright blood from r. nostril; sudden intermittent, at 9 P.M. in bed, then salivation, with rancid and scraping sensation in stomach. Heaving, as if he would vomit when coughing, without nausea.

Vomiting, incessant, of solid food (Lyc., Verat. a.), but not of drinks; of food on coughing; sour in morning of the fish eaten the previous evening; of bitter thick fluid, tasting of food; of bitter, musty and putrid liquid, which leaves a similar taste, about 6 A.M.; of mucus in evening; frequent, of yellow and green mucus; (of blood, with lying down).

Distention (Lyc.); with sensitiveness to pressure (Phos.); of epigastric region; feeling of D., as from flatus which pressed forward towards stomach and caused pain, soon pressing backward, all < bending forward, > walking and bending backward. Swollen feeling in pit (Lyc.); below pit. Stitches on deep inspiration; with every eructation; in pit, < walking about room and deep inspiration. Cutting in pit; attacks of sticking, in pit. Gripping in epigastric region, < motion and standing, with cutting, then passage of flatus. Pinching, changing to colic in abdomen; P. in pit. Digging extending to abdomen, with tension.

Sensation as if a stone lay in it, after eating (Abies nig. in part); making him fretful; sensation of a stone in it, with pain in epigastric region on touch; continuing after breakfast, then rumbling and gripping in intestines, with constriction of chest and tension in pectoral muscles. Pressure at 4 and 5 P.M., with constriction; P. while eating; after eating; when walking; in pit; in pit when walking after supper, then pressure on bladder and perineum, > while sitting; < moving arm, with tension and burning in r. side of chest; in pit, oppressing the chest. Pain; in epigastric region on pressure; with anxiety; after drinking wine and water, < deep inspiration and pressure. Soreness in pit when coughing. Burning twisting pain. Twisting in pit, waking her in evening, causing nausea and threatening to suffocate her, so that she must sit up. Tension, and in bowels.

Contractive pain after eating; then cutting in and above pit, eructations, rising heat, nausea and vomiting of food. Intermittent burning constriction, obliging bending forward, < deep inspiration, with salivation, during its greatest severity pain in axillæ and on r. hip, confusion in head, then pain in intestines and desire for stool. Contractive pain as if rolled into a ball, which he believed he could feel with the hand, so that he could not straighten up, > in bed, by drawing legs up against abdomen (Coloc.), then pain in l. side of chest, which impeded breathing, with sensation as if l. lobe of lung were enlarged, then sweat and sleep. Constrictive pain in epigastric region, extending over chest, < towards evening, so that he could not stand upright, > rubbing, he lay in bed, took a cup of warm soup, covered stomach with warm clothing, and drew legs up to abdomen, scarcely was this pain relieved when there was urging to stool, rumbling, and frequent offensive, yellowish diarrhœa, causing burning in rectum.

Burning; in afternoon; from a glass of wine in evening; in pit, < during every inspiration; in region of pit, with thirst, but without dryness of throat; in epigastric region, causing shortness of breath, with pain; paroxysmal burning and pressure; burning pain. Scraping. Scraping, rancid feeling, as of beginning heartburn, with tense pain in r. hypochondrium. Sensation as of something sharply rancid. Emptiness; in afternoon; with distention of abdomen. Discomfort, with flatulent distention of abdomen; in epigastric region, with distention of abdomen. Weakness of digestion.

Clinical.—An extremely valuable remedy for catarrhal inflammation of the stomach (dyspepsia), with thirst, white-coated tongue, nausea and vomiting, < warm drinks, which are vomited; feeling of a hard lump, which makes the stomach sore. Gastric derangements, which recur often in persons who have been in the habit of taking mercury, the attacks frequently preceded by great hunger and apparently caused by overeating; the patient becomes very irritable, tongue thickly coated, etc. In all gastric derangements there are usually great sensitiveness of epigastrium to touch and vomiting of food.

Abdomen.—Retraction. Distention; towards evening; sensation of D. at 6, 7 and 8 P.M., with weight and sensation of hypertrophy; after eating, also with discomfort; > emission of offensive flatus; with motions and colic, then continued constipation and feeling as if something lay in abdomen; with uneasiness in it and pinching, as before menstruation; with dragging. Sudden drowsy, with inability to breathe and necessity to sit up.

Rumbling; after eating, with tension; < in forenoon; < in evening in bed; with sensation as before diarrhœa; with urging to stool, which was soft; with gripping in l. side, then emission of flatus; then three liquid stools. Wandering gurgling at 3 P.M., then pasty stool and emission of flatus. Constant motions as before stool. Emission of flatus in night, preceded by loud rumbling and grumbling; E., with urging to stool like a pressure, heat, weight, and powerlessness of sphincter ani and rectum; of offensive flatus (Sul.); frequent short, of offensive flatus; loud.

Cutting stitches upward into stomach (after drinking warm milk in afternoon), obliging him to bend double, > stool. Tearing, < motion, with drawing, then stitches, < during stool and in evening. Cutting, with gurgling and rumbling, then watery stool; sudden C., > profuse pasty stools, with digging, compelling him to bend double (Coloc.); in forenoon, as before dysentery. Gripping; while walking before a meal, then a liquid stool, as if poured from a tube, after the meal a similar stool, then burning in anus; with constriction, with rumbling and ineffectual urging to stool; intermittent, > emission of flatus; in places. Pinching; < open air; > by emission of flatus; with motions, then watery stool with passage of flatus, the P. occurring frequently in afternoon, with soreness and dragging downward and outward, then two profuse watery stools, then burning in anus (Sulph.).

Pain; on rising and through forenoon; during and after dinner; after dinner, then emission of flatus, then pasty stool; on urinating; > walking, with anxiety and difficult breathing; as before diarrhœa, and in anus; as from a purge, or as if hemorrhoids would come on; spasmodic, after dinner; flatulent, after supper, with pressure in cæcum; wind colic, disturbing night's rest; as if one would vomit.

Sensitiveness. Tension; < afternoon, after eating, with distention; > after a long walk; > towards morning by emission of offensive flatus, with distention, and in epigastric region; with dragging and digging; painful tympanic tension, > two pasty stools. Sensation of looseness of bowels, < towards noon, with emptiness in stomach. Qualmishness preceded by watery stool and alternating with pinching. Heaviness; while sitting, especially in lower, as if it hung down upon thighs.

Rumbling in upper. Throbbing twitching in or just beneath wall, to left of epigastrum. Twitching in l. side between navel and l. flank, as if in muscles of wall, then sticking deep in l. side of back. Convulsive movements of r. muscles. Tearing in l. side. Pinching in l., then emission of flatus. Pain in sides like pleuritic stitches.

Hypochondrium.—Wandering gurgling in l. Stitches in r., then in epigastrum; in r., with sensitiveness, the latter < hard pressure and deep inspiration; deep in r.; beneath wall of r., extending towards epigastrum; long-drawn, in liver while sitting; in l. flank. Gripping in hepatic region, extending to spleen, with nausea. Pain in flanks. Tensive pain in hepatic region; in r. below false ribs, < deep inspiration; in r., disappearing with rumbling in upper abdomen. Burning pain in hepatic region. Bruised sensation at ends of l. false ribs, extending to navel. Sensitiveness of hepatic region.

Umbilical Region.—Hard swelling, and beneath hypochondria. Gripping, with pinching, as after taking cold, then profuse thin stool; G., waking at night; after dinner, starting the sweat on forehead, > passage of offensive flatus; periodical; frequent, above umbilicus. Pinching when walking and standing, with pressure; P. above navel in afternoon, while riding in a very jolting wagon, extending towards spleen; sudden sticking, in r. side below navel, then passage of flatus. Twisting, with nausea; painful T., with stitches. Digging. Boring; with chilliness; beneath navel. Pain, waking at 6 A.M., with urging to stool; before eating; after dinner, > passage of flatus; > walking in open air, but lasting in a slight degree till 5 P.M.; below navel, towards noon; below navel, then emission of flatus after eating. Pressure every time on waking, with urging to stool, but he soon sank into a half-sleep, in which he was busy with fancies, in morning pungent, fluid, difficult stool, then several similar stools during the day. Pressure on navel as from a button when walking in open air. Burning below navel. Heaviness below navel.

Hypogastrum.—Sudden stitches from l. to r. during dinner, then two stitches through chest from l. to r.; in r. inguinal region. Deep cutting; crampy, in r. < inspiration, with heat in it. Pressure, with pinching. Pain in l. inguinal ring every morning; towards inguinal ring on sitting down. (Sensation of a lump low down in abdomen.) Soreness in iliac region, in overhanging folds.

Clinical.—Symptoms of inflammation of the liver, which seems swollen, very sore to touch, pains sharp, greatly < motion, > warmth and pressure, typhilitis, peritonitis, gastro-enteritis; a frequently indicated remedy for these diseases, characterized by extreme soreness, thirst, fever, coated tongue, etc.

Rectum.—Pulselike jerking. Stitches as often as flatus passed, it seemed to press towards rectum. Burning, with evacuation of stool and urine (Sulph.); B. after hard stool. Pressing towards anus. Inclination to diarrhoea from slightest draft of air. Dragging-like urging to stool, without real need of it, with pain in anus. Much straining to finish stool, stools dry and large. Urging to stool; at 6 A.M., then frequent acid fluid stools, with compact portions; from slightest tightening of clothes, without pain in abdomen, stool soft; then copious pasty stools, with relief of all symptoms except the confusion of head; then soft stool; then scanty firm stool; U. after a crumbly stool. Ineffectual U.; in afternoon; with rumbling and emission of flatus.

Anus.—Protruding hæmorrhoids. Retraction. Discharge of mucus. Itching, jerking stitches extending into rectum. Feeling of a plug; at 6 A.M. Pressure in hæmorrhoidal vessels; with dragging and with stitches through perineum into urethra; P. in hæmorrhoids, with burning. Aching in hæmorrhoidal vessels, < sitting. Burning pain before a meal; B. pain, with a soft stool. Burning after a natural stool; B. in hæmorrhoidal vessels in evening; with itching.

Perineum.—Tearing sticking in evening, extending to bladder and especially to bulbus urethrae, whereby micturition was momentarily prevented.

Stool.—Pasty, soon after waking, with burning in anus (Sulph.); soon after eating; offensive; two offensive, in afternoon, then burning in anus; with much flatus, then hard portions, then again soft, so that he believed he would scarcely finish the evacuation; brownish; copious, also after long exertion.

Diarrhoea; in morning; evening and morning; after dinner, then in an hour stool with little feces but much mucus, then burning in anus; < at night and burning in anus with every stool; preceded by cutting in abdomen; then prickling and burning in anus (Sulph.); smelling like old cheese; bilious acid, with soreness in anus; greenish, frequent brown (in an infant); painless, also after eating; painless and frequent, with offensive flatus; frequent, and so sudden that he could not retain it; frequent, then constipation; causing weakness; bloody.

Liquid, after every meal; after a meal, then pain in small of back; and profuse, also with tenesmus and burning in anus; frequent, then burning in anus; and offensive; painless, of greenish-brown liquid after dinner, then pinching extending from r. hypochondrium towards stomach; of slimy fluid after eating; of green slimy fluid, then loud passage of flatus. Two mucous stools in evening and a third at night.

Obstinate constipation; C., with painful swelling of hæmorrhoidal vessels (Sulph.). Dry and difficult; (Op., Lyc.); with confusion of head (Iris); dry and difficult, only every other day; hard and difficult, at first hard portions, then softer. Hard, with inclinations to eructations; H., with pressing out of rectum, then diarrhoea, with fermenting in abdomen; with drawing and pressure in small of back; then drawing and heaviness in sacrum; two unsatisfactory, preceded by cutting in abdomen; and large, also dark.

Dark. Offensive, profuse, preceded by cutting in abdomen. Scanty; and delayed. * Difficult; from inactivity of rectum; and thick-formed. Sluggish; with twitching and sticking in anus. Unsatisfactory, after much straining, which caused rush of blood to head and confusion of head; U. or omitted, then frequent, copious, almost like diarrhoea. Involuntary at night in sleep. Frequent; then constipation. Retained.

Clinical.—Diarrhoea in summer, brought on by cold drinks or from vegetables or being overheated, movements in the morning on moving around; diarrhoea from suppressed eruptions; during typhoid fever (of putrid odor), brown. Constipation, stool large and hard.

Urinary Organs.—Heaviness in region of bladder after micturition, with cramplike motions in it. Constipation of bladder after urinating, with feeling as if there were more urine to pass. Feeling in bladder on urinating as if he had not finished, and a few drops pass involuntarily. Sudden urging to urinate, even when bladder is not full. Involuntary micturition of a few hot drops when moving about. Frequent M.; at night; at night, with scanty hot urine; when walking in open air; with burning in urethra and sensation as if some urine remained; with profuse urine; with hot urine. Rare micturition, with scanty urine.

Urethra.—Red, sensitive, burning spots around orifice and on glans and on inner lamella of prepuce, the secreting gland of prepuce became swollen and secreted a profuse yellowish smegma, with painful micturition and with itching and biting on prepuce and glans, all < when walking. Inability to retain urine long, and if he does not urinate immediately on urging there is a feeling as if the urine passed involuntarily, though this does not happen. Stitches; in anterior part in evening. Drawing tearing in forepart when not urinating. (Pain.) Feeling as if too narrow when urinating. Burning; before the urine passes, with cutting; itching, in forepart when not urinating, with sticking.

Urine.—Copious; < night, and pale; with sudden desire; sometimes clear, sometimes high-colored. Scanty; and dark; and red; and hot. Red (Colic.). Almost brown; brown (Benz. ac.) like beer (Asp., Ocol.). Reddish yellow at night, with white sediment. Burning. Containing a thick brown cloud.

Sexual Organs.—Red itching rash covering glans. Stitches in r. spermatic cord. Sticking, burning itching on border of prepuce. Stitches in testicles when sitting. Painful tension from r. testicle along spermatic cord into groin. Increased desire; with emission in night after coition and in morning almost painful erections. Emission at night and in morning, with strong erections.

Swelling of l. labia majora, on which a black, hard pustule rises, like a button, without inflammation or pain. (Increase of leucorrhœa.) Pain in region of r. ovary as if a sore spot caused irritation and dragging, while at rest, < touch, extending to thighs. Menses too early.

Clinical.—Suppression of menses, with the characteristic gastric derangements, or with periodical discharge of blood elsewhere, nose, throat, etc. Inflamed ovaries. Puerperal fever in the early stage, with headache, pains in limbs, weakness. Suppressed lochia. Pelvic peritonitis. Inflammation of mammary glands, breasts much swollen, hot, sharp pains.

Respiratory Organs.—Larynx. Hawking of mucus. Sensation as if an apple-seed cell lodged in upper part or rima glottidis. Sudden scraping at 7 P.M. while sitting, with dry cough. Tickling, with dry hacking cough; T, with violent shaking cough. Hoarseness; on walking in open air, with only one tone of voice; with inclination to sweat. Voice lost at times. Voice higher than usual.

Trachea.—Tough mucus, loosened only after frequent hawking. Sensation of a vapor, on going from a warm room into open air, causing cough, with feeling as if he could not inspire enough air. Scraping causing dry cough; in lower part in morning, provoking dry cough; at bifurcation of bronchi, causing dry cough.

Cough; (caused by nausea); (< after eating). Irritation to C, as from mucus in trachea, and after coughing pain, pressure and soreness in trachea, the pain < while talking and smoking. Dry cough; in morning, with coryza;

< morning, with waterbrash; with sticking under sternum; in attacks; as if from stomach (Sepia), preceded by crawling and tickling in pit of stomach (Sang.); hawking, striking against upper part of trachea, which seems covered with dry, tough mucus, even from tobacco-smoking. Scraping, painful, hacking cough, in throat, in evening in bed, as from rawness and dryness in larynx. Hacking cough, with sensation of soreness and swelling in throat and trachea in morning, and difficult expectoration of mucus. Dry, violent cough on waking after a restless night, > next night, with soreness in chest and thin greenish mucous expectoration. Cough, with expectoration; forenoons; in morning, expectoration of gelatinous mucus; C. from crawling upward in throat, then expectoration of mucus; severe C. in morning in bed, with profuse mucous expectoration; sudden C., as from irritation in abdomen, with yellowish-green mucous expectoration. Coughing up clots of blood.

Frequent expectoration; of thick mucus; F. and easy expectoration of thick mucus in morning. E. of transparent, tough, salt mucus. E. of thick mucus, almost without cough, which nearly causes vomiting.

Dyspœa so that he could not speak. Oppressed breathing; in forenoon, so that the whole chest could not be expanded, with rapid breathing; from distention of abdomen; > walking; in middle of upper half of sternum on every movement of trunk, with sticking in anterior wall of chest. Short breath. Gasping before a paroxysm of cough, as if the child could not catch the breath and on this account could not cough, < after midnight, a suffocative attack, then cough. Frequent sighing. Rapid breathing while walking, with sensation as if upper part of chest were too narrow.

Clinical.—Laryngitis and bronchitis (the cough in these diseases is generally dry, hacking, with soreness of abdominal muscles. < night and motion, < coming into a warm room, < after eating or drinking, > heat).

Chest.—Swelling of anterior outer part. Stitches at 6 P.M., with oppression; S. in sides; in l.; in middle of l.; in r. ribs; in region of fifth and sixth ribs, on r. side of sternum; in l. clavicle, then simple pain; at insertion of deltoid muscle and in l. side, mostly superficial in l. intercostals. Stitches in sternum on coughing, with necessity to hold the chest with the hand, even pressure upon it caused sticking; in last rib on coughing; between r. third and fourth ribs while sitting; in side on which he does not lie, on turning in bed; below l. nipple, and on deep inspiration or bending towards the right; in pit of stomach; beneath sternum, < motion and deep inspiration, with pressure; in r. lower part, with pulslike throbbing; through chest; in upper part, through shoulders, on inspiration; outward; outward below r. nipple on expiration; in r. side of sternum, extending to navel, < sneezing, so that he must bend double; tearing in l., extending forward; > during rest, < motion and deep inspiration; in r. side, so that he must hold his breath in order not to cry out; below scapula, then below pectoral muscles, almost arresting breath and causing him to sit upright, then S. in vertex; under l. lowest ribs, alternating with S. in r. loin, > 9 P.M.; jerklie, in ribs on deep breathing, > open air; drawing, between r. tenth and eleventh ribs; wandering, in r. side of C. in pit of stomach and in umbilical region, some of the S. piercing r. half of chest like lightning and seeming like cuttings; as in an ulcer, in a spot below sternum, in morning during inspiration, < raising r. arm, with ulcerative pain on touch.

Pleuritic pain in r. breast, to r. of and in intercostal space, two ribs above nipple, < during inspiration, > during expiration. Sharp pain in l. inframammary region, < during inspiration. Tearings between r. sixth and seventh ribs, near sternum, afterwards they approached pleuritic stitches, with throbbing pain in r. clavicle; pain as if ribs were torn from their union. Gripping near sternum. Pinching behind sternum, < inspiration and expiration; just about pit of stomach, < sitting and bending forward, or in bed, lying upon the side.

Pain; at 9 P.M., > emission of flatus, with oppression; in various parts; posteriorly in lower part; at bend of r. lower ribs; in middle of sternum, also during respiration, with cold feet; in l. intercostal muscles at 11 P.M., while sitting; in a spot below r. axilla, < touch; in pectoral muscles when writing, with tightness of thorax; throbbing, in a spot between r. tenth and eleventh ribs, > touch; in l. side, extending forward, and in region of lower angle of scapula, causing deep breathing; intermittent, at noon on walking; in ensiform cartilage as if injected with blood, in evening on touch; drawing, externally; drawing, in r. muscles. Drawing in pectoral muscles; with tension.

Burning pain in r. side; in a spot in r. ribs at 9 A.M.; along anterior insertion of diaphragm; extending backward from inner surface of sternum. Bruised pain in pectoral muscles on touch; on r. second rib, extending to sternum. Sore pain beneath sternum; in whole length of sternum; on inner surface of sternum; on inner surface of upper part of sternum, < breathing; in a spot between l. seventh and ninth ribs, rather externally, < touch. Sensitiveness all forenoon, with stitches in l. side on inspiration; S. of anterior muscles; of pectoral muscles on moving hands and on pressure; of pectoral muscles and of pleura, so that inspiration is difficult.

Pressure over whole; in r. wall; in region of r. nipple, < expiration; on r. border of sternum, < in open air; in region of false ribs, impeding respiration, with stitches in region of nipple; as from mucus, and on inspiration stitches in sternum, > eating; as from a hand on upper part of sternum, and she believes that she cannot walk in open air without pain there. Heaviness, > on eating, with heaviness in body; beneath sternum, extending towards r. shoulder, impeding respiration, with oppression of r. side of chest, and stitches in r. axillary glands. Sensation as if too narrow on going to sleep, with sensitiveness. Pectoral muscles do not seem free, < on deep inspiration.

Constriction, with necessity to breathe deeply (as if chest were stopped) and on attempting to breathe deeply, pain as if something were being distended which could not be distended completely; C., with heaviness in sternum; after riding over a rough road, compelling to get out of the wagon, with sore pain in inner surface of sternum, bruised feeling in pectoral muscles, and pain on every movement of arms; in upper part; in lower part. Oppression; in morning, with feeling as if clogged by tenacious mucus; in forenoon while sitting and talking; frequent, in forenoon while walking; of r. side, impeding inspiration and especially deep breathing. Fulness. Tension when walking; T. (across short ribs); on both sides externally, < deep inspiration; tensive pain in angles of ribs towards back on inspiration, increasing to a stitch on deeper inspiration, especially below scapula, < when stooping. Sensation as if contents were loose and fell into abdomen. Internal heat; at every inspiration, < l. side.

Chinical.—Pneumonia in the early stage; Bryonia follows immediately after Aconite, high fever, sharp pains, > lying on the affected side, thirst, profuse sweat, headache, etc. In pleurisy it is most frequently required (the Bryonia patient sweats easily and freely), extremely sharp pain, > pressure and warmth, cannot tolerate the slightest motion. Sometimes useful in pleuritic exudation, when the sharp pains continue.

Heart.—Stitches. Aching. Oppression at 6 A.M. Cramp; with rapid pulse. Beating rapidly and violently. Palpitation.

Chinical.—Pericarditis, endocarditis (very frequently called for). Great oppression over the region of the heart.

Pulse.—Full, hard and rapid; F., large and quick, two hours after breakfast. Rapid. Feeble. Imperceptible at wrist.

Neck.—Tearing in muscles of l. side, down to shoulder. Pain on moving it; in nape as after taking cold; where nape joins occiput, like a pain and weakness together, as if head were weak; sharp rheumatic pain in tendon of l. trapezius on turning head to left; sore on motion, in l. side of nape and neck and muscles of face, and mastication renders turning the head or chewing difficult. Pressure on l. side of nape. Drawing in muscles of r. side, with stiffness. Tension in nape on moving head. Stiffness towards r. shoulder; of l. side; of muscles, with rawness in throat when swallowing; rheumatic, in side towards nape.

Back.—Sticking twitches on both sides near spine when sitting, < morning and evening. Stitches at night, and in loins; extending through chest in forenoon; on l. side in afternoon, < moving trunk or bending l. arm backward, and especially in l. chest and l. nipple. Tearing, < bending and standing, > lying, and in lumbar vertebrae. Constrictive pain across, as if bound with bands, almost like cramp, from 4 to 8 P.M. Drawing down when sitting, > motion. Tension in forenoon, and in loins. Stiffness on rising, > after walking.

Scapulae.—Stitches in r.; intermittent lightning-like, in region of lower angle of r. in evening, < in bed; between S., extending forward, in afternoon when lying; scraping, in a spot between on motion. Pains alternately dull and sharp at lower angle of r. Spasmodic pain between, almost like shivering. Rheumatic pain between inferior angles. Pressure between S. when sitting, > when walking, and opposite in forepart of chest. Tension between. Drawing between S.; < on r. side; between S. on moving trunk, with stitches. Discomfort between S., more internally towards posterior mediasternum, causing frequent motion of shoulders and trunk.

Dorsal Region.—Stitches in spot between tenth and eleventh ribs. Twitching and tearing pain in region of last dorsal vertebra and sacrum. Drawing tensive pain in first dorsal vertebra (where he had suffered fourteen years previously from distortion of spine) extending through chest to lower part of sternum, with difficult respiration.

Lumbar Region.—Stitches in vertebrae; on r. side of lowest part of back; from third to fourth vertebra, extending on both sides of chest, < on breathing; drawing, deep in upper part of r. loin. Drawing tearing at union of r. ilium with sacrum in evening. Pain; in r.; < walking; in muscles; in vertebrae in forenoon; with fulness; waking him at 1 A.M., with P. in occiput and chilliness in skin, preventing lying outstretched, < sitting up, lifting or turning leg, putting on trousers, walking and ascending stairs, > at rest, with body bent forward, with exhaustion while walking, afterwards in bed the pain extended along spine and down legs, < attempting to raise or stretch legs or to raise body upright and slightest touch of spine, especially in sacral region, with copious, yellowish-red urine, moderate fever, and full, hard pulse and numbness of thighs, < r. Jerklike pain, like a cramp, when sitting and lying. Intermittent suppurative pain in region of r. kidney in morning in bed. Coliclike pain extending over hypogastrium. Pain in r. as after long stooping. Tensive pain in r.; T. pain on walking, throbbing, intermittent, above r. ilium. Tension. Rheumatic pain, < by exercise, and in limbs; in r. sacro-iliac region, a drawing lameness, and at centre of r. deltoid. Bruised pain; when lying on it; when sitting, < lying, > motion; and in thigh. Drawing pain, waking him, < turning; D. pain in afternoon, with moderate fever; after a meal. Drawing in both, gradually changing to burning on r. side, afterwards extending over inner surface of r. thigh. Sensation of a bladder filled with air in l. supra-iliac region, lying beneath walls of abdomen and pressing outward, when lying on abdomen, > lying on back. Sensitiveness of muscles to touch. Pressure; in muscles, with drawing. Heaviness, with dragging in hemorrhoidal vessels. Weariness on r. side of sacrum, < walking. Paralyzed feeling. Loss of sensation in forenoon while walking, so that muscles acted automatically.

Coecyx.—Sticking-drawing while walking.

Clinical.—Severe muscular pains in back, lumbago, etc.

Extremities.—Swelling on elbow as far as middle of upper and forearm, and on soles. Stretching in afternoon. Jerking in arms and feet while sitting during the day. In r. elbow sensation as if arm were broken, with paralytic pain, then drawing pain, extending to shoulder-joint, and a similar pain in r. thigh. Stitches in l. knee when walking, and in first joint of r. thumb; sudden, in bones, now in l. upper arm, now in r. leg; drawing, in r. great toe and r. thumb; tearing, in r. knee after warm covering, then S. in l. shoulder-joint. Tearing in elbows and in r. middle toes; in tibia, with swelling of feet and heaviness of arms; jerklike, in first joint of r. thumb and in lowest joint of r. great toe; drawing, now in upper, now in lower, now in ligaments, now in tendinous sheaths of muscles, at first on motion, then also during rest.

Pinching in thumbs, with sticking in r. great toe. Scraping in long bones, < riding; tearing, and in joints; drawing-tearing, in l. little finger and in l. great toe. Pain; in every joint; while riding, > cider; growing constantly worse till towards noon, < r.; now in fingers, now in wrist, extending to axilla and shifting to knee, then alternating back and forth, with stitches, so that walking is difficult. Rheumatic pains in tops of both shoulders and in l. knee. Bruised pain; when sitting, in knees, legs, arms and single joints of fingers and legs; in arms and legs even when lying, worse when sitting than when walking, with restlessness of limbs while lying; and paralyzed feeling in evening, as if he had lain upon a hard bed.

Drawing pain in r. upper arm and in r. leg; in thumbs and great toes; in r. great toe, extending over back of foot and to middle of tibia, and a similar pain at same time in l. forearm; alternately in lower third of r. ulna and in l. knee; wandering, alternately in both hips and in r. shoulder. Drawing; in sheaths of muscles; in r. fingers and on l. instep; alternately in knees, hips, and especially in l. shoulder; in long bones, with scraping; in upper arms and thighs, with tension; in joints of forearm and metatarsus, with tearing; tearing, in l. knee, l. middle toes, both elbows and on flexor surface of thighs, all > during rest.

Weariness, with heaviness, the feet can scarcely carry her on account of heaviness; W., especially of lower, with stiffness; with shivering in face. Feeling in afternoon in upper arm and thigh as after violent exertion. Leaden heaviness. Numbness. (Hands and feet felt dead at night, sleepy and cold.)

Clinical.—Acute inflammation of numerous joints, especially of the large joints, characterized by swelling, heat, shiny redness, > warm wraps, intolerance of slightest motion, etc. Sciatica > lying on the affected side. Muscular rheumatism. In all forms of rheumatism, acute, chronic, muscular or articular, there is generally the additional indication of easy, profuse perspiration.

Upper Extremities.—Stitches in axilla towards noon; S. across shoulder to arm. Tearing in r. shoulder and upper arm, at 6 A.M., < moving upper arm, > after rising, returning at 11 A.M., while walking in open air and alternating with similar pain in r. hip, at noon in the house the pain was only in shoulder-joint, but the arm could scarcely be moved, afterwards creeping along ulnar nerve, with feeling of coldness and inflation in all limbs. Tearing in r. shoulder, with uneasiness of arm, the arm nearly painless in afternoon in open air, pain renewed on entering house, with sensation bordering on paralysis, inability to hold anything firmly, the pain in S. < writing, and on rubbing hands together the r. seemed thicker than l.

Shoulder.—Pressure on top of r., > touch, becoming on deep breathing a sticking, which extends downward and outward to shoulder-joint; P., with fulness and heaviness. Sprained pain in region of acromion on raising arm. Tension in r. during rest, with pressure. Sticking tensive pain in ligaments of l. joint at 11 A.M., > during rest, but on motion pain as if wrenched. Drawing pain in r.; tensive-drawing, in joints, with sticking and tearing, and on raising arm feeling of paralysis, tension and heaviness on top of shoulder and at insertion of deltoid in arm. Drawing in r., extending into upper arm, > motion, < rest, with tearing. Discomfort in joints, obliging movement of S. Paralytic feeling in l., whereby motion of arm becomes difficult.

Arm.—(Sticking in l., with crawling.) Nervous tearing down inner part. Pain in r. in forenoon, > at noon, intermittent in afternoon. Drawing pain in r. Drawing through shafts of bones, as from a thread, extending to finger-tips. Falling asleep in evening when writing, then heaviness.

Upper Arm.—Swelling of r. as far as elbow. Stitches. < raising it; (in deltoid, with jerking); deep in l. deltoid, extending towards surface. Tearing in l.; tensive drawing, and along r. ulna. Pressure in humeri, preventing sleep in evening. Rheumatic pain in r. Drawing pain below insertion of r. deltoid; in middle of r., in l. arm and in l. chest. Drawing paralytic pain in r., with feeling as of lead. Drawing on inner side of r. Seeming too thick in evening, with diminished sensation in it and itching on skin. Heaviness of r., with drawing.

Elbow.—Swelling of r. Stitches in tips, with drawing in tendons down to hands, the S. < bending elbows.

Drawing in l.; in r., extending to wrist, with tearing. Aching in r.

Forearm.—Tearing, < r.; with pressure and gnawing; on inner surface, in a line from elbow to wrist. Pressing in r. in morning, with drawing, then in l. hand and r. fingers. Pain in r. ulnar nerve. Drawing while riding, with scraping.

Wrist.—Stitches if hands were warm and during rest, not > motion. Pain, and in thumbs. Sprained pain on every motion.

Hand.—Trembling, with distention of veins. Sticking in joints, with heaviness in them. Jerking-tearing in r. metacarpal bones while writing. Pain from long-continued holding of pen or strong pressure upon any object. Inability to grasp anything tightly. Stiffness of r. and of fingers; of r. < motion; of l. and of forearm, as if in ligaments and aponeuroses. Numbness of palms, with stiff sensation.

Fingers.—Involuntary jerking on motion. Sticking when writing; S. in joints of l. little; (in balls of thumbs, with cramp). Tearing in joints of l.; jerklike, in joints between metacarpus and fingers on motion, or in last joints of F. Pain in last phalanx of r. index during rest; in root of little F. as if pus were in it. Swollen sensation in joints on writing or taking hold of anything, with pain on exertion and on touch. Sensitiveness of phalanges to pressure, with swollen sensation in articular surfaces, impeding motion. Drawing in ball of l., then r. Stiffness of r. joints, < bending them; in middle joint of r. middle, < bending, > rubbing. Paralytic feeling. Sudden refusal of r. third to work while writing. (Falling asleep, and of hands.)

Lower Extremities.—Staggering in morning; to both sides when walking; when walking, as if he would fall backward. Tottering to one side after moving when standing. Unsteadiness, and when descending stairs tottering. Pain in whole l. on sitting, especially in leg and ankle, compelling motion of foot, > walking. Heaviness; while walking. Weakness.

Hip.—Stitches; when walking bent, extending into knee; in trochanter at every false step, during rest throbbing in it and sensitiveness to touch; as with knives. Pain in l.; in head of femur, extending along anterior surface of thigh to knee, especially about middle, > night, < motion, when it is drawing tearing, and during rest a paralytic sensation; in r. acromion; in l. joint, < motion, afterwards extending to r. hip, then suddenly leaving l. hip and attacking l. inguinal region, especially tendinous fibres which form inguinal ring, then sensitiveness of both hips. Pain like a jerk or shock in joints when sitting or lying, > when walking. Cramplike bruised pain in r. trochanter, < every motion, and in gluteal region. Drawing pain in l.; in hips and gluteal muscles; paralytic, in head of l. joint on walking, > pressure of hand, and on every step cracking in joints. Drawing, and in knees. Painful tension in l. Feeling in joints which makes rising from a seat difficult, > on walking.

Thigh.—Tottering, < ascending and descending stairs. Stitches in forenoon, now here, now there; S. in upper anterior part. Tearing in r. on motion. Clawing across l. Bruised pain in middle, and when sitting throbbing. Drawing anteriorly on l. and posteriorly on r.; D. in l., extending towards hip; as before menstruation. Tension in tendinous expansion while walking; painful T. and drawing on anterior surface below r. Poupart's ligament, > rest but returning; tensive pain on anterior surface below r. Poupart's ligament. Stiffness in morning in bed, like a cramp. Weariness; < ascending stairs, > descending stairs.

Knee.—Tottering and bending under him when walking. Cramp when sitting and at night when lying, and in sole. Stitches; when walking; on ascending steps; only on motion; in r. on motion; in r. and in r. external malleolus; in hollow in afternoon when walking; tearing, in l. in morning, > after rising; jerking, on inner side of l. Tearing after eating, < riding one leg over the other; in l. extending along tibia to ankle; and burning in r. Pain; in r. at 3 P.M. on walking, and in lower leg; < morning; in l. < walking; at inner condyle of r. femur; in caps on descending stairs, as if they would break; in caps as if beaten loose. Drawing in l., with sticking, and in calf. Tension in bend, then changing to dragging and tearing along crest of fibula. Tension and pain in r., < evening on walking, > next morning in bed, but returning after being up awhile, with pain on touch on inner side of K. Tensive, painful stiffness. Feeling in r. cap as if he had knelt long. Weakness; of r. in forenoon when walking, with paralyzed feeling; in evening, < ascending stairs; < walking, > rest, with lameness; extending into middle of thighs.

Leg.—Swelling; of lower part, except feet; sudden. Twitching at night, during the day twitching like an electric shock. Cramp in l. calf in morning; in calves while lying; of calves (contractive tension) at night, > motion. Pinching tearing in r. calf while sitting after a meal. Tearing-twitching pain in upper half of tibia. Pain in tibia only when walking, and in hollow of knee; as after walking the previous day. Bruised sensation in evening; in l. while sitting; on outer side of l. calf on moving and turning foot and on touch, during rest a numb sensation in this place. Drawing pain in shafts of long bones; in muscles, < rest; in l. calf, > walking; especially in calf, then sweat in that place. Drawing; < l. leg and around r. knee, with tearing, and on touch pain in r. knee; in whole r., with tearing, the weariness disappearing after walking an hour; sticking, along outer border of tibia. Tension in r.; pinching, in l. calf; drawing tensile pain in r. tibia, > walking. Heaviness of r.; with tension, also in afternoon. Weakness on beginning to walk and on standing; on ascending stairs.

Ankle.—Dreamed that pain prevented walking and on waking found that he had sticking and scraping in outer malleolus, when it ceased pains spread over body, alternately attacking limbs and joints, after midnight restless sleep, interrupted by fatiguing dreams, only towards morning quiet sleep, and on rising remnants of the wandering pains. Pain; in r.; and in r. great toe; in l. when sitting. Tension on motion. Immobility of r. when walking.

Foot.—Hot swelling; of instep, with bruised pain on stretching foot, tension in foot on stepping and suppurative pain in foot on touch. Swollen and damp. Cramp in dorsum at night in bed, and in heels; in r. heel; in plantar muscles, sometimes at night. Stitches; in hollows on stepping; on inner side of r. heel; in heels in morning in bed; in balls towards evening, with heat and necessity to take off shoes; burning, in l. heel, at insertion of tendo-achillis; burning, in a corn only on slight touch, > severe pressure; in soles, preventing stepping, with tension in ankles, the stitches and tension preventing lying; as with a knife in l.

sole; as with a hook in heel nights on lying down. Tearing on ridge of r.; on dorsum of r. at night; on inner side of r. heel; stitchlike, extending into hollow of knees, > rest; sudden, in r. metatarsal bones in forenoon when walking, > standing still. Pinching in r. sole while sitting. Sharp pain in r. F. and toes when walking. Pain in r.; in a corn, < stepping; deep in r. between bones, < walking, with itching and roughness of the skin, the metatarsal bones seeming swollen and dislocated; intermittent, in metatarsal bones in afternoon. Sprained pain. Pain in hollow when stepping as if numb and tense. Pain in corns as if sore on slight touch, even of bed. Sore feeling near middle of tarsal bone of l. great toe, < walking, sprained feeling in ligaments, then in corresponding place in r. foot, then bruised pain, extending higher up tendon, with tenderness to touch from an inch above joint of toe to bend of ankle, then sprained pain in large joint of great toe when standing or walking, sometimes when stepping on that foot feeling as if joints were giving way or spreading apart, afterwards the pain extends to metatarsal joints of all toes except little toe, afterwards skin over tarsal bone of great toe is swollen and inflamed, the soreness appearing to be in sheath of tendon, but principally in periosteum and ligaments, the pain always < motion, swelling of top of foot, then sprained pain in corresponding joint of next, stitches in knee, tender sensation at bottom of heel on pressure, pain in toes extending up metatarsal bone, then soreness along top of metatarsal bone of great toe, with swelling, redness and engorgement of veins, at last swelling of skin in a spot high up on instep, with tenderness of part beneath. Drawing pain; along l., after rising; with stiffness in joints; in r. heel; on dorsum of l., with difficulty in walking and with pain in sole. Pressure on inner margin of l. sole. Tension in evening, with swelling; tensive pain on dorsum, even when sitting. Heaviness in forenoon; on rising after eating; with numb sensation as if swollen. Stiffness on rising after long sitting. Weariness; as after long running.

Toes.—Stitches beneath nail of l. little; on lower surface of r. third and fourth in afternoon; in balls of great, with pressure and pain as if frozen; in ball of r., < sitting, > walking; through tip of l. great; extending into toes. Pain in l. second, in afternoon when walking. Sudden pain in balls of great (Ledum), it seemed as if he could not stretch out the toes. Bruised pain in balls of l. Burning pain in second l. Drawing pain in corn on l. little. Sore pain in l. little. Sensitiveness of l., with itching.

Skin.—Yellow. Livid. Redness of knee-caps; red round spots on arm; red spots on arms and feet, paining like burning nettles, the spots momentarily disappearing on pressure. Inflammation of dorsum of hand about midnight, with burning pain. Swelling of r. third finger, especially of joint between first and second phalanges, with pain on pressure, < motion, next day r. fifth finger similarly affected; hot, pale S. in last joint of little finger, with sticking in it on moving finger and on pressure.

Red elevated rash over whole body; red rash on neck; on upper part of forearm. Rash on arms, front of chest and above knees, becoming red in evening, with itching and burning, the itching and rash > warmth of bed. Red eruption in hollow of knees, with itching in evening and with biting after scratching. Eruption below l. corner of mouth, with smarting. Itching eruption over whole body, especially on back as far as throat; biting, around throat, < after sweating. Biting and smarting eruption in forepart of night and in morning, on abdomen, on back as far as neck, and on forearms. Tetter on r. cheek.

Pimples.—Red. Painful on thigh. Painful on touch; on l. lower lid. Stinging on touch, between r. thumb and index; (on chin). Inflamed, on back and face, especially on forehead, with pain on strong pressure, then soreness. Burning and itching, on abdomen and hips, with smarting when scratched. Rashlike, pointed, with white semi-transparent vesicles, in groups on small of back, extending over back, abdomen, chest and forearm, becoming confluent, itching on active motion, then desquamation, then redness.

Hard boil behind ear, frequently changing its size. Soft boil in l. inner canthus, with flow of matter. Boil-like swelling before ear, discharging and then becoming a yellowish scurf. Pustule under knee, with pain and sticking on touch; (white, on foot, with pain as in an ulcer, redness of foot and inability to walk on account of the pain). Cracks, with thin crusts. Excoriation of hollow of knee. (Exuding eruption on legs.) (Itchlike eruption on inner surface of wrists, in bends of elbows, externally on condyles of elbows, externally on knee and in hollow of knee). (Ulcerated cartilage of ear.) (The discharge from an ulcer stains the linen blackish.)

Itching stitches on neck, < walking rapidly, > scratching. Tearing in an ulcer. Intermittent burning pain on outer margin of l. knee-cap. Sticking throbbing near crust of an ulcer after dinner. Sensitiveness. Tension on face when moving muscles. Paroxysmal drawing under r. lower jaw, on inner side of l. thigh, from flank to knee. Crawling on both sides of ears; as of a mouse from axilla to hip; (in hands as if asleep). Biting in region of scab of an ulcer in morning after rising, < standing, > sitting and moderate motion.

Itching on face; on scalp and about anus; chest; hands; at union of first and second phalanges of l. fingers; on hips and thighs; r. knee; on legs, about knees and on thighs, with digging, after scratching or rubbing red elevated pimples, with burning pain, the itching > when the pimples arise; in hollow of knee at night, as if something were healing, with sweat in that place; sticking, here and there; burning pain as from nettles on r. side of first dorsal vertebrae; burning, in various parts in evening in bed, with stitches; sudden sticking (itching) burning over whole body, as in nettle-rash, during slight excitement (in laughing), when thinking of it and when heated; tearing, on soft parts of body, before sleep, during day or in evening, or digging burning-itching stitches; tickling, during the day, on arms, hands and feet, with rashlike pimples.

Sleep.—Frequent yawning; towards noon; constant, before dinner, with thirst. Sleepiness; in morning on waking; during the day, with great inclination to a midday sleep, on waking all the limbs were asleep; during the day when alone; in afternoon; after eating. Sleeps all day, with dry heat, without eating or drinking, with twitching in face and with six involuntary, brown and offensive stools. Sound sleep at night, sleepiness all next day, uneasy sleep next night, and wide awake the following day. Difficult waking in morning. Desire to lie long in morning (without weakness).

Sleeplessness; in evening, in a child; before midnight, also with frequent micturition; before midnight on account of frequent shivering over one arm and leg, then sweat; till 12 o'clock, with warmth and anxiety in blood; after midnight, with weariness, which increased in legs after rising; till 1 A.M., on account of anxious heat, but without external heat; till 2 A.M., with turning back and forth, then sleepiness in morning after waking; till 4 A.M., then dreams of dead persons; S. till towards morning; from uneasiness in blood, with tossing about; from uneasiness in blood and anxiety, with necessity to rise from bed and with thoughts crowding upon one another; on account of heat, but coldness on uncovering; (though tired, with loss of breath when he tries to sleep). Late falling asleep, then restless, unsound sleep.

Waking at midnight, with frightful dreams and crick in back, sour stomach and much itching kept me awake some time; suddenly before 3 A.M., then sweat till morning, wherewith he lay comfortably on the back and slumbered a little, with dryness of forepart of mouth and lips, without thirst. Waking early in night. Waking every hour, with vivid remembered dreams. Frequent waking from dreams; from unpleasant dreams, with necessity to urinate; from restless dreams or from involuntary motion of legs which caused pain; always with chilliness in toes.

Restless sleep, could scarcely sleep for half an hour, and during his slumber was busy with what he had read the previous evening; R. sleep, with sweat; with confused dreams. Starting up in fright in evening before sleep; from an anxious dream and screaming out; which wake her. Moaning in sleep about 3 A.M. (Motions of the mouth in sleep, as if chewing.) Towards evening while asleep, she drew her mouth back and forth, opened her eyes, distorted them and spoke distinctly but hastily, and as if entirely different persons were about her, looked freely about, talked with strange children and desired to go home. Consciousness that he was sleeping, causing anguish, since consciousness became weaker and at last threatened to be lost as in faintness, and from this anguish arose an internal struggle, which caused complete consciousness, after waking the arm on which he was lying was senseless and stiff. Somnambulistic condition. Arose from bed at night and went to the door as if she would go out. Found himself lying upon the floor in the corner of the room opposite his bed, with the bed-covers under him.

Dreams.—That he was busy about his household affairs. Of dispute and vexation. Frightful, with frequent waking. Vivid; all night, of anxiety about his business; after midnight, and remembered; after eating, and after waking, stitches and pressure near sternum, in region of fifth rib. Anxious, with crying out in sleep about three o'clock. Confused, in which he was very active; C. and anxious. Heavy, with cries and groans. Indistinct, of battles, in which he took part. Restless. Pleasant. While awake, that he tried to break someone's window. On waking he could not free himself from his dream and he continued to dream waking.

Fever.—Chilliness; after midday nap, with confusion of head; in afternoon, while walking, with heat; towards evening; in evening before lying down; in evening in bed; all over in evening, with gooseflesh, thirst and with hot and red cheeks; on lying down, with yawning and nausea, then sweat from 10 P.M. till 10 A.M., without thirst; on waking; in open air, also with dread of it; on moving; after walking in open air; while ascending a mountain, then sweat and weariness; with weakness; with sudden heat; then heat; frequent, while walking on a hot day; creeping.

Shivering; in afternoon, then heat in head, with pulslike pain in temples (< in evening), warmth in arms and hands, and with chill on chest and arms, all without thirst; in evening; with nausea and aversion to tobacco-smoking; peculiar, while washing. Shaking chill, compelling her to lie down, with sticking above l. hip as if a suppurating ulcer would break. Sudden shivering caused by a draft of air from turning in bed, with jerking up in bed, twitching of dorsal, pectoral and abdominal muscles, trembling of limbs, the chill concentrating itself in the interior of chest, reappearing on moving body or putting a limb out of bed. Sudden shaking chill, then heat, with debility of limbs.

Chilliness over whole skin. Coldness down whole r. side. Chilliness in face; on arms; in feet; in an ulcer, with pain as from too great cold. Cold sensation over back after eating, extending forward, with pressure in pit of stomach, then the cold sensation extends over shoulders and forearms; along spine, > motion, with drawing pressure in back and lumbar muscles and necessity to suddenly straighten up; along spine, next day heat, with hot sensitive skin and transpiration on slightest motion. Shivering in back; with involuntary closure of eyelids; from nape down spine. Creeping chill down back; in lower limbs in evening in bed, especially in thighs, even the skin felt cool; over l. leg; in l. thigh in evening.

Heat; in forenoon, with thirst, chilliness in afternoon without thirst, but with redness of face and headache; without thirst; in flushes; in interior of body, especially in abdomen; internal, with unquenchable thirst; internal, the blood seeming to burn in the veins; internal and external on lying down in evening, lasting all night, without thirst, with turning from side to side, and on uncovering any part, griping-sticking or sticking-griping in abdomen, as from spasmodic movements of flatus, with sleeplessness from crowding thoughts.

Dry heat in morning; at night; sudden; on every motion and at every noise; internal, extending over whole body, with dryness of tongue, lips and palate, and with loss of thirst, weakness, especially of limbs, pulse full and rapid, skin dry and rough; especially of hands, feet, face, with rapid pulse, confusion of head, pressing-out pain in occiput and neck, roaring in l. ear, coryza, stoppage of l. nostril, discharge of watery substance from r. angina tonsillar, loss of thirst and appetite, stitches below l. nipple, as in pleura costalis, pain in loins, continued erection of penis without desire, stitches in l. testicle, burning in region of lower third of r. ulna, quiet sleep, all symptoms > about midnight, by copious sweat.

Heat in head in morning, with external warmth of it; H. in head in forenoon, with feeling as if it would come out at forehead; in head at 3 P.M., with pressure in frontal eminence; in head, with nausea; in face, with redness and thirst; in face towards evening; in face, and after light work sweat of face; in flushes over face; lobules of ears; in external ear in evening, then shivering in thighs. Burning in throat externally, with tension;

B. in back; below and between scapulae. Heat in palm and forearms, forcing her to lie out of bed, then cold sensation in them; frequently in lower limbs, as if she stepped into hot water. Burning on inner side of thigh towards evening; externally on knee; on anterior surface of r. tibia; feet as far as malleoli, as if in hot water, with stitches in heels and corns, and with stiffness of lower limbs and nape. Burning in an excoriated painless spot.

Sweat in morning; towards morning, after waking; towards morning, especially on feet; at night; all night, with sleep only from 12 till 3 o'clock; on waking; while eating; all over body when walking in cold air; after slightest exertion; after moderate exercise in open air, and after changing the linen it streamed from face and whole body, with such rapid breathing that he could only speak in broken and jerklke words; while eating; of whole body and head in bed; profuse after 3 A.M. every night; necessity to go to bed at 9 A.M., then copious S., then disappearance of the symptoms in the same order in which they appeared, only vertigo continued longer; sour (sometimes towards midnight); sour, during a good night's sleep. Cold. Anxious, preventing sleep. Sweat which seems like oil when wiping; S. on whole body, even dropping from hair; streaming from face while walking; in axilla; in palms. Transpiration suppressed.

Clinical.—It is frequently indicated in scarlet fever, when the eruption does not develop well and the general symptoms of the drug are present; the same is true of measles. In typhoid fever it is very frequently indicated in the early stage with the occipital headache, furred tongue, thirst, abdominal soreness, etc. In a great variety of fevers not eruptive. For febrile states, which are the accompaniment of inflammatory processes in various organs and tissues, always with headache, thirst and intolerance of motion (closely allied to Iod.).

Bufo.

The poison of the toad (Rana Bufo) is triturated with sugar of milk.

General Action.—Our knowledge of this substance is too meagre and the symptomatology too indefinite to enable one to form conclusions concerning its properties.

Generalities.—Progressive emaciation, even to consumption and death. Swelling of whole body. Convulsions. Jactitations of tendons. Constant shaking of head and arms. Pandaliculations. Disposition to lie on l. side, feels better so than when on r. side. Intoxicated feeling. Inability to answer or move, though he hears what is said. Gradual failure of strength. Prostration in the midst of a meal, with inability to speak or move, with dim vision and distress at heart. Faintness; now and then; after breakfast; as from hunger, in morning and during the day, before a meal.

Clinical.—Epilepsy ushered in by a ery, livid face. Epilepsy, the result of sexual excitement. Epilepsy coming on at the time of the menses.

Mind.—Propensity to bite. The child runs like mad. Choleric disposition. Nervousness, great irritability. Howling, constant crying. Alternate complaining and crying in a child. Impatience. Little disposition to work. Apathy. Coma. Stupor, with inability to speak; S. obliging him to seek a support, after the dizziness.

Head.—Aching two days on waking at 3 A.M.; in afternoon and at night, preventing sleep; towards

5 P.M., obliging him to lie down; after breakfast, continuing into the night and preventing sleep; during work while sitting; > at night and by lying; > epistaxis; with fatigue, nausea and cold feet; increasing for three or four minutes, then diminishing during the same time; shifting about, during menses. The beating of the head increases the headache and corresponds with it. Heaviness. Vertigo; only in morning, < after eating; < in morning, with weakness as from loss of blood; then face flushes, heart feels compressed and chest seems squeezed in a vise; the head feels as if carried along by the motion of waltzing. Symptoms < movement.

Forehead.—Aching after a hard and curled stool (with protrusion of hæmorrhoids), with heaviness in eyelids and nausea; and vertex, with soreness on touch, the soreness < towards 4 or 5 P.M. Weight, and in eyelids, with disturbed vision, sparks before eyes, pain at heart, cold sweat on head and in hair, coldness of body, especially of feet, such piercing colic as to almost cause faintness, burning thirst, vomiting after drinking, vomiting of food, then of bitter and acrid matter, the least movement aggravates the headache and brings on nausea and vomiting.

Clawing-digging in l. temple when walking. Pain in l. temple and vertex on waking towards 3 A.M., with soreness to touch. Hemierania of r. side, > nose-bleed. Hair falls out.

Eyes.—Frightful and squinting look. Bloodshot. Itching, with redness, swelling, dimness of vision, lancinating pain, stinging (local effects). Lids opened wider. Inability to keep lids open. Vision dim. Appearance as of a veil before eyes at 3 or 4 P.M., with smarting in eyes and lachrymation. Vision lost.

Nose.—Burning in nostrils. Much sneezing in evening on going to bed; in evening, with obstruction and with heaviness in head and eyelids. Coryza in morning, with sneezing; C. > after sweat in morning in bed. Blowing out of clear water. Crusts after coryza. Mucous secretion, which is dry or soft and very fetid. Offensive mucus. Mucus descends from nasal fossæ into throat. Bleeding. Blowing out of blood.

Face.—Expression altered. Flushed, with heat every now and then. Herpetic pimples on upper lip after coryza.

Mouth.—Teeth fall out. Boring in teeth. Hard swelling on gum, with feeling as if forcing out the back teeth, which seemed too long, with salivation at night, the symptoms preventing sleep, the pain transiently > by putting warm hand on cheek. Pain in gums as if burned. Tongue black. Loose, pasty yellowish coat on tongue. Tongue difficult to move. Stammering. Pain in palate and in r. margin of tongue, with aversion to tobacco. Scraping dry sensation on palate and back of mouth, painful on empty swallowing.

Saliva abundant, frothy. Breath offensive. Taste bitter (not of food); biting B. at back of mouth, as from radishes. Nauseous, sweetish taste in morning in bed, with clammy mouth. Taste of tobacco not as good as usual, after long smoking nausea and vomiting, smoking in forenoon causes overpowering sleepiness.

Throat.—Painful swelling of r. submaxillary glands. Something seems to come from head. Dryness in morning; D., with inflammation, and in œsophagus.

Stomach.—Desire for pastry and dainties. Appetite irregular, ceasing after first mouthful. Aversion to food; and to drink. Slight thirst during a meal, while the cough continues. Urgent thirst for cold sugared water. Eructations during the day, with some acidity; fetid; tasting like spoiled eggs, after eating fresh bread and pastry. Hiccough. Nausea; after meals. Vomiting of food after drinking, during the headache, then bitter and acid vomitings; violent V. Cramp; after breakfast. Drawing as from hunger, but without appetite, with strong beating of heart, then headache.

Abdomen.—Flatulence; < after meals, with eructations. Emission of flatus in morning, preceded by borborygmi, with empty feeling in stomach; fetid flatus. Lancinations, nearly causing faintness, with burning thirst, cold sweat in hair, then four stools, increasingly liquid. Digging-cutting, after the ulcers on finger and tibia had healed, especially in morning, and after drinking milk and from smoking tobacco. Pain; intermittent, after meals, with borborygmi. Colic in hypogastrium. Incurable obstruction of liver, with enlargement.

Rectum and Stool.—A jet of blood from a hemorrhoid when straining at stool, then fatigue. Frequent urging to stool, but only one scanty evacuation daily, afterwards four daily stools, with colic and flatulence. Stool towards 2 or 3 A.M. Dysentery. Liquid, yellowish S. Semi-liquid, after meals, afterwards an obstinate hemorrhoid outside margin of anus, preceded by smarting of anus. Sometimes hard, sometimes soft S., sometimes both together. Whitish, as in icterus. Lumbrici in a child's S. Frequent, yellowish, soft, but consistent; F. and copious; S. every two days. Suppressed, with coldness of whole body except head, which is hot.

Urine.—Copious and frequent emission. Suppressed. Scanty, during constipation, and thick, yellowish, of strong ammoniacal odor, depositing a sediment; S. of a yellow-ochre color, with yellowish sediment, with pain in loins, after the pain in loins the urine is clearer and more abundant, micturition four times in a night. Red. Brown, smelling like fish-brine. Clear, with liquid stools.

Sexual Organs.—He applies his hands to genitals. Involuntary discharge of semen. Impotence. Leucorrhœa without smell, as clear as water. Menstruation too early.

Respiratory Organs.—Hoarseness. Suffocation towards 3 A.M., with restlessness of limbs, trembling of hands, legs, and head, sensation as if everything, even in head, were unsteady. Panting. Breath lost when ascending stairs. Breathing difficult. Cough every night at 3 or 4 o'clock, from pricking in larynx; from stinging in larynx, following coryza; before a meal and in the house, > at night. After cold feet, pricking in larynx, exciting cough all day, < evening, the C. continues all night. Motion increases the frequency of cough, although it is equally troublesome during rest. Dry hacking C., > more frequent stools.

Chest.—Stitches piercing the deep pectoral muscles and mammary gland, mostly on r. breast, impeding respiration. Pain in a spot, now here, now there, when walking. Smarting in upper third of sternum. Oppression. Compression afternoons, and of heart. Sensation as if there were two swellings at upper part of sternum, appearing to grow larger in bed, impeding respiration and causing pain on swallowing.

Clinical.—Indurations in the mammary gland.

Heart.—Pain every two hours (four days after getting chilled), with retching, cough and expectoration tinged with blood. Palpitation at intervals; after a meal, with an interval, during which he felt as if going to be ill.

Neck and Back.—The headache affects the nape, which feels compressed. Pain in loins as if pierced by a red-hot iron two mornings, < movement, arresting the breath and nearly causing faintness, next day pain as if strained, preventing him from straightening himself or stooping, during the pain in loins the urine is scanty, of yellow-ochre color, thick, with yellowish sediment. Pain in loins, then trembling of legs in morning and giving way of them from weakness.

Extremities.—Pinching-digging in middle of long bones, wandering about as if in periosteum. Falling asleep of upper E. when lying upon them lightly, afterwards of the lower ones. Burning of arm after the poison has touched the r. hand, with swelling and a yellow color on a black ground. Digging pinching in r. deltoid on raising arm. Digging, throbbing, periodic pain on inner surface of tip of r. elbow.

Lower Extremities.—Weariness of thighs when walking. Legs drawn up so as to touch the buttocks, in a child. Cramp of legs towards 4 or 5 A.M., drawing up with a start. Crampy pain in calf (during the weakness), < motion, > at rest. Pain as from a blow in middle of r. tibia when standing. Stiffness of r. leg, beginning above knee, where it is most marked. Weakness of legs, even to falling. Digging pain in ungual phalanges of three last toes, and on inner malleolus, with corrosive itching on inner border of r. foot.

Skin.—Yellow. Pale and swollen, as in dropsy. Pimples (local effects). Whitish crust over eyebrows. Vesicles in palms and soles, with yellow excreting fluid. Burning-itching vesicle, surrounded by erythematous blush, near l. wrist, discharging a little serum, then a boil, with fever and with lancinations to axilla; corrosive painful V. on inner surface of proximal phalanx of r. index finger, then desquamation; corrosive painful, in middle of r. tibia, with red areola, then a whitish-gray, thick, fatty scurf, from which new exudations enlarged, till of the size of a quarter of a dollar, with corrosive pain and red areola, afterwards desquamation, leaving a reddish-brown spot, with shiny, scaling skin.

