The International Journal for Fundamental & Interdisciplinary Research in Homoeopathy (IJFIRH) is a Quarterly Journal Publishing 4 issues annually.

When you submit your work to IJFIRH, you are entering into an agreement where you grant them exclusive rights for the first publication of your work. This means that you assign, convey, and transfer all rights, title, interest, and copyright ownership of your work to IJFIRH. The assigned rights include the right to edit, publish, reproduce, distribute copies, and include your work in indexes or search databases, both in print and electronic media.

If, for any reason, IJFIRH decides not to publish your work, they will notify you, and all the rights assigned to them will revert back to you. It's important to note that once your work is accepted and published by IJFIRH, it becomes the property of IJFIRH, and you will need prior written permission to publish it elsewhere.

By submitting your work, you represent and warrant that you are the sole author or one of the author(s), and that all authors have participated in and agree with the content and conclusions of the work. You also confirm that your work is original and does not infringe upon any copyright, proprietary, or personal rights of any third party. Additionally, you declare that no part of your work, or any work based on substantially similar data, has been submitted elsewhere. IJFIRH takes the responsibility of protecting your intellectual property seriously, and they require these rights to ensure the proper publication and dissemination of your work.

As the corresponding author, I assure that "IJFIRH and the Journal Editors" won't be held responsible for any future copyright claims or lawsuits. I take full liability in such cases. I also confirm that the article is free from unlawful or libelous statements, and that I followed ethical principles and obtained all necessary permissions for the research.