Pustules covering the whole body, like a bad case of scabies. Suppuration from every slight injury, even the prick of a needle, with corrosive pain. After a slight bruise, pain in r. little finger, with suppuration, then inflammation of finger, causing tearing-drawing pain along whole arm and redness of finger along lymphatics, extending to axilla, in which granular swellings appeared and were painful, especially on motion and touch, the inflamed lymphatics became swollen, the arm heavy and painful, Hepar sulph. > the lymphatic inflammation and the corrosive pain in ulcer of little finger and ulcer under thumb-nail.

Swelling, hot, bluish-red, painful to touch, on inner lower border of l. thumb-nail, then suppuration involving half the nail, with throbbing-digging pain, extending into joint of index and metacarpal bones, then gnawing, then scaling of skin several times. Itching, > friction of body-linen, then smarting, especially when it has been thus allayed; I. on whole outer surface of thighs and legs every day towards 4 or 5 P.M.; corrosive, on l. leg and knee-cap.

Clinical.—Bulle, which open and leave a raw surface, exuding an ichorous fluid.

Sleep.—Invincible sleepiness after a meal. Waking at 3 or 4 A.M. Waking every few moments. During sleep sense of fatigue and of numbness in every limb, obliging frequent change of position. Dreams of travel, of projects and of greatness.

Fever.—Shivering after stool, < evening. Chilliness in calves, then cramplike pain in them. Quartan fever, with intense heat and violent delirium. The heat of the fire is distressing. Heat rising into face; H. of limbs; of hands; of feet; except in feet, which are cold. Sweat in morning in bed; S. mostly on hams; copious, on hairy scalp; cold.

Cactus.

A tincture is prepared from the fresh flowers and youngest twigs of Cactus grandiflorus L. (Cereus grand., Dec.).

General Action.—Particularly a "heart remedy," most of the symptoms being the outcome of cardiac disturbance. A malarial feature is marked and valuable, and in this respect (only) it is to be compared with Gelsem.

Affinities.—Dig., Crotalus, Phos., Amyl nit., Spigel., Gelsem.

Generalities.—Muscles did not obey the will accurately, owing to defective vision or to other causes. Restlessness when sitting, legs thrown here and there involuntarily; R., with haste in his actions, he seemed never to be in time, with agitation at heart and feeling of oppression. Jerking-tearing in forehead and in limbs. Pain now and then during the day, in muscles of r. upper arm, of chest, of calves, of soles. General discomfort. General malaise. Weakness; with sadness and bad humor; so that he does not venture to speak; so that he does not venture to walk. Inspiration of fresh air is very reviving.

Clinical.—Intermittent neuralgia, < fasting.

Mind.—Hypochondriasis. Fear of death, belief that his disease is incurable (Dig.). Sadness, taciturnity and weeping mood. Love of solitude. Anxiety, returning in evening. Passion at slightest contrariety. Feeling of having done violence to myself. Semi-remorse at having done something wrong. Disposition to do deliberately whatever was undertaken. Impulse to do something factitious; something bordering on the grotesque; to swallow large and unwholesome portions of medicine. Repugnance to the taking of more medicine. Talking nonsense in sleep at night and talking disconnectedly on waking. Difficulty in arriving at conclusions.

Head.—Aching from congestion; A., with weariness; causing anxiety, so that he cannot stay in bed; with weight on vertex, pressing in temples, pulsating in temples, ears and eyes, as if they would burst outward, weakness of vision and intolerance of light and sound. Empty feeling. Fulness as from congestion. Sensation at night as if brain had grown fast to skull. Vertigo; from congestion to head; causing staggering.

Aching in forehead; in l. side in evening and on waking in night; in F., < bright light, loud voices or noises; intermittent, in F., < in house. Pulsating pain in temples, < at night. Pulsations in temples, as if skull would burst; in T. and ears, causing hypochondriasis. Weight in r. temple, > pressure, and on r. eyebrow. Pain like a weight on vertex; > pressure; < sound of talking and by any noise. Tensive pain in vertex every two days.

Pressure on r. parietal bone; in l. Pain in l. parietal bone in morning after rising; in l., in forenoon, more externally; in r. side of head, < raising head from pillow; in r. side, < sound of talking and by bright light; pulsating, in r. side of head, with weight, Aching in cerebellum; in occiput, > quick exercise or mental activity; in O., < motion of head, with drawing. Painful drawing in aponeurotic covering of occiput, > bending head backward. Heaviness in posterior part of brain on retiring, < touch of pillow, > lying on side, with pain.

Clinical.—Congestive headaches. Threatening apoplexy. Neuralgic headaches, especially in r. side and on vertex, periodical.

Eyes and Ears.—Vision weak; periodically; lost momentarily; lost, with circles of red light. Pulsations in ears. Hearing diminished by buzzing in ears. Noise all night like the running of a river.

Nose and Face.—Dry coryza, with necessity at night to breathe, with the mouth open; fluent and acrid C. Profuse noschled. Face pale, with emaciation; flushed; bloated (access) and red, with pulsating pain in head.

Mouth and Throat.—Tongue dry and coated, with slime in nares and throat. Sensation in mouth of having swallowed something unpleasant. Scraping in palate. Breath fetid in morning. Taste soapy; T. slimy, weedy. Scraping on soft palate. Felt in throat an accumulation of mucus, which was expectorated. Constriction in throat, causing frequent swallowing of saliva; C. in oesophagus, preventing swallowing, he must drink much water to force anything into stomach.

Stomach.—Appetite better than usual; at breakfast; great, but digestion slow and weak; lost; lost, with nausea; lost, with loss of taste of food. Thirst; satisfied with a small quantity of water at one time. Acrid, acid rising in throat and mouth and making all food taste acid. Nausea; with retching and copious discharge of mucus. Copious vomiting of blood.

Gastro-enteritis. Pain; terrible, with pressure inward, constriction of scrobiculus, extending to hypochondria and to fifth rib, as from a hot-iron cincture having involuted edges of an inch in size, pressing more and more till respiration was distressing. Pulsation; in pit; in coeliac artery after dinner, corresponding with pulsation of r. temporal artery. Heaviness. Oppression and weight. Stricture about S. and chest. Constriction in scrobiculus, extending to hypochondria and impeding respiration. Burning. Empty feeling. Sensation of something disagreeable in it. Uneasiness as from difficult digestion. Digestion bad, all food causes weight in S. and so much suffering that he prefers to fast. Digestion slow, even after eight or ten hours the taste of food rises in throat.

Clinical.—Dyspepsia, with heart symptoms, palpitation, constriction, etc.

Abdomen.—Borborygmi before stool. Pain; almost causing faintness. Distress here and there as if a serpent were turning around. Soreness, with distention. Burning internally. External heat in parieties. Cutting in umbilicus after stool; in lower umbilical and hypogastric regions. Wandering periodical pains in umbilical region. Constriction in groins, extending around pelvis.

Anus.—Copious hæmorrhage (Crotal., Phos.). Bleeding of hæmorrhoids after stool. Swollen painful varices outside. Pricking, > slight friction. Sensation of great weight and urging to evacuate a great quantity, but nothing passes. Sensation as if rectum were swollen, causing scraping during stool and pricking. Itching.

Clinical.—Hæmorrhage from the bowels in malarial fevers and with heart symptoms.

Stool.—Soft, then pain in hypogastrium. Frequent diarrhoea from 6 to 12 A.M., preceded by great pain, no stool in afternoon; frequent bilious, always preceded by pain; bilious, with pain in abdomen; frequent mucous, preceded by drawing pain; copious watery, the morning stools always preceded by pains and borborygmus. Hard, difficult, then discharge of blood from anus. Constipation; as from hæmorrhoidal congestion.

Urinary Organs.—Constriction of neck of bladder. Frequent urging at night, with a copious flow each time. Ineffectual urging. Micturition by drops, with much burning. Involuntary M. in sleep at 5 A.M. Frequent and copious M. Irritation in urethra as if he should urinate constantly. Redness of orifice of urethra. Heat in urethra, gradually increasing. Urine copious; after a long endeavor to pass it; and reddish, turbid; and straw-colored. Urine scanty. U. of the odor of freshly-drawn green tea. U. deposits a red sand.

Clinical.—Hæmorrhage from the bladder.

Sexual Organs.—Tendency to congestion to urogenital system. Priapisms towards evening; just before retiring. Great desire, with priapisms. Copious emission about 12 M., after strong desire.

Pain in uterus and its ligaments every evening, increasing gradually till 11 P.M. Pulsating pain in uterus and ovarian region, like an internal tumor suppurating, at the same hour every day, extending to thighs. (Constriction in uterine region, gradually extending to stomach, causing sensation of a great flow in veins and eliciting cries, then passing off rapidly.) Painful menstruation, causing loud cries; painful, with prostration. Menses eight days too soon. Black, pitchy, rather abundant M. Scanty M., ceasing while lying.

Clinical.—Inflammation of the ovaries, with constriction. Vaginitis. Dysmenorrhœa, pains occur periodically, menses cease on lying down, with heart symptoms.

Respiratory Organs.—Cough, which aggravated the suffering, with mucous expectoration; C., with thick expectoration like boiled starch and yellow; caterhal, with much viscid expectoration; spasmodic, with copious mucous expectoration; obstinate, stertorous, < night; dry at night, from itching in larynx.

Hæmoptysis (Phos.). Difficult breathing, with oppression and uneasiness as if chest were constricted by an iron band (Dig. in part.). Periodical suffocation, with fainting, cold sweat on face and loss of pulse (Dig.). Congestive asthma. Oppressed breathing when walking; < open air; with anxiety; as from weight on chest (Phos.). Short inspiration; short breathing when walking and when ascending stairs, with palpitation.

Clinical.—Bronchitis, with rattling of mucus, great distress for breath, etc. Hæmorrhage from the lungs, with violent action of the heart, oppressed respiration (compare Aconite).

Chest.—Stitches in r. upper. Pain; in upper part of r. side; at night in nerves running from l. axilla to adjoining pectoral region; in l. breast, < touch, > gently raising it; < walking and ascending stairs, causing deep breathing, with palpitation; between l. second and third ribs when sitting quietly, causing deep breathing; sharp wandering, in cavity, worse in scapular region. Painful drawings in l. muscles extending to shoulder-joint and impeding respiration and use of arm. Constriction as if bound; as from a tight cord around false ribs, with obstruction of breath; in middle of sternum, as with iron pinners, < motion, with oppression of breathing; preventing free speech, when forced to speak the voice is weak and hoarse; in upper part, hindering respiration. Oppression, with loss of breath; O. in l. subclavian region. Congestion, preventing lying in bed.

Clinical.—Inflammation of diaphragm, with feeling of pain and soreness marking the attachments of the diaphragm.

Heart.—Pricking pain, impeding respiration and motion of body. Acute pain, with stitches, causing loud cries (Spig.), with obstruction of breath. Heavy pain, < pressure. Heaviness and pressure. Constriction as by an iron band (Amyl. n.). Sensation as if a reptile were moving backward, < by day. Drawing.

Increased action all forenoon, and on walking pulsation in chest, with anxiety; beating, < lying on side at night, with pulsation in chest, and with anxiety and restlessness. Rapid, short, irregular beats on rapid motion. Violent irregular beats, with pressure and heaviness; violent irregular beats towards evening, from a sudden movement while sitting; on slow walking, rising from a chair, turning suddenly. Single irregular beats, with necessity to inspire deeply. Small, quick, irregular pulsations in morning on moving in bed. Violent beat on slow walking in the room, with tightness of chest and deep breathing.

Palpitation (Spig., etc.), < walking, and at night when lying on l. side; on sitting and lying in evening, < lying on back, with oppression at heart; at night in bed, with pulsation in upper part of chest; on standing and sitting, with anxiety at heart; at beginning of any motion, with anxiety in chest rising into throat, but continued walking does not bring on P.; from rapid motion, such as suddenly stooping or rising from a seat, and from excitement, not from rapid walking; in small, irregular beats from slight excitement or deep thought, with necessity for deep inspiration. Nervous palpitation, augmented gradually at occurrence of catamenia. Heart symptoms felt on waking at night and changing position, as in daytime. Symptoms so violent when beginning to walk that he must stand still and inspire deeply, the same occurred on ascending and descending stairs.

Clinical.—Cardiac dropsy, with labored breathing, œdematous extremities, inability to lie down. Nosedbleed, with hard, violent action of the heart and constriction. Acute inflammation of heart, pericardium and endocardium. Hypertrophy of heart. Violent palpitation. Angina pectoris. In all these diseases there is present the characteristic feeling as if an iron band prevented the normal action of the heart, with suffocation, cold sweat, etc.

Pulse.—Irregular. Hard and sudden, but not rapid.

Back.—Pain in spine, worse in lumbar region, pressing down gluteal muscles to inferior extremities. In muscles of lower r. side, extending into gluteals, in morning before rising, lasting all day.

Extremities.—Tearing in joints, now in shoulder, now in elbows, now in fingers, < r. side. Pain towards evening; P. in various joints. Drawing in fingers, toes, knees and ankles. Drawing pain in axilla and in neighboring part of chest anteriorly, affecting the nerves, in bed, before sleep. Tearing in l. shoulder-joint; in shoulders and arms, at first worse in joints, afterwards worse in long bones. Constriction of shoulders, so that he could not move them. Tearing through l. arm; drawing, in r. arm in morning on waking, lasting through forenoon, after rising it extends into r. wrist. Numbness of l. arm at night, with pricking in little finger. Weariness of arms, with heaviness. Oedema of hands, < l.

Lower Extremities.—Pain in knees; waking him at night, extending from r. knee-cap to outer side of leg, < slightest motion of leg. Weariness of legs in morning after rising, with heaviness in them and with sleepiness. (Oedema of legs up to knees, the skin shines and pressure with fingers leaves an impression for a long time); (O. of feet up to inferior third of legs). Cramplike pain in r. sole when walking.

Skin.—Dry, scaly herpes (Ars.) at outside of elbows, r., then l.; on internal malleoli, l., then r. Fomication of arms, < l., with weight and difficulty in raising them. Itching on lower part of tibia; on ankles; on abdomen in evening on undressing, and on calves; like stings of insects, on chest and abdomen every evening, > in bed on going to sleep, afterwards it appeared during the day, > at evening.

Sleep.—Sleepiness, lay down early and slept well all night with his clothes on; S. as after severe illness. Sleeplessness; in evening and night from arterial pulsations in pit of stomach and in r. ear; the forepart of the night on account of rush of ideas, then restless sleep; the first hours in the evening, then sudden waking; with pulsations in both ears. Restless sleep. Interrupted sleep, and the next morning fatigue as if he had not slept at all. Delirium at night, ceasing on waking, but returning as soon as he goes to sleep. Voluptuous dreams, with painful erections; V. dreams, with emission of semen.

Fever.—Shivering, which passes off quickly towards 2 P.M. Chilliness towards 10 P.M.; at night; with chattering of teeth. Fever every day at the same hour (Cedron), chill at 1 P.M., then heat, dyspnoea, pulsating pain in uterine region, ending in sweat, then from 11 P.M. till 12 A.M. complete apyrexia. Chill, then fever and headache, ending at 4 P.M. in sweat; C., then heat, which causes shortness of breath and madness, so that he cannot remain quiet in bed. Coldness in back and icy-cold hands, although he took warm soup and his face and hands became hot. Heat at night, with headache, dyspnoea and inability to remain lying; H. in head and face, causing madness and anxiety. Copious sweat after the hot stage.

Clinical.—Intermittent fever, paroxysms about midday (11 A.M.), the paroxysms may be incomplete in their stages, accompanied by hemorrhages, especially from the bowels; coldness predominates, not > heat; it may be followed immediately by cold sweat, with terrible anguish; in one case (a child) the paroxysm was accompanied by convulsions and hemorrhage from the bowels.

Cadmium Sulfuratum.

This salt is triturated with sugar of milk for use.

General Action.—Our knowledge of its action is too meagre to enable one to generalize. It seems, however, to be analogous to Zincum.

Generalities.—Lying with the head low and the hands under it. Jactitations, startings of limbs (Zinc.). Cutting in joints. Restlessness. Weakness after vomiting; W. of affected parts, with horripilation. Aggravation of symptoms in morning, before noon, after grief, after drunkenness, by hunger, when lying and sitting; after sleep, on walking in open air, from a draught of air, from reflection, in air, in sunshine, when staring at an object, when ascending steps, when walking, after running, when lying, finally they may compel lying down; during deglutition and after vexation. Amelioration when sitting; when eating.

Mind and Head.—Horror of solitude; of work. Anxiety; before going to stool. Apprehension at approach of anybody. Irritability. Head, lancinations. Hammering in H. Inflammation of brain. Tingling in head, with digging and twitching. Tension and sensation as if in a vise. Apoplexy. Pressure above eyes. Pain in vertex. Pulsation in temples.

Eyes.—Hollow. Surrounded by blue circles. Lancinations extending outward. Rending pain. Burning lachrymation. Dilatation of one pupil with contraction of other. Tension in brows. Inability to read small type. Hemeralopia (Iyc.). Aggravation of symptoms in the dark, at night, on looking at a white object and when walking.

Clinical.—Opacities of cornea, with sluggish inflammation (scrofulous).

Ears.—Lancinations. Lacerating pain. Pressure behind. Clucking. Abnormal hearing alternating with abnormal vision. Sounds echo in head.

Nose.—Obstruction by swelling. Lacerating pain. Tension. Tightness at root. Numbness. Epistaxis. Smell ulcerative. Smell cancerous. (Caries of bones and ulcerations?)

Face, Mouth and Oesophagus.—Face grayish. Countenance gloomy. Looked vexed. Trembling of jaw. Lips swollen; aphthae on lips; spasmodic motion of upper lip. Mouth symptoms < during deglutition. Salivation. Taste pitchy; salt T. Constriction of oesophagus.

Clinical.—Facial paralysis from cold.

Stomach.—Thirst; at night in bed, with heat. Rancid eructations, < noon. Nausea; at chest, in mouth, in abdomen, generally with red face and trismus. Gagging and retching up of tough mucus every few minutes. Vomiting; of food, bile and mucus; of acid matter, of black or yellowish matter, with cold sweat on face and gripping (Phos. Zinc.). Cutting. Pain, and at umbilicus, with urging to stool; burning. Aggravation of symptoms in forenoon; during pregnancy; in drunkards (Arg. nit.); after cramps in stomach; after drinking beer; walking or carrying burdens, and symptoms in hypochondria.

Clinical.—Black vomit of yellow fever or of other diseases. Persistent vomiting of drunkards.

Abdomen.—Lancinations: in l. hypochondrium. Gripping in lower. Stretching pain. Bruised pain. Pressure in sides. Compressed feeling. Pulsations. Inertia.

Respiratory Organs and Chest.—Breathing interrupted during sleep. Want of air on waking. Cough.

with unconsciousness, agitation, red face, pain in stomach or vomiting of bile. External chest swollen. Inflammation of mammary glands. Painful blows in chest. Rheumatic pain in external C. Drawing in external C. Lungs feel as if adherent to chest. Contraction of C. Feeling of dilatation in C. Tingling in C. Beating near heart. Weakness of C. Symptoms of C. < squatting posture.

Neck and Back.—Pain in muscles of neck, as from efforts to vomit. Gripping in region of kidneys.

Upper Extremities.—Stretching of arms. Swelling of bones of arms. Swollen sensation in arms. Tension in forearm. Gnawing in hands. Jerking of fingers. Tearing in metacarpal joints.

Lower Extremities.—Lancinations in joints and in heels. Digging. Sprained pain. Boring. Rheumatism. Numbness of thighs. Cramp in legs, with trembling of knees. Pressure in knee. Tearing in legs. Cramp in calf. Feet agitated by shocks while asleep. Heaviness of feet.

Skin.—Blue. Red spots on limbs. Brown spots on elbow; on chest. Yellow spots on cheeks and nose. Yellow eruption. Eruption on forehead, nose and around mouth. Chilblains. Erysipelatous inflammation of nose. Erysipelas of mammae. Herpes on temples. Scaly, tearing, damp, suppurating herpes. Boils on nose; on buttocks. Suppuration of axillary glands. Crawling in face. Itching at night in bed; l. when touched and during cold; > scratching, which excites a voluptuous feeling.

Sleep.—Sleepiness in forenoon; S. when sitting. Sleeps with his eyes open. Moaning and smiling in sleep. Somnolence, with reverie. Nightmare on falling asleep, with startings.

Fever.—Coldness; after sleeping and after waking; with heat of hands. Horripilation after drinking; H., with hot hands. Fever before midnight. Sweat in axillæ; in palms.

Cainca.

A tincture is prepared from the dried bark of the root of Chiocca racemosa, Jag.

General Action indefinite, except that the urinary symptoms seem pronounced and similar to Sarsap., Apocyn., and probably will be found allied to Galium.

Generalities and Mind.—Precipitancy in all actions. Uneasiness. Weakness; after dinner forcing him to lie down. Symptoms < in daytime and especially from 4 to 6 P.M. Violence in evening, with anger. Ennui, forgetfulness. Indisposition for mental labor.

Head.—Aching; especially in occiput, forbidding reading and every mental exertion. Heaviness. Vertigo; on ascending stairs; with vomituration. Lancinating shocks in l. frontal eminence. Tearing in middle of forehead. Supraorbital pain alternately on r. and l. side. Sinciput, darting pain in r. half; pressure; pressure downward; embarrassment, with pressure, then weight; uneasiness, with pressure and heaviness. Piercing pain in r. temple. Lancination in l. temple and r. side of chest. Weight in temples and occiput; in occiput, with pressure.

Eyes.—Pain, with impaired vision and œdema of upper lids. Increased sensibility. Burning. Pressure in balls, with œdema of l. upper lid, which was afterwards red and wrinkled and itched; P. downward and upward in balls, with sensation as if the balls were pressed upward, and the light fell only from above, with troubled vision. œdema of r. lower lid, then minute pustular point. Pressure in orbital bones, then pressure downward in upper half of r. orbital margin, pressive drawing along supra-orbital nerve, with vomituration and uneasiness in abdomen, afterwards the same on l. side. Photophobia. Vision misty after sleeping in afternoon; cloudy before r. eye, before twelve o'clock.

Ear and Nose.—Hissing in E. Roaring and buzzing as from a swarm of insects. Catarrh, < in daytime, of thin mucus, excoriating nose.

Mouth.—Pasty mucus on teeth in afternoon; much paplike mucus on T. after dinner. Tearing in upper teeth in evening. Tongue coated white; coated with mucus; dry, with a dirty white coat. Irritation of buccal membrane as far as larynx, with increased saliva. Salivation; thick abundant saliva. Saliva seemed no longer to be secreted. Offensive breath on waking.

Throat.—Ulcers extending up to the Eustachian tube. Inflammation, with foul-smelling saliva. Scraping; causing cough; on uvula, with pressure in stomach mounting into œsophagus, not > by eructations, and with vomituration, then borborygmi as before diarrhoea; in throat and œsophagus, with itching. Grating. Roughness. Rawness, with peppery taste in it. Irritation in upper part, obliquing hawking. Burning and grating pain. Burning, at first with sensation as from pepper, with hoarseness and rawness and dryness of throat, requiring frequent clearing. Dryness. Dysphagia, beginning at upper and back part of T. Cold feeling down œsophagus.

Stomach.—Appetite lost; for supper; less at dinner. Thirst. Eructations; tasteless, with dryness of throat and trembling of hands. Nausea. Vomituration; with shivering; then borborygmi, several liquid stools, copious urine and continual desire to urinate; < by spitting. Violent vomiting. Copious vomiting of saliva, bile, chyme and fecal matters, then several stools enveloped in viscous mucus. Peculiar indefinable sensation in epigastrium and in umbilical region, with increased urine, > pappy stool. Coldness, then on whole anterior part of chest, forcing him to button his coat, then pressure in S. and throat as from a foreign body, changing into burning; C. in epigastric region.

Abdomen.—Fulness; after stool; with nausea and turgescence at upper part, < clearing throat. Inflation and discomfort, with tenderness to touch, especially under umbilicus. Gurgling. Rumbling; with pain under umbilicus and desire to go to stool. Perceptible pulsation in aorta during rest after eating. Cutting; after breakfast and dinner; C. before stool; C., with calls to urinate. Pinching. Pain; with rumbling, then liquid stool; then diarrhoea mixed with airbubbles; tractive, all around A., with continual borborygmi and eructations, he is obliged to go to bed in apprehension of inflammation of the liver, > diarrhoea. Tenderness on touching it and bending backward.

Stitches in and through spleen. Pressure in r. and l. lobes of liver, extending into r. inferior pulmonary lobe. Warmth about umbilicus, colic, with borborygmus, then eructations as from small doses of tartar emetic. Pressive and lancinating pain in middle of ascending colon, not > by eructations. Hypogastrium distended; but soft.

Rectum and Anus.—Inclination for stool, with pressure at anus. Frequent calls to stool, with escape of nothing but air, and with anxiety and warmth in lower abdomen. Burning in anus. Tickling in anus in evening on lying down, obliging scratching.

Stool.—Soft after dinner. Copious; and soft and frequent, followed by short colicky pains returning periodically; frequent; semi-fluid, yellow, preceded by cutting in abdomen. Two in the day, soft, dark. Frequent in forenoon, first hard, then paplike and less highly-colored. Scanty, then itching at anus. Delayed, containing partially digested food.

Urinary Organs.—Constant desire to urinate (Apoc. e., Equis.). Micturition, with erection of penis, urine fiery and causing burning pain in urethra (Sarsap., Apoc. e.); difficult M. in morning, afterwards with burning in glandular portion of urethra, at noon, with burning at orifice of urethra and constant desire to urinate. Frequent micturition, but urine not increased; with copious urine. Burning in glandular portion of urethra. Drawing pain in urethra, causing desire to urinate. Copious urine; frequent and dark; and colorless. Scanty dingy-brown urine, burning the urethra, almost with strangury. Darker urine. Urine through the day strongly saline with an animal smell, not unlike sausage-soup.

Sexual Organs.—Drawing in testicles and spermatic cord, in evening, with flaccidity of scrotum and feeling as if it were enlarged, afterwards with pain, the pain < during passage of pungent-smelling urine. Desire increased.

Respiratory Organs.—Hoarseness; with vomitition and colic, all > by diarrhœa; voice hoarse and hollow, with dry heat in pharynx. Aphonia. Easily detached mucus in trachea. Heat in trachea. Tickling cough, waking him at 3 A.M., with tough, greenish-gray expectoration. Inclination to cough.

Chest.—Peculiar shooting over trunk, with beating pain. Isolated pains in trunk, lincinating and bruising. Dartings in middle third of r. side. Piercing pain in middle of r. Pricking in lower third of r., with feeling of weight there. Oppression in inferior third, with embarrassed respiration on ascending steps, beginning in sternum. Constriction; with pressure.

Heart and Pulse.—Tension in præcordia. Pulse agitated. Rapid P., < after siesta. Small P., a little accelerated. Full P. Slow P.; and small. Carotids beat more violently.

Back and Extremities.—Pain in small of back, as if in kidneys, > lying bent backward. Pain in l. arm as if broken. Pricking pain in l. hand. Lower extremities, stretching; heaviness; depression in lower limbs, with drawing in muscles of calf, in femoro-tibial articulation, with rheumatic pain in shoulder and back on r. side, in l. intercostal muscles of second and third spaces and in upper lumbar vertebrae, the pain in the second intercostal space extends to sternum and lasts till evening. Breaking pain in knee, with feeling as if the lower end of the femur would escape from the patella (?). Tearing in feet after dinner. Pressure in lower third of under part of r. foot. Weakness in soles; in feet after eating. Pricking under nail of great toe.

Sleep.—Yawning; with stretching of limbs and cramplike feeling in lower limbs. Sleepiness; in morning. Sleepless all night. Restless sleep, with lascivious dreams. Frequent waking and disturbing dreams, as, for instance, that he was about to fall. Wakes in fright and with cries, from painful dreams. Lascivious dreams, with erections, restlessness, and was awakened towards morning by an emission.

Fever.—Chill, with trembling, then weight in head, heat in face and roaring and tingling in ears. Heat; dry, < towards evening, without thirst; H. of face. Sweat; in evening on least motion and in cold air.

Cajuputum.

The Oil of Cajuput, obtained from the leaves of Melaleuca leucadendron, L (Myrtaceæ), is diluted with Alcohol for use.

Generalities.—Trembling, with sensation as if a good deal larger all over. Sensation as if larger all over. Feeling all the afternoon as if just getting over a drunken spree. I feel and walk as if I had taken too much lager. General feeling as if poisoned. Weakness; in morning; with sleepiness. General heavy dull feeling after going to bed. Numbness, especially in face. Amelioration after supper; A. on lying down.

Mind.—Sad, as if I could cry, do not want to be spoken to, feel better in society of ladies. Do not want any one to speak to me but like to see people and hear them talk. Want to walk in a slow and very dignified manner, and prefer to walk alone. Felt at 10 P.M. as if I could not get myself together and could not find my clothes, although they were quite near, felt better in open air. Dull and stupid feeling at 8.30 A.M., with no energy. Stupefied and intoxicated feeling all the afternoon. Cannot think of anything, cannot bear to work or study. Can think of a thousand things in a minute.

Head.—Aching on waking at 5 A.M., with neuralgia in malar-bones and stiff dry feeling in jaws; A. on rising at 5 A.M., suddenly > at breakfast, with prosopalgia; at sunset and lasting all night, after riding in afternoon and evening, with pain in face. Neuralgia almost every day and every other night, suddenly > on eating, and in face. Dull heavy feeling; in morning on rising, > after moving around; full and dull heavy feeling, afterwards settling in occipital region. Dull feeling. Feeling as if as large as a half-bushel. Vertigo when walking, can hardly walk straight, feeling as if I should stumble over my own legs. Sticking above orbital arches, > pressure of hand, < removing hand. Frontal headache, especially in eyes, < bending forward. Pain over l. eye.

Eyes.—Look about E. as if he had taken too much liquor. Dull look. Pain in r.; pungent, with lachrymation. Heaviness without sleepiness. Upper lids feel as heavy and thick as shoe leather. Burning in l. inner canthus. Inability to see at midnight on going out of doors, rubbed his eyes to bring sight.

Ears, Nose and Face.—Redness of lobules of ears; sudden, clearly defined, of alæ of nose. Nose is most prominent, on looking down it looks large and as if extending out from face. Face yellow. Rough feeling in F. Puffed-up feeling in F. Insensibility to pinching in F. Pain through l. malar-bone.

Mouth.—Aching in unsound bicuspid when biting anything. Tongue white and rough, looking like a calf's, with feeling as if scalded and as if the skin would peel off. Feeling as if the tongue filled the mouth. Speech thick and slow. Salivation. Taste as of lye; T. between sour and bitter; sweetish now (always had been salt); acrid, in pharynx and œsophagus.

Throat.—Constant inclination to spit and hawk up much tough white mucus, which I could feel drawn through nares. Burning in lower part; B. down to stomach.

Œsophagus.—Sensation as if lye from wood ashes had been swallowed. Soreness in morning, < thinking about eating. Seemed to close and prevent swallowing. Feeling during breakfast as if solid food lodged until forced down by more food, after breakfast pain as if swollen and constricted and as if something were trying to force through it, < after dinner and supper, and on attempting to swallow solid food.

Stomach.—Appetite good, but unnatural feeling while eating, the eating seeming to be performed mechanically; A. disappeared when I got what I had desired; lost. Thirst; then salt taste; no T. Nausea; from smoking tobacco; on rising from a seat.

Clinical.—Has proved valuable in obstinate hiccough on the slightest provocation, talking, laughing, eating or any motion.

Abdomen, Anus and Stool.—Gripping on riding. Ineffectual urging to stool, with paralyzed feeling in rectum. Itching around anus. Watery, frequent yellowish diarrhoea, < at night. Stools frequent, bright yellow, afterwards delayed. Stool small in morning on rising.

Urinary and Sexual Organs.—Micturition delayed, urine dark red, smelling like that of cats. Diminished urine; and sparkling; with milky appearance and smelling like that of cats. Erections, with great desire; E. all night and long after rising, but without desire, penis soon becoming shrivelled and not half its usual size. Desire gone.

Respiratory Organs and Chest.—Hoarseness. Warmth down trachea into lungs. Cough, with strangulation; C. almost causing vomiting. Pain across chest; in r. side below ribs; in r. lung; sharp, through superior part of lungs; occasional sharp, through lungs; sharp, from before backward through superior and internal parts of r. lung. Soreness across chest, with pain in l. shoulder. Lungs felt loose while riding and as if I must hold them together by pressing on them.

Pulse, Neck and Back.—Pulse rapid; full and strong; P. weak. Sensitiveness of cervical muscles to pressure. Pain in dorsal surface of l. scapula. Stitches through r. lumbar region when stooping.

Extremities.—Almost complete loss of sensibility on outer side of thighs and dorsal surfaces of forearms and hands, with sensitiveness to pinching on inside of thighs and palmar surface of hands. Enlarged feeling in joints, with some pain; in shoulder-joints. Pain on pressure on inside of shoulder, < l.

Arm.—Dislocated feeling in l., with pain on raising it. Tired in morning on rising, and heavy. Feeling as if tied to body, < l.; and l. particularly numb, with feeling as if they would tremble if I would let them. Feeling like soaked wood hanging to me, after breakfast. When raised, feeling as if they would drop in spite of me. Weakness of elbows, with lame feeling. Laming sensation in carpal bones of wrist.

Knee.—Stitches through at midnight on rising in bed. Pain. Weakness when walking; with pain, so that walking was difficult.

Skin.—Eruption as thick as measles all over arms and body and upper part of legs. Itching, < scratching.

Sleep.—Gaping and stretching. Desire to sleep with arms locked under his head. Sleep unsound. Amorous dreams without emissions; unpleasant D., and in the latter part of the dreams disposition to swear and act like a rowdy.

Fever.—Cold feeling, with cold sweat. Burning in face. Profuse and weakening sweat.

Caladium.

A tincture is prepared from the fresh root of Caladium seguinum (Arum seg., L.).

General Action.—Very marked on whole mucous membrane, especially of alimentary canal, and on skin.

Compare Arum (species), Sulph., Rhus t., Graph., Hepar s., etc.

Generalities.—Nervous trembling. Purring feeling along aorta as low as abdomen. Discomfort in evening after eating pickled fish, > by walking, < by driving, with distention of abdomen. Restlessness in forenoon, inclination for nothing, afterwards very busy and forgetful. Dread of motion, with necessity to lie all the time, though there is strength enough when he makes an effort. Necessity to lie down and close the eyes, when it seems as if he were rocked. Weariness. Faintness after writing, when reflecting, lying and on rising. Aggravation from 3 or 4 p.m. till midnight. Amelioration from a short sleep during the day; A. from sweat; motion and open air.

Mind.—Delirium. Excitement. Cries about a vexation, with inconsiderate prattlings. Apprehension before sleep; A. about his health and everything, after fever. Fear of cutting himself while shaving. Anger. Ill humor; and dependency; when his appetite is hardly satisfied at breakfast, with discomfort, confusion of head and sleepiness. Wants something, but does not know what. Forgetfulness of what he has done during the day. Confusion, inability to concentrate mind. Occasional tendency to stupor, from which he would arouse, cry, talk incoherently and perhaps drop into stupor again.

Head.—Drawing tearing, extending to head. Aching; after midday sleep or after lying on side, > when sitting; with nausea; throbbing; tensive; bursting, < in forehead. Feeling as of too much blood. Confusion, with whirlings. Vertigo in morning, with nausea and with stitches in pit of stomach; V. after running; on rising. Forehead, vessels prominent; boring; aching, also in eyes; tension as from a plaster; dulness in sinicput, with heaviness. Temple, stitches in r., < in r. eye; stitches in l., > by pressure, with boring; cutting. Pain in temples; from r. to occiput; throbbing; stupefying, in r. on waking. Numbness of r. side. Drawing in occiput. Pimples sensitive to touch, on hairy scalp behind ear. Stitches in skin of sinicput. Itching.

Eyes.—Red; and watery. Stitches in l. Sensation of sand. Sensation of a hair. Pain on looking at distant objects; stupefying P. when smoking tobacco, and in forehead, with heat in face and restlessness, then hawking of mucus, slimy vomiting and urging to stool. Burning. Hot lachrymation. Sclerotica yellow. Balls, stitches; aching; aching posteriorly; sore to touch. Lids red and inflamed (Rhus L.), eyes smarting and burning (Apis., Sulph.); styes on lower (Graph.). Bright spots before eye, and flickering.

Ears.—Sticking in middle. Pain during fever; shock of P. in r. Throbbing in r., with sensation as if warm water flowed about it in a circle. Tickling in r. evenings, with itching. Sensation of something before them, even in a deaf person. Sensitive to noise, especially if he wishes to sleep; S. to the folding of paper, which wakes him when going to sleep. Twitting. Roaring. "Tic-tac" sounds in r., like two drops of water falling.

Nose.—Painful pimples in r. nostril, on septum. Smarting from the air. Sudden burning in upper part in evening, then irritation to sneeze, short sneezing, then fluent coryza. Stoppage. Dry, as if lined with white of egg. Fluent coryza. Discharge of scanty yellow, glairy mucus.

Face.—Scarlet. Pale, sickly, with black rings around eyes. Biting-burning stiches in cheek. Chapped feeling. Lips swollen; dry and scaly; sore (Arum t.); under sore and swollen; smarting of upper.

Mouth.—Toothache; mornings and evenings; as if elongated; boring, with stiches in ears; drawing downward through l. molars. Teeth seem too long after vomiting, with insipid, herbaceous taste on tongue and scratching in throat. Tongue white; dark purple; dark brown streak down centre (Bap.); yellowish red on edges, dirty yellow at base; cracked, yellow down centre (Bap.); "strawberry"; swollen, feels too large for mouth; rough; sore on margin; pricking in tip; tip feels burnt; feels greasy; tender, feels raw. Articulation difficult, as if mouth were full of mush.

Mucous membrane red, curtains of palate very red, uvula swollen. Inflammation of mucous membrane of M. and fauces, with salivation, choking sensation and desire to swallow, which was difficult. Slimy. Burning, and in fauces. Sensation as if burnt with creosote. Dryness. Sticky and herby. Saliva sticky; streaked with blood as it poured from mouth. Taste slimy; bitter; sweet; metallic; of petroleum; foul; sour to milk, which was repugnant.

Throat.—Hawking of yellow mucus from posterior nares. Inflammation, with pain on swallowing. Pricking in r. side. Pain in soft palate on swallowing. Scratching, with dry sensation and hawking of mucus (Arum t.). Dryness, not in mouth, without thirst, with aversion to cold water; D., with irritation and roughness; of posterior nares, with rawness and roughness; of fauces and base of tongue, with stiffness. Tickling, with cough. "Wanted to shut up," with stiches towards ears and with burning and pain in stomach.

Stomach.—Hunger; in evening, but he eats nothing, then nausea in morning while half asleep, like faintness, as if he had overeaten and must vomit, > when fully awake; desire for sour things, pickles. Appetite lost; he eats only because the stomach is hollow, without hunger, but hastily, and is immediately satisfied. Great desire to smoke and uncommon relish for it. Thirst; waking him at night, with dryness of lips. Longing for beer without decided thirst, with inability to drink water. Drinks nothing all day.

Eruptions of air; as if stomach were full of dry food; acid E.; incomplete, because hindered by burning pressure in abdomen. Hiccough. Nausea; on rising; when smoking his accustomed tobacco and afterwards; with confusion of head; sudden, when smoking a cigar, with urging to stool, but necessity to strain to get rid of a pappy yellow stool.

Swollen and tender to touch. Stiches in pit, < by sitting, causing weakness and nausea, with retraction of pit at every stitch; S. deep in pit. Cuttings in pit and in l. flank, preventing sleep after midnight; C. across pit as with glass. Pressure and gnawing; P. in pit, impeding respiration and causing cough. Deep-seated pain in pit on pressure. Burning pain, with frequent ineffectual retching (Ars.). Burning; all the evening after tea and chocolate; and in upper abdomen, becoming a pressure that extends under breast, and then gnawing in orifice of stomach, which prevents deep breathing and eructations. Heaviness in pit, preventing cough. Fluttering as of a bird, from morning till afternoon, causing nausea. Throbbing in pit, tiring him, after walking. Dryness after eating, different from thirst. Weak, gone feeling.

Clinical.—Inflammation of stomach, with fluttering as of a bird, tolerates only warm drinks, stomach feels full of dry food, with acid vomiting.

Abdomen.—Distention, hardness and pain on pressure; D. and intolerance of weight of clothes. Fetid flatus. Cramps, could not walk nor sit straight. Sudden twisting pain in evening. If the burning extends into A. it leaves a pressure. Pain on touch, < in region of bladder. Drawing in forenoon after a sour plum, then nausea from smoking a few whiffs of a cigar, then corrosive acid vomiting, with mucus and part of some cocoa, then hunger. Throbbing after internal heat, with prostration; T. < on r. side above umbilicus.

Stiches in region of spleen, with jerkings and pressure. Pain in region of liver. Soreness under margins of r. ribs after much writing. Pulsation in upper A. Spasmodic cutting at umbilicus, with necessity to bend himself double. Boring about umbilicus. Pain in hypogastrium, > by emission of flatus; paroxysm of sharp P. in l. H. when lying. Sensation as if a long worm were writhing in region of transverse colon or transverse duodenum.

Rectum and Anus.—Stiches in R.; after stool; as with knives. Urging in morning on rising; mornings, noisy flatus, then straining to eject a pappy stool; frequent desire for a pasty yellow stool. Burning in A. after stool (Sulph.). Discharge of thin red blood after stool; D. of mucus after stool, then of fluid.

Stool.—Frequent, watery, then thicker. Diarrhoea, with tenesmus. Soft, large, yellow; soft, yellow, frequent; S. sour, offensive, yellowish-brown; S., then passage of flatus, later moving about and burning in abdomen, then hemorrhoidal symptoms after a second stool and passage of blood. Scanty, pasty. Mushy, dark. Lumpy. Constipation. Nearly white. Clay-colored, difficult (Hepar s.). Omitted, with feeling of diarrhoea in evening.

Urinary Organs.—Region of bladder painful to touch, bladder seems full, without desire to urinate, then moderate micturition. Spasmodic drawing at side of bladder towards penis, or deep behind or near bladder. Stiches in urethra in evening. Burning in urethra. Urine pale; high-colored, smells strong; turbid, pinkish, with pellicle; gelatinous precipitate.

Sexual Organs.—Seem larger, as if puffed, relaxed and sweating, and skin of scrotum seems thick. Glans covered with red points, with dryness, causing desire to rub it, prepuce swollen along its margin, sore and painful. Burrowing in penis. Retraction of prepuce after coition, with pain and swelling. Swelling of prepuce, soreness on its margin, with biting on urinating, compelling rubbing. Sore corrosive pain on prepuce. Erections mornings when half-awake, > when fully awake; in morning without desire; in morning, and cohabited, but suddenly his desire ceased and he did not know whether there was an emission or not; painful, without desire, changing one morning to desire with relaxation of penis; incomplete, it seems as if broken, with too early emission; no E., even after amorous caresses. Sweat on scrotum. Impotency, relaxation of penis during excitement and desire. Desire increased; diminished. Emission after micturition; in dreams; no E. during embrace, and no orgasm, penis less hard than usual.

Female.—Pruritis vulvæ (Amb., Rhus t., Sulph., Graph.). Cramp pains in uterus after midnight.

Clinical.—The most efficient remedy in pruritis of the vulva and vagina.

Respiratory Organs.—Epiglottis and adjacent parts swollen and painful to pressure. Constriction of larynx and trachea (Brom.), impeding deep breathing, the attacks of cough seem to originate above larynx. Hoarse. Inability to speak, apparently from swelling of vocal cords or from cough. Cough, < by attempts to speak; hoarse C.; in weak paroxysms, with expectoration of lumps of mucus, also chest seems hollow afterwards, weak, toneless, at night, preventing sleep and recurring next morning. Constant desire to take a deep breath, cannot get air enough. Difficult respiration, with grasping at his throat; D., irregular and accelerated. Incomplete respiration, inspiration catching, with sinking in pit of stomach on inspiration.

Chest.—Cracking below last ribs on straightening up, as if they had been dislocated and snapped back again. Stitches; in evening; l. side near sternum; r. side, evenings in bed, < by lying on l. side, > lying on r., with oppression; deep-seated between l. nipple and shoulder. Cutting in r. side, < during respiration and by pressure. Aching in r. side; in twinges on r. side over fifth rib. Tightness. Oppression; with burning in stomach. Peculiar throbbing below heart, not palpitation, only perceptible to hand.

Heart and Pulse.—Heart, cutting in region; constriction; action irregular; action slow. Throbbing of all arteries on lying down, < carotids, the thud of heart-beats rises into ears. Pulse rapid, weak; P. hard, full, jerking.

Back.—Stitches in forenoon, as from incarcerated flatul. Pain in spine. Bruised feeling in morning on rising. Stiffness, and in neck. Loins, boring and burrowing, and in anus; pain in l.; pain in morning, a kind of weakness, with stitches on certain movements, < walking.

Extremities.—Jactitation. Drawing pinching between bones of forearm and behind tendo-achillis. Pain; cramplike, in flexors of l. arm and l. calf, then of r. Crampy tingling running up from feet, and then in l. arm. Loss of power.

Upper Extremities.—Pain in muscles of l. forearm. Stiffness of r. forearm. Veins stand out on back of hand. Feeling in palms towards evening like pins and needles, similar to what is felt when ulnar nerve is struck, or by some persons when looking down from a height, > sleep. Fingers felt large, like sausages, with inability to use them well and feeling as if they would be paralyzed.

Lower Extremities.—Sharp pains, > moving about. Leg, sticking in l.; tired when walking. Knee, sudden pain in l. as if it would be torn asunder, with cracking on stepping, preventing walking; weakness when standing, with trembling. Pinching in soles at night. Sticking in a corn; in a corn on l. foot, and S. in l. eye; in a corn on l. little toe.

Skin.—Dry and rough; D. on forehead, and harsh. Red inflamed spot on bridge of nose. Rash on wrist, forearm and bend of elbow, with white vesicles and itching at night in heat and internal burning after scratching; itching, on chest. Nettle-rash on chest, alternating with asthma; N. of red pimples, which itch and burn, on inner side of forearm, with oppression of chest, so that he could scarcely breathe, as if mucus would suffocate him, < after eating and after midday nap. Pimples on mons veneris and l. ear; painful, red, on r. ear. White pustules here and there, with red areola, itching and soreness to touch. Blisters at l. corner of mouth and on cheeks. Mosquito-bites pain greatly, then itch and burn. Tingling. Crawling as of a fly, < on face. Itching of various parts; at base of r. index; l. elbow; shin; in a point on l. calf; fingers, < when lying at night.

Sleep.—Sleepiness; at 7 A.M., with fretfulness and desire to return to bed; in morning after rising, with closure of eyes while walking in open air, with nausea like emptiness, weakness and prostration in knees; evening; before dinner, so that eyes close, with tension in temples. Necessity to lie down during the day, but inability to sleep, with shivering and vertigo. Sleepless; till 1 A.M. Anxious groans and moans in sleep. Starting in sleep. Sleep unrefreshing. Restless sleep, with confused dreams; R. sleep, with heat, then excessive erections at 4 A.M., without desire, then deep sleep towards 6 A.M., so that he could not rouse himself, with vivid dreams of persons he had not seen for years. Everything troubles him in sleep.

Dreams.—Restless, anxious. Vivid; of dead persons, of events of past years, after waking he falls asleep again directly and continues to dream of them. Of fighting and murder. Confused sleep, during which everything comes to his mind which he had forgotten while awake.

Fever.—Chilliness; in evening, coldness extending from abdomen to feet, with coldness of fingers; in limbs; feet and legs, with hot face, head and hands; l. hand and arm as if ligatured; over back and whole body, with drawing pains in l. little finger, which feels as if full and gone to sleep, and stretched sensation in whole body. Shaking, < of lower jaw.

Heat; during the day, then in evening till midnight coldness, thirst, wheezing in chest, sleepiness, fever wakes him again about midnight and then disappears with throbbing in chest and coryza; after midday sleep, then sweat, then chill in open air; every day between 4 and 5 P.M.; in evening till midnight, and again waking him, with thirst; before midnight, chill after midnight; with fulness and heaviness over orbits; with thirst, pain in ear, swelling of submaxillary glands and constipation; internal, > sleep; internal, with exhausting sweat. Hot and dry skin. Hot hands and feet. Heat in flushes over head, face and chest; H. ascends into head; H. of feet every day between 4 and 5 P.M.; hands, face and abdomen, with coldness of feet before midnight, after midnight coldness of abdomen and heat of feet, without thirst. Burning on external upper margin of ear, without redness or heat; sudden corrosive B. in spots on skin, on cheeks, nose, toes, etc., obliging touching, always on r. side.

Sweat over whole body in forenoon; towards evening, with prostration, yawning and sleepiness; after heat, alluring the flies; cold, clammy on face.

Calcareo Acetica.

To follow the symptomatology use the drug as prepared by Hahnemann, a solution of clean broken oyster-shells in dilute Acetic acid.

General Action.—Compare Calcareo carb. and Acetic acid; but note the brilliant clinical results in inflammations of mucous membranes characterized by a membranous exudation, (uterus, bronchi, etc.).

Generalities.—Weary from want of sleep during the day, but unable to sleep.

Clinical.—A valuable remedy for inflammation of mucous membranes; see under Respiratory and Genital Organs.

Mind.—Anxiety as if he had committed a crime or feared reproaches, with constant inclination to work; A. about the present and future, with deep thought and with indifference to anything not concerned with himself, though not without inclination to work; intermittent, in evening before sleep, > emission of flatus, with which objects seemed like different objects and with dread of darkness; the first part of the day, liveliness and contentment the last part. Apprehensive, sad mood, as if awaiting depressing news. Sadness, almost to weeping, with solicitous care for the present and future.

Fretfulness as soon as he left the open air, where he felt better, with disinclination to talk and with increased headache; F. as soon as he was quiet and thoughtful, with sleepiness and aversion to everything; with indifference to most important objects, he did all his work with aversion; all day, but good humor and talkativeness in the evening. Disinclination to talk, without moroseness. Liveliness and desire to be with people and to talk. Loss of will power though he feels strong.

Head.—Aching, especially in temples; A. while standing after stooping, with heaviness in head and with pressure outward in forehead, especially over l. eye; drawing and at times tearing, now in forehead, now in occiput, now in temples, > pressure or on exerting mind. Shattering in brain on stepping, like an echo in the head. Heaviness on stooping, ~ rising, with jerks in temples and with pain in whole head. Stupid feeling from 3 A.M. till 4 P.M., as if he had turned in a circle. Vertigo; on walking in open air; on walking in open air, as if he would fall to the right; stupefying, the head inclines forward to the left; as if his body did not stand firmly.

Forehead.—Stitches on walking, which especially affect l. side of forehead, > continuing to walk; intermittent, in l.; boring, in l. when sitting, > walking, standing and touch; boring, in middle, extending into brain. Aching on walking in open air, especially above l. eyebrow; in r. eminence, extending to r. eye and compelling him to close it; stupefying, with confusion of senses and obscuration of head while reading, and he did not know where he was; stupefying, in r. < stooping; stupefying in morning after rising, as if he had not slept enough or had been dissipating; drawing, above r. eye on exerting mind, and in occiput; drawing and pressive A. in l. supraorbital region or in temporal bone.

Temples.—Stitches penetrating T.; digging, near l. eyebrow on moving jaw; rhythmical, intermittent, boring outward, extending upward into l., > touch and when sitting. Drawing aching in r. muscle, also in evening, at times with pressure on upper teeth, on pressing upon the temple the pain changes into aching in the forehead; the drawing aching always < after eating and even while eating, with sensitiveness of teeth while chewing, as if they were loose and would be bent over. Cramp-like pain in r.; in l. Pressure as from something hard, close to r. eye; in l. bone as if it would be pressed in, internally and externally; outward in l., and on whole l. side of head and on r. occiput.

Stitches in vertex externally. Pressure on V., extending into eye. Throbbing in V. as in an artery, with cutting shocks extending outward. Jerking stitches in r. half of brain, which often return and leave a pressive bursting sensation. Pulsating stitches in l. parietal bone. Feeling in r. side of head on stooping as if headache would begin.

Pain suddenly shooting through occiput; sore pain in O. on touch, as if suppurating; drawing pain in l. side of O., with stiff feeling in neck; jerklily pressing-outward in l. side of O., extending into neck; feeling as if O. would be pressed asunder. Whole scalp sensitive on moving frontal muscles back and forth; crawling and itching on S. not > rubbing; tickling-itching on S., with pain at roots of hair on touch.

Eyes.—Inflammation, the white entirely red, with much matter in eyes, especially in external canthi, and ulceration of external canthi. Tearing-stitching in r., as if inflamed. Itching. Pupils dilated, then contracted. Agglutination in morning on waking. Stickiness of lids on moving them, with pressure in canthi, especially external one. Burning in l. upper lid, extending to internal canthus. Hardened matter in canthi. Sticking in canthi; itching, in inner, ~ rubbing. Itching in canthi; tickling, in r. external canthus. Boring-stitching on upper margin of orbit. Twitching on upper margin of orbit, extending to nose. Far-sightedness in one naturally near-sighted.

Ears.—Twitching in cartilage. Cramp-like feeling on back of concha. Stitches. Feeling as if something were before r. drum, without diminished hearing. Sensitiveness to noise in evening on falling asleep. Whizzing, with confusion of head.

Nose.—Pimples in nostrils, with scabs. Gnawing pain in root. Frequent sneezing without coryza. Coryza, with sensitiveness of nose and internal heat in head; fluent, with headache; fluent, with much sneezing; stopped, with frequent sneezing.

Face.—Yellow. Pain in muscles of l. cheek. Tension in r. cheek as if swollen. Throbbing on cheek-bones. Tearing in r. upper jaw. Aching in r. upper jaw when chewing. Moist scurf below r. angle of mouth. Roughness of lips, especially of upper, with dryness, as if they would crack. Itching-crawling on upper lip, which, after rubbing, appears on another spot near by.

Mouth.—Stitches in teeth. Gnawing pain in r. upper molars, as if they would be hollow. Throbbing toothache, with sensitiveness of teeth to touch and with swelling of gum, which pained when touched. Stitches in upper gum. Boring in r. upper gum, then swelling, with pressive drawing in r. temporal muscles. Blisters on tongue, with burning pain and heat in mouth. Rawness on tongue, with soreness and white coat; R. on back of tongue, with scraping, provoking cough. Dry sensation on tongue. Dryness in mouth as from chalk. Mucus, which he could not swallow fast enough. Milk tastes sour, and he is averse to it. Little taste to food, especially to meat.

Throat.—Submaxillary glands swollen, with a pressive sensation in them. Throat hoarse and rough. Sensation of much mucus in fauces on swallowing, with dryness in mouth. Sticking on r. upper part of oesophagus when not swallowing.

Stomach.—Thirst in morning; T., with dryness of throat; for cold drinks, especially for water. Eruptions sour; and offensive; empty E. Hiccough. Woke at midnight from nausea, cough and a kind of heartburn. Nausea, with eructations, accumulation of water in mouth and a kind of vertigo; N. after drinking milk in morning, as from a sour stomach. Pinching-retching just below pit. Anxiety at pit. Anxiety as if it arose from the pit, when sitting, > walking or standing, with burning in abdomen.

Abdomen.—Rumbling and gurgling, as from emptiness; R. in r. side, as before diarrhoea; audible, and crawling in r. side, extending outward, as from flatus, which is passed. Tearing in muscles, < inspiration. Cutting every morning, and in evening and night, > after eating, leaving a gurgling. Pinching, almost cramplike pain in walls, in r. groin, in a spot, when speaking, with pain on pressure.

Gripping in hypochondriac region, below pit of stomach, with chilliness over whole body. Tensive pinching in hypochondrium and in pit of stomach. Pinching in H. and in chest, which here and there ends in stitches. Gripping-twining in H., extending to beneath sternum, where it becomes sticking and causes eructations. Gripping in a spot below umbilicus, which becomes a gurgling, on rubbing; frequent in region of bladder, always with emission of flatus. Pressure in hypogastrium, causing confusion of head. Pinching on crest of ilium. Swelling of glands of l. groin. Tearing in inguinal glands when sitting and walking. Sore pain in groins as if glands would swell, < walking, with slight swelling of glands. Pressive tension in region of l. groin.

Rectum and Stool.—Twining in end of R. when at stool, with rumbling and gurgling in abdomen. Itching in anus. Pressure in anus. Frequent diarrhoea. Frequent stools, first solid, afterwards pasty, then thin, with difficulty, then constipation. Constipation. No stool.

Urinary and Sexual Organs.—Frequent urgings to urinate, with profuse discharge; frequent desire, with scanty discharge. Urine turbid, like gruel, after standing. Tickling itching at end of glans; tickling l. on prepuce. L. testicle spasmodically drawn up to abdomen, with pain on touch and with pain in l. groin. Emissions at night; with voluptuous dreams; without voluptuous dreams; frequent. Itching of pudenda. Discharge of blood from uterus in the last quarter of the moon, in a woman who had not menstruated for years.

Clinical.—Membranous dysmenorrhœa in persons of a Calcarea habit.

Respiratory Organs.—Rattling on expiration, as from mucus in chest. Tickling, which provokes cough. The cough becomes loose, with expectoration of large pieces like purulent matter. Breathing difficult, > bending shoulders backward.

Clinical.—A most brilliant cure was made of an obstinate membranous bronchitis, which for months had resisted all other treatment; the paroxysms recurred every two or three weeks; each time it seemed as if the patient would die, until extensive casts of the membrane of the bronchi were expectorated; entirely cured by this drug.

Chest.—Stitches beneath r. ribs; broad, in muscles at every beat of the heart; outward in r. side; outward beneath l. axilla, < inspiration; out through spine, between scapulae; itching, < expiration, > rubbing. Cutting outward in lowest ribs, < inspiration. Anxiety, as if too narrow, < sitting, with short breath, with aching in chest, < inspiration, the heart beating anxiously and trembling. Constrictive, anxious sensation, as if there were not room enough to breathe, with stoppage of nose. Anxious constriction and difficult breathing, like a tension in lower chest, almost suffocation on motion and when sitting.

Heart and Back.—Sticking-drawing pain in præcordial region. Jerks from posterior wall of chest to between scapulae, synchronous with beat of heart, with anxiety. Stitches on inner side of scapula; in middle of spine on walking in open air, > when standing; in a spot above small of back on touch; jerking, in sacrum and at same time above ankle. Cutting, pressing-out pain in r. loin, transiently > touch.

Upper Extremities.—Pain in shoulders. Stitches in axilla. Upper arm, jerking in l.; tearing-jerking; tearing-stitching in muscles of l. when sitting; pinching (with tearing) in muscles on walking in open air. Tearing in muscles of l. forearm; with boring stitches; cramplike tearing in muscles of l. forearm. Cramplike pain in forearm, in front of elbow; in outer side of F. near l. wrist. Sprained pain just above wrist, < rest. Stitches in outer condyles of wrists. Crawling and sticking in wrist.

Lower Extremities.—Soreness between nates when walking. Pinching-jerking on posterior side of hip-joint, < rest. Stitches on outer side above l. knee; on inner side of l. thigh when sitting; cramplike, in muscles of r. thigh when standing and walking, > sitting; tearing, on inner side above knee when sitting. Tearing on inner side of thigh on motion; in hip-joint and about anterior crest of ilium on motion, extending into groin. Cutting in socket of hip-joint when sitting. Bruised pain in muscles of thigh when walking. Drawing, sprained pain in hip-joint when walking.

Stitches in r. knee. Pain in knees when turning or touching them; in l. knee, even during rest; drawing cramplike, on knee-cap; sprained, in l. knee-cap when sitting, > walking and standing. Tearing-jerking in forepart, below knee during rest. Aching in l. tibia near ankle when walking in open air; intermittent, in calf. Cramplike pain close to fibula when sitting. Bruised pain in leg when lying, especially in lower leg; below patella on walking in open air; in leg, as if weary, he was obliged to change frequently from one place to another. Drawings in legs extending to tips of toes.

Swelling of l. external malleolus. Cramp in soles and toes at night, and on drawing on the boots during the day; in soles after walking, > continuing to walk, and ceased when sitting. Cramplike pain in l. sole. Stitches in last joint of great toe during rest; in l. little toe, as if outside of it; intermitting cramplike, in r. toe when sitting and standing, > walking.

Skin.—Inflamed swelling below patella. Pimple beneath lobule of ear, causing tense pain in joint of jaw on chewing; P. in middle of cheek, that became moist after scratching, then greenish crusts. Pustule above l. eyebrow. Ulcer on cheek, with sticking. Crawling beneath eye and on side of nose. Itching below calves; on a spot where there was a tetter years previous; tickling, on index finger. Itching-tickling on border of l. hand; itching-sticking tickling in r. palm.

Sleep.—Frequent yawning, as if he had not slept enough. Sleepiness in morning, with fretfulness and pain in forehead; S. in evening, with fretfulness. Sleeplessness nearly all night, with tossing about and general sweat. Restless sleep, with talking and frequent waking. Frequent waking as if he had slept enough; as from some disturbance; on account of tossing about, and he thought he was lying turned around in bed.

Dreams.—Frightful, shuddering. Of sick people, and of dead people, with violent weeping in sleep. Vivid, full of strife and anger; V., confused, unremembered; of previous transactions, with long, deep morning sleep.

Fever.—Frequent chilliness, with yellow color of skin. Shivering, with frequent yawning; S. over back; over whole body, with warmth or heat of forehead and face and cold hands. External heat, even on lying down, with internal chilliness. Heat and redness of face, with hot forehead, cold hands and thirst. Sweat every morning; exhausting, day and night.

Calcarea Carbonica.

Triturations of the pure white middle layer of the oyster-shell are used (Hahnemann).

General Action.—A general nutrition (tissue) remedy. It seems to produce a well-marked cachexia which may develop tuberculosis, epilepsy or other chronic disorders. The functions of various organs are disturbed, but the lymphatics are most prominently affected.

Allics.—Baryta e., Magnes. e., Kali c., Sulph., Phos., Lyc., Sepia, etc.

Generalities.—Restless motion of whole body on account of suppressed eruptions. Trembling; in morning; in body on waking, with twitches of various muscles in thigh and arm; < in open air; with weakness. Anxious, with weakness. Twitching of muscles. Epileptic attacks, while standing he suddenly fell to the ground sideways and on returning to consciousness found himself lying with outstretched arms, then heat and sweat. Starting from slight prick of a needle in finger, so that she became nauseated, tongue, lips and hands became white and cold, with coldness of forehead and face, obscuration of vision, uneasiness, flushes of heat, trembling and necessity to lie down, all > mesmerizing.

Congestions of blood. Rushing of blood in all veins in morning on waking from a restless sleep, with swollen veins and with bruised sensation in whole body.

Pulsation in vessels after dinner, especially in chest, with rapid pulse. Stitches in various joints and muscles; in upper arm, beneath arms, in back and limbs. The pain was intense, but disappeared quickly. Strained easily (Con.), pain in small of back from lifting anything heavy (Sil.). Taking cold easily (Kali c.). Painful tension over whole body. Drawing in whole body when walking, extending into head, obliging her to sit down.

Sick feeling in whole body, with necessity to spit much and dread of open air; S. feeling after a walk, with hoarseness and oppression of chest. Great indisposition, > motion, with coldness of hands and feet, paleness of face and palpitation. Indisposition, as in previous pregnancy. Discomfort in evening as before an attack of ague. Greatly affected by noise. Inclination to stretch in morning. Uneasiness; in evening, especially in limbs; in evening, after nausea in afternoon, with absent-mindedness; with orgasm of blood. Attack of general depression, with confusion of head, vertigo, pain in small of back and general chilliness.

Inability to go up-stairs and exhaustion from it (Ars., Baryta, Spong.). Weakness; in morning, also on waking from deep sleep, so that the confused and sleepy condition continued after rising; in evening; on walking, especially in limbs, with exhausting sweat; after walking, even to feverishness, attack of chilliness and thirst; from speaking; for several days after coition, with sickness; after dinner; after stool; the day before menstruation, with fright at a trifle; > walking; > fresh open air, with oppression and anxiety; all day, with sleepiness; with yawning; with attacks of convulsive laughter. Faintness; in evening, with blackness before eyes when sitting; with sweat on face; in attacks, with coldness and indistinct vision. Heaviness of body. Parts on which he has lain during afternoon nap go to sleep. The chronic troubles are better every other day.

Clinical.—Very frequently indicated in affections caused by working in water. In chronic inflammations of joints; swellings, without inflammations. Pains < change of weather, especially in damp weather. Muscular rheumatism. Glandular enlargement, with suppuration, with fistulous ulcers. Various phases of scrofula. It is generally indicated in persons of a fair complexion, who are very sluggish and inclined to be fat (fair, fat and flabby). The child is not able to walk, is very backward. Epilepsy; very frequently indicated in the cachexia, which leads to the development of epileptiform spasms, and it will sometimes radically cure the disease. Marasmus. A general condition of mal-nutrition, the patient is flabby, weak, sluggish, has profuse sweats, profuse discharges generally, and cold extremities.

Mind.—Much crying in an infant. Lachrymose; in evening. Cries and complaints about long-past offenses. Weeping when remonstrated with. Eccentric fancies as soon as she closes her eyes in the evening. Despair, with dread of disease and suffering and forebodings of sad events; D. of her own life, with sadness, weeping and sudden attack of heat as if dashed with hot water. Hypochondriac, she thinks she is deadly sick, but can complain of nothing.

Anxiety, with palpitation; A. in afternoon, with headache, after nausea in forenoon; at night after waking from a frightful dream, with trembling: at night, as if she were or would become insane, then shuddering chilliness and sensation as if body were dashed to pieces; with busy mood, but accomplishing nothing, then exhaustion. Fear that people would observe her confusion of mind; F. that she would lose her reason (Cannab. ind.); that some misfortune were about to happen to himself or some one else (Chin. s.), which he could not overcome; and restlessness, as if he expected bad news; at every near sound, < morning. Dread of the future, with fear of consumption. Despondency, with a kind of anguish. Sadness from every walk in open air, with necessity to weep. Melancholy about heart, not exactly a sad feeling, with voluptuous trembling of body. Loneliness is oppressive, with coldness of face, hands and feet.

Anger at everything in morning before stool; A. at thought of former vexation. Peevishness in morning after a little work, with weakness and despondency; P. evenings; after taking cold, < morning; with spitting of saliva; about trifles, so that she was dizzy all the evening and went to bed early, but could not sleep. Restless disposition, with gloominess and anxiety. Obstinacy. Impatience. Sullen mood. Indifference and taciturnity. Disgust for most persons. Desire to be mesmerized. Disinclination for every kind of labor.

Misplaces words and easily chooses a wrong expression. Forgetfulness. It seemed as if she did not know where she was on stooping or on moving head. Vanishing of thoughts. Weakness of imagination, during a slight effort in speaking it seemed as if the brain were paralyzed, especially in occiput, he could not think nor remember what had been said, with confusion of head. Stupefaction like an unconsciousness of external objects, with waving tingling in upper part of head. Unconsciousness in evening when walking, and she would have fallen if one had not caught her; U., with illusions as regards place, the room seeming like a bower; with anxious oppression of stomach, from which she was suddenly awakened as by a fright.

Clinical.—Melancholia, fear of becoming insane or that something dreadful is going to happen. Imbecility. Enfeebled memory. Dull intellect. Obstinacy, especially in children who are inclined to get fat. From slight mental effort the head gets very hot.

Head.—Stitches; in evening, and in limbs; during cough; if she rises from lying on her back and after stooping; here and there; in brain, also with empty feeling in head; through head, with chilliness; extending outward at eyes; like tearings, during cough. Stitchlike throbbing when walking rapidly. Tearing on H. every day from 3 or 4 till 9 or 10 P.M., and in eyes, with redness of face. Jerks; or shocks through H. Shattering in brain on shaking head and on every step, especially in r. side of occiput; in brain on severe motion, with tearing; during every cough, as if head would burst.

Aching every morning on waking, with vertigo; in forenoon, which continually increased, with rapid sinking of strength, heat in forehead and hands, thirst for acids, then after lying down coldness of hands, with rapid pulse; A. the day before menstruation; < open air, mostly in forehead; with nausea. Throbbing pain in middle of brain every morning and lasting all day. Burning headache. Pain as if skin were detached, extending upon neck. Pressure extending to eyes, nose, teeth and cheeks, with digging, and with sensitiveness to noise and attacks of faintness. H. easily becomes cold, which causes pain as if a board lay upon it, and general chilliness. Dragging outward, with feeling as if the brain would be pressed together.

Fulness. Tension. Dulness every morning on rising. Confusion; in morning on waking, also with trembling through whole body and rush of blood to head; after midday nap; as if too full; painful, so that she did not understand what she had read nor comprehend what was spoken. Confused trembling condition. Heaviness in morning on waking; < moving head and raising it, with heat in it; almost only in forehead, with heat. Stupefaction all afternoon, like vertigo; S. at night, waking him, increasing until it almost amounted to faintness, then trembling of limbs and weakness, so that he could not sleep again. Insensibility, with bluntness, as in severe coryza. Great affection the day after coition. Feeling as from intoxication. Rush of blood, during menstruation, with heat in it (Sulph.); R. after a meal, with heat in face; with discharge of blood from anus. Congestion of blood, and to chest, preceded by painful stiffness of spine.

Vertigo in morning after rising, with nausea, roaring in ears and feeling as if he would fall unconscious; V. in morning when rising, < walking and standing, with painful turning of head, as if in a circle, chilliness and stitches in l. side of head; in forenoon, so that everything seemed in a half dream; at night, lasting till noon, with flickering before eyes; on suddenly turning head and during rest; on walking in open air, as if he would fall, < suddenly turning head; after walking when standing and looking, as if everything were turning around with her; during menstruation, on stooping and rising again; even to falling, after stooping, when walking and standing; when stooping, then nausea and headache; from vexation; < sitting, > standing, and still less when walking; with loss of sense; even to falling, with weakness; as if he were raised up and pushed forward.

Forehead.—Stitches; in l. side at 11 A.M.; in one-half, > when lying; in l. eminence on waking, so that she believed the bone was being pressed out. Tearing in l. eminence; stitching; drawing, in l. nerve. Pinching. Boring externally in l. side after walking in open air. Digging in r. eminence, causing nausea, with redness of r. ear. Sharp tensive pains. Pain; then in occiput; in morning on waking, with confusion of head and dry coated tongue; at noon over nose; in middle; stupefying, as in vertigo; throbbing; sticking throbbing, on r. eminence; spasmodic (after taking cold), extending to vertex; drawing, in nerve (nervous P.); burning, and posteriorly; burning P., with chilliness; as if too thick. Painful pressure, extending into nose in evening. Pressing out, > pressure of cold hand and walking in cold air, causing vertigo. Painful full sensation, with throbbing in temples. Heaviness, < reading and writing.

Temple.—Stitches; in l; in l. nervous profundis; penetrating l. and coming out through r. Tearing, and in orbital bones and cheeks, with swelling; upward in l.; throbbing, in nerve. Pinching-drawing pain in l., towards parietal bone, with heat of face. Jerking pain in r. Pain in morning on waking, with empty eructations. Pressure.

Vertex.—Aching; waking him every day at 5 A.M., and lasting an hour; during menstruation; when walking in open air, > sleep. Drawing pain; beneath V. and in temples, seeming to come from back. Spasmodic drawing beneath V., with stitches in temples and heat in ears. Tension. Pressure after dinner, and in forehead; now in V., now in temples; outward, almost sticking, while stooping; stupefying, as after rapidly turning in a circle.

Side.—Stitches in l., above temple; in both, with nausea, and inability to bring up anything; on r., extending into eye; on upper part of r., extending into r. eye. Pinching on l. Frequent one-sided aching, always with empty eructations; A. in bones; in side on which he had just been lying (a burning?); sudden, in l. bone as if hacked to pieces, with general shivering; drawing, in whole r., and in zygoza and in jaw. Paroxysmal tension in r., with pressure as if blunt instrument pressed downward through head.

Occiput.—Crackling audible to himself towards noon, then warmth in neck. Stitches in r. side. Cutting, < walking and pressure of hand and in forehead. Gnawing. Pain; whenever she ties anything tight about head; drawing P., always towards the side to which he moved the head, > after sneezing. Tensive pressure on bone. Heaviness, with pressure.

Scalp.—Hair falls out on combing. Swelling on r. side; in r. temple; below l. temple. Eruption; with swelling of glands of neck. Scales on vertex. Thin moist scurf. Pain in places on touch. Fornication on l. temple. Itching; every night on waking; when walking in open air; on occiput; burning; burning, in evening before sleep, with crawling, and on lower part of face. Numb spot on r. side.

Clinical.—Headaches in school children. Congestive headaches, with violent surging of blood in the head, which feels hot and heavy, with pale face and cold feet. Chronic headaches, with vertigo, < ascending stairs; in anemic women who have profuse menses, leucorrhoea, etc. Hydrocephalus. Eczema on head. In children the bones of the head do not develop well, fontanelles remain open, with enlarged glands.

Eyes.—Inflammation of r., with agglutination of lids. Purulent mucus. Paroxysmal twitching and throbbing. Stitches; during menstruation, and in head; as from a foreign body in l., in r. between lower lid and ball. Tearing in l. Sensation as if sand were under upper lid; as if sand were in l. eye. Sensation as of a foreign body. Sensation as if something painless were moving in r. Sensation as if fat were in them. Pressure; in evening. Pain as if they would be pressed in; so that she must close them, with feeling as if she ought to press them in. Biting. Itching; in evening, with pressure in morning. Burning; on closing lids; with heaviness of upper lids; burning, and on head and in throat. Cold feeling.

Lachrymation; in morning; on writing; of r. eye; of r., with burning; biting, from l. eye, which is red. Ball, injection; pressive pain in r.; stiffness of l. in morning after rising. Pupils dilated.

Lids.—Swelling, with redness and nightly agglutination, during the day they are full of gum, with heat, smarting pain and lachrymation (Sulph); S. of lower in morning after rising. Redness of margins. Dry matter on margins and in canthi. Agglutination; in morning; in morning, eyes watery, with pain if he looks at the light; in morning in various places; during menstruation, with lachrymation, heaviness of head, inability to fix the thoughts. Spasmodic trembling of lower; l. lower spasmodically moved downward towards internal canthus. Twitching of r.; of r. lower; of upper, with sensation as if the eye were moving of itself. Necessity to wink when reading, with redness of eyes and lachrymation. Smarting pain in lower. Itching on margins (Sep.).

Canthus.—Inflammation and swelling of l. and of lower lid, with sticking and throbbing pain and itching all about. Stitches in inner (Zinc.), with alternating stitches and throbbing in eyes, then frequent blowing of nose. Burning in inner, with stitches. Itching; in r. inner.

Redness of white of eye; with oozing of blood. Tension in muscles on turning them and on exertion in reading. Stitches in r. supraorbital nerve in evening; in supraorbital margin and nervous supraorbital and supratrochlear. Pain in supraorbital nerve as if pressed, and in supratrochlear. Drawing-tearing in suborbital nerve.

Far-sighted. Could scarcely see any near object in forenoon on waking from a nap. Dim vision after getting the head cold; D., with need to close the eyes without being sleepy. It seemed like a veil before inner canthi, which disappeared with lachrymation. Small objects seem more distinct than large ones. Sensitiveness to sunlight, with headache; to glare of candle, with headache. The light blinds her. Blackness at times; sudden, after dinner, > sleep, with anxious sweat, nausea, and a bright light before eyes. Flickering vision; of letters; in morning on waking, with sparks of fire. Vision as if a shadow passed before eyes with dilated pupils, so that she saw only one side of objects, for example, only one eye in a person. Vision of black spots during physical exertion; black spot before l. eye; black floating spots before l.; a black point accompanying letters when reading. Dark objects like spider's webs on waking from noon nap. Feathers before eyes. Electric sparks in the dark. Halo around the light and around the moon. Frightful visions on closing eyes.

Clinical.—Scrofulous ophthalmia; parenchymatous inflammation of cornea; spots on cornea; ulcers on cornea; pannus of cornea. Inflamed eyes from working in water. Lachrymal ducts are closed, in scrofulous people. Asthenopia. Easy fatigue of eyes, feet sweaty and cold.

Ears.—Swelling of r.; of l., with itching; of inner and of r. side of face, with profuse earwax. Purulent discharge. Trickling of water from one, with difficult hearing in other. Twitching in r., with hissing, so violent that sometimes the whole body twitched with it. Stitches; when sneezing; in r., with pain: in l.; in l., > rest, with closed eyes, and in temples; behind l. in morning; in posterior auricular nerve; tearing, in r. Tearing in l.; behind l. Crushing when swallowing. Sticking throbbing pain in l. Cramplike pain. Drawing pains. Burning pain around. Pressure. Bones behind l. seem swollen, with itching, with pain on touch as if suppurating. Pulsation. Flapping, as if a piece of skin were loose. Sensation of fanning before l. Heat within, like hot blood; H. streams out of l. Crawling in r. Burning itching. On blowing nose hard something comes before the ear so that she cannot hear well, > swallowing.

Sensitiveness to a shrill sound. Hearing bad. Noises in l. and in head. Cracking when chewing (Nit. ac., Nat. m.). Singing (Kali c.), then crackling; S. and roaring; in l. at one time, at another cracking. Roaring in morning, with difficult hearing. Humming in l. Ringing before ears. Grunting when swallowing.

Clinical.—Deafness from working in water. Scrofulous inflammations of the ear, with muco-purulent otorrhoea, enlarged glands, etc. Chronic inflammation of ear, thickening of the drum. Polypi, which bleed easily.

Nose.—Intermittent swelling, especially at root; of r. wing, with pain on motion. Inflammation of forepart, with redness and swelling. Pimple in r. nostril, painful on moving muscles of face and nose, the wing of the nose is red and itches internally and externally; painful P. in l. nostril, with itching-stinging. Sore ulcerated nostril, preceded by frequent sneezing (N. ac.). Sore, painful, swollen, erysipelatous-looking, hard to touch, with frontal headache and fluent coryza. Soreness of r. nostril.

Twitching in external muscles. The almost sore nostril stings and pains on touch. Sore pain on border and especially in septum. Tensive pressure above bones as if swollen. Dryness; at night, with moisture during the day. Itching internally and externally. Sneezing; in morning; without coryza. Stoppage; in morning on rising.

Coryza; with headache and oppression of chest; with heat in head and cough; with pain in hypogastrum; which changed to colic; affecting every limb. Stopped; with sneezing; with headache. Fluent; with ulceration of l. nostril; with weariness; after ineffectual sneezing. Profuse mucous discharge while nose is stopped. Bleeding; in morning; at night; almost to faintness. Blackish blood is blown out. Smell blunted; very sensitive. Offensive smell in nose. Smell before nose as of bad eggs or of gunpowder.

Clinical.—Coryza, clear, watery secretion or chronic ozæna, with a thick purulent, fetid discharge, with swelling at root of nose and ulceration. Nasal polypi. Inclination to nosebleed in fat children.

Face.—Yellow. Pale, lean, with deep-seated eyes surrounded by dark rings; P., with blue rings around eyes. Red and hot; and swollen. Swelling, with stitches here and there; of cheeks in morning on rising; of r. side, which was covered with pimples. Twitching of muscles; r. cheek drawn spasmodically sideways, with pinching, contractive pain. Stitches in r. cheek. Tearing in bones of F. and head; in l. cheek-bones. Pain, then swelling of cheeks. Prickling, and in neck. Swollen feeling, especially under eyes and around nose, without visible swelling. Sensation in various parts as if a spider's web or delicate substance were lying on skin.

Lips.—Swelling of upper in morning (Phos.). Eruption in red portion of lower. Pimples on upper; scurfy P. on border of red portion of lower. Cracked, with a cracked, smarting tongue; upper C. Ulcerated corner; r., and paining as if sore. Drawn together spasmodically, so that she could not open them. Drawing in lower, then white color, numbness and feeling as if it would be thick and would hang down. Stitching-itching about upper and lower.

Jaws.—Swelling on l. side of lower, with drawing pains. Tearing in lower.

Mouth.—Teeth. Offensive smell. Protrusion, with pain when biting. Looseness of an old stump, with swollen gum and with soreness and sticking when touched. Inclination to gnash, as in a chill. Stitches; in last back after eating, then boring, > eating; in all, < entrance of cold air, waking him at night; only during the day, extending to r. eye and r. temple, with inclination to touch the tooth with the tongue, which always causes a stitchlike jerk in the tooth, so that she starts and it shakes her; boring, extending to eye and ear, < riding in a wagon. Tearing; in first l. upper molar; extending to head, to temples, < night; in hollow ones at half-hour intervals, < taking anything warm, and at night T. through cheek; as if roots would be torn out. Drawing-cutting. Gnawing, < evening. Boring, with stitches extending to nasal bones, and swelling of gum and cheek; B. in hollow T. during menstruation, becoming a pulsation on stooping. Toothache in evening as soon as she lay the head down; when cold air or drinks enter the mouth; from heat and cold, < current of air, with running of saliva from mouth and sticking from out ears and eyes, preventing sleep at night; while eating; on slight touch; during menstruation; < noise. Jerking toothache; in l. and in l. side of head. Throbbing toothache in incisor when eating. Toothache nights on lying down, more like a pressure or rush of blood. Biting. Tickling pain in hollow tooth. Toothache after menstruation, drawing and sticking (Amm. c.), < inclining head to r. or l., or backward, preventing sleep or waking her. Boring-drawing pain in most molars at night. Paroxysmal drawing pain in incisors. Drawing; in first l. upper. Feeling as if too long; in hollow back. Thrust as from a fist.

Gum.—Bleeding, even at night; of teeth on slightest hawking. Swelling near a hollow tooth; (and of jaw), and especially near a broken tooth a pimple swells, from which pain extends into ear; painful S. without toothache, with swelling of cheek, which is painful to touch. Pustules above molar, like a dental fistula (after taking cold?). Ulcer. Tearing at night and on biting feeling as if teeth were loose. Soreness, with pain in roots of teeth. Pulsation; in the swollen G. Itching.

Tongue.—Coated white; and thick, with feeling as if raw and sore. Swelling of one side, impeding swallowing. Blisters impeding eating. Sticking in evening. Pain beneath T. when swallowing, on l. side behind hyoid bone; along side and on its lower surface, < chewing, swallowing or spitting. Burning pain in tip as from soreness, < taking anything warm into mouth. Dryness in morning on waking. Burning, and in whole mouth. Difficulty of motion. Speech difficult. Mouth moved as if he would speak or scream, but he could not utter a word.

Thick nodule inside r. cheek, with drawing-tearing every evening. Blisters inside cheek where teeth touch it; B. (after anger?) (also after taking cold?) which open and form ulcers. Swelling of palate, with inflammation of it while the uvula is dark red and full of blisters. Slimy; in morning, not > rinsing S., with dry sensation. Sticking in palate. Dryness; and of tongue, with a raw sticking sensation; dry sensation in palate, forcing him to hawk up mucus. Salivation; in forenoon, with nausea. Constant spitting of sour saliva. Hot breath, with heat in mouth without thirst.

Taste.—Offensive in morning, as from foul stomach. Sour; with much tough saliva; to all food. Sweet, as of sugar. Salt, with much thirst. Bitter; in morning after rising; in back part of throat. Inky in morning on rising. Of iron. Of lead in morning. Fæcal, and in fauces. Unsalted, to everything. Flat, watery, and the taste of food very sensitive. Blunted.

Clinical.—Delayed dentition. Toothache in pregnant women, excited by cold or a draft of air. Epulis above upper incisors.

Throat.—Swelling of submaxillary glands (Bar. c.); as large as hen's eggs, and hard, with painful tension when chewing and sticking when touched; of tonsils, with elongation of uvula and feeling when swallowing as if throat were too narrow, with soreness and stitches; of uvula and dark redness. Whitish-yellow ulcers on r. tonsil. Mucus which tastes like iron; hawking of M. in morning. Spasmodic contraction of pharynx.

Stitches when swallowing, with inability to swallow bread; S. on swallowing, with pressure; when swallowing, extending to ear, < speaking. Tearing. Gnawing, as of a worm from 4 P.M. till she goes to bed. Pain on swallowing; as from internal swelling, extending to ears; as if uvula prevented swallowing, even on empty swallowing, > speaking, none when lying. Feeling in pharynx in afternoon as if food stuck in it, with nausea (Zinc.). Feeling of a foreign body in pharynx, which obliged him to swallow constantly. Feeling as if something were sticking, as in globus hystericus, and in œsophagus and cardiac orifice of stomach. Sensation as if something rose up and stuck. Obstruction on swallowing as from a pressing substance. Pressure in pharynx after swallowing.

Soreness; with difficulty in swallowing; of uvula on swallowing; in pharynx on swallowing during menstruation, and on uvula and behind it; when swallowing, as from a lump. Rawness; and of uvula, with soreness of them; R., with burning and sensation as if whole œsophagus were raw and sore. Dryness, < morning, with bitterness. Burning during menstruation, with hoarseness; B. after meals, with and without eructations. Swallowing difficult, as if tongue were swollen posteriorly. Inclination in œsophagus to choke, with waterbrash, without nausea.

Clinical.—Many cases of goitre.

Stomach.—Ravenous hunger (Iod., Lyc., Nat. m., etc.), with weak stomach; R. in morning. Great appetite in evening, with great weakness; great A. for salt things. Relishes milk. Loss of appetite; but when he began to eat he relished food. Daintiness. Slight appetite; with acidity in stomach. She will eat nothing cooked. No relish for his accustomed tobacco, smoking causing headache and nausea. Thirst; in afternoon; for wine; for beer. Eructations in morning, even on waking; at night on waking; at night when lying, > rising; after eating. Empty. Tasting of food (Ant. cr.); after every meal. Of food (Lyc.). Tasting of bile in afternoon. Bitter; of bitter, acrid fluid. Rancid, with scraping heartburn. Sour; in morning; in evening; of the milk taken in the morning; of brownish sour fluid, with burning extending upward from pit of stomach. Of tasteless fluid in evening (Puls.). Waterbrash after milk; W., with colic. Hiccough-like. Hiccough all day till evening.

Nausea; in morning; in morning fasting, with shuddering; in pit of stomach in morning fasting, with blackness before eyes, so that he must sit down; in forenoon; at 11 A.M.; in pit of stomach in afternoon, as from emptiness of S.; at 6.30 P.M.; in evening till going to bed; in evening, with heat and restless sleep; caused by milk; when he had eaten almost enough, > if he once ceased eating; at dinner when scarcely half-satisfied, with rising of food, nauseous taste and eructations; before stool; during menstruation, with ineffectual urging to stool; with flow of sour water into mouth; with salivation; with anxiety; with vomiting of food, weakness, faintness and loss of consciousness; faintish.

Vomiting in morning, then nausea all day, with digging in abdomen; V. of sour water at night; black (Phos.).

Swelling of epigastric region, towards l. side. Stitches in pit in forenoon on breathing; in epigastric region after dinner; in pit on pressure, < after morning stool; transversely through epigastric region. Cutting, with constricting cramp, and in abdomen. Gripping in pit. Spasmodic pinching in region of cardiac orifice after dinner, < pressure. Gnawing and sensation of jerks. Jerks in pit, with anxiety. Cramp in afternoon till general sweat broke out; C. at night waking him; obliging her to rise from bed; with nauseous eructations and yawning. Spasmodic pressure after supper, then feeling in intestines as before diarrhœa.

Pain; in epigastric region on touch; sore pain; sudden pain as if it would be distended. Pressure; in pit in forenoon, when pressing upon it and after stool; at night; when fasting; after eating; in pit, with oppression; with salivation; as if a lump were in it, after a moderate supper; transversely across; in evening before lying down, like a retching; in pit, extending into abdomen. Fulness in afternoon. Stuffed feeling in evening after fluid stool, with spasmodic pressing. Constriction. Warm streaming of blood from pit into head. Heartburn. Burning extending into throat, after every meal, < after hard, dry food; B. as from an acrid fluid.

Clinical.—Chronic dyspepsia, repugnance to hot or warm food, thirst, bloated abdomen. Ravenous hunger and great thirst, particularly longing for eggs and for indigestible things, chalk, coal, etc. Acid fermentation in stomach, everything turns sour, sour risings.

Abdomen.—Distention (Lyc., Sulph., Mag. c.); on walking in open air; after eating and drinking a little, and in stomach; after dinner; < after eating; and hardness, also after dinner; with colic; with constriction of rectum, which retains the flatus; in evening so that he could scarcely move, with colic. Rumbling; on inspiration and expiration. Passage of offensive flatus. Fermentation. Accumulation of much flatus nights. Incarceration of flatus, with pain in small of back; I., with vertigo. Twitching of muscles during stool.

Stitches; < inspiration; extending through back, with impeded respiration. Tearing extending towards genitals. Cutting in morning on waking; twisting C. Cramp, < evening and night, with coldness in thighs. Gripping; during menstruation when the discharge ceased for some hours; frequent G., then nausea. Pinching after breakfast, then thin stool; with diarrhœa; after supper, as from flatus or as before diarrhœa, then pasty stool containing the undigested dinner. Twisting. Gripping crawling, extending towards uterus, with passage of bloody mucus with the stool.

Colic at night; after supper; in attacks after disappearance of coryza, suddenly > cold bath, with weariness and sickly look. Drawing pain, now here, now there during menstruation, and in other parts, with stitches and with uneasiness amounting to faintness. Drawing in morning on waking, with uneasiness in it. Constriction, and in stomach, with appetite at times great, at times small; C. in morning, extending to chest; extending to small of back. Tension; in afternoon, > passing flatus, with distention, without sensation of flatus; when sitting and after exertion. Burning.

Constrictive pain in upper, so that she must walk bent, < deep breathing. Tension in muscles of upper when leaning backward, with pain in upper when stroked as if skin were sore. Sticking in region of ascending colon. Pain in small intestines, with rumbling in them, pain in small of back and dragging towards rectum, as if a stool would follow.

Sides.—Gurgling in l., with unevenness. Stitches in l., extending to small of back, < evening, turning body or stooping. Cutting in l., > soft stool. Jerklike tearings down sides.

Hypochondria.—Rumbling in l. Stitches outward in muscles below ribs, < inspiration. Gripping in l. Intolerance of tight clothing. Feeling below H. as if laced, with trembling and throbbing in epigastric region. Attacks of pressive throbbing in l. Tension.

Hepatic Region.—Enlargement on r. side of abdomen (hepatic region?), with pressure, < sitting, heaviness, inability to lie upon this side and incarceration of flatus. Stitches in r. hypochondrium in forenoon; in evening, extending to back; during and after stooping; extending into chest, causing shuddering; smarting S. in last rib. Pressure on every step. Pain, < at night, with hardness; raw; jerking; drawing, in posterior part, extending towards back, like tearings; drawing, in r. hypochondrium, extending towards symphysis pubis. Tensive pain. Tension and pressure as if enlarged, even to bursting.

Umbilical Region.—Rumbling above navel when eating. Stitches transversely through abdomen below navel on inspiration. Pinching below navel after supper, < when walking, with dragging, then distention. Gripping in abdomen extending from navel during dinner. Spasmodic twisting and gripping. Pressure inward below navel in morning after rising, with constipation. Burning pain below navel in afternoon; now a burning, now a sticking pain below navel, extending into groin, which is distended, < l. side. Soreness in middle of abdomen from nausea, without inclination to vomit.

Hypogastrium.—Swelling of inguinal glands (Merc. s.); with pain. Stitches; in l. inguinal region all forenoon, < at noon; in inguinal region, as if a hernia would protrude; in upper part of l. inguinal region, as if in peritoneum. Tearing in l. pelvic bones. Cutting in groin above pubes. Gripping; deep in region of bladder, with pain on every step as if internal parts were dragged down. Smarting in r. inguinal region; cutting, in groin, extending into testicles. Twitching pain in r. groin when sitting. Pressure on physical exertion; P., with hard stool; with sticking in pit of stomach extending downward. Pain even when walking a few steps, with general heat; P., with nausea; above hips when walking and breathing. Sore pain, with painful tension on holding oneself erect or bending backward; in groins as from being shaken. Sensation as if inguinal glands were swollen. Tension, with cutting; T. in inguinal glands when sitting. Dragging in the groin, in the hernia, in rectum and back, with stitches in chest. Heaviness in groin, with drawing pain. Pulsation in pelvis along course of rectum.

Clinical.—Enlargement of liver, which is sore (Merc. s.), with jaundice. Gall-stone colic, terrible darting pain, profuse sweat, intolerance of garments about the waist. Tendency to great increase of fat in the abdomen and flatulent distention, enlarged mesenteric glands; abdominal dropsy. Umbilical hernia noon, a gripping and sticky, with anxiety, so that she must walk about. Stitches towards R. Pain as if torn during a stool that is not hard. Twisting, almost a dragging-down pain, after eating. Tensive-itwching pain in evening. Pressure; in evening when sitting; after stool, with oppression of breathing; as in diarrhoea. Heaviness in lower part (Aloes). Drawing after a natural stool, with cutting and heat in it. Twitching. Crawling as from pin-worms. Troubles from pin-worms. Burning (Sulph.); in morning after a copious stool. Constant desire for stool; then a scanty difficult stool; urging as in diarrhoea, though with a natural stool; ineffectual urging.

Rectum.—Protrusion. Gurgling. Cramp all the fore-

Anus.—Hæmorrhoids, with itching in anus and constipation (Sulph.); H. protrude, also with pain, < walking, > during stool; swollen H. protrude and cause pain during a stool which is not hard; swollen; with pain when sitting and discharge of blood; sudden swelling. Inflamed, burning, painful, grapelike eruption. Hæmorrhage; in evening during stool; with severe coryza. Oozing of moisture smelling like hering-brine. Discharge of pin-worms; during stool. Stitches after coition. Sticking sore pain externally in region. Drawing cuttings in and about A. after stool. Smarting. Soreness, and between thighs. Twisting, with dragging in rectum. Crawling. Burning (Sulph.); during midday nap; during stool; with dry sensation. Burning itching after stool.

Stool.—Diarrhoea; undigested; in morning, yellow, sour, looking as if membranes were in it; thin at first, then crumbling; profuse, yellow, watery. Pasty after dinner. Constipation. Hard (Ammon. m., Mag. m., Nat. m., Nit. ac., Sulph., etc.), undigested, intermitting; frequent, at first hard, then pasty, then liquid; H. and black; with mucus, burning when passing. Perfectly white; W., streaked with blood, with ill humor and pain in liver caused by breathing and touch. Offensive, like bad eggs (Sulph.). Thick-formed. Scanty; mixed with blood. Omitted, with constant urging and with confusion of head.

Clinical.—Diarrhoea of undigested stools; of sour odor, large in quantity, sometimes fetid. Acidities and chronic diarrhoea, with great appetite and distention of stomach, which is sore to touch. Cholera infantum, with vomiting of sour food or curdled lumps, ravenous appetite.

Urinary Organs.—Pain in urinary passages after wetting feet; in bladder through night, with cutting on urinating. Sensation as if he could not finish micturition, as if some urine remained in bladder. Flow of prostatic fluid after micturition; and after stool. Urging to urinate; < when walking; in a child, without urine following immediately, at another time involuntary discharge of a few drops; frequent, soon after micturition, with scanty discharge.

Frequent micturition; in forenoon and afternoon, with copious urine; at night. Micturition at night, with burning in orifice of urethra. Involuntary M. on every motion during menstruation. Tricking of urine after micturition.

Urethra.—Stitches through female; cutting, with ineffectual urging; tickling, through. Cutting when urinating. Burning before and after micturition; when urinating; when urinating, with sore pain; and constant desire to urinate after urinating.

Urine.—Copious, watery. Dark-colored, without sediment. Offensive, dark brown, with white sediment. Sour-smelling at night. Pungent odor; and offensive, clear and pale. Much mucus passes with the urine, like leucorrhœa. Turbid soon, with whitish flaky sediment, fatty pellicle on surface, and with a fatty smell. White mealy sediment in evening.

Clinical.—Inflammation of bladder; irritable bladder, the urine of a sour, disagreeable odor, sometimes abundant and fetid.

Sexual Organs.—Penis. Smarting, oblong transverse ulcer on lower surface, which burns, with hæmorrhoidal sweat on scrotum and perineum. Twitching in bed in morning and evening. Stitches. Cutting in tip. Burning in tip. Ticking in forepart during coition. Itching in forepart, < after urinating. Inflamed and red prepuce, with burning pain on urinating and on touch. Erections in morning after rising, with inclination for coition; frequent E. at night; incomplete at night.

Pain in spermatic cord as if contracted. Scrotum hangs down relaxed. Sore spot on scrotum. Itching on scrotum. Stitches in testicles (previously indurated). Crushing pain in testicles; pressive pain in r.; pressive or bruised pain in l. Desire increased; in evening; < in forenoon when walking; caused by lascivious fancies, erection only induced by rubbing, scarcely had coition taken place when the semen was emitted, then weakness, excitability of nerves, discontent, anger and giving way of knees. Emissions at night, then improved condition; frequent; incomplete, at night; late, during coition; omitted at the orgasm during coition, but a slow discharge afterwards; the usual E. during coition, but no thrill of enjoyment.

Female.—Burning-sore pain. Burning-biting, with soreness. Itching, with sticking. Voluptuous sensation in afternoon, with orgasm, then weariness. Pudenda of a little girl inflamed, red, swollen and purulent discharge when urinating. Moisture in fold between pudenda and thigh, with biting. Sore pain in pudenda after urinating. Stinging burning pimple on border of labia. Burning in labia before menstruation. Itching on internal and external labie. Discharge of bloody water from vagina of an old woman, with pain in small of back as if menses would appear. Discharge of blood nine days before menstruation. Leucorrhœa like milk (Sepia); usually during micturition; like mucus. Menstruation too early (the other alkalies, Kali, Magn., Natr., are "too late"); next time too late; too early and lasting eight days; reappearing in a woman of fifty-two years, in whom it had long ceased; profuse, twice in succession, bringing with it a small fetus, with labor-like pain, urging to stool and cutting and pressure in hypogastrium.

Clinical.—Hydrocele in children. Profuse menstruation is the rule in women who require Calcareo. General weakness of women, with exaggerated desires. Membranous dysmenorrhœa, with cold, sweaty extremities and sensitiveness to cold air (see Calc. acet.). Endocervicitis. Often indicated in girls whose menses do not come on, but in place there are congestion of the head, dyspœna, palpitation, hæmorrhage from the lungs, night cough, general anæmia, unnatural appetite, etc. Constant aching in vagina. Leucorrhœa like milk, very profuse, with general Calcareo symptoms. Excessive flow of milk in nursing women; it is thin and does not satisfy the child; with itching of vulva, with swollen veins or sometimes glandular swellings. The milk of a nursing woman is disagreeable to the child, who refuses it and does not thrive on it, though the secretion be very great.

Respiratory Organs.—Larynx. Whistling in evening after lying down. Mucus loosened by hawking. Roughness, < morning. Rawness, with pain on swallowing. Painless hoarseness, so that she was unable to speak, < morning.

Cough at night; on waking; at night without waking; caused by eating; from playing on a piano; from inspiration; from a sensation as if a plug stuck in throat and moved up and down; from tickling in throat as if a small object were there; < in sleep, with stopped, then fluent coryza; tickling as from a feather in throat (Phos.); in single hacks; spasmodic, in evening; forcible scraping, after the first waking (about 10 P.M.). Dry cough after midnight (Arsen.), so that heart and arteries throb; < night; hacking, in evening, < in bed. Violent cough, with pain as if something had been torn loose from larynx, first dry, then with profuse salt expectoration. Hacking, hoarse cough, which to the sound was not obstructed by mucus; hacking C. when moving rapidly, with expectoration of blood; vertigo and unsteadiness of thighs.

Cough, with expectoration; > night; with mucous E.; with sweetish-mucous E. (Stan.); in morning, with yellowish E. (Phos. ac.); in bed morning and evening, with tough E.; at night, with thick mucous E.; in evening after lying down and at night, with mucous E., but (during the day only a little dry C.; violent, in morning after he had choked himself, with E. of blood, then stitches in palate; violent in evening, with sweet E.

Expectoration of blood when coughing and hawking, with a rough and sore sensation in chest (Phos.). Mucous E. in morning, with hacking; at night, with scraping in throat.

Respiration.—Short on going up slightest ascent (Coca); worse when sitting than when moving; almost sobbing, in sleep after previous weeping. Difficult; with stitches in chest; when walking, loud and through nose. Urging to take a deep breath; with distention and contraction of abdomen and pain in abdomen and chest; necessity to breathe deeply, which caused sticking now in r., now in l. side of chest or hypochondrium. Desire to hold the breath. Loss of breath on lying down, then whistling R.; less when walking in wind, the oppression of chest continuing in the room; < walking a few steps.

Clinical.—Chronic inflammation of larynx and bronchi and hoarseness, chronic cough. Extreme dyspœna on going up the slightest ascent (one of the most marked indications for the drug). Chronic inflammation of the larynx, especially in the upper part. Asthmatic attacks in children, from suppressed eruptions. Ulcers in the lungs, with purulent expectoration. Hæmorrhage from the lungs. Calcareo is very frequently indicated in the general cachexia leading to various forms of consumption; the cough is usually troublesome at night and dry, with very free expectoration in the morning; the patient perspires easily and frequently has enormous appetite, though the emaciation is rapid.

Chest.—Swelling of r., with external heat; S. of l. mamma, with inflammation and stitches; glandular, of r. breast, with pain on touch. Mucus without cough. Disappearance of milk in a nursing woman.

Stitches in r.; around whole, in region of fourth and fifth ribs; in region of l. fifth to seventh ribs; in region of l. seventh and eighth ribs; in evening on breathing; deep in r. side in evening, < breathing; in l. on breathing and on moving; in l. on almost every respiration, usually > rubbing; in l., < evening; in various parts, with oppression; from l. to r. side, with feeling of contraction, the S. < breathing; beneath sternum, from anterior to posterior part; extending to throat; in l. side, extending to l. submaxillary gland, with drawing; jerking, < l. side.

Tearing under l. ribs; beneath r. arm; wandering, in r. Cutting on inspiration. Gnawing in l., as if externally on ribs and sternum, < inspiration. Gnawing-gripping, extending into stomach and abdomen. Cramp in l. intercostals, > suddenly bending to left. Pain; in r. ribs; changing to stitches; in sternum as if pressed; in mammary glands as if suppurating, < touch. Sore pain, < inspiration; in r. mamma on slightest touch; sensitiveness to touch and on inspiration. Raw pain evening and nights during cough; after much speaking and walking and on coughing.

Pressure on l.; on r.; especially below r. nipple; paroxysmal, in r. side after motion. Anxiety. Tightness; in morning after rising and inability to walk; in forenoon on walking in open air; as if filled with blood. Oppression after stool; O. of forepart; in region of r. fifth and sixth ribs, with stitches; with tension. Fulness in morning on rising, as if he could not sufficiently expand the chest, > expectoration. Tension in ribs of both sides, extending across to pit of stomach. Weakness after loud speaking.

Clinical.—The chest is very sore externally to percussion or pressure, sharp pains shoot through it from front to back.

Heart.—Stitches, which prevent breathing and leave aching. Painful pressure. Spasmodic contraction in region, impeding respiration, then shocks. Anxiety. Palpitation; waking from his midday sleep while sitting; in evening in bed before sleep, with anxiety; at night, with restless sleep; after eating; after dinner; during a walk, with pain in chest; with anxious dread that he might have organic disease of heart; with anguish and restless oppression of chest, pain in back, a loud sound as if on every inspiration breath would leave the body, coldness of body and cold sweat; with irregular pulse.

Pulse.—Rapid.

Neck.—Swelling of glands on margin of hair (Bar. c.); of glands on l. side, with sticking in throat on swallowing; hard, of glands; of lowest cervical vertebrae, with pain. Sticking in nape; and in scapulae, with confusion of head. Tearing in muscles; in r. side; in nape. Pain in glands; P., with stiffness; on turning head as if a tumor or boil would protrude; suddenly sprained, on turning head; drawing, extending into head. Tension so that she could not turn the head. Stiffness; in side; on stooping; from taking cold, with stitches in neck and head, over eyes, and cough; in nape and throat.

Back.—Stitches. Pain; bruised, and in chest; in both sides as if wrenched. Painful jerks in r. side on breathing, with chilliness and cold creepings. Pain in spine on bending backward. Painful stiffness of spine in morning on waking and after rising, with indolence and heaviness in legs. Stitches in upper part during inspiration.

Scapulae.—Twitching in both, and on chest. Stitches between S.; in l., in præcordial region; in r. at 9 A.M.; burning, between S. (as in phthisis); itching, in r. Tearing between S.; drawing T. between S. Cutting between S. during rest. Aching beneath S., and in middle of back; in spine between S., with short breath and < by breathing, with pain in vertebrae on touch. Drawing pain between S. Pressure between S.; which on motion impedes respiration; beneath r., extending upward. Pinching constriction between S.

Lumbar Region.—Sticking in l. side of sacrum while walking. Tearing. Pain; in morning when rising; when riding; from lifting a heavy weight; < motion; so that he could scarcely rise from a seat; so that she could neither sit nor lie. Jerking pain extending from l. side to anus. Pain as from straining; in spine on stretching. Pain as if menstruation would come on, and in iliac bones. Drawing pain when sitting. Drawing. Dragging towards rectum.

Coccyx.—Sticking. Drawing.

Clinical.—Useful in disease of the bone and curvature of the spine, tabes dorsalis. Muscular rheumatism.

Extremities.—Twitching of single E. during the day; T. at night, and drawing up, waking him; in r. thigh, l. shoulder and l. arm. Shootings through, with imagination that he would have rheumatic fever, swelling of finger-joints, fever, chattering of teeth and chilliness. Sticking in joints; on great exertion; tearing, in various joints; wandering S. in joints.

Tearing; in small spots in arms and legs; in forepart of l. foot and in fingers. Paralytic bruised pain in long bones on motion and in joints of limbs and small of back, even when sitting and standing the small of the back pains as if beaten, and the muscles of legs are sore to touch. Drawing pressure in joints. Painless drawings in afternoon. Weariness in evening; till going to bed, especially in feet; of arms and feet at night. Falling asleep of hands and feet.

Upper Extremities.—Shoulder. Stitches in r. after dinner; under l.; in r. joint; in l. joint all day. Tearing; in l. joint and in elbow, also with stiffness of arm. Pain in joints in evening and night; in r. joint during rest; as after great fatigue, and in elbows. Pressure. The joints disturb him at night, at beginning of sleep, obliging him to lay arm above head.

Arm.—Cramp of the whole of one or other. Tearing in l.; in r.; below r.; downward in r.; drawing, in r. from shoulder to hand; sticking. Bruised pain on moving them or taking hold of them. Twitching or sticking pain at night, and in wrist, preventing sleep. Jerking pain in r. in evening. Wrenching pain in l. on moving it. Burning paralytic pain in r., from finger-joints to shoulder. Uneasiness and anxiety in joints and in wrist. Weakness of l., with a kind of paralysis, difficulty in moving or raising it and falling of itself. Falling asleep if he lies upon it, with pain.

Upper Arm.—Sticking in r. humerus, then trembling of arm, with stitches in various muscles. Tearing in middle; in r.; sticking; sticking, in l. Pain just below shoulder-joint so that he cannot raise it high nor put it across back. Pain in middle as if flesh were tightly adherent to bone. Drawing pain in l. when sitting (and sewing). Partially paralyzed condition of muscles.

Elbow.—Sticking in r. Tearing; in r. Drawing pain, extending from bend to wrist, < during rest.

Forearm.—Swelling, and of back of hand, with tension on motion. Stitches in l., with weakness. Tearing in r.; in l.; spasmodic, on outer side, extending from elbow to wrist, as soon as he takes hold of anything. Drawing pain in l. Painful pressure in muscles when walking, > touch, standing and sitting.

Wrist.—Stitches in l.; in r., like tearing. Tearing; in r.; in l.; sticking. Jerking shocks. Sprained feeling in r.; on motion, with sticking and tearing. Drawing pain, and in metacarpus. Jerklike drawings and thence up arm, even in morning in bed.

Hand.—Distention of veins, with burning on backs of hands. Twitching in muscles of l. Trembling in afternoon. Cramp all night; in l. Sticking in l.

bones; in palms in morning in bed. Tearing in r.; in l.; in l. metacarpus; in palms. Pain in morning, with relaxation; cramplike, between r. third and fourth fingers; drawing.

Fingers.—The three middle are white, cold and senseless, preceded by drawing in them. Swelling of joints. Spasmodic contraction. Cramp, without being drawn inward. Twitching of l. thumb. Stitching through r. middle; in last phalanx of r. middle; in l. joints; in first phalanx of r. index; in first joint of l. index. Tearing in l. index; in r. middle; in r. and l. ring; in l. thumb; in tips; in joints; in first joint of l. index; in second joint of l. index; in first joint of l. ring; in second joint of l. ring; in first joint of little; in second joint of l. little; in first joint of l. thumb; in second joint of l. thumb; sticking, in r. thumb when lying. Pain in joints as if swollen on waking in evening, without swelling. Pain in knuckles as if cauterized. Jerking pain. Cramplike pain in last joint of index. They seem tense and bent inward, as if stuck together, on stretching them. Drawing in second joint of l. index. Fuzziness in l. little and ring. Deadness.

Clinical.—Rheumatoid arthritis of fingers.

Lower Extremities.—Dizzy tottering in evening when walking in open air. Weariness at noon, especially in ankles; of legs, especially above and below knees, after coition, with trembling of them; as after a long walk, especially of thighs.

Hip-joint.—Stitches on stooping; when walking and running; in l., < motion; in l., extending in direction of psoas major, < running; above r. hip. Tearing; in l.; from hips to ankles. Suppurating pain when walking in room. Wrenching pain in l. Tension in evening when walking, with drawing in hip-bones. Numbness on r. hip and thigh, with feeling as if brittle, short and small.

Nates.—Painful muscular twitches when sitting and standing. Drawing spasmodic pain on r., extending towards anus. Pain on touch as if suppurating, less when sitting than when walking.

Thigh.—Painful twitches in a spot in r. Stitches only at night, and in knee and heel. Tearing. Cutting in upper part of l., as from distention of muscles, < motion. Bruised pain in muscles of r. when at rest after walking. Weariness in anterior muscles in morning on beginning to walk, with stiffness; W. when walking, and in groin.

Knee.—Swelling. Stitches; in l.; in l. in morning, more when sitting than when walking, with throbbing pain, obliging him to limp; at noon when riding; in patella on stepping when beginning to walk, extending into hip-joint; tearing, in l.; tearing, in the stiff patella (formerly broken); drawing, in patella. Tearing; in r., with tension, and in r. hip-joint; on inside on rising from a seat, with tension; stitchlike, in l. Pain in patella; in patella on rising from a seat. Sprained pain in r. Bruised pain. Drawing pain about, just above hollow. Tension. Feeling as if she could not stretch the leg enough. Weariness; at night; after a warm bath, and in ankles. Numbness during afternoon nap.

Leg.—Twitchings, and around pelvis. Jerking upward; suddenly in r., from a stitching jerk. Cramp in r., with drawing inward and bending of foot; C. in muscles near tibia at night. Tearing in l.; in l. tibia; in r. tibia. Cuttings over tibia. Aching in muscles near tibiae when walking. Sprained pain in anterior tibial muscles when walking. Bruised pain in bones. Drawing pain in muscles in evening, and on back of thighs and in calves. Drawing and crushed pain in tibiae. Tension below knee on kneeling; T. from foot to knee, as if bone had gone to sleep, with pressive cramp in stomach. Uneasiness, with many eructations. Heaviness. Weariness, especially in joints, with bruised feeling. Numbness of l. Falling asleep in evening when sitting.

Calf.—Twitching in muscles of r. Cramp at night; on stretching legs (when drawing on boot) and in hollows of knees, > bending leg, returning on stretching it again; if he moves much, with stitches, and in foot. Stitches, with weakness. Tearing; in l.; in muscles of r.; sticking, and in tibiae. Tearing drawing. Pain on stepping, on touch and on bending foot. Tension; in r.

Ankle.—Tearing; in r.; in l., < motion. Pain in l. as if tightly bound. Pain as if broken, when walking, < afternoon. Pain in r. malleolus when stepping, as if foot would be dislocated. Tension in inner malleoli. Weariness; < standing.

Foot.—Swelling. Cramp in l. sole. Stitches in a corn. Tearing; in anterior part of l.; in soles; in r. sole; in tendo-achillis; in l. tendo-achillis; in r. metatarsal joints. Cutting on outer side of r. sole in evening and all night. Suppurative pain in soles. Sprained pain in l. Rheumatoid pain in l. Drawing pain at night, waking her. Sore burning pain in corns. Sensitiveness of the soles, even in the room, as if softened by hot water, with pain when walking. Weariness. Weariness, as if they could not bear the body and knees would bend; as if they would break to pieces, from 7 P.M. till going to bed.

Toes.—Twitching of l. great, in evening in bed. Cramp. Stitches in great. Tearing; in great; in l. great. Pain on tip of r. great. Pain as from a tight boot. Burning pressure beneath nails.

Clinical.—Inflammation of hip-joint, the joint is painfully sore to pressure. Sciatica from working in water. White swelling of knee-joint, of a sluggish character. Cramp in calves. Gout in knees.

Skin.—Nose seems covered with oil. Hang-nails. White spots on face, with itching; W. spots on wrists, backs of hands, thighs, legs and ankles, with red patches and irritation. Red spot on tip of nose; on legs, with itching and swelling; elevated, mostly on cheeks and elbows, with heat, thirst and little appetite, leaving spots, as if congested with blood. Swelling under l. eye; in front of l. ear, which pains like a boil when touched; on l. side of neck, with pain on touch or on turning head, with internal soreness of throat; inflammatory, on back of l. foot, with burning pain and itching all around.

Warts here and there; wart in bend of elbow inflames, pains like a boil, then dries up and disappears; wart-like growths (behind ears) inflame and ulcerate. Easy inflammation or suppuration from injuries. Scurfy spots on leg, with burning during the day. Rash in face, about eyes and on nose; on chin and neck, with itching. Nettle-rash, > in cold air; in red stripes on tibia, with itching and burning after rubbing. Eruption on nose; behind r. ear, which becomes moist; on feet, itching, biting, bleeding when scratched and changing to nettle-rash in its vicinity.

Erysipelas on cheeks (which become thick). Erysupelatous inflammation of leg, with swelling and with general chilliness. Pimples on forehead; all over face; around mouth and in its corners; beneath r. corner of mouth; in middle of chin; on small of back and on nates; on thighs; on lower part of chest, with smarting on rubbing; itching, on malar-bones; itching, over whole face; itching, on forehead, with itching all over face.

Pustules on back. Suppuration around nail of r. index; around nail of middle finger. Boil on margin of hair on forehead; on back of l. hand, with sticking on touch; painless, on last phalanx of fourth finger. Blisters on l. heel when walking, which became a kind of large boils, with sticking and itching pain. Itching vesicles, over whole body, especially over hips; filled with clear fluid, in a group on back of hand, a dark point forms at tip, they gradually dry and the skin desquamates, if the vesicles are scratched they enlarge and seem like nettle-rash, the itching > cold (the prover had suffered for two years during great heat in summer from insignificant vesicular eruption on back of hand). Ulcers on legs. Skin unhealthy, ulcerating, even small wounds suppurate and do not heal again. Old ulcer on thigh becomes painful, throbbing, with tearing about it and begins to be offensive like bad eggs.

Damp open air does not agree with her, the skin is immediately affected by it. Stitches. Sensitiveness to touch, mostly in feet. Stitching crawling on leg.

Itching; over whole body; all over face; on chin, about mouth, on nose and nates; in concha; on chest; on thighs; r. thigh; on leg and foot; about ankle and below calf; on malleolus of diseased foot; on sweating parts, especially between scapulae; on back in evening in bed, and on pit of stomach, neck, chin, l. eye, scalp, mons veneris and scrotum; on lower part of thighs at night; behind ear, with vertigo after scratching; on back, with itching pimples; about chest, back, neck, shoulders and calves, with reddish rash all over back and chest. Sticking itching on thighs; in a spot on l. thigh. Itching of the dry, hot skin as if sprinkled with salt and ashes. Burning itching on l. fingers; on nates; on r. tibia; from morning till evening on l. arm; on l. thigh; on r. malleoli. Tickling itching on margin of r. lower jaw.

Clinical.—Warts, rhagades, eczema, offensive scabby eruptions, urticaria.

Sleep.—Yawning; almost endless, then shattering throbbing in head, abdomen and chest, with heat of face. Sleepiness; in morning; in morning, with weariness; during the day, with weariness, and with sleep several times in forenoon; during the day, with weariness, chilliness and headache; early in evening; after dinner, with nodding; after supper. Difficulty in arousing himself in morning. Weariness sleepiness in all limbs in evening, with chilliness and continual waking, next morning sweat, with dryness in throat without thirst. Long sleep at noon. Overpowering sleep after eating, then chill and tickling cough. Frequent sudden falling into sweet sleep from 7 till 9 P.M., with nausea and blackness before eyes, which continued while lying.

Difficult falling asleep on account of many involuntary thoughts. Late falling asleep in evening; with inability to free himself from lascivious or vexatious thoughts, which followed him in the morning after waking. Sleeplessness when she went to bed late, with feeling as if her rest were disturbed. Sleeplessness before midnight on account of mental activity; after midnight, with tossing about; till 2 or 3 A.M.; except from 11 till 2 or 3 o'clock. Sleep short in evening on account of heat. Frequent waking; and anxious, caused by anxious dreams. Anxious waking after midnight, with difficulty in breathing. Uneasy waking in evening, full of frightful fantasies. Restless sleep; with screaming; with sweat; towards morning; restless, half-asleep at night, with dry heat and confusion in head and constant waking, as in fever. Unrefreshing sleep.

Snoring all night in a stupid sleep, from which he could not be wakened, with tossing about, sweat on face before sleep. In sleep she laid the arms above the head. Starting up in evening till she was wide awake. Jerking of upper part of body on going to sleep in evening, with jerking extending into head, then roaring and hissing in ears. He often chews in sleep and then swallows. The child rises in bed after midnight, calls out, begins to cry and tries to spring up, the more one talks to him the worse his cries and resistance, he rolls upon the floor and will not be touched. Soon after falling asleep at night he rose up in bed and worked with the hands, with open eyes, without consciousness.

Dreams; with talking; with confused talking, restlessness and heat. Vivid. Anxious; and frightful, from which he could not free himself on waking; and confused; half-waking in evening, soon after falling asleep; with crying out and starting; towards morning of fire and murder; that he would be bitten by a dog, which woke him, then several equally anxious dreams. Frightful; as if he would fall or be thrown down. Voluptuous; with an (extremely rare) emission; the night before menstruation. Of dead people and smell of corpses. Illusions when going to sleep as if she heard noises and clattering about her bed, which caused shuddering.

Clinical.—Insomnia, starts at every noise, fear that she will go crazy.

Fever.—Gooseflesh on thighs and legs from slightest contact of cold air. Sensitiveness to cold air, with deadness of feet in evening. Chill in forenoon, alternating with heat; C. in evening; in evening in bed; on getting out of bed; after supper, before menstruation, then colic all night; with thirst; with pale, sickly look, alternating with heat, obliging her to lie down. Shaking chill at night. Internal chill, with cold hands but warm feet; L., with restlessness and trembling anguish. External C. in evening, with internal heat and thirst, even in bed. Chill, with sweat, at last profuse sweat. Chill in and on head; frequent external, on ears; on side of back on which he had lain in midday sleep, with numbness; cold feet after eating. Shivering over face, with bristling of hair, then general S. with chilliness.

Heat in morning after rising; from morning till noon or afternoon, with at first tearing in joints and heaviness in head, then with weariness, with heaviness of limbs, stretching, sensation as if she would sweat, and trembling and uneasiness in all limbs; several days from 6 to 7 P.M.; in evening in bed and sweat all night; with thirst. Dry heat at night; towards morning. Internal heat; at night, especially in hands and feet (Sulph.), with dry tongue in morning, without thirst, with external heat of head; and external, before menstruation, every day at 11 A.M., without thirst, with red face, then anxiety and sweat, especially on hands, feet and face. Intermittent heat; and anxious, < in face and hands, while sitting, with sweat of face and hands. At first causing weariness and anxiety, lasting till sweat broke out. Orgasm of blood mornings on waking after a restless sleep; at night, with many dreams; at night, < during menstruation, with restless sleep.

Heat in head, with orgasm of blood; H. in l. side of head; about head in evening; H. in head and chest all day, with chilliness of rest of body. Burning in face; in palms; in soles; in soles at night; in sole, with fornication; in feet in evening; in tip of great toe; sudden, on back of l. foot and on leg, as from a hot wind. Burning in skin, with itching over half of back, on nates and posterior surface of thighs; itching sticking in neck and between shoulders, with heartburn.

Sweat mornings; through the day when walking, and at night in bed; during the day in cold air; during the day on slightest exertion; at night, < before midnight, with cold hands; frequent S. through the day; anxious, with nausea, on head and back during noon nap; on face at supper; on back at night; on palms on slightest exertion; on knees; on feet; on feet towards evening; clammy, on limbs at night.

Clinical.—Scarlatina in serofulous children, undeveloped, rash. Hectic fever, alternating thirst and fever, with night-sweats, particularly about head; cold hands and feet. Chronic form of intermittent fever.

Calcareo Fluorata.

The finest crystals of Fluor spar are triturated for use.

Generalities, Etc.—Fatigue. Depression of spirits; with anxiety about money matters. Indecision. Headache, with faintish nausea all the afternoon, > evening. Vision blurred after writing some time, with aching in eyeballs; > closing eyes and pressing lightly upon them. Sneezing. Blowing of much mucus from nose, with ineffectual desire to sneeze. Cold sore at l. corner of mouth.

Throat.—Hawking of mucus in morning caused an attack of hicough, which was weakening and recurred frequently all day. Prickling, burning, suffocative sensation, < in latter part of day, at night and by cold drinks, > transiently by warm drinks.

Stomach and Abdomen.—Thirst. Paroxysms of lancements in r. hypochondrium, under eleventh rib, waking about midnight, < lying on painful side, so as to cause a bursting sensation, > lying on painless side and doubling up, with restlessness. Frequent attacks of lancinating pains in hepatic region at 8 A.M., < sitting, > walking. Much wind in lower bowels, < riding and towards evening, > after lying down at night.

Stool and Urine.—Urging to stool, the first part of the stool natural, the last part loose. Itching in anus as from pin-worms, waking at night. Constipation, with vertigo and dull headache. Frequent urging to urinate, urine causes smarting along urethra, particularly at external orifice, urine has a pungent odor. Micturition twice at night, with profuse urine. Urine copious from 8 A.M. till 3 P.M., pale and watery. Urine copious and pale, afterwards scanty, high-colored and turbid.

Respiratory Organs.—Larynx. Oppression, with tickling. Tickling in forenoon, with desire to clear it and with hawking. T. extending about three inches down trachea, as from a foreign body, after dinner, causing paroxysmal hacking cough, not > by cough, a desire to swallow from the same cause, but without relief. Itching tickling, > hawking mucus from that spot; at night, forcing a spasmodic cough, > hawking mucus. Tickling itching, < from 3 to 4 P.M., inducing hacking cough. Dryness of larynx; towards night, with desire to clear it and with hoarseness. Hoarseness; in evening after reading aloud, with desire to clear the throat; after laughing. Cough at 4 P.M., with hoarseness. Respiration oppressed, as from taking cold, increased after a few days so that it seemed as if the epiglottis were nearly closed or as if he breathed through a thick substance.

Back.—Tired aching, with restlessness; in lower part in afternoon.

Sleep.—Unrefreshing, on account of indistinct dreams of unsuccessful efforts to do various things, leaving an unpleasant impression on waking. Dreamed constantly, jumped from bed and tried to get out of the window, which woke him. Unremembered dreams. D. of the death of his daughter and of great grief and weeping. Vivid and distinct D. of the death of a relative, causing grief and weeping; of new scenes, places, books, etc.; of new scenes and places, not unpleasant, but with a sense of impending danger. Distinct and apparently long-continued D. of cutting a woman to pieces, as an animal for salting.

Clinical.—In biochemical therapeutics it has been especially recommended for varicose and enlarged veins, indurated glands of stony hardness. Mal-nutrition of bones, especially of teeth. Many cases of cataract. Chronic synovitis of knee-joint. Exostosis after injuries.

Calcareo Iodata.

The pure iodide of lime is triturated for use.

Mind.—Easy, indolent feeling. Indifferent to everything which may happen.

Head.—Aching at night and in morning on waking; A., with heaviness over eyes and nose; giddy. Fulness. Lightness. "Sensation as if it wasn't, yet was." Frontal aching in morning on waking and aching on r. side of face and in first r. upper molar; over forehead while riding against cold wind, and in temples; in forehead and temples. < r. temple; in forehead and sides of face. < r. temple; in forehead, afterwards < l. temple; over eyes; heavy, in forehead. Fulness in forehead, < stooping. Aching in temples; < l. and over root of nose; sharp piercing pain in r.

Ears and Mouth.—Numbness in ears, with ringing. Dry, furred feeling on lips and tongue. Burning in mouth and gums. Taste sweetish, then astringent and metallic; astringent, like alum; bitter, but not disagreeable, like myrrh; bitter, partially > tobacco.

Stomach, etc.—Inclination to belch wind. Hiccough. Nausea. Constant emission of much flatus; emission of much F. after rising. Rumbling in abdomen, with discharge of wind. Pain in abdomen. Desire for stool at 7 A.M., with discharge of much wind. Pulse regular, soft, 80. Stiffness of neck; of nape. Heavy lameness in posterior surface of r. arm. Laming pain in external surface of r. arm, with numbness of hands and fingers. Tired feeling in lower limbs, especially in calves, and weariness of whole body. Pain across anterior surface of upper third of thighs as if beaten. Itching in various parts, disappearing and reappearing in other parts, > much scratching: l. on r. elbow, then on l. knee.

Clinical.—Inflamed submaxillary glands. Tubercular meningitis. Polypus in ear. Uterine fibroid. Chronic cough day and night, with night-sweat, hectic fever, green, purulent expectoration.

Calcarea Phosphorica.

Precipitated phosphate of lime, obtained by dropping dilute phosphoric acid into lime water, is triturated for use.

General Action.—A tissue remedy. Compare Calcarea carb., Phosphorus, etc.

Generalities.—Convulsive starts when the child lies on his back. Stretching. Trembling and weakness. Rachitis, fontanelles open, diarrhoea, emaciation. Phosphatic diathesis. Sharp pains in tendons. Pains in various parts, often shooting along muscles into joints; pains in bones, especially in shin-bones; in bones or joints, in bed; in joints, then in bones; caused by every cold, in joints and where bones form sutures or symphyses. Rheumatism in cold weather; rheumatic pains in shoulders, chest and other parts after getting wet in rain.

Sensitiveness to touch; of places hurt by a shock. Soreness of tendons when stretching and bending. Trembling feeling, then toothache and uterine pain. Restlessness, spasmodic motion of limbs, < lying on back, > lying on side. Discomfort. Ailments from grief, disappointed love. Weakness; on ascending stairs; with flushes of heat in head. Stiffness in morning in bed.

Sensations mostly in small spots. Small of back, knees and thumbs especially affected. Right to left sutures of frontal and lateral bones, earache, ears stopped, cold feeling, jugular bones ache, upper jaw pains, toothache, pain in abdomen, aching in groins, above os pubis, mammae, neck, chest, back, armpits, arms, elbows, forearms, hands, fingers, buttocks, thighs, above knees, shin-bones, calves, heels, big toes, toes.

Last half of day stands to first half like 5 : 7; sunny half to the dark like 5 : 3. Aggravation in morning; evening; after taking light cold, rheumatic pains and displaced uterus; in changeable weather, especially when snow melts, with east winds; when thinking about the symptoms; of some symptoms when sitting or lying; of head, chest, abdomen, limbs on pressure; pains after great exertions, when lying; during motion of single limbs. Amelioration by lying; on abdomen during restless night.

Clinical.—Valuable in diseases of mal-nutrition, especially with predisposition to diseases of the bones. In children the osseous tissue is badly developed; the child grows slowly, does not learn to walk rapidly, is emaciated, has symptoms of indigestion, colic, vomiting of undigested food, green, mucous stools, fetid flatulence, etc. General lack of vital heat. General symptoms of Calcarea, particularly the aggravation from wet, the tendency to perspiration, glandular enlargement, etc., but there is less enlargement of the abdomen and perhaps less obstinate disposition, the child is rather stupid. Generally valuable in promoting the development and healing of bones. Grauvogl advises that if a woman has scrofulous children, with a tendency to hydrocephalus, she should be given Calc. phos. and Sul. at intervals, when pregnant again.

Mind.—Screaming, grasping in agony towards his mother, cold sweat, especially in face, whole body cold. Easily excited. Beside himself at unpleasant news, with sweat, inclination to indignation and anger. Fear of bad news. Feeling as if she had been frightened. Anxiety; in children; with palpitation, ill humor; in children. Likes to be alone. Restlessness. Depression as if lame, after vexation, cannot work, can hardly walk, looseness of bowels. Indisposition to work, also to mental work. Obtuse. Stupid indifference, cretinism. Writes wrong words or the same word twice. Memory lost.

Clinical.—Children are weak and fretful.

Head.—Every step is felt in head and sacrum. Aching; in morning; in morning, with sore throat; before menses; after meals, < after dinner, or drowsiness, weariness, itching, etc.; < exertion; < on going into open air, > scratching head; > lying; > going out; with hot head and face, ill humor and indolence; with flatulence; with gastric symptoms; with uterine complaints; throbbing, during menses; like confusion on inner side of skull. Painful confusion in morning on waking, as if close to bone, from within and without, especially on vertex, < bodily exertion, > mental exertion and washing with cold water. Painful pressure of brain against skull, especially at vertex, < every ten seconds, < motion, stooping, moving while sitting, sitting up after lying, also rising from seat, when there is vertigo; > lying still and after stooping. Confusion. Fullness and pressure < pressure of hat.

Vertigo towards noon, and nausea; V. at dinner, and loss of memory; on motion; on stooping, with rush of blood to head and headache; on getting up or rising from seat; while walking, with running from nose, aching in bones of pelvis, hip-joint, thigh, knees, and ankle; before menses, with leucorrhœa; during menses, with throbbing in forehead, rush of blood to head, throbbing headache, pressure over os pubis, want of appetite, pain in abdomen, diarrhoea, shooting in back, weariness in lower limbs, fatigue, stiff feeling all over on ascending stairs; in old people, with constipation; with headache, nausea; with complaints in eyes; < windy weather.

Forehead.—Pain; to nose, < change of weather, and from temples to jaws, with rheumatic feeling from collar-bone to wrists. Pressure above and towards eyes.

Vertex.—Pain, and behind ears, with drawing in muscles of neck to nape and occiput. Crawling as if ice were on upper part of occiput, head is hot, with smarting of roots of hairs.

Sides.—Stitches in l., sleepiness during the day; in l. before menses. Throbbing pain, < quick motion. Pressure towards back in afternoon, transiently > after supper, with dread of labor.

Drawing pain around lateral protuberances of occiput. Skull, sore pain, drawing, rending, tearing, especially along sutures, chiefly between frontal and parietal, or around temporal bones. Scalp sore, creeping, numbness, cold crawls, coldness on occiput. Tight feeling in scalp; tension in scalp of forehead. Itching evenings.

Clinical.—Valuable for the headaches of school children, especially of girls who are maturing and who are anemic. Headaches on the top of the head particularly. Chronic hydrocephalus, pain in head extending down spine, weakness, vomiting, very large head, separated bones. In chronic irritation of the brain resembling hydrocephalus, following exhausting diseases, like cholera infantum. Bald spots on the head.

Eyes.—Red streaks from corners to cornea. Feeling as if something were in them, renewed when it is mentioned; frequent sensation as if something were in l., seeming to move about, < inner canthus and in upper part of ball, in morning matter in inner canthus, afterwards swelling and redness in upper part of inner canthus. Itching. Worse in air. Lachrymation, most with gaping.

Squinting, distortion of balls as from pressure, balls protruding. Pain in ball as if beaten. Biting in l. lid, towards external canthus, in afternoon, compelling rubbing, which causes pain. Hot feeling on lids and sweat of brows and lids. Inability to read, light hurts, especially candle-light. Using by gaslight hurts. Veil over eyes. Glimmering, fiery circles. Letters change to black points or small round gray spots, or as if a little bird flew from right to left.

Clinical.—Scrofulous keratitis, with photophobia, large tonsils, etc.

Ears.—Inner and outer swollen, red, sore, itching. Exoriation discharge. Shooting outward in bones behind and around. Pressing, tearing, rending in and around, < behind or below. Tearing, shutting, jerking pains in alternation or with other rheumatic complaints. Burning pain in spot over r., with sensitiveness to touch; burning pain in spot over r. when scratching, with sensitiveness to touch. Soreness in and around. Cold and aching; coldness, then throbbing, heat, hard hearing. Hot and aching; heat of middle and outer. Difficult hearing. Singing and other noises, < r.

Nose.—Sensation of a foreign body. Biting-stinging in anterior angle of l. nostril, then in r. nostril, sneezing and lachrymation. Tickling. Itching and soreness in r. angle near tip. Violent sneezing, with running from nose and salivation; sudden sneezing and soreness on margins of wings of nose and fluent coryza in afternoon; sudden sneezing in evening, with relief of headache, then sore sensation in nostrils. Coryza < in air, hoarseness and cough; fluent, in cold room, stopped in warm air and out of doors. Streaks of bright blood on nasal mucus while sneezing. Bleeding in afternoon.

Face.—Pale, sallow, yellowish, earthen. Pain, < upper jaw-bone, from r. to l., extends from other parts to face or from face to other parts; pain in zygomatic process. Upper lip swollen, painful, hard, burning.

Clinical.—Valuable for acne of girls (Calc. pic. more frequently).

Mouth.—(Backward in teething and in closing of fontanelles); (slow in teething, with cold tremors and emaciation.) Shooting in molars. Sensation as if something were sticking into lower incisors, like painful swelling of gum. Toothache, with other complaints; pain in eye and stomach teeth. Teeth cannot bear chewing. (Carious teeth cannot bear fresh air.)

Tongue white, furred on root, < morning; tip sore, burning, little blisters; burning on back part, then in larynx; on swallowing, pain in tongue, fauces, pharynx, chest and pit of stomach. Sore spot inside r. cheek. Dryness of mouth and tongue into choana, with salivation, with or without thirst. Running of saliva, with fluent coryza; copious and acid saliva.

Taste bitter in morning, with headache; bitter at beginning of menses; especially wheat bread tastes bitter. Flabby sweetish. Foul taste and smell; bad taste in morning; disgusting when waking, < hawking.

Throat.—External glands hurt. Hawking up phlegm in evening, night and morning, with gagging; constant hemming and hawking when talking. Fauces and uvula red and swollen. Soreness in morning on waking, < r. side, low down, < towards back, < swallowing, > after rising and at breakfast; in evening, < in bed, with tickling cough. Sore aching, < swallowing; sore pain in region of parotid. Pains from other parts towards T., and burning; pain in r. tonsil (after mustard); pain on sides, aching on pressure up to ear, or from ear to shoulder, < turning neck and swallowing. Contraction as after much weeping or after running. Sensation of weakness or emptiness. Dryness at night. Burning in pit. Saliva hurts to swallow, not food.

Stomach.—Unusual hunger; 4 p.m.; appetite diminished at noon, with headache in afternoon, more appetite in evening, when headache was relieved; no A. from noon to noon, but if thinking about it she wants to eat; no A. before or during menses. Desire for tobacco-smoking. Thirst in after part of day, with dryness of mouth and tongue.

Belching all the forenoon, with nausea; after breakfast, with hawking and gagging; sour. Nausea from smoking or coffee; after coffee, with incipient heartburn and unpleasant sensation, confusion of head, headache and ill humor; with vertigo and headache < stooping, with confusion of head and confusion of thought; rising from pit of stomach when moving, then headache and lassitude. Vomiturition from hawking phlegm. Vomiting, with trembling of hands; easy in children.

Cutting or cramplike pain, with headache. Sharp pain. Pain at every attempt to eat; after dinner, with soreness on pressure; < lying; with watery, burning stools. Pressure > rest. Burning and waterbrash; in epigastrium; in epigastrium after belching. Heartburn after dinner; H. up into throat, with soreness in r. groin and kicking-quivering over os pubis. Anxiety in pit. Expanded feeling. Sinking sensation in epigastrium. Flabbiness. Uneasiness in region.

Clinical.—Dyspepsia, after eating thirst, pain > for a short time by raising wind, when fasting the pain goes to the spine, feeling as if one ought to raise flatus and could not. Dyspepsia, with indescribable distress in region of stomach, only temporarily > eating.

Abdomen.—Meteorism and pain > stool. Flatulence and rumbling > thin stool, with confusion of head increasing to dull pain, the stool preceded by pain. Fetid flatus; difficult emission of flatus. Cutting after drinking cold water; cutting, pinching, then diarrhoea. Pinching, stitches, running, kicking. Gripping before menses; with rumbling and leucorrhoea. Pain on every attempt to eat; from ice-cream in evening, then vomiting in morning; > lying; > emission of wind, stool or after leucorrhoea; with flatulence and frequent stools; with headache, carache, hot face, pain in groins, diarrhoea, weary legs, crawls, or in alternation with headache, burning in throat, uterine pains, lassitude. Pressure, with urging to urinate. Burning rising into throat. Motion as of something alive.

Numbness of wall, with quivering, aching, etc. Stitches in hepatic region on deep breathing. Sharp pain in region of spleen. Throbbing in r. hypochondrium. > belching or passing wind. Pain in region of transverse colon at 3 p.m. Hardness in r. side, with soreness and pressure. Stitch in l. side while breathing. Pressure in l. side, with soreness. Moving in l. side.

Soreness and pain around navel. > emission of fetid flatus. Pain from N. and from other parts drawing to vagina. Drawing-aching in region of navel, extending to sacral region, < forenoon. Emptiness around navel or in whole abdomen. Burning in navel region. Feeling when walking as if sacro-symphysis were separated. In lower abdomen throbbing, stinging, tickling, sore-aching, pressing, drawing upward in symphysis, downward in thighs. Aching soreness, cutting drawing in l., then r. groin. Drawing pain over os pubis, from r. to l., passing of blood, then earache from l. to r. (female). Warm feeling in groin, burning pain.

Rectum.—Stitches in evening; S. towards anus or shooting in anus. Pressure after supper, with stool, the first hard, the last thin. Urging to stool, with costiveness or after looseness.

Anus.—Protruding piles after buzzing in ears; protruding P., aching, itching sore, oozing of yellow moisture. Bleeding after stool or with a soft stool, followed by mucus. Sore feeling, worse outside, with stitching, burning, throbbing; sore aching morning on rising. Burning, pulsating, bearing down towards anus. Itching, < evening. Shooting through perineum into penis.

Clinical.—Fistula ani.

Stool.—Diarrhoea; from juicy fruit or cider; during first dentition, with much wind; after vezation; containing white points or flakes, like pus; offensive; watery day and night, with urging after stool. Scanty, with much flatulence. Stool morning and evening.

Clinical.—Cholera infantum, great desire for indigestible things, like ham, smoked meat, etc., abdomen sunken, flabby, emaciation, stools green, undigested, offensive, forcibly expelled.

Urinary Organs.—Weakness of male; after urinating, bladder, shooting in mouth; cutting before urinating, pressing down, cutting in urethra; pressing and cutting in female B., deep into l. after urinating; pressing pain, < r. side; pain and in neighboring parts; pain in neck as when stream is stopped suddenly; sore aching, < after micturition; drawing upward in female B. while urinating. Frequent urging to urinate. Frequent and copious micturition, with weakness and weariness. Cutting in urethra; in male U. after micturition, and burning; burning in male U. while urinating, and hardness. Urine copious; with weariness; copious, with flocculent sediment; dark in afternoon; dark, warm and of penetrating odor; smelling like strong tea. Diaper reddish-yellow.

Sexual Organs.—Weak feeling in male. Affection of genito-urinary organs after stool and micturition. Shooting in root of penis and in bladder. Cutting drawing pain in glans when sitting, extending towards tip. Erection while riding in a carriage, without desire; painful E. in evening, with burning in urethra and tension in penis. Desire increased in some, in others decreased; D. towards morning, with unusual orgasm.

Female.—Swelling of external parts when awaking, and of vagina. Clitoris erect after micturition, with desire. Pressure upward over mons veneris, a throbbing or other sensation. Pressive-drawing and sore feeling as if menses would appear, pressure in uterus and vagina, in loins, flushes of heat, fatigue from ascending stairs, pain from r. groin into l. hip. Sore aching in labia, warm feeling between externals, stitching in inner labia. Pain in vagina, with flushes and faintness. Burning in vagina, with pain on both sides of bladder and uterus, burning up into chest. Aching in vagina after nosebleed. Leucorrhœa before menses; two weeks after menses or from one term to another; like white of eggs, < morning after rising, and of sweetish odor; creamlike, in afternoon.

Cutting from uterus through to sacrum. Aching in uterus in morning; pressing in U., desire, aching in neck of bladder, prostration. Weakness in region of uterus, < stool and micturition, with distress and uterine displacement. Menses too early and bright-colored; every two weeks, black, clotted, menorrhagia; too late and dark; too late and first bright, then dark, at last lochia-like and fetid. Nymphomania, < before menses; desire, then copious menses. Voluptuous feeling as if all parts were full of blood, with pulsation in all parts and increased desire.

Clinical.—It has been used for nymphomania with heat and weight on vertex, melancholia, flushed face, etc., the symptoms always worse before menses. Uterine spasms, sometimes after stool or micturition, < change of weather. Menstruation too early, with faint feeling in stomach, etc. Dysmenorrhœa. Leucorrhœa. After prolonged nursing, cough, weakness of voice, pain between shoulders, etc.

Respiratory Organs.—Hoarseness. Dry cough, with hoarseness, soreness and dryness in throat. Suffocative fits when lifting the child from cradle; S. fits in child after nursing, < after crying, and after being taken out of cradle, head turns backward, face blue, fighting with hands and feet, after attacks relaxed. Frequent, short and difficult breathing. Difficult breathing in evening, > in bed, < next morning. Sighing; desire to sigh, with pain in chest and shooting in liver.

Clinical.—Chronic cough, short, dry (with chronic inflammation of lungs, which even may become tubercular), with night-sweats, etc. Suffocative cough of children, > lying down, < sitting up.

Chest.—Tumor like a walnut in l. mamma. Hardness of l. mamma, with soreness to pressure (in a man). Creaking on l. side of sternum like cracking in joints. Milk acid; changeable, from alkali to neutral or to acid; watery, neutral.

Shooting during inspiration and expiration, < deep breathing; in l., with inhalation, and in r. temple; in l., through shoulder. Tearing in sternum, with pressing and shooting. Pressing in mamma, with tearing, rending, drawing, contraction, pinching, shooting, burning. Pain; especially below and upward; in a spot from coughing; where ribs and cartilages meet; intermittent, sharp in region of r. sixth rib, then on l. fourth and fifth rib, during the day, taking away the breath, < deep breathing; as if an instrument passed through end of sternum, during the day. Sore pain on sternum; nipples; r. mamma, then l. Soreness of l. clavicle, then r.; cutting, over clavicle. Soreness to touch; of mammae. Contraction till 10 P.M., > on lying down, < when getting up, with difficult breathing. Painless gnawing with quivering, jerking, heat and fear. Burning into throat, sometimes downward. Beating on spot on l.

Heart.—Cutting, shooting in region, interrupting respiration. Sharp pain in region during inspiration, interfering with respiration. Pain in morning. Beating. Pulse frequent, but not quick.

Neck.—Rheumatic pain after draught of air, with stiffness and dulness of head. Cramplike pain in one side, then in other. Muscles hurt up to occiput, r., then l. Pulsation in nape when sitting, and in l. chest.

Back.—Pain in morning; P. > after motion, and in lower limbs; backache and uterine pains; sudden jerk-ing pain, with inhalation; jerking, rending, cutting, shooting pain. Drawing, < evening and morning, getting awake, moving, and in limbs, with gaping, stretching, bending backward. Throbbing, jerking pain in, near, between and < below scapulae. Tensive pain below r. scapula, extending forward. Sharp pain in sacrum, and lameness. Pain in kidney region when lifting and when blowing nose; in kidney region when digging; P. above sacrum and in hips. Soreness in sacro-iliac union as if separated. Sore aching in l. loin. Numbness and lameness in sacrum. Pain, soreness, pressive, tearing and shooting in os coccygis.

Clinical.—Potts' disease, spinal curvature, lumbar abscess.

Extremities.—Trembling of arms and hands; with other complaints, especially uterine. Pain, with weariness; flying, in all parts of rump and limbs after getting wet in rain; P. in all joints, < l., then and less in r.; rheumatic, in all joints after taking cold. Lame feeling in flexors, sudden aching in extensors. Weariness; during pregnancy. Extensors more affected than flexors.

Clinical.—Chronic rheumatism (compare with Calc. carb.).

Upper Extremities.—Shooting from shoulder-joint along arm, with tearing. Pain in shoulder and scapula. Sore, bruised pain in shoulder or down arm. Pain from clavicle to wrist; from shoulder to fingers, l. then r.; in all bones of arm, especially of thumb; in l. arm in afternoon, with numbness; rheumatic pain in arm near shoulder-joint, cannot lift arm. Soreness under arms, with burning, itching. Paralysis of l. arm.

Shooting through elbows, usually l., then r. Pain from l. elbow to shoulder-joint; in elbow as after a blow. Cramplike pain in forearm, sore bruised feeling, tearing. Sudden pain in wrists, < l.; P. in wrist, with lameness as if beaten, cramplike and other pains on moving it. Trembling of hands. Tearing in hands and arms, < wrists and r. middle finger. Hands asleep. Paralysis of l. hand and arm. Thumbs moved spasmodically. Pain in single fingers; in r. in evening when writing; in ball of thumb; in joints of r. thumb as if sprained; ulcerative, in roots of r. finger-nails, < in middle finger; around nails as if ulcerated. Soreness of points of finger and thumb. Paralysis of all finger-joints.

Lower Extremities.—Stepping motion. Staggering in old people, on rising from a seat. Pain in damp, cold weather; P. during menses. Asleep, also abdomen and sacrum, cannot rise from seat; asleep, with anxious feeling, has to jump out of carriage, also at night. Child cannot stand. Lame feeling, tired, heavy.

Notes.—All kinds of pains, with soreness, after a storm, most from r. to l., but alternating most on r. side. Sore aching, heat, itching, oozing pimples, itching scurf. Bruised feeling after snow-storm, with lameness. Asleep, also back, with uneasiness.

Thigh.—Stitches up and down hip-bone, < from ischium down, jerking, drawing, with warm feeling; S. through l. thigh to knee, stirring above, down to ankle-bone, toes too thick. Tearing, shooting, drawing in hip-bone. Pains above knees. Pain and soreness; afterwards extending into l. knee, then sensitiveness of knee. Sharp pain in tendons on inside, < walking. Labor-pain during sixth month of nursing a child, with involuntary stool and passing of blood.

Knee.—Tearing in l., to feet, and crusty tetter covering leg. Boring in r., < stretching and at night. Sharp pain; in afternoon when walking. Pain walking, l. then r.; in l. extending to sole; on inner side of r. as from a blow, < bending, with soreness; sprained pain, sore when walking. Tendons in hollow feel too short.

Leg.—Cramp in spot inside of calves when walking. Cramp pain in calves, drawing, rending, shooting, warm feeling. Tearing in calves. Pain in calf in morning, < raising leg; below hollow of knee, < taking off boots; beneath hollow of knee when it is strongly bent, making use of limbs uncertain; P. in head of l. tibia, caused by a kick, returned every night, with intolerance of touch, formation of exostosis. Drawing pain in shin-bone. Feels blood run from knee to feet. Weak, restless, crawling, tingling.

Rending, tearing, shooting in ankle. Pain in ankle as if dislocated. Cramplike pain in feet, < ankle. Twitching of big toes, little toe drawn inward. Pain in r. great toe, < walking; old (gouty) pain in l. great toe, with inclination to crack joints.

Skin.—Dark brown, yellow. Red after foot-bath, with prickling like nettles. Tetter on place burnt twenty-three years ago; scaling T. on legs. Furuncle between r. eyebrow and lid, eye inflamed, lids falling or closed, < morning; to r. of anus, with pain, inability to sit, discharging blood and pus, remaining a painless fistula. Pimples on ears; in region of joints; on back of hand, on wrist; inside of forearm. Ulcers above and around ears and in region of parotid; in old scars; scrofulous, lax and lazy. Formication; on abdomen. Stinging spots on buttocks, itching, burning, sore spots, oozing scurf. Itching on point of nose; biting, < on places years before affected; burning, of outer ear in warm room; and burning.

Clinical.—Fistulous ulcers on ankles. Varicose veins. Caries of hip-joint and heel, with offensive pus.

Sleep.—Gaping, with irresistible drowsiness all the forenoon. Sleepiness by day; before menses; all forenoon, before and at dinner; with gloomy mood, inability to think, headache, singing in ears, sweat in face, prostration in limbs. Sleep all the evening. Falls asleep while eating dinner, deep sleep after dinner. Sound sleep in evening, early waking. Inability to get awake in morning. Early waking. Starting in sleep. Disturbed, < before midnight. Sleepless till 2 or 3 o'clock. Dreams, with thoughts about many events; of fire; of fire, but without many flames; of danger, but without fear; of traveling; vivid, most from late events or last readings.

Fever.—Chill in morning after dressing, with cough and coryza; C. when going into cold air; with uterine pains; shaking, out of doors; shivering, with hot face and colic; creeping shivering, with motion of scrotum not like that after urinating; cool feeling towards eyes; behind eyes; cold ears; outer ears; point of nose; lower parts, with hot face.

Warm room is oppressive. Heat, with other complaints; dry H. in evening, hot breath, beating of heart, mouth and tongue dry without thirst, gaping, stretching, etc.; running from head to toes; running from vertex to toes; in face in evening; in face, with chill or other complaints; external in mamma, towards l. arm. Sweat at night; on parts, waking at night; on single parts, towards and in morning; on palms; cold, on face, body cold. Dry skin, moisture on hands.

Clinical.—Night-sweats in phthisis.

Calendula.

A tincture is made from the flowers, buds and leaves of fresh plants of the common Marigold.

Compare Arnica.

Generalities.—Rheumatic drawing pain during motion. Nervous exhaustion. Feeling best when walking or when lying quite still.

Clinical.—Useful for open wounds, with great soreness and pain, the parts will not heal, tend to inflame and suppurate. In phlegmonous erysipelas it seems to be a valuable topical application; it is also useful as a local application in bad ulcers of os uteri, offensive leucorrhœa.

Mind and Head.—Anxiety during chill, with taciturnity and solicitude. Fretfulness, with a sleepy, dreamy condition. Irritability, then despair and anguish. Dull sensation in head, especially in upper part of occiput. Confusion of head as after a night's debauch, in morning heaviness of H. as after a long illness. Pain in forehead after eating, with heat in it; P. in occiput. Disagreeable sensation in occiput; extending to back of neck. Itching of scalp.

Eyes.—Inflammation of white of eye, with headache while lying, now in forehead, now in temples. Dilatation of pupils. Swelling of lids. Dryness of margins of lids, with biting as from smoke.

Face and Mouth.—Prickling pain in face, then in forehead, then in face again. Drawing tensive pain in glands before l. ramus of lower jaw on moving head. Vesicles in l. corner of lower lip. Swollen sensation in lips, spreading to sides of nose, then to eyes and forehead, with burning stinging, speech scarcely recognizable. Salivation.

Throat.—Submaxillary glands swollen and painful to touch as if suppurating; painful on touch in afternoon as if swollen, at times causing tensive pain, which, especially on swallowing, becomes a pressure in throat. Pain in front, beneath chin, on motion and pressure, and at union of clavicle with sternum. Scraping and accumulation of mucus. Bitter taste of mucus before eating.

Stomach and Abdomen.—Appetite diminished for dinner, though he relishes food when he eats. Hiccough after smoking. Threatenings of nausea in forenoon. Disordered digestion. Boring-digging deep in umbilical region when walking. Stitches in middle of r. side of abdomen on motion.

Stool and Urinary and Sexual Organs.—Stool in morning preceded by griping and anxiety in abdomen and accompanied by chill. Soft stool covered with mucus. Tearings in urethra at times during a chill. Frequent micturition, urine as white as water and burning. Emission of semen.

Respiratory Organs, Chest and Pulse.—Deep inspiration, with heat in chest and face. Great efforts to inflate lower lobes of lungs, only successful when sitting up. Pressure in l. side of chest in evening in bed, with oppression. Drawing pressure in l. side of chest when standing while taking drug; drawing P. in l. side of C. and on sternum, with stitches in r. side of chest. Pulse irregular and diminishing rapidly.

Neck and Back.—Rheumatic drawing pain in r. side of neck, extending to shoulder, < bending neck to r.

side and on raising r. arm. Tearing between scapula. Aching beneath lower tip of r. scapula in afternoon, with sensation as if everything were suppurating and bruised; A. in l. lumbar region, then in both lumbar regions.

Extremities.—Axillary glands painful to touch. Drawing pressive tension in wrists and ankles during rest. Weariness of lower limbs. Bruised pain in outer side of knees while sitting. Burning tearing in upper part of calf while sitting. Drawing pinching on inner border of sole while sitting.

Skin and Sleep.—A wound becomes raw and inflames anew. Sticking in the wound during fever-heat, with redness of surrounding parts. Bruised pain in a wound in morning, with smarting and throbbing as if it would suppurate. Itching. Restlessness at night, with continual waking, frequent micturition and much drinking.

Fever.—Chilliness all the morning, with sensitiveness to air; C. at beginning of almost all symptoms. Shivering, with gooseflesh, while skin is warm to touch; S. in back, with pressure in l. last true ribs and movements in epigastric region and abdomen as if he would faint. Cold hands and feet; all the forenoon, with drawing, rheumatic pains through whole body, and after sitting for some time, aching in ribs as if squeezed together and bruised. Heat all the forenoon, with sweat, weakness in chest and heat in axillæ; in afternoon, with creeping chills and thirst, but drinking always causes a shaking chill. Heat in evening in bed; with sweat, especially burning and sweat of feet. Heat, but cold drinks cause shivering, H. abates after 5 P.M. without shivering, even in open air, the head feels freer, breathing is easier, voice stronger and deeper; internal, towards evening while sitting, with external coldness, creeping chills and almost dread of drinking; flushes, in forehead in evening; H. in face after dinner, and in hands and feet, then thirst.

Calotropis.

A tincture is made from the bark of the root of Calotropis gigantea R. Br. (Asclepiadaceæ), which grows in India.

Depressed, tired feeling, which came on gradually when walking, with nausea and faint feeling, great coldness, dizziness, frequent micturition, constant eructations, went to bed at 5 P.M., body cold, frequent chills passing up spinal cord, head and temples hot, cheeks burning, after a time, with rugs on the bed, heat and perspiration, pulse quickened, but he was too ill to count it, heat and cold alternately, with nausea until he sipped strong coffee, then vomiting of about a wine-glassful of yellow bile, vomited a lesser quantity an hour later, oppression of chest, short respiration, lips and throat dry, head painful, with throbbing and confusion, sipped coffee all night, little sleep, tossed from side to side, two days before, when moving, had felt pain inside of r. thigh just below crotch, now back of r. thigh was very sore, red and hard, so that turning over in bed was difficult, next morning the thigh was so sore, swollen and painful that the leg could not be bent in walking and every step was painful, with lameness, again chills towards bedtime and in bed, beginning in feet and running up spinal cord, occasional movement of feet in bed seemed to bring on the chills, fits of perspiration alternating with the chills, restless, head and face hot, breath foul, sleepless, pulse weak and thready, urine dark red, with strong smell, cramplike pains in centre of r. palm on grasping anything, lasting many days, pain, but less in degree, in wrist on moving it, soreness and swelling of r. palate, giving pain on moving jaws in eating, next day diffused red blotches on thigh, elevated and papular, veins on hand, which are usually full, seemed thinner, took several doses of Camp. rub., tingling-burning pain in thigh on standing up.

Dull aching in occiput at 11 A.M., gradually increasing till bedtime, 12 P.M., very bad at times in evening, next morning lightness of head, > after breakfast.

Pain in tarsal bones of l. foot on movement or on bearing weight on foot, < Hepar sul., at night intermittent cramplike pain while foot rested on the bed, restlessness, kept moving the foot about the bed, drank coffee and pain ceased when at rest, instep red and swollen, could not let the foot touch the ground, yet by putting the foot down very gradually and by degrees bringing the weight upon it he could stand without pain, which returned as soon as he took off the weight, coffee as a lotion sent the redness in and made the foot worse, before trying the coffee lotion slight pain in r. foot, which afterwards became affected like l.

Clinical.—It has been used in tubercular leprosy. In lupus of face. Violent pain in both legs, with swelling of knees and stiffness, cannot walk.

Camphor.

A tincture is prepared by dissolving one part of camphor gum in nine parts of Alcohol.

General Action.—It produces violent convulsions, hysterical and epileptiform, delirium, and various phases of nervous excitement. It also produces coldness of the body and profound collapse, with feeble pulse.

Allies.—Cupr., Tereb., Secale c., Ars., Verat. a., Carbo v., Op., Hyosc., Stram., Alcohol.

Generalities.—Emaciation. Distention of veins. Inflammations. Drunken appearance. Symptoms like delirium tremens, optical delusions, fright, screams, hideous sights, and burying his head in pillow (Stramon., Hyosc.). Hysterical. Falling down insensible. Convulsions; in children; with loss of consciousness; with disordered expression of face and livid aspect; violent, especially of hands and feet. Clonic convulsive movements. Convulsive circular motion (rotation of arms).

Subsultus tendinum (Ars., Cupr., Op., Tereb., Verat., Alcohol) and insensibility. Epileptic fit; in which his tongue was badly bitten. Several times the body curled itself up into a ball and projected itself out again with great activity. Froth oozing from mouth, constant chewing motions, twitching of head, cold sweat on face, which was bluish or purple, cadaverous and distorted, twitching of occipito-frontalis muscle, orbicularis oris rigidly drawn to left, masseter so contracted that the jaw could not be depressed.

Flung himself back on the bed, with dreadful shrieks, fell into strong convulsions, foamed at the mouth, stared wildly, endeavored to lay hold of and tear everything in his reach, then a calm similar to fainting with this difference only, the skin was florid, lost all remembrance of past actions and knowledge of present objects, then slowly began to recover both, though in a manner so amazing that his business connections and everything of the same nature which he had entirely forgotten, at their first occurrence started his mind as if he had never been acquainted with them before, but after he knew all the family he did not recollect the use of the furniture in the room, and every object appeared as strange as if he had only that moment begun his existence.

He rubs his forehead, head, chest and other parts, leans against something, senses leave him, he slides and falls, stretched out stiff, shoulders bent backward, arms at first bent, hands bent outward and somewhat clenched, fingers spread apart, then stiffness of all parts, with head bent to one side, lower jaw open, stiff, lips drawn inward, gnashing of teeth, eyes closed, twitching of facial muscles, cold all over, without breathing. Giddy, lost self-control, talked incoherently and excitedly, ran up-stairs and fell on the floor in convulsions, face and neck dusky, foam flying from his mouth, pulse full and pupils dilated.

Convulsions in which opisthotonos was considerable, whole surface red, eyeballs injected and prominent for an instant, then eyes forcibly closed, loud moaning, grinding of teeth and blowing of bloody saliva through closed teeth, then after half an hour the opisthotonos gave place to rapid rolling over and over, now this way, now that, sometimes burying face in bed so that breathing was difficult.

Opisthotonos (Tereb., Cupr.), head thrown back, rotated to left, jaws locked, mouth drawn to left, with twitchings. Stiffness and early stage of opisthotonos. Cataleptic rigidity, with unconsciousness, then relaxed sinking down so that he could scarcely be held upright, then vomiting, then return of consciousness. Trembling (Stram., Cupr.); > cold bathing of face and hands. Easily startled when awake, with throbbings.

Tearing stitches here and there, in joints. Rheumatic stitches in all muscles, especially between shoulders. Pain in periosteum of all bones. Nervous drawings, with something like shivering. General oppression. Soreness and rigidity over whole body as after severe exercise or exposure to cold. Trembling sensation. Dry feeling in and over body, especially on head and in bronchial tubes. General discomfort. Restlessness; at night (Ars.); constant walking about the room. Excitement of nervous system, especially in skin and muscles. Feeling at night as if he could fly or as if he were drawn into the air in spite of himself. Increase of muscular strength.

Relaxation of whole body, with heaviness; paralytic R. of muscles. Weakness; after stool, with general sweat; on waking from a sound sleep; after sweat during sleep; compared to the stiffness of the wind, with heaviness. Listlessness. Faintness; on rising to walk; with shivering and numbness. Deathlike sensation. Susceptibility to external impressions diminished in skin and muscles. Partial paralysis. Insensibility to touch. Aggravation of pains in evening; A. during motion. Most of the pains at first only during partial attention (so tearing in various parts only when falling asleep) >, especially the headache, by paying attention to them, afterwards aggravation when paying strict attention to himself. Amelioration of symptoms from profuse sweat.

Clinical.—It may be given to new-born children who have been asphyxiated and who have spasms in consequence. Great coldness of the surface of the body, rapid sinking of strength, sometimes with delirium or convulsions. General feeling of soreness as if beaten. Spasms, especially in children. Effects of shocks from injuries, coldness of surface of body, etc. Consequences of suppressed eruptions in scarlet fever, and especially in measles; the skin is blue and cold. It may be used as an antidote to irritant poisons; for the effects of poisonous insects, tobacco, mushrooms, etc. It is used, as a rule, in prostration occurring suddenly and increasing rapidly.

Mind.—Delirium; at night; with somnolency and small languishing pulse; but when spoken to gave rational answers; active; furious, being with difficulty restrained in bed. Stripped himself, danced wildly and tried to jump out of the window (Hyosc.). Felt as if he ought to kill someone (not any of his own family) when in the street. Strange and wild gestures and conversation. Wild talk, constant repetition of same sentence. Talked irrationally and undertook absurd things. Incoherent muttering.

Exact ideas of time were lost, everything seemed new, thought he was higher than the houses and suffered at the thought of the disadvantages of his height, felt better by striking himself on the head, finally fell into a mechanical state of existence, was contented with everything, would talk and realize what was said, but had no interest or continued memory of events, on greeting his family on his return from the asylum he was thrown into a trance, in which he could not talk or act, but fully realized what was said or done about him, afterwards from excitement he had another trance and came out of it weak and trembling, for a long time he was conscious of an unstable brain, which seemed balanced on a slight point, likely at any moment to be turned over, fragments of conversation whirled through his mind, and at times his surroundings were all perverted, he would walk about and not know what he was doing or where he was, he was somnambulistic.

Screaming loudly "I shan't faint, for if I do I will have fits and never come out of them." Howled, leaped from bed, apparently in great agony and bent on something desperate. The child creeps into a corner, howls, cries and thinks he has been insulted and scolded. Crying for he knew not what when at work and when walking.

Anxiety. Fear, < in the dark. Dread of being alone in the dark (Stram.). Dread of being drawn upward. Fear of the mirrors in the room, lest he should see himself in them, he would have gotten up and broken them only he was more afraid to get up alone in the dark. Vague sense of impending danger, > walking rapidly until he perspired. Cheerful talk relieved him, vexed by want of sympathy, afraid to be alone a moment (Ars.), wanted to think he was well, always asking his father about it, wanted to be with his father, fearing death. Imagined he would get yellow-fever, etc. Indescribable wretchedness. Agitation. Haste. Sadness, ill humor. Irritability; in children. Fretfulness at night, with anxiety and frightful visions. Desirous to dispute and self-willed. Jealously. Aversion to all external objects. Indolence; during the chill, with depressed disposition. Indifference. Exhilaration.

Thoughts quickly followed one another, but he could not fix attention upon any of them, and he lost consciousness of his personality, after vomiting consciousness returned, but distraction, forgetfulness and crowding of ideas returned, time seemed very long and full of events which he could not remember, impressions received by sight were evanescent, finally oppressive warmth spread through head and body, he lost consciousness and fell down, face flushed, slow breathing, convulsive movements, on waking he had to make persistent efforts to recover consciousness of his personality and knowledge of his surroundings.

Intellectual powers increased. Dulness of intellect. Confusion of ideas. A tumult of crude ideas floated through his mind. Stupefaction of senses like faintness. Memory lost. Coma. Unconsciousness; with howls and falling down; semi-unconscious, eyes partly closed, and if placed in a sitting posture, her head and body inclined to fall forward and to the side, but if roused and spoken to loudly, she made an attempt to sit upright, lifted her eyelids for a moment, responded rationally, but in the unformed halting accents of a drunken person.

Clinical.—With the collapse extreme anxiety and restlessness in some cases, in some great lethargy, can scarcely be aroused, in others loss of consciousness or even delirium.

Head.—Thrown back. Drawn spasmodically towards the shoulder. Tearing; especially in forehead. Aching; mornings after rising; with drawings in r. side; and through temples, with sensation of sinking and exhaustion, as if her breath were leaving her; with burning pain in stomach, eructations, thirst and fornication in limbs; sudden; as from constriction of brain; as if brain were compressed from all sides, > thinking about it; throbbing; as if bruised or as if brain were sore. Contractive pain at base of brain, especially in occiput and above nose, < stooping low, lying or pressure, with leaning of head to one or other side, coldness of hands and feet, heat of forehead and waking slumber. Pressure outward. Intermittent drawings all around head as if nerves were drawn up. Throbbing. Heaviness; especially in vertex; with vertigo and sinking backward of head; dizzy. Confusion; especially in anterior part; with noise in ears; approaching vertigo. Stupefying feeling, like effects of laudanum. Lightness. Congestion. Intoxication.

Vertigo; when sitting; < stooping, with heaviness of head; with dim vision; in attacks, also after nausea; so severe that knees knocked together and he nearly fell; with flushing of face, then pallor, eyes turned to right, upward and backward, head the same, r. arm extended above head as if catching something, bubbling of watery fluid from mouth, limbs cold and cramped, pulse feeble, mind wandering, talking, shouting, crying and laughing by turns, convulsions, indications of a relapse if patient were silent; while studying, the book seemed to go round "with the sun," could hardly keep his seat, felt as if falling towards his right and as if going into sleep or unconsciousness, but not drowsy, as if going off and rousing up again, thought he was going to die, felt bad whenever he thought of it, could not speak from words seeming to choke him in larynx, as with persons disappointed or grieved, all > in open air, but next day in school on thinking of it felt it again. Sickening sensation of swinging when in bed.

Forehead.—Veins distended and tortuous. Throbbing-stinging through night, with general dry heat. Tearing sticking in F., with pressure on upper part of frontal bone. Tearing in l. side, with pressure outward; T. in l. side of F. and l. side of occiput; in l. side of F. and in l. cheek. Cutting jerks from F. and temples to middle of brain on lying down. Aching; in middle; on r. side; in l. side; in l. eye in evening; in sinuciput, with intermittent stitches starting in temporal bones; above frontal bone, with nausea; extending to occiput; extending to temples, < evening, > in afternoon by a walk in open air, often with stitches in temples and orbits; alternately in F. and eyes; throbbing. Pressive but not painful sensation in sinicupit, changing to confusion of head. Drawing above eyes; in l. side. Heaviness; in sinicupit; in sinicupit, < walking, with heat. Pressure in upper, with heaviness; P. on various places in sinicupit.

Temples.—Tearing in r.; and in forehead. Boring daily, > during morning nap, > after waking, then toothache, B. in r. in morning on waking, ending with a stitch, which extends into eye and tooth, returning. Pressure in r.; throbbing. Throbbing of arteries and distended jugular veins.

Pressure in vertex; on r. side of V. Stitches in r. half of brain. Pressure by jerks over l. ear. Cutting from l. side of occiput to forehead. Pressure in occiput. Uneasiness in occiput. Throbbing in cerebellum.

Clinical.—It has been used after sunstroke, especially with beating pain in cerebellum. The predominating head symptoms are throbbing, or constrictive as if knotted up, with general coldness.

Eyes.—Hollow. Surrounded by blue circles. Starving; distorted. Inflamed. Suffused with blood. Brilliant. Twitching, turned upward, pupils dilated, eyes sometimes turned to r., but generally to l., lachrymation. Soreness or tense, stiff feeling of E. and lids. Tension. Lachrymation in open air. Balls turned upward. Pressing-out pain in r. ball on moving it. Sensation in l. ball as from pushing upon it from behind. Pupils contracted; then dilated; dilated; insensible.

Lids.—Covered with red spots. Constantly agitated and half-closed, showing balls turned upward and outward. Twitching; of upper; T. in external canthus. Smarting. Biting and sticking. Biting of edges; in external canthus. Biting-itching. Burning; in l.; in edges.

Conjunctiva injected. Red spots on white of r. Pressure on muscles of r. brow. Photophobia. Occasional loss of vision. Dimness of V.; for objects farther off than arm's length; with ocular hallucinations. Glittering of objects. Flickering. Letters ran together on reading script in forenoon, after ceasing to read a bright circle before eyes. Objects appeared encircled by a cloud. Hallucinations. Wonderful forms float before eyes. Black floating spots. Sparks and fiery wheels.

Ears.—Red ulcer in l. external meatus, with sticking on pressure. Lobules red; and hot. Sticking; from a draught of air or wind; deep in l. Tearing above and behind; in l. Roaring. Ringing. Singing; in l. Buzzing.

Nose.—Stitching from root almost to tip, or crawling; S. in anterior corner of nostril, as if ulcerated and sore. Sudden boring in r. side, near nose. Drawing in l. side. Itching internally; in l. nostril. Air of room breathed through the nose seemed cooler when walking. Obstruction in r. side, then secretion of thin mucus. Stoppage or running or bleeding. Sneezing. Coryza; stopped. Discharge of thin mucus in morning on rising (and evenings on going to sleep?) without real coryza. Bleeding; at 7 a.m.

Clinical.—The first stages of violent coryza, generally dry, with sneezing and flatulence. A palliative in many forms of fluent coryza, especially hay fever.

Face.—Pale and anxious (Ars., Carbo v., Sec. e., Verat.); P., distorted and sunken (Ars., Sec. e., Verat.); and livid; alternately P. and livid, with incessant spasmodic movements; with fixed and stupid look. Red; and puffy; with a wild expression; cheeks and lobules of ears. Bluish (Cupr.). Black. Vacant expression; and eyes wandering about room, speechless and powerless. Twitching. Spasmodic distortion, with froth from mouth. Stitching in l. cheek. Boring in r. zygoma. Distortion of mouth. Lips everted as in bleating. Trismus. Tensive pain in masticators. Drawing in angle of r. lower jaw. Stitching in chin.

Clinical.—Collapsed expression, with cold sweat, blue lips, etc. (Cupr.).

Mouth.—Teeth. Looseness. Seemed too long, with toothache, which seemed to originate from the swelling of submaxillary gland. Stitch extending into eye, on going into cold or windy air, with the toothache. Cutting shootings through gum to roots of incisors and canines. Gnawing and boring in nearly all back teeth, especially in hollow T., < coffee or alcoholic drinks and touch of soft bread, > drinking cold water but < rinsing with cold water and by cold air, with longing for beer, which relieved, as also tobacco-smoking. Toothache now in one, now in another tooth; T. ceases during coition, after which he sleeps quietly for the first time. Drawing in hollow lower back T.; in decayed upper incisors when walking. Gums loosened, of a livid color.

Tongue.—Thick, spongy, fissured, covered with tough yellow mucus. Cold (Cupr., Verat.), flabby, trembling; C. at tip. Feeling as if swollen and numb (Acon.). Biting in end as from pepper (Acon.). Burning on edge and on hard palate. Dry at night; D. or covered with aphthæ; D. sensation on back part, like a scraping, with much saliva. Speech feeble, broken (Stram.), hoarse. Loss of speech. Difficulty of speech; and of thought.

Stitches in palate. Dry scraping on palate. Swollen sensation in whole interior of mouth, tongue, gums and palate. Burning on palate, extending into œsophagus, not > by drinking. Heat in mouth and stomach. Sensation in M. and stomach as after peppermint lozenges. Cold sensation rises into mouth and to palate. Coolness, changing to sharpness and burning. Dryness. Froth; about teeth, which were clenched. Salivation; at times slimy and tenacious; watery.

Taste.—Increased to all food. Bitter to food, to meat more than to bread; to everything, even to the customary tobacco. Bad. Offensive breath in morning.

Clinical.—Tongue cold, mouth cold, breath cold.

Throat.—Stitches at back of pharynx and towards l. side. Hysterical choking sensation. Scraping. Soreness at night, < swallowing, with feeling as if gullet were sore and excoriated and sensation in throat as if she had eaten rancid substances. Heat: in pharynx and in stomach; in œsophagus and stomach, extending over whole body.

Stomach.—Hunger. Loss of appetite. Aversion to the accustomed tobacco-smoking, without its tasting badly, the aversion amounting to vomiting. Thirst; at night. Pleasure in drinks, without thirst. Loss of thirst. Eructations; after eating; of contents of stomach. Nausea; from drinking; < mornings, with vomiting; > eructations; with salivation; without inclination to vomit. Retching. Vomiting; from drinking coffee; yellow, liquid; black-streaked; bilious, colored with blood.

Stitches. Pain; in pit or anterior part of liver; in epigastrium, radiating over belly and into limbs, with uterine tenesmus; gradually increasing pain in epigastrium, loins and abdomen, with strangury and vomiting. Oppression of pit, with warmth in it. Sensation in pit as if distended and bruised, with fulness in abdomen; sensation in pit as if abdomen were distended at this point and the diaphragm thereby pressed upward, with oppression of breathing. Coldness; in pit. Heat; peculiar, in region of pit; warmth in epigastric region, extending forward over whole body, with exalted condition of brain, rush of blood to head and warmth of face, especially of cheeks. Heartburn.

Abdomen.—Retraction. Distention by gas. Flatulence. Rumbling. Movements and in afternoon frequent emission of offensive flatus, and next night, from 1 till 2 o'clock, pain in cœliac ganglia, with anxiety and sweat. Emission of flatus; when walking. Cutting at night. Pain; drawing bruised, more internally, < inspiration, extending into region of liver and into chest. Feeling as before diarrhœa. Pressure in morning as of distention from flatus. Burning; and distention.

Heat in upper and lower (Ars., Cupr.). Coldness in upper and lower (Sec. c.). Constrictive pain below short ribs, extending into lumbar vertebrae. Pressure beneath diaphragm extending upward and downward, with tension, changing to pain in region of cœliac ganglia. Pain in hypochondria; region of cœliac ganglia, causing in evening anxious sweat, it seemed as inflammation would attack organs of abdomen, this irritability extended to lungs and caused cough, with pain on inner surface of spine, extending upward from diaphragm.

Scraping acid sensation now on r., now on l. side, sometimes posteriorly, sometimes anteriorly, approaching a burning and changing to a grumbling pain in region of cœliac ganglia. Cutting in umbilical region, then emission of flatus, inclination to stool and urging to urinate. Pressure above umbilicus, with burning. Sensation of hardness above umbilicus, with heaviness.

Hypogastrium.—Burning-sticking below anterior crest of ilium, extending to groin. Pinching in lower abdomen, especially in umbilical region. Sticking-drawing heaviness in r. side on pressure. Pain. Pressure in l. side. Pressure outward in groins at root of penis, as if a hernia would protrude. Drawing in l. side, with a tensive bruised sensation. Heat.

Clinical.—Colic, insatiable thirst. Vomiting, with cold sweat, great exhaustion. Internal burning in abdomen, with external coldness.

Rectum.—Smarting. Contracted sensation on passing flatus, with swollen feeling and pain. Urging to stool; with scanty stool, then violent U. and a more scanty discharge; and in abdominal cavity, in urinary and genital organs, the U. to urinate beginning in kidneys, extending along ureters to bladder, with dragging along spermatic cords to testicles and general feeling of turbulence in this part of the body.

Stool.—Thin, dark brown, scanty. Hard and retarded. Constipation. Sour. Increased, afterwards difficult, and difficult emission of flatus, usually before the stool. Difficult, as if peristaltic motion were diminished and as if rectum were contracted. Sluggish and incomplete. Two the first day, preceded by griping, next day none, the third day a hard difficult one.

Clinical.—In cholera infantum, vomiting and diarrhœa suddenly, pains, with coldness of body, etc. In Asiatic cholera, in the early stage, when the stools are loose and contain fecal matter, in a later stage with coldness, but, as a rule, with dryness of the surface of the body, with sudden suppression of the discharges and collapse (the remedy should be stopped when the patient perspires).

Urinary Organs.—Diminished power of bladder, slow micturition. Strangury. Micturition painful; M. in a thin stream; dribbling; frequent and difficult; frequent, with profuse, colorless urine; almost involuntary, then pain in urethra as from a contraction from before backward; retention of urine; with full bladder (Op.). Urging to urinate, then involuntary micturition; frequent U., also with pain in course of spermatic vessels; ineffectual U. Burning in urethra; sticking B. in urethra on urinating. Biting in posterior part of urethra when urinating, then pressure in region of bladder. Urine scanty; U. red; dark yellow, very saturated; brown; yellowish-green, turbid, of musty odor; turbid, whitish-green; pale, odorless, containing sugar and mucus, but without sediment; burning; saturated, of pungent odor. Sediment red or white.

Clinical.—Excessive strangury, retention of urine (in Asiatic cholera, sometimes in poisoning by Cantharis).

Sexual Organs.—Excitement. Weakness, with want of desire. Impotence. Painful priapism, > by urinating (Canth., Tereb., Phos.). Pressure in l. side of root of penis, in groin, when standing. Sticking-itching on inner surface of prepuce. Laxity of scrotum, want of erection and want of desire, then violent erections. (Contractive sensation in testicles.) Incomplete erection, with weak desire. Desire increased; with delusions respecting the object of embrace. Nightly emissions. Slight discharge of blood from vagina. Os uteri enlarged and hot. Abortion. Menses ceased; M. too profuse. Desire increased.

Clinical.—Chordee, effects of sudden suppression of gonorrhœal discharge, coldness, strangury, etc. Sexual excitement in women. Puerperal mania, with suppressed discharges, dryness of the surface, etc.

Respiratory Organs.—Contractive sensation in larynx, as from sulphur fumes. Mucus in windpipe, making the voice husky and not removed by hacking or clearing throat. Pain in trachea and bronchi, < coughing, hacking and clearing throat. Suffocative dyspnoea, as if from pressure in pit of stomach. Choking. Hurried respiration and labored. Short and snoring. (Inspiration in sleep shorter than expiration.) Oppressed, anxious, panting. Slow and shallow. Deep and slow. Heavy, slow and difficult. Almost arrested. Impeded and feeble, apparently due to spasmodic contraction of circular fibres of trachea, whole body livid, cold, and skin feeling tensive to touch. External, laborious, without assistance of abdominal muscles. Short cough from scraping in throat. Dry, hacking cough; < forenoon.

Clinical.—Asthmatic attacks, with great suffocation. Violent dry cough, especially in measles, with suppressed eruption, with congestion of lungs, etc. In pleuro-pneumonia, emphysema of lungs.

Chest.—Stitches; in l. when walking; in nipples; < l., often extending to spine; with hacking cough, as if caused by a cutting cold sensation deep in trachea. Tearing near r. nipple, extending towards pelvis. Pressure on sternum when standing; internally under sternum, with difficult inspiration and a cold sensation which rises from chest into mouth; in upper part of sternum as from a load. Oppression. Contraction. Internal trembling of l. side when lying upon that side, and of l. arm.

Heart.—Anxiety. Cramplike stitches when lying on l. side, with oppression of chest. Indefinable distress, coldness, with sleepiness. Palpitation; as if heart turned forward and over, with stoppage of breath and gasping. Impulse hard; heard and felt after eating. Trembling. Slow and intermittent beats.

Pulse.—Rapid; and full; and small, irregular; and small, weak; and undulatory, weak; and scarcely perceptible. Slow; small and hard. Weak (Ars.); and thrady. Irritable in evening. Hard and full.

Neck.—Swelling of cervical glands. Stitches near r. shoulder on motion. Tearing in nape on bending head forward. Pressure in nape when walking. Tensive pain in nape, < every motion and on turning neck, and in posterior cervical muscles. Drawing on l. side of nape towards shoulder; painful D. and stiff sensation in side of neck and down nape when walking in open air; painless, in cervical vertebrae on motion. Stiffness of nape.

Back.—Drawing stitches through and between scapulae on moving arm, extending into chest. Tearing on anterior margin of scapula, < motion of arm; along medulla spinalis. Pain; in spine; on stooping; in small of back, < motion of head, > pressure of hand, especially in region of fifth, sixth and seventh dorsal vertebrae. Pressure in small of back. Movements in region of kidneys. Tired feeling in small of B. when walking.

Extremities.—Stretching. Cramps. Trembling. Tonic stiffness, then convulsive agitation. Rigid but straight, upper ones spasmodically drawn and flexed at intervals, partially rotated. Drawn in or flexed upon body and muscles relaxed, then suddenly and violently extended till the joints cracked. Tearing in back of l. foot, in l. elbow and r. tibia. Aching. Pressure on inner side of legs, extending to ankles, and still more on inside of arms, > motion, with drawing. Bruised pain in l. elbow when sitting, and in r. knee. Sensitiveness. Lightness, all movements easy, in walking legs were raised beyond ordinary height. Heaviness. Difficulty of motion. Numbness; with tingling and coldness of them, at times preventing walking, and with feeling as if they did not belong to him.

Upper Extremities.—Shoulder. Tearing on l. Pressure on top; of r.; P. in r.; P. in l., < when raising arm. Bruised pain. Drawing pain in l. Tired feeling in l., > motion of arm, extending into wrist.

Arm.—More convulsed than lower limbs. Tearing on inside of l., at times passing into thumb and index. Pain during rest. Pressure on inside of both, > moving them, with drawing. Bruised pain in l., especially in shoulder-joint; in l. arm towards evening, especially in l. elbow, with heaviness. Heaviness of l.; H. of arms and hands. Fatigue of l.

Upper Arm.—Tearing in middle of posterior part of r.; jerking, from middle of inner surface of l. to middle of forearm. Pressure in muscles on inside of l.; in muscles above r. elbow. Drawing in muscles of l. when walking.

Elbow.—Pressure in r., < leaning upon it, when it extends into hand. Bruised pain in r., and in wrist and fingers. Tired feeling from l. into hand.

Forearm.—Tearing in forenoon, sometimes only in forearm and sometimes only in fingers; T. pressure on inner surface of l.; T. pressure on l. radius above wrist. Stitches. Bruised pain in lower part of l. Pressure in r.; painful, on inner surface of l.

Wrist.—Pressure in l. Pain in flexor margin of l. Heaviness in r., with drawing in thumb and stiffness of fingers.

Hand.—Pale. Bluish, fingers distorted and flexed. Trembling, especially noticed when writing. Hands in constant motion. Tearing in r. Drawing in l. palm; between fingers; in ball of l. thumb. Drawing-stitching in second joint of l. index. Sprained pain in distal joint of thumb on motion.

Lower Extremities.—Staggering as if drunk. Tottering, with weariness and heaviness; uncertain gait, and on looking down upon grass it seemed as if all objects were commingled. Cracking and creaking in hip-joints, in knees and ankles.

Thigh.—Tearing; anteriorly in muscles of r.; anteriorly in soft part of l. Pressure deep in r.; in r. hip-joint. Pain, even when walking, and in ankles. Drawing bruised pain after walking; in r. and on inner side near and below patella, he fears that the leg will bend forward suddenly. Pain as after a long walk, posteriorly above hollow of knee. Drawing in gluteus maximus at its attachment to crest of ilium, as if it would make the extremity lame. Difficulty of motion and weariness. Stiffness in outer side of r. when walking.

Knee.—Tearing below patella, < when walking. Stitches in r. patella while sitting. Pressing in l. Pain in r.; when walking; in r. as if fatigued. Pressive drawing on inner side below patella. Feeling as if they would bend forward, and as if beaten. Heaviness; when sitting, with pressure; in r. when walking.

Leg.—Stitches beneath l. knee; in calves; in l. calf. Pressure; on l. tibia; in middle of inner surface of l.; in middle of l. calf when walking and sitting; above l. malleolus and posteriorly. Pain in r. even when sitting and walking, especially in knee. Drawing on l. tibia; in muscles of l. calf when sitting, extending into foot. Tired when sitting, especially knees. Heaviness; of whole r. when walking; as from a weight dragging from knee. Pricking when sitting, as from numbness. Goes to sleep when sitting and bending knee, with cold sensation. Numbness of r.

Ankle.—Pressure; on r. externally; in l. and above l. knee; when walking, when sitting it is more in knees. Sprained pain in morning on rising and walking. Drawing pain between r. malleolus and tendo-achillis when standing, becoming a tearing on moving foot. Drawing about l.

Foot.—Trembling. Tremulous tottering. Stitches in ball of l.; on both sides of tendo-achillis when walking. Tearing on dorsum of r.; T. on dorsum when sitting; in forepart of l. when walking, in tips of toes and under nails. Tearing cramp pain on dorsum, extending along outer side of calf to thigh. Drawing cramp pain on dorsa, < motion (Cupr.). Pressure on l. sole. Drawing in r.; in r. sole; on margin of l.; on dorsum of r. when walking. Weariness when walking, with tension and stiffness of thighs. Numbness in r.

Toes.—Sore pain in knuckles and in corns. Pressure; in r.; in r. great T. in evening. Drawing; in l, and in ball of r. foot. Pricking in tips of l, then of r. Numbness of r.

Clinical.—Cramps in calves.

Skin.—Pale, moist and cold. Shrivelled, relaxed. Loose, leathery, dry and burning. Dry. Erysipelas. Erysipelatous inflammation. Vesicles on neck and chest. Stitches on side of last joint of r. fourth finger. Drawing pain on nape and beneath zygoma. Drawing above and below l. clavicle. Creeping on neck above l. clavicle. Itching-crawling in r. groin, > rubbing. Itching; here and there in evening in bed; in palms; on knuckles and between them; on backs of hands and knuckles, > scratching, with sticking.

Sleep.—Yawning; when walking, without sleepiness. Sleepiness; towards noon, with confusion of head. Deep prolonged sleep. Stupid slumber, with pinching headache, heat, distended veins, rapid breathing and bruised pain in back. Deep sleep, then difficult waking in morning, next night waking at midnight with inability to sleep again, but in morning inability to rouse himself on account of sleepiness. Sleeplessness. Restless sleep; with continual waking on account of thirst. Starting in sleep; and crying out. Murmuring and sighing. Talking in a low tone. Snoring.

Dreams; fearful; confused, afterwards jealous and later anxious, of thefts, etc.; of projected occupations; about circumstances which had been the subject of conversation the day previous, especially in morning; amorous, with erections and pollutions. On closing eyes, while slumbering, fanciful objects appear, which sometimes seem too thick, sometimes too thin, changing as rapidly as the pulse goes.

Fever.—Coldness; after eating, with drawing through whole body and with cold arms, hands and feet. (Chill, with gnashing of teeth and much thirst, then sleep, with frequent wakings.) C., then heat. Sensitiveness to cold air; in evening, with headache as from constriction of brain and with pressure over root of nose. Takes cold easily, from which either a cold results or cutting in abdomen, with blackish-brown or black diarrhoea like coffee-grounds. Shivering chill; in evening when lying down; with chattering of teeth; with gooseflesh, also with sensitiveness of skin to slightest touch; with pale face. S. of limbs and abdomen, with heat in head and sensation as if sweat would break out. Chill of skin; with insensibility of it. Internal coldness, < walking; on r. side, then on l., as if a cold liquid flowed downward from head. Coldness of forehead, cheeks and hands; agreeable, through upper part of body, especially in stomach and œsophagus.

Chilliness in back; as from a cold wind. Internal chill beneath scapula; in lumbar region, < walking. C. over back mingled with warmth, as if sweat would break out. Alternate C. and heat in small of back when walking. Sticking coldness in sacral region, passing with lightning-like velocity along side of vertebræ to nape of neck and over whole body, alternating with heat. Cold limbs; hands and feet; fingers; hands, when walking; hands, with hot face. Internal coldness in r. thigh as from a cold wind; I. coldness, extending from knee into foot, when sitting. Cold sensation in r. leg and toes; in r. leg as from a cold wind; in l. ankle as if a cold wind blew downward through calf, on foot a similar sensation when standing. C. of feet, with heat of head.

Heat; when sitting, with internal quaking proceeding from nape and between scapula, and extending as a pressure in limbs, with heat and sweat of forehead; H. < walking; with redness of face; with rush of blood to head; with rapid throbbing of heart; H., with trembling. Dry H.; then easy sweat. Heat of skin; as if sweat would break out. Heat of head; in forehead; in vertex; in occiput; of scalp, also on forehead and temples; in head, with tearing headache, > pressure; in skin, vertex, and heaviness of head alternating with internal coldness in lumbar region. Burning in ears; in lobules of ears; in face; rising from nape into head, alternating with a cold sensation, but skin is warm and moist; H. in back. Creeping H. in back and lower limbs. H. in hands; in r. knee; of feet; in r. sole, with stitches.

Sweat; at night, then weakness in morning; in sleep; inclination to S. on slightest exertion in cool, rainy weather. Cold; when beginning to vomit, especially on face. Clammy; on forehead; and cold. Smelling of camphor. Sweat on forehead; when sitting; cold, on head; cold, on forehead and chest. Sweat on face; on nape when walking; on back, when sitting; on hands; on palms.

Clinical.—Feeling as if a cold wind were blowing over the body. Congestive chill, icy coldness over whole surface of body.

Camphor Bromide.

The monobromide of Camphor may be dissolved in Alcohol for dilutions.

Restlessness at night. Dull headache all over head in afternoon; heavy headache extending to occiput. Appearance all day of fine snowflakes falling straight down before eyes. Sharp aching in jaws. Discomfort about jaws, waking at night. Sore and stiff feeling in jaws and throat. Sharp shooting in teeth. Dryness of mouth and throat, with bitter taste. Sudden violent vomiting, with little nausea. Burning in stomach, then diarrhoea. Catharsis at 5 A.M. and about every hour all the forenoon, and about every fifteen minutes from 2 P.M. till midnight. Suppression of milk. Respiration and pulse slower. Temperature fell one degree. Heat.

Doziness, but not sleep in the natural acceptance of the word, rather a species of trance, eyes open and senses as acute as ever, perhaps more so, but the points of compass seemed reversed, at first these trances lasted five or ten minutes, finally four days, with ghastly dreams at night, in the day vision of large black flies coursing to and fro in swarms, lances of pain shot from temple to temple, and at base of brain a dull benumbing pressure extending towards coronal region, fell into an uneasy drowse about midnight and slumbered for several hours without real rest.

Canchalagua.

A tincture is prepared from the whole plant of Erythraea Chromioides, Griesb. (Gentianaceæ).

Sore all over body, especially in lower limbs. That kind of pain in head and fingers which accompanies attacks of intermittent fever. Head feels congested. Pain in forehead. Fulness, tightness of scalp, it feels as if drawn together by india-rubber. Burning in l. eye, then in r. Stitches in ears. Pain in ears. Increased buzzing and roaring in ears. Spitting of white mucus, with trembling and nervousness. Appetite increased. Regurgitations. Waterbrash. Ructus. Flatus. Pain in abdomen, > pressure. Loose stools, several a day. Constipation. Morning stool hard, knotty. Chills repeatedly down spine and all over body, < in bed, at night. Sleeplessness. Heat in whole body, and after the proving I could bear better the cool trade wind, usually setting in, in San Francisco, in afternoon.

Clinical.—Most severe types of intermittent in hot countries, with a general sore and bruised feeling, nausea and retching, the skin becomes wrinkled like a washerwoman's. Alleviated a catarrh produced by influenza.

Cannabis Indica.

A tincture is prepared from the dried tops of the herb (gathered in India), Cannabis Sativa var. India, L.

General Action.—The chief effect is on the mind; an abnormal exhilaration and excitation of thought. Ideas crowd upon each other with extreme rapidity so that time seems infinite, space immense. The sense of duality is also pronounced. Convulsions are sometimes induced.

Generalities.—Dropsy. Determination of blood to surface. Creeps on hands or knees in the open air. Unconsciously walks sideways in the street. Cannot avoid running against people in the street. Did things automatically. During the intoxication, when the spells of laughter came on, he stamped and raised his body up and down on the sofa in a violent manner. Closed his eyes and tried to think of something solemn, suddenly felt as if he were a marble statue, unable to move, general chill. Shaking of whole body. Trembling on moving hands or feet. Twitchings. Spasms. Catalepsy. Tetanus at the moment that water was taken, others frothed at the mouth.

Stitches in chest and limbs. Aching in nape, r. shoulder and r. ear. Pressing pain on different spots of cranial bones, in l. wrist and ankle, and violent pain in muscles below l. scapula. Thrilling; through whole frame to finger-ends and through brain, then terror; agreeable, through body and limbs. Enlarged feeling in single parts; E. feeling in r. side of body. Light feeling on motion. The first sensations are physically extreme lightness and mentally keen perception of the ludicrous. Feeling as if raised from the ground and as if he could fly. Nervous feeling. Un-easiness; vague. Excitation as from quick circulation of blood, as if streams of it poured towards the head, which felt dull, eyes glistened, and on walking he could scarcely find his way, everything seemed dark and perverted, on reaching home great cheerfulness and serenity, as if an unseen power lifted him into a higher region, everything seemed too small and dark, frequent protestations that he saw something unearthly and could accomplish great things, he saw spirits dancing around him as happy as himself, hearing very acute, thirst, cataleptic and epileptic attacks.

Sudden oppression, everything seemed too narrow, with distortion of features, pallor, the oppression increasing to anxiety, with feeling as if boiling blood mounted to his head. Heaviness after going to bed, or drowsiness, could hardly lift his arms or legs. Desire to lie down in daytime. Disinclination to physical labor. Indolence in morning; luxurious I, with erotic delirium. Weakness; from a short walk; < about knees; so that he could hardly speak, and soon deep sleep; of whole body, arms heavy, a kind of fainting, as after loss of blood; limbs rigid, and he became cataleptic, feet cold and insensible to hot applications, subsequently the anæsthesia extended over the whole body, with rapid automatic movements of hands, at times portions of the head and whole body seemed petrified, so that he could not move these parts, then they relaxed, the brain seemed suddenly changed to marble, eyes seemed as hard as marble.

Felt as if under the influence of an opiate. Felt drunk. Rigidity. Torpidity. Numbness; creeping through body and limbs. Paralytic feeling of whole body caused by candle-light, with stupefaction of senses, compression of brain, and everything appears without color. Collapse. Syncope as soon as he closes his eyes. It affects most the nervous and sanguine temperaments, the bilious nearly as much, but the lymphatic only slightly. Aggravation on r. side. Amelioration from rest; from washing in cold water.

Clinical.—Cataleptic spasm of muscles of neck. Tetanic spasms about the jaws.

Mind.—Lunacy. Imagines that he hears music, shuts his eyes and is lost in delicious thought. Imagined that he was gradually swelling. Extreme exaggeration of the duration of time and extent of space, a few seconds seemed ages, the utterance of a word as long as a drama, a few rods seemed a distance so great that it could never be passed, things in the room seemed to recede to a vast distance, the ceiling was raised, and the adjoining room seemed an enormous depth below him though on the same floor.

Ridiculous speculative ideas; or he imagines that he hears sublime music or sees magnificent architecture or beautiful landscapes. Imagined that he was a huge saw darting up and down, cutting off planks, that he was a bottle of soda-water, running to and fro, then a huge hippopotamus, then a giraffe, then a huge fan, surrounded by clouds of music and perfume, that his leg was a tin case filled with stair-rods that rattled as he walked, or that the other leg extended hundreds of feet into the air, on which he was compelled to hop as he walked. Imagined that he was a pump-log, through which a stream of hot water was playing, that he was an inkstand and that the ink might spill over the bed, that he could open and shut his cover, could see and feel the ink splash against his sides.

He seemed transparent, fire seemed to shine through him and warm the marrow in his bones, was conscious of the blood coursing through his veins, and everything within him trembled with pleasure. Could trace the circulation of the blood along every inch, knew when every valve opened and shut, the beating of the heart was so audible that he wondered why others did not hear it. He seemed possessed of a dual nature, one of which watched the other from a height while it passed through various phases of delirium, or one seemed thinking of something while he laughed at it. He seemed a third person looking at himself and his friend. The soul seemed separated from the body. His voice seemed as if not his own. Imagines that he is possessed of infinite knowledge and power of vision, that he has creative power, that he is very eloquent, that he possesses the wealth of the world and has a benevolence equal to his wealth.

Excitement; in afternoon, with irritation; with dancing, laughing, talking nonsense, knew that he was talking nonsense, but could not stop without an effort of the will, which he did not care to make. Sees dancing satyrs and mandarins. Dancing before a looking-glass, with laughing and singing. Sings and extemporizes both words and music. Shouts, leaps into the air and claps his hands for joy. Whistles and wishes to hug every one. Delightful ecstasy was converted into horrors, which were < by darkness. Ecstasies of pleasure, of agonies, of terror and pain are constantly followed by more gentle forms of delirious excitement or hallucinations.

Sees diabolical imps, who terrify him or make him laugh at their grotesque grimaces. All around and within seems a mystery, and is terrifying. Imagines that men are bribed to kill him. Idea that he was about to die; and be dissected. Looks under beds and tables, unlocks and relocks doors, for he fancies that he hears strange noises, and that thieves are in the house. Melancholic delirium. Thinks that every one he meets has some secret sorrow and wishes to sympathize with him. The most familiar objects seem strange. Did not know where he was, or whether men generally existed, or for what purpose he existed. Difficulty in refraining from saying and doing unusual things. Speaks uncontrollably loud now and then, and then corrects himself. Sensations exalted and magnified, the pulse seems strong, ideas flow rapidly, pictures seem larger. There seems to be no possible freak of the imagination that is not aroused by this drug.

Exaltation of spirits. Loquacity. Incoherent talk. Uncontrollable laughter, until the face is purple and back aches; immoderate L., full of fun and mischief; immoderate, and he accents the last syllable in all words; spasmodic, < flatus rising in throat, threatening to choke him and make him vomit, without nausea. Tendency to make puns and to talk about grammatical questions. Constant theorizing. Anguish > open air, with oppression; A. and despair. Despair and fear of being eternally lost, the name of God seemed terrible, demons clutched him, he seemed walking in a vast arena, encircled by tremendous walls. Fear that he should become insane; F. of darkness; of approaching death; of spectres; of the coal-scuttle; at the sight of bright objects, asked for water, carried it convulsively to his mouth, but was unable to swallow; of things real and unreal, alternating with delight. Dread of congestion, apoplexy, hæmorrhage, and a multiplicity of deaths.

Depression of spirits; and disinclination to study; from which he could arouse himself only by imitating the movements and follies of others. Crying and moaning. Weeping, the tears seem blood. Passionate. Intolerant of contradiction. Sarcastic. Tendency to blaspheme. Reckless feeling. Suspicious. Lonely. Taciturn. Indifference to the world and to the dictates of conscience. No power of will.

Capable of great effort. Ideas quick and sensations pleasant. Thoughts crowded upon each other so that he could not recall any thought or event. Remembered the events and ideas of his childhood. Ideas fixed. Absent-minded. Writes one word for another. Repeats words and sentences when writing. Unable to collect his thoughts. Forgetful; of what he intended to write or speak, so that he cannot finish a sentence; of his last words and ideas, and spoke in a low tone and thick voice, as if tired. Inability to read, partly from dreamy spells and partly because he had not full power of vision. Stupidity. Deathly stupor in the reaction. Cataleptic state. Lethargy in attacks, with unconsciousness.

Unconsciousness every few minutes; U. caused by the candle-light; when listening to the piano, is seemingly gently raised to a great height, when the music becomes celestial, on regaining consciousness his head is bent forward, neck stiff, with ringing in ears; at night, alternating with delirium and semi-consciousness; of the centre of gravity, and seeming on the point of falling.

Clinical.—Delirium tremens, with misapprehensions concerning time and space. Delirium, with great exaltation of mind, great flow of language, very exalted ideas and florid notions. Delirium, he laughs at trifles, is inclined to be very foolish.

Head.—Frequent involuntary shaking. Jerking extending to l. outer canthus. Aching; on waking; in the sunlight; > coffee; < vertex, with beating; heavy throbbing through it, with sensation of a blow on occiput and nape. Bruised feeling. Gradual expansive feeling in brain, as if I were apart from myself and dwelling in a new world, within the cavity of the skull. Crisping sensation in brain on falling asleep or on waking; seething or C. of blood in brain like sheet-lightning. Confusion. Fulness; with drowsiness and flushes in face; with sharp intermittent pain under r. parietal bone. Tension. Compression of brain in a warm room, with paralytic feelings. Constriction, with inability to think; C. as from an iron skull-cap. Swollen sensation. Heaviness; with unconsciousness and falling; with wandering of mind and apprehension that he was going to faint; on brain, forcing him to stoop. Shocks through brain on regaining consciousness. Felt light, mind very active, yet apparently sluggish. Vertigo; on rising; on rising, with stunning pain in occiput, and he falls; on bending forward or walking; with backward inclination of head.

Forehead.—Jerking in r. side and towards interior and back part of head. Pain; throbbing; drawing; < over eyes; heavy; heavy, in brain, < l. side. Heaviness in sinicput, with confusion; H. in sinicput, with heat; H., with fulness and with pressure at root of nose and over eyes, headache over l. eye, pain in vertex and l. side of occiput. Pressure on F. and vertex, which seemed to cause his slowness of speech and action; outward over eye in afternoon. Fulness as if it would burst.

Temples.—Sticking in r.; gradually changing to pressive pain. Pain; < r.; burning; darting, throbbing, in r., and from occiput to forehead; throbbing, extending anteriorly in r., with warmth about head, cheeks red and hot, nausea, increased during the warmth, vomiting of mucus and bitter-tasting water, with scratching in throat, afterwards dulness in occiput, sick feeling in the whole body, necessity to go to bed on account of weariness and heaviness in limbs.

Sides.—Pain in r.; intermittent, near anterior-inferior angle of l. parietal bone. Feeling as if something were going around from before backward in r. Boring in r. parietal protuberance at 11 A.M.

Occiput.—Pain; before the convulsive movements, which changed into heat, then coldness, in consequence of which his hands were carried automatically to that spot and held there, as if it were difficult to detach them. Surging towards forehead. Fulness in r. side of cerebellum, < shaking head, with pain.

Scalp.—Sore to touch. Feeling as if tightly stretched, and in skin of forehead. Crawling on vertex.

Clinical.—Migraine as if the head were opening and shutting, cannot realize her identity. Uræmic headache, feeling as if head were opening and shutting.

Eyes.—Fixed. Staring wildly, and he seemed to have awakened suddenly. Wild-looking. Brilliant. Injected. Swollen and inflamed; S. and dull. Divergent squint. Has an expression of cunning and merriment. Appeared small and drunken on looking at himself in the mirror. Pressure on r. Heaviness. Heat; and smarting. Weakness.

Lachrymation. Pupils contracted; and insensible; dilated. Pain at back of ball. Distended feeling in balls, as if starting out of head, they ached on trying to read. Lids, twinkling; drooping, then coma; contractions; distention of bloodvessels of upper, with heat; prickling in margins; soreness of upper; heaviness; burning of edges, with itching. Jerking in external canthus and in lid. Cool burning-stinging in l. inner canthus and in adjacent side of nose. Sharp pain in r. inner canthus, extending up side of head, back, and out. Inflammation of caruncula lachrymalis, with swelling. Injected vessels in conjunctiva; in a triangular patch from each internal canthus to cornea, < night; with heat, greater in eyes than in lids. Conjunctivitis. Pain from bottom of orbit through brain, and in ear; P. as from a blow over r. orbit.

Vision.—Letters run together when reading. Twinkling, trembling and glimmering. A large spot hovers above vision of l. eye. Violet spots on the paper when reading. Pea-green circles around the candle-light. Ugly faces assume a pleasing expression. Clairvoyance; on waking suddenly at midnight, although the room was dark he could see everything about him and could read the titles of books twelve or fifteen feet off, this passed off as soon as he had urinated. Photopsia. Sensitiveness of r. eye to light, with lachrymation. Confused. Weak. Lost, except a small spot where he looks.

Ears.—Jerking or electric shocks. Stinging in l. Tearing in r., > pressure. Boring in r.; above r. and back of it. Aching; in l., with singing. Throbbing and fulness. Stuffed feeling in r. Burning. Buzzing; in r.; and ringing. Noise like boiling water. Singing; in l.; when lying and dozing, > rising; periodical, always renewed during the dreamy spells. Music is intensely agreeable. His own voice sounded a long way off. Hearing acute. Hearing difficult.

Nose.—Pain at root; with fulness. Dry, feverish feeling in l. nostril. Sneezing. Blew coagulated blood from r. nostril.

Face.—Expression drowsy and stupid. Wearied expression. He thinks his expression must be altered, as people look at him more than usual. Intoxicated look. Red; from mounting stairs. Pale; and anxious; as in faintness, > fresh air. Stinging on r. side as if stuck with pins, on scratching it changes to another part of the body. Pressure about posterior borders of both malar-bones. Warm tingling over l. side. Skin, especially on forehead and chin, felt drawn tight. Insensible, but to the hand (which was moved with difficulty) it felt hard. Drawing in muscles of mastication. Jaws, constriction; sensation as if muscles were drawn tight; desire to forcibly compress them; immovable before falling asleep. Lips glued together; trembling; jerking of lower.

Mouth.—Teeth. Grinding in sleep. Boring in r. lower molars, > pressure, < grinding them together. Aching in r. lower molars; at root of first r. upper molar; in upper T., with feeling as if loose. Felt no pain while conscious that the toothache was present. Heavy throbbing at roots. Soreness at union of incisors and gums, < inside, with sensitiveness to touch of tongue. Clenched feeling in r.

Tongue.—White and sickly-looking. Coated white; in morning, with bad taste, as if he had been intoxicated over night. Viscid mucus on its upper surface. Covered with dry mucus. Thick mucus before rising, with dry feeling as if scalded. Felt as if covered with pepper. Stinging-burning as from a blister, at r. anterior pillar of fauces. Sensation in T. and throat as if covered with a dry, soft body. Dryness. Metallic sensation on r. half. Stammering and stuttering. Lips failed of utterance, as if paralyzed.

Mouth dry; and lips; all night, with thirst; with thirst; without thirst; with froth; radiating from back of throat, without thirst; and in fauces, so that he can hardly speak or swallow. Saliva white, thick, frothy and sticky. Foam. Thick, tasteless salivation. Breath hot. All food is extremely palatable. Taste metallic; with dry sensation and exudation of gummy mucus; coppery.

Throat.—In morning hawks up glairy lumps, with a spot of blood in each. Pressure in tonsils. Sensation of a fleshy body at pit, impeding deglutition. Sensation of a plug rising in it, choking him. Dryness; with thirst for cold water; in open air, with rawness, so that he could not smoke a cigar; and roughness. Burning; on inspiration; in pharynx and cesophagus.

Stomach.—Appetite increased; at dinner; great for bread; ravenous at tea; little; lost. Thirst for water, and yet dread of it. Eructations; when moving; of tasteless gas. Nausea; after eating, with efforts to vomit; with scraping in pharynx and eructations; with heaviness and pressure over eyes.

Cutting gripping. Agonizing clutching. Crampy pain. Pain at cardiac orifice, > pressure; in epigastrium, > eructations of tasteless gas; in pit, then prickling, > eating; in pit, nervous grumbling sensation in stomach every few minutes, extending into thorax. Swollen feeling when eating, with oppression of chest, as if he would suffocate, forcing him to loosen his clothes. Weight. Burning; changing to aching, with oppression of chest. Cold feeling. Sinking.

Abdomen.—Distention; > belching wind. Rumbling on lying down. Stitches above symphysis pubis; in r. hypochondrium when breathing.

Rectum and Stool.—Tenesmus. Sensation in anus as if he were sitting on a ball, as if anus and part of urethra were filled with a hard ball. Liquid stools besides frequent ineffectual urging. Painless, yellow diarrhoea; frequently, and heat in abdomen. Constipation. Stool omitted.

Urinary Organs.—Urging after micturition; U., with much straining; with copious discharge; with contracted sensation in genito-urinary organs and strangury; ineffectual; constant; no desire to urinate the first day, constant desire the next day. Dribbling after the stream ceases. He has to wait some time before the urine flows. He has to force out the last drops with his hands. Frequent micturition; in evening, with burning pain; at night, urine copious; at night, urine dark; but in small quantities; and urine copious; with difficulty at the beginning. The stream suddenly stops and then flows again. Could not voluntarily retain the urine.

Urethra.—Excessive discharge of prostatic fluid at night, during a hard evacuation. Inflammation of orifice. Stitches; before, during and after micturition; in end; in end in evening and night; and in anus; sending a thrill to cheeks and hands. Burning before, during and after micturition; during micturition, with pain; at orifice during and after micturition; < evening. Feeling as if there were a gonorrhoeal discharge. Uneasiness; in U. and penis, with burning and frequent calls to urinate.

Urine.—Copious, colorless; C. and clear, light-colored; and clear; at times, and again in small quantities, with burning and biting. Scanty and dark. Thick, red.

Genital Organs.—Oozing of white glairy mucus on squeezing glands. Penis relaxed and shrunken. Sticking-burning soreness of glands. Itching of glands. Chordee. Erections when riding, walking and sitting still, not caused by amorous thoughts; painful E. after coition. Itching of scrotum, with burning. Satyriasis. Thrill prolonged, with more than a dozen ejaculations of semen; thrill consists of intense burning, with no ejaculation of semen. During coition scarcely any emission or sensation, but afterwards acute pain in loins. Menstruation profuse, lasting five days. Nymphomania. It excites desire in women, but causes sterility.

Clinical.—Chordee during gonorrhoea. Uterine colic, with great nervous agitation.

Respiratory Organs.—Voice high; low; unable to measure the compass and volume of the voice when speaking. Cough rough, scratching the sternum; C. dry, hard; dry, becoming almost like a bark. Breathing stertorous. Suffocation from least pressure on stomach. Dyspnoea. It required a great effort to inspire deeply. Respiration rapid; slow. Desire for open air.

Chest.—Stitches extending from both nipples through chest. Cutting behind sternum, < swallowing. Pain. Anxiety, with rapid, irregular, small beats of heart. Constriction; on a line with heart, when ascending steps quickly. Oppression; < mounting stairs; with deep labored breathing, he feels suffocated and has to be fanned; with tightness in pit of stomach. Heaviness when walking. Burning.

Heart.—Stitches, with oppression, the latter > deep breathing; S. in small spots; as with the prongs of a fork; intermittent, on surface. Pain; all night, with dyspnoea. Anguish. Weight in region. Oppression of precordium; O. until he went to bed about 3 A.M., with sick feeling at heart, the beats embarrassed, sharp and quick, weak and small, its contractions jerky. Sick feeling. Feeling as if it rubbed against the ribs on breathing. Palpitation; waking him. Beats intense and rapid; small, uneven and anxious, when sitting or stooping. Impulse weak.

Pulse.—Rapid; and full, bounding; and irregular, small; and irregular, afterwards small, contracted; but feeble. Slow; and small, with long intermissions; in carotids and temporal arteries, and weak. Strong.

Full and bounding. Feeble; and intermittent, afterwards rapid. Tracings showed irregularities in tension and frequency, with increase in prominence of waves. Oscillations singularly marked in tracing, tension increased, amplitude and frequency diminished, later increased cardiac excitement at beginning of systole, with some obstruction, later diminished tension and oscillation of cerebro-spinal implication.

Neck.—Surging like waves into head, seeming to try to press it forward. Beating in nape. Rigidity of nape.

Back.—Feeling as if a stream of warm water gradually stole up it to the brain. Reflex movements of spine, a wavelike motion beginning at dorsal region and extending to pelvis, alternately raising and depressing first the dorsum, afterwards the pelvis. Stunning pain between scapulae. Stitches in kidneys. Pain in kidneys when laughing; in kidneys, keeping him awake at night. Burning in kidneys. Sensation in sacrum as if a red-hot iron rod passed up spine to the atlas, around occiput, over eyes from r. side stopping at l. ear, leaving a charred feeling, taking six hours to perform the passage.

Extremities.—Gesticulatory convulsions of arms and legs, and by degrees his symptoms assumed the appearance of hydrophobia. Contractions of arms and legs. Shuddering through all, with weight in occiput and tetanic intermittent contractions of muscles of nape. Pains in joints; in wrists and ankles. Feel very large. Leaden feeling, as if he could not move them. Heaviness of forearms and feet. Weariness in r.; W., with disposition to go to bed; almost amounting to paralysis, < l. Stiff sensation. Pleasant numbness. Paralysis of lower and of r. arm.

Upper Extremities.—Shoulder. Shooting pain from l. to tip of middle finger, producing in the finger soreness as in neuralgic pains, the pain at one time concentrated itself in the pulpy part of the ungual phalanx, at another in the upper part of the axillary border of the scapula, whence it radiated like the spokes of a wheel, for two inches. Pain across S. and spine, forcing him to stoop; P. in outer edge of trapezius, at 4 P.M. Lameness; as if beaten, < l.

Arm.—Trembling; and hands. Pain in front of arm and back of elbow. Agreeable thrilling, and in hands. Heaviness in l. arm and hand, with swollen feeling, at other times pain as if the parts were pressed apart by blood. Inability to raise r., with coldness of r. hand.

Sudden pain in r. upper arm, with constriction, numbness and tingling, as if electrified, extending down arm and to axilla, gradually passing to feet and then to head, chiefly felt in arm and axilla, it came on and off like a wave, it stopped at the mesial line (the r. side was next the fire). Pain as from fatigue in bend of r. elbow at 7 A.M. Weight in forearms so that he cannot raise his hands. Pain in l. wrist. Constant rubbing of hands. Hands shake so that he cannot write. Hands feel monstrously large. Fingers suddenly red, with burning and prickling in joints; sticking in F.; aching in joints.

Lower Extremities.—Gait stumbling; balancing; unsteady, as of one who tried to keep down, for he felt as if there were springs in his knees. Incoordination of movements. Lameness of r., with drawings in calves. Unable to support him; r. suddenly gives out and he falls. Numbness of l. and of foot. Paralyzed feeling in r. when walking. Paralysis; preventing him from ascending stairs, with stiffness and tired aching in knees.

Pain in r. hip; l. femur; above l. knee, with itching; laming; in r. knee, with drawing and aching. Tearing in l. knee. Patellæ feel as if dragged down. R. leg frequently shot to the left, missing the plank on which he was walking. Cramp in calves, preventing movement of legs, or causing them to be distended, or to take a sudden jump. Pain in l. leg near external malleolus when lying on back. Agreeable thrilling from knees down, with sensation as if a bird's claws were clasping knees. Weakness of l. leg; painful W. of legs. Pain in r. ankle in evening.

Dragged the feet when walking. Contractions of tendons of feet. Sticking in soles. Pains in soles as if he trod on spikes, extending to hips, on attempting to walk < r., with drawing pains in calves, the pains forced him to limp and to cry out. Bone pains in metatarsophalangeal joints of r. foot. Numb feeling in l. sole, then in foot, extending to the whole limb; in joints of feet. Feet go to sleep. Sticking in joints of l. toes, < great toe; in ball of l. great toe, with aching; in joints of l. great toe, with aching. Pain in joints of r. great toe in forenoon and evening.

Skin.—Formication. Itching of nose; sole; face, shoulder, abdomen and feet, > scratching. Insensibility.

Sleep.—Sleepiness; in daytime; in afternoon; in evening; on going to bed, he imagined that his fingernails were of the size of plates, very curved, and on opening and shutting fingers they seemed to slide over one another like a fan, and tapping them on a hard substance caused a delicious sensation; with feeling as of a cold wind on occiput and nape; with alternate sleeping and waking, but the waking was a pleasant dreamy state; but inability to sleep, the mind wandered rapidly from one subject to another, he seemed to be dreaming with open eyes, for he noticed everything around him, then headache till late at night. Alterations of dozing and waking; in afternoon; after dinner, > coffee. Sound sleep; with melancholy dreams. Prolonged sleep. Slept in his chair. When asleep he looked stiff, as if dead, with lower jaw down. Indisposition to rise in morning.

Sleeplessness. Waking in night; before midnight in semi-consciousness, with inability to move, palpitation, breathing slow, deep, labored and intermittent, and feeling as if dying; before midnight, imagines that he is going to be choked, cries and groans, for some time, when objects appear their respective sizes, when sleep; after midnight, with thirst; at 6 A.M., with fullness of head and heaviness of body; frequent, with mild, pleasant dreams. Talking in sleep. Starting of limbs in sleep, which woke him, when he feared that he would have a fit. Screaming in sleep.

Nightmare every night as soon as he fell asleep. Dreams, with open eyes; D. of danger; vexatious; prophetic; voluptuous, with erections and emissions; vivid, sometimes ecstatic; ugly; of dead bodies; wild, shapeless, waking him in agitation and perspiration; various, delightful. Dreamy attacks periodically in the daytime. Dreamless sleep.

Fever.—Coldness; and shivering, with external heat. Shuddering. Shaking chill, with chattering of teeth, coldness of body and limbs, cold sweat, tired feeling in limbs, aching in joints, dry mouth, with thick, white, sticky saliva, thirst, drinking of large quantities of water, staggering and falling on attempting to walk, thumping in head and heart, inability to rise from stooping on account of weight on cerebellum, neck and shoulder, blindness, except at a small point immediately where he looks, pulse very slow and full, seeming descent of the ceiling to crush him, belief that he is dying, but inability to cry for help, falling to the floor, and lying unconscious, then sleep for three nights and three days afterwards.

Coldness of surface. Coldness of face, nose and hands after dinner; hands and feet after dinner, < nose, with shivering; across root of nose at 9 A.M. when leaning forward writing, > moving; in small of back and between shoulders; limbs; limbs, with at times trembling; r. hand, with stiffness and numbness of r. thumb.

Heat; when lying. Fever boiled in my blood and every heart-beat was like the stroke of a colossal engine. Burning in skin; and dryness. Heat in forehead; over front of body and arms; face; in a line from l. side of lip to chin; in soles; moist, in palms. Cool burning in l. side of border of lip and point of nose. Pleasant warmth beginning in spine and extending through body.

Sweat; < on front of body; sticky, in drops on forehead; none.

Cannabis Sativa.

A tincture of the tops of the fresh herb of Cannabis Sativa L. (grown in Europe or America) is used.

General Action.—As compared with Cannabis indica we see much less mental disturbance (less of the peculiar gum "Hashish" in the plant used) and more effects due to the other constituents of the plant, ethereal oil and Nitrate of Potash (the latter is found in an unusual amount in the plant).

Allies.—Cannab. ind., Nux vom.

Generalities.—Secretions greatly increased. She spun around on one foot and began to walk. Gesticulations. Spasmodic gestures. Seemed affected with chorea when walking. Jerking as if in blood of head, chest and stomach. Tearing constrictive pressure in l. knee, in forehead and over all parts of body. Tearing pushes and tearing, deeply-penetrating stitches in many parts, especially in limbs. Pinching superficially here and there in flesh. Sick feeling in whole body, with necessity to lie down on account of weariness and heaviness in limbs. General discomfort an hour after breakfast, especially in abdomen, as if inflated, with sticking cutting there and with general chilliness. Uneasiness, with sudden forgetfulness of what he wished to write. Indolent sensation in whole body. Indolence, with weariness, yawning and stretching. Weakness; greater in morning after an almost unbroken sleep than on lying down the previous evening; after slight motion; after eating, with indolence, everything affected him, even talking and writing; with sleepiness; with giving way of knees and aching in them; sudden, especially of lower limbs, with staggering on slightest motion of body, but more steady when walking. General stiffness.

Mind.—About 4.30 P.M. took a large dose of the extract, about 7 P.M. while writing a prescription he became oblivious of surrounding objects, but went on writing, when the receipt was finished he suddenly recollected where he was and apologized for remaining so long, but was assured he had been only a few minutes, about 7.30 he returned home, now he was greatly excited, the hilarity rapidly increased, it was a feeling of inner joyousness, the system felt as if fatigue were forever banished, the mind gladly ran riot, was disposed to laugh, to make comic gestures, a frequently recurring fancy was to imitate with the arms the motions of a fiddler, and with the lips the tunes he was supposed to be playing, he knew that he was acting foolishly, but could not control himself, once he raised his head and exclaimed, "Oh, the mountains, the mountains!" about 8 numbness in limbs began, with general uneasiness and fear lest he had taken an overdose, he walked constantly about the house, the whole surface felt flushed and warm, mouth and throat were dry, legs felt as if not a part of the body, pulse 120, full and strong, fear as of impending death, legs felt as if waxen pillars and to his hand felt very firm, as if the muscles were in a state of tonic contraction, then began marked "spells," when all connection seemed severed between himself and the external world, but on coming out of them it was not a void on which he looked back, but a period of active, though aimless life, a chaos of disjointed ideas, these spells lasted from a few seconds to one or two minutes, but seconds seemed hours and hours seemed infinite, was perfectly conscious between the paroxysms, would look at his watch, and then after an hour or two, as he thought, would look again and find that scarcely five minutes had elapsed, when most lucid there was a duplex action in regard to time, he would think it was so long since a certain event and then reason would say No, it had been only a few minutes, your thoughts are caused by the hemp, but he was never able to shake off this sense of the prolongation of time even for a minute, an exaggeration of distance was noticed only once, and that was when standing in the door watching the approach of the doctor in the street, limbs grew cold, on attempting to walk upstairs the lower half of the legs seemed made of lead, felt as if an evil spirit had control of the whole of him except the will-power and was in conflict with that, felt as if his only chance was to struggle against the paroxysms, hopeless anguish and utter weariness, once or twice nightmare sensation, felt himself mounting upward, expanding, dissolving into space, overwhelmed by unutterable despair, then with tremendous effort he shook this off and started up with the shuddering thought, Next time you will not be able to throw this off, and what then? after an emetic vomited freely, without nausea and without much relief, about midnight went up-stairs to bed, legs and feet were so heavy that he could scarcely move them, did not recollect being undressed, went to sleep immediately, on waking early in the morning the mind was at first clear, but the paroxysms soon returned and recurred until late in afternoon, all day anæsthesia of skin, urine increased. (Compare Cann. ind.).

Agitation. Excitement after drinking wine and water, with cheerfulness, afterwards the former nausea and discomfort returned; E., then sensation of ease and comfort, with pleasing languor, then inebriation. Unsteadiness of mood. He became almost violent, when he assumed a sad, preoccupied air. Anxiety. Anger at trifles, with frenzy. Fretfulness, < afternoon. Pleasure in nothing, indifference to everything.

Fear at slightest noise; of the bed, in which he afterwards lay down. Sadness; in forenoon, liveliness in afternoon. Desire, especially at dinner, for wine to enliven his depressed mood. Gayety, as from intoxication. Disposition to laugh (Cannab. ind., Nux mos., Nux vom.). Constant laughter mingled with tears. Animation, with congestion of face, great loquacity, and inclination of head to r. and l. Loquacity. Constant murmuring of unintelligible words. Whistling and singing.

Mistakes in writing. Confusion of thought in afternoon and evening, with forgetfulness, heat and congestion of head, but coldness on going into open air. Wavering and uncertainty of mind, overwhelming vividness of ideas. Ideas remain stationary after fixing his mind long upon a subject. Ideas seem to stand still, with staring and absorption in higher thoughts, but is unconscious of them, with pain in parietal bones. Absent-minded. Wanting in reflective power, deficient in imagination, spiritless. Coma. Unconsciousness of the existence of the limbs, a sensation compared to that when under the influences of chloroform, without complete unconsciousness.

Head.—Aching; on moving head, and in nape of neck; piercing pain. Confusion; with heaviness and with pain in forehead and on eyes, so that his lids threaten to close. Heaviness. Tension. Throbbing, with heat in it and fever; T., with pain. Congestion when writing. Rush of blood; causing heat and flushes; causing pleasant warmth in it, with pain in temples. Intoxication. Vertigo; when standing; when walking, with tendency to fall sideways (Nux v.); as if head moved from one side to other; as if everything would turn around with her. Head seemed to describe a circular movement, which extended to the whole body, so that he fell. Dreamy in head for several days as if the room turned around with her.

Frontal pain; beneath eminence, extending to occiput; drawing, through forehead. Throbbing outward beneath l. frontal eminence, then stupefying pressure. Compression from margin of orbits to temples. Heaviness in sinciput till evening, with heat in it. Constriction in sinciput. Visible throbbing in r. temporal artery in morning. Pressure in temples; throbbing headache extending forward into r. T., with warmth about head, red and hot cheeks, with nausea < in the warmth. Tickling spasm in T. Compression in T. Pain in vertex; as from a stone upon it. Pressure internally in side of head when leaning the other side of head against a wall. Pain in r. occipital bone; drawing, in occiput, extending to ears. Tension in O., then in sinciput, lastly in temples. Painful pimples, sensitive to touch, and on nape and behind ears. Crawling on scalp.

Eyes.—Injected; and brilliant. Cornea obscured. Pressure from behind the eyes forward. Sensation of spasmodic drawing. Sensation of sand in r. in evening, with necessity to rub it. Burning evenings. Weak sensation with indistinct sensation. Pupils dilated; alternately D. and contracted. Tearing in upper lid. Pressure on lids, that makes them difficult to open, with sticking in orbits. Heat in external canthi, with prickling. Sensation as if eyebrows were pressed down. On attempting to write found that the characters made with the pen were very fine. Vision of a flame playing before eyes; of a circle of white flaming zigzags on r. side near field of vision, so that only a portion of objects is seen indistinctly; of vertical shining, white points, that move in lines from one eye to the other, mornings on waking, then flickering before eyes, and light and dark dots floating in different directions.

Ears.—Inflamed pimple, painful to touch, in r., with swelling of meatus, afterwards discharge of pus mixed with blood. Stitches in mastoid process; in external meatus while chewing; outward in l.; at 10 A.M., with pain in throat, then cold and heat alternating with headache, < notion or stooping, > supporting herself on r. side, with feeling as if head were shaken, stitches in l. side of head, near skull and opposite to it, S. behind r. ear very violent, the condition lasting at night in sleep, so that she groaned, complained and often awoke. Pain behind r. as if pushed with a blunt instrument; in external as if drawn out of head; jerking, in r. tympanum, extending to shoulder. Smarting in external cartilage, which may have been pressed upon at night in bed. Throbbing. Throbbing dragging, extending almost to cheeks, > stooping, returning on becoming erect. Sensation as if membrane were stretched before them. Roaring before E. Ringing. Loud singing. Sound in l. as if the string of an instrument were struck.

Nose.—Itching-swelling on wing. Stupefying pressure on root as with a dull point. Dryness; with heat. Warmth, as if it would bleed. Sneezing, with sensation of stopped coryza, although air passed through the nose. Bleeding; in spurts till faintness.

Face.—Pale; and sunken; and he fell prostrated. Red; l. cheek, but not hot, r. pale, with pain in r. tooth. Grimaces as in chorea. Contraction of muscles. Efforts to laugh. Stupid expression. Drawing pressure in l. malar-bone. Stupefying compressive pain in l. side of chin, affecting l. teeth. Pulsations in various parts, especially in l. buccinator. Eruption on red part of lips and in corner of mouth. Spasmodic contraction of jaws. Pricking in l. ramus of lower jaw, then drawing.

Mouth.—Teeth. Crumbling of a hollow one and the pieces were like hard leather. Shooting in several at the same time. Cramplike pain in l. lower. Drawing pain in a hollow one, < evenings, with swelling of gums; D. in a hollow one after a vexation, changing after trying to suck air from it to sticking. Drawing in a hollow one, < touch of anything acid. Dulness, as after acids. Painful bunch on r. upper jaw, on side of palate, as from an ulcerated tooth. The gum around a hollow broken tooth is inflamed, swollen and painful, with drawing in root.

Tongue coated. Inability to speak as usual, at times he missed a word, at another he lost his voice, towards evening at one time a torrent of words, at another faltering, so that he spoke the same word ten times in the same breath, at times his idea was anxiously repeated and he was angry if he could not repeat it in the same words. Dryness; and of lips and throat; < evening, with sticky saliva, loss of thirst and heat of hands; of mouth, with tenacious mucus in throat; of palate in morning. Taste lost.

Throat.—Difficult hawking of mucus. Rising of water, which gets into trachea, so that he is obliged to swallow. Pain as if sore, < mornings in bed, > after rising by discharge of a lump of mucus, with dryness. Dryness. Swallowing difficult on account of absence of saliva, with inability to eat.

Stomach.—Eating like a glutton, and after the meal appearance of astonishment. Appetite increased evenings, with discomfort after much eating. A. lost. Cocoa relished tolerably at breakfast, but he can take only a little and feels neither hungry nor satisfied, with growling and rumbling in abdomen, cramp in stomach, when he thinks of what he could eat he has no desire for anything and yet his stomach feels empty.

Eruptions of air; of bitter, sour, acrid fluid; of a bitter sour fluid; with taste of bread after breakfast. Hiccough in morning. Nausea; in morning on waking, < lying on r. side, > lying on l. side; on waking, < thinking of what he has eaten; > drinking coffee, with inclination to hawk mucus and with vomiting; with discomfort, weakness, empty eructations, fullness in abdomen, no appetite, but tolerable relish when he eats; rising into throat, when nearly satisfied with food that he relished. Retching; rising from pit of stomach into throat. Choking suddenly rising into throat, as from acidity of stomach. Vomiting profusely; of tough acid mucus after coffee; difficult, of mucus, bitterish at first, then flat, which left the teeth dull, then hunger and eating with relish; V. of slimy, bitter water, with scraping in throat, then dulness and confusion in occiput; (green bilious vomiting).

Stitches in front near pit, just below ribs, > bending trunk forward or backward, soon returning. Cutting across upper part after stooping; in pit. Cramp; mornings. Pinching in pit. Ulcerating pain on touch, > on eating. Anxiety in pit, with oppression of breath, palpitation, rising of something warm into throat, with arrest of breath, as if something lodged in trachea, and flushes of heat. Heartburn. Feeling as if he had taken cold, < forenoon, with movings in abdomen and griping. Discomfort all the morning, sleepy yawning, indolence and disinclination to everything. Heaviness in epigastrium.

Abdomen.—Emission of almost odorless flatus every morning; noisy emission in morning. Incarceration of flatus till evening, with pain. Movings, then stitches in l. side, extending to ear. Shaking of intestines on violent motion of arms. Fullness, compelling deep breathing. Pinching stitches. Cutting, > drinking cold water. Pinching as if to stool. Griping. Pain before stool; as before menses. Bruised pain. Painful jerks, as from something living, moving from one place to another (Crocus), with drawing from l. hip-bone across to r. and thence into knee, still the pain remained in hip, where it was a tearing, pushy pain. Shivering as if cold water moved in it. Complete loss of tone of intestines, not overcome by the strongest cathartics.

Pain in upper, then diarrhoea and smarting in anus. Anxious throbbing in upper. Sticking in l. side, just below ribs; in both sides in evening in bed, extending up back to between scapulae and again down sides of A. Pinching on l. side near umbilicus and posteriorly near spine. Shocks in sides below ribs. Beating as with a hammer in l. side below ribs, extending towards back. Griping above umbilicus after eating. Pain in r. side near umbilicus like a beating outward. Sensation below U. as if he had taken cold, mornings from 8 till 10 o'clock, with movings in abdomen. Stretching outward in sides. Griping in hypogastrium, with cutting in loins. Pain in abdominal ring, with pressing outward, as if suppurating. Shocks above l. groin; jerking, in bend of groin, then distended sensation in region of abdominal ring and sensation as if ring were pressed outward. Tickling in parietes of hypogastrium.

Rectum.—Sticking, < walking, with contraction of sphincter. Pain in R. and in sacral region while sitting, as if intestines would be pressed out. Woke at 6 A.M., with desire for stool, but emission of only noisy flatus, urging to stool and micturition continued, after drinking coffee and smoking a hard stool, then nausea, that was only > keeping quiet. Urging to stool after dinner, then itching in R., with stitches; U, tenesmus and urinating continued so that he could hardly walk, after coffee and a pipe of tobacco crumbling stool and decrease of symptoms, but vomiting of coffee mixed with mucus.

Anus and Perineum.—Constrictive pain in anus, with sensation as if thighs were drawn together, so that she must close them. Sensation as if something cold trickled out of A. Itching of perineum.

Stool.—Thin and yellowish, she thought it was flatus, but it spurted away. Sometimes like diarrhoea, sometimes hard. Scanty, crumbling, with flatus. Suppressed. At irregular times, only a little is evacuated by straining, and tenesmus remains after it, sometimes sudden urging and a forcible pappy or liquid tool, with relief.

Urinary Organs.—Urging to urinate, with pain; frequent U, occasionally some burning, when the urine, especially in morning, is wheyey and turbid. Micturition in a split stream. Micturition difficult, profuse. Frequent M., with copious watery urine.

Urethra.—Orifice agglutinated by moisture which could be pressed out. Orifice inflamed, painful and hard to touch. Painless mucous discharge; and transparent; watery mucous discharge. Stitches along when not urinating; in end, > when urinating; anteriorly in orifice when not urinating; jerking, posteriorly while standing; burning, posteriorly while urinating; itching-tickling, in forepart. Zigzag tearing in fibres. Cutting in forepart when urinating. Inflamed sensation, with soreness to touch, and with tensive pain during erection. Burning-biting pain, extending backward from orifice while urinating, posteriorly more sticking; sticking-biting on urinating, biting when not urinating. Pressure to urinate, especially in forepart of U, when not urinating. Burning while urinating (Nux vom.), < just after urinating; < in evening; in orifice while urinating; in forepart while urinating; at beginning and end of micturition; from glans backward while urinating, biting after urinating. Burning pain in forepart when not urinating (Sulph.), compelling him to urinate almost constantly, even when there is no more urine to pass (Nux v.). Itching. Urine scanty. Red and turbid. White and turbid. Full of fibres, as of mucus, with pus.

Clinical.—In urethritis, with burning biting pain extending backward towards bladder when urinating, with frequent urging to urinate, the urine is scalding, with spasmodic closure of the sphincter of the bladder, cystitis in consequence of gonorrhoea, with bloody urine; gonorrhoea, great swelling of prepuce, etc. This drug is useful in gonorrhoea immediately following Aconite, provided Aconite has been indicated in the first few hours of the disease; cases which require Cannab. have less profuse discharges than those requiring Arg. nit., and usually there is much less swelling and inflammation about the glans penis, though the excessive swelling of the prepuce has proved a valuable indication in some cases. Many physicians are in the habit of using Cannab. sat. through the whole course of gonorrhoea, claiming that by its use the disease usually does not last more than ten days.

Sexual Organs.—Coldness, with warmth of rest of body. Stitch in r. side of mons veneris. Tensive pain in spermatic cord, and contraction of scrotum, with contractive sensation in it when standing. Swelling of prostate gland. Moisture about corona glandis. Glans as dark red as the prepuce; G., covered with red spots. Penis painful as if excoriated or burnt when walking (with necessity to have it suspended). Pain on r. side near penis like piercing shocks. Penis swollen, without marked erections; S. of glans and penis, a kind of insensible erection. Erections while coughing, then pain in urethra; frequent E., then stitches in urethra; frequent, during the day, only when sitting; excessive, mornings in bed, without desire, with cutting-sticking in orifice of urethra; excessive and painful, waking him at night after an embrace in evening without desire; no proper E. during an embrace in morning, especially towards the last, scarcely perceives the ejaculation.

Prepuce.—Swelling of r. side and lower part; of frenum and P., especially where it unites with frenum. Dark redness, heat and inflammation. Soreness on border and inner side. Burning, and in glans, applications of cold water cause soreness; corrosive, in P. and urethra, in region of corona glandis, with sticking. Excoriation of margin. Itching beneath prepuce and on frenum, with redness and moisture behind corona glandis; agreeable, on border of prepuce and in orifice of urethra; disagreeable, on r. side near anterior margin, more internally, becoming agreeable during and after scratching.

Dragging in testicles when standing. Strangling pain in l. testicle in afternoon while walking, the epididymis and spermatic cord seem to swell and divide into lumps like soft beans and to fill out the upper part of the somewhat drooping scrotum. Desire excited. Indifference during the day, but after an embrace in evening excessive erections in morning and frequently during the day, < in forenoon. Aversion to coition.

Female.—Itching-sticking in vagina, and much leucorrhoea after an embrace. Miscarriage at the eighth month, with frightful convulsions. Profuse menses. Desire during morning sleep, but no pleasure during an embrace. Much pleasure during an embrace. Excitement without desire, then out of sorts, with aversion to sexual intercourse.

Respiratory Organs.—Voice frequently inaudible. Voice raised, with anxiety and complaint of pain in back. Voice changed, more like a clangor than the human voice. Tough mucus in lower part of trachea in morning, with ability to loosen only a little, which he must swallow, after hawking and coughing scraping in trachea as if raw and sore, finally the mucus loosens itself, and he is obliged to hawk it up repeatedly. Bronchial irritation, with repeated attacks of pulmonary congestion and inflammation, emaciation, premature decrepitude of frame, organic affection of lungs, then phthisis ending the existence.

Breathing oppressed; from tensive-pressive pains in middle of sternum, which was sore to touch, with sleepiness; < after dinner, > sitting down, with anxiety in chest and stitches between scapulae; with pain over whole chest; with weight upon chest. Breathed with great force, with sensation of heat. Breathing rapid. Cough; hacking, from pit of throat, with which a cold salt fluid is felt deep in throat; in violent paroxysms; dry, violent.

Clinical.—Asthma, with mucous râles, extreme dyspnoea.

Chest.—Inflammation of male nipple, with itching and pain on touch, and beside the nipple a pustule which heals without opening. (Inflammation of chest, and lungs); of lungs, with incoherent talk. Stitches in external parietes; burning, in l. side, near ensiform cartilage. Cutting across external parietes. Pinching in lower part, under sternum, > bending backward, < bending forward, when it was worse on inspiration. Digging beneath upper part of sternum, without oppression of breath. Drawing pain in l. lowest ribs. Oppression, with apprehension in throat and necessity to breathe deeply; tense O. in l. half, with jerkings, palpitation and anxiety. Scraping as from salt in morning, with necessity to loosen and swallow something. Roughness, scratching and dryness. Pushings or beatings in both sides, arresting breathing, most painful in region of heart; P. as with intermitting, dull stitches, a kind of pressing inward in l. side, without oppression of breathing. Throbbing against ribs of l. side. Hammering outward beneath one of the cartilages of ribs, near sternum.

Heart and Pulse.—Cardiac oppression. H. beats as if it would fall out on moving body and on stooping, with warm sensation about it. Palpitation. Pulse rapid; and irregular; and small; small and irregular; slow, scarcely perceptible.

Neck.—Stitches in lowest part, as with a knife. Pinching in muscles above gullet. Drawing, extending upward in cervical vertebræ; externally to ear, more like a pinching. Beating in nape.

Back.—Pain, arresting breath. Itching stich near r. scapula, > scratching. Burning beneath r. scapula. Pinching in middle, extending towards abdomen. Slow intermitting stitches in l. side, beneath lowest ribs. Pain in loins, < after slightest exertion, obliging him to sit down and rest; at base of spine, extending along sciatic nerve and in hip-joint; on coccyx, as from a dull point; on l. side, near coccyx, in bone, as if pressed forcibly by a hard body. Drawing pain in kidney region, extending into inguinal glands, with anxious nausea in pit of stomach. Pain in kidney region as if ulcerated.

Extremities.—Contractions, as in chorea. Rheumatic drawing in all long bones on motion, as if bruised. Weariness; > when walking; after eating, with tearing in l. side, beneath short ribs, and the spot is painful to pressure. Heaviness. Stiffness.

Upper Extremities.—Intermittent tearing upon top of shoulder. Pain on pressure between end of clavicle and head of humerus, which extends into fingers. Bruised sensation in shoulder on stretching arm. Sticking in upper arm and in bones of little finger. (Dead feeling in wrist, with inability to use it.) Cramplike contraction of metacarpal bones; intermitting cramplike C. of r. hand. Stich in hollow of hand, over carpal bones. Heaviness of r. hand, > motion, for instance writing, with falling asleep of it. Sudden lameness of hand, with inability to hold the fork with the fingers while eating, trembling of hand on taking hold of anything and painful loss of power. Cramp in joints of thumb while writing. Stitches in tip of r. third finger. Crawling in tips of fingers as if they had begun to go to sleep and were numb.

Lower Extremities.—Cramp in buttocks always on stooping. Pain in r. buttock on sitting, as from strong pressure, with going to sleep of r. foot. Pinching, jerking-strangling pain in r. hip. Stitches in flesh of high near groin. Pressure in middle of forepart of T. when sitting. Painless cramplike sensation posteriorly in r. T., as if a muscle would begin to twitch. Patella snaps when ascending stairs. Drawing cramp in hollow of knee when walking, extending along inner muscles of thigh. Intermittent prickling-burning in l. knee. Cramp in calf when walking. Bruised pain externally in flesh near l. tibia, then sticking in whole l. extremity. Burning in r. tibia when standing. Sticking in l. ankle, > washing with cold water, with sore pain. Cramp in r. heel. Painful throbbing on dorsa of feet. Painful tense stretching in instep. Drawing in heel when sitting, with pressure. Heaviness of feet after eating; of feet when ascending stairs, so that he feels them as he lifts them. Sticking in l. little toe, where he formerly had a corn. Drawing in ball of r. great toe; to and fro from l. toes to ankle. Prickling under l. great toe as when a severe cold settles under the nails.

Skin.—Pimples on nose, surrounded by red swelling, like acne rosacea; itching P. on neck, nape and breast; itching, on arms; itching and painful, on chest and back. Papulous eruption on nates and thigh, small white vesicles, with large red, smooth border, burning like fire, < lying upon them and touching them, leaving brownish-red spots, which are painful to touch. Vesicles filled with white serum, burning on touch, surrounded by red areola, on head and chest. Pustule on nape, painful at night.

Sticking over whole body at night in bed when he became sweaty from warm coverings, beginning in a few places, when he scratched them it suddenly changed and extended to other places, > uncovering, with anxiety of heart and sensation as if hot water were thrown over him repeatedly. Crawling itching-biting on face, as from salt. Itching here and there on face; on chin and tip of nose; around knee; on hands and fingers; stinging, in ball of l. great toe; painful, almost sore, about umbilicus, which pained as if sore and was sensitive after rubbing. Vague tingling like the beginning of anaesthesia.

Sleep.—Frequent yawning. Sleepiness; during the day; after dinner; overpowering, in forenoon. Sleeplessness after midnight. Uneasy sleep; and frequent waking, with confused and at times anxious dreams, emissions, then sleep of exhaustion. Waking at night with frightful dreams, without knowing where he was. Disagreeable and frightful dreams, he is disappointed in everything and filled with anxiety. Vivid, agreeable D.; horrid vivid, which, however, did not make him anxious, but he always retained a kind of presence of mind. D. of mishaps to others. Confused D. every night, which were remembered after waking.

Fever.—Chilliness; in afternoon, with thirst; in evening, with yawning, stretching, indolence and going to bed early without real sleepiness. Coldness of whole body, but the face becomes warmer and warmer. Shaking C., with thirst, shuddering after drinking, cold hands, knees and feet, with hurry, trembling, distortion of face, at one time weeping, at another joyous, at another raging mood, anger at everything, during the chill some warmth in back and feet, which perspired but were not warm to touch. Shivering in r. thigh as if gooseflesh would form. Creeping shivering in thighs; over whole body, reaching head and seeming to draw hairs together; frequently upward over legs; intermitting, over trunk, with discomfort. Coldness of extremities; under finger-nails in afternoon; of limbs to touch, with general trembling from chilliness; internal and external, in hands; as from a drop of water on parietal bone, then in other places on head.

Heat; at night and sweat towards morning; with warm sensation in face; with glowing in face, but coldness at every motion, with pain in throat, which was swollen inside and outside, difficult swallowing, prostration, necessity to lie all day and stitches in head. Orgasm of blood. Heat of head; especially of feet, hands, abdomen and in palms, then itching all night and next morning. Sweat on forehead and neck at night.

Cantharis.

A tincture is prepared by digesting one part of the pulverized dried Spanish flies (Cantharis vesicatoria) in five parts of Alcohol.

General Action.—Spanish flies applied to the skin produce blisters (vesication, with inflammation and even sloughing). It produces (taken internally) the most violent inflammation of the whole gastro-intestinal canal, especially of the lower bowel. It is eliminated by the kidneys, and causes acute inflammation of that organ, and of the entire urinary tract. In some cases it produces sexual excitement. Delirium and convulsions occasionally result from large doses.

Allies.—Merc. cor., Terebinth., Caps., Ars., Apis, Nit. ac.

Generalities.—Marasmus. Emaciation. Bent almost double, with arms folded across hypogastrum. Increased plasticity of blood drawn from veins. Trembling. Throwing herself about as if on fire. Twitching of tendons; intermittent, painful twitching, now on r. side of occiput, now on external surface of l. knee. Catalepsy. Epilepsy; complicated with hysterical symptoms. Convulsions; with horror of liquids; in paroxysms, with priapism.

Convulsions almost constantly, sometimes he tossed about in despair, sometimes he got up, rushed like a madman to another bed in the same room, bent the curtain rods like reeds, screamed, eight men could scarcely hold him, sometimes emprosthotonos, sometimes opisthotonos, sometimes mouth open, sometimes trismus, with grinding of teeth, running of frothy, at times blood-streaked saliva, face expressive of fright and despair, in the convulsions the hair bristled, the gaze fixed, eyes sparkled, then rolled frightfully, pulse full and slow, abdominal muscles contracted when pressing on umbilical region, that part of abdomen seemed glued to spine, especially recti, which were like tightened cords (Plumbum), then spasms became general and head was thrown back, on attempting to make applications to most painful part of abdomen, he broke away like a madman, frothing at the mouth more than ever, eyes became fiercer, the constriction of throat almost choked him, howled like the barking of a dog, then general convulsions, which ended in fainting and stupor, renewal of these attacks on pressure upon painful places in hypogastrum and at sight of liquids.

Stitches over whole body; now here, now there in body, in afternoon; now here, now there, with tearing; all extend inward; are generally combined with tearing; in l. lower ribs, then tearing near r. wrist, then S. in l. upper arm; in afternoon, in r. side of chest, then tearing between scapulae, then S. in r. shoulder, then in r. hypochondrium, then in r. scapula, whence it passes into r. hypochondrium. Tearing in affected parts, for example, in ulcers; in forehead, then in region of r. ear, then in lower jaw, then on ear again. Violent pains. Raw and sore pain internally and externally. Crushed feeling, with sensitiveness of every part, internally and externally, and weakness.

General tension, with dryness in mouth, thirst, anxiety and pains in limbs. Pulsation in whole body, so that the limbs tremble. Restlessness; with heat in head; walking the room screaming; seeming to originate in stomach, with prostration, shiverings and nausea. Feeling as if dying. Indefinable illness. General discomfort. Weakness; in morning after sweat at night; in morning after emission, then restless, unrefreshing sleep, > wine, with emptiness in stomach and hunger; progressive (> drinking freely of alcoholic liquors, which produced no intoxication); as in beginning of nervous fever; restless, at night; so that muscles were almost unable to contract; < on r. side of body; so that she could hold nothing in her hands; W., especially in legs. Faintness.

Stiffness, with open mouth, showing the teeth; stiff feeling in whole body, with heaviness, ascending steps is very troublesome, legs feel as if filled with lead. Paraplegia, with cramps and itching. Reappearance every seven days of attacks, excepting urinary symptoms. Aggravation sometimes from coffee. Amelioration in morning in bed; in evening, of all other symptoms when the urinary difficulties appear; at night of all pains except in abdomen; from eructations; after emission of flatus; when lying; from warm applications; from warmth; from severe motion, even to perspiration.

Clinical.—Violent spasms reproduced by touching larynx.

Mind.—Screaming, with legs drawn upon thighs; S., with frequent loss of consciousness. Delirium; in evening; at night; with convulsions; furious; talking disconnectedly of his business and of people who long had been dead. Frenzy. Excitement; they rose from bed, ran about the room, racked by vomiting and copious stools. Insolent and contradictory mood in afternoon. Anger. Instability.

Alarm and agitation. Fright at night, with dreams of falling. Despondency, saying that she must die. Distrust of himself in afternoon, like a hypochondriac. Melancholy after dinner, with anxiety. Anxiety; with general trembling, the latter continuing while walking in open air; in morning, as if he expected something important; as if he had committed murder, seeming to arise from stomach. Discontented; and absorbed in thought. Morose, anxious and lachrymose mood in forenoon. Churlish mood. Fretful; in morning when rising; in evening during the pains. Brawling, nobody does anything to suit her. Cheerful, talkative; C., merry, feeling as if newly born, and the room and all objects appeared clearer and more pleasant. Apathetic as if stupefied. Indolent, indifferent, pensive.

Confusion. Distraction in forenoon and many ideas of various kinds running through his mind, which he cannot keep away. Depression of powers in morning. Dulness of perception, then stupidity and loss of reflecting faculty. Loss of thoughts as soon as he wishes to think of anything, gaze fixed in silence on one object (which he scarcely notices), and trouble in recollecting himself in order to express a few words coherently. Forgetful. Comatose. Unconscious.

Clinical.—Acute mania, generally of a sexual type, amorous frenzy, fiery desire for sexual intercourse, with persistent painful erections, paroxysms of rage, crying and barking, even convulsions. Acute mania after erysipelas. (Mania in a woman, with occasional spasms, attempts to bite, with strangury, which seemed to have resulted from applying turpentine to the feet, immediately > Canthar.)

Head.—Sinking in every direction, from heaviness. Stitches in forenoon and evening, > walking; with soreness and sensation as if the pains would extend through eyes; cutting, waking him. Dragging and tearing, only on motion, on stooping and turning head a sensation starting from neck and pressing head forward, with feeling as if everything would press out at forehead. Boring, with drawing, tearing throbbing and pressing pain. Aching; > breakfast; sometimes with delirium; with vertigo; with internal and external heat in forehead; with shivering; with dull heavy feeling around eyes; with trembling and universal spasms, then coma; as if sore internally. Oppression. Confusion; in morning, with pulsation in forehead; with heaviness in vertex. Heaviness; < motion, with aching. Congestion of brain. Vertigo; on walking in open air, with unconsciousness and fog before eyes; with weakness in head; with staggering; with faintness.

Forehead.—Stitches in r.; in l. eminence on standing; above root of nose. Tearing; and in nape; in sinciput. Aching; and in supraorbital regions; above nose; extending to temples; pressing out, waking him at night, > sitting up in bed; like a heaviness. Deep-seated heaviness, with dulness and sensation as if head were pressed forward. Confusion, with pain and drawing.

Temple.—Stitches in l.; in r. in afternoon; in r., becoming a painful throbbing, > rubbing. Shooting-darting pain in r., and in r. eye. Tearing; in r.; in r. after a meal. Gnawing in periosteum of r. bone. Throbbing externally in r., with painful drawing in bone. Compression towards each other. Forcing-out pain in r., passing towards teath.

Vertex.—Tearings in forenoon, with sensation as if a lock of hair were drawn upward. Pressing on V. and in temples, with stitches in temple, < r.; P. alternating with throbbing, at 8 P.M., < every motion.

Sides.—Stitches in l. in morning; in r. in afternoon; in r. in evening when sitting and standing, with throbbing; in l. parietal bone, then boring in l. ear; in l. parietal bone after dinner, with tearing in l. jaw while speaking; in upper part of r. parietal bone. Tearing in r., with stitches; T. in r. parietal bone; in l. side, < touch. Aching in l. half; sudden, in r. side, with chilliness, trembling and spasms, then coma, then alternately lethargy, coma, rational condition and convulsions; drawing, in l. and in forehead. Painful throbbing deep internally in r.

Occiput.—Stitches in evening on lying down; in l. after dinner; in afternoon, extending into sinciput; deep into brain on r. bone in afternoon, more in upper part; in upper part, from both sides inward, with tearing. Tearing from l. side into l. side of forehead, with vertigo, which lasted longer than the pain. Painful twitching externally in r. bone.

Scalp.—Hair falls out on combing. Stitches in r. side of occiput, then tearings in l. parietal bone. Head and hair feel stiff to him.

Clinical.—Neuralgia of head and face from taking cold, with loud screams and jerking of muscles.

Eyes.—Turned towards nose. Protruding. Sunken; and surrounded by blue rings. Red and lustrous. Inflamed; causing blindness. Lustreless. Sticking in l., with itching. Tearing in r. Cutting while writing. Pressing; in afternoon, so that lids close. Pain on writing; on exertion; as after excessive weeping. Smarting in r. in afternoon; S. as from salt. Itching in r. in afternoon. Heat.

Lachrymation; in open air, with necessity to close lids, if he opened them pain as if margins were sore, like raw flesh; with tension of upper lids. Painful drawing in r. ball before dinner. Pupils dilated; with dim vision; contracted. Lids closed more than usual, eyes looking small. Twitching of lid; of l. lower; of r. upper at 2 P.M.; of r. lower, with stitching. Smarting of lids on closing; of lids and around balls, with burning. Conjunctiva suffused. Spasmodic stitches in brows, drawing down to chin, with heat in palate as from eating something burning. Pain in l. orbital arch as if pressed by a blunt instrument.

Vision dim; (on writing, then headache). Inability to distinguish an object until he nearly closes the lids and shakes the head two or three times. Vision yellow in morning. The letters on the paper are green and yellow.

Clinical.—Acute inflammation of eyes, with biting and smarting as from a burn.

Ears.—Stitches; in l. Tearing externally in r. meatus, then in l. shoulder; deep in r. ear with tickling in l. Tearing in r. mastoid process; in evening, with stitching; sudden, in r. mastoid process, extending into lobule of ear, with stitching in ears, < rubbing; in r. mastoid process below ear, as with a knife, even at night, with headache in forehead like a heaviness. Painful drawing in r. mastoid process. Pressing behind r. ear. Hot vapor issues from either alternately. Drumming. Roaring after supper. Ringing before, with humming.

Nose.—Swelling, with internal redness and soreness; with redness and sensation as if it would fester, especially internally, the pain < touch and talking. Redness, with heat and a pustule. Inflammation, with spots, sore pain and pimples; I. of tip; on edge of r. wing, especially towards end, appearing at irregular intervals red and shining, with swelling and pain. Pimple in l. nostril, burning on touch.

Stitches in nostrils; outward in l. wing. Pain, with tension, throbbing, swollen sensation and pain on touch. Pain on top at 3 A.M. as if he had pressed it, then tension and erysipelatous inflammation and swelling from back of nose down sides into cheeks, < r., like redness of cheeks, becoming white under pressure of finger, then rapidly again red, hard to touch, afterwards desquamation, then similar inflammation, especially on r. upper lip, sides and tip of nose. Soreness of nostrils. Drawing in r. nostril, with tickling and ineffectual irritation to sneeze. Itching in nostrils, uvula and throat.

Sneezing; then sticking in l. wing; violent in morning. Catarrh, with much tenacious mucus from nose, hoarseness, painful hawking of tough mucus from chest and nightly dry, cutting stitching along trachea. Mucus mixed with blood. Bleeding. Constant stench before nose, passing down throat.

Face.—Deathly look during and after pains in afternoon. Suffering expression. Sallow and puffy. Yellow, also eyes. Hippocratic. Pinched. Cyanotic. Pale; in afternoon during and after pains; during the chill; and covered with sweat; sunken and expressive of terror; with flushes. Sickly, with dim eyes surrounded by dark rings. Anxious countenance. Red; on stooping, blood shooting forcibly into head, even head becoming hot when sitting, not when walking; in spots. Glowing of r. side while l. is waxy yellow. Swollen; r. half; r. side, and tense; r. cheek S. and inflamed, with drawing pain in upper teeth. Disfigured. Animated expression. Sore pain in bones, extending into ear, < r. side.

Lips.—Swollen. Eruption in corners. Pimples on margin of upper in evening. Inflammation and blisters on lips, tongue, palate and pharynx. Desquamation; and of mouth. Cutting in middle of margin of lower, ending behind r. ear. Soreness, and tongue loosened from its upper skin and arch of palate dark brown. Burning, and of tongue and palate. Dryness, without thirst (Apis); D. during and after the pains, with thirst.

Jaws.—Mouth wide open, with chewing motions of jaws. Twitching in middle of l. lower while speaking. Stitching in upper in afternoon, somewhat on r. side. Tearing in r. lower in morning while walking; in l. lower, in afternoon, extending backward; in middle of r. lower, and in a tooth there. Gnawing in middle of r. lower; in middle of lower, spreading to teeth. Sore pain on inner margin of lower, where there is an itching tetter, the pain < speaking and touch.

Clinical.—Erysipelas of face, with burning biting heat and urinary symptoms.

Mouth.—Teeth. Looseness. Rising up of the root of a r. lower, and it can be drawn out easily, when the tearing ceases. Tearings in r. lower molars; in r. lower carious molar. Drawing pain in upper in afternoon, < eating. Drawing, then sticking, < evening after lying down, preventing sleep.

Gum.—Swelling, and of mucous membrane of cheeks; with redness. Red spot above carious root of upper incisor, painful, if pressed discharging pus from an opening in centre. Red spot above l. upper incisor, painful, becoming elevated, inflamed, yellow-reddish, sore, the pain < external pressure, with swelling of upper lip. Blister, with red points, with swelling of upper lip. Sudden tearing, and in l. lower incisor. Pain. Painful drawing in r., extending outward on r. upper incisor, with sensation as if something were drawing across lip. Quivering in G. of l. upper eye-tooth.

Tongue.—Swollen and coated. Sublingual glands swollen. Coated, red at edges. Coated white; down centre. White, with bitter taste, nausea and aversion to everything. Bleached along sides and tip, blackish-brown in centre and swollen. Red at edges, with yellow coat on its anterior two-thirds. Bluish-red, covered with white blisters, containing bile-like fluid. Painful blister along centre. Part of T. and back of mouth excoriated, part covered with blisters. Festering, and of throat and gum. Aphthæ covering margin and gums (Tarent.). Trembling. Stitch in tip, as if she had bitten it. Burning, and on palate. Dryness in morning and mucous coat; D. and pallor. Tickling on tip.

Mucous membrane red and covered with blisters (Borax, Sul. ac.). Back of mouth swollen and red, the tissues crossed by enlarged veins. Purple swelling near last lower molar, discharging clotted blood. Inflammation and ulceration; I. and swelling of mucous membrane, with salivation. Excoriation; of mucous membrane from mouth to anus. Blisters, and in pharynx; white, on palate, gum and tongue. Slimy in morning, with white tongue; S. in morning, and bitter; at night on waking. Much tough mucus drawn into M. through posterior nares. Mucus and blood from M. and nose. A clot of blood comes into M. towards morning.

Biting pain in palate, < after eating. Sensation on r. side of M. as if its membrane were raised by a needle. M. and tongue seemed deprived of mucous membrane. Tension, with dryness, thirst and pains in limbs. Burning pain, and in throat and stomach (Arsen., Arum t.). Burning, and in pharynx and stomach. Dryness; and of nose. Salivation; in morning; with redness of gums; with mucus from mouth; with constant spitting of mingled mucus and dark saliva; so that he must lie on his side; without coppery taste; disgusting, sweet. Offensive breath. Breath like cedar pitch. Taste as of cedar pitch; nauseous; foul on rising; foul afternoons; bloody; bitter; insipid, as of sweet cheese; sour; unsalted, to food; lost.

Throat.—Swelling, with erysipelatous flush and turgid veins across fauces; S. of tonsils. Redness, with pressing, which on swallowing changes to sticking. Inflammation and covering of plastic lymph; I. of tonsils. Aphthous ulcer at back part, covered with a whitish adherent crust, and a similar one on side of r. tonsil (Merc. cor.). Abrasion, with blisters. Relaxation of uvula.

Pain in pharynx during hunger; burning, and constriction. Burning soreness, with inflammation. Scraping, with necessity to hawk up mucus after meals; burning S. in pharynx, with sweetish, disgusting taste on tongue and in mouth as far as pharynx. Roughness; in forenoon, with hoarseness. Constriction at back part, with pain; C. even to suffocation. Burning; in pharynx on swallowing; < pressure, and in pit of stomach; especially at entrance of œsophagus, extending to epigastrium. Dryness in afternoon, without thirst; D. in pharynx, with occasional sticking. Swallowing difficult; impossible.

œsophagus. — Constriction. Burning; < while drinking.

Clinical.—Inflammation of throat, which feels on fire (Arsen.). Aphthous ulceration of throat, regurgitation of drink, etc. Diphtheritic inflammation of throat, with constriction amounting almost to suffocative dyspœna, etc.

Stomach.—Appetite increased. Hunger, waking at night; H. after relief of pains. Appetite diminished. Lost; evening and morning; for supper; lost after coffee. Disgust for food; in evening during the paroxysm, at seeing food or hearing about it; for tobacco. Thirst; at 8 P.M., after the shaking chill; at night, with fever; during dinner; during the coldness; after the chill; when not in pain; with burning pain in throat and stomach (Arsen.); with frothy and bloody sputa; but liquids can hardly be swallowed and are at once vomited; loss of T., and water does not taste good.

Eruclations; frothy and sour; of frothy, sour mucus, tinged bright red; tasting of food after dinner; hot, with heartburn, no thirst, the burning in pharynx < drinking water; empty; incomplete, almost like hicough, also passing backward from pharynx towards stomach, before dinner. Hicough; in afternoon.

Nausea; in morning, with coldness, in afternoon heat; in morning, even to vomiting; towards evening; when eating; on walking and standing; with disgust for everything; with salivation; with trembling of feet; intermittent; in epigastric region on stooping or on inspiration; like a weakness in stomach, after coffee in forenoon. Retching.

Vomiting; with pressing in stomach, then cutting; with pain in hypogastrium and bearing down, urging to urinate, with heat and smarting and ineffectual urging to stool; with strangury, then inflammation of kidney. Of blood; with strangulation. Of greenish, offensive matter. Of mucus; frothy M.; bloody; frothy, bloody; of glairy, tenacious; of tenacious, taking the form of the gullet; of mucus and ingesta, without exertion. Of bile; and ingesta. Of everything. Of ingesta. Of herby-tasting food, with stool. Of the water he drinks, with blood. Of membrane; of membranous flakes (morbid secretion of alimentary canal). Of a cylinder mass, apparently inner membrane of gullet.

Lancinations. Cutting; intermittent, in pit and about umbilicus. Pinching in r. epigastric region in morning, with stitching. Gnawing in region, extending into back between shoulders. Cramp; with free emesis. Acute pain in region of S. and bladder, with such sensibility that pressure caused convulsions. Pain; in epigastrium; in epigastric region and in groin; in epigastrium, < pressure, and in umbilicus. Pressing, < when empty; P. extending backward from both sides into spine, where it seems screwed together. Pressure in pit in afternoon. Drawing pain. Burning pain in region.

Inflammation. Cardialgia, < drinking, with sour eruclations. Burning; all forenoon, with taste of wine in mouth; at orifice; in epigastric region, with pain. Sensation before dinner as if screwed together. Crushing in pit, > as soon as she takes anything warm or drinks anything cold. Heaviness in epigastrium and umbilicus, with heat and smarting. Fulness, with pressure, as if he would eructate; F. in epigastric region, with anxiety and restlessness. Sensitiveness internally in afternoon, with good appetite; S. internally in epigastric region and externally. Distress, with nausea after eating, feeling as if a load oppressed him; D., with nausea, then vomiting of the water he had drunk, gasping and general chilliness. Indescribable sensation in epigastric region, she feels hungry without really being so. Weakness.

Abdomen.—Distended; and tympanitic (Terebinth); and tender; with movements as if flatus would pass. Retracted and sensitive to pressure, especially hypogastrium. Rumbling; while sitting; with rattling. Growling, more on r. side of hypogastrium, passing backward; G., with rumbling and shaking. Rolling, with sensation as before diarrhoea. Movements of flatus in evening, with pinching, the pain extending into chest; M., causing lumps, as if a child were there. Movements, with yawning. Emission of flatus; noisy, in evening.

Tearing, with pinching; T., with diarrhoea and pain in anus. Cutting; towards evening, during stool, after the stool shivering (Caps.); from 5 P.M. till morning, with necessity to roll about; with boring in knees, after coffee vomiting of bitter stuff, then bitter taste. Pinching during stool, after the stool shivering. Gripping; at 3 A.M.; then liquid stool; extending upward and becoming stitches, then stitching backward on both sides, hindering respiration. Sensation as after a drastic purge. Inflammation; of whole alimentary canal, ureters, kidneys and internal sexual organs.

Pain; after coffee; from coughing; before diarrhoea; < pressure; < pressure, worse over hypogastrium and serobiculus cordis; < during stool, which is increased thereby, with pain in anus; > diarrhoea; with nausea and vomiting of ingesta; with urging to stool; in intestinal canal, changing to inflammation and gangrene. Sensation after midnight, as if menses would appear. Bearing-down pains. Dragging pains to genitals in afternoon. Sensitiveness to touch. Burning along alimentary canal; < morning, > several stools, with twisting; internally and externally in morning; as after strong wine.

Cutting in upper. Pain in upper. Cutting in r. side. Pinching in l. side. Sudden gripings in sides when standing, rather externally.

Hypochondria.—Incarceration of flatus under short ribs (as of offensive flatus). Stitches in l., and in centre of sternum. Aching below ribs. (Inflammation of liver, with erosion of intestines.) Sensation as if something held her together below r. false ribs.

Umbilical Region.—Pinching. Gripping below navel before and during stool. Burning pain above navel on coughing, sneezing and blowing nose, whereby the abdomen seems very hot, with yellow spots externally in region of this pain, which spots when touched are more stinging than burning.

Hypogastrium.—Fermenting. Sticking in r. groin in morning; in l. groin, extending downward; cutting, in groin, and burning, with cutting when urinating. Cutting in groins, > sitting and standing, < walking; intermittent wandering C. in H. Gnawing. Gripping from morning till 1 P.M., with pressing towards genitals. Pain; extending into lumbar region, most intense just above pubes, with nausea; above symphysis pubis and down ureters. Drawing in pubic region, with tearing. Tension along inguinal canal and testicles, around pelvic region. Compression on sides, but farther downward in l. Heat in pelvis, with constant desire to urinate, then some drops of urine.

Clinical.—Intestinal inflammation, with burning heat, tympanitic distention (Tereb.).

Rectum.—Cutting at 8 P.M., > emission of flatus while standing and walking, but return of the pain with urging to stool, the pain > soft stool. Burning. Crawling. Tenesmus (Caps., Merc. c.). Urging, then copious soft stool; to a hard stool, soon afterwards liquid stool preceded by colic. Frequent urging; with scanty stool. Ineffectual urging; after first stool; during micturition.

Anus.—Passage of pure blood, and from urethra; after violent efforts (Merc. c.). Burning after diarrhoea (Merc. c., Nit. ac.); after stool, with stitches. Pain in perineum; seeming to arise from neck of bladder rather than from root of penis. Itching in perineum, with tenesmus at anus.

Stool.—Dysentery. Diarrhœa; with burning in anus; with irritation in rectum; consisting of blood and mucus (Caps., Merc. c., etc.); mucous; of green mucus after three days' constipation; frothy; watery; of brown liquid in morning; two liquid yellow stools during the day, with cutting in abdomen after each and biting pain in anus; frequent, with colic.

Constipation. Hard in morning, afterwards soft, with colic; H., with protrusion of rectum; then twinging in anus; and delayed; and difficult. Red, slimy. White tough mucus with the stool, like scrapings from intestines, with streaks of blood (Nit. ac.), seven times in one night. Copious. Scanty, black and tarry-looking. Slight, somewhat hard, difficult, with cutting in rectum. Painful. Difficult and insufficient. Frequent; two in morning, with tenesmus. Omitted; but emission of flatus.

Clinical.—Diarrhœa like scrapings of intestines, reddish, mucous or bloody, flaky; during stool extreme burning at anus, dysenteric bloody stools, with intolerable burning tenesmus, with chill as if water were poured over one (Caps.). Acute dysentery, with unquenchable thirst, even the lips, mouth and throat feel raw and burning, with canker, tendency to collapse, cold hands and feet.

Urinary Organs.—Inflammation, with bleeding. Irritation, so that he can bear scarcely more than a spoonful of urine in bladder without urinating to urinate (Nux vom., Ars.). Cutting in ureters, extending towards penis, > pressure on glans, with contracting pain, the pains at times passing from without inward. Inflammation of kidneys, ureters, bladder and urethra.

Bladder.—Ulceration; and of urethra. Gangrene of lining. Discharge of dirty purulent matter. Spasm. Pain; with frequent urging, intolerable tenesmus (Merc. cor.); over B. and over uterus and kidneys, and especially over hypogastrium. Pressure downward towards B. Inflammation. Burning; before micturition, < as the water left the bladder, continual urging, micturition by drops, urine often bloody (Tereb.), sometimes in clots, causing so much agony when passing urethra that he nearly fainted, about the same time several loose stools, with, as the last feces left the rectum, pain and straining, which soon extended to bladder, causing tenesmus, which was little relieved when one or two drops of bloody urine passed (compare Merc. cor.), afterwards intermittent tearing-boring over region of r. kidney, following direction of ureters, with pain when lying in any position but more comfortable when back was bent, micturition most painful as the last drops passed the sphincter vesicæ.

Neck of Bladder.—Sticking; in forepart during urging, then micturition of a few drops. Tearing. Burning-cutting, extending to navicular fossa (comp. Berberis), < before and after micturition. Pain. Paralysis.

Tenesmus (Merc. c., Prunus sp., etc.). Urging, waking at 3.30 A.M., after discharge of some urine burning in urethra changing into all the torments of gonorrhœa, > sitting, painful micturition every three or four minutes, the pain > after drinking three glasses of water by copious micturition; < standing and walking; > lying quietly on back; with burning in urethra; with copious urine, priapism, pain in stomach and dysuria; with discharge of two spoonfuls of dirty tenacious mucus with cutting. Frequent U.; always preceded by pain at penis, urine scalding, turbid, tinged with blood; with scanty urine and towards end of micturition pressing pain in base of urethra, extending to orifice. Constant urging, micturition painful, in drops; C. urging, and always but one spoonful, also in morning; with passage of a few drops, causing smarting and burning along urethra, especially near fossa navicularis, finally, after long straining to pass a few drops of bloody and albuminous urine, a convulsive tremor of all limbs, cold sweat on forehead and chest, sinking back in bed half-exhausted, no rest on account of immediate return of these sufferings. Ineffectual urging; then several drops, with bloody streaks and pain.

Dysuria. Painful micturition; towards the close, > when there is much urine; with scanty and bloody urine (Tereb.); with pain in kidneys; with constant urging; and continual; as if cut with knives, with frequent urging, but always emission of only a few drops; as if a red-hot iron passed along urethra, with a few drops of bloody urine, the pain worse at membranous portion of canal and in meatus urinarius; as if it were impossible to evacuate the urine, with pressure in region of bladder. Strangury; and urine passed in small quantities; with pain in back; with disagreeable smell in nostrils. Micturition by drops; with cutting; by drops, urine reddish, sometimes mixed with blood; painful dribbling of albuminous urine, with membranous pieces, which are rolled up, grayish-red, covered with blood-streaked mucus, and large pieces, white on one side, red on the other, firm and elastic.

Micturition in a thin, divided stream and difficult, < 9 A.M. Ischuria. Urine retained; on account of too great fulness of bladder; retained, causing pain. Micturition rarer, but urine increased. Involuntary micturition; and dribbling. Frequent micturition; at night; with copious urine; but urine not increased; of scanty watery urine, at first with pain and towards the end with cutting, at last by drops or in a weak, intermittent stream.

Urethra.—Swollen internally. Contracted internally, hence micturition in a thin stream. Passage of blood; bright, with urging to urinate and cutting burning pains through whole urethra; a few drops of watery B. after the urine. Bloody gonorrhœa; yellowish G., staining linen yellow. Discharge of pasty colorless liquid. Urinary flatulence. Sticking, with burning during micturition. Cutting before, during and after micturition in afternoon, so that she must double herself up; burning, at end of scanty micturition. Pain; with the gonorrhœal discharge; in base towards end of micturition, extending to external meatus. Twitching and burning pain on urinating. Burning; at night, with passage of a few drops of blood; urine scalds him and is passed drop by drop; (before, and during micturition); during micturition; during micturition before menses, with white sediment in urine; after micturition; with constriction at prostate. Soreness; on urinating. Biting pain while urinating. Smarting while urinating. Tensive sensation in morning on urinating, as if urine were checked in its course. Tickling, with voluptuous warmth. Itching; after urinating, with crawling.

Orifice of urethra, agglutination; inflammation; stitches, also in evening and night, extending to anus; itching, at times almost a cutting. Burning in and near orifice; during micturition; B. in excretory ducts of vesiculæ seminales during and after coition; B. in forepart, as if a drop of urine remained there. Sensation in forepart, at tip of glans, on urinating as if the urine were retained at that point, with aching there, but the urine passes freely.

Urine. Increased. Scanty; in morning; with cutting in urethra, especially in forepart; and high-colored; and bloody; and turbid. Suppressed. Dark. Red as if mixed with blood. White. Pale yellow; during the chill, with pain in evening. Acrid. Albuminuria (Apis., Merc. c., etc.). Mucus in urine; floating threads of M. Bloody urine (Tereb.); passed with pain and in drops; and hot; urine contained coagulated blood; urine contained bloody filaments, then blackish, coagulated masses of blood, at last much mucus. Urine contained blood-corpuscles mixed with mucus, pus-corpuscles, epithelia of bladder and kidneys, spheroidal cells from tubuli uriniferi and pelvis of kidney, considerable sediment after standing, reaction alkaline, after some days mucus mixed with large quantities of urates and some crystals of carbonate of ammonia, afterwards cloudiness, < towards noon. Specific gravity high. Turbid when discharged; immediately, frequently depositing a fine white sediment adhering to glass, sometimes an iridescent film; during the night, like mealy water, with white sediment. Loaded with sediment and fibrinous matter.

Clinical.—Most violent cystitis, with intense tenesmus, constant desire to urinate, the urine is bloody, scanty, etc. The cystitis calling for Cantharis is of a most highly inflammatory character, it may be associated with general fever, chill, always with most terrible distress in the neck of the bladder. Acute nephritis, with extreme distress in the bladder, urine scanty, bloody, albuminous, etc. (compare Tereb.). In renal calculi, with the acute bladder symptoms of the drug, hæmaturia, etc. Gravel in children, constant pulling at the penis. In gonorrhœa, with most intense suffering, sexual excitement, chordee, with constant distress in bladder, discharge of blood.

Sexual Organs.—Inflammation. Weak feeling. Itching. Heat; with itching. Sweat. Drawing pain in spermatic cord while urinating. Brown cheesy accumulation about corona glandis in morning. Absence of the usual smegna preputii.

Penis.—Gangrene. Inflammation. Swelling; with pain even to external pressure; with heat, without erection and without desire; of frænum of prepuce; red, hot and diaphanous swelling of prepuce, with phimosis and discharge of purulent secretion from beneath it. Discharge of blood from the rigid penis and from the anus. Pain; before masturbation; drawing, and in back and thighs, > passing flatus upward and downward; burning, especially at tip of glans, with frequent urging to urinate. Pruritus. Lax; and drooping. Priapism (Tereb., Copaih.); with swollen genitals; with pain about bladder and wild delirium. Erections; every morning on rising; with emission; painful erection; severe, at night, with contraction and sore pain in whole of urethra; strong, persistent, painless, without voluptuous sensation.

Swelling of scrotum; painful, of r. testicle. Satyrasis. Desire disturbing sleep; absence of D. Emission in morning while awake in bed, from relaxed penis, almost without sensation; E. at night. Blood flows instead of semen (Tarent.).

Female.—Swelling of vulva, with irritation. Vagina; itching; burning; burning, with a thick white discharge; bloody mucous discharge after menses. Swelling of neck of uterus, with tenesmus; S. of neck of uterus, with burning in bladder, abdominal pains, vomiting and fever. Pregnancy. Miscarriage; after irritation of bowels and urinary organs. Menstruation, too early, with nausea and colic; too early, but scanty; M. which had ceased one day reappeared in forenoon, with pain, and lasted till noon; too late; short; profuse; profuse and painful.

Clinical.—Constant discharge from uterus, < false step, with discharge from bladder. Inflammation of the ovaries, with burning pain, especially worse during menstruation, ovaries extremely sensitive. Puerperal metritis, especially mania of a sexual character, with inflamed bladder, etc. Pruritus of vagina. Menstruation too early and dark, with great soreness of breasts, etc.

Respiratory Organs.—Pain in larynx. Burning in larynx. Hawking of tenacious mucus from larynx. Inability to speak. Hoarseness. Voice feeble. Voice low, with sensation of weakness of vocal organs. On deep respiration and on speaking she dares not exert herself on account of weakness of respiratory organs, hence a weak, frightened tone. Contraction of trachea.

Cough; caused by tickling; hacking; paroxysms of dry, from irritation in larynx, with rapid respiration and tightness in chest; in morning on rising, with difficult expectoration. Expectoration bloody, after short cough. Bloody and frothy sputa. Expectoration of pink mucus.

Respiration.—Threatened with suffocation. Gets out of breath on ascending a mountain, with catching in chest and nausea. Difficult; partly on account of contraction of larynx and trachea, partly on account of dryness of nose; and hurried. Groaning. Hurried. Irregular and imperfect, sometimes quick, sometimes slow and at great intervals.

Clinical.—Acute inflammation of larynx, with extreme heat and burning. Occasionally useful in croup in children, with swelling, expression of great agony, loss of voice.

Chest.—(Drawn together at times when coughing, the lungs themselves are contracted.) Pneumonia. Stitches; in centre of sternum; in lower part of sternum; in sternum, then in last r. false rib; (in sides); in r. side; in r. false ribs; in middle of r. clavicle; in l. side; in l. side, then below r.; in l., more externally on ribs; below l. axilla; in region of l. axilla in morning; in sternum in afternoon; in r. lower ribs in afternoon; in r. costal region below arm in afternoon; deep in l. lower ribs in afternoon; at midnight on inspiration, preventing her from lying on l. side; in r. side on each inspiration after midnight and next day; in l. after dinner; in r. after dinner, more in upper part, then in l.; in r. costal region after dinner; in r. lower false ribs while yawning; in forepart, < inspiration; from one side to the other; from front towards back, impeding respiration; in l. lowest ribs, extending towards back; in r. lower part, extending towards middle of sternum; in r. forepart, passing downward into r. lower ribs; under r. arm, extending into chest; under l. arm, extending to middle of sternum; below r. chest on inspiration, extending into r. shoulder; inward below l. breast, extending under axilla; below l. arm on sudden turning of body and on inspiration, extending through body, as if pierced by a spear, with a jerk, arresting breath, the same once on r. side, > rest, not at all on respiration and motion.

Tearing, especially in region of heart. Inflammation of side of diaphragm. Pain on both sides beneath ribs. Pressure; on sternum; in side in morning in bed, > rising; deep internally on r. side of sternum, with stitching outward. Sensation as if something beneath r. false ribs were pressed together. Squeezing in forepart from 11 A.M. till 8 P.M., > lying, but returning, with impeded respiration and stitching in whole chest. Fulness after coffee, and in stomach and abdomen. Sensitiveness to touch. Dryness internally. Burning; in morning, with a clot of blood in mouth; with stitches externally and internally, as if in bones; on chest, with pinching in abdomen and constipation; on sternum. Amelioration of symptoms by empty eructation.

Clinical.—Extreme heat and burning in chest. Pleurisy. Has proved valuable in the exudative stage of pleurisy, with the characteristic burning sensation.

Heart.—Stitches; then crawling. Pressure from H. towards sternum towards evening, < speaking and deep respiration. Pain; drawing. Anxiety; in afternoon. Jerking, running to head. Palpitation; towards evening.

Pulse.—Diminished. Scarcely perceptible. Imperceptible. Thready. Irregular and intermittent. Small, hard and intermittent. Slow and full; S., small and intermittent. Rapid; and small; and weak, trembling. Hard and full, as in inflammatory fevers. Full and bounding at wrist, with congestion of vessels of head and neck.

Neck.—Thickness. Swelling of glands, with pain on touch. Twitching of l. muscles. Stitches in l. muscles in afternoon. Tearing in l. muscles on walking, with headache like a heaviness; T. in afternoon, extending towards vertex; in nape on moving head, extending into upper part of head, with stitches in r. cervical muscles. Drawing pain in a narrow line extending downward, deep in r. muscles. Stiffness, with tensive pain on stooping.

Back.—Tearing; < morning. Cutting in B. and abdomen, extending through urethra; sticking C. through B. and abdomen. Dragging as before menstruation. Pain; and in limbs; in spine.

Scapulae.—Stitches in upper part of l. in afternoon, with burning in skin on same place; S. in r. in evening; inward below r.; between S., on every motion, as if sprained. Tearing; in upper part of r., with stitches; T. between S. Pain between S. Intermittent throbbing on r. side of spine, near eleventh and twelfth dorsal vertebrae at 11 P.M., < every motion, extending by single jerks to r. thigh.

Kidney Region.—Twitching in r., with throbbing. Stitches in r. Paroxysmal cutting and burning pains, with sensitiveness to slightest touch, alternating with pain and burning in tip of penis, urging to urinate and painful micturition, by drops, of bloody urine, at times passage of pure blood, with clots. Pain; late in evening; with urging to urinate; and in ureters, extending to bladder; in r.; in l., with tenderness on pressure and sympathetic fever.

Lumbar Region.—Stitches after rising from a seat or on walking; extending into r.; in r., then tearing in l. hypochondrium; pointed, in l., with cutting in abdomen; on r. side of sacrum, as if in bone, with gnawing. Tearing, with stitches. Cutting, < sitting; in afternoon, extending to beneath shoulders, where it becomes stitching. Boring. Gnawing; in sacrum in evening. Biting. Pain; < pressure, and in hypochondria; with incessant desire to urinate, with scanty discharge; P. extending to perineum; on motion as if he had injured himself; heavy, < pressure. Weariness while sitting, with peculiar pressing pain in back, in region of last rib.

Coccyx.—Stitching, with tearing.

Clinical.—Lumbago, or great pain in loins, region of kidneys, etc., incessant desire to urinate, moaning and screaming. Pain in os coccygis, lancing and tearing.

Extremities.—Convulsions. Unconscious tossing about. Trembling; of hands and feet in evening during chill. Stiffness as in tetanus. Tearing in middle of r. forearm and in calves in evening and next day. Pain, with stiffness. Bruised feeling in forearms and legs. Contracting, almost paralytic pain. Drawing, almost paralytic pain. Painful drawing on external surface of l. thigh, a hand's breadth above knee, to below knee, and from r. elbow to middle of forearm, on inner surface. Drawings. Dry feeling in joints of arms and limbs. Weakness; in morning; of hands and feet. Numbness of arms and legs. Collapse.

Upper Extremities.—Stitch in r. axilla, extending into chest. Tearing in A. Stitching-tingling in A. Stitches through and through bones of r. shoulder in afternoon. Drawing pain in l. shoulder-joint.

Upper Arm.—Tearing in middle of r. in afternoon; from middle of r. to middle of forearm, > rubbing; on inner surface of r. humerus during breakfast, > pressure. Boring in middle. Gnawing in middle, of r.; in middle, on external surface; in middle of r. humerus, with stitching farther up. Bruised pain in r. Drawing in r., as if in bone, after dinner, with stitches.

Elbow.—Tearing in bend of r.; from bend of r. into shoulder; in bend after dinner, passing on rubbing into outer side of upper arm. Drawing pain in r. Sensation in r., as if she were holding something fast.

Tearing from middle of l. forearm to middle of upper arm. Stitching from r. wrist towards elbow in afternoon, and with each stitch a blow. Hand, Tearing in l.; on back of r., with stitching extending into l. upper arm; on inner margin of r., towards little finger, > rubbing. Painful drawing from r. into fingers, with tension. Drawing pain in bones of H. and of forearm. Tearing in l. thumb; in l. finger in afternoon. Pain in little finger, with tension.

Lower Extremities.—Tottering as if dizzy. Inability to stand or walk. Paralysis; with weakness of arm.

Thigh.—Twitching in flesh in middle, in afternoon, with itching. Stitches in r. hip in afternoon. Tearing in posterior part of l., with stitches; T. from middle of r. into hollow of knee in afternoon; from r. nates down posterior surface to knee; from r. hip down posterior surface to knee; from l. hip-bone into knee. Gnawing on external surface of bone from middle of r. into calf. Weight in muscles. Falling asleep of one or other.

Knee.—Tottering on ascending steps. Stitches deep into r.; on inner surface of l. penetrating the knee. Tearing about r.; in r., > rubbing; on external surface of l., and after sitting down sensation like falling asleep; in r. extending to middle of leg; boring, now in both, now in r. only, extending backward and downward into feet, upward into r. hip and thence into l. hip, > warm dry applications, with sticking. (Cutting while walking.) Boring, so that legs were drawn together. Pains on bringing them together; P. causing lamenting and whining; as if swollen, impeding walking, lasting longest in r. Drawing pain in hollows. Sensitiveness to touch, and in legs. Tension on r. Weariness, and of legs.

Leg.—Trembling on motion. Tearing in l. calf after dinner; in calves worse while walking than while sitting; in calves at 10 A.M.; as if flesh were torn away. Pain > violent rubbing; P. in calves, > afternoon by walking violently till she sweated. Bruised feeling in forenoon when walking. Feeling in tibia, just above ankle, as if skin and flesh were loosened from bone, > touch. Tension in r. calf after dinner. Weariness.

Foot.—Tearing on back of r. in afternoon; from r. instep to middle of thigh, with stitching. Ulcerative pain in soles, preventing stepping. Drawing on inner surface of r. Lassitude, so that she can scarcely go upstairs.

Toes.—Tearing in r. towards tips, > rubbing, then in r. external malleolus, > rubbing; in second l., with stitches.

Skin.—Pale. Yellow spot near umbilicus and another on inside of l. thigh. Brownish-yellow. Red, inflamed; red spots on first joint of l. thumb at 2 P.M., as if a pimple would form. Swelling on back of l. foot, with burning, the burning > rubbing; itching S. on last phalanx of finger. Eruption on knee, with pain, < touch and impeding motion; E. on breast-bone, paining on touch like an ulcer; burning, on l. buttock.

Pimple on r. upper eyelid; on backs of hands; on back of r. hand, between fourth and fifth fingers; on external surface of r. little finger, with sticking on pressure; between r. thumb and index, with red areola; on side of neck, with burning pain; on cheek near corner of mouth, feeling tense, but when touched causing burning pain; on nates, with burning pain on touch. Pimples burning on touch, on forehead and cheeks; on r. mastoid process; between r. thumb and index (preceded by tickling). P. deep in cheek, itching when touched. Itching P., covering inner surface of arms and middle of chest, with burning after scratching. Pellucid P. between chin and lip, from one angle of mouth to the other in afternoon.

Pustule on chin, burning on touch. Psoriasis. Eczema. Vesicles; on r. palm; burning on touch, between chin and lips and on forehead; itching, on r. cheek in evening, with burning after scratching; itching-burning upon nose. Ulcers on lower limbs.

Twitching on inner surface of l. knee. Stitches on abdomen; below r. breast; on neck. Burning pain. Dryness. Fornication in r. foot, then dead feeling. Ticking on outer side of l. upper arm, > rubbing, with biting. Itching; with sticking; on forehead; on coccyx above anus; on chest under r. arm in afternoon; at night, now in hands, now in feet, with twitching; in an ulcer, with tearing; here and there as from lice; crawling in bends of elbows.

Clinical.—Vesicular eruptions, with burning and itching. Effects of burns. Erysipelas, especially of the face, of a vesiculate type, with great restlessness, burning pain. Eczema on backs of feet and hands or between fingers, > cold, < warmth.

Sleep.—Yawning after dinner; Y., with stretching; without sleepiness. Sleepiness; in morning, with depression; in afternoon, with lassitude; after dinner; < eating. Fell asleep while spinning, her eyes closed involuntarily, then smarting in eyes. Sleeplessness; in evening from excitement, then vivid, confused dreams; after midnight, also with restlessness. Late falling asleep. Frequent waking. Little sleep. Half-sleep. Light sleep before midnight. Restlessness at night; with late falling asleep on account of anxiety, then nightmare after a short sleep. Starting in morning sleep.

Dreams. Anxious. Unremembered. Confused. Voluptuous. Of business. Of cooking, etc. Of quarrels. Vivid, of deer, of walks in woods. Visions at midnight when half-awake, she hears soft steps in the room, then knocking under the bed, and the bed is raised. Visions at midnight while half-awake and lying with r. hand on l. shoulder, something took hold of her hand and bent it up and down, then it seemed as if icy hands took hold of her throat.

Fever.—Gooseflesh during chill. Chill; waking at 2 A.M. and preventing further sleep; after rising at 3 A.M., > lying down; from 11 till 3 P.M., when she took camphor, with pains in knees and calves, which continued till lying down; at 1 P.M., somewhat later each day for three days; slight, till 1.30 P.M., then shaking C. till 11 A.M., > hot stove, with creeping in hands and feet; at 5 P.M.; from 5 to 7 P.M.; towards evening, after stool, with sensation as if dashed with ice-water and with internal warmth; for three hours in evening; in bed at 10 o'clock; at night, also preventing sleep; on putting a limb out of bed and on rising; on rising from bed, then heat.

Chill, with external warmth of forehead; C. mixed with heat, with heaviness of feet, paralytic immobility of limbs, loss of appetite, pain in eyes and necessity to lie in bed; C. irregularly alternating with heat and sweat. Frequent creeping C. Shivering chill from 11 till 1 o'clock; from 3 to 4 P.M., > warming with cloths; from 3 P.M. till 3 A.M., then warmth without thirst; from 4 to 4.30 P.M.; about 6.30 P.M., and tossing about, as from electricity, then sticking in scapula; with weakness; universal S., with chills down spine.

Coldness of skin; with imperceptible pulse. Cold face; cold sensation in a spot on l. side of lumbar vertebra; < evening while sitting, as from getting cold or like gooseflesh, with fornication. Shivering up back in afternoon; from 2 till 8 P.M., beginning in back, then heat, then shivering again. Cold limbs; and covered with cold sweat. Cold hands and feet, with pain in urethra; C. hands, which look yellowish; hands, with burning soles.

Heat; at night, especially in anus and genitals; after violent motion; after coldness; < afternoon; with rapid pulse; H., with thirst, also with dryness in mouth, anxiety, restlessness and pain in limbs; with scanty and painful emission of blackish urine, then urine increased to four-fold the amount of liquids taken, with thirst and desire for meat, afterwards urine lost its blackish color and tasted rather like salt water. Heat in afternoon, as after much walking on a hot day, with red face and increased sweat; suddenly rising in evening, with redness of face and thirst. External heat; from 10 to 3 P.M. for three days; at night; at night, with thirst. Burning here and there in skin, with some itching-tearing; E. in the spot where he had bruised himself.

Hot head; anxious heat rising into head; H. rises into head after dinner, with burning, sweaty hands; in forehead in evening, with cold sensation in body. Glowing of ears and chin. Heat in face; internally, in afternoon. Hot abdomen. Burning of palms; of tips of fingers; in soles in bed; in all cavities of body, as if raw and sore.

Sweat; towards morning; before midnight; at night on waking; when walking; on violent motion while lying, but warmth relieved the pains; cold; cold and viscid; on external pelvic region in morning, and in groins; on chest at night on waking. Cold, on hands and feet; cold, on forehead.

Clinical.—During typhoid fever, with tympanitis, dysuria, etc. In a late stage of yellow fever, with suppression of urine, hemorrhage from the bowels, cold sweat.

Capsicum.

A tincture is prepared from the dried fruit of Capsicum Annuum L. (the red pepper).

General Action.—It produces inflammation of mucous membranes, with bloody mucous discharges (bowels, bladder, throat, etc.). It produces well-marked chill and fever, neuralgias and phlegmonous inflammations, with threatening, deep-seated abscess (lungs, ear).

Compare Bell., Canth., Merc. cor., Rhus t., Nat. m., and probably also Oleander.

Generalities.—Cramp in l. arm, then in whole body, with stiffness of arms so that they could not be straightened, stiffness of feet on rising after sitting, with crawling and sensation as if asleep. General trembling while caressing. Superficial stitches between scapulae when breathing, and in epigastric region, side of abdomen, in ensiform cartilage and sternum. Aching, now in one part, now in another. Drawing pain here and there in limbs, back, nape, scapulae and hands, excited by motion. Painless sensation in body, moving upward and downward, with redness of cheeks. (Clucking sensation, with sudden throbbing in some large veins.) He shuns all motion. Weariness; < morning; not inviting sleep. Sensation as if all parts would fall asleep, > sulphur-fumes.

Clinical.—Most useful in older persons who have become debilitated by disease and who react badly, not so useful in young people. Often adapted to people who have exhausted their vitality, especially by mental work, and whose vital heat is diminished, who do not react, especially from chill, muscles are weary and painful, fear of the slightest draft of either warm or cold air; sometimes indicated in persons who abstain from their accustomed alcoholic stimulants. The pains in general are burning in character and are accompanied by chilliness. Many of the sensations are those of constriction, about the throat, chest, bladder, rectum, etc.

Mind.—Disposition to start. Taciturn, absorbed in himself; T., sullen and obstinate. Contented, jocular and singing, but angry from slightest causes. Capricious, at one time laughing constantly, soon again crying. Obsturacy without cries. Reproaches and anger at the faults of others, offense at trifles and fault-finding. Anxiety; forcing him to take a deep breath. Busy, uneasy mood. Repugnance and fretfulness. Indifference to everything. Jokes and witticisms. Indisposition to work or think. Comatose all day.

Clinical.—Homesick, cries all the time, with chilliness and hot face.

Head.—Stitches. Headache more sticking than tearing, < rest, > motion. (Tearing.) Aching as if the skull would burst (Bell.), on coughing (Nat. m., Phos.); on moving head and on walking; bursting headache or feeling as if head were too full. Throbbing pain. Confusion; on waking; on waking, so that he did not recognize himself. Emptiness. Intoxication. Vertigo in morning on waking; and dulness in head, like a heedlessness and awkwardness, so that she knocked against everything, with chilliness and anxiety; with staggering from side to side.

Forehead.—Drawing tearing in bone, < r. side. Aching above root of nose (Canth., Prunus sp., Ign., etc.), with stitches through ear and over eye. Throbbing pain (Glon.). Aching as if it pressed from occiput outward to forehead, with cutting from occiput to forehead. Bursting pain (Ferr.). Drawing pain.

Aching in temples; throbbing, in one or other T. Deeply-penetrating stitches in vertex. Sudden stitches from vertex to forehead. Drawing-tearing in l. side of head. One-sided sticking, like a hysterical migraine, < raising eyes and head or stooping, with forgetfulness and nausea. Corrosive itching, and after scratching soreness as if the hair had been pulled.

Clinical.—The bursting headache is often associated with severe cough or is the accompaniment of malarial fever.

Eyes.—Protrusion, with pallor of face. Inflammation. Stinging. Burning in morning, with redness and lachrymation. Pain as from a foreign body. Pressure on, so that he could not open them sufficiently. Pupils dilated. Painful twitching beneath r. lid. Vision almost lost. All objects seem black. Dim vision in morning, as from a foreign body floating over cornea, > for a moment by rubbing.

Ears.—Swelling on bone behind E., painful to touch. Tearing behind l.; in concha. Pain, deeply seated; deep-seated itching; with every cough, as if an ulcer would open; beneath E.

Clinical.—Valuable remedy in chronic suppuration of the ears, with bursting headache, chilliness, etc.; suppuration of the middle ear, with perforation of the drum and discharge of yellow pus. Particularly in mastoid disease, with great tenderness over the petrous bone, threatening to involve the meninges of the brain.

Nose.—Constrictive jerking pain on l. side, extending to above l. eye. Burning-tensive sensation on l. nostril, as if a pimple would form. Crawling-tickling, as in stopped coryza. Burning-crawling, with violent sneezing and discharge of mucus. (Itching internally, with stitches.) Racking sneezing, with discharge of thin mucus. Stopped coryza. Discharge of bloody mucus. Nosebleed in morning in bed and blowing of blood from nose.

Face.—Redness of cheeks; of face, then pale, suffering expression. Now pallor, now redness, with red lobules of ears, with internal but not external heat. Pain, partly like bone-pains, from external touch, partly like fine pains piercing the nerves, which are tormenting when falling asleep. Pain in l. side of lower jaw, as from a boil or ulcer. Lips swollen; chaps on L. (Arum t.), fissures (Nat. m., Rh. t.); scaly; ulcerating eruption on L. (not in corners), painful only on motion; burning.

Mouth.—Drawing toothache. Teeth seem too long, and raised up and on edge. Swollen gum. Drawing pain in gum. Pimples on tip of tongue, with stinging and pain when touched. Dry sensation on forepart of tongue in morning, without thirst. Pimples on inner surface of cheeks. Palate pains as if pressed or pinched, < at first when not swallowing, then < when swallowing. Mouth dry. Tough mucus. Salivation. Taste watery, flat, then heartburn; as of bad water; flat, disagreeable, earthy (for example, of butter); sour; sour to broth; astringent, sour.

Clinical.—Stomatitis, burning ulcers.

Throat.—Spasmodic contraction. Stitches in region of epiglottis, causing dry cough. Pain on swallowing as if inflamed, but when not swallowing drawing pain. Pain when coughing; as from a swelling; during a paroxysm of cough, as if an ulcer would break. Pain in upper part when not swallowing, as if sore, with spasmodic contraction, as in waterbrash. Pain externally. Rawness.

Clinical.—Sore throat of smokers and drinkers, with inflammation, burning, relaxed uvula, sometimes dry, in other cases with tough mucus difficult to dislodge. Diphtheria, with gangrenous sloughs extending to roof of mouth, with excessive burning, spasmodic constriction, chilliness, etc. (compare Canth.).

Stomach.—Desire for coffee. Appetite lost. Thirst lost. Eructations only when walking, and with every E. a stitch in side; odorless, afterwards they had a peppery taste. Nausea; in pit in morning and afternoon; caused by cough; after drinking coffee, with spitting of saliva. Vomiting, with purging.

Stitches in pit when breathing deeply and suddenly, talking or on touch; sudden S. in pit. Pinching boring-outward in pit, < sitting bent. Pressure in pit during menses, with nausea; in pit, < pressure; in pit, with nausea; beneath short ribs and in pit. Burning; above pit after eating at noon and in evening; warmth in epigastrium, then nausea and general sick feeling; warmth extending to fauces, then burning eructations; after breakfast, extending into mouth. Feeling as if cold water were in it, then sensation as if he were trembling.

Abdomen.—Distention after eating, then shooting headache towards occiput and sweat; D. and hardness, with intolerance of tight clothing. Rumbling; with inclination to stool, > emission of flatus; extending upward and downward. Flatulence. Flatus moves about painfully. Feeling as if distended even to bursting, causing suffocation. Pinching after eating, with incarcerated flatus.

Colic, with cutting twisting about navel and passage of tough mucus, like diarrhoea, at times mixed with black blood, after every stool thirst, and after every drink shivering (Ars., Verat.). Drawing, with twisting, with and without diarrhoea. Pain deep in, rather burning than sticking, on motion, < stooping and walking, than cutting in umbilical region, ill humor about the pain, discontent and whining about inanimate objects (not about men or moral subjects), apprehension and sweat on face.

Pressure here and there. Tension, especially in epigastric region, between pit of stomach and navel, < motion, with tension in lower part of back. Tensive pain, extending to chest, as from distention of abdomen. Strong pulsations in bloodvessels. Warmth in intestinal canal. Pinching in upper part of abdomen. A hernia, consisting of wind, protrudes forcibly and painfully from abdominal ring. Pain, almost sticking, in a spot on l. side of hypogastrium. Pain in hypogastrium as from flatus.

Rectum and Anus.—Tenesmus. Urging to stool after drinking, but only a little mucus passed. Feeling as if he would have diarrhoea as soon as he drank anything (Crot. tig.), but only a little passed every time. Urging, with pain in intestines and constipation. Hæmorrhoids, itching at times; blind, paining severely during stool. Discharge of blood. Burning in anus (Berb., Sulph., etc.); burning pain. Biting-stinging in anus, with diarrhoea-like stool. Itching in anus.

Clinical.—Hæmorrhoids, with excessive burning as from pepper, throbbing, soreness, with drawing pain in back, etc. (Escul.).

Stool.—Immediately after eating (at noon), with redness of cheeks. Small frequent passages, consisting of mucus, at times mingled with blood and causing tenesmus (Merc. c., Canth.), preceded by flatulent colic in hypogastrium. Diarrhoea, then empty tenesmus; mucus D., with tenesmus. Small S., consisting of only mucus. Soft and glimmering, then burning in anus. Constipation, as from too much heat in abdomen.

Clinical.—Dysentery, stools bloody, tenacious, mucous, with excessive burning and tenesmus, also associated with tenesmus of the bladder (Canth. and Merc. cor.); also particularly characterized by excessive thirst, with shivering from drinking (Arsen.) and by severe pain in back after the stool (Nax. vom.).

Urinary Organs.—Tenesmus, stranguary, frequent, almost ineffectual urging to urinate (Merc. c., Canth.). Pressure towards bladder while coughing and afterwards, with stitches extending outward in region of bladder. Frequent desire to urinate, < sitting, not when walking. Intermittent spasmodic contraction of neck of bladder in morning in bed, > micturition, with cutting, without urging to urinate. Micturition difficult and in drops.

Urethra.—Stitches after urinating; in forepart when not urinating; in orifice when not urinating. Cutting extending backward, when not urinating. Pain, < in forenoon; P. on touch. Burning-biting pain after urinating. Burning in orifice just before, during and after urinating (Canth.). Gonorrhœa; a purulent discharge.

Urine copious, and she could not wholly control micturition. Scanty, light-colored U. Burning U. White sediment in urine.

Sexual Organs.—Pressure in glans, < morning and evening, with bruised sensation. Itching-stinging on glans, as from insects. Erections in morning in bed without sexual thoughts; E. in forenoon, afternoon and evening; violent, in morning on rising, only > cold water. Drawing pain in spermatic cord while urinating and afterwards, with pinching in testicle. Coldness of scrotum in morning on waking; C. of scrotum, with impotency (Agnus. c.). Loss of sensibility in testicles, with softening and dwindling, not noticed till reduced to the size of a bean, insensible, hard, drawn up close to abdominal ring and suspended by a shrivelled spermatic cord. Emission at night.

Clinical.—Gonorrhœa, with chordee, excessive burning (Canth.), pain in prostate. Impotency, with coldness of scrotum, tendency to atrophy of testicles (Agn. cast.).

Respiratory Organs.—Hoarseness. Crawling in larynx and trachea in evening after lying down, with dry hacking cough. Tickling in trachea, causing violent sneezing. Mucus in upper part of trachea, expectorated from time to time by hawking and voluntary hacking cough. Cough, < 5 to 9 P.M.; < drinking coffee; painful; frequent, dry, hacking; paroxysm about 5 P.M., causing nausea and vomiting. Cough expels an offensive breath from lungs. The exhalation from the lungs on coughing causes a strange offensive taste in mouth.

Asthma, fulness in chest. Dyspnoea; when walking; even during rest, with stiffness of back, which hurt when stooping, with deep sighing from time to time and dry cough; with redness of face, eructations and sensation as if chest were distended; which seems to rise from stomach. Only able to inspire with the body erect, orthopnea. Frequent necessity to take deep inspirations, whereby all his troubles were relieved. A voluntary strong expiration. Breathing deep, almost sighing.

Clinical.—Violent cough, with feeling as if the chest would fly to pieces, pains shoot to all parts of body, cough explosive. Threatening gangrene of lung. The odor from coughing is putrid.

Chest.—Stitches between l. second and third ribs; between l. third and fourth ribs; between l. fifth and sixth ribs; in side of C. and back when coughing; between l. third and fourth ribs on inspiration; in side on breathing while walking, > sitting; in l., arresting breathing.

Drawing-tearing, extending from r. clavicle along arm to tips of fingers. Pain on ribs on inspiration, and on sternum; in side on which she lies; beneath r. arm, if he feels the spot or raises the arm; (in a spot in one rib, < touch); throbbing; drawing, in side on coughing, extending to throat; like a pressure on C., on deep breathing and on turning body.

Constriction, < slight motion, arresting breathing. Pain when sitting as if too full. Fulness after eating, with anxiety, then sour eructations or heartburn, at last thin stool.

Heart and Pulse.—Stitches in region of heart. Pulse rapid.

Neck and Back.—Jerking-tearing in r. cervical glands. Jerking pain in nape. Stiffness of neck on motion; > motion. Weak sensation in neck, as if loaded. Drawing-tearing in and near spine. Sudden drawing-sticking in middle of spine. Pain in back on stooping. Drawing pain in back. Pain in small of back, drawing-downward, when standing and moving, with bruised pain.

Extremities.—Cracking and creaking in joints of knees and fingers. Convulsive jerks and twitches, now in thigh, now in forearm. Pain shoots into one or another limb when coughing and sneezing. Joints pain as if dislocated and feel swollen. Joints feel crushed in morning on rising, with a paralytic stiff pain on beginning to move, especially in knees and ankles, > continued motion. Joints become stiff after lying down, then crushed feeling in them on rising in morning, especially the lameness of knees and ankles < rest; stiffness of joints, < beginning to move, > continued motion, with pain in them and catarrh and tough mucus in trachea. Weariness, < rest and sitting; with heaviness, then trembling of upper limbs and knees, and the hands refused their service when writing; as if bruised.

Upper Extremities.—Shoulder-joint pains as if dislocated. (Drawing paralytic pain above and below elbow.) Stitches in l. elbow, extending into hand, with flushes of heat, from which the arm felt as if asleep. Grumbling pain in l. forearm. Twitching pain in hollow of l. hand. Deep-seated stitches in ball of l. little finger. Contractive pain in l. index.

Lower Extremities.—Thigh. Drawing digging-sticking in middle of posterior surface of l., > motion. Sticking-tearing from hip-joints to feet, < coughing. Tearing on inner side of l. Drawing pain in hip-joint (pain like a stiff neck), < touch and bending trunk backward. Pain in muscles like a pressure and a sprain. Sprained pain in r., < stretching out thigh. Bruised pain in r., > walking, returning during rest. Deep, pressing-inward pain in side, on coughing, extending into knee.

Tensive pain in knee. Tension in calves when walking. Internal drawing-sticking in l. leg. (Paroxysmal bruised pain in bones of heels, at times becoming tearing.) Trembling weakness of feet. Stitches extending to tips of toes; S. in r. great toe, > stamping.

Skin.—Red points on face, and on forehead a tetter with corrosive itching; (red round spots on abdomen and thighs). Painful pimples beneath nostrils; (pimples on l. side of face, with biting as from salt.) Pimples from neck to knees, with itching and burning, < at night, afterwards P. became filled with erythematous redness, then vesicles formed, most abundant where perspiration was most confined, as in folds of axillary region, under bindings of skirts, etc., the eruption spread to scalp and soles, with swelling, a bagging of cheeks and neck, l. side of face and l. ear being more affected than r., and where the perspiration was confined the skin was raised and broken, as if scalded.

Sticking on wrist. Crawling here and there; in arms and legs, from feet upward to throat. (Itching only after touch); I. in hair of head, > scratching, and in spots on rest of body; here and there, mostly in face and nose; sticking burning, especially on chest and face.

Sleep.—Yawning; after eating. Sleepiness all day; after the heat; < eating. Snoring, as if he could not inspire through the nose. He becomes wide awake in the night and cannot sleep again; wide awake after midnight and also later. Frequent waking after midnight. Sleep interrupted by crying and starting as if he fell from a high place. Sleep full of dreams. Dreams full of difficulties. Sad dreams, of past experiences, and on waking he did not know whether it was real or not.

Fever.—Aversion to cold air, especially a draught. General coldness. Chill in afternoon, then the skin burned and itched more than before; C. in evening; in evening after lying down, then coryza; (in evening, with thirst (without heat, yawning or stretching), with weariness, short breath, sleepiness, fretfulness, and shivering on slightest motion, without internal or external coldness, and yet he was not too warm in a hot room). Chill at night, general sweat the following nights; C. from a little air in bed. Coldness increasing, with increase of ill humor and of contraction of pupils. Gradual diminution of warmth.

Trembling on account of shivering. Shivering after every drink, with chilliness (Ars., Verat., Chin., Asar.); S. over hairy part of head, then burning-itching on scalp, which was > by scratching, but returned with increased severity. Coldness of feet as far as ankles in morning. Shivering and coldness in back in evening, then sweat without heat or thirst. Sensation in thighs as if covered with cold sweat, when walking in open air (as if a cold wind blew against sweaty parts), but the thighs did not sweat.

Heat over whole body after pressure in stomach, with increased redness of face. Heat, with shivering and thirst; H. and sweat without thirst, then shivering at 6 p.m., with chattering of teeth, thirst, anxiety, uneasiness, loss of senses and intolerance of noise, next day at 7 p.m. similar shivering, with coldness and thirst. (Internal heat, with cold sweat on forehead.) Heat of ears towards evening, with hot, red tip of nose; H. of hands; of hands, < morning on washing in cold water; of face, with redness of it and trembling of limbs; glowing hot cheeks two days at noon after eating, with coldness of hands and feet; (burning hands, feet and cheeks, the latter swollen). Burning on skin, with itching. Corrosive burning on tender portions (lips, mouth, nose, tip of nose, wings of nose, eyelids, etc.).

General sweat in morning. Sweat so acrid that it caused the hands of any person who touched the patient to burn and tingle. Sweat on forehead; under shoulders; cool, on hands.

Clinical.—Intermittent fever, chill begins in the back (Eup. purp.), > heat, thirst, but chill after drinking, with the chill excruciating pain in back and limbs, heat and sweat often commingled; generally less thirst during the fever and sweat than during the chill; the thirst begins even before the chill (Eup. per., China, Nat. mur.). In scarlet fever, with corrosive discharge from nose, great fetor of breath, general tendency to coldness. Sometimes indicated in typhoid fever. Occasionally in pyæmia, with high temperature and profuse sweat, easily chilled, < drinking.

Carbo Animalis.

Animal charcoal, obtained from charred ox-hide, is triturated for use.

General Action.—A tissue remedy, like all the Carbons.

Compare Carbo veg., Aurum, Caps., Carbon. s.

Generalities.—Spasms, vertigo, she screamed, opened her mouth and bent backward to the right side and threw up her hands. She came near falling, opened the mouth and raised her eyes, with heat over whole body, sweat on face and whining mood. Stitches in the scar of a burn. Aching in joints and muscles. All joints feel bruised, pulled apart and powerless. Throbbing in whole body, < evening. Orgasm of blood, without heat. Uneasiness, with haste. Indolence.

Weakness in morning on waking after a good sleep; in morning on rising, with such sadness that she could have cried; in morning, especially in lower limbs, with bruised feeling; in forenoon, even to sinking down; from eating; while walking; from walking, especially in hypochondrium; after walking, with sleepiness; < afternoon, with apprehension and melancholy; with want of energy and confusion of head; so that she could scarcely speak after appearance of menses, with yawning and stretching; at night as if bruised; of mind and body after an emission, with apprehension. Weaker every day, although he eats and drinks.

Clinical.—Especially suited to old people. Sometimes indicated after debilitating disease. Veins distended, skin blue, especially on hands and feet. Indurations of the glands. Indolent tumors, especially with burning pain.

Mind.—Desire to be alone, she is sad and reflective and avoids conversation (Aur.). Frightful images in evening before sleep. Fear; in evening, causing shuddering and weeping; and shyness. Apprehension in afternoon, with heaviness in body, so that walking was difficult. Anxiety at night, with orgasm of blood, so that she was obliged to sit up; A. < evening and night, with depression, the A. preventing sleep, she felt best in the morning; so that he was constantly obliged to rock back and forth on his chair. Homesick (Caps.). Feeling in morning as if abandoned and homesick. Thoughts of death. Hopelessness. Lachrymose; at times, foolishly jovial at other times; he cannot weep enough. Discouragement and sadness, everything seems so sad and lonely that she desires to weep. Melancholy; in morning on waking, with anxiety; with feeling as if abandoned.

Anger. Ill humor; in morning on waking; ill humor, with aversion to talking. Sullen mood and ill humor about the present and past, with weeping. Obstinate, and no one could do anything to suit him.

Indifference, then irritability for passionate impressions. Jovial. Involuntary jolly whistling.

Stupidity in forenoon, < after dinner, with drowsiness. Stupefaction while sitting eating, with lightness of head and dread lest he should fall down unconscious; sudden S. when moving head and on walking; sudden, he did not hear, nor see and had no thoughts. Inability to write a letter and to express his thoughts. Forgot the word he was about to speak.

Head.—Stitches, especially in temples. Tearing after dinner, > pressure, with throbbing, and in orbits, ears, l. side of face, cheek-bones and lower jaw, then swelling of cheek. Drawing-boring, < cold, especially towards the ears, with tearings. Aching in morning on waking, as after intoxication; at night as if asleep and sprained, and in neck; which presses down the eyebrows. Pressure after dinner till evening, with confusion. Everything on H. pressed upon it, even the neck-cloth was uncomfortable. Heaviness; in morning, with dim vision and watery eyes; at night, with weariness in feet, which she could scarcely lift; especially in occiput and of l. temple, with confusion. Confusion in morning, he did not know whether he had been asleep or awake; C. in morning, and she was vexed with everything she looked at; in morning, and feeling as in a confused dream. Discomfort from 10 A.M. till 4 P.M., as if confused in head and uncertain on her feet, with pale face, nausea and blue rings around eyes. Tension almost daily. Feeling of painful looseness of brain, on motion. Rush of blood, with confusion.

Vertigo in morning, with feeling as if he had not slept enough; V. about 7 P.M., if she raised her head everything seemed to turn around, she was obliged to sit bent, on rising staggering, with confusion of head and feeling as if all objects moved, the V. > on lying down at night, returning in morning on rising; on rising after stooping, with nausea; while walking, with fog before her eyes, forcing her to walk rapidly and to the right; with nausea and a sudden watery mist before eyes; with blackness before eyes; when sitting, as if she would fall backward from her chair, with stupidity; as if moving head back and forth; V. to the r. side.

Forehead.—Pricking pain on l. in morning after rising, > open air. Sticking over l. eye, extending into lid and upper half of ball. Stupefying pain while spinning, > after dinner. Sensation as if something lay above eyes, so that she could not look up. Heaviness on stooping, with sensation as if brain would fall forward, then vertigo on rising, so that she nearly fell. Sensation of something heavy in it or as if a board pressed upon it, a sensation as when going from very cold air to in front of a hot stove. Drawing above eyebrows.

Stitches in temples, with contractive pain or twinges. Pinching in lower part of temples. Aching in T. Boring in temporal bone, extending into zygoma. Stitches in vertex in evening. Pain in vertex, with a sensitive spot externally, on stooping it changes to the forehead; pain in V. as if skull had been split or torn asunder, so that she held her head with her hands from fear lest it should fall asunder, also at night, < wet weather; throbbing pain in V. when walking, with stitches as if head would crack. Tearing on r. side; T. in r. side. Pressure daily in a spot on parietal bones near vertex, < forenoon and dampness of soiled clothes, > open air. Splashing in l. half of brain when walking rapidly.

Occiput.—Twitching tearings shoot back and forth in l. in evening. Tearing in r. in evening, with sticking. Aching; in a spot; during menses, > open air, extending to vertex anteriorly, with heaviness; intermitting in l.; headache in neck when writing. Painful, heavy sensation. Throbbing, with stitches.

Falling off of hair. Tearing on external parts. Pain in l. side externally, as if suppurating. Anxious tension and drawing up in skin of forehead and vertex. Itching, not > scratching.

Eyes.—Stitches. Aching in evening by a light; during menses, extending to forehead, vertex and into l. ear, with heaviness. Sensation of a foreign body in l. preventing vision, with constant necessity to wipe the eye, with extreme dilatation of pupil and farsightedness. Twitching of r., with feeling as if something were moving in it, which blinded her, and drawing downward in upper lid, > rubbing, but returning, leaving sensitiveness to touch in margin of upper lid.

Sticking-burning after itching and rubbing of them, with watering. Itching during the day, with pressure; biting l., with burning after rubbing. Lachrymation in morning on rising. Eyes seemed loose in their sockets, and he could not see distinctly, which made him anxious. Agglutination of l. lids in forenoon. Twitching of upper lid. Itching of upper lid, > scratching. Sticking in l. internal canthus in morning after rising, > rubbing, with biting. Pressure in internal canthus. Smarting-burning in external canthus.

Weakness; in evening she could do nothing requiring vision. Photophobia in evening. Vision of a net swimming before the eyes; of black and yellow points in regular rows, by candle-light. Objects upon the street seem altered, for example, farther apart and brighter than usual, as if the city were empty and deserted. V. as through a mist. V. obscure.

Ears.—Swelling of periosteum behind r. every day after 7 P.M., with sticking in it. Stitches. Tearing in l.; in lobule of r., and boring in the ear. Pinching within l.; in l. extending into pharynx, making swallowing difficult. Drawing; in external ear and in l. cheek-bone. Hearing weak; and confused, comingling of sounds, he cannot tell from which side they come, and they seem to come from another world. Ringing all night; in r. while walking in open air. Whistling on blowing nose.

Clinical.—Deafness, with confused hearing, cannot tell the direction of sound.

Nose.—Redness of tip, with pain on touch; of tip during menses, with cracks, burning and tensive pain; with swelling and internal soreness. Swelling, and of mouth; S., with pimples internally and externally, which form a long-lasting scurf. Tensive boil in nostril. Blisters in r. nostril. Tearing in side. Bruised pain above and in root; when touched. Sensation of beginning coryza after eating, < evening. Stoppage of l. nostril in forenoon.

Coryza, catarrh and scraping in throat, < evening and night, and swallowing. Coryza, with rawness of throat. Fluent C.; in evening; with loss of smell, yawning and sneezing; of much watery mucus. Stopped C. in morning on waking, > after rising; from forenoon till evening; no air can get through nose. Frequent passage of mucus, with stopped coryza. Bleeding mornings (Carbo v.), preceded by vertigo; B. in morning when sitting, and in afternoon; at night; preceded by pressure and confusion of head. Blowing out of blood.

Face.—Yellow. Tearing in l. malar-bone, extending towards temples; in r. jaw, now upper, now lower. Lips swollen and burning; corner of lip ulcerated, with burning pain; blisters on lips; cracks; bleeding of lips; dryness in morning, as from too great heat.

Mouth.—Teeth. Looseness (Carbo v.), so that chewing the softest food was painful; L. < evening in bed, with tearing; of lower, with pain in gum. She frequently bites the inside of the mouth. Tearing, especially in hollow teeth, even at night, disturbing sleep. Gripping in l., < open air. Throbbing from cold drinks, then looseness; T. < pressure, and in evening. Drawing, with flushes of heat in face; D. back and forth, even in incisors; in a l. lower back tooth as often as she woke at night; in l. back teeth, < afternoon; sudden and sticking pains in back T. while eating bread. Nerves sensitive to touch of crowns. A hollow tooth becomes sensitive and feels prominent, it pains on biting, and still more in the evening, in bed, with salivation. Teeth too long and loose; r. upper. Gums red, swollen and painful. Gums pale and painful as if suppurating.

Blisters on tongue, with pain as if burnt (Caps.); blisters on margin of T. Burning on tip of T., with rawness of mouth (Caps.); B. on side of tongue as if sore. Mouth swollen. Blisters in mouth, which cause burning. Mucus in M. in morning, > rising. M. and tongue seem immovable, with difficult drawing or very low speech. Dryness of M. and throat, without thirst. Flow of saliva during sleep. Frothy saliva. Breath offensive.

Taste.—Bitter every morning; in morning, > rising; at times. Sour; bitter sour; slimy sour in morning after waking. Foul in morning; bitter foul. Nauseous in morning.

Throat.—Parotids swollen; r. Much mucus, with frequent hawking and raising. Feeling as of mucus in morning on waking, compelling hawking, > noon. Scraping-sticking. Pressure, with dryness of tongue; P. extending to stomach. Sore pain and burning like heartburn, extending to stomach, < towards evening, night and morning, > rising, eating and drinking. Rawness almost every morning, > breakfast; extending to pit of stomach, not < swallowing. Scraping, with salivation. Burning (Caps.). Acidity, but not in mouth. Swallowing painful; as if a blister were in throat. Soreness when swallowing, with ulcerative pain. Rising into œsophagus and throat, with choking, pressure and rawness.

Stomach.—Appetite increased. Hunger in morning; two hours after a large dinner and again towards evening, then thirst; but l.e does not relish food. Longing for sour and refreshing things. Appetite for raw sauerkraut, no appetite for other things. Little A., but it returns while eating; soon disappears while eating. Aversion to food; to fat. Thirst even in morning; especially for cold water, with dryness and heat in throat. Aversion to cold drinks.

Eruptions.—Tasting of food eaten a long time previous. Empty, every time after eating; E., changing to hicough. Hiccough-like, during dinner. Foul, almost constant; foul, fishy. Inclination to waterbrash at night, with nausea. Waterbrash, with salt water rising from stomach and running from mouth, with retching and spasmodic sensation in jaws, then violent empty eructations, with cold feet, then hiccough.

Nausea in morning after rising, with heat, anxiety, eructations of sour water and weariness; N. from smoking tobacco and aversion to it; when he sits down after walking much; long-continued, after eating meat, with empty eructations. Gurgling; in morning on waking. Constrictive cramp. Fullness after eating a little, with good appetite. Stitches; in r. side near pit, even on inspiration, > walking; tearing, from pit into chest, on rising after stooping. Boring as after fasting, extending to abdomen. Pressure in evening after lying down, > pressure on epigastric region; P. after eating; even when fasting; with heaviness, fullness and inclination to waterbrash; and in chest and sometimes in abdomen. Sudden pressive pain in pit on deep inspiration. Bruised feeling in pit, as after a violent cough. Heartburn rising from S.; scraping heartburn.

Abdomen.—Distention; during menses; after a moderate dinner; with motions and passage of offensive flatus. Protrusion here and there, like a hernia. Rumbling; as from flatus which could find no outlet; in colon, rising to beneath stomach, then passing down again, with gurgling. Fermenting; and gurgling. Motions, with ineffectual urging to stool; M. of flatus, with sensation as if something were moving, as if torn and bruised. Frequent passage of offensive flatus in forenoon; much offensive F. when walking after supper. Much trouble from flatulence (Carbo v.).

Cutting in forenoon; from morning till noon, with frequent urging to stool and tenesmus, but emission of only flatus. Partly cutting, partly sticking. Gripping after stool. G., with uneasiness. Pain as if ulcerating. Pain as before diarrhoea. Painful tension, with pain beneath ribs on touch as if suppurating. Constriction when fasting, with sensation of emptiness, though without hunger and without appetite. Heaviness like a lump, even when fasting. Qualmishness towards evening, with flushes of heat. Heat; when walking. Weakness of intestines after a stool, with pain as if they would be screwed together.

Pinching in r. side of upper when sitting, with stitches; sticking, in upper every morning, < in bed. Digging in upper, with twisting. Pressure in liver, even when lying. Pain in liver, almost like cutting, and soreness of region to touch. Boring in r. after eating. Aching in l. side. Stitching pinching above umbilicus and in pit of stomach every morning in bed, as from flatulence, > passage of flatus, of stool and of urine, though it also disappeared of itself and was less noticed when walking. Gripping in umbilical region; with feeling as if stool would follow.

Hypogastrium.—Rumbling and grumbling in r. after drinking warm milk, now in upper, now in lower part, with ineffectual effort to pass flatus. Tearing transversely across pubes and then through pudenda as far as anus. Cutting deep-seated; C. in r. flank, > walking and on deep breathing. Deep-seated pinching constriction. Pain in r. as if something would be squeezed through. Pain as if sore from coughing. Bruised pain in crest of l. ilium, < evening, with pressure, so that she must bend double, and on external pressure pain as if ulcerated.

Groins.—Sticking; at night waking her; as from flatus, with a hard stool. Feeling after sitting down as if a large heavy body were lying there, > after pressure by passage of flatus. Dragging at times, like a burning in strangury. Pressing during menses, and in small of back and in thighs, with ineffectual attempts at eructations, chilliness and yawning. Tension and contraction, preventing stretching of legs.

Rectum.—Large hæmorrhoids appear, with burning pain. Hæmorrhoids swell very much, with burning pain on walking. Cutting in hæmorrhoids during stool. Protrusion, with pain on walking, on motion and on touch. Gurgling. Burning in evening. Scratching after a stool. Frequent but ineffectual urging to stool in lower part. Pressing as for stool, but only flatus passed and the pressure returned. Much urging to stool, which is passed with difficulty; and is hard and streaked with blood.

Anus.—Boil. Oozing of sticky odorless moisture. Sticking during stool; S., with soreness. Soreness in evening, with moisture in it. Painful contraction. Drawing, extending through pudenda before stool; cutting, extending through coccyx, between stools. Burning.

Perineum.—Sticky odorless moisture, behind scrotum. Pinching-biting pain.

Stool.—After midnight. Liquid, followed by straining. Soft, preceded by dragging in pubis; S., green, preceded and accompanied by pains in abdomen; with mucus like coagulated albumen. Diarrhoea, with burning in anus, preceded by gripping in abdomen.

Hard, then a soft one, with burning in anus; H., preceded by shivering in head as if dashed with cold water; first part hard and difficult, with feeling as if there were more which the rectum could not evacuate; and crumbling, in evening, difficult as from inactivity of abdominal muscles, with oppression of breath; and scanty, in small pieces. Scanty and delayed; S. and light-colored. Frequent, preceded by pain in abdomen. Passage of blood during stool. Portion of a tape-worm passed with a hard stool.

Urinary Organs.—Pain in bladder at night. Urging to urinate after stool (urine very red), then weariness and early sleepiness without ability to sleep, after lying down immediate jumping up, ringing in ears, feeling as if she would faint and a shaking chill; urging, and after urinating voluptuous tickling in urethra; sudden desire. Urine passes on slight pressure, almost against his will. The passage is much more forcible. The stream is interrupted. Frequent micturition; at night; at night, with profuse urine. Burning in urethra while urinating; after urinating; burning sore pain in urethra while urinating (Caps.). Spasmodic pain along urethra, especially its posterior part, in morning on waking, after an emission. Urine profuse in morning after waking; P. after a night fever. Scanty U.; at night, and burning. Yellow U., with a speedy loose sediment. Turbid, orange-colored. Turbid when passed and soon depositing a turbid sediment.

Sexual Organs.—Relaxation and weak feeling. Itching. Lack of the usual morning erection. Sticking on both sides of scrotum. Desire wanting, even on provocation. Emissions at 4 p.m.; E., with voluptuous dream, without erection; frequent; frequent at night.

Tearing from pudenda into abdomen, with stool. Leucorrhœa; coloring the linen yellow; watery, when standing and walking. Menses profuse. Menses scanty the first day, more copious than usual the second, the blood dark. M. too early, preceded by headache; too early, with pain in sacrum and groins. M. shorter than usual and late. M. lasting longer than usual and flowing only in the morning.

Clinical.—Chronic metritis, with induration of the neck of the uterus. True scirrhus of the uterus; painful induration in the mammary gland, with stinging pain. Induration of r. ovary, which feels like a heavy ball. Sometimes indicated in disorders following suppression of the menses, with feeling of goneness, desire to be alone, etc. (compare Sepia). The pains in the sexual organs are generally burning or sometimes tearing, with heaviness and pressure. Sometimes indicated in syphilis, with copper-colored eruptions or with buboes, which have a blue look (Talent. cub.). Old buboes which will not heal, but which secrete an offensive ichor. Scirrhus nodule in mammary gland, skin looks bluish and mottled, axillary glands involved, with burning, drawing pains.

Respiratory Organs.—Pain as after much coughing. Tickling in trachea, > after eating, with cough. Hoarseness in morning after rising, with rawness and dry cough; H. < evening; during the day, then loss of voice at night, awoke with coldness, swelling of pit of stomach, violent cough, difficult expiration, anxious sweat and inability to get her breath.

Cough, which impedes the breath. Suffocative, in evening after going to sleep. Rough, with pain in throat as if sore. Tickling; with constriction of larynx and chest. Hacking, in evening, < in bed; from tickling in larynx. Dry, day and night; in morning on rising and nearly all day, shaking abdomen as if everything would fall out, she is obliged to hold the bowels with the hands and sit down, loose râles in chest until something is coughed up; in evening, from tickling in larynx; only at night when lying on r. side. Cough in morning from dryness of throat, > expectoration of mucus. The former dry C. becomes loose. C., with expectoration; purulent expectoration. Cough arising from a small spot in r. side of chest, with greenish, purulent expectoration. Greenish, purulent expectoration after dry cough. Thick, greenish, purulent expectoration from a vomica which formed in r. thorax. Whitish-yellow mucous expectoration.

Fear of suffocating in evening while lying with closed eyes, > sitting up and opening eyes, it prevented sleep all night, with mucus in throat. Dyspnoea after eating. Breath seems arrested in chest. Catching of breath on inspiration, with oppression of chest.

Chest.—Rattling in evening in bed, with piping. Trembling, like a crying. Stitches in side from coughing; S. in r. cavity; in r. lower, extending into axilla; under l. ribs; in upper part of l. side and sometimes in r. side; in morning, now in lower portion of l. chest, now in r. shoulder-joint, now in r. flank, < dry cough, with oppression of breathing; in lower portion of female breast, < pressure, arresting breath; below r. breast, so that she could not sit still, when sitting and writing, > after rising; in r. side on every breath, as from something sore there; (burning) in l. side, even when sitting; in sternum as with knives, < motion.

Digging-pinching in upper part, with tension. Pain in side ceases after a dry cough. Pain as if it would burst, with sore pain in it. Painful twisting in and beneath it. Anxiety in morning; A. after eating. Oppression in middle; with oppression of breathing. Compression in morning when sitting, with arrest of breathing. Constriction; in morning in bed, with suffocation, she thought she would die, with stitches in heart on speaking and sensation on moving arm as if heart and chest would be torn to pieces; with feeling as if whole chest were oppressed or over-fatigued; sudden on deep breathing. Burning, with pressive pain; B. especially r. side. Cold feeling. Speedy fatigue while eating, and of organs of mastication.

Clinical.—Pneumonia in a late stage, with ulceration of the lung, suffocating, hoarse cough, the expectoration purulent, extremely offensive (Cap.) and feeling of coldness in chest.

Heart.—Pressure almost like pinching. Palpitation in morning on waking and necessity to lie still without opening eyes and without speaking; P. in evening without anxiety; after eating; when singing in church; and every beat of the heart is felt in the head.

Neck.—Cervical glands swollen. Stiffness; of l. side. Tension. Feeling as if skin were raised in a spot.

Back.—Anxiety and uneasiness after eating. Pain on l. side nights so that she cannot lie on it. Stitches between scapulae. Sprained pain between scapulae, and in forepart of chest on moving arm. Painful tension between S., > rubbing. Sticking tension in r. S. Stitches in sacrum. Pain in sacrum during stool, with distention of abdomen extending into chest. Pain in lower part. Pain as from an ulcer under skin, on lowest end of spine, < sitting and lying.

Stitches just above loins on deep breathing; in loins, extending into thigh, with every breath; alternating S. above r. hip. Sticking-picking in region of kidneys. Pain in loins; on rising after sitting some time; in region of kidneys when walking; in loins when sitting, as before menses. Drawing pain in loins when walking, standing and lying, and feeling as if broken. Drawing across loins, < every step. Stiffness of loins. Jerks in coccyx towards bladder, compelling her to urinate. Dragging bruised pain in coccyx. Pain in coccyx, on touch it became a burning.

Clinical.—The pain in the coccyx has led to the successful employment of this drug for injuries of the coccyx and for neuralgia of the coccyx.

Extremities.—Cracking of joints. Internal trembling on going to sleep in evening, with twitching of knees, legs and feet and necessity to draw them up. Joints are easily sprained. Joints feel broken. Pinching pain here and there. Pain in joints at night; in ligaments of elbows and knees when lying. Bruised pain, < motion. Tearing-drawing pain in fingers and toes. Pain as from pressure of a finger on arms and limbs. Numb sensation, especially also in head. Heaviness; in morning; of legs and arms, with trembling. Stiffness after sitting. Frequent sensation in arms and feet as if they would go to sleep. Arm goes to sleep when resting upon it and the leg when riding it over the other; now r. arm goes to sleep in evening in bed, and now r. foot.

Upper Extremities.—Tearing in shoulder, > motion and rubbing. Shoulders are heavy and tired. Shoulders and chest seem oppressed and loaded on walking. Tearing in r. upper arm on raising arm; in middle of r. upper arm after midnight when lying on that side, preventing sleep; in r. humerus towards elbow. Burying in arms, extending down bones, > lying on arm. Drawing pain in arms and hands.

Drawing-sticking in tip of elbow, the skin is painful as if sore on slight touch, but not when grasped tightly. Burning and twinging pain in r. elbow in evening. Sticking below bend of l. elbow, extending to palm. Burning in l. forearm, sometimes extending into shoulder, with stinging, only transiently > rubbing. Boring in condyles of wrists. Sprained pain in wrist. Tensive pain in wrist on moving it.

Hand.—Tearing. Stitches in l. palm and in ball of r. hand. Drawing stitches in outer margin, where the skin is painful on slight touch as if sore, but not on pinching. Numbness of l. in morning in bed, > rising. Falling asleep daily; falling asleep during rest. Chillblains on little finger. Stitches in fingers; in tips; in tip of index like the sting of a wasp. Tearing on back of fingers and in bones, > rubbing. The middle finger-joints pain on motion. Tension in first joint of middle F. on motion. Falling asleep of F., then of whole hand.

Lower Extremities.—Tottering, as if caused by some external power. Cramp in thighs and legs at night. Stitches in l. hip when sitting; burning, here and there in thighs and loins; tearing, in middle of r. thigh, on inner side, in evening when standing. Tearing below hips from morning till evening, < forearm and when sitting; above knees, as if in bones, only transiently > rubbing; in outer side of thigh at night, > rising; in l. thigh, as if in marrow, while standing during menses, > sitting. Pinching in r. hip when walking. Boring in upper part of r. femur after a restless night, with drawing. Twitching pain in thighs. Drawing in muscles of thighs, with tearing. Weariness of thighs before and during menses.

Knee.—Cramp in r. when walking. Stitches in hollow of l. while walking; tearing and crawling, in r., that after rubbing extend into tibia, only transiently > rubbing. Tearing at night, > rising. Pain in r. when standing in evening, as if screwed together, with sensation as if leg would bend together. Sore pain on bending; sore pain in r., < walking. Painless drawing in r., which bends it up, it pains when stretched, > continued motion. Sensation in bend of r. while walking as if tendons were too short, > sitting.

Leg.—Cramp in forepart near tibia when walking; in calves mornings; in calves disturbing sleep at night; painful, after walking. Jerklike drawing in tibia. Stitches in r., when rising after kneeling, shooting through whole body. Tearing in r., especially in knee and ankle; in lower part of l. tibia and outer surface of r. leg, then in great toes. Pain in tibiae at night; in tibia while walking. Intermittent bruised pain in tibia while walking, with tension in calves. Sudden pain as if broken, in leg, on waking at night and turning it in bed, then leaden heaviness. Painless drawing up l. leg at night. Tension in calves when walking. Falling asleep of legs as far as calves during the day (Carbon. s.); r. leg, as far as toes, goes to sleep at night when lying on r. side, with feeling as if leg were longer than natural. Stiffness of ankle in morning on rising. Weakness of ankle when walking (Carbon. s.), so that it turned over.

Foot.—Corns appear, which are painful on touch (Sil.). Swelling, with tension; inflammatory S., beginning on one toe. Stinging in a corn. Stitches penetrating l. sole. Pain in heels as if suppurating. Drawing in tendon of r. heel, with tearing. Painful contraction of tendo-achillis in evening. Tension of back of foot as if tendons were too short, next day soreness to touch. Stitchlike crawling in morning, as if going to sleep. Giving out while walking, as from weakness of joints.

Toes.—Cramp during the day, while walking over an uneven path it seems as if they would give out. Swelling of ball of great T. in morning, with heat and pain as if it had been frozen and ulcerated. Tearing in r. great T. Sprained pain in last joints while walking and on every motion. Cutting-burning, especially in little T. Soreness between T.

Skin.—Red eruption on cheeks. Coppery eruption on face. Hard, itching elevations on forearm near wrist. Painful nodules in breasts. Pimples on face; red on chin, with yellowish tip; itching, on wrist, neck and on back of foot, with burning-itching after scratching; white, itching, on backs of hands, with burning and redness after scratching. Hard boil on forehead. Pustules on l. cheek and forehead. Excoriation of nates from riding, then blisters. Dryness of tip of nose, with desquamation.

Pain in face after shaving, especially on cheeks and about mouth and chin. Tension on limbs, with a feeling of burning or icy-coldness. Biting as from flea bites, changing to another place after scratching. Itching, spreading over whole body, < evening in bed; on tip of nose, not > by scratching; in r. axilla; on inner surface of r. forearm, then itching eruption there; on backs of hands and fingers; in warts on fingers; of the toes that had been frozen.

Sleep.—Sleepiness the whole forenoon, with frequent yawning; S. in evening, with photophobia. He seems as if in a slumber all day, and on account of it, indolent, hard of hearing, with obscured vision, fretful and gloomy. Unable to sleep in the evening and had generally only very light sleep. Sleeplessness at night on account of heat and restlessness; S. till 2 A.M., with excitement; after 2.30 A.M., on account of internal uneasiness; till 5 A.M., but was refreshed after two hours' sleep. Restless night; with anxiety and frequent waking. Starting on going to sleep, as if she would fall; frequent starting up on falling asleep in evening. Groaning in sleep. Loud talking in sleep. Crying in sleep at night and sobbing on waking.

Dreams vivid; and frightful; about scientific subjects, he made literary compositions and spoke aloud. D. of murders. Anxious, with screaming and crying, then sad, then voluptuous, with emissions. Fanciful and confused, so that he scarcely slept at all.

Fever.—Chilliness; during the day; he was scarcely able to get warm in the morning; in afternoon, with cold creeping and with trembling as from within outward, without thirst, then thirst, burning in skin and in eyes; from 5 till 8 P.M., with gooseflesh, waking at 11 P.M., with sweat which lasted till 2 A.M., during which she could not tolerate the bed-covering; in evening in bed, then sweat during sleep; in evening without thirst, then heat, > lying down; at 9 P.M., then after lying down heat, during which she fell asleep but was frequently awakened by thirst, sweat towards morning; febrile, woke her at night; in bed; immediately on being uncovered during febrile stage; when a little air entered the room; after dinner; internal, on beginning to eat.

Shivering in evening after stool; every other day towards evening, with thirst, then dry heat, so that she believed that fiery sparks darted before her eyes, then sweat at night; down back, which seemed to begin in chest, every afternoon. Cold limbs during the day. Cold hands and feet in evening. Cold feet; from 9 A.M. till 3 P.M.; in forenoon while walking; in evening in bed.

Easily heated. Heat at night, with thirst; H. at night, with moisture of skin; frequent rising, in evening, with redness and burning of cheeks; anxious, before menses. Hot feet. Burning of lobule of r. ear. Heat in head in evening in bed, > rising, with anxiety; of head and upper part of body at night in bed, with coldness of legs, then chilliness towards morning; in forehead in forenoon, with heaviness and external coldness of it; face and head in afternoon; in face during dinner, with sweat. Flushes of heat in cheeks, with redness. Heat in palms in morning; in hand in evening as he went into the open air and sat down; of feet while walking and swelling of them while sitting.

Sweat in morning after waking; at night; as soon as he closes the eyes; when eating; when eating warm food; when walking; when walking in open air. Offensive sweat at night. S. which colors the linen yellow. Exhausting, at night. On head at night. Much moisture in axillæ. Sweat of feet; in hollows of knees on waking after midnight, with swelling of fingers.

Carbo Vegetabilis.

The finest birch (or beech) charcoal is triturated for use.

General Action.—A tissue remedy. It seems to have a marked effect on the digestion and in a general way acts as a tonic in conditions of great prostration. It seems also to control hæmorrhages, especially in older persons.

Compare The Carbons, Lycopod., Phosph., Sepia, Sec. c.

Generalities.—A wound from a stab began to bleed again at various times. Trembling every afternoon from uneasiness and anxiety, with feeling as if he had committed a great crime, ending in violent weeping, even in the street; T. from uneasiness and anxiety, with inability to remain in any place; with prostration. Starting at night on account of noises, with shivering in back. Stitches over whole body in warmth of bed; itching, in the side on which he was lying in evening. Tearing in various places at night in bed; in various places, with drawing pain; in morning on waking, in l. shoulder, then in r. hand, then in r. upper incisors; here and there, in l. side of occiput, l. half of face, l. shoulder, l. thigh, etc., with pressure in arms and legs.

Rheumatic drawings in whole body, with coldness of hands and feet. Rheumatic pains and lameness, worse in arms and thighs. Drawing pain in most parts, especially below breast, in neck and arms. Every member of the body hurts, also the back, with headache and weakness. Anguish in all vital organs. Uneasiness; in evening; at night, with drawing pains in limbs; preventing sleep. Inability to rest in any other position than with limbs drawn up against abdomen. Disinclination for physical exertion. Indolence in morning, with weariness, trembling in all limbs and sweating easily; I. in evening, with sleepiness and indisposition. Sick and weary, as if he had just risen from a serious illness.

Weakness; in morning in bed; in morning in bed, especially in joints, > rising; in morning on rising; in morning, with trembling of limbs and feeling about stomach as after too much wine; in morning, with stretching of limbs; towards noon, with inclination to lean head against something and to rest, empty feeling in head and hunger; in evening; after breakfast; after dinner; after stool; after the pains; after a short walk in open air; > morning, with faintness; < walking, > sitting, mostly in arms when writing; sudden, when walking in open air; sudden attacks of faintlike; in forenoon, as from stupefaction; in evening, as after great loss of blood; tremulous, after stool; especially in limbs. Attacks of faintness, even to sinking down, with vertigo, then griping in abdomen as in diarrhœa, though he had an ordinary stool. Numbness of all external parts. Most symptoms appear when walking in open air.

Clinical.—Tendency to hæmorrhage in low types of disease, as in pernicious anæmia, purpura, typhoid fever, etc. Tendency to putrid decomposition. Sometimes indicated after excesses. Faints readily, especially as the result of debilitating diseases. In the collapsed stage of various diseases the patient wants to be fanned constantly, with general fetid odors, bluish appearance of the skin. Senile gangrene, humid leg; varicose ulcers burn at night, offensive discharge, purple all around. The veins are swollen and livid.

Mind.—Excitement in evening, with distended veins. Anguish, < evening. Anxiety during and after eating; after stool, with sensation of trembling and involuntary movements; during the pains, with heat; increasing in evening, with heat in face; in evening so that he could scarcely remain lying; as in fever, with coldness of hands and trembling; inexpressible, from 4 to 6 every afternoon; trembling, in morning on waking; as if oppressed; in evening after lying down, as from oppression of chest, with heat in head and hands, sweat on forehead, inability to remain in bed on account of a sensation as if the heart would be pressed downward, objects seem to become constantly narrower and smaller, and when the room was dark horrible visions. Discouragement and fear. Weeping mood; with desire to shoot himself; lachrymose, afraid of everything, and he seemed to despair. Unhappiness with every little pain.

Violent mood; in forenoon. Irritability; after eating; with mental exhaustion; with hurry in business; with confusion of head. Anger; in involuntary outbreaks. Impatience; with desperation and desire to shoot himself. Indifference; to music, of which he is fond. Cried easily over sad events and laughed over trifles till tears came. Easily excited to foolish mirth, and, when laughing, muscles of arms and hands became relaxed. Immoderately jovial, but easily put out of humor.

Ideas flow slowly, they constantly turn about one object, with sensation as if head were bound; ideas slow, confused, with periodical loss of memory. Disinclination to think. Peculiar mental weakness, with confusion. Periodic want of memory; sudden loss of memory.

Head.—Stitches through H. when coughing; S. in evening in bed, extending into occiput; here and there, extending into H., with general painfulness of surface of brain. Tearing in frequent attacks, extending to r. temple; T., sometimes starting from limbs and ending in head. Aching; at night; after eating; from sudden change from warmth to cold; with heaviness in forehead; and on stooping it seems to press outward in occiput and forehead. Throbbing headache; during respiration, and in teeth; in afternoon; in evening in bed, with difficult breathing. Headache in attacks, in several places, associated with flatulence. Jerking-aching. Paroxysmal aching, with drawing. Drawing aching here and there, especially in forehead, extending to above root of nose; here and there externally. Pain as if too full. Contracting pain; < motion; headache which contracts the eyes, during menses. Pain as in beginning of coryza. Burning pain, evenings in bed, especially on vertex, and extending to forehead.

The hat pressed upon the head like a heavy weight, and the sensation continued even after taking it off, as if the head were bound up with a cloth (Phos. in part).

Heaviness; leaden. Tension in brain, more like a confusion than a pain; spasmodic tension of brain. Confusion; in morning after rising, > lying down, with inability to think easily and necessity to make a great exertion as if rousing him from a dream; after midday nap; in evening after walking; after dinner; with pressure in forehead; which makes thought difficult.

Buzzing, as from bees. Noise from reading. Rush of blood; with hot forehead and confusion of head. Sensation as of rush of blood several times on waking in night, with bristling of hair, anxiety, shivering, sensation as if some one stroked the body, a kind of fornication on every movement, and such acute hearing that the slightest noises re-echoed in ears. Pulsation as if he would have apoplexy, waking several times at night, with anxiety, soon after waking he came to his senses and felt that it was an illusion, for the pulsation had disappeared, as he looked for further development of this symptom while in a state of slumber the limbs and knees were drawn involuntarily upward and the back was bent, and he felt that if he had longer postponed waking he would have fainted.

Vertigo; in forenoon, with nausea, obscuration of vision, ringing in ears, trembling, general sweat, which stood in drops on forehead, the attack preceded by nosebleed; in evening after sleeping while sitting, with trembling and faintness on rising from the seat, which continued after lying down; on slightest motion; on slightest motion of head; when walking or sitting; in bed after waking; on stooping, on turning in bed and on gargling; with staggering; so that he was obliged to hold on to something; when stooping, as if head reeled to and fro; when sitting, as if head reeled to and fro. Sickening, on looking out of the window, with falling down unconscious, on recovering consciousness it seemed as if he could scarcely rouse himself from a deep sleep, after waking nausea, which obliged him to lie down and returned on rising, afterwards he was lachrymose and despondent.

Forehead.—Stitches above r. eye; above r. external canthus. Tearing in spot near temples. Boring. Aching, especially over eyes, in afternoon, with soreness of eyes on motion; A. over eyes, extending into them; in a spot formerly wounded, in r. side; pulsating, after eating, with pressure in occiput, heat in head and eruptions; oppressive, above eyes, with nausea; intermittent. Drawing through head above r. eye. Tearing-drawing in upper anterior part of head.

Temples.—Tearing, extending to back teeth; T. over l. Boring beneath l. Pressure outward in l. Pain in both and on vertex; in l.; in l., afterwards extended over top and sides of head and was almost unbearable. Throbbing after long, deep sleep in afternoon, with fullness of brain. Tension and pressure in T. and forehead, with inability to hold the lids open.

Vertex.—Stitches; from reading; extending to temples. Paroxysmal tearing, and in temples. Pain in morning in bed, with painfulness of hair to touch; P. every afternoon; then drawing about whole head, though more pain on l. side; with soreness of hair to touch; as if something were lying on it, or as if integuments of head were too tight, extending to forehead.

Parietals.—Tearing in l. half of head; with drawing in l. arm. Deep-seated, intermittent tearing stitches in one side of brain, as if a nail were driven into it. Pinching above and behind l. ear, with cutting. (Pain in r. side when shaking head); in whole r. side of head and face, with chill, coldness and trembling of body and jaws; biting, in r. half, on which he lay, and in occiput, like the sensation in the nose from a suppressed sneeze, in morning on waking, > raising head and disappearing on rising.

Occiput.—Crackling while sitting. Burning-sticking in spot on. Tearing in r. side; T. in a spot, extending through the head. Pinching. Aching; at night, with boring in forehead, sweat, pale face, cold, trembling hands and nausea; < after supper; in and on lower part; in upper part of r. side, with pressure in eyes. Headache first in neck, then in forehead, then lachrymation, with closure of lids. Intermittent aching; throbbing A., as if suppurating, from morning till evening; short drawing, in r. Drawing in l. side, with tearing; D. affecting whole head. Confusion like a tension from within; C. as after intoxication. Vertigo as after intoxication, spreading forward, < evening, and involving whole head, < walking.

Tearing in skull. Hair falls out. Ulcer on fontanelle exuded a corrosive moisture. Tearing in an old scar on vertex. Headache as from contraction of scalp; < after supper. Crawling as if the hair moved.

Clinical.—Falling of hair, especially after pregnancy (Sepia).

Eyes.—Swelling of l. Inflammation of r. Stitches. Tearing pressure on l. Pain as if it would be torn out, with headache. Aching in l.; A. in evening after lying down; with confusion of head; as from sand in r., with sore feeling in canthi; as from sand, with sore pain, especially in canthi; with biting in r. eye. A heavy weight seemed to lie upon E., so that he must make a great exertion when reading and writing to distinguish letters. Burning. Itching in r.; with great dryness of lid; of l., with biting in it after rubbing, especially in internal canthus; with smarting and burning; biting, especially in r. external canthus. Lachrymation, with biting in r. eye. Pressure downward in r. ball.

Lids.—Twitching; of l. Trembling of upper. Inability to open at night, even when unable to sleep. Agglutination in morning; l. seemed agglutinated, but were not. Pressure in upper, on motion in open air, and in upper half of balls; biting, in r. external canthus. Drawing in r. Itching on margins; in l. internal canthus. Biting, with redness of margins; B. in l. canthus.

Muscles painful when looking up. Shortsighted; after exerting eyes. Vision of black floating spots (Lyc.). Flickering in morning on rising. Vision of rings surrounding a brighter field.

Clinical.—Astenopia from overwork, floating black spots.

Ears.—Discharge of thick flesh-colored, offensive moisture from r. A thick brown substance comes out of r. Stitches extending inward in l. meatus. Tearing in r.; in fossa behind r. Tearing jerks in r. external meatus, or stitches. Twinges in l.; in r. in evening; coming out of both. Pinching in l. Tearing-burning pain in lobule of l. Something heavy seems to lie in front of them; and they seemed stopped, but without diminution of hearing.

Pulsations. Itching, with inclination to relieve it by swallowing; drawing, after boring in with finger. Sensitiveness to loud talking. Roaring. Ringing; in l. in afternoon; in l., with whirling vertigo; with humming and pressure. Humming before E. Chirping as of crickets. Crackling as of straw, on every motion of jaws during breakfast. Illusions of hearing, he thought he heard some one step up to his bed, and he woke with anxiety.

Clitoral.—Offensive otorrhea. Usually in mal-secretion of cerumen, with exfoliation of epidermoid cells. Deafness after exanthematous diseases.

Nose.—Trembling in skin and muscles of r. side of root. Tearing in l. half, extending to l. half of head. Drawing in root. Pressing in root and bones, as in severe coryza. Sensation in root as of commencing coryza. Heaviness. Crawling internally; in l. side in evening. Itching internally, with increased moisture. Sneezing; with stitches in abdomen; with burning over a large part of r. side of abdomen; with lachrymation of l. eye, then biting in inner canthus; then biting pain when blowing nose; continual, at night. Frequent sneezing; at night in bed, with crawling and tickling in nose and catarrhal roughness in it and in upper part of chest; without coryza. Violent sneezing, then biting pain above and in nose, with lachrymation, outbreak of violent coryza, also same pain on blowing nose. Ineffectual attempts to sneeze; with crawling in l. nostril, which became moist, and after blowing nose the r. nostril was stopped, with catarrhal crawling and biting in l. side of palate.

Stoppage of l. nostril; after sneezing. Catarrhal irritation on waking nights and mornings, > during the day, except occasional sneezing. Coryza; with hoarseness and rawness in chest; so that he could scarcely speak aloud; dry; dry, with scraping in throat; fluent; fluent, every evening; fluent, with sneezing. Increased moisture preceded by stoppage. Watery discharge. Discharge of mucus, with crawling in l. nostril, then sneezing, lachrymation of r. eye and coryza; D. of green mucus. Bleeding several times daily, preceded and accompanied by pallor of face (Phos., Sec. e.); B. morning in bed, then pain in chest; every forenoon; at night, with orgasm of blood; that could scarcely be stopped.

Clitoral.—Recurring nosebleed in persons who have been overtaxed with anxiety, especially in elderly people. Varicose veins on nose.

Face.—Pale (Sec. c., Sep.). Grayish-yellow. Swollen cheeks; about chin. Tearing stitches in r. cheek. Tearing; in l. cheek; drawing, in bones; jerklie, in l. zygoma, in front of ear, evening in bed. Intermittent boring-burning pain in l. cheek. Twitching pain in several parts. Twitching-drawing pain in cheeks and in jaw. Drawing pain in cheeks.

Lips.—Swelling; of upper, and of cheek, with jerking pain; dry and cracked. Ulceration of r. corner. Burning pustules below red portion of upper. Painful eruption on upper, the red portion is full of pimples. Itching tetter in l. corner. Twitching in upper.

Tearing in l. corner, extending to cheeks. Drawing from r. corner to chin.

Jaws.—Tearing-jerking in l. lower. Jerklie tearing in upper r. side. Soreness of bones. Drawing pain on both sides, with drawing and confusion in head. Cramplike pain in lower.

Mouth.—Teeth. Bleeding when cleaned; and of gums, when sucking them with the tongue. Sticking, then in abdomen; tickling, in first upper l. back, with drawing. Drawing tearing in all molars. Drawing and tearing pain, with chronic looseness and with soreness of gums. Pinching in r. lower back. Drawing-jerking in a hollow back tooth. Sudden throbbing while eating. Aching at root; in anterior incisors; in l. upper back; with dry lips; as from acids, especially in gum, as often as she ate anything salt. Gnawing and drawing pain in a hollow tooth, with swelling of gum. Drawing pain; in upper incisor; in hollow T.; in hollow molars; intermittent; in r. molars, with jerking; biting, in incisors, more in gum. Sore pain in first l. upper back, with drawing. T. seem to protrude, with ulcerative pain when touched by the tongue and when eating.

Gums.—Swollen about a hollow tooth. Pustule. Bleeding (Lyc.) after sucking. When sucking the gum pure blood flows into mouth, at the same hour several forenoons. Retracted from lower incisors (Sep.); from incisors. Loosened from teeth, and sensitive. Sensitive when chewing (Sep.). Sore pain during the day. Drawing pain. Heat.

Tongue.—Coated white. Yellowish-brown mucous coat. Fissure, with vesicles around edges, that smart as if burned. Stitches. Tearing in r. side. Cramplike pain on l. side of root. Sensitiveness, with rawness. Soreness; of r. side, with sticking. Heat of tip, with dryness. Heaviness and stiffness, so that speech was difficult.

Blister in upper part of palate. Mouth filled with mucus by eructations always only a few hours after dinner. Bitter mucus in morning. Aching on posterior part of palate. Heat, with rawness and dryness of tip of tongue; H., especially in upper lip. Sensation in M. and tongue as after drinking wine freely in the evening. Dryness in morning; in morning on waking; without thirst. Salivation. Breath offensive. Breath cold, with coldness in throat, mouth and teeth.

Taste bitter; before and after eating; B., with eructations; B. on palate, with dryness of tongue. Salt. Sour after eating. Flat, watery, offensive.

Clitoral.—Spongy condition of gums, which retract and bleed easily, with tendency to nosebleed, fainting fits. Teeth decay rapidly, gums retracted. Tongue dry and black in late stage of typhoid fever. Tongue cold in the collapse of cholera, yellow, fissured, with cold breath. Offensive odor from mouth in persons who are debilitated, or during fevers.

Throat.—Swelling of parotid gland as far as angle of jaw. Inflammation, with stitches and sensation as if something were sticking in it; I. of uvula, with swelling and with sticking in throat. Much hawking of mucus. Much tenacious mucus, which he must raise; M. of unpleasant taste and odor; much M. constantly passes from posterior nares.

Tearing in muscles; in back part and in l. side of root of tongue. Aching; in r. muscles; when coughing; just behind palate; extending into stomach, with fullness, almost like heartburn. Sore pain on swallowing, coughing or blowing nose, and in posterior nares; sore, when eating. Sore, as from swelling on palate, with painful swallowing. Roughness in back part. Scraping; evening and morning, provoking dry cough; transiently > by hawking, with crawling; with rawness; with cough, which causes lachrymation, especially of l. eye.

Contracted sensation; deep-seated; sensation of constriction and internal swelling. Burning in upper part; in back part, as in coryza. Frequent sensation in forenoon as if something hot and sharp rose. Coldness low down. Dryness, and in posterior nares; D. when swallowing. Biting posteriorly, more acid than in beginning of coryza; frequent B. and burning, and in palate. Crawling, transiently > hawking, with salivation. Swallowing difficult; of food, throat seems constricted with spasms, but painless; painless impediment when swallowing, the saliva was swallowed only gradually.

Stomach.—Longing for sweet and salt things. Hunger, with aversion to the usually agreeable food. Aversion to meat, with loss of appetite; A. to fat meat; to milk, which makes her flatulent; to butter. Loss of appetite; morning and evening; with coated tongue and weariness; with eructations and confusion of head; with weakness of muscles of limbs; for coffee. Soon full and satisfied at a moderate breakfast. Little appetite towards noon, with nausea; L. at noon, with cutting in abdomen; with no taste, as in catarrh; with heat in mouth and rawness and dryness on tip of tongue; with aching in pit of stomach and emptiness in stomach.

Eructations (Phos.); after eating and drinking; < afternoon; violent, almost constant. Empty, < afternoon (Lyc.); after soup and every time after drinking; and accompanied, especially in afternoon, with flatulence. Sweet. Bitter scraping. Sour in open air, towards evening; after milk; with burning in stomach; sour, bitter. Waterbrash. Hiccough after a moderate dinner; H. < every motion; inclination to H. from slightest cause; painful, after eating.

Nausea; in morning; every day from 10 to 11 A.M.; at night; caused by every meal; with every meal, after eating, with pressure in stomach, then dragging-down pain about umbilicus; even when fasting, < eating, with loss of appetite, anxiety, vertigo, obscurata before eyes, white tongue and necessity to lie down towards evening, without sleepiness; with trembling feeling; without vomiting; without appetite and without stool; even to retching, before dinner; in attacks.

Cramp, with incessant acid eructations; C. in a nursing woman, with cardialgia; contractive, at night, extending into chest, with distention of abdomen, paroxysmal, arresting breath, obliging her to bend double, < lying. Gripping in pit, as from flatulence. Gnawing in morning, fasting. Clawing, extending to throat, like heartburn. Pain beneath pit; in pit in evening, with sensitiveness to touch, nausea and aversion, even at thought of eating; in pit and in upper abdomen, as if in stomach, after 7 P.M.; beneath S. at night, with uneasy sleep and anxious dreams; when standing and walking, with feeling as if heavy and hanging down; after rumbling in abdomen; in region, > emission of flatus, with rumbling; which rises into head and destroys her senses; as from something sore, < touch; anxious, in pit. The simplest food distresses.*

Contractive sensation beneath S.; beneath pit, < pressure of finger; near pit on r. side, morning and afternoon. Tension above S., extending from ribs, with pressure; T. and fulness. Oppression and fulness (Lyc.). Fulness after a moderate breakfast, with eructations and general heaviness, writing is slow and difficult. Hard sensation, as if something were there that ought not to be, > sour, bitter eructations. On stooping it seems as if sausages were lying on sides near S. Heaviness, with trembling sensation in it. Sensitiveness of epigastric region (Phos.). Feeling of goneness (Sep.). Acidity when lying on back and when walking. Burning; with acidity constantly rising into mouth. Throbbing in pit.

Clinical.—Flatulent dyspepsia, with sour eructations, stomach is swollen like a drum, the distress comes on half an hour or an hour after eating; every sort of food disagrees, the stomach seems to be suffering from inertia, is unable to digest the simplest article. Acid dyspepsia, with heartburn, coldness of the surface of the body, feeble pulse, etc. Gastralgia of nursing women, with excessive flatulence, sour and rancid belching, vomiting of food. The sensitiveness in the stomach or burning sometimes extends into the small of the back (Bismuth), with excessive distention by gas.

Abdomen.—Distention after dinner; after eating a little, with rumbling; by flatus in afternoon; like an induration, after stool. Rumbling; with griping; moving about slowly. Incessant noise, without urging to stool. Motions; with frequent passage of loud or noiseless or moist flatus; with stitches here and there, especially in l. side, towards ribs. Fermentation, then diarrhoeic stool, with offensive flatus. Flatulence and distention from things which usually digested easily; F. in afternoon, with rumbling and loud movings; sudden, in afternoon, which passes without difficulty. Offensive flatus; and at last moist flatus, with dragging towards sacrum and thence towards abdomen. Much odorless flatus; in morning on waking.

Pinching-sticking extending upward. Pinching, < r. side. Cutting; in evening; C. shooting through A. like lightning. Dragging or griping after stool. Gripping almost only in afternoon and evening, > emission of flatus; G. during and after eating; when sitting bent; with natural stool; then empty eructations; in various places.

Pain before stool; during diminished flow of menses, with bruised pain in back and all bones; > passage of hot flatus, with urging to stool; > passage of moist, warm, odorless flatus, with rumbling; in a small spot; obliging her to hold it with the hands; drawing across A. before stool; paralytic drawing, extending into l. leg; as after taking cold, < before emission of flatus and continues after it; as from lifting or a sprain, as soon as she lies on side, especially in l. side of A.; as from lifting a heavy weight, on touch and when slightly raising arm to work with the hand; bruised, in muscles; extending to small of back and bladder, almost as after rhubarb, after a stool; flatulent, with passage of odorless flatus; cramplike, from morning till evening, before menses.

Feeling as if it would burst if he eats or drinks. Tension; in afternoon from accumulated flatus, but it passed copiously and easily. Tensive and pressive pain over nearly whole A., with uneasiness and weeping, as from despair. Pain over whole A. as far as pubes as if muscular fibres were tense or hardened, causing anxiety. Constrictive sensation. Anxiety. Fulness as if overloaded, with eructations. Heaviness; sensa- tion as if it hung down heavily, obliging her to walk bent. Emptiness after stool, < walking. Burning.

Upper.—Accumulation of flatus in l., more towards back, with pinching; here and there, under short ribs, in hypogastrium, causing pinching and pressure, and gradually passing into rectum, with heat. Sticking in region of liver. Tearing in liver, causing cries; sticking T. in hypochondria, starting from a point just below pit of stomach and extending to both sides. Pinching. Pain in r. hypochondrium; in l. H.; in hypochondria on touch; P. beneath short ribs after breakfast; in liver region on touch; in liver when walking in open air. Bruised pain in liver; in hypochondria. Drawing pain beneath l. ribs. Tensive and pressive pain in r. upper A., extending across stomach. Tension in liver region as if it were too short there, on waking from midday nap. Hypochondrium oppressed by clothing, which was unendurable. Feeling of a band around waist, > 8 o'clock, with discharge of offensive flatus.

Umbilical Region.—Rumbling. Gripping about, after a little harmless food, > eructations or passage of wind; G. about extending into stomach, < standing erect, preventing sleep at night, with chilliness and diarrhoea, the last < night. Pain; sore, in a spot below umbilicus; intermittent burning, in skin. Burning.

Sides.—Sticking in l. side of A. and chest, < breathing. Pinching on l. side of spine while sitting bent. Pain in l.

Hypogastrium.—Gurgling in l. Deep-seated movements. Deep-seated crawling creeping-sticking. Pinching stitches in l. after a hard scanty stool, with ineffectual urging to stool like a pressure upon rectum. Tearing stitches, extending to umbilicus. Tearing near l. hip, extending to back. Cutting during menses. Pinching; deep in r., extending towards hips; labor-like colic, which pressed upon sacrum (and bladder) on waking at 3 A.M. from uneasy sleep and anxious dreams, with rumbling in abdomen. Gripping in l., with stitches; G. in r. inguinal region. Pain; in r. inguinal region; with cramp; sore, externally, even on touch; drawing, extending into small of back, before menses.

Clinical.—Colic, < riding in the cars or carriage, > emission of flatus.

Rectum.—Stitches during stool. Pinching when not at stool. Gnawing when not at stool. Crawling and complaints of ascarides. Tenesmus. Urging to stool after breakfast, which though not hard is difficult; U. > by loud emission of flatus; with burning in anus and emission of flatus; to stool which is scanty and difficult; sudden, as from fulness in rectum. Ineffectual urging; only wind passes, with pressure in rectum; from a sensation in abdomen and small of back; I. U., with crawling in anus, intermittent pressure in bladder towards small of back, like hæmorrhoidal colic, labor-like pain in hypogastrium, in front and back, burning in anus, and sensation as in diarrhoea, pains > a scanty, soft, difficult stool.

Anus.—Swollen, painful hemorrhoids; tickling itching in H. Passage of ascarides. Bleeding during stool (Sulp.); B., with tearing in rectum. Glutinous musty exudation at night. Acrid, corrosive moisture; moisture, with tenesmus when urinating. Passage of mucus, with urging; mucus precedes the stool, followed by hard, then soft fæces, with cutting colic. Stitches towards A.;

S. in evening. Cutting during stool; during hard stool. Aching. Soreness. Rush of blood. Burning after stool; during stool, which consists of small, hard fecal masses; with sticking; with dryness; in r. side. Biting. Itching, < scratching, then burning; morning, in bed; also on waking from a long sleep.

Perineum.—Soreness, with painful itching when touched; S. at night, with itching and moisture. Stitches near anus.

Stool.—Diarrhoea; with urging. Pasty, with burning in rectum. Hard; and rare; and delayed, difficult. Enveloped by filamentous yellowish mucus, this mucus is entirely bloody in last portions of fæces. The child cries aloud every six or seven minutes, while bloody mucus passes instead of stool. Much mucus, with S. Discharge of blood with every S. Acrid, with coated tongue. Tenacious, scanty, not cohering properly, with inactivity of rectum. Frequent. Delayed, with rumbling. Omitted one day, two stools next day. Constipation; but with soft stool.

Clinical.—Diarrhoea, brown, yellow or slimy, of a putrid odor, often involuntary. The diarrhoea is generally the accompaniment of low types of fever, associated with tendency to coldness in the extremities, cold tongue, lips, etc., tendency to collapse, desire to be fanned, pulse weak, voice lost.

Urinary Organs.—Aching in bladder; during micturition. Urging to urinate waking in morning; nearly every hour; frequent, though urine passes slowly; with copious pale urine; with copious pale urine and with constipation. Frequent micturition at night.

Urethra.—Tearing in morning after urinating, with drawing; T. when urinating, the last drops consist of mucus and are painful to pass. Pinching. Contraction every morning. Burning when urinating; with twinging. Urine copious; after drinking a little; scanty; U. diminished, with frequent urging. Red U., as if mixed with blood; dark red, with roughness of throat; reddish, turbid. Dark U. Offensive. Thick, milky, at close of micturition. Deposit of gravel. Red sediment (Lyc.).

Clinical.—Suppression of urine in cholera. Hematuria (Tereb.).

Sexual Organs.—Contraction. Vesicle on inner side of prepuce, with itching soreness. Itching of prepuce, with soreness. Constant erections at night, without voluptuous sensations or fancies; frequent E.; every hour on waking. Swelling of scrotum, with hardness. Crawling in testicles and on scrotum. Desire increased; lost in morning. Discharge of prostatic fluid when straining at stool. Emissions without dreams; too soon on coition, then roaring of blood in head; frequent, without much sensation; excessive, which painfully shake the nerves, then burning in forepart of urethra, with cutting and burning when urinating and renewed on pressure.

Pudenda.—Aphthæ. Red sore places, looking like ulcers, with itching and leucorrhœa. Sticking when urinating. Soreness during leucorrhœa, with rawness; S. towards forepart in evening. Smarting pain, with leucorrhœa for two days, then appearance of menses which had been suppressed for many months, menses black, then leucorrhœa. Burning; with redness. Itching, and in anus; on urinating.

Bloody mucus from vagina. White mucus from vagina. Leucorrhœa after urinating; milky, excoriating L.; copious, thin, only in morning on rising; thick, yellowish-white; greenish. Menses too thick and of strong odor; M. too soon; too late, causing biting and soreness; M. delayed or very slight for three or four days, then unusual pain and profuse flow, next time they lasted a shorter time than usual.

Clinical.—Useful in the effects of sexual excesses (China). Varicose veins in female sexual organs, with hemorrhages. Menorrhagia, passive flow. Menstruation too early, profuse, thick, corrosive, offensive, preceded by violent itching. Corrosive leucorrhœa.

Respiratory Organs.—Larynx. Roughness, with deep rough voice which failed if he exerted it, but without pain in throat (Phos., Mangan.). Rawness in evening from frequent clearing of throat, with soreness. Pain as if ulcerated when coughing, and in region of thyroid cartilage. Crawling, with itching and with whistling when breathing, and in evening after lying down tightness of chest and dry cough. Hoarseness in evening; H., with roughness, so that speaking aloud was difficult (Phos.); with distortion of eyes (as if something were sticking in them) when he wished to speak, and lachrymation, then redness of cheeks, pain on swallowing, loud breathing in sleep, cough, vomiting of milk, obstinacy and frequent screaming; sudden, in evening when walking in open air, with dyspnoea. Voice rough, as if constricted or fatigued by speaking. Voice almost lost in morning.

Trachea.—Dryness, not > hawking. Pressure on inspiration. Crawling in upper part as if something were tightly seated there, provoking cough.

Cough after the slightest cold, in morning on rising, or if she goes from a warm room into a cold one; in evening in bed; in evening on going to sleep and in morning after rising, from itching in larynx, with tenacious salt expectoration; in evening, causing vomiting and retching; as soon as he has eaten sufficiently; from irritation in upper part of chest, with roughness and scraping in throat; with yellowish purulent expectoration and sticking in l. hypochondrium on breathing, then stitches in upper part of l. chest. Spasmodic cough; in evening (from walking too rapidly); at night; from irritation and crawling in throat, the C. causing pain in chest as if pressed in; repeated at the same hour on the third day. Cough partly voluntary, rough, from roughness and crawling in throat. Hacking C., causing expectoration of mucus from larynx. Short C. in evening. Fatiguing C., with dyspnoea and burning in chest. Tickling C. in morning after waking, with whitish expectoration. Rough, dry C. Dry C. in evening after every expiration, causing warmth and sweat. Irritation to C. frequently returning, in back of throat, with short C.; I. to cough in evening, with chilliness and drawing in cheeks; as from sulphur fumes, with retching. Expectoration of pieces of green mucus.

Breath stopped; immediately on falling asleep, with increased vertigo. Gets out of breath on turning over in bed. Dyspnoea, < towards evening, with fulness of chest, and palpitation on slightest motion; D. in evening when lying, with throbbing in head; from oppression of chest; < sitting; obliging her to walk slowly. Short breath, with anxiety on chest and necessity to walk about. Desire to breathe deeply, with moaning. He was obliged to fetch a deep breath, with exertion of chest, abdomen, back, neck and head, with lifting of the feet.

Clinical.—Aphonia from relaxation of vocal cords. Chronic laryngeal catarrh, with rawness and soreness in larynx, particularly in old people. Has been prescribed in the last stage of membranous croup. Chronic bronchial catarrh of old people, burning in the chest, choking when coughing, > heat. Cough, generally spasmodic, suffocative. Asthma, particularly in old people who are debilitated, with flatulence, etc., especially with blue color in the skin. Hemorrhage from the lungs, with burning pain in chest, oppression, desire to be fanned all the time, cold skin. Sometimes useful in a late stage of pneumonia, with excessive dyspnoea and tendency to collapse.

Chest.—Stitches beneath l. breast; preventing sleep and walking, they continue while sitting; in l. side, extending into short ribs; in r. side of C. and abdomen, < inspiration; deep in r., during deep breathing; beneath l. ribs in morning in bed, extending into abdomen, pit of stomach and chest, with pressure upon larynx, < by breathing, renewed by pressure upon abdomen; on going to sleep, impeding respiration; outward like shocks deep in r. lower part; constrictive, below l. breast, impeding respiration.

Tearing in r.; oppressive, in l.; in morning in bed, extending into back, arms and l. ear, with internal heat, especially in head. Pinching in a spot, caused by flatus. Pressure on l. Pain on expanding it; P. in r.; in l., then r., < expiration; in upper, with rough cough; in r. upper, extending to r. scapula; externally on l. breast when touched, like a pressure and tension; in a spot on sternum, above pit of stomach, as if caused by stooping or touch; as from incarcerated flatus.

Rheumatic pain in r. short ribs; extending from l. ribs into hip; drawing, in r. short ribs. Painful drawing in C. (shoulder and arms), < l. side, with hot sensation and rush of blood to head and coldness of skin to touch. If the tearing-drawing, burning pains attack the external chest they are accompanied by oppression of breathing. Pain when coughing as if flesh were raw. Lungs and throat feel scraped. Roughness, with frequent irritation to cough. Oppression; on waking, with weakness of it; after disappearance of coryza, with wheezing and rattling, inability to remain in bed on account of want of air and the cough, which caused vomiting and was difficult to loosen; > eructations; of lungs and heart; with short breath, as from flatus pressing upward; spasmodic O. and contraction; as if coming from abdomen, and caused by flatulence.

Compression in morning after rising, and in shoulders. Tightness in morning after rising, like a catarrh, with hard cough, which caused shooting through head. Constriction in attacks, with impeded respiration; hot C., causing dyspnoea, and short dry cough. Burning, as from glowing coals; B. in l. chest and in r. side near pit of stomach. Rush of blood in morning on waking, with coated tongue; R., with burning in it; warm, with anxiety caused by flatus in abdomen; it seemed as if blood were rushing to it, with chilliness within the body. Pulsation, with uneasiness and anxiety. Weariness; on waking. Itching internally.

Heart and Pulse.—Sticking in precordial region; ending with rumbling in l. side like the escape of flatus. Pain in precordial region, burning rather than sticking. Palpitation; in evening on going to sleep, with intermittent pulse; after eating; < sitting; with rapid beats. Pulse weak; P. rapid. Throbbing in all pulses if she spoke in the presence of others, with puffiness and bluish-redness of the usually pale face.

Clinical.—Useful in weak heart from fatty degeneration with cold sweat, tendency to hemorrhages.

Neck.—Cervical glands swollen, especially posterior ones, near nape. Paroxysmal shaking and trembling of neck and head. Tearing in muscles; l. muscles; in l. muscles, < motion. Pain in muscles; drawing, in nape, extending to head, with nausea and rush of water from mouth; burning, in muscles; tensive, in vertebræ. Stiffness, and of spine.

Back.—Twitches in muscles of l. side. Pinchings near spine. Bruised pain in side. Drawing pain, < sitting; D. pain evening. Rheumatic drawing, < stooping. Drawing only when sitting, and in feet. Weakness. Heaviness, with oppression of chest; H. at night as if weary, and in limbs. Stiffness in morning on rising. Sticking between scapulae at night, arresting breathing. Tearing in l. scapula on bending arm back. Rheumatic sensation in l. scapula when writing; R. pain in upper part of l. S. after the usual bath.

Loins.—Tearing; near sacrum; which sometimes extends to hips. Pinching near lowest part of spine. Pain near lowest part of back; above r. loin, arresting breath; as from a plug, with inability to sit and necessity to put a pillow under it; tensive, with stiffness. Drawing pain, extending into coccyx; D. pain, and in abdomen and l. side of back, causing l. side to be bent over. Sore pain beneath coccyx. Hot stitch extending from coccyx through rectum and anus.

Extremities.—Twitching of arms and legs evenings, preventing sleep. Drawing pains; in hands and feet. Drawing and tearing pains, then burning pain. Bruised feeling; in joints in morning after waking, > stretching limbs and rising. Tension in knees and l. hand, as if overworked. Uneasiness in evening in bed, with necessity to stretch them frequently. Heaviness and stiffness on rising after long sitting. > walking; H. of l. arm and leg, as if paralyzed. Going to sleep; of that on which he lies.

Upper Extremities.—Drawing pain beneath r. axilla, < motion. Shoulder, stitches in r.; tearing in joint; T. in r. joint, < motion, with drawings in humerus; frequent paralytic T. in r. joint; burning pain on r. S.; drawings in joints; drawing pain in l. joint; rheumatic drawings in r. S.; paralytic weakness of r. S. and r. arm.

Arm.—Cramp. Bruised pain in r. Drawing pain when lying on it at night. Drawing in r. Heaviness, with drawings in back; H. on motion, and exhaustion; A. and hands go to sleep, < night. Upper A., tearing in r., < motion; T. in l.; paroxysmal T. in l.; drawing pain, with burning; drawing pain from above downward in r.; drawing on inner side of l.; heaviness.

Bruised pain in elbows in morning in bed. Tearing in r. forearm; drawing, from l. elbow to hand; drawing, in upper side of l., near elbow, with pain on pressure upon bone; drawing, in l. radius; drawing pain extending down ulna towards wrist; drawing extending down F. to fingers, < motion, with tearing. Wrist, stitches, extending into ball of thumb; tearing in r. or l.; W. feel too short, numb and go sleep; sensation in l. on certain motions as if tendons were too short; drawing pain; drawings in W., elbow and shoulder-joints in morning, < wind, > motion; paralytic pain in W. on motion.

Hand.—Spasmodic contraction. Stitches in evening, then second and third fingers were drawn spasmodically across each other and caused the others to stand far apart. Tearing in inner part of l., extending into base of little finger. Pain in back; throbbing, in metacarpal bone of middle finger; bruised, in back of l.; sprained, in r. H. and wrist. Drawings in r. metacarpal bones. Weak sensation, < when writing. He could write only slowly and with difficulty. Inclination to numbness. Going to sleep; sensation as if they would go to sleep in morning on washing.

Fingers.—Swelling of ungual phalanx of l. middle, with drawing pain in it. Stitches when rising from a seat; in ungual phalanx of fourth; in metacarpal joint of l. middle; sudden deep, in first joint of r. middle; tearing, in middle joint. Tearing in l.; in r.; in evening; in two r. middle; in tip and beneath nail of l. fourth; in r. little, < motion; in joints of two last; in middle joint of r. index; in last joint of l. index; under thumb-nail; in thumb, as if in bone; burning, in tip of r. thumb. Boring in metacarpal joints of middle, and of thumb; in middle joint of l. index when at rest, but stitches on motion or bending. Slow throbbing pain in ungual phalanx of thumb. Gouty pain in last joint of thumb. Drawing in r. index, extending towards tip. Pulsation on back of thumb. Paralysis of r. when grasping anything, with weakness of them.

Lower Extremities.—Tearing in upper and lower leg. Legs pain, especially lower legs, when sitting or lying, so that he did not know where to rest them. Drawing in evening in bed; in legs, especially in lower legs. Weariness and paralytic sensation. Joints seem unable to sustain the body.

Thigh.—Twitches on posterior part of l. in morning in bed. Stitches in upper part; down through T. when walking. Tearing frequently in middle; in r. hip; frequently near l. hip, extending to back and sacrum; paroxysmal, in hips; down r. thigh through leg. Cramplike pain in outer lower part of l. when walking, < raising thigh and ascending steps, with pain on touch. Drawing pain in hip-joints, extending down thighs, < when walking. Contractive pain when walking, extending to knee, so that she has to bend the knee inward. Rheumatic drawing in l., evening in bed, > lying upon it. Tension above knees in morning on rising; in hip-joints and knees in morning on waking; and drawing as if paralyzed or sprained. Uneasiness in r. T. and leg. Numbness when walking. Paralyzed sensation in l. caused by flatulence.

Knee.—Tearing, and in lower legs. Stitches in cap after rising from a seat, with sensation as if knee were swollen. Soreness of bone from a moderate blow. Pain when ascending stairs; burning, in inner side of l.; paralytic, when sitting or rising from a seat and when lying at night, if she turns over or stretches the knee; drawing, when standing. Drawing extending down leg. Tension, and in ankles; in hollow, as from weariness. Weariness, with stiffness; W. when walking or standing, with sensation of unsteadiness. Stiffness and falling asleep. Paralyzed sensation after walking.

Leg.—Cramp at night in bed, especially in soles; when walking in open air, especially in soles. Tearing in r.; in bone above l. malleolus; < great accumulation of flatus; in calf, extending into inner malleolus. Drawing in l., with uneasiness; D. with jerkings and necessity to stretch them at one time and at another to draw them up; rheumatic, in both, extending to metatarsal bones. Tickling restlessness in evening. Relaxation from noon till evening, so that he could not raise them. Heaviness. Stiffness after evening nap, so that the gait was unsteady until he had walked a little (Phos.). Numbness. Going to sleep. Paralyzed sensation in l. (Phos.).

Stitches in l. ankle as if sprained. Feet swollen and tender. Cramp in soles in evening after lying down, making toes crooked. Pain in corns at night in bed; in metatarsal bones as if they would be torn on stepping; in soles while walking, as if too soft. Drawings in feet, < sitting. Uneasiness of l. foot. Heaviness of feet after every dinner. Numbness of feet.

Toes.—Swelling. Stitch through r. great; in a corn on little. Tearing in r. middle; in r., < when walking; under nails from evening till into night, extending into soles. Pain in great; in joint of great; under nail of great.

Skin.—Red uneven spots on neck in evening, with itching. Scurf on tip of nose. Nettle-rash; on calves. Eruption in angle of wings of nose; on chin, with ulcers beneath jaw and in front of ear; fine itching, on hands; itching, on neck and between shoulders, before menses. Swelling on flexor surface of wrist; S. painful to touch on calf. Pimples on forehead; and face; temples; neck; red smooth, here and there on forehead; red, painful on touch, on forehead near hair; red, itching, with blackish tip, close to anus; white, on temples; white, on lower part of cheek; white, like glands, on forehead; white, itching, about nose.

Boil on upper arm, surrounded by itching pimples. Pus from ulcer offensive, like asafetida. Ulcer that had healed broke out afresh and discharged lymph mingled with blood instead of pus, and the place was hard and painful to touch. Itching vesicles on knee. A place which had been rubbed sore and which was nearly covered with skin again began to be denuded anew and was moist.

Stitches on r. index, renewed by bending arm; S. in a node on calf. Burning pain in various places. Tension about an ulcer (on leg), with pressure. Formication over whole body. Itching over whole body; about eyes; behind ear; about nostrils; on mons veneris; in r. axilla; on outer side of l. thumb; in palms at night; in a letter before menses; on thigh near scrotum, with moisture; in axilla, with moisture and soreness; in upper part of outer ear, then heat; on back, chest, navel, thighs, etc., with burning; burning, on forearm near elbow; on arms, hands and between fingers, preventing sleep at night; sticking, in several parts; sticking, in region of coccyx in evening in bed; sticking, on throat and neck, with red spots; biting, on lower inner side of l. upper arm, transiently > scratching.

Clinical.—Useful in low types of ulcers, with ichorous corrosive discharge, offensive, with burning pain, < night. Tendency of carbuncles to become gangrenous. Purpura hemorrhagica.

Sleep.—Yawning; and stretching; and stretching, which seemed to do good. Sleepiness in forenoon while sitting and reading, > motion; S. in daytime, with late falling asleep at night, frequent starting in sleep, with strange fancies, etc., early in evening; after supper, with red heat of face; after dinner, without ability to sleep. Sleepiness during the day, he was obliged to sleep before and after noon, at night his sleep was full of fancies. Overpowered by sleep in evening; O. after eating; after dinner, with burning of eyelids on closing them.

Sleeplessness at night, with inability to open eyes; S. at night, though the eyes seemed full of sleep. Half-awake all night, and awoke in morning feeling tired, cross, sleepy, feeling in mouth as if painted or covered with something, and taste as in measles. Falls asleep late, not till 1 o'clock. Waking about 4 A.M. Frequent waking, with heat and thirst; F. waking, with coldness of limbs and knees. Uneasy sleep, with frequent waking; then in morning in bed headache, with burning here and there in body; uneasy, unrefreshing sleep, then sweat in morning; uneasy for hours after eating, on account of anxious dreams. Starting up in fright on falling asleep. Much coherent talking in sleep wakens him, when he remembers the dreams. Many dreams; frightful D.; tormenting; anxious, with uneasy sleep; vivid; vivid but unremembered; lascivious; causing restlessness.

Fever.—Chilliness from morning till afternoon, with thirst, chattering, and blue finger-nails, then in evening heat and sweat without thirst; C. several days at 11 A.M., and heat at 6 P.M.; in evening; towards evening, with heat; < night; with thirst; with flashes of heat. Shivering; in evening before sleep, with weariness and flushes of heat. Coldness of hands; of hands and feet in evening; of feet in bed till 1 A.M.; of l. arm and l. leg; of tips of fingers, with sweat; in small of back, with numbness and tension.

Heat in evening, with anxiety and external coldness; H. in evening, with weariness and fantasies at night; at night in bed; from a little wine; with cold feet. Orgasm of blood; with congestion to chest, hoarseness and hawking. Heat in blood at night, preventing sleep.

Burning in forehead; upper part of l. side of back; on r. scapula; on r. shoulder; on shoulder-joint; on upper part of upper arm; on r. elbow; externally on r. hip; on r. knee; in upper part of outer side of thigh; in skin; in various places in skin at night in bed; of l. ear every evening, with redness; in both limbs in evening in bed; in thigh at night in bed; in hands and soles during menses; in soles after standing; in soles when sitting and walking. Heat in forehead and mouth, with pain in eyes. Spot on head hot to touch, with headache. Glowing heat of cheeks after sitting a short time. Warmth in spine rising to throat. Burning on skin as from a mustard plaster, here and there, on back, sides, r. side of abdomen, etc. Cold burning in metacarpal joints of r. middle and ring fingers.

Sweat; in morning; before midnight, even of head; after a moderate breakfast; in morning on waking. Sour. Offensive at night. Sweat on face; balls of hands; feet; feet, when walking; on forehead while eating. Sweat easily on upper part of body in a warm room, and then became just as easily chilled.

Clinical.—Valuable in low types of fever, with putrid discharges, hæmorrhage, offensive odor of the body. Hæctic fever, long-lasting suppuration. Cold extremities, especially cold knees. The third stage of yellow fever, with hæmorrhages.

Carbolic Acid.

The pure crystals may be dissolved in Alcohol, and the solution diluted for use.

General Action.—A powerful protoplasmic poison. It destroys life by producing paralysis of heart and respiration; preceded by vertigo, roaring in ears, profuse sweat, contracted pupil and collapse. It sometimes produces convulsions. The blood is disorganized, and hæmoglobinuria results (black urine). It produces an inflammation of mucous membranes, characterized by hard, shrivelled membranous patches of exudation. Applied to the skin, anæsthesia results. The stomach is sometimes paralyzed, so that one cannot vomit.

Alies.—Pic. ac., Petrol., Phos., Ars. hyd., Kali chl.

Generalities.—Blood black, thick, without shimmer, of peculiar brown color by transmitted light, smelling of the acid, the clot soft, without air, diffuent, had not contracted by next day. Swelling of the body. Fell to the ground; insensible. Uttered an exclamation, became unconscious, with tremor of limbs, pallor of skin, clammy sweat, intermittent laborious respiration, imperceptible pulse, etc. Convulsions; with falling to the ground, delirium and unconsciousness; C. with trismus and biting of tongue, so that it bled. Twitching of facial muscles and trembling of limbs. Trembling; inward. Relaxation of muscles; except of chewing muscles, which showed tonic trismus, then becoming clonic occasionally.

Pricking, like needles, all over her body. Sensation of electric sparks at l. wing of nose, with desire to rub the part, afterwards at sternal end of r. clavicle, then on l. middle finger, then on vertex, the sensation changing slowly to pricking-itching, > rubbing the part. Pains affect first r. side, then same parts of l.; only r. side; most frequently on l. side, coming and going suddenly, generally affecting muscles and joints, but not bones. Soreness and stiffness of all muscles prominently used; general soreness, as if he had taken cold, worse in back, abdomen and chest. Feeling if he had taken a bad cold. Uneasiness. Physical and mental exhilaration.

Prostration; at night, and not at all amiable; from a short walk; with sleepiness. Languor, with disinclination to work; and with drowsiness, fulness in head, and intermittent pain in forehead, or r. or l. temple. Loss of involuntary motion and speech. Collapse. Faintness; especially at stomach; causing sweat and nausea, the heart seeming to almost stop. Sensibility almost lost. Anæsthesia; of skin and eyeballs; with reflex action of muscles, closed eyelids, pupils dilated and inactive, skin cold and clammy, with sweat running down face, temperature lowered, respiration feeble and shallow, pulse at wrist imperceptible, heart's action feeble and intermittent. Reflex paralysis. All symptoms go from head downward. Aggravation by reading, especially of the pressing at occiput, unfitting him for study; A from jarring of carriage. Amelioration of all symptoms from a cup of tea; A. after a hearty lunch, except of frontal headache; in fresh air, riding lulls to sleep, and walking is an exertion.

Clinical.—Profound prostration, collapse, cold sweat. Putrid discharges. Malignant types of disease, especially when there is tendency to destruction of tissues.

Mind.—Delirium; like intoxication; vivacious; violent. Irritability; and less brilliancy in conversation than usual. Affection bestowed seemed distasteful. Sadness; with disposition to sigh and yawn. As soon as he went to bed, fear of impending sickness. Happiness. Unusual cheerfulness in evening. Agitation. Delightful ideas, which came faster than he could give them shape in words. Activity, with desire for intellectual work, though mental labor caused confusion and pain in head. Disinclination for mental work; and for physical labor (Pic. ac., Phos.); to think or speak. Dulness; > after breakfast. Inability to concentrate mind; when reading. Absent-minded condition, from which he started when addressed, with nervous tremor when spoken to suddenly. Stupefaction. Loss of memory.

Unconsciousness; with stertorous breathing; with sudden falling, as if in a fit; with livid face, staring eyes, slow and noisy breathing, foaming at mouth and nose; motory and sensory U., if a limb is raised it falls lifeless. Coma; with relaxed limbs; with livid face, dilated pupils, sweat, cold hands, pulse imperceptible, muscles of soft palate and tongue so relaxed that the tongue must be kept extended with catch-forceps, afterwards pain in tongue, prostration and gastric catarrh.

Head.—Aching; especially over r. eye, with fulness; with nausea, a cup of green tea relieved the pain, but not the sense of smell; < bending head forward; > after breakfast; > smoking after tea; > moving about, but the eructations become more frequent; as if a sword were jagged in and out all around head, < noise and light, with difficulty in keeping eyes open and desire to have head bandaged; intermittent, with fulness as from suppressed catarrh. Expansive pains, with swimming before eyes, difficulty in writing. Pressure as from a band, especially at temples. Constricting pain at 7.30 A.M., < till noon, continued till falling asleep at night, > intermittent pressure, < continuous pressure, with sensation as if head were swollen and were radiating heat. Hot, constricted feeling, from 6.30 A.M. till late at night (> pressure), especially in forehead.

Bruised and sore feeling. Soreness when moving it; as after aching. Sensation as after headache. Oppression and dulness, as if intoxicated. Heaviness; when leaning forward. Confusion; with pain over r. eye. Sensation as after a large dose of opium, < walking. Fulness; in brain. Feeling as if inflated like a ball, especially at temples, < shaking head, the sensation so peculiar on rising from a seat as to cause laughter, afterwards, on standing, loss of all feeling, except in head, which seemed ten times its natural size, on walking loss of all realization of a body, the head seeming to float in the air, > lying, then vertigo.

Vertigo; from slightest motion; on going up and down-stairs; easier in afternoon on exposure to wind, which cooled the brain, but V. returned on entering house; > walking fast in open air, < as soon as he sat down, so that he had to hold on to something to prevent falling; with fulness or peculiar feeling in head; with cold clammy sweat and feeble pulse; with sensation as if staggering; with trembling; and things look as if moving backward and forward, with inability to see across the room; speedily passing into profound coma.

Forehead.—Intermittent. Cutting through F. and temples. Pain; in morning on waking, with burning in throat; < hot room; > fresh air; in centre; over r. eyebrow; over r. eye, > open air; over r. eye, extending to temple, with soreness of eyeball; in l. side; with general lassitude; with chilliness; with oppression of chest, beginning on l. side and going over to r.; as from a rubber band (Phos.); as from a band, at night and in morning. Neuralgia. Pain running to occiput.

Burning pain; in brain over brows. Heavy pain running to occiput. Tightness above frontal sinuses. Fulness; in frontal lobe of cerebrum, increasing to pain.

Temples.—Pain in l.; when stooping, and in occiput; P., < reading, with feeling in head similar to an "asleep" sensation in a limb; sharp; neuralgic, in l.; heavy, in l. during the day; burning, in r., and in vertex. Tightness as if a rubber band were stretched from one to the other; bandlike constrictions from one to the other, then heavy headache, < walking in open air.

Headache in upper half of head in morning on waking, > after breakfast; burning pain in vertex. Sensation in vertex as if brain were washing about. Headache in r. side; l. side; neuralgic pain in l. side; N. pain changing from one side to the other, and affecting eye of painful side so that it was difficult to keep the eye open; beating pain in r. side.

Pain in occiput (Pic. ac.); and in r. side of head and in temple; in O., and in muscles of nape and especially behind ears. Sore feeling in occiput. Distention of superficial veins of head. Pustulous vesicle to l. of vertex. It hurt to comb or brush the hair. Itching; or r. then l. side. Desire to rub head and eyes.

Eyes.—Fixed; insensible to light and pupils dilated. Burning pain, < l. Heaviness. Neuralgic twitching in balls and through temples. Anaesthesia of conjunctiva. Pupils contracted; and insensible to light; dilated; D. and inactive. Lids closed; half-shut; opened, and eyes turned upward. Conjunctiva insensible. Orbital neuralgia over r. eye. Piercing pain in a spot in l. supraorbital ridge, > on rising, leaving soreness to touch. Sensitiveness to light. Swimming before eyes. Letters blurred. Dark spot before l. eye. Circles before eyes. Loss of vision, ophthalmoscope showed very indistinct outline of papilla, especially r., the r. eye recovering more slowly than l.

Ears.—Crowded feeling. Intermittent aching in l. Beating pain, with a humming sound. Humming-buzzing. Roaring. Ringing when stooping, with pulsations.

Nose.—Sensation of coryza, r. nostril plugged up and r. eye watery. Nostrils plugged up. Tickling in r. nostril, with sneezing. Discharge of bloody mucus and bright blood when blowing. Watery discharge in open air, > in house, returning on entering cold room. Exudation of froth. Smell very acute; and the odor of food satisfied the appetite.

Face.—Pale; and pinched; and covered with sweat; and covered with cold sweat; with weakness and cachectic condition. Pinched and anxious. Flushed and burning. Red, then pale, then red, with a trace of cyanotic color. Cyanosed. Dusky. Lead-colored and covered with cold sweat. Livid; with cold clammy sweat; with clammy sweat. Idiotic expression. Pain. Drawing in r. zygoma. Sensitiveness to touch. Trismus. Drawing pain in r. jaw. Mouth open and filled with mucus. Lips and finger-tips livid. Lips, gums and pharynx coated with a white membrane, and white membranes were ejected from the mouth. Lips, mouth and throat white; grayish-white. Bloody foam before the bluish-red, closed lips. Burning in lips, mouth and oesophagus, with heat rising from stomach.

Mouth.—Pain in r. upper teeth. Tongue retracted. Tongue foul. Biting on tongue. Burning on tongue, especially at tip; on tongue, with tingling, stinging and with sharp taste. Swelling on inner side of l. cheek, with soreness. Mucous membrane livid; and in throat. White and corroded, and tongue and fauces. Corroded and painful, and tongue, afterwards mucous membrane came off in great flakes. Pain; burning, and in throat and pit of stomach. Burning. Soreness, and of throat. Frothing. Mucus continually ejected, and from nose. Exuding bloody slime. Constant discharge of saliva. Filled with thick saliva. Bluish-white, frothy, copious saliva. Tarry odor to the breath. Taste nasty; T. horrid, pungent and metallic, making him feel sick and squally all over; coppery, on tongue and upper palate; sweetish.

Throat.—Spasm of carotid (common, left) while walking rapidly after dinner. Fauces red and covered with mucous exudation. Uvula whitened and shrivelled. Soft palate relaxed, making breathing noisy. Much mucus. Hawking of clear white mucus while in open air; of much white mucus, and from posterior nares. Choking, with disposition to hawk up mucus. Intermittent stitches. Pain; on swallowing; burning. Burning; pricking, as if she had eaten something strong. Soreness; on r. side in evening; on swallowing; on empty swallowing; < r. side, when swallowing and on pressure on upper larynx; with hoarseness. Sensitiveness to pressure, > smoking after tea. Dryness in morning on waking, and in posterior nares. Irritation. Nausea. Swallowing difficult; impossible.

Oesophagus.—Spasmodic contraction; just behind pomum Adami while drinking ice-water, with pain. Burning.

Clinical.—In diphtheria, especially with tendency to involve the nose and inside of mouth, extremely feid breath, regurgitation on swallowing liquids, urine highly albuminous, face dusky red, white about the mouth and nose, rapid sinking of vital forces.

Stomach.—Appetite lost; for supper; diminished; D. for dinner; unusual A. for supper; voracious, with thirst, then colic and call to stool. Wanted to smoke a cigar and thought that would relieve him. Felt as if a little more whisky would do him good. Thirst. Eructations; after a light breakfast; empty; tasting like buttermilk and cabbage (after drinking milk at dinner). Hiccough after dinner.

Nausea; most of the morning; while eating a little breakfast; after tea, till next noon, < sherry; from cold water; > drinking much water; > after tea, but she was drowsy; with shuddering, shaking of head, wry faces and frequent spitting; with desire to eructate; with prostration. Retching. Vomiting; on getting up; bilious; of a white creamy substance, smelling of carbolic acid; of blood and oily matter, next day of greenish watery matter.

Dyspepsia. Gastritis. Gastric catarrh. Pain; in pit; in epigastrium; and in r. side, with inability to eat any dinner; with dragging feeling, and low down in abdomen; burning; burning, in epigastrium. Burning; with heat rising up oesophagus; with sore feeling to touch; as from a corrosive acid, with good appetite and good digestion. Burning, ulcerating feeling after smoking a pipe, and in oesophagus, with nausea. Distress < lying on either side, > lying on back with legs drawn up; D. as from indigestion.

Feeling as if he had eaten too much. Fulness after a hearty lunch, with rising of heat tasting of carbolic acid; F. as if filled with wind, then eructations, afterwards distention impeding respiration. Wind is very troublesome, > raising a sweetish-sour liquid. Heaviness in epigastrium as from flatulence, with inclination to relieve himself by fruitless efforts at eructation or by pressing hand into pit of stomach. Food lies heavily. Empty, gone feeling (instead of hunger at meals), with fullness in throat and constant desire to swallow. Tenderness on pressure, and over cæcum. Dull, uneasy feeling. Irritation. Spasm of diaphragm.

Clinical.—Vomiting of drunkards; vomiting of pregnant women, with violent, frontal headache. Has been found useful in cancer of the stomach.

Abdomen.—Distention, with emissions of fetid flatus; D. especially in epigastric region, but neither hard, tense nor sensitive; flatulent, also with soreness of abdominal muscles. Rumbling and rolling, with sense of distention; rumbling, and after walking feeling as if diarrhœa would come on. Emission of much flatus all the evening; E. of much putrid flatus; of fetid flatus. Bloating feeling, with soreness. Feeling as if gas were incarcerated; with inability to discharge any. Feeling of goneness, with heaviness about stomach, ineffectual disposition to rift up and constriction about middle of œsophagus. Discomfort from jolting while riding, with heat and soreness. Soreness on walking; S. of muscles.

Pain in hypochondria; in r. and in both iliac regions; over H. and along back; over region of liver and across fifth, sixth and seventh dorsal vertebra. Soreness in hypochondria, < motion. Pain and soreness in r. side and iliac regions. Crampy stitch in l. inguinal region while sitting. Pain in hypogastrium; burning.

Clinical.—Great flatulent distention of abdomen and accumulation of flatus, with belching of wind and desire for stimulants (compare Arg. nit.).

Rectum and Anus.—Desire for stool all day after a natural stool in morning. Urging, stool loose, with much flatus. Itching in anus, with feeling as if skin were rubbed off.

Stool.—Thin, blood-streaked. Watery, frequent, with pain and nausea. Dark. In thin strips, like tape, appearing as if composed of thick glue and mixed with currant seeds, though he had eaten nothing of the kind, with flatulence. Copious and consistent, but almost odorless. Insufficient and sluggish. Constipation. Involuntary, and I. micturition. Frequent; and involuntary, at night in sleep, small and in strips like tape, next morning symptoms of bad diarrhœa, burning in rectum, but no stool, and feeling, especially in head, as after a large dose of opium; at first black, then dark brown.

Clinical.—Dysentery, of bloody mucus, like scrapings of the intestines, often involuntary diarrhœa, putrid, dark, with vomiting of dark green substances.

Urinary Organs.—Acute nephritis, with uræmia. Urging at 5 A.M., and copious urine. Micturition frequent; at night; and copious; involuntary, giving the linen the color of red wine; straining at, then discomfort; ineffectual attempts at. Urine copious; at night, and pale; and of strong odor; and limpid, colorless, with a peculiar odor. Urine scanty; and high-colored; and blackish, not containing urea. Urine almost black (Ars. hyd., Phos., Kali chl., Merc. c.). Dark; and offensive, depositing urate of ammonia and sometimes phosphates, but no albumen. Dark brown, alkaline. Dark smoky color, alkaline (Benz. ac., K. carb.), with sediment of granular urate of ammonia, and with a mixture of different-colored pigments, which apparently came from the coloring matter of the dissolved blood-corpuscles. Smoky and of aromatic odor, the addition of strong sulphuric acid causing a purple color, changing rapidly to blue, without odor of drug and without albumen.

Urine greenish, with disappearance of all deposits of lithates; dark G., acid, albuminous, with thick sediment of pus; dark olive green, without odor. Of the color of blood, the microscope showed no red corpuscles, but the spectroscope showed bands of oxyhæmoglobin, afterwards the urine had to be drawn off, no more hæmoglobin, but some albumen, granular casts, some red globules and renal epithelium, afterwards hyaline casts. Hæmoglobinuria, as determined by the spectroscope, but no red corpuscles were detected. Contained whitish flocculi, but on standing it turned a dirty brown color. Acid.

Clinical.—Diabetes.

Sexual Organs.—Burning-itching. Relaxed, weakened state during the day, and every night lascivious dreams, with emissions, which caused weakness and horror. Prickling pains through glans and in urethra. Excitement, waking at night. Appetite decreased. Pain in region of l. ovary when walking in open air. Menses profuse; and later; and dark, then headache and nervous irritability.

Clinical.—Ulcers of the cervix uteri, with fetid, acid discharge from the vagina. It nearly cured epithelioma which involved the labia and extended to other organs; it was prescribed from the indication of the eruption on the skin of vesicles and pustules which contained a bloody matter, with offensive discharge, Leucorrhœa in children.

Respiratory Organs.—Vocal cords red and swollen and mucous membrane of larynx injected. Soreness of larynx and of bronchial membrane, with hoarseness; S. of l. side of larynx on pressure. Râles in trachea. Hoarseness. Bronchitis.

Cough; after slight exercise, with palpitation; with expectoration; without expectoration; hacking, with tickling in throat; hacking, from irritation in throat; hacking, from tickling in upper part of trachea and in fauces; croupy, at night. Constant inclination to cough. Expectoration rusty; E. of much thick, whitish mucus.

Respiration stertorous; and rapid. Difficult; and jerky; with large vesicular râles fully covering the sounds of breathing; irregular, noisy during inspiration. Panting; and tracheal. Gasping and inability to lie down. Groaning. Rapid; and irregular. Slow and irregular. Irregular. Feeble and shallow. Free and deep, inclination to take a deep breath.

Clinical.—Whooping cough, with frontal headache. Palliative in offensive, purulent expectoration in tuberculosis of lungs.

Chest.—Full of large mucous râles. Dulness and bronchial breathing on r. side of back, below angle of scapula; absolute D. on back, right from angle of scapula to lower limits of lung, with loud bronchial breathing and râles. Pneumonia; circumscribed, at base of r. lung. Pain < on r. side; under l. clavicle; through upper lobes of lungs; under sternum in region of sixth rib; in whole l. side of chest and abdomen, running around to scapula; uneasy, in r. lung. Narrow feeling, as if diaphragm oppressed lungs. Tight feeling in lungs, especially in centre of chest. Compressed feeling across lower end of sternum. Oppression; as from a load in front (Phos.). Feeling of expansion (of lightness) in lungs and nasal passages while walking in open air.

Heart.—Sounds scarcely audible. Stitches. Palpitation when quiet. Action irregular. Action weak, free from murmur; W. and intermittent.

Clinical.—Great palpitation or violent beating of heart at night.

Pulse.—Rapid; and full; and weak; and weak, trembling; and intermittent, weak; and intermittent, small; and irregular, undulating; and sometimes extinct during inspiration. Slow; and small. Small, intermittent. Compressible and occasionally intermittent. Weak; and fluttering; and uncountable. Irregular. Imperceptible. Intermittent.

Neck.—Livid color. Stitches in r. side in morning, increasing during the day, afterwards with intermittent twinges. Pain. Sense of weight, with tenderness even to touch over seventh cervical vertebra. Soreness of muscles (splenitis capitis). Drawing in muscles of r. side, seemingly in splenitis capitis. Lameness and stiffness; L. of nape while smoking after tea, and of shoulder.

Back.—Pain; and in r. side; in spine, extending down posterior muscles of thigh. Soreness of muscles of back and limbs. Weakness and soreness. Pain in loins; < straightening himself and by jolting while riding; > pressure of hand; and in lower limbs. Boring in loins. Sore or bruised feeling in loins and in abdomen. Tired in renal region.

Extremities.—Twitchings. Relaxation. Flaccidity, except convulsions of r. arm. Occasional pains; in hips and shoulders. Pain in hip, then in l. shoulder-joint. Bruised pain beneath l. tendo-achillis, close to posterior part of tibia, then sharp pain in middle joint of l. large finger, then in leg again. Difficulty of motion, and when raised they dropped like those of one dead drunk, as indeed she was. Numb feeling.

Upper Extremities.—Pain in r. shoulder-joint; in r. shoulder when bending forward. Lameness of r. shoulder when walking, with soreness. Atonic spasm of r. arm. Pain in l. arm and in r. wrist; drawing, from l. shoulder to elbow; burning, in arm waking him, elbow, lower third of arm and upper third of forearm swollen, tissue tense, dark red and hot, vesicles filled with yellowish watery fluid around elbow, skin could be detached by gently rubbing finger over it, temp. 102 4-5 (from application to axillary abscess), in another case the inflammation was not confined to the elbow, but extended slightly behind scapula. Soreness of muscles of r. arm. Tired, heavy feeling in l. arm. Weakness of arms, so that he could not write. Pain in l. forearm.

Hand.—Swelling so that he could not write. Trembling. Contracting pain in r. palm. Numbness of r. when trying to write, with inability to close it tightly. Stiffness, with discomfort (pricking), the discomfort remaining on middle finger until night, and in one spot until a pimple formed, which increased until it became a sore resembling a carbuncle, suppurating until a probe could be passed nearly through the finger, with pain which prevented sleep. Pain in second phalangeal joint of r. middle finger.

Lower Extremities.—Staggering. Draggry sensation, causing unsteadiness in walking. Leaden heaviness. Tingling. Pain in hips; in r.; in r. hip and in l. knee; in r. hip-joint when walking; in r. hip like sciatica, moving along that nerve, and at night in bend of knee. Bruised or sore feeling in hips.

Thigh.—Pain in muscles of r.; deep-seated in muscles on inside of upper third of l., almost making him lame. Bruised feeling in r.; B. feeling, with weakness and lameness of back; deep-seated, in middle of anterior part of r. about 7 P.M. while walking. Drawing in r. Faint feeling, spreading all over body.

Pain on inside of l. knee; at night; bruised P. in r. knee. Cramp in calves. Pain under r. patella; to the left of middle of l. shin-bone; sharp pain in r. shin. Aching soreness beneath l. patella all day till 4 P.M., feeling as if it would be stiff and sore if moved, but > during motion. Weakness of legs. Pain in r. ankle; most of the morning, and in l. knee; P. in l. outer malleolus.

Stinging through corns. Bruised feeling in feet; in r. foot. Heaviness of feet. Feeling in feet as though they could not support the body, though he was lying on his back. Pain in l. great toe; in under surface; in r. great toe as if pressed upon. Tingling in l. great toe, then feeling as if pressed upon.

Skin.—Pallor. Cyanosis. Læidity. Horripilation. Pustules on r. side of face. Vesicles all over body; on hands and all over body, with itching, > rubbing, but leaving a burning pain; on centre of nose, changing to a pustule. Nettle-rash.

Hands, especially fingers, rough and scaly, afterwards erythematous blush over hands, with eruption on fingers of small, round, hard elevations, close together, giving a bossy appearance, not red nor inflamed, with itching, which was < at night, gradually the fingers became rougher and rougher and large scales peeled off, leaving reddened patches of varying size, then deep, bleeding, tender fissures, mainly in folds around knuckles on dorsal surface (palmar surface of fingers never being affected), and about this time a boil on neck, afterwards on renewed use of the solution the erythema and nightly itching reappeared, with itching over whole body, beginning one night in feet and during succeeding nights progressing up legs and trunk, then down arms, till it centered, with increased virulence, in hands, with burnings smarting when rubbed, and with red wheals on trunk and arms, painful abscesses upon fingers, some upon phalanges and some under nails, boil on neck, painful pimples on face, the former scaly, and fissured condition of fingers, the hands presenting appearance of eczema.

Sensitiveness to touch. Numbness, on hands. Formication in limbs. Itching; of face; r. cheek; r. ear; nose; nape; l. elbow; l. shoulder; r. forefinger; hypogastrium about l. hip; outside of thigh and genitals; r. thigh, buttocks, back, shin, etc., inner side of l. knee; ankles, arms, calf and other parts; of inner part of thigh and scrotum, > scratching, but returning; tingling, of r., then l. little finger.

Clinical.—It seemed to cure epithelioma in cheek and nose, with hæmorrhages. Praise itel. Ulcers following burns. Chronic ulcers on the feet. Vesicular eruptions over the body, which became bloody, with burning pain, fetid sweat.

Sleep.—Yawning; with long inspirations. Sleepiness; in afternoon, with inability to fall into sound sleep; with desire to stretch; with chilliness; with heaviness, but perplexing dreams on lying down and waking unrefreshed, with coated tongue and nausea. Heavy sleep, and on waking general soreness, especially in legs (gluteals), back, chest and arms.

Sleeplessness; after midnight, the smell of carbolic acid seemed to keep her awake. Waking frequently; W. early; wide awake in an instant at 6 A.M. after a sound sleep. Unrefreshing sleep, with many unremembered dreams. Restless sleep; with busy dreams.

Dreams.—Frightful, waking her several times. Vivid of fire, waking him, when he found that he was feverish, though the room was cold. Many, some amorous, others unremembered. Of traveling. Of great mental activity, and awoke with clear intellect. That she could not get to sleep on account of thinking about the body I had embalmed, that she tossed about, that she pulled me out of bed to wake me, but I was bathed in perspiration, face pale, and she thought I was dead, awakened by the fright she found herself lying on her back, with mouth open, apparently paralyzed with fear, she aroused me, whined for something to make her sleep and could not be persuaded at first that she had been asleep.

Fever.—Chilliness; at 9 A.M.; at breakfast; in open air; with great nervousness and distress, although externally warm, pulse unsteady, weak and irregular, vertigo and impending convulsions. Temperature lower, then higher. Shuddering. Coldness of surface; especially of limbs. Coldness of limbs; with insensibility of them; hands and feet; feet all the afternoon; on skin just below knee, as if touched with ice; in one spot on stooping, as when the nerve of a tooth is touched, then clammy sweat. Chill running from face downward, in a hot room. Shivering chills along spine, with pulse 80, full and strong, head hot and dry, hand cold, inward trembling, could feel heart beat. Creeping shuddering or horripilation in l. forearm, running upward.

Heat; with flurry and rapid pulse. Room feels close and hot, with rush of blood to head, flushing of face, then chilliness. Heat of head; hot feeling in forehead, > pressure of cold hand; of face and forehead, especially of l. side, with pressure in l. temple, seemingly on surface of brain; of face, with sweat on it. Burning in skin.

Sweat; on waking in middle of night. Clammy; on forehead. Cold; on head on least exertion. Cold and clammy; on face and hands.

Carboneum Sulfuratum.

The pure bi-sulphide of Carbon is dissolved in Alcohol (1 to 99).

General Action.—It produces paralysis, with symptoms of intense congestion of nerve centres. Cerebral excitement followed by depression. General hyperæsthesia, then anæsthesia, etc. (Abdominal symptoms of Sulphur.)

Allies.—Plumb., all the Carbons, Phos., Ars., Absinth., Gels., Rhus t., Carb. ac., etc.

Generalities.—Emaciation, < arms and legs. Awkwardness. Falling; with loss of consciousness. Epileptic attack, then paralysis of limbs. Twitching of muscles. Cramp in muscles. Trembling. Muscular contraction inefficient and tremulous, the fingers could not be closed forcibly, and on extending arm there was trembling of muscular fibres (all the Carbons). Nervous attacks analogous to hysteria, with convulsions of face and involuntary laughter.

Sticking or itching pains in various parts. Itching sticking in various parts all the forenoon; in various parts, especially in tuber ischii and at point of insertion of gracilis and sartorius at knee. Jerking stiches in various parts at 10.30 P.M.; in various parts, especially in muscles of r. eye; peculiar jerking S. at times till after dinner, now in hollow of r. knee, now in abdomen towards spermatic cord. General pains, especially acute in knees. Fulgurating pains and sensations as of girdles about limbs and body. Jerking pain, now in forehead, now in joints of feet, now in joints of arms. Erratic pains. Rheumatic pains in all parts, especially in muscles of fingers and toes and in l. hand; in l. upper arm, occiput and nape; wandering. Biting, as of leeches.

Symptoms of cerebral congestion, motor troubles, hyperæsthesia of skin, with finally complete paraplegia, the powers of co-ordination being almost absent while the perversion of sensibility reached a remarkable degree, the sexual apparatus lost its functional activity (Phos.), with darting pains in almost all regions, but chiefly in cardiac zone, where mitral insufficiency was found. Indisposition in evening on going to bed, with discharge of warm flatus. General sick feeling all the afternoon, with nausea, colic, aversion to beer, etc. Wretchedness > the gas of the factory. She seemed to herself as if swollen over her whole body (Rhus t.). Throbbing and trembling after disappearance of anæsthesia. Excitement of whole body. Restlessness (Rhus t.). Hyperæsthesia.

Weakness; in morning, also on waking; on slightest exertion; especially in back, loins and joints of feet, with bruised sensation; muscular, with inco-ordination of movement, like motor ataxia. Sinking on her knees if raised from bed and gradually sliding to the ground. Relaxation of muscles. Faintness; then inability to walk or remember anything of her condition, was confused, even demented, on attempting to speak she stuck out her tongue like a child, stretched the lower jaw far forward and gnashed it against the upper one and stared at her hands and fingers with a vacant look. Partial syncope, with convulsive movements of limbs (Absinth.).

Rigidity of muscles. Anæsthesia of various parts of skin (Absinth., all Carbons, Plumb.) and of mucous membrane of mouth, eyes, ears and nose. Paralysis; progressive multiple neuritis, most resembling that of alcohol, without the hyperæsthesia of alcohol. Loss of motion and sensibility of whole r. side (Plumb.). Hemiplegia, sensibility of r. side very slight (Ars., Phos.), muscular contractility lost, but contraction, especially of arm, with pain on attempting to extend it. Paraplegia, so that the limbs could not support the body (Ars.). Skin, patellar and other tendon reflexes could not be elicited, could not rise from a chair without the aid of his arms, could not rise to his legs from the floor, the steps were very short, the sole brought flat to the ground while the knee, after giving way slightly, was extended, with a jerk before each step, hands very weak, < r., could not place his hand behind his head or shave himself, on raising a tumbler of water much fibrillary tremor of muscles of forearm, but the vessel was carried up steadily, although the hand was unsteady in the descent. Senses blunted. Aggravation from tobacco; from wine and beer (Nux v.).

Mind.—Delirium; with incoherent talking (Hyosc.). Raging (in a child), with attempts to bite his father; jumped from the window and hid under shavings. Imagination that he is surrounded by enemies at night, heard imaginary voices and saw strange objects (Stram.). Excitement; at night; so that he was put in a strait-jacket. Depressing and disagreeable visions. Fancied that he was surrounded by cats. Hallucinations of vision and hearing, splendid spectacles of carriages, with magnificent objects, talking of the emperor, of money, of grandeur, often incoherently. Violence. Beating his wife. Anger. Revengefulness. Impatience. Intolerance of contradiction. Irritability. Screaming. Weeping mood. Sadness; with obstinacy; with preoccupation.

Changeable mood, sometimes extravagant gayety, sometimes unreasonable anger, smashing everything about him. Gayety; changing to sadness and indifference. Desire to laugh and prattle without cause. Loquacity (Hyosc.); with inability to think of the words he wants to use and with stammering. Lack of energy. Disinclination for all work, with sleepiness and pressure upon eyes. Listlessness, would not talk nor be talked to, at times nervous and easily agitated, at others half stupid, losing memory and thinking he was about to lose his reason.

Activity of mind. Peculiar idiocy and childishness (Carbons, Plumb.). Replied by monosyllables or signs with the hands, intellect impaired, he sought solitude, like a child was occupied by objects immediately about him, when not amused was inactive, seemed distrait. Inability to fix the attention. Distraction; when reading. Loss of all desire for study, with absurd reveries. Stupidity. Memory impaired; especially for recent events. Memory lost (Anac.). Often at a loss for words. Frequently she did not know what to do with the things she held in her hands. Unconsciousness. Coma.

